But Church was still in control of Shelby county through the primary board. McCall followed up his knockdown at Chattanooga by trying to bowl over Church in the ousting of the Church board in Shelby. The state primary board met at Nashville, took the matter under consideration and left the old board in control by the simple device of not letting the issue come to a vote. That was knockdown Number 2 for Mr. Church.

This left Little David groggy and he began to realize that he could win only by sneaking over a knockout punch.

At the conclusion of the Democratic primary last month, McCall who was the lily-white Republican candidate for governor, won, but he later joined a so-called Fusion ticket of disgruntled Democrats and Republicans, and agreed to get out of the gubernatorial race in favor of Lewis E. Pope, who had been the opponent of Gov. McAlister in the Democratic primary.

Keep Skirts Clear

It is said that some high Republicans told McCall that if he would withdraw they would see to it that his faction was placed in charge of the election machinery in Shelby county, supplanting Church. But Church and J. Will Taylor, Republican congressman, kept their skirts clear of the Fusionists.

The promise had been that the Republican state executive committee would meet, name McCall's men to the Shelby county primary board, and put Church's men on the sidewalk.

But something happened and last week, Major Howard Shofner, state chairman, announced that there would be no meeting of the state committee until November 6, which is after the general election.

The announcement had the effect of saying that the Church board will remain in charge of Shelby county affairs until after the election.

The fact that Church has refused to tie up with the lily-white Republicans and the die-hard Democrats on the Fusion ticket, also could be construed to mean that the 35,000 black votes which Church's group is reported to control in Shelby county will be used as an obstacle in the onward path of the Fusionists.

Political - 1934 Republican

Party Affiliation -

GREENSBORO, N. C.
NEWS

OCT 8 1934

REPUBLICANS LOSING BACKING OF NEGROES

Appeal of Roosevelt Is Apparently Drawing Race Away From Former Party.

G. O. P. REGULARS SCORED

Daily News Bureau and Telegraph Office, 406 Wachovia Bank Bldg., Fayetteville St.

Raleigh, Oct. 7. — Republicans everywhere in the country are reporting that the negroes are Democrats and are giving the regular organization a lot of trouble.

The circumstance seems to guarantee that at least in North Carolina there will be no race issue in politics, but if it is raised it will be at this time by the Republicans. Nothing that several months ago a prominent Raleigh Democratic negro, who has an even more prominent New York Republican brother, had been elected on the local Democratic executive committee, the state Republicans are ready to sail into the Democrats if the color line is drawn any more.

All Republican candidates in recent years have fought very shy of any negro votes. Frank Linney declined as chairman to use the information given him that most of the attacks upon the state Republican organization were being made by a negro in the employment of the state. That was that in that time Judge John J. Parker got himself in nationally bad when he let it be known that he desired the support of white Republicans, conceding the black ones to Governor Morrison.

But the news that comes into Republican hands from everywhere is that the nationally Republican negroes have gone Democratic and are going for Roosevelt. A few of the faithful make assaults on these anomalies, the negro Democrats, but the votes pile up. There is no sign that the state Democrats are doing anything additional to get the vote the Roosevelt popularity apparently being the magnet that gets the negroes.

The one sign that cannot be mistaken is the negro newspapers. They are everywhere assailing the Republican regulars who are talking about constitutional sanctities. Reprints of these papers come to Raleigh and circulate here. In Missouri the negroes are making a furious attack on ex-Senator Jim Reed and his strange love for the constitution. Not a word, one of these negro journals recently wrote, has this libertarian said in opposition to state and national violations of the constitution, particularly the 14th and the 15th amendments. The 14th is used often for the protection of property rights, but it was essentially a negro's rights amendment and the black men say their "constitutional" Republican and Democratic champions never pleaded it in their behalf.

In Virginia Carter Glass gets a lot of kicking and in Pennsylvania and Illinois the big negro newspapers are hammering away at Congressman James M. Beck and the McCormicks and associates. The circumstance seems to convince the Republicans that for one time they are not going to get an even break in national affairs.

The negro educational leaders such as Mordecai Johnson and Kelly Miller without apparent apology are backing Roosevelt and the N. A. A. C. P. isn't doing him any harm W. E. B. Dubois appears to be, if not satisfied, certainly not on a rampage. All the news which comes this way indicates that Roosevelt in mid-term has an unusual hold on the independent vote.

With the negroes gone almost solidly Democratic the state leaders of the Republican party believe that there will be the kind of growth that they have needed for the past 30 years. They are willing to bequeath their once tremendous liability to the Democrats.

EAST ST. LOUIS, ILL.
JOURNAL

OCT 19 1934

Republicans Mailing Handbills to Negroes

"Warning" handbills ~~are being~~ sent through the mails to Negro Republicans in East St. Louis by the Citizens' Oscar DePriest for Congress committee.

They state that "voters are being told if they do not vote the Democratic ticket they will be cut off the relief. This is not true. Relief is provided by law and is given out without regard to politics. Republicans and Democrats alike give out and receive relief."

Further information on the handbill concerns voting a secret ballot and warning that "intimidation is unlawful and subject to penalty."

The handbills are in envelopes postmarked Chicago with a return address of the Illinois Republican state central committee, Harris B. Gaines, chairman of the colored division.

ST. LOUIS, MO.
GLOBE DEMOCRAT

OCT 21 1934

NEGRO CONGRESSMAN GIVES TALK HERE

Chicago State Street Merchants Against New Deal, He Says.

Chicago State street merchants are against the New Deal, declared Oscar De Priest, Negro, who represents "The Loop" district in Congress, in a speech at Union Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church, Leffingwell avenue and Pine street, in the Sixth Ward, last night.

"Republicans will have real representation in the next House and will put up a determined fight to keep the Federal Government out of business," said De Priest. "The time for pussy-footing is over."

De Priest then asked his audience to vote for Roscoe Patterson, Republican candidate for re-election to the United States Senate in Missouri.

"I have been informed that there is opposition to Patterson in our group because he voted for Judge Parker, when President Hoover tried to promote that jurist to the Supreme Court.

"I opposed the elevation of Judge Parker, pledged several senatorial votes against him; I think Patterson made a mistake voting for Parker, but he must have had his own reasons for doing so. Patterson has always been fair and deserves our vote in November."

De Priest was introduced by Silas Garner, representative of the Republican State Committee. L. C. Dyer, Republican candidate for Congress in the Eleventh Missouri District, also spoke at the meeting.

SCRANTON, PA.
REPUBLICAN

OCT 24 1934

Colored Republicans Will Hold Meetings

Elmer Hill was appointed chairman of the election committee at the meeting of the Lackawanna County Colored Republican Club Monday night in Odd Fellows, Hall, 513 Pine Street. T. J. Franklin, president, was in charge.

LANSING, MICH.
~~CAPITAL NEWS~~
Journal

OCT 26 1934

G. O. P. NEGRO BUDDY HEARS CANDIDATES

Republican candidates for election November 6 to national, state and county offices appeared Thursday evening before a gathering of 371 members of the Capital Civil Political club a negro republican organization of Lansing, meeting in Veterans' Memorial hall. Other republican leaders were also present.

Among the speakers was William W. Blackney, Flint, nominee for congress from the sixth district; Mrs. Charles Townsend, widow of the late Senator Townsend of Jackson, and all county candidates of the G. O. P. slate. Frank O. Fitzgerald, candidate for governor, was represented by Clark W. Brown, deputy secretary of state. Among those negro republic club leaders present from other cities were Bryan Parker, Jackson; George Mitchell, Mrs. J. Graine, and Professor Barnes and Mrs. Barnes, all of Kalamazoo.

W. Rankin Lewis, president of the club, presented the speakers. The first part of the program was in charge of W. George Ross.

DANVILLE, ILL.
COMMERCIAL NEWS

OCT 19 1934

VOLLBORN SPEAKS

Negro members of the Vermilion County Young Republican Club heard a talk by ~~Attorney~~ A. L. Vollborn Thursday night at young Republican headquarters, 142 North Vermilion Street. George Glenn presided. Membership cards were distributed for the purpose of having present members contact others to become members of the club.

CENTRALIA, ILL.
SENTINEL

OCT 20 1934

COLORED REPUBLICANS TO MEET MONDAY EVENING

A colored Republican meeting will be held at 7:30 o'clock Monday night at the Community Church here with Staunton DePriest, son of Oscar DePriest, colored congressman from Chicago, as the principal speaker. The county candidates and Republican workers have been invited to attend this meeting.

KANKAKEE, ILL.
REPUBLICAN NEWS

OCT 24 1934

Rousing Rally Held by Colored Voters

The colored Baptist church in the northeast part of the city was crowded to the doors last evening when a Republican rally was held here.

The principal speaker was Clarence Windish, colored, former assistant state's attorney of Cook county. He said that the best interests of all the common people of all races and creeds have been best served by the Republican party throughout this nation's history.

Another speaker was Attorney John Holland of this city, a resident of the Seventh ward. The pastor of the church, Rev. Gamble, presided. The meeting was arranged by Joseph Nicholson, Republican committeeman in the Seventh ward.

HARTFORD, CONN.
COURANT

OCT 23 1934

Young Negro GOP Voters to Organize

An organization meeting for young Negro voters of the city will be held at the Colored Republican State Headquarters, 2064 Main Street, Friday night, it was announced Monday. A large group of Negro voters took the first steps toward the organization at a meeting at the same place Monday night.

WILMINGTON, DEL.
JOURNAL—EVERY EVENING

OCT 19 1934

Ninth Ward Meeting

Young colored Republicans of the east end of the Ninth Ward met last evening at 1244 Claymont street and heard addresses by Charles Dorsey, Montrose Bivens and Lewis Wright, who was in charge of the rally.

WILMINGTON, DEL.
JOURNAL—EVERY EVENING

OCT 19 1934

Sixth Ward Rally

Sixth Ward Republicans held a rally last evening in the colored Republican headquarters, 802 French street. The importance of a full registration tomorrow and co-operation for the election of the Republican ticket, were stressed.

Speakers included: Mrs. Carrie M. S. Pipes, A. Roland Milburn, Councilman John Hopkins, Charles Dorsey and Montrose Bivens. Reports from all districts of the Sixth Ward were favorable.

PATERSON, N. J.
CALL

DEC 8 1934

Hutchinson To Form Negro G.O.P. Group

Plans Abraham Lincoln And Paul Lawrence Dunbar Association

Percy Allen Hutchinson, newly-elected justice of the peace from the second district of the Fifth ward, is planing the organization of political and welfare club for Negroes to be known as the Abraham Lincoln and Paul Lawrence Dunbar Republican association.

Mr. Hutchinson, who says he will have the co-operation of prominent state and local Negro citizens, will assume the role of standard-bearer of the organization.

The objects of the club, according to Mr. Hutchinson, will be to promote, advance and create true principles of good government and to do any and all things for the betterment and welfare of the Negro race.

REPUBLICAN RANKS SPLIT IN CHILTON

Judge Reynolds Hints Party Reins Are Passing Int

Unworthy Hands

CLANTON, ALA., Nov. 3.—(Special)—Judge L. H. Reynolds, Republican probate judge of Chilton County, has addressed a letter to the Republican voters of that county in which he deplores the gradual drifting into power of Republican leaders there who have, he says, been drawing the county down from the high peak of usefulness to its people that has been achieved through good years of Republican rule.

Judge Reynolds in his letters says that he was forced to write to the voters in person because the columns of the weekly Union-Banner, a Republican paper, had been closed to him insofar as articles not approved by the paper went.

Judge Reynolds points out that he has not agreed with the county commissioners court, "because I believed their policies and those of their supporters would bring ruin and disgrace not only to the Republican Party but to Chilton County as well, and the day has almost been reached when my forewarning upon that has come true."

"I have said before and I say now," continued Judge Reynolds, "I will never willingly vote for corruption and graft in office, and I have warned the Republicans of this county that if they do not clean their own political house, the Democrats will do it for us, and I believe the quicker we can cleanse our party of incapability and corruption, the quicker the Republican Party can be rebuilt in Chilton County."

The letter of Judge Reynolds has thrown a bombshell into the camp of the Republicans who are attempting to elect a probate judge against a Democrat. While Judge Reynolds does not say for whom his ballot will be cast, the implication is that it will not go to the Republican nominee although he does not say that in plain words.

Another development that has enlivened the local political situation wherein the Democrats and Republicans are at grip over county offices is a public letter from W. M. Wyatt, editor of The Clanton Union-Banner to J. Z. Mims who is running the Republican campaign. Mr. Wyatt sides with Judge Reynolds against Mr. Mims over a controversy developing in the past about the printing of ballots wherein Wyatt says that Mims has tried to lay blame on the shoulders of Judge Reynolds whereas the shoulders of Mims should bear the burden. Mr. Wyatt then tells Mr. Mims that he is not the leader Judge Reynolds was and never will be. It indicates discord in the Republican ranks which cannot be healed before election day.

It is generally conceded that the Republican faction in Chilton County which is under the leadership of W. H. Gillespie, has been unable to restore harmony in the Republican ranks.

Here Lies Our Problem

Just across the Northern line of Texas Oklahoma Negroes have been conducting a most interesting political campaign. The Old Guard Negro there, as elsewhere in the South, still puts his faith on the Republican party. But there is a growing group made up of young Negroes and r from the Old Guard, which faces the i squarely, and seeks to work out its destiny on the basis of these facts.

Outstanding among the rebels is Editor Roscoe Dunjee, of the Oklahoma City Black Dispatch. Breaking away from his traditional republicanism, he toured the state for Democratic-Governor-Elect E. W. Marland; and here are significant excerpts from his closing address of the campaign:

"No black man in the public life of this state has fought the Democratic party harder or longer than I. For twenty-seven years I voted the Republican ticket and voted that ticket straight. I thought that anything less than this on the part of a black man was a disgrace. I preached this doctrine on the stump and in the columns of my newspaper.

"Tonight I want to confess to many of you whom I have sought to influence across the years, that I have been wrong in my thinking and outlook. After a quarter of a century I have been forced into the knowledge that this nation is 'bottomed on the will of the majority,' and that if the Negro is to get anywhere in the Southland or anywhere in America he must get it with and engineer his political program in harmony with the will of the majority. Anything short of this viewpoint is nonsensical and foolish."

"After 27 years as a Republican I have decided that if I live in a Republican state I will work with the Republican party, and if I live in a Democratic state my salvation lies in joining hands with the Democrats."

The Informer thinks that the fundamental idea which Editor Dunjee has in mind is right. Whether we like it or not, there is nothing that Republicans can do for us in an overwhelmingly Democratic state. It is for this reason that we must keep up the fight to win the unhampered right to vote in the statutory Democratic primary elections of Texas.

Political - 1934
Party Affiliation

Republican.

Wipe Out Deficiency; Ready to Choose Comish Head

Commercial Appeal 6-9-34

Chicago Daily News

By A. N. FIELDS

The political bricklayers and carpenters, in fact all of the interior decorators and reconstructors of the Republican party are now in session at the Palmer House. The purpose of their meeting is to elect a national chairman of the Republican national committee as successor to the present committeeman, Everett Sanders.

The committee started the political day off by wiping out their differences of 1932, and creating a fund of $25,000 to be applied to the 1934 congressional campaign.

Perry Howard

Secondly, they drafted a statement of principles on which the party will wage its campaign, for both congress in 1934 and the presidential election in 1936. The duties of this committee is to take political latitude and longitude, and ascertain how far the shifting elements of the New Deal has driven rugged individualism as interpreted by the Republican party from its true course. The battle cry of the Republicans for the 1934 and 1936 campaigns, as indicated by conversation with leaders, will be "Back to the Constitution."

Fletcher May Get Post

On the question of chairmanship, the name of former Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher as a possible winner seems to be gaining ground, although many dark horses are being brought to the barrier. From our present seat on the fence, however, it looks as if it's any man's fight. Others prominently mentioned are John B. M. Hamilton of Kansas, Walter S. Hallanan of West Virginia, Phillip L. Collins of Illinois and Col. Arthur W. Little of New York.

The interest of Mr. Collins has the support of Col. Frank L. Smith, national committeeman of Illinois, and will no doubt meet the approval of many other committeemen who believe that the Middle West should be represented on the committee. Simultaneously with the meeting of the national committee, the Illinois State Republican committee, in their session at Hotel La Salle, and under the direction of State Chairman Johnson, issued a blistering statement charging the President and his party with being responsible for the "betrayal of democracy."

This statement handled the brain trust with bare knuckles and hazarded the opinion that the people of America, when fully informed, will repudiate the "planned society" of the brain trust and return again to the principles of the Constitution as established and interpreted by the founders of the nation. Perry W. Howard, national committeeman of Mississippi and practicing lawyer of Washington, D. C., is the only member representing our group in the national council of the party.

Supports Colonel Little

When asked for his views as to the future possibilities of the Republican party, and the type of men who might be selected to bring about its rehabilitation, he said, "There are numerous outstanding Republicans who have the interest of the party at heart, and who are unfettered by selfish motives, that might be selected for its present leadership. I know of no one who could fill the position better, and with more satisfaction to all groups, than Col. Arthur W. Little of New York.

"I especially refer to him because of his fair and impartial attitude on the civil, social and political rights of the race of which I am identified. His past and present record is positive proof of the fact that he has been bred in the atmosphere of recognizing and treating with men on the basis of merit and character instead of race and color."

It is said by party leaders that the statement of principles to be drafted by the committee for the ensuing campaign will be in direct opposition to the planned economy of the president and his advisers.

Memphis, Tenn., Com'rcial Appeal
May 30, 1934

M'CALL, BOB CHURCH AWAIT CRUCIAL TEST

Rival Republicans Seek Control of Primary Boards

John E. McCall's fight to end the rule of Bob Church, negro Republican leader in Shelby County, will face a test in Nashville Monday when the county Republican primary boards are named.

The county boards name the election officers in the precincts for the primary.

Dr. Carroll Morgan, chairman of the Shelby County Republican committee friendly to McCall, which was seated after the bitter fight at the recent Chattanooga convention, says that under the law the state primary board, which is in reality the state executive committee, must name the Shelby primary board from members of the recognized county committee — in other words, the McCall committee and not the Church committee, which failed of recognition at the convention.

Ballot Control at Stake

Lester Brenner, U. S. commissioner and member of the Church faction, is the present chairman of the Republican county primary board. If the McCall faction ousts him and gets in five members of its own, then it will control the primary and Dr. Morgan of the McCall faction is also the Republican member of the county election commission.

However, Bob Church is a member of the state executive committee. The other members from Shelby are Mrs. Arthur Brode, Joe Marks and Mrs. Elizabeth Scott. Maj. Howard Shofner of Nashville is the chairman.

Meanwhile Mr. McCall was qualified as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination at Huntington yesterday. Although he has been qualified already in several counties, he still declines to say definitely whether he will seek the nomination. He said Monday though, that he had not agreed to support C. N. Frazier of Camden.

Chattanooga, Tenn.
TIMES

JUN 4 1934

COLORED BOSS ASKS STATE BOARD PLACE

Walter Robinson Candidate for G.O.P. Committee.

Sets Precedent, Since Church Probably Only Negro Ever to Hold Similar Post.

For the first time in a number of years, if ever before, a colored republican leader in the Third congressional district has asked election to the state republican executive committee.

Walter C. Robinson, Chattanooga colored political boss, qualified as a candidate for the committee. Bob Church, of Memphis, has been, perhaps, the only Negro to hold a seat on the state republican executive committee.

"In filing my petition as a candidate for republican committeeman from the Third district, I do so after much persuasion by friends throughout the district," Robinson said. "Some of the most influential republicans, white as well as colored, of the district have assured me of their support, feeling that service rendered and results gotten entitle the colored people of this district to that consideration.

"Since 1920 I have served as chairman of the Fourth ward, which is the largest colored voting precinct in East Tennessee. Republican candidates have received majorities ranging from fifty to 1,000 in this ward. In 1924 I toured the state as a speaker for the late Calvin Coolidge for president of the United States and Charles G. Dawes for vice-president. In 1926 I served as national campaign speaker for the republican party and toured the middle west and some of the western states in the interest of the senatorial and congressional tickets. In view of this record of service I am asking the republicans of the Third district for this consideration."

A bitter scrap is brewing over the state committeemen from the Third district, with eight candidates in the field for the four places. As far as had been reported last night there were only two women running for the two places which women fill on the committee. Six men are contesting for two places.

Former Congressman Joe Brown, who held state committeeman's post from the Third district for a number of years, has been qualified. Former Postmaster Bethel Brown, of Cleveland; Donald Early, of Chattanooga; A. R. ("Buck") Arp, of Benton, incumbent members of the committee, and C. R. Cunningham, the county republican committeeman from North Chattanooga, are the other men in the race.

Only Mrs. J. W. Wheeler, ardent prohibitionist and committeewoman from North Chattanooga, and Mrs. Daisy Morgan, of Dayton, have qualified here, Wiley Geran, chairman of the state republican primary board for Hamilton county, and Mrs. Forest Lowery, secretary, reported last night. The deadline for qualifying for this office was midnight Saturday. Petitions, however, which bear a postmark showing that they were mailed before midnight Saturday will be accepted. Mrs. Pat Brewer, of Jasper, who is a member of the committee now, was reported to be a candidate for re-election. Her petition, however, had not been received here last night.

Robinson released a copy of his petition showing that it contains a large number of republicans, both white and colored.

Chattanooga, Tenn.
TIMES

MAY 29 1934

NEGROES THREATEN REPUBLICAN STORM

Candidates Worried by Tale of Plans to Bolt.

Colored Voters Would Elect Robinson to State Board by 'Single Shooting.'

Rumblings of serious differences in Hamilton county republican ranks are heard since the injection of the racial question at the recent state convention here, resulting in the unseating of the Shelby county delegation headed by Bob Church, Negro boss, by the group headed by John McCall.

An echo of this fight was heard last Saturday at the meeting of the county executive committee over the selection of state committeemen from the Third congressional district. While the committee factions were able to agree upon the two women members of the state board, no accord could be reached on the two male members and action was postponed.

Colored republican leaders are insistent that Walter Robinson, head of the Colored Voters' League of Greater Chattanooga and for several years an important factor in republican political affairs in this county, be selected for the state committee.

CHURCH REGAINS G.O.P. CONTROL IN TENNESSEE

State Executive Committee Throws Out Contest.

DELEGATIONS NOT SEATED

Result Is Old Church Board Holds On.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Through a clever parliamental ruse, the Bob Church political faction regained power here, Monday of last week, after being defeated recently at the Chattanooga Republican state convention, by the John E. McCall faction.

R. R. Church

Monday, the executive committee tossed out the McCall-Church faction's fight over power to name the primary board in Shelby County, leaving the old board, a Church organization, in control.

Both factions had presented lists of names for the primary board, but the executive committee, voting 17 to 3, threw out both lists, automatically leaving the old Church board in power.

List Is Rejected

The Church list for the board contains the names of three colored, men among the seven, but it was rejected on protest by the McCall faction that none were members of the county executive committee.

By leaving the old board in control, Republican control under Church was restored to the state, in spite of the popular vote given McCall over Church in Chattanooga.

The parliamentary execution which achieved the victory for Church was recognized to have been engineered by forces friendly to the veteran leader.

After the session, Church, wearing a broad smile and smoking a cigar, shook hands with the chairman, saying, "Well, we'll forget about Chattanooga."

Chattanooga, Tenn.
TIMES
JUN 14 1934

REPUBLICAN ACTION REPORTED PUZZLE

Did Springfield or Crutchfield Win Board?

Both Sides Claim Chairman Walker—Negro Member Loses in One Move.

A big question mark surrounds the action of the Hamilton county republican state primary board which organized yesterday, particularly as to whether it was the Springfield or the Crutchfield factions which perfected the organization.

T. M. Walker, of Tyner, was elected chairman, and Eddie Gann, of Sale Creek, secretary. One significant feature in the meeting of the primary board was that the only member of the board which is definitely and outspokenly committed to the Springfield wing of the party, Mrs. Forrest Lowery, nominated the two winners.

Both the Crutchfield and Springfield factions in the party claim Walker. Both sides said they assisted in his election in the Second district caucus which selected the primary board members. Similar claims have been made concerning Gann, the secretary. While Springfield followers laid their claim on him upon his selection in the Third district caucus almost a month ago, spokesmen for the Crutchfield group pointed out that he is a member of the Crutchfield-controlled Hamilton County Young Men's Republican club and insisted that he was put into the primary board race by the Crutchfield faction.

Burrell W. Lowe, Negro committeeman, who is a member of the primary board, undertook to have an outright Crutchfield man elected as secretary of the board, but failed by a vote of 3 to 2. Lowe's candidate was Clyde Tallent, of Ooltewah. The politics behind Lowe's maneuvering was not fully explained by partisans.

Up until a few weeks ago the Negro combine of Walter Robinson-Doc Harper-Sid Byers supported the Springfield faction, but in recent test voting the Negro leadership has deserted the Springfield bandwagon for the Crutchfield banner. Yesterday Lowe's vote revealed that the Negro leaders are still hostile to the Springfield camp.

Mrs. Lowery was a candidate for the secretaryship of the board, but withdrew from the race at the eleventh hour yesterday in favor of Gann. It was thought that Mrs. Lowery decided to enter a deal with Gann to elect him secretary to avoid the election of an outspoken Crutchfield man, Tallent. Walker's election was unanimous and, apparently, it appeearing to the Springfield forces that the Crutchfield forces were especially interested in Tallent, Mrs. Lowery withdrew and threw her support to the Walker-Gann combine to elect Gann over Tallent.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.
MORNING PUBLIC LEDGER
JUN 24 1934

NEGRO REPUBLICANS SEEN BEHIND TICKET

Support of Reed and Schnader Pledged by Chairman of League

By JOSEPH V. BAKER

That despite threatened breaks in their ranks, Negro Republicans will support the entire ticket solidly when they go to the polls in November is the opinion of Attorney Herbert E. Millen, recently elected chairman of the City-wide Republican League. He said that he expects an appreciable majority over Attorney General Schnader in sections where Negro votes are heaviest.

In accepting the chairmanship of the league, which includes some of the most outstanding independent and young Republicans, the attorney said that he does not expect any "serious defection if the Republican Party is able to revive enough of the confidence that Negroes naturally have in the party." Expressing the object of the new organization, Mr. Millen said:

"Our organization will support the entire Republican ticket as it now stands in the field, because we earnestly believe that with its present set-up it will tend to stabilize the entire Republican forces of our Nation. If Negroes stand behind the hopes solidly in Pennsylvania, others will do the same thing elsewhere."

Seeks Young Members

The new chairman made an immediate call for the addition of new and younger Negro blood in political ranks. He said that he felt that this was necessary because the party must now make a stronger appeal and on grounds of politics and not placation.

"We feel," he said, "that the younger man will be much more capable of interpreting accurately the needs and desires of the people than those who have been long in the political harness and who have lost touch with the situations that stand sorely in need of remedy. Our main purpose will be to use actively the younger and more intelligent Negro in our set-up and to call upon others for advice."

The organization went on record as "being especially interested in the candidacy of the regular Republican candidate for Governor," and added that it is their belief that Negroes will respond and vote for the party's selection because "his knowledge of the law predominates his decisions and he is not swayed by emotion."

Woman on War Board

The group named to its "war board" Mrs. Addie W. Dickerson, foremost Negro woman politician, who will head the women's organizations which will affiliate themselves with the new group; William S. Hagans, president of the Citizens Republican Club, who will act as vice chairman and organizer, and Bernard Nichols, secretary of the Citizens Republican Club. The naming of a campaign manager by the group was deferred.

The roster of the new group does not contain the names of any Negroes prominent in the recently deposed Vare dynasty. The "war board" is composed of powerful but formerly independent Republicans entirely, a set-up which will no doubt receive an unprecedented support of younger Republican and non-affiliated groups which have been inactive in politics because of the domination of the Vare-controlled clique. Added to this is the fact that the Millen leadership will be able to sway prominent Negroes who have been definitely thought to be headed for Democratic ranks as their first political activity.

"We will make a bid for the best known and most intelligent people our group has in the city," Millen pointed out, "people who have no other object in politics than to see to it that the Government is kept on a level course, that highly trained men are in high places and that those who are to come after us are guaranteed the opportunity of living without paying high taxes for generations." He added that the league would work in the closest possible harmony with "whatever is mapped out by the committee assigned by the Republican City Committee to chart the campaign course."

Backs Entire Slate

One of the first organizations among Negroes to go on record as supporting the entire Republican slate as selected in the primaries is the Citizens Republican Club. In a resolution passed during the last monthly meeting of the club the membership voted almost solidly to give every support to the slate. The resolution read:

"We, the Citizens Republican Club of Philadelphia, believing in the principles of the Republican Party, and believing that the application of those principles will better conserve the interests of citizens generally in this Commonwealth, do resolve that we hereby endorse the candidacy of the Hon. David A. Reed for United States Senator; William A. Schnader for Governor, and all the other State-wide candidates nominated at the May primaries, together with all candidates on the Republican ticket in the city of Philadelphia, and that we pledge ourselves to work for the election of these various candidates, both State-wide and local."

UNIONTOWN, PA.
EVENING GENIUS
OCT 26 1934

Negro Republicans To Rally Tonight

A mass meeting of negro Republican voters will be held this evening in the court house following an afternoon of festivities at Baily Park including a football game and a free weiner roast.

The principal speaker for tonight's gathering will be Professor Henry Brown, of Vanderbilt and the program will also include Paul H. Griffith, candidate for election to Congress and other prominent Republicans such as E. J. McDaniel, county chairman; and Frank Collins, of Brownsville.

The football game between the Grant Street Tigers and the East End Bears will be called at 4 o'clock.

Political - 1934

Party Affiliation.

Republican.

Disgracing The Republican Ticket

The thin veneer of friendship supposed to exist between the Republican party in Oklahoma and the Negro was easily punctured this week when a Negro appeared the runner-up in the race for corporation commissioner. E. R. Hughes, Republican incumbent, and in fact an accident in politics, has quit the race because, as he is reported in the daily papers, "I will not run against a Negro." Hughes demanded that the Republican organization secure the withdrawal of the Negro, Frank A. Anderson.

This brain storm of a former white hotel clerk could be overlooked by the thousands of Negroes in Oklahoma who call themselves "Yellow Dog Republicans," were it not for the instant participation the Republican Party, as such, took in attempting to eliminate Mr. Anderson. It shows that Mr. Hughes in his statement to the public had not fully illuminated the general position and attitude of the Republican party towards the Negro.

This writer called Frank A. Anderson over long distance telephone Wednesday and talked with him in person. Anderson declared that leaders of the Republican party rushed to him following the Hughes ultimatum and demanded that he get off the Republican ticket. Anderson stated that a former Republican National Committeeman and the secretary of the present Republican State Committee came to him last Monday, one telling him that it is a disgrace for him to be on the ballot, and that his name will hurt the candidacy of Senator Pine, who expects to run for governor, while the other, like a Mississippi bully, threatens trouble of some vague, uncertain sort, unless Anderson withdraws.

While this publication has insisted, and still insists that no substantial objective can be reached through and by Negroes running for office, to which there is no chance of being elected, we have never said that they did not have the right to do so. We have always attacked this question from the standpoint of its political expediency. For instance, if a Negro has counted noses, and discovers that he has an even break to win within a political unit, he ought to get in there and make the trial. It is his constitutional right and privilege. We think, on the other hand, that it is a mistake to break the faith and confidence of the black masses through running for offices which before hand one knows he cannot win.

The incident this week does have an element of constructive value, in that it exposes the hypocrisy of the Republican organization in Oklahoma. If it is a disgrace for the name of a Negro to be on a Republican ballot, it ought to be a disgrace also for a Negro to stamp a Republican ballot. Why has Mr. Pine under the constitution of this state, any more right to run for governor than Frank A. Anderson to run for corporation commissioner?

On the other hand, a Negro this year ran on the Democratic ticket for congressman-at-large, and for the legislature without any such vile comment from their democratic opponents. The time has come for the thousands of Abraham Lincoln Negroes to stop, look and listen. The times are out of joint, and there is "something rotten in the state of Denmark."

Gone are the days when Theodore Roosevelt stood in the Republican National Convention and demanded that a Negro be made the presiding officer. The descendants of Henry Cabot Lodge, Stanton and Lincoln now advise us that Negroes on the Republican ticket are a disgrace.

What, Mr. Negro, are you going to do about it?

Whites, Negroes Clash In Riot At G.O.P. Meeting

MEMPHIS, TENN., March 24.—(AP)—Shelby County's two groups of Republicans clashed as usual today at their county convention, and the result, as usual, will be two separate committees and two slates of contesting delegates to the congressional and State conventions.

The meeting broke up in wild disorder. The proceedings were enlivened by the smashing of a lamp by a negro lawyer, the screaming of women, an occasional corner fist fight and the temporary chairman's hasty exit through the back door of the convention hall.

The trouble had its inception when the group headed by R. R. (Bob) Church, negro real estate dealer, commonly known as the "Black and Tans" and the so-called "Lily Whites" headed by John E. McCall, a past Tennessee commander of the American Legion, and the Republican candidate for governor in 1932, clashed over the election of a county chairman.

Joe Marks, white-haired temporary chairman, just prior to his exit, looked over the 250 assembled Republicans, and called for nominations for a chairman.

His son, Dave Marks, nominated Lester H. Brenner, U. S. commissioner, one of the Church group. McCall, shouting his opposition to Brenner, nominated Dr. Carroll Morgan, Republican member of the county election commission.

By that time the courtroom was in an uproar. One group stood for a secret vote, the other for an oral vote. Chairman Marks stood silent. McCall made a motion "that we get another chairman."

The McCall group claimed the election of Dr. Morgan by an oral vote that followed. As Dr. Morgan started to the chair to preside, a negro attorney grabbed him, but was pulled away. Morgan said the negro put two ink bottles in his pockets, and that in an attempted attack on him, the negro broke a lamp with his knee.

Something that might well be described as pandemonium reigned after that until the squad cars of police began to arrive. The trouble was over by then, but, so was the meeting.

Both factions, however, elected their delegates to the congressional convention here soon, and to the coming State convention at Chattanooga.

New York Evening Post

AUG 29 1934

RACIAL SQUABBLES SPLIT 17TH A. D.

Four Opponents Seek to Oust Assemblyman Alterman After 14 Years

By GEORGE L. CASSIDY

Assemblyman Meyer Alterman, one of the oldest Tammany legislators in Albany in point of service, today is in the midst of the hardest primary fight of his career.

He has four opponents running against him in the Seventeenth Assembly District, the home neighborhood of Mayor LaGuardia and probably the most cosmopolitan in cosmopolitan New York.

The fight has become, pretty obviously, a battle between the Tammany organiaztion, ruled by Nathan Burkan and Miss Rose Rothenberg, on the one side, and Democratic clubs formed by racial groups on the other.

Burkan Challenged

Burkan himself has a challenge to his leadership, separate and distinct from the onslaught on Alterman.

Curtis Groehl and Hazel Bolduc are opposing Burkan and Sophie Paul for membership in the Democratic State Committee.

Allied with Burkan, of course, is his co-leader, Alderman William Solomon, and the Tammany organization in this section of Harlem is going through all the routine work of mobilizing its strength for the voting on September 13.

Think It's Time for Change

Alterman, a Jew, is opposed by Lester Taylor, a Negro; T. P. Griffin, said to be popular with the Irish-American elements, and two Porto Ricans, Manuel P. Villarini and C. A. Irisarry.

The Porto Ricans make no secret of their belief that Alterman should have retired, after fourteen years of service, to give one of their number his place.

The Villarini faction, composed largely of the members of the Caribee Democratic Club, even has threatened to back him as an independent should Alterman win the five-cornered race.

Villarini Support Sought

A delegation of twenty supporters of Villarini served notice of this intention on Burkan at his club, 74 West 114th Street, Monday night.

Dr. Pedro N. Ortiz, chairman of the delegation, demanded that Burkan send out the word that his organization back Villarini.

"If you had come to me and made such a demand a month ago," Burkan replied, "I might have considered it, although I don't see why a man who has served this district so long and so well should be cast aside.

"Even to consider it now is impossible. The petitions have been filed and I certainly am not going to desert Alterman now.

Didn't Make Complaint

"We could have had at least three of the four petitions thrown out by the Board of Elections on technicalities, but I insisted no objections be made.

"Every Democrat has a right to run in his party's primary and I intend to do nothing to infringe that right.

"More, I promise you that if Villarini or any other candidate wins the nomination, I'll support him.

"No Authority"

"Now, will you promise to do the same thing?"

"We have no authority to make such a promise," said Ortiz. "We don't know."

"What would prevent you?"

"Circumstances."

One member of the delegation asked Burkan whether an independent candidate might not endanger the re-election of Representative James J. Lanzetta, who only beat LaGuardia by a few hundred votes.

"That would be unfortunate," replied Burkan. "But we'll meet that situation when it arises."

He shook hands with the members of the delegation as they filed out of the basement of the clubhouse.

"I'll promise you that you'll get a fair deal at the polls," he said. "If anything happens that you feel is wrong, come to me and I'll help you."

The Porto Ricans have the largest single bloc of votes in the Democratic primary, approximately 3,500 out of 9,000.

Until ten years ago the population of the district was largely Jewish. Since then the other racial groups have grown rapidly in numbers.

The Republicans, who are backing Vito Marcantonio for Congress, are watching the Democratic row with considerable satisfaction.

DES MOINES, IA
TRIBUNE CAPITAL

AUG 20 1934

Negro G. O. P. Group Meets

Pledges Support in Fall Election.

The central committee of the Iowa Negro Republican Voters league met Monday at state Republican headquarters.

Representatives from Waterloo, Council Bluffs, Sioux City, Colfax, Des Moines and other points were present. J. G. Brown of Des Moines presided at the meeting.

A resolution adopted read:

"Whereas, we feel that the Democratic administration has not materially improved our economic and social condition, and

"Whereas, we feel that the state of Iowa needs the Republican party to control the government of the state in order to relieve our present situation, and

"Whereas, we feel that the Republican party has a more sympathetic understanding of the position and condition of the Negro,

"Be It Resolved, That the Negro Republican Voters league of Iowa squarely indorses the program, platform and policies of the Iowa state Republican organization and pledges its fullest support in its efforts for victory in the coming election.

"That we pledge our support to the Republican state ticket and to the various candidates from township trustee to governor.

"That feeling that patronage is the proper reward for the work and struggle in attaining victory, we urge upon the state central committee and the elective officers in the state that the Negro voters be given more and better consideration in the matter of patronage and in sharing in the rewards of victory.

"That this organization shall extend all of its energies from now until Nov. 6 to the end that the grand old party' shall be victorious."

Republican state and congressional candidates met at the headquarters Sunday and discussed campaign policies and procedure.

COFFEYVILLE, KANS.
JOURNAL

AUG 16 1934

Negro Republican Club Has a Party

Young Voters' Organization Hopes to Form a Women's Auxiliary Here Soon.

The Young Negro Republican club entertained about 200 people at the Bradford tavern, one mile north of the airport on the country club road, last evening. The event was for the expressed purpose of interesting the wives of club members and young Negro women of the city in the organization of a women's auxiliary to the Young Negro Republican club. Beer and sandwiches were served to the group, following a short talk by W. L. Hardy, chairman of the program committee, on the purpose of the organization, its objectives and its accomplishments. The women were urged to meet with the men's organization on Wednesday night, August 22, in the district court room to form their organization. The women will be asked to decide at that time whether they wish to organize separately and work in harmony with the men or simply become members of the men's club. Membership cards were distributed last night to about fifty men, who as yet are not members of the organization. The club has a membership of fifty-five registered voters and is endeavoring to increase membership to 100 men and as many women within the next two weeks.

Dancing and specialty numbers by Miss Addie Warren, Mrs. Ella Lowe, Ruby Brown, Russell Cartwright, Tommie Wilson and George Roberts, Jr., furnished diversions for the evening. Music was furnished by Tim Joyner at the piano, Russell Whittaker, saxophone, Isaiah Winters, saxophone, and Harvey Jackson, drums.

Russell Cartwright is chairman of the organization and Wayman Carter is secretary.

TOPEKA, KANS.
CAPITAL

AUG 19 1934

PLAN BIG MEETING

Colored Republicans of Kansas Convene Here Next Week.

The executive committee of the First congressional district colored Republican club met at the Dunbar hotel Friday evening, and completed arrangements for a state-wide meeting of colored Republicans to be held in Representative hall August 27, 1934. The purpose of the meeting is to organize a working force and arrange a program that will fully and perfectly co-operate with the state central committee and the Republican party.

Thru its president, Thomas B. Simpson, Topeka, Kan., the First congressional district colored Republican club has issued a call inviting congressional districts within the state to participate in this meeting.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.
TIMES UNION

AUG 26 1934

A committee of the Colored Republican - Fusion Organization headed by the Rev. S. L. Corothers, held a conference with Commissioners Hammond of the Sanitation Department; Finegan of the Civil Service Commission and others of the LaGuardia administration on matters pertaining to members of their organization. They were cordially received and prompt action was promised on the matters discussed. Among those on the committee were the Revs. W. C. Brown, C. W. Stewart, C. P. Cole and W. J. Watson.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.
POST

SEP 6 1934

The Negro Republican club of this city ~~will hold its~~ first annual reception of Negro Republicans of Bridgeport, celebrating its sixth anniversary as a political organization, on Friday at 8 p. m., in the club rooms of the 12th district Republican club, Union avenue, near Stratford avenue. The committee in charge is composed of William Hatchett, George Shorts, Thomas Sinclair, Mrs. William Lively, Mrs. Marie Price, and Mrs. Edward Farrar.

HARRISBURG, PA.
TELEGRAPH

SEP 13 1934

COLORED REPUBLICAN CLUB ORGANIZED

The Harrisburg Colored Republican Club was formed last night at Cowden and Herr stretse, where headquarters will be established. More than 250 attended.

Dr. Charles H. Crampton was re-elected president. A rally will be held in the courthouse October 11, when Congressman Oscar DePriest, Chicago, will speak.

Other officers elected are: Theodore Fry, vice-president; Elam Banks, second vice-president; Daniel H. Potter, secretary: Leonard Craig, assistant secretary; Dr. A. Leslie Marshall, treasurer; C. Sylvester Jackson, chairman executive committee.

TOPEKA, KANS.
CAPITAL

AUG 28 1934

COLORED REPUBLICANS INDORSE GOV. LANDON

Pledge Enthusiastic Support For Entire Ticket.

More Than a Hundred Delegates Attend Big Party Meeting in Representative Hall Here.

Colored Republicans of the state met in Representative hall yesterday afternoon and outlined their policy for the general election campaign, unanimously indorsed the administration of Governor Landon and today will ask the election of H. H. Buckner of Pratt, as vice chairman of the state central committee to represent their race.

The enthusiasm of the 100 or more men and women attending the meeting was spontaneous, bursting into applause at every mention of Governor Landon and his re-election next November. The meeting also promised support of the entire Republican state ticket.

J. J. Mallory of Topeka was chairman of the credentials committee.

Speakers were Governor Landon, Cong. Clifford Hope of the Seventh and Cong. W. P. Lambertson of the First district; Byron Mason, Douglas county; Rev. Warren Tyler, Topeka; Rev. G. N. Jackson, Topeka; Dr. W. M. Blount, Kansas City, Kan.; Archie Gregg and Claude Jones, Wyandotte Co.; Rev. W. D. Wilkins, W. T. Bell, Leavenworth; Fred Stone, Lawrence, and Thomas B. Simpson, Topeka.

Mrs. Bertha Dandridge, Topeka, was acting secretary of the meeting. The resolutions committee included Rev. N. J. Stokes, Pratt, chairman; Dr. A. Porter Davis, Kansas City, Kan., secretary; Mrs. Gertrude Clark, Lawrence; Fred White, Kansas City, Kan.; Rev. J. E. Douglas, Wichita; Rev. J. T. Elias, Pittsburg, and Mrs. Paul Jones, Topeka. The resolution adopted was the same as that of the Shawnee Colored Voters league, headed by F. M. Ware, president and H. G. Brown, secretary. It follows:

Resolution.

WHEREAS, during this depression, Governor Alf. M. Landon has demonstrated he is a capable leader in coping with the situation that has confronted the citizens of Kansas, and thru his leadership, Kansas ranks as one of the leading states of the Union, in mapping out a program that has met and is still meeting the needs of the citizens. Be it resolved that we, the colored Republicans of the state of Kansas, assembled in Representative Hall in the State Capitol, do highly indorse and commend the administration of Governor Alf M. Landon and the Republican party.

We further pledge our loyal support to him and the Republican party.

WHEREAS, the colored Republicans of the State of Kansas desire to bring about more satisfaction and harmony among the group, and whereas it is apparent that the colored Republicans make a choce of their own leadership and representative, BE IT RESOLVED that this body make selection and recommend the same to the state central committee.

WICHITA, KANS.
EVENING EAGLE

NOV 1 1934

COLORED LEADER HERE

Mrs. Beatrice Childs to Address G. O. P. Women Tonight

Mrs. Beatrice L. Childs of Kansas City, Kan., one of the foremost Republican workers among the colored people, will be the main speaker at a banquet to be given at 7 o'clock tonight at the Masonic hall, 615 North Main, by the Colored Women's Republican league. Mrs. Mayme Moore, president of the league, will preside.

Following the banquet a musical program will be given, followed by a talk by Mrs. Pearl E. McPherson, election commissioner, on "Balloting." Four hundred women are expected to attend the meeting, Mrs. Moore said.

Mrs. Childs is president of the National Republican Council of Young Colored Women and is being sent out by national headquarters to organize meetings and work among the colored people. Her talk tonight will be on "The Negro Woman in Politics." A special guest at the dinner will be John Crawford, chairman of the Sedgwick county central committee.

Political - 1934

Party Affiliation - Republican -

WICHITA, KANS.
BEACON

OCT 12 1934

COLORED G.O.P'S HEAR SIMMONS

Plans for the largest rally of colored Republican voters in Kansas are being completed by a special committee of the Sedgwick County Colored Republican Club for the meeting Monday night at St. Paul A. M. E. Church, Elm and Water Streets.

Col. Roscoe Conklin Simmons of Chicago, one of the leading orators of the colored race, will be the principal speaker at the meeting. The program also will include entertainment by colored talent of Wichita and large delegations of colored voters are expected from El Dorado, Newton, Wellington, Caldwell and other surrounding towns.

Simmons has attended every Republican convention since 1904 and for 12 years has been chief of the editorial staff of the Chicago Defender. He has lectured in leading American universities, was praised by President Roosevelt and was described by Arthur Brisbane as "the last of the truly great American orators."

Arrangements for the rally are in the hands of a committee composed of Dr. P. M. Bell, Dr. H. H. Wilson, Capt. S. W. Jones, T. W. Fines, Mrs. Jewel Brown, S. M. Jones, Dr. H. T. Geeder, Attorney F. C. Helm, Attorney B. H. Brown, Mrs. A. Curtis, Shad Jones, Attorney A. P. Woodward, Mrs. Mayme Moore, B. F. Johnson and Mrs. Bernice Wilkins.

MICHIGAN CITY, IND.
NEWS

OCT 12 1934

Colored Republican Club Meets Tonight

The Frederick Douglass Republican club will hold its regular meeting at 8:30 o'clock tonight at 227½ Franklin street. A large attendance is expected as Mrs. Pope will have an interesting message to tell her hearers.

CENTRALIA, ILL.
SENTINEL

OCT 17

COLORED REPUBLICAN MEETING BIG AFFAIR

The Community Church was filled to overflowing last night as a large audience gathered to hear Mrs. Annette H. Officers, of East St. Louis, director of the women's division of the Colored Republican Club of Illinois, speak.

In an inspiring address, Mrs. Officer expressed the belief that the Republican party will come back and take the place it formerly held in the county, state and nation. The speaker asked her listeners how they could support any other party after thinking back of the progress made by them under the Republican leadership.

Mrs. Officer closed with an appeal for the voters to go to the polls on election day and vote a straight ticket.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Laura Leake, the local chairman, and Miss Taylor made the response to the speakers' address.

CENTRALIA, ILL.
SENTINEL

OCT 15

STATE LEADERS TO SPEAK AT COLORED G. O. P. MEET

Mrs. Annette H. Officer, of East St. Louis, director of the women's division of the Colored Republican Clubs of Illinois, will be the principal speaker at a Republican meeting at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the Community Church, corner of McKee and Cormick streets. Another speaker will be Mrs. Harris Gaines of Chicago wife of a director of the Colored Republican Clubs of the state.

WICHITA, KANS.
BEACON

SEP 27 1934

Colored G. O. P. Rally—The first meeting of the colored Landon for Governor Club will be held Thursday evening at the New Hope Baptist Church, Ninth and Ohio. A number of prominent speakers will be heard.

JERSEY CITY, N. J.
JOURNAL

OCT 16 1934

Meeting Is Held By Young Colored G.O.P.

Although recently enlarged considerably, the assembly hall of the Colored Community Center at 35 Virginia Av. was too small to accommodate the large crowd of colored folk who turned out last night to the meeting of the Hudson County Unit of the Young Colored Republicans of New Jersey, and close to 200 had to stand on the street outside.

Samuel Scott, county chairman, presided and in the following order introduced the speakers, all of whom dwelt on the issues of the campaign: E. Frederick Morrow, state chairman of the Young Colored Republicans; Counselor Isaac Nutter, Bertram Bland, Dr. Edgar Askew, Elbert B. Herman, Abraham Sepenuk, Mrs. Labella Ortiz and Charles Stoebling, commissioner of registration.

The meeting was held in spite of the fact that a large Colored meeting was being held at Lincoln High School, but Samuel Scott's work for the past several weeks was rewarded by having the largest crowd present at a meeting since he took charge of the Young Colored Republicans of the county.

WILMINGTON, DEL
NEWS

OCT 13 1934

125 NEGRO REPUBLICANS AT CHESWOLD RALLY

Special to The Morning News

CHESWOLD, Oct. 12—About 125 persons attended the Negro Republican meeting in the school house here tonight. The meeting was one of a series of similar meetings being held in Kent county.

Dr. William Henry, of Dover, Republican State committeeman, was the principal speaker and discussed the Kent county Republican campaign. He urged registration in order to be able to vote. Dr. Henry was introduced by Clem Corney, chairman of the meeting. Other speakers were: Mrs. Ruth Weston, of Dover, State committeewoman; Robert Smith, Dover; John Sammons, of Cheswold; the Rev. J. L. Parker, of Cheswold, and Dr. Charles A. Henry, Jr., of Dover.

WILMINGTON, DEL.
NEWS

OCT 17 1934

REPUBLICAN RECORD IN DELAWARE PRAISED

Support of the entire Republican ticket at the coming election, on the basis of the record of Governor Buck's administration was urged by Attorney General P. Warren Green, nominee to succeed himself at a rally of young Negro Republican voters of the Eighth Ward last night at Mt. Carmel Church, Eleventh and Lombard street.

Other speakers were: Walter W. Bacon, chairman of the First District (City) Committee; Albert Stetser, nominee for recorder of deeds; G. Gilpin Highfield, for register of wills; Captain William A. Simonton, for State Senator in the First Senatorial District; Harry Clark, for sheriff; Frank R. Zebley, for Representative in the Second Representative District; Dr. Conwell Banton, City Councilman James B. McManus, Eighth Ward; Frank Schroeder, secretary of the Republican Second District Committee, and Philip Sadler, deputy sheriff.

Lyrics to be used in the present political campaign were rehearsed at a meeting of Republican women at their headquarters at 923 Market street last night. The four-minute speaking class met under the direction of Mrs. George E. Cox.

PATERSON, N. J.
CALL

OCT 13 1934

Negro Republicans Hold "Abe Bush" Night

The Negro Republican voters of the fourth ward celebrated an "Abe Bush Night" Wednesday evening at the opening of their new headquarters. Henry Heinrichs, speaking for the party, reviewed the candidates and introduced the speakers of the evening, Martin M. Van Ness and Robert Wardle, both freeholder candidates. Mr. Bush, candidate for alderman in that ward, was the guest of honor.

Benjamin Jacobs, leader of the fourth ward, Miss Beatrice Alexander, secretary of the Passaic County Colored Republican league, and Mrs. Viola Adams also spoke, the latter discussing the recognition given by the Republican party to members of her race in the state and county. Refreshments were served.

WILMINGTON, DEL.
JOURNAL—EVERY EVENING

OCT 17 1934

Colored Republicans Open Up Headquarters

Colored Republican campaign headquarters have been opened at 802 French street, and will remain open each day from 9 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock in the evening. Literature and other information will be available.

Representatives from the various wards at the headquarters follow: First, Harry Irons; Second, Councilman James Winchester; Third, Anthony Ayers; Fourth, Charles Johnson; Fifth, John Brown; Sixth, Dr. A. R. Milburn; Seventh, Robert Bayard; Eighth, Deputy Sheriff Philip Sadler; Ninth, Harry Walker, and Twelfth, Harold Dorsey.

The executive committee of the headquarters consists of: Deputy Sheriff Charles H. Colburn, chairman; Councilman Winchester, Dr. Milburn, Edgar Starling, Dr. O. N. Smith, Mrs. C. M. S. Pipes, Montrove Bivens, Mr. Irons, Dr. Conwell Banton, Councilman Hopkins, Deputy Sheriff Sadler and Mr. Dorsey.

COURIER
Batavia, N

OCT 17 1934

Negro Republican Club.

The Republican meeting sponsored by the Negro Republican Club held Monday night at the Baptist church was well attended. Albert Daniels, candidate for Congress, and a number of others made good talks. The house was filled with interested people. Fish sandwiches and coffee was served.

JERSEY CITY, N. J.
JOURNAL

OCT 18 1934

Colored Voters to Stage Parade

More than 5,000 Republicans are expected to march in the parade to be staged Monday night under the auspices of the Colored Chapter, Independent Voters League of Hudson County. The parade will precede a mass meeting to be held at the Lincoln High School, Crescent Av. and Harrison. D. S. Senator Hamilton F. Kean and Motor Vehicle Commissioner Harold G. Hoffman are expected to be present. Raymond Alleyne, campaign manager for the colored Republicans of the county, declared a torchlight parade will be held and that seven divisions of marchers will be led by seven bands of music.

WILMINGTON, DEL.
NEWS

OCT 17 1934

Kent Negro Republicans Meet

Special to The Morning News

DOVER, Oct. 16.—Kent county Negro Republican workers held largely attended meeting in the Negro headquarters here tonight with Dr. William M. Henry in charge. Every district in the county was represented and the leaders pledged their loyalty and support to the Republican party. The speakers included Dr. Charles Henry, Mrs. Ruth Weston, Dr. W. C. Jason, the Rev. H. J. Marshall and John Sammons. After the meeting there was a band concert and entertainment, followed by a supper.

Political - 1934

Party Affiliation -

Republican -

WICHITA, KANS.
BEACON

OCT 12 1934

COLORED G.O.P'S HEAR SIMMONS

Plans for the largest rally of colored Republican voters in Kansas are being completed by a special committee of the Sedgwick County Colored Republican Club for the meeting Monday night at St. Paul A. M. E. Church, Elm and Water Streets.

Col. Roscoe Conklin Simmons of Chicago, one of the leading orators of the colored race, will be the principal speaker at the meeting. The program also will include entertainment by colored talent of Wichita and large delegations of colored voters are expected from El Dorado, Newton, Wellington, Caldwell and other surrounding towns.

Simmons has attended every Republican convention since 1904 and for 12 years has been chief of the editorial staff of the Chicago Defender. He has lectured in leading American universities, was praised by President Roosevelt and was described by Arthur Brisbane as "the last of the truly great American orators."

Arrangements for the rally are in the hands of a committee composed of Dr. P. M. Bell, Dr. H. H. Wilson, Capt. S. W. Jones, T. W. Fines, Mrs. Jewel Brown, S. M. Jones, Dr. H. T. Geeder, Attorney F. C. Helm, Attorney B. H. Brown, Mrs. A. Curtis, Shad Jones, Attorney A. P. Woodward, Mrs. Mayme Moore, B. F. Johnson and Mrs. Bernice Wilkins.

CENTRALIA, ILL.
SENTINEL

COLORED REPUBLICAN MEETING BIG AFFAIR

The Community Church was filled to overflowing last night as a large audience gathered to hear Mrs. Annette H. Officers, of East St. Louis, director of the women's division of the Colored Republican Club of Illinois, speak.

In an inspiring address, Mrs. Officer expressed the belief that the Republican party will come back and take the place it formerly held in the county, state and nation. The speaker asked her listeners how they could support any other party after thinking back of the progress made by them under the Republican leadership.

Mrs. Officer closed with an appeal for the voters to go to the polls on election day and vote a straight ticket.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Laura Leake, the local chairman, and Miss Taylor made the response to the speakers' address.

CENTRALIA, ILL.
SENTINEL

OCT 15

STATE LEADERS TO SPEAK AT COLORED G. O. P. MEET

Mrs. Annette H. Officer, of East St. Louis, director of the women's division of the Colored Republican Clubs of Illinois, will be the principal speaker at a Republican meeting at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the Community Church corner of McKee and Cormick streets. Another speaker will be Mrs. Harris Gaines of Chicago wife of a director of the Colored Republican Clubs of the state.

WICHITA, KANS.
BEACON

SEP 27 1934

Colored G. O. P. Rally—The first meeting of the colored Landon for Governor Club will be held Thursday evening at the New Hope Baptist Church, Ninth and Ohio. A number of prominent speakers will be heard.

OCT 12 1934

Colored Republican Club Meets Tonight

The Frederick Douglass Republican club will hold its regular meeting at 8:30 o'clock tonight at 227½ Franklin street. A large attendance is expected as Mrs. Pope will have an interesting message to tell her hearers.

JERSEY CITY, N. J.
JOURNAL

OCT 16 1934

Meeting Is Held By Young Colored G.O.P.

Although recently enlarged considerably, the assembly hall of the Colored Community Center at 35 Virginia Av. was too small to accommodate the large crowd of colored folk who turned out last night to the meeting of the Hudson County Unit of the Young Colored Republicans of New Jersey, and close to 200 had to stand on the street outside.

Samuel Scott, county chairman, presided and in the following order introduced the speakers, all of whom dwelt on the issues of the campaign: E. Frederick Morrow, state chairman of the Young Colored Republicans; Counselor Isaac Nutter, Bertram Bland, Dr. Edgar Askew, Elbert B. Herman, Abraham Sepenuk, Mrs. Labella Ortiz and Charles Stoebling, commissioner of registration.

The meeting was held in spite of the fact that a large Colored meeting was being held at Lincoln High School, but Samuel Scott's work for the past several weeks was rewarded by having the largest crowd present at a meeting since he took charge of the Young Colored Republicans of the county.

WILMINGTON, DEL
NEWS

OCT 13 1934

125 NEGRO REPUBLICANS AT CHESWOLD RALLY

Special to The Morning News

CHESWOLD, Oct. 12—About 125 persons attended the Negro Republican meeting in the school house here tonight. The meeting was one of a series of similar meetings being held in Kent county.

Dr. William Henry, of Dover, Republican State committeeman, was the principal speaker and discussed the Kent county Republican campaign. He urged registration in order to be able to vote. Dr. Henry was introduced by Clem Corney, chairman of the meeting. Other speakers were: Mrs. Ruth Weston, of Dover, State committeewoman; Robert Smith, Dover; John Sammons, of Cheswold; the Rev. J. L. Parker, of Cheswold, and Dr. Charles A. Henry, Jr., of Dover.

WILMINGTON, DEL.
NEWS

OCT 17 1934

REPUBLICAN RECORD IN DELAWARE PRAISED

Support of the entire Republican ticket at the coming election, on the basis of the record of Governor Buck's administration was urged by Attorney General P. Warren Green, nominee to succeed himself at a rally of young Negro Republican voters of the Eighth Ward last night at Mt. Carmel Church, Eleventh and Lombard street.

Other speakers were: Walter W. Bacon, chairman of the First District (City) Committee; Albert Stetser, nominee for recorder of deeds; G. Gilpin Highfield, for register of wills; Captain William A. Simonton, for State Senator in the First Senatorial District; Harry Clark, for sheriff; Frank R. Zebley, for Representative in the Second Representative District; Dr. Conwell Banton, City Councilman James B. McManus, Eighth Ward; Frank Schroeder, secretary of the Republican Second District Committee, and Philip Sadler, deputy sheriff.

Lyrics to be used in the present political campaign were rehearsed at a meeting of Republican women at their headquarters at 923 Market street last night. The four-minute speaking class met under the direction of Mrs. George E. Cox.

PATERSON, N. J.
CALL

OCT 13 1934

Negro Republicans Hold "Abe Bush" Night

The Negro Republican voters of the fourth ward celebrated an "Abe Bush Night" Wednesday evening at the opening of their new headquarters. Henry Heinrichs, speaking for the party, reviewed the candidates and introduced the speakers of the evening, Martin M. Van Ness and Robert Wardle, both freeholder candidates. Mr. Bush, candidate for alderman in that ward, was the guest of honor.

Benjamin Jacobs, leader of the fourth ward, Miss Beatrice Alexander, secretary of the Passaic County Colored Republican league, and Mrs. Viola Adams also spoke, the latter discussing the recognition given by the Republican party to members of her race in the state and county. Refreshments were served.

WILMINGTON, DEL.
JOURNAL—EVERY EVENING

OCT 17 1934

Colored Republicans Open Up Headquarters

Colored Republican campaign headquarters have been opened at 802 French street, and will remain open each day from 9 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock in the evening. Literature and other information will be available.

Representatives from the various wards at the headquarters follow: First, Harry Irons; Second, Councilman James Winchester; Third, Anthony Ayers; Fourth, Charles Johnson; Fifth, John Brown; Sixth, Dr. A. R. Milburn; Seventh, Robert Bayard; Eighth, Deputy Sheriff Philip Sadler; Ninth, Harry Walker. and Twelfth, Harold Dorsey.

The executive committee of the headquarters consists of: Deputy Sheriff Charles H. Colburn, chairman; Councilman Winchester, Dr. Milburn, Edgar Starling, Dr. O. N. Smith, Mrs. C. M. S. Pipes, Montrove Bivens, Mr. Irons, Dr. Conwell Banton, Councilman Hopkins, Deputy Sheriff Sadler and Mr. Dorsey.

COURIER

Katarid, 8

OCT 17 1934

Negro Republican Club.

The Republican meeting sponsored by the Negro Republican Club held Monday night at the Baptist church was well attended. Albert Daniels, candidate for Congress, and a number of others made good talks. The house was filled with interested people. Fish sandwiches and coffee was served.

JERSEY CITY, N. J.
JOURNAL

OCT 13 1934

Colored Voters to Stage Parade

WILMINGTON, DEL.
NEWS

OCT 17 1934

Kent Negro Republicans Meet

Special to The Morning News

DOVER, Oct. 16.—Kent county Republican workers held a meeting there was a band concert largely attended meeting in the and entertainment, followed by a Negro headquarters here tonight supper.

Dr. William M. Henry in charge. Every district in the county was represented and the leaders pledged their loyalty and support to the Republican party. The speakers included Dr. Charles Henry, Mrs. Ruth Weston, Dr. W. C. Jason, the Rev. H. J. Marshall and John Sammons. After the meeting there was a band concert and entertainment, followed by a supper.

More than 5,000 Republicans are expected to march in the parade to be staged Monday night under the auspices of the Colored Chapter, Independent Voters League of Hudson County. The parade will precede a mass meeting to be held at the Lincoln High School, Crescent Av. and Harrison. D. S. Senator Hamilton F. Kean and Motor Vehicle Commissioner Harold G. Hoffman are expected to be present. Raymond Alleyne, campaign manager for the colored Republicans of the county, will be in charge of a torchlight parade held and that seven divisions of marchers will be led by seven bands of music.

CAMDEN, N. J.
COURIER

OCT 23 1934

DENIES G.O.P. CLAIM TO COLORED VOTERS

Democratic Woman Worker Tells of Party's Friendship

"The Democratic party has always been a friend of the colored voter," Miss Bella Morris, prominent colored Democratic worker and Camden school teacher, declared last night.

"Statements made last week by Robert B. Johnson, colored member of the Board of Education, are absolutely unfounded," Miss Morris said.

"To prove my contention, during the special session of the legislature in September, when the bill for a $5000 appropriation to outfit colored state militia companies in Camden and Atlantic City was introduced, Senator Dryden Kuser, Republican, delivered one of the strongest orations ever heard against the measure.

"Several Democratic Senators spoke in favor of the bill and it was finally conceded that from a political standpoint, both parties held the colored voter in the highest respect.

Points to Board

"Johnson declared that Democratic leaders have no respect for colored voters, but why is it that the Republican party in the 12 years it was in power, failed to recognize the colored race?

"February 19, Senator Stout, Democrat, introduced a bill prohibiting propaganda tending to excite religious or racial prejudice. This measure was passed in the House, with every Democrat member voting for it, but never came to a vote in the Senate. Does this show the prejudice of which Johnson speaks?

"Two Republican Assemblymen Higbie and King, voted against the measure authorizing organization of the colored national guard while Assemblyman Marvel voted for the bill. No member of the Senate opposed the bill.

Forgot Promises

"Republican leaders, in 1931, promised colored voters in Camden and Atlantic City that they would institute a Negro National Guard unit in each city if they were victorious in the election. They forgot their promise until the special session in September, called to enact legislation to aid needy residents of New Jersey.

"It took nearly three years for Republican leaders to remember their promise and it is doubtful if they would have introduced the bill at the special session, except that election time was again drawing near and they needed the votes of the colored residents of Camden.

"Democratic leaders and legislators have never discriminated against the colored voters, despite all Johnson may say to the contrary.

"To show you the manner in which the colored resident of Camden is held by the Republican leaders, John Lightfoot, a janitor at the city hall, was discharged several weeks ago because he worked for Senator Woodruff at the primary election.

"This was in opposition to the statement of David Baird, G. O. P. boss, that 'no small workers' would be dismissed, no matter how they voted or whom they favored."

LANCASTER, PA.
NEW ERA

OCT 19 1934

NEGRO GOP CLUB HOLDS RALLY

Dr. J. C. Brenby Presides at Meeting; Local and Phila. Speakers.

Colored voters of the Republican party held an enthusiastic rally in the Colored Odd Fellows Hall, Chester street, last evening. The meeting was sponsored by the Colored Republican Club of Lancaster.

C. Maurice Hershey, secretary of the Lancaster County Republican committee; H. Earle DeHaven, candidate for the State Legislature from the city district and Robert Groh, former Recorder of Deeds of Lancaster county, spoke.

Robert E. Millen, a native of Lancaster who is now an attorney in Philadelphia and the county chairman there of the Republican State Committee for Colored Voters and a special deputy attorney general of the state; E. Washington Rhodes editor of the Philadelphia Tribune and a former assistant United States Attorney General, and Bernard H Nichols, Philadelphia, secretary of the Citizens' Republican club of Philadelphia, and Robert J. Nelson, Philadelphia, were the four colored speakers from Philadelphia who addressed the meeting.

Dr. J. C. Brenby, president of the Colored Republican club, arranged the meeting and sang a musical number between two addresses, while Albert Wilson acted as chairman until the four colored Philadelphians began to speak. Then Millen served as chairman, introducing each of the speakers.

Another meeting will be held Thursday, November 1, at which Mrs. Alice Dunbar Nelson, wife of the box commissioner, and Maud Coleman, of the State Department of Welfare at Harrisburg, are scheduled to speak.

WILMINGTON, DEL.
JOURNAL—EVERY EVENING

OCT 20 1934

Colored Club Meets

The Ninth Ward Colored Republican Club met with the First Voters' Club last evening in the quarters of the East End Ninth Ward Republican Club, 1244 East Fourteenth street.

Isaac Scott presided and the meeting was opened with a prayer by Henry Williams. Speakers included: A. Roland Millburn, Dr. John Ayers, Edgar Starling, Montrose Bivens, Joseph Matthews, Charles Dorsey, Miss Eleanor Laws, William Massey and Lewis Wright, who presided.

ROCK ISLAND, ILL.
ARGUS

OCT 24 1934

Plan Tea for Colored Republicans in Moline

Mrs. William A. Stewart, Moline, chairman of the Republican Colored Women's league, announced today that a political tea for colored residents interested in Republican party activities will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in Trevor's hall, 2414 Sixteenth street, Moline.

Speakers include Mrs. Annetta H. Officer of East St. Louis and Warren B. Douglas of Chicago.

STANDARD
Salem, N.J.
OCT 25 1934

YOUNG COLORED REPUBLICAN MASS MEETING SATURDAY

A mass meeting will be held in the Salem Court House on Saturday evening, October 27, at 8.30 o'clock, under the auspices of the Young Colored Republican Unit of Salem County.

Able speakers will be on hand including: C. Frederick Morrow, Miss Pansy Borders, and Senator Kean's right hand man, Bertram Bland. All Republican county candidates will also be present.

The Young Colored Republican unit is a virile organization and is showing considerable activity under the leadership of Elwood Johnson, Jr., county chairman; Horace E. Anderson, chairman of the advisory board, and Hazel K. Anderson, secretary.

WATERLOO, IA.
COURIER

OCT 21 1934

WILLFORD LETTER CENTER OF DRIVE FOR NEGRO VOTE

Simmons Talks for G. O. P., Spencer for Democrats, in Campaign Duel.

Horace Spencer, Mason City, Ia., Democratic state organizer for Iowa Negroes, Saturday evening in Negro Masonic hall presented the Democratic answer to a talk given Friday evening in Waterloo East Junior High school for the Republican party by Roscoe Conklin Simmons of Chicago, famous Negro orator.

Spencer was introduced by J. E. Mills, precinct committeeman, who termed Simmons' speech "a Lincoln birthday address."

Spencer told the audience of 60 Saturday evening that Congressman A. C. Willford earlier in the day had admitted to him being author of a letter which Simmons read at his meeting Friday evening. It was addressed to W. L. Barrett, 27 Fifth street east, supposedly in answer to a request of Barrett for a job in Washington.

"A Nigger Salary."

Simmons had especially pointed out a portion of the letter which he said read:

"I believe that I can get you a job of standing on the street on Pennsylvania avenue and holding a sign reading, 'A horrible example of a Republican sticking to the party too long. And promising not to make that mistake again.' I will speak to the president tomorrow and get him to have the Marine band play while you stand. . . . There will be no salary but will feed you on fat and corn meal, that is what they feed the Republican niggers down here.

"After you fully reform will starting you out on a nigger salary. . . ."

Spencer explained that the congressman told him he wrote the letter, but used the expression "nigger" to show his regard of Barrett's letter as being "niggardly."

Spencer said Willford's activities in getting a library substation for the Negro residential district was not an attempt to segregate the Negroes but was for their own convenience.

Ridicules Simmons.

His talk of more than two hours was devoted to ridiculing "the illustrious Mr. Simmons" and pointing to what the Democratic party has done for the Negro people. He had attended the Simmons meeting the night before.

"The Republican party of Lincoln and of 60 years ago is not the party of today," Spencer said.

Simmons' talk Friday night lasted two hours and 10 minutes. The audience of more than 400 listened attentively. In both instances the speakers drew shouts of approval from the audience.

Regarding the letter, which Simmons said he was reading from a photostatic copy, the speaker remarked: "I may be a nigger, but no congressman of the United States ever called me one before—on stationery of the congress, printed free by the government."

Brought by Fields.

M. F. Fields, Waterloo attorney who is in charge of the Negro division, brought Simmons to Waterloo and early Saturday returned with him to Des Moines, where the Chicago political editor addressed a group Saturday. He is to talk today in Sioux City and Monday in Cleveland.

Altho there were more than 150 white persons in the audience, Simmons addressed his talk chiefly to the colored people present. They applauded vigorously many times and chuckled with delight at the speaker's homely comparisons.

Simmons pointed to accomplishments of people of the Negro race.

"You think Oscar DePriest was the first Negro congressman. Well, he wasn't.

"Twenty-seven Negroes sat there before DePriest."

The speaker recounted their names and accomplishments.

"Fought to Give Me Ballot."

After learning from the audience that there are 969 Negro voters in Waterloo, Simmons declared that in the entire state of Mississippi there are not as many "Negroes who can vote" as there are in Waterloo.

"The Republican party went to the battlefield to give me the ballot," he declared.

He outlined principles of the party and its accomplishments, naming the great men it has produced. He recited names of its heroes of history.

Simmons called upon the Negro voters of Waterloo to join in electing John W. Gwynne to congress and Dan W. Turner as governor.

"Gwynne is honorable, a respectable member of the great Republican party," he said. "He stands for the ideals of the party."

Political-1934

Party Affiliation.

Republican.

A NEW DEAL IN GARY REPUBLICAN ADMINISTRATION

In the last Primary, the city of Gary, outside the Central District, registered a very definite opposition to both R. O. Johnson and Herman Key. R. O. Johnson getting nearly 5 to 1 in the Central District, was defeated because of the lead which Holloway received in the other parts of the City. This result of the voting is traceable to two things, first—to the interest in and the service to, this community by Mr. Holloway which revealed the fine, unselfish spirit of the man to those who had opportunity to know him. In the next place, he was not known to any appreciable extent in the Central District and was much misrepresented by paid workers, who went from door to door advocating the candidacy of other men for the position. Thus the result of the primary vote was unfortunate, but cannot be laid to the wilfull condoning of crime and vice by colored people in the Central District. This must be remembered. Mr. Holloway unfortunately, did not get his case squarely before the colored people of the Central District, but, it must be kept in mind that, had the 411 votes which he received been turned into R. O. Johnson's number, it might have changed, materially, the results of the Primary. But, in as much as Mr. Holloway is the nominee on the Republican ticket and has been so favorably endorsed throughout the city, the colored Republicans of the central district can be relied upon to go along standing for the best good of the community and it is quite certain that Mr. Holloway will attempt to accord to the colored people of the central district fair and honorable recognition in the conduct of the administration of the city. It is not to be expected that Mr. Holloway will attempt to turn Gary into a Sunday School but it is the intention and purpose to see that the city has the best administration possible and that every group and section in the city has the best advantage and the greatest protection and housands of coolred people in the Central District will welcome such government.

ernment.

Chattanooga, Tenn.
NEWS

MAY 8 1934

Fight Looms Over Seating Shelby Group

G. O. P. Convention Must Settle "Lily White" and "Black and Tan" Dispute.

Goes to Committee

McCall States He Will Run for Governor if Negro Delegation Seated.

By GUY NEWBERN

One hotly contested battle between rival delegations to the Republican State convention will be aired before the State Executive Committee here next Monday at the Read House.

State Chairman Howard B. Shofner of the executive committee will preside at the meeting and upon the committee decision will determine whether or not John E. McCall, 1932 candidate for governor, again enters the lists.

McCall is the leader of the "Lily White" faction of the Republican party in far-away Shelby County. The rival faction, known as the "Black and Tan," is headed by Bob Church, Negro.

In the Shelby County convention a few weeks ago a riot was staged in which members of the two factions fought, two chairmen presided at the same meeting, speakers representing both sides sought each to yell louder than the other and both factions elected delegates to the State convention.

In Memphis Monday, McCall announced that he would not be a candidate for governor this year unless the State convention should seat the delegation headed by Church. In the event the Church delegation is seated then McCall indicated he would seek the gubernatorial nomination.

Such an attitude doubtless means that McCall will seek the Republican nomination, for unless there is radical departure from past practice, together with other considerations, the Church faction and the McCall faction will both be seated, with the county's vote in the convention divided between them.

Shelby Has 23 Votes.

Shelby County, the largest of the ninety-four in the State, will have but twenty-three or twenty-four votes in the State convention, having given McCall but slightly more than 2,300 votes in the election of 1932.

Bitter factionalism has long marked the activities of Shelby County Republicans. In past years, Bob Church as a leader among the Negroes built up a reputation for controlling the Negro vote of Shelby. He was highly regarded in State and National Republican circles and during some of the Republican national administrations was able to control, through patronage referees, certain appointments.

During recent years, when the Negroes of Shelby have voted consistently in Democratic primaries and also voted Democratic in the general elections which followed, at the dictation of the Shelby County political organization headed by Congressman Crump, Bob Church has been floating along on the glory of past accomplishments.

In reality, his personal control of Negro votes in Shelby is virtually nil. Church plays ball with the Crump organization, but should it come to pass that Crump would want to vote the Negroes one way and Church another, in an election there, Church would be shown to have no votes under his control outside his family and a few employes.

His followers in Memphis are Crump men first and Republicans second. The Crump organization has done much to help many of the Republicans in Shelby. Even Federal District Judge Harry B. Anderson was given considerable help by the Crump crowd when the present mayor of New York sought to impeach the Western district jurist.

Through Bob Church there has, in past elections, been a connecting link between Congressman J. Will Taylor and the Crump organization.

The lily white faction of the Republican party in Shelby is composed of men and women who resent the leadership of a Negro, and who decline to have their votes trafficked in at so much per head, as has been charged against Church time and time again.

Reputation Overrated.

Church's reputation as a dominant factor in politics in Shelby County has always been vastly overrated. He has been able in State conventions and even national conventions of the Republican party to make a showing because of his close alignment with the powers-that-be in the State party organization, but in the matter of delivering votes, it was mostly reputation rather than delivery that counted.

In the general election of 1932 Church and his henchmen had instruction cards printed and distributed in the heavy voting Negro wards showing X's opposite the names of the Republican presidential electors and also opposite the name of Hill McAlister for governor.

During the 1932 campaign, McCall refrained from dealing in personalities throughout the campaign. It was not until the night before the election when he spoke in the Lyceum Theater at Memphis that he launched an attack on any person. That night he denounced Bob Church with all the vigor at his command.

Because of the close alignment between Church and J. Will Taylor, the national committeeman from Tennessee, and the latter's virtual domination of the Republican Executive Committee, the Church delegation will doubtless be seated at the State convention here next Tuesday. With them will also likely be seated the delegation of lily whites headed by McCall, and in that event it may be expected that McCall's formal announcement for the Republican nomination for governor will be made here.

In the 1932 campaign McCall polled 121,397 votes, while Pope, running as an independent, polled 107,026, and McAlister, the Democratic nominee, polled 168,075.

A breakdown of the 1932 votes also discloses that in the heavily Republican section of upper East Tennessee McCall received more than 25,000 fewer votes in the general election than in the primary and that the Democratic nominee was given about the same number increase in the general election.

Trade Was Disclosed.

Charges of the purchase and sale of Republican votes in the First Congressional District have been made repeatedly and a trade between Republican Congressional Nominee Carroll Reece and Democratic Gubernatorial Nominee Hill McAlister was disclosed in the now famous Reece trial at Nashville. Further disclosures may be made at Mountain City in June when another chapter of the Reece case is set for hearing.

Most Democrats and many Republicans have often discussed and openly charged that leaders of the Republican party in Tennessee didn't want a Republican governor. Congressman Taylor denied this accusation in 1932, but even with the Democratic vote split in that race, McCall was defeated because, as he charged at the Lincoln Day dinner, "of treachery within my own party."

Bob Church is scheduled to be feted here by Negro leaders. In Shelby he is not regarded as a leader even by members of his own race, but he has maintained close contact with the party leadership and retains his place in the spotlight at party meetings.

McCall's fight on Church is not because he is a Negro, but because of Church's alleged practice of dealing in patronage and votes of ignorant Negroes for his own personal benefit and reward.

Head G. O. P. State Committee

MAJ. HOWARD B. SHOFNER

MRS. ROSS A. WOODS

Maj. Shofner of Nashville is chairman of the Republican State executive committee and Mrs. Ross A. Woods of Lewisburg is vice-chairman.

The executive committee will go into session next Monday at 11 o'clock at the Read House to hear contests and dispose of other executive details before the State convention starts on Tuesday.

Maj. Shofner has been a leading figure in Republican affairs in Tennessee for many years and this year has been mentioned as a probable candidate for Governor. Mrs. Woods is the mother of Frank Woods, assistant manager of the Read House, and has long been active in the Republican party, particularly in Middle Tennessee.

BOB CHURCH LOSES TO MC CALL

World 5-22-34

G. O. P. Convention Turns To White Leader In Surprise Move

Birmingham Ala.

CALL CHURCH CRUMPITE

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—What is regarded as a shocking blow to the remnant of political power wielded by Bob Church was administered here Wednesday when John E. McCall of Memphis got the top hand at the Republican convention here in his fight for recognition to the floor and the convention voted 648 to 466 to seat McCall and his followers.

Church and his cohorts had previously gained recognition when the state executive committee voted 26 to 3 against McCall, who in 1932 was the Republican nominee for governor.

The absence of Will Taylor from the convention, supposedly because of a death in his family, is supposed to have paved the way for the crushing defeat handed the Churchmen.

Confirmation of McCall's victory was the announcement by Howard Shofner, chairman of the executive commiteee, that he would recognize the McCall group as the regular executive group of Shelby county.

Mrs. Mary Morrow Nicholson, of Memphis, niece of former Governor Edwin P. Morrow of Kentucky, charged that the Church faction was merely the left wing of the Crump Democratic organization in Memphis.

The McCall-Church squabble occupied the spotlight at the convention with those present shouting down anyone who attempted to speak for Church.

Because of action taken at the convention, it is very likely that there will be the usual primary with the candidates seeking nomination at the polls, because the convention refused to endorse aspirants for the governorship at the behest of the Will Taylor faction.

Huntsville, Ala., Times
May 16, 1934

A Real Surprise

It was hard to believe what our eyes saw this morning, when we read that the Tennessee Republican convention, meeting yesterday at Chattanooga, threw out the "black and tan" delegation of Bob Church, Memphis negro political boss, and seated the "lily white" delegates of John McCall.

The Republican bosses of the state, headed by Congressman J. Will Taylor, had jammed through the state executive committee, by a vote of 26 to 3, the day previous, a recommendation that the Church delegates be seated by the convention.

But the convention, rising up against the bosses, at the instigation of McCall, disregarded the committee by a vote of 3 to 2.

Bob Church has long been the negro political boss of Memphis. He has been the handy tool of the Crump organization, which used him to herd the negro vote to the polls in Democratic primaries, and which in turn gave him valiant support in state Republican politics.

Being thrown out of a Republican convention on his ear was a new experience for Church. His downfall is due to young John McCall, a simon pure Republican, son of the late Judge John E. McCall, who has dedicated himself to throwing Church and his element out of the Republican party in Tennessee.

DEMOCRATIC LEADER DESERTS PARTY; JOINS G. O. P. RANKS

Defender Chicago Ill.

[Special to The Chicago Defender]

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 25.—The announcement this week by George W. Chester, who has been a lifelong Democrat and political leader here, that henceforth he would align himself with the Republican party, proved to be a most important item of political news, not only in the city and state, but even to Missourians in Washington.

5-26-34

Denied a Minor Job

Chester, it is known, recently made application for a job in the internal revenue office in St. Louis, the patron of which is controlled by Democratic United States Senator Bennett Clark from Missouri, and was told he must have the indorsement of the Sixth ward committeeman for his application to receive consideration. Chester then withdrew his application.

There has been discord, it is said, between Chester and the Sixth ward Democratic committeeman since the 1932 primary election. Chester supported Senator Clark for the nomination, while the committeeman backed another candidate. The Sixth ward, where the bulk of our voters in St. Louis reside, was carried by Clark through organization by Chester.

Threats of reprisal have been frequent, but this announcement by Chester is the first break, and it is said, forecasts the return to the Republican party of many who went Democratic two years ago.

"The real problem of the Democratic organization in St. Louis," said Chester, "is how to get the Race voters on election day and then get rid of their importunities for the New Deal recognition promised them until the next election period.

Gives Good Example

"Shortly after the southern Jim Crow policy in regard to the house restaurant in Washington was announced, the same southern Jim Crow arrangement for use of the auditorium in St. Louis was made effective by the Democratic city administration."

GEORGE W. CHESTER

JEFFERSON CITY, MO.
POST TRIBUNE

SEP 19 1934

NEGRO REPUBLICAN WOMEN ORGANIZED

A large group of Negro Republican women of Jefferson City met Monday afternoon and organized a Republican Club. The club will meet every Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The following officers were elected: Mrs. A. E. Gilmore, president; Mrs. R. S. Cobb, first vice-president; Mrs. Ida Logan, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Josephine Carter, recording secretary; Mrs. J. P. Washington, treasurer.

The meeting will be held at 505 Lafayette Street. Next Monday Attorney R. S. Cobb, candidate for justice of the peace will be the guest speaker.

NEWARK, N. J.
CALL

SEP 30 1934

Negro Republicans to Meet

Negro Republicans of Essex county working in the interest of Kean, Hoffman and the local ticket have established headquarters at 368 Washington street. A massmeeting will be held Friday. George E. Bates is chairman.

NEWS

Durant Okla

21

DEMOCRATS PLAY UP NEGRO REP. CANDIDATE

The Daily Oklahoman's Political writer has this comment to make in regard to the Negro Republican candidate for Corporation Commissioner:

"The Democrats will play upon the fact that Frank Anderson, Okmulgee Negro, is on the Republican ticket as the nominee for corporation commissioner. Incidentally, the failure of Republican leaders to obtain his withdrawal is one of the question marks of the campaign. Hawk and the other would like to have him off the ticket, altho Democrats are charging Pine wants him to remain on the ballot as a bid for Negro votes."

Head G. O. P. State Committee

MAJ. HOWARD B. SHOFNER

MRS. ROSS A. WOODS

Maj. Shofner of Nashville is chairman of the Republican State executive committee and Mrs. Ross A. Woods of Lewisburg is vice-chairman.

The executive committee will go into session next Monday at 11 o'clock at the Read House to hear contests and dispose of other executive details before the State convention starts on Tuesday.

Maj. Shofner has been a leading figure in Republican affairs in Tennessee for many years and this year has been mentioned as a probable candidate for Governor. Mrs. Woods is the mother of Frank Woods, assistant manager of the Read House, and has long been active in the Republican party, particularly in Middle Tennessee.

BOB CHURCH LOSES TO MC CALL

World 5-22-34

G. O. P. Convention Turns To White Leader In Surprise Move

Birmingham Ala.

CALL CHURCH CRUMPITE

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—What is regarded as a shocking blow to the remnant of political power wielded by Bob Church was administered here Wednesday when John E. McCall of Memphis got the top hand at the Republican convention here in his fight for recognition to the floor and the convention voted 648 to 466 to seat McCall and his followers.

Church and his cohorts had previously gained recognition when the state executive committee voted 26 to 3 against McCall, who in 1932 was the Republican nominee for governor.

The absence of Will Taylor from the convention supposedly because of a death in his family, is supposed to have paved the way for the crushing defeat handed the Churchmen.

Confirmation of McCall's victory was the announcement by Howard Shofner, chairman of the executive commiteee. that he would recognize the McCall group as the regular executive group of Shelby county.

Mrs. Mary Morrow Nicholson, of Memphis, niece of former Governor Edwin P. Morrow of Kentucky, charged that the Church faction was merely the left wing of the Crump Democratic organization in Memphis.

The McCall-Church squabble occupied the spotlight at the convention with those present shouting down anyone who attempted to speak for Church.

Because of action taken at the convention, it is very likely that there will be the usual primary with the candidates seeking nomination at the polls, because the convention refused to endorse aspirants for the governorship at the behest of the Will Taylor faction.

Huntsville, Ala., Times
May 16, 1934

A Real Surprise

It was hard to believe what our eyes saw this morning, when we read that the Tennessee Republican convention, meeting yesterday at Chattanooga, threw out the "black and tan" delegation of Bob Church, Memphis negro political boss, and seated the "lily white" delegates of John McCall.

The Republican bosses of the state, headed by Congressman J. Will Taylor, had jammed through the state executive committee, by a vote of 26 to 3, the day previous, a recommendation that the Church delegates be seated by the convention.

But the convention, rising up against the bosses, at the instigation of McCall, disregarded the committee by a vote of 3 to 2.

Bob Church has long been the negro political boss of Memphis. He has been the handy tool of the Crump organization, which used him to herd the negro vote to the polls in Democratic primaries, and which in turn gave him valiant support in state Republican politics.

Being thrown out of a Republican convention on his ear was a new experience for Church. His downfall is due to young John McCall, a simon pure Republican, son of the late Judge John E. McCall, who has dedicated himself to throwing Church and his element out of the Republican party in Tennessee.

DEMOCRATIC LEADER DESERTS PARTY; JOINS G. O. P. RANKS

Defender Chicago Ill.

[Special to The Chicago Defender]

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 25.—The announcement this week by George W. Chester, who has been a lifelong Democrat and political leader here, that henceforth he would align himself with the Republican party, proved to be a most important item of political news, not only in the city and state, but even to Missourians in Washington.

Denied a Minor Job

Chester, it is known, recently made application for a job in the internal revenue office in St. Louis, the patron of which is controlled by Democratic United States Senator Bennett Clark from Missouri, and was told he must have the indorsement of the Sixth ward committeeman for his application to receive consideration. Chester then withdrew his application.

There has been discord, it is said, between Chester and the Sixth ward Democratic committeeman since the 1932 primary election. Chester supported Senator Clark for the nomination, while the committeeman backed another candidate. The Sixth ward, where the bulk of our voters in St. Louis reside, was carried by Clark through organization by Chester.

Threats of reprisal have been frequent, but this announcement by Chester is the first break, and it is said, forecasts the return to the Republican party of many who went Democratic two years ago.

"The real problem of the Democratic organization in St. Louis," said Chester, "is how to get the Race voters on election day and then get rid of their importunities for the New Deal recognition promised them until the next election period.

Gives Good Example

"Shortly after the southern Jim Crow policy in regard to the house restaurant in Washington was announced, the same southern Jim Crow arrangement for use of the auditorium in St. Louis was made effective by the Democratic city administration."

GEORGE W. CHESTER

JEFFERSON CITY, MO.
POST TRIBUNE
SEP 19 1934

NEGRO REPUBLICAN WOMEN ORGANIZED

A large group of Negro Republican women of Jefferson City met Monday afternoon and organized a Republican Club. The club will meet every Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The following officers were elected: Mrs. A. E. Gilmore, president; Mrs. R. S. Cobb, first vice-president; Mrs. Ida Logan, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Josephine Carter, recording secretary; Mrs. J. P. Washington, treasurer.

The meeting will be held at 505 Lafayette Street. Next Monday Attorney R. S. Cobb, candidate for justice of the peace will be the guest speaker.

NEWARK, N. J.
CALL

SEP 30 1934

Negro Republicans to Meet

Negro Republicans of Essex county working in the interest of Kean, Hoffman and the local ticket have established headquarters at 368 Washington street. A massmeeting will be held Friday. George E. Bates is chairman.

NEWS
Duran Okla

21

DEMOCRATS PLAY UP NEGRO REP. CANDIDATE

The Daily Oklahoman's Political writer has this comment to make in regard to the Negro Republican candidate for Corporation Commissioner:

"The Democrats will play upon the fact that Frank Anderson, Okmulgee Negro, is on the Republican ticket as the nominee for corporation commissioner. Incidentally, the failure of Republican leaders to obtain his withdrawal is one of the question marks of the campaign. Hawk and the other would like to have him off the ticket, altho Democrats are charging Pine wants him to remain on the ballot as a bid for Negro votes."

Political-1934

Party Affiliation

Republican.

DES MOINES, IA.
REGISTER

AUG 21 1934

NEGRO G. O. P. HEARS TURNER

Candidate Pledges Fairness in Dealing With Race.

Dan W. Turner, Republican candidate for governor, promised Negroes continued Republican fair dealing in an address to the Negro Republican Voters league in Union park Monday afternoon.

The former governor spoke only briefly, because he still is suffering from neuritis, and yielded to Senator William S. Beardsley of New Virginia, for the extended address.

Representative C. C. Dowell introduced Turner, predicting his election with a majority of at least 150,000 votes.

J. G. Brown, president of the league, presented Mr. Dowell.

LINCOLN IS FINALLY DEAD

This is no new announcement to us, we knew it all the time, but it has been a difficult task to convince the Republican party leaders that they needed a new stellar attraction if they expected to continue to keep the black man in the Republican party.

What we say today represents no change in our respect for the fundamental principles upon which the Republican party was founded. Nor are we ungrateful for the purposes it has served. It does, however, represent our regret that the present leaders of the Republican party stand indicted for sins of omission and commission which have resulted in its death.

For sixty-five years black America has been lulled into a sense of security and satisfaction with promises from Republican leaders and with the constant and vigorous admonition that, "Lincoln freed you and for that reason you must continue to vote the Republican ticket, regardless of its broken and abandoned promises."

Happy are we to announce that a survey of the nation since Tuesday last, that is, north of the Mason Dixon line, indicates that the black man has at last come into possession of his second emancipation and has determined that he has finished paying whatever debt may have been owed by his ancestors to Mr. Lincoln.

Their actions in this respect seem to present a solution of some of their problems, it at least indicates that they have found justification for dividing their votes to their own advantage as other citizens. The Democratic party in the North, East and West by its new policy of placing on its various tickets members of the Race for elective office is putting into practice a real genuine definition and interpretation of democracy.

There may be some who will arise to warn us to be mindful of the position we are now making. In fighting for a place in the sun for those we represent we may not have at all times been right, but we have been courageous. We must take our chances as to the light in which posterity will regard our present position; we cannot decline its judgment, nor withhold our acts from its scrutiny, believing that we are performing a public duty to ourselves, our race and nation, we shall leave our motives, and our character, now and hereafter, to its decision.

The spirit of greed and gain which has actuated for years past the Republican leaders at last places the party in position where it can find no succor from public sympathy, no cheering from a patriotic community. Its leaders have been false to the party and its principles as well as to the most substantial party supporters. We are not renouncing a two-party form of government; we firmly believe that in order for a republic to be maintained there must exist two distinct political parties endowed with character, fitness, ability and inclination to serve for the nation's best interest.

We have no hesitancy in saying, however, that we view with serious alarm the present leaders of the Republican party, in either state or nation operating under its present reactionary program and policies, ever again coming into power. The Republican cry of "save the Constitution" did not and will not stampede Republican voters back into the party.

The people are following President Roosevelt because he has and is still spending millions of dollars in an effort to save their homes and families from want and famine. The President knows that the best way "to save the Constitution" is first to save the people.

This nation spent billions for war purposes in foreign countries and loaned additional billions that will never be collected, but when President Roosevelt took over our starving nation and decided to do some spending at home to save America, the reactionary Republican leaders immediately discovered that the Constitution was being jeopardized.

The voters throughout the country are beginning to believe that the best part of the Constitution can be found in a full dinner-pail. Hungry men cannot save the Constitution and no one need despair of the Constitution when the nation is well fed.

REORGANIZATION OF G. O. P.

Senator William E. Borah of Idaho has called for a reorganization of the Republican Party, prophesying its death if such a step is not taken. He attributes the G. O. P. rout on November 6 to stop a program without any substitute being offered. Much of the party's campaign has been founded on a defense of the Constitution. "People can't eat the Constitution," the senator proclaims.

While Senator Borah's demand that there be a reorganization of the Republican Party is most timely and pertinent, it is deeply regretted that he failed to make some constructive suggestion as to how it is to be achieved. To merely criticize the G. O. P. for its past misdeeds and mistakes will never extricate it from its present lowly status and pathetic plight.

One of the chief reasons the Republican Party has been steadily losing in voting strength and influence can be attributed to its radical change on fundamental policies. Once it was the champion of human rights and as such commanded the respect and support of every section of the Union except the South. But the G. O. P. underwent a great change and became the champion of property rights. Instead of taking the offensive in social reforms its attitude was apathetic to say the least.

Even Senator Borah, who is now insistent that the Republicans reorganize, never spoke out for the rights of citizens as prescribed by the Constitution, but joined with his Republican colleagues in Congress in deliberately sidestepping and pussyfooting on vital issues so dear to the party in days gone by. And while people's can't eat the Constitution it certainly is the duty of sworn officers of the government to uphold and enforce it.

Governor Lehman, speaking at Carnegie Hall on the Saturday evening before election, said: "Laws are but printed statutes, inanimate words unless there is breathed into them the life that comes with honest intent and endeavor. It is essential that they remain among our statutes, and it is equally essential that they be enforced by men who will dedicate themselves to the converting of the bills into living instruments."

It was the Republican Party of yesteryear that enacted our Constitution. But the Republican Party of today has been remiss in breathing into it the life that was intended to insure all citizens the enjoyment of their civil rights. It is now paying the price for this gross dereliction of duty.

During the Hoover Administration the Republican Party was as anti-Negro in the Southern States as the most rabid Democrats. Principle was abandoned for expediency. This policy proved most disastrous, as nothing was gained in the South by embracing "Lily Whiteism," while thousands of Negro votes were alienated in the North and are still alienated.

If the Republican Party is to effect a complete and adequate reorganization it must once again become the champion of human rights and include the Negro in its party councils. So loyal had the Negro voter been to the G. O. P. for years that its leaders had to consider him as party chattel. All efforts to convince them that some day the race would desert the Republican Party like rats on a sinking ship—if not treated more considerately—were discounted. Maybe 1932 and 1934 have opened the eyes of these short-sighted, stubborn chieftains who thought they held the Negro vote in their vest-pocket as their private property.

LINCOLN VERY MUCH ALIVE

Recently frequent allusions are made about Lincoln in connection with the Republican party and the colored voters. These references are made by politicians, particularly the ones who are inclined toward the Democratic party. The Republican party is always alluded to as the party of Lincoln, and its leaders use the term in order to conjure the loyal support of the colored voters. In attempting to make this inert, the statement is being made that Lincoln is dead and the colored voters have repaid the debt due the party. It is recalled that even Sylvester Harris, the Mississippi colored farmer, who gained favor by telephoning President Roosevelt for help, so far forgot the deep gratitude due the memory of our Emancipator, by joining others in saying that "Lincoln is Dead." Sylvester, in this case, sold a principle for a mess of pottage. Not so with old man Thomas Flournoy of Jefferson county, this state. In the current issue of New York News, a correspondent described Sherman's march through Georgia. In gathering the facts, he visited this old man at his home. The correspondent inquired if he was a democrat. Old man Flournoy straightened up and with much spirit stated, "I never said I was no Democrat, suh. No suh, I was born a slave and the Republicans freed me in 1864. I am a republican, suh." Mr. Flournoy represents a type of loyal race men with principle, who will ever revere the memory of Lincoln and will never join the thought that he is dead. Most of us too soon forget kindness shown and join those who are full of base ingratitude.

CHURCH SMILES AS McCALL GROUP IS BEATEN AT PARLEY

Nashville, Tenn.—(ANP)—Young John McCall, the insurgent lily-white Republican whose chief aim in life is to purge the G. O. P. in Tennessee of the influence of Robert R. Church, Memphis, was forced to take another bitter dose last Saturday when the state executive committee met here.

The Church forces beat the McCall rebels by a vote of three to one on practically every issue. Every district committeeman approved by the Church faction was seated.

During the day, marked by heated verbal clashes between Congressman J. Will Taylor, Church backer, and former Governer Ben Hooper, McCall supporter, Mr. Church sat alone in the rear of the committee room, apparently paying little attention to the proceedings

STAR
WILMINGTON, DEL.

DEC 16 1934

Wants More Negro Council Members

Editor, Delmarva Star: It was indeed with profound gratification, I read Joseph Matthews' reply to my previous letter in last Sunday's issue of The Delmarva Star.

I am fully cognizant of the pitfalls and handicaps that one of my race encounters in endeavoring to educate the rank and file of my fellow Negro Republicans, and for this reason I realize it will be a slow and tedious task to accomplish that, to which we as a race are entitled. But before joining hands with Brother Matthews in this difficult ordeal I wish to first express that my references to Mr. Matthews' Biblical passages was not in a spirit of causticness, but motivated by a sincere and burning desire to substitute the practical for the theoretical as applies to the unsavory circumstances existing among us today.

Before going further let me state I am not a Republican, neither am I a Democrat. I should be classified more properly as an independent. Therefore I believe in supporting the candidate or party that will be most beneficial to my race, and since reading Mr. Matthews' admission of the enviable record made by working for the Republican party for 24 years and the meager reward of 3 months and 11 days' employment, and then the disastrous result of dismissal for no other reason than factional differerce among the white Republican leaders, thoroughly convinces me we have been supporting the wrong party.

Mr. Matthews, let me compliment you on your literary ability in expressing your true feeling regarding our race, and at the same time criticize the party we have supported for insulting the intelligence and dignity of a man of your ability by even offering you such a job as bridge-tender.

Again the inconsistency of a comparable reward, in comparison with our strength of 14,000 Negro voters.

In view of the foregoing I must disagree with you that the "Republican party has been and always will be a benefit to the voters of our race."

Why, Mr. Matthews, if you will only note the percentage of jobs held by our race in comparison with the white Republicans, you will see it is practically nil, and this, mind you, in spite of the fact we outnumber them almost two to one in voting strength.

You said at the meeting of November 26 our Negro leaders asked for nothing. Would that I were present at this meeting to put to shame those of our race who remained silent or asked for nothing, when they should have spoken and spoken loud.

I am indeed sorry I had no knowledge of this meeting, however, it may have been intended I was not apprised.

You state we can ask the new mayor for our just appointments. Nay, I say, we can demand them and we will.

In reply to your inquiry as to who sold the Independent party in November, I can readily answer two Republicans who filed the tickets, these names are on record in John L. Wright's office, and I believe them to be Dr. Stubbs and a Mr. Anderson.

Mr. Matthews, I do not criticize you, I rather sympathize with you now after learning your true mission, however, if you doubt my sincerity I shall deem it a great pleasure to debate with you the three subjects you suggest viz: Race pride, Republican party and political science. And shall willingly submit to any method you suggest in determining the winner, either on the basis of points scored or by volume of applause.

If you will just name the place and time I promise you that regardless of the outcome, I will join you in arm and go into the First, Fourth and Eighth Wards, and choose representatives of our race for Councilmanic office and then work zealously for their election.

GEORGE DUMPSON, JR.

Dec. 13, 1934.

Political - 1934

Party Affiliation.

Socialist

Socialist Party Segregates Negro Workers in the South

By CYRIL BRIGGS

NEW YORK.—Proof that the Socialist Party practices jim-crowism against the Negro masses is contained in the accompanying reproduction of a news report in last week's issue of the "New Leader," official organ of the Socialist Party, of a Socialist May Day meeting in San Antonio, Texas.

The dispatch enumerates among the speakers "C. W. Tanner of the Colored Branch"—an open admission that the Socialist leadership has segregated its Negro membership into jim-crow branches in faithful conformity to the customs and traditions of the lynch bosses of the South.

The Socialist Party also jim-crows Negroes at its mass meetings in the South. During the last presidential election campaign Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president, addressed meetings in the South where Negroes were jim-crowed and screened off from the rest of the audience. These meetings, held under the auspices of local Socialist Party groups, did not raise a whisper of protest from the Socialist Party leader.

In a statement which was never repudiated by his Party, A. F. Blon, Socialist candidate, a few days ago, for lieutenant-governor of Texas, bitterly criticized the Communist Party for nominating Negro workers on its ticket, declaring, in part:

"You know the South well enough to know that it will not be class conscious enough for at least 50 years to tolerate voting for a colored man."

More recently the "New Leader" carried an article urging white workers to "lay off the TNT" of the "race question" in the South, that is to withhold support for the rising agrarian and liberation struggles of the Negro masses.

THE NEW LEADER

San Antonio Also Celebrates May Day

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Despite a heavy rain and the fact that San Antonio boasts all too few Socialists, a large audience turned out in celebration of May Day in Fund; Raymundo Chavarria, of the Mexican Branch of Local San Antonio, and C. W. Tanner, of the Colored Branch. The main speeches were made by A. W. O'Connor and F. W. Hubbard of Local San Antonio.

There was music, group singing and entertainment. A good deal of Socialist Party Convention Upholds Jim-Crowing of Negroes in the South

Daily Worker

New York

Special to the Daily Worker

DETROIT, Mich., June 5.—The only Negro candidate for the National Committee of the Socialist Party, Frank Crosswaith, received the lowest vote of 10 candidates at the Socialist Party convention which closed here on Sunday. Thus the Socialist leaders, despite their lip-service to Negro equality, demonstrated again their lily white chauvinist position.

The low vote for Crosswaith was another clear example of the great gap between the words and deeds of the Socialist Party. When Crosswaith was nominated he received tremendous applause, and throughout the convention whenever his name was mentioned, he was loudly applauded. But when it came to actually voting for a Negro, that was another matter.

The so-called "left" groups, "militants" and revolutionary policy committee, who made a secret deal regarding a common slate, joined with the open reactionaries in failing to support Crosswaith despite the fact he is politically close to the "militants."

* * *

(Special to the Daily Worker)

DETROIT, June 3.—Segregation of Negroes into jim-crow Socialist locals in the South was upheld at a special conference on the Negro question held at the Socialist Party National Convention here. Frank Crosswaith, reactionary Negro front of the Socialist Party, acquiesced in the demands of the white Southern delegates present for the continuation of the Socialist Party policy of supporting the jim-crow traditions and practices of the landlord-capitalist slave drivers.

The conference was a striking illustration of the kind of lip-service the Socialist Party gives to the all-important Negro question. A preliminary conference was held Friday, with the two lone Negro delegates, Crosswaith, of New York, and George Streator, North Carolina (final check-up shows there are only two Negro delegates at the convention, both intellectuals, and a handful of white people present. Not a single white leader of the Socialist Party took part in either the preliminary or the main conference. Streator revealed that the National Executive Committee of the Socialist Party had not taken up the Negro question, nor prepared an agenda for discussion, but he and Crosswaith had talked it over informally.

Shut Off Discussion on Scottsboro

During yesterday's conference, one person raised the question of the Scottsboro case. Streator started to reply, but Crosswaith, realizing there was too much fire in the Scottsboro issue, shut him off.

The conference produced no program on the Negro question. It's only resolution was that the National Executive Committee should establish a sub-committee to carry on educational work on the subject.

Conferences of a similar character, with no Socialist leaders present, were held on unemployed and women's work. These conferences were obviously only gestures to allow some of the delegates to "let off steam" and create the impression that the Socialist Party was really dealing with these problems seriously.

Office Holding.

THE BLACK CABINET In The NEW DEAL

The Inside of the Outer Circle

By

EUGENE DAVIDSON

An Associated Negro Press Feature

III.

ROBERT L. VANN, POLITICIAN

Robert L. Vann is the man who received the first big appointment under the New Deal. He is the Special Assistant to the Attorney General, the "special" meaning among other things "colored." His salary is $5,200 per year. He has a one room office in the building of the Department of Justice. A young white man, named Williams, is his secretary.

His work is the general work of the office of the Attorney General assigned to him. The cases he handles have no complexion or race. To date he has made a splendid record, and being far from the dumbest lawyer in the office, he has a chance to make an exceptional record during his term in office.

Forty odd yers ago Bob Vann began life in North Carolina. His people being poor he was actually plowing at the age of seven. His rise from an infant ploughboy to Assistant to the Attorney General sounds like an Horatio Alger story, and Vann deserves credit for the high position to which his ambition has driven him.

This personal ambition is both the strength and weakness of Mr Vann. Through the strength of it he has reached enviable heights of success. But it is a selfish ambition that absolutely unfits him as a race leader.

Vann is not a race leader, or rather, he is a race leader, but there is little question as to what direction he can or might lead that race.

Good-looking, a little below medium height, with straight black hair and an Indian complexion, one is immediately impressed with the intelligence of Bob Vann. He talks forcibly. He is convincing, even though you might change your mind after leaving his presence. He has the typical air of a politician. He is a "fixer" and he likes to fix things for his political friends and for Vann. He is pleasing to talk with and is a "good fellow." He knows how to tell you just what he wants you to know and no more. He is shrewd and calculating.

He is not well liked. Those who know him best call him an "opportunist." He has illusions that he is the greatest race politician that ever came along, but likes to play a lone hand of influence.

Vann gets his political power through Joseph Guffey, National Democratic committeeman of Pennsylvania (Vann's home is Pittsburgh). He is Guffey's man and rises or falls on Guffey's strength. He is also close to Benedum a rich man of Pennsylvania, who has poured lots of money into the coffers of the Democratic party. Vann and Benedum were both Republicans a few years ago. Benedum switched to the Democratic party, and so did Vann.

Vann became a Democrat largely because his personal ambitions were not satisfied by the Republicans. He was slated for the job of Assistant to the Attorney General under the Republicans. This confessed ambition of his life was frustrated when in 1928 colored and white Hooverites went back on their promises. The reason given was that Vann had played the end against the middle. He was on the Republican payroll during the campaign, but his paper, the Pittsburgh Courier, received money from the Democrats for advertisements. Although Vann's defense was that the paper took both Republican and Democratic advertisements as a matter of business, Vann was out of the patronage picture.

So the step to the Democratic party was made easy. With the assurance that under a Democratic administration he would reach the height of his ambition, Vann became an ardent, fighting Democrat. His statement that "Three Million Negroes have turned the picture of Abraham Lincoln to the wall" is credited by veteran campaigners as being the master stroke of the campaign.

He became one of the "Big Four" of the Negro Campaign Headquarters over the objection of some that he did not have the Democratic background of the other three, Johnson, Rainey and Thompkins.

The Democrats won. Vann got his job. He immediately aspired to, or had thrust upon him the job of being a race leader in the New Deal. He was elected to chairmanship of the Advisory Committee of Secretary of Commerce Roper. With G. David Houston he had helped select this committee. When the Inter-departmental Group of Officials having to do with Negro affairs was organized by Clark Foreman, white, Advisor on Negro Affairs in the Interior Department, Dr. Foreman asked Mr. Vann to preside. He has the ear of several high positioned New Dealers. But the tragedy is that Vann is not the best type of race leader.

There are many bad things that Vann's enemies say about him, but his character and usefulness as a race leder are best judged by his own words, spoken to me in various conversations.

1. As to his personal ambitions, unfavorable to the race only when coupled with pure selfishness: "The ambition of my life has been to reach the top of my profession."

2. As to his trust-worthiness and ideas of ethics: "I did sign with Rainey, Thompkins and Johnson a plan for the organization of a Negro Affairs Department in the Commerce Department naming Dr. Johnson (Big Four Member of Negro Campaign set-up) as head. This plan was presented, but it did not seem to be getting anywhere, so I helped endorse Eugene Kinckle Jones (friend of Vann and present apartment mate) for the job."

Dr. Johnson having left things in Vann's hands went West and was not notified by Vann of any difficulties the first plan was having, and says now that he has never had an explanation.

3. As to his ideas of teamwork: "The campaign is over, isn't it?", laconically spoken in answer to a query as to what became of the Big Four. The Big Four met in Washington several months after the inauguration and laid plans for post-campaign co-operation.

4. As to his future: "I would be willing to resign my job and just sit on the sidelines and watch this New Deal work out," enthusiastically spoken after a meeting of the Inter-departmental Group had been addressed by Secretary of Commerce Roper. Mr. Roper in addressing the group, the great majority of whose members were white, had said that he judged a good adviser by his ability "to overflow in his thinking and in his sympathies so that persons outside his group will receive benefit."

Because I think Mr. Vann is making and will make a good Assistant to the Attorney General, I would not like to see him resign his position, but if he could just sit on the side-lines, in his office, and watch the New Deal work out—that would be a "consummation devoutly to be wished."

Tuskegee Institute Teacher Gets Federal Appointment

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., April 11.—(Special)—J. R. Otis, teacher of agricultural economics at Tuskegee Institute and a part-time specialist in farm management under the auspices of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, has been appointed special assistant in the development of negro subsistence homesteads projects in the Department of the Interior. His is the first Tuskegee Institute appointment in the nationwide program of the new administration to render aid to the farmers.

Mr. Otis has published two pamphlets on the status of Alabama negro farmers. His long acquaintance with, and his understanding of, the conditions affecting rural and industrial workers in this section, make him ably fitted to render valuable service to the Government agencies sponsoring the homesteads projects.

Montgomery, Ala., Advertiser
April 12, 1934

Tuskegee Institute Teacher Gets Federal Appointment

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., April 11.—(Special)—J. R. Otis, teacher of agricultural economics at Tuskegee Institute and a part-time specialist in farm management under the auspices of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, has been appointed special assistant in the development of negro subsistence homesteads projects in the Department of the Interior. His is the first Tuskegee Institute appointment in the nationwide program of the new administration to render aid to the farmers.

Mr. Otis has published two pamphlets on the status of Alabama negro farmers. His long acquaintance with, and his understanding of, the conditions affecting rural and industrial workers in this section, make him ably fitted to render valuable service to the Government agencies sponsoring the homesteads projects.

E-X-T-R-A!

Dr. Harris Is Appointed To Big Post

Courier 5-12-34

Pittsburgh, Pa.

WASHINGTON, May 10 — Dr. Abraam L. Harris of the Howard University Economics Department has been appointed a member of the Consumers Advisory Board of the NRA by General Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery administrator.

Dr. Harris is an authority on economic questions affecting Negroes. Studies in this field have been published by him in "The Encyclopedia of Social Science" and in periodicals. He is co-author with Sterling D. Stero of "The Black Worker," a study of the Negro in the American labor movement.

The degree of Doctor of Philosophy was awarded Dr. Harris by Columbia University in 1930.

News of Dr. Harris appointment was released by the National Recovery Administrator, Tuesday.

Leading Democrats Urge President Roosevelt To Rename Judge Cobb To Municipal Court Bench In D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C., (CNS)—An unusual situation developed here the past week when prominent Democrats joined in a vigorous campaign to get President Roosevelt to reappoint Judge James A. Cobb to the Municipal Court. For some months Judge Cobb has seemed to hold the inside track for reappointment having by far the greater number of the local bar, both white and colored urging his reappointment.

When the daily papers of Thursday and Friday announced that Attorney General Cummings had recommended to the Presient the appointment of Armond W. Scott to succeed Judge Cobb, prominent delegations of all the bar associations at once went to the "White House" to try and head off the Scott appoinment.

John P. Bramhall, prominent member of the local bar, chairman of the National Democratic Council and one of the recognized Democratic leaders in Washington, went to the White House on Friday to add his endorsement to the many already received favoring the reappointment of Judge Cobb.

All five of the local white daily papers seem to favor Cobb's reappointment and two have editorially endorsed him, the Evening Star saying: "Regardless of politics, Judge Cobb has won the right to continue to render valuable service to this community that has been so generally associated with his position as a highly respected member of the Municipal Court.The President would be responsive to expressed local sentiment in reappointing him."

Expressing deep concern "that Judge Cobb, a colored judge, should be picked as the one to break the precedent not to disturb the judiciary merely for political reasons," the Washington Bar Association, composed of colored attorneys, on Friday, May 4, forwarded a resolution to President Roosevelt in opposition to the naming of Armond W. Scott, colored Democrat, to the position.

Politics of Judge Cobb Viewed by John Risher

Washington Tribune
5-31-34

The following letter has been sent to The Washington Post, a local daily paper by John T. Risher, well known business man of Washington. Mr. Risher explodes a recent editorial in the Post in which the editor stated that Judge James A. Cobb was the only colored man in the District qualified to hold the judgeship of the Municipal Court. Mr. Risher also points out certain other highlights in the life of Judge Cobb which stamps him as closely identified with Republican politics.

Washington, D.C.

In the issue of the Washington Post of the twenty-second of May, 1934, there appears an editorial captioned:

"THE CASE OF JUDGE COBB"

In this editorial you criticize the Administration for its attitude toward the re-appointment of James A. Cobb as a judge of the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia on the grounds that there should be no intrusion of what you characterize the cheapest form of politics into the District Municipal Court.

When a newspaper which enjoys the respect, prestige and reputation for its fair and impartial treatment of a public question, as does the Post, it is presumed by its readers that its opinions are based upon facts resulting from a full, fair and impartial investigation. Otherwise its readers cannot receive the enlightenment to which they are entitled.

Obviously you departed from this procedure when you wrote the above mentioned editorial.

The author of this letter is not a lawyer, but he enjoys a wide and personal acquaintance with a large majority of the colored members of the Bar of the District of Columbia and he denies the accuracy of your statement when you say

> "It has been freely admitted that another colored jurist measuring up to Judge Cobb's standard can not be found in Washington."

and he denounces it as an unwarranted aspersion upon a large group of distinguished, honorable and able lawyers of the colored race and members of the Bar of the District of Columbia, who by training, experience, tact, temperament, ability, integrity and character compare with, if they do not excel, Judge Cobb.

Who is it, may I ask, that freely admits that Judge Cobb is the only colored jurist in the Dstrict of Columbia qualified to fill this position? No one that I know would make such an admission, with the possible exception of Judge Cobb.

You say, Mr. Editor, that when Judge Cobb was appointed in 1926, by President Coolidge to his present post "that it is worth remembering that at that time stiff opposition to his appointment was made by the District Republican organization on the grounds that he was not a good party man." This is not a fact, and whoever gave you the information imposed upon you. The Republican organization did not oppose the appointment of Judge Cobb in 1926. It is true that the Republican organization did not endorse Judge Cobb in 1926, and if you will consult the record on file with the Judiciary Committee of the United States Senate, made when the confirmation of Judge Cobb was before that body, you will probably discover why the Republican organization of the District of Columbia did not care to put its stamp of approval upon Cobb for this position.

I have known Judge Cobb for more than twenty years and his party loyalty has never before been questioned. He has been a rock-ribbed Republican of the rankest type and has been politically active in the interests of his party throughout this period of time, including that part of it, while he was serving in his present position. The Republican organization which you say opposed the appointment of Cobb in 1926 on the grounds that he was not a good party man, sent him as a delegate to the Republican National Convention held in the city of Chicago in 1920, and the same organization sent him as an alternate to the Republican National Convention held in the city of Cleveland, Ohio, in 192[illegible], and surely no one can say that delegates sent from the District of Columbia to the Republican National Convention bear the stigma of party irregularity.

You further say: "For his same indifference and superiority to partisan politics Judge Cobb was selected, as President Hoover noted, as a member of the commission which investigated Southern labor conditions in 193[illegible]." Again Mr. Editor, you are wrong. President Hoover did appoint Judge Cobb as a member of such a commission, but neither Judge Cobb nor the commission has functioned to this moment. I do not know why this important duty to the nation has not been discharged by this distinguished jurist, unless it be, that President Hoover did not make the appointment until after the election of President Roosevelt, and that with the defeat of his party the judge decided that he had better look after the duties for which he was being paid by the tax payers.

Still further on in your editorial you say, "But the search for another Negro judge, with the Democratic label, goes on, so that a new appointment may be used for political capital in parts of the country which know nothing of the actual local situation."

Mr. Editor, that is the very reason why Judge Cobb was appointed in 1926. It was made for political capital in parts of the country which knew nothing of the actual local situation.

Judge Cobb having been used by the Republican party for a score of years, in states where the Negro enjoye the right of suffrage, for the purpose of holding the brother in the folds of the Grand Old Party, was rewarded with the position he now holds. Then why deny the Democratic party this same privilege?

Now for a few facts.

The appointment of Judge Cobb in 1926 was made for the express purpose of aiding Senator William M. Butler in his fight for re-election to the United States Senate from Massachusetts, and for no other reason.

He was not the choice of the Bar of the District of Columbia. He was not the choice of the Republican organization of the District of Columbia, and he was not the choice of the Attorney General of the United States.

At the time of his appointment you had pretty much the same situation as we have now. One R. R. Horner, a Negro Democrat, had the endorsement of the Bar, the major portion of the Republican organization, and the approval of the Attorney General of the United States, who had recommended his appointment to President Coolidge, but because of the dire political straits of Senator Butler, and the representations made to him by the friends of Cobb, that Cobb's appointment would inure to his benefit, Horner, the choice of the people, was slaughtered upon the altar of political expediency.

After all, full faith and credit must be given to the Attorney General of the United States and to our President. They have the machinery to determine by investigation whether one who is holding office has so deported himself as to deserve re-appointment; it must also be presumed that the Department of Justice not only has information touching upon the things well done by an office holder, but information touching upon the things which should not have been done by an office holder.

After a fair and full investigation into this matter there has been an intimation that the present administration does not desire to continue Cobb as a judge of the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia, and in the absence of all of the facts who has the right to question this decision?

Leading Democrats Urge President Roosevelt To Rename Judge Cobb To Municipal Court Bench In D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C., (CNS)—An unusual situation developed here the past week when prominent Democrats joined in a vigorous campaign to get President Roosevelt to reappoint Judge James A. Cobb to the Municipal Court. For some months Judge Cobb has seemed to hold the inside track for reappointment having by far the greater number of the local bar, both white and colored urging his reappointment.

When the daily papers of Thursday and Friday announced that Attorney General Cummings had recommended to the Presient the appointment of Armond W. Scott to succeed Judge Cobb, prominent delegations of all the bar associations at once went to the "White House" to try and head off the Scott appoinment.

John P. Bramhall, prominent member of the local bar, chairman of the National Democratic Council and one of the recognized Democratic leaders in Washington, went to the White House on Friday to add his endorsement to the many already received favoring the reappointment of Judge Cobb.

All five of the local white daily papers seem to favor Cobb's reappointment and two have editorially endorsed him, the Evening Star saying: "Regardless of politics, Judge Cobb has won the right to continue to render valuable service to this community that has been so generally associated with his position as a highly respected member of the Municipal Court.The President would be responsive to expressed local sentiment in reappointing him."

Expressing deep concern "that Judge Cobb, a colored judge, should be picked as the one to break the precedent not to disturb the judiciary merely for political reasons," the Washington Bar Association, composed of colored attorneys, on Friday, May 4, forwarded a resolution to President Roosevelt in opposition to the naming of Armond W. Scott, colored Democrat, to the position.

Politics of Judge Cobb Viewed by John Risher

Washington Tribune
5-31-34

The following letter has been sent to The Washington Post, a local daily paper by John T. Risher, well known business man of Washington. Mr. Risher explodes a recent editorial in the Post in which the editor stated that Judge James A. Cobb was the only colored man in the District qualified to hold the judgeship of the Municipal Court. Mr. Risher also points out certain other highlights in the life of Judge Cobb which stamps him as closely identified with Republican politics.

Washington, D.C.

In the issue of the Washington Post of the twenty-second of May, 1934, there appears an editorial captioned:

"THE CASE OF JUDGE COBB"

In this editorial you criticize the Administration for its attitude toward the re-appointment of James A. Cobb as a judge of the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia on the grounds that there should be no intrusion of what you characterize the cheapest form of politics into the District Municipal Court.

When a newspaper which enjoys the respect, prestige and reputation for its fair and impartial treatment of a public question, as does the Post, it is presumed by its readers that its opinions are based upon facts resulting from a full, fair and impartial investigation. Otherwise its readers cannot receive the enlightenment to which they are entitled.

Obviously you departed from this procedure when you wrote the above mentioned editorial.

The author of this letter is not a lawyer, but he enjoys a wide and personal acquaintance with a large majority of the colored members of the Bar of the District of Columbia and he denies the accuracy of your statement when you say

> "It has been freely admitted that another colored jurist measuring up to Judge Cobb's standard can not be found in Washington."

and he denounces it as an unwarranted aspersion upon a large group of distinguished, honorable and able lawyers of the colored race and members of the Bar of the District of Columbia, who by training, experience, tact, temperament, ability, integrity and character compare with, if they do not excel, Judge Cobb.

Who is it, may I ask, that freely admits that Judge Cobb is the only colored jurist in the Dstrict of Columbia qualified to fill this position? No one that I know would make such an admission, with the possible exception of Judge Cobb.

You say, Mr. Editor, that when Judge Cobb was appointed in 1926, by President Coolidge to his present post "that it is worth remembering that at that time stiff opposition to his appointment was made by the District Republican organization on the grounds that he was not a good party man." This is not a fact, and whoever gave you the information imposed upon you. The Republican organization did not oppose the appointment of Judge Cobb in 1926. It is true that the Republican organization did not endorse Judge Cobb in 1926, and if you will consult the record on file with the Judiciary Committee of the United States Senate, made when the confirmation of Judge Cobb was before that body, you will probably discover why the Republican organization of the District of Columbia did not care to put its stamp of approval upon Cobb for this position.

I have known Judge Cobb for more than twenty years and his party loyalty has never before been questioned. He has been a rock-ribbed Republican of the rankest type and has been politically active in the interests of his party throughout this period of time, including that part of it, while he was serving in his present position.

The Republican organization which you say opposed the appointment of Cobb in 1926 on the grounds that he was not a good party man, sent him as a delegate to the Republican National Convention held in the city of Chicago in 1920, and the same organization sent him as an alternate to the Republican National Convention held in the city of Cleveland, Ohio, in 1924, and surely no one can say that delegates sent from the District of Columbia to the Republican National Convention bear the stigma of party irregularity.

You further say: "For his same indifference and superiority to partisan politics Judge Cobb was selected, as President Hoover noted, as a member of the commission which investigated Southern labor conditions in 1933." Again Mr. Editor, you are wrong. President Hoover did appoint Judge Cobb as a member of such a commission, but neither Judge Cobb nor the commission has functioned to this moment. I do not know why this important duty to the nation has not been discharged by this distinguished jurist, unless it be, that President Hoover did not make the appointment until after the election of President Roosevelt, and that with the defeat of his party the judge decided that he had better look after the duties for which he was being paid by the tax payers.

Washington Tribune 5-31-34

Still further on in your editorial you say, "But the search for another Negro judge, with the Democratic label, goes on, so that a new appointment may be used for political capital in parts of the country which know nothing of the actual local situation."

Mr. Editor, that is the very reason why Judge Cobb was appointed in 1926. It was made for political capital in parts of the country which knew nothing of the actual local situation.

Judge Cobb having been used by the Republican party for a score of years, in states where the Negro enjoye the right of suffrage, for the purpose of holding the brother in the folds of the Grand Old Party, was rewarded with the position he now holds. Then why deny the Democratic party this same privilege?

Now for a few facts.

The appointment of Judge Cobb in 1926 was made for the express purpose of aiding Senator William M. Butler in his fight for re-election to the United States Senate from Massachusetts, and for no other reason.

He was not the choice of the Bar of the District of Columbia. He was not the choice of the Republican organization of the District of Columbia, and he was not the choice of the Attorney General of the United States.

At the time of his appointment you had pretty much the same situation as we have now. One R. R. Horner, a Negro Democrat, had the endorsement of the Bar, the major portion of the Republican organization, and the approval of the Attorney General of the United States, who had recommended his appointment to President Coolidge, but because of the dire politlcal straits of Senator Butler, and the representations made to him by the friends of Cobb, that Cobb's appointment would inure to his benefit, Horner, the choice of the people, was slaughtered upon the altar of political expediency.

After all, full faith and credit must be given to the Attorney General of the United States and to our President. They have the machinery to determine by investigation whether one who is holding office has so deported himself as to deserve re-appointment; it must also be presumed that the Department of Justice not only has information touching upon the things well done by an office holder, but information touching upon the things which should not have been done by an office holder.

After a fair and full investigation into this matter there has been an intimation that the present administration does not desire to continue Cobb as a judge of the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia, and in the absence of all of the facts who has the right to question this decision?

Political - 1934

Office Holding

MISS BYRD MAY GET CONSUMERS' BOARD POSITION

Lost Office with NRA After Only 4 Months of Activity.

COULDN'T SEE GEN. JOHNSON

Afro-American

Investigation of Industry J.C. Curbed.

1-27-34

(AFRO Bureau)

WASHINGTON. — Reports that Miss Mabel Byrd, former director in the bureau of research and planning in the NRA headquarters here, will shortly be appointed to the national consumers' board headed by Mrs. Mary A. Rumsey continued to circulate this week.

Miss Byrd's office, unit 10, in the department of research and planning of the NRA national set-up was closed and the work she was assigned discontinued on last December 15, but since then it has appeared that a white man by the name of Ernest Boyd, has displaced Miss Byrd, under the head of the Labor Advisory Board.

The final report that was tendered by Miss Byrd was made to the assistant chief of the division of research and planning, Victor Von Szeliski. It will be remembered that the unit 10 division in which Miss Byrd worked, was headed by Dr. M. Sachs, white who resigned following alleged differences with General Johnson NRA administrator. The duties of this department were to ferret out violators of the codes.

The AFRO has learned from a reliable source that Miss Byrd made frequent trips to the office of General Johnson, only after Alvin Brown, white, executive secretary called her on December 26 and stated that the general had just read her final report made to Mr Szeliski, and that he would see her at 10 a.m., December 27.

The AFRO learned that Miss Byrd arrived for her appointment but the clerk told her the time was 4 p.m., and later told her the general was at the President's office and for her to report the following day. She reported the following day, talked with Mrs. Robinson of the general's office, and her statements were to the effect that the general was well pleased with her report, and that he would see that she was placed upon the consumers' advisory board staff Miss Byrd, it has been reported has not yet been able to see General Johnson.

Worked Four Months

Just four months after the appointed unit went into effect it was closed. There were many pertinent and important studies of the Negro labor problem that were proposed by the unit 10 but they received no support from the NRA departments, it is said.

The appointment of Miss Byrd was made by Dr. M. Sachs, who knew of her ability. At the time she was appointed she was in the research department of the University of Chicago, an assistant to Professor Paul Douglas.

The National Recovery Board in a meeting is said to have decided that no northern Negro should be sent to investigate Southern industry conditions. This, the AFRC was informed, played an important part in the closing of unit 10

Miss Byrd Mum

Questioned about the matter Miss Byrd told the AFRO she did not care to make a statement, as the matter was still pending. She admitted, however, that General Johnson's office had made overtures to Mrs. Rumsey, concerning her appointment to the National Consumers' Board.

Forrester Washington Appointed Assistant To Director of C.W.A.

Age

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Additional protection for the Negro's interests in the "New Deal" was provided for by the appointment of Forrester B Washington, director of the Atlanta School of Social Work, as an assistant to Harry L. Hopkins, national director of the CWA, which administers the government's program of civil works and relief. 2-10-34

Mr. Washington's title will be Director of Negro Work of the Federal Emergency Relief and Civil Works Administrations and his duties will concern all phases of relief and civil works as they affect Negroes in all parts of the country. While his headquarters will be in Washington, he will continue as director of the Atlanta School of Social Work, of which he has been the head since 1927.

New York

The appointment of Mr. Washington to this important national post is a recognition of his specialized training in social work and his distinguished career in that field. A native of Salem, Mass., he is a graduate of Tufts College and Columbia University and an alumnus of the graduate school of Harvard. Finishing Columbia with an M.A. degree in 1917, he immediately became director of the Detroit Urban League; then supervisor of Negro economics in the Federal Department of Labor; then director of the research bureau of the Associated Charities of Detroit, and in 1923 executive of the Armstrong Association of Philadelphia, where he remained until called to head the newly organized School of Social Work in Atlanta.

Mr. Washington's new position will afford extraordinary opportunities for wide and effective service in the national recovery program.

D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C.
NEWS

FEB 15 1934

Colored Judge of D. C. Municipal Court Strongly Indorsed for Re-Appointment

Judge James Adlai Cobb, colored judge of the District Municipal Court, comes up for reappointment on March 18. Doubt as to his reappointment is small. He has been unanimously indorsed for another term by the District Bar Association and the colored bar organization. In addition he bears the stamp of approval of almost all Washington business men's associations.

Cobb's party label is Republican, but he started on the liberal path way back with Theodore Roosevelt's Bull Moosers. He has been identified with the Progressives ever since.

PLENTY OF BACKING

Daily Cobb receives letters from organizations and citizens in Washington and nearby Maryland and Virginia, enclosing copies of indorsements they have sent to the Administration.

Cobb was first appointed to the municipal bench in 1926 under President Coolidge.

It is said that only four times since he has been on the bench have his decisions been reversed by a higher court.

Cobb is a mild, unassuming man extremely proud in a modest way of his career, which reads like a story book. He was born in a small Louisiana town in 1876 and at the age of eight went to seek his own way in the world, penniless and without prospects.

At that age he started to work, paid his way thru school, and then came to Washington to attend Howard University. Here he received bachelor's and master's degrees in law and went into private practice.

He was befriended in his youth by Booker T. Washington, and thru Washington came under the wing of Theodore Roosevelt. His friendship with Roosevelt is his most pleasant memory, Cobb says.

PRAISED BY T. R.

Roosevelt took an active interest in the career of the young colored lawyer and appointed him a special assistant to the Attorney General in charge of pure food law prosecutions.

He remained in the Justice Department under President Wilson until 1915. When he left Theodore Roosevelt congratulated him on the fine impression he had made with his associates. He established a fine record on convictions, defeating many large corporation lawyers and forcing strict adherence to the pure food statutes.

He is on the board of directors of Howard University, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, a local bank and is a member of the Masons and Elks.

Judge Cobb is unmarried and lives at 1732 S-st nw.

The only known candidates for Judge Cobb's position are Armond Scott, colored lawyer practicing before Police and District Supreme courts, and Emery Smith, former preacher and Howard University publicity man.

Thompkins and Cobb

Appointment of Dr. William J. Thompkins editor of the Kansas City American, as recorder of deeds in the District of Columbia gives a $5,600 Federal plum to the third member of the Big Four committee who managed Mr. Roosevelt's Presidential campaign Robert L. Vann, of Pittsburgh, and Dr. J. H. Johnson, of Columbus, preceded Dr. Thompkins.

Afro-American

The fourth member, Julian Rainey of Boston, appears well satisfied with the political post he holds there and has no hankering for Washington.

3-24-34

This is the first Roosevelt appointment of a colored person that requires Senatorial confirmation.

Just around the corner is another. The term of Judge James A. Cobb of the municipal bench of the District of Columbia, has expired. He is a Republican, but he has made an enviable record and the AFRO-AMERICAN hopes that President Roosevelt will re-appoint him.

Politics may well be waived in this case to preserve for the District the efficiency and the experience gained by Judge Cobb in his eight years on the bench. Moreover there is ample precedent for this in Woodrow Wilson's re-appointment of Judge Cobb's predecessor, Republican Judge Robert H. Terrell.

a campus work on the school campus for tuition. Approximately 200 students are now being aided by the university's new plan. 4-8-34

Political - 1934

Office Holding

MISS BYRD MAY GET CONSUMERS' BOARD POSITION

Lost Office with NRA After Only 4 Months of Activity.

COULDN'T SEE GEN. JOHNSON

Afro-American

Investigation of Industry J.C. Curbed.

1-27-34

(AFRO Bureau)

WASHINGTON. — Reports that Miss Mabel Byrd, former director in the bureau of research and planning in the NRA headquarters here, will shortly be appointed to the national consumers' board headed by Mrs. Mary Rumsey continued to circulate this week.

Miss Byrd's office, unit 10, in the department of research and planning of the NRA national set-up was closed and the work she was assigned discontinued on last December 15, but since then it has appeared that a white man by the name of Ernest Boyd, has displaced Miss Byrd, under the head of the Labor Advisory Board.

The final report that was tendered by Miss Byrd was made to the assistant chief of the division of research and planning, Victor Von Szeliski. It will be remembered that the unit 10 division in which Miss Byrd worked, was headed by Dr. M. Sachs, white who resigned following alleged differences with General Johnson NRA administrator. The duties of this department were to ferret out violators of the codes.

The AFRO has learned from a reliable source that Miss Byrd made frequent trips to the office of General Johnson, only after Alvin Brown, white, executive secretary called her on December 26 and stated that the general had just read her final report made to Mr Szeliski, and that he would see her at 10 a.m., December 27.

The AFRO learned that Miss Byrd arrived for her appointment but the clerk told her the time was 4 p.m., and later told her the general was at the President's office and for her to report the following day. She reported the following day, talked with Mrs. Robinson of the general's office, and her statements were to the effect that the general was well pleased with her report, and that he would see that she was placed upon the consumers' advisory board staff Miss Byrd, it has been reported has not yet been able to see General Johnson.

Worked Four Months

Just four months after the appointed unit went into effect it was closed. There were many pertinent and important studies of the Negro labor problem that were proposed by the unit 10 but they received no support from the NRA departments, it is said.

The appointment of Miss Byrd was made by Dr. M. Sachs, who knew of her ability. At the time she was appointed she was in the research department of the University of Chicago, an assistant to Professor Paul Douglas.

The National Recovery Board in a meeting is said to have decided that no northern Negro should be sent to investigate Southern industry conditions. This, the AFRO was informed. played an important part in the closing of unit 10

Miss Byrd Mum

Questioned about the matter Miss Byrd told the AFRO she did not care to make a statement, as the matter was still pending. She admitted, however, that General Johnson's office had made overtures to Mrs. Rumsey, concerning her appointment to the National Consumers' Board.

Forrester Washington Appointed Assistant To Director of CWA

Age

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Additional protection for the Negro's interests in the "New Deal" was provided for by the appointment of Forrester B Washington, director of the Atlanta School of Social Work, as an assistant to Harry L. Hopkins, national director of the CWA, which administers the government's program of civil works and relief. 2-10-34

Mr. Washington's title will be Director of Negro Work of the Federal Emergency Relief and Civil Works Administrations and his duties will concern all phases of relief and civil works as they affect Negroes in all parts of the country. While his headquarters will be in Washington, he will continue as director of the Atlanta School of Social Work, of which he has been the head since 1927.

New York

The appointment of Mr. Washington to this important national post is a recognition of his specialized training in social work and his distinguished career in that field. A native of Salem, Mass., he is a graduate of Tufts College and Columbia University and an alumnus of the graduate school of Harvard. Finishing Columbia with an M.A. degree in 1917, he immediately became director of the Detroit Urban League; then supervisor of Negro economics in the Federal Department of Labor; then director of the research bureau of the Associated Charities of Detroit, and in 1923 executive of the Armstrong Association of Philadelphia, where he remained until called to head the newly organized School of Social Work in Atlanta.

Mr. Washington's new position will afford extraordinary opportunities for wide and effective service in the national recovery program.

D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C.
NEWS

FEB 15 1934

Colored Judge of D. C. Municipal Court Strongly Indorsed for Re-Appointment

Judge James Adlai Cobb, colored judge of the District Municipal Court, comes up for reappointment on March 18. Doubt as to his reappointment is small. He has been unanimously indorsed for another term by the District Bar Association and the colored bar organization. In addition he bears the stamp of approval of almost all Washington business men's associations.

Cobb's party label is Republican, but he started on the liberal path way back with Theodore Roosevelt's Bull Moosers. He has been identified with the Progressives ever since.

PLENTY OF BACKING

Daily Cobb receives letters from organizations and citizens in Washington and nearby Maryland and Virginia, enclosing copies of indorsements they have sent to the Administration.

Cobb was first appointed to the municipal bench in 1926 under President Coolidge.

It is said that only four times since he has been on the bench have his decisions been reversed by a higher court.

Cobb is a mild, unassuming man extremely proud in a modest way of his career, which reads like a story book. He was born in a small Louisiana town in 1876 and at the age of eight went to seek his own way in the world, penniless and without prospects.

At that age he started to work, paid his way thru school, and then came to Washington to attend Howard University. Here he received bachelor's and master's degrees in law and went into private practice.

He was befriended in his youth by Booker T. Washington, and thru Washington came under the wing of Theodore Roosevelt. His friendship with Roosevelt is his most pleasant memory, Cobb says.

PRAISED BY T. R.

Roosevelt took an active interest in the career of the young colored lawyer and appointed him a special assistant to the Attorney General in charge of pure food law prosecutions.

He remained in the Justice Department under President Wilson until 1915. When he left Theodore Roosevelt congratulated him on the fine impression he had made with his associates. He established a fine record on convictions, defeating many large corporation lawyers and forcing strict adherence to the pure food statutes.

He is on the board of directors of Howard University, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, a local bank and is a member of the Masons and Elks.

Judge Cobb is unmarried and lives at 1732 S-st nw.

The only known candidates for Judge Cobb's position are Armond Scott, colored lawyer practicing before Police and District Supreme courts, and Emery Smith, former preacher and Howard University publicity man.

Thompkins and Cobb

Appointment of Dr. William J. Thompkins, editor of the Kansas City American, as recorder of deeds in the District of Columbia, gives a $5,600 Federal plum to the third member of the Big Four committee who managed Mr. Roosevelt's Presidential campaign Robert L. Vann, of Pittsburgh, and Dr. J. H. Johnson, of Columbus, preceded Dr. Thompkins.

Afro-American

The fourth member, Julian Rainey of Boston, appears well satisfied with the political post he holds there and has no hankering for Washington.

This is the first Roosevelt appointment of a colored person that requires Senatorial confirmation.

Just around the corner is another. The term of Judge James A. Cobb of the municipal bench of the District of Columbia, has expired. He is a Republican, but he has made an enviable record and the AFRO-AMERICAN hopes that President Roosevelt will re-appoint him.

Politics may well be waived in this case to preserve for the District the efficiency and the experience gained by Judge Cobb in his eight years on the bench. Moreover there is ample precedent for this in Woodrow Wilson's re-appointment of Judge Cobb's predecessor, Republican Judge Robert H. Terrell.

a commers students work on the school campus for tuition. Approximately 200 students are now being aided by the university's new plan. 4-8-34

Fight for Municipal Judgeship Down to Judge Cobb and Scott

White Lawyers Circulate Petition Among Group to Aid Present Incumbent

SCOTT HAS BACKING OF LOCAL DEMOCRATS

Truly Hatchett Comes Out for Post New Held by Jefferson Coage

By GARLAND MACKEY

The fight for the municipal judgeship assumed red hot proportions here this week and narrowed down to two candidates. Judge James A. Cobb, who is holding the position and whose term expires this summer, and Attorney Armond W. Scott, well known member of the local bar and prominent Democrat.

Judge Cobb is in the stragetic position of being on the bench, and having the endorsement of the white bar association. On the other hand Attorney Scott has the endorsement of the leading local Democrats and he also has in his favor the long years of work in that party when it was unpopular to be a Democrat.

Being Republican is Handicap

Although he has made an enviable record on the bench, Judge Cobb and his friends make no bones of the fact that he is a Republican and took an active part in the Hoover campaign against President Roosevelt.

Close friends of the jurist say the latter is the greatest obstacle to overcome.

It developed this week that a white lawyer was circulating a petition among white lawyers for white lawyers only asking endorsement of Judge Cobb. Colored lawyers were not asked to sign this document. In fact they were told that their signatures were not wanted on it.

Gets New York O.K.

Attorney Scott went to New York last week where he addressed a gathering composed of all of the Elks in Greater New York. He came back to Washington loaded down with a suit case full of endorsements from leading Democrats from the state of the President. While in New York Attorney Scott lauded Postmaster General and the administration. Mr. Scott can make such a speech, but it would be rather inconsistent for Judge Cobb to praise the administration when he took the stand he did last fall for Hoover and against Roosevelt.

Appointment Expected Soon

The local Democratic highups have put their stamp of approval on Mr. Scott for the job and he also has the backing of several powerful senators, including those from North Carolina and others on important District committees.

The appointment of a judge for the Municipal Court is expected from day to day and in the meantime friends of the candidates are bending every effort to make the most of the short time.

Smith Seeks Post

Emory B. Smith, former director of publicity for Howard University, is in the running, but his opposition is thought to mean little. It was reported that he preached at Metropolitan A.M.E. Church a few Sundays ago and asked the congregation to endorse him for the judgeship, but the pastor of the church, the Rev. William H. Thomas denied this rumor.

Smith was endorsed by the local colored bar association for judge of the Police Court, several weeks ago and Judge Cobb was endorsed for the Municipal Court; later the association split on its selection and sought to rescind the action, but nothing was done.

It was pointed out by some members of the assocaition that Mr. Smith would use the Police Court endorsement to aid him in the fight for the Municipal Court post.

Sees Vann's Support

Two of the local daily papers have been giving considerable publicity to Judge Cobb and his candidacy, but on the other hand the leading colored papers have leaned towards Mr. Scott. A Pittsburgh paper owned by Robert L. Vann, a "big four" Democrat and who holds a responsible position in the Department of Justice, came out last week with columns of space devoted to Attorney Scott and his New York address.

From the point of view of an onlooker, Mr. Scott has the backing of those on the inside and the powers, but Judge Cobb is in the job which is half of the battle.

Coage on Spot

Another local post that is very much conveted by Democrats is that of Recorder of Deeds now held by Jefferson Coage, a Republican. Mr. Coage is saying little, but is playing a game of watchful waiting.

Democrats from all angles are trying to unseat him and place one of the party in the job. Truly Hatchett, Baltimore real estate man, is one of the outstanding candidates for this position. Mr. Hatchett is seen in Washington quite often and is said to have the backing of Tom Smith, Baltimore boss and Democratic leader, as well as all of the Maryland senators and representatives.

Clever Strategy

Mr. Coage is another who worked for the Hoover regime against Roosevelt.

Friends of these Republican office holders are playing up to the "fact" that they should stay in because if they are put out the positions may be "lost" to the colored race. This is a clever bit of strategedy, but leading Democrats say it will not work.

DR. THOMPKINS SECURES POST OF RECORDER

Senate Confirms Appointment Wednesday of K. C. Physician

WASHINGTON. — Confirmation of the appointment of Dr. William J. Thompkins, Kansas City, as recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia, was made by the United States Senate last Wednesday.

His name was recommended for the post by President Roosevelt and was given to the Senate, March 19. The Kansas City physician becomes one of the first members of President Roosevelt's "Negro cabinet." His is the first confirmation to be made by the senate of a Negro.

The position pays $5,600 a year and there are approximateely 90 persons under the supervision of the recorder's office. In the 1932 national campaign. Dr. Thompkins was active in behalf of President Roosevelt. He was Negro campaign manager for the western states and was a member of the now historic "Big Four" composed of Robert L. Vann, Julian Rainey, Dr. Joseph L. Johnson and himself.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.
MORNING PUBLIC LEDGER
APR 8 1934

U. S. AIMS TO HELP NEGROES OF SOUTH

Hundreds of Complaints Lead to Assembly of Corps of Race's Experts

IN 4 MAJOR DEPARTMENTS

By JOSEPH V. BAKER

Washington, April 7.—The United States Government is receiving complaints of discrimination against Southern Negroes in every phase of its recovery program to the extent of nearly 200 letters a day. In an effort to do something about conditions among that group, the Administration has assembled here the most outstanding corps of Negro experts ever in Federal employ.

Four Cabinet departments and virtually every unit of the emergency set-up draw on at least one Negro advisor, and the Senate now has before it for confirmation the name of Dr. William Thompkins, who, despite the fact that his official position will be that of recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia, will figure largely in advising the Administration on Negro affairs in the Southwest. If he is confirmed, and it seems likely that he will be, he will be the eleventh Negro holding a major position under Democratic appointment.

The most recent Negro appointment is that of Lieutenant Lawrence Oxley, former director of Negro welfare in North Carolina, to the position of conciliator in the Department of Labor. His work, as assigned by Secretary Perkins, is that of representing Negro labor in any outbursts and "devising ways and means whereby the workers of that group may figure more equally in the whole recovery program." The new appointee is a native of Boston, but has spent the last fifteen years as a teacher and social worker in the South. He resigned a professorship at St. Augustine College, Raleigh, to take over North Carolina's work among Negroes.

Lieutenant Oxley's Experience

In the last six years he has been instrumental in having fifteen death sentences to Negroes commuted to life imprisonment and throughout the first years of the depression was virtually in sole charge of North Carolina's relief work among its Negro citizenry. As an attache of the morale unit he served more than a year with the A. E. F. General Staff in France during the World War. His position is, perhaps, the most permanent of the entire "Black Cabinet," as the group of Negro workers are becoming known here in the Capital.

Most of the hundreds of complaints, however, are sent immediately to the desk of Forrester B. Washington, president of the Atlanta School of Social Work, who is an advisor and director of Negro work for the entire EWA under Harry L. Hopkins. Noted for his bluntness, which distinguished him as head of the Armstrong Association, Philadelphia, the Negro director is taxing his entire office set-up to late hours in an effort to bring relief to Negroes in Alabama, Mississippi and Georgia, where most of the complaints are originating. Pennsylvania has filed only nine Negro complaints, all of which had to do with political reprisals.

Other Negro attaches of the several departments include Eugene Kinckle Jones, head of National Urban League, New York, on leave, who is adviser to Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper; Robert S. Vann, Pittsburgh, who is a special assistant to the Attorney General; Dr. Henry Hunt, head of the Fort Valley (Ga.) Industrial School one of the group's foremost agriculturists, who is an assistant to the Governor of AAA; Theophilus Mann, Chicago, legal adviser for PWA; William Hastie, also a PWA legal man; Dr. Robert Weaver, assistant to Clarke Foreman, adviser on the economic status of the Negro, Interior Department; John P. Murchinson, co-ordinator in the Division of Homestead Subsistence, and Earl Moses, research director for FERA.

Big Building Program Begun

Despite the depression and budgets, Howard University, the Government-supported school here, has begun a building program under special public works appropriations which will almost reach the $2,000,000 mark before the last unit is completed. Work has already got under way on the new education-classroom building, the largest unit in the program, which will also give the university a new library building, a chemistry hall and a new Freedmen's Bureau under President Andrew Johnson. Dr. Johnson succeeded the prominent white churchman, the Rev. Dr. J. Stanley Durkee, as president in 1926.

The school has just inaugurated a special program of student aid full and part scholarships. The Interior Department's budget carried a special provision of $860,000 for completion of the school's heating plant. The school's current 7½ per cent of the school's current income and optional donations. A committee of seven faculty members, appointed by Dr. Johnson, pass on scholarship applications. The first requisites for which are "A" rating in college averages for full scholarships and at least "C" averages for work scholarships. The funds for this effort are raised, in part, by the setting aside of Under the latter, the student does

Fight for Municipal Judgeship Down to Judge Cobb and Scott

White Lawyers Circulate Petition Among Group to Aid Present Incumbent

SCOTT HAS BACKING OF LOCAL DEMOCRATS

Truly Hatchett Comes Out for Post New Held by Jefferson Coage

By GARLAND MACKEY

The fight for the municipal judgeship assumed red hot proportions here this week and narrowed down to two candidates. Judge James A. Cobb, who is holding the position and whose term expires this summer, and Attorney Armond W. Scott, well known member of the local bar and prominent Democrat.

Judge Cobb is in the stragetic position of being on the bench and having the endorsement of the white bar association. On the other hand Attorney Scott has the endorsement of the leading local Democrats and he also has in his favor the long years of work in that party when it was unpopular to be a Democrat.

Being Republican is Handicap

Although he has made an enviable record on the bench, Judge Cobb and his friends make no bones of the fact that he is a Republican and took an active part in the Hoover campaign against President Roosevelt.

Close friends of the jurist say the latter is the greatest obstacle to overcome.

It developed this week that a white lawyer was circulating a petition among white lawyers for white lawyers only asking endorsement of Judge Cobb. Colored lawyers were not asked to sign this document. In fact they were told that their signatures were not wanted on it.

Gets New York O.K.

Attorney Scott went to New York last week where he addressed a gathering composed of all of the Elks in Greater New York. He came back to Washington loaded down with a suit case full of endorsements from leading Democrats from the state of the President. While in New York Attorney Scott lauded Postmaster General and the administration. Mr. Scott can make such a speech, but it would be rather inconsistent for Judge Cobb to praise the administration when he took the stand he did last fall for Hoover and against Roosevelt.

Appointment Expected Soon

The local Democratic highups have put their stamp of approval on Mr. Scott for the job and he also has the backing of several powerful senators, including those from North Carolina and others on important District committees.

The appointment of a judge for the Municipal Court is expected from day to day and in the meantime friends of the candidates are bending ever effort to make the most of the short time.

Smith Seeks Post

Emory B. Smith, former director of publicity for Howard University, is in the running, but his opposition is thought to mean little. It was reported that he preached at Metropolitan A.M.E. Church a few Sundays ago and asked the congregation to endorse him for the judgeship, but the pastor of the church, the Rev. William H. Thomas denied this rumor.

Smith was endorsed by the local colored bar association for judge of the Police Court, several weeks ago and Judge Cobb was endorsed for the Municipal Court; later the association split on its selection and sought to rescind the action, but nothing was done.

It was pointed out by some members of the assocaition that Mr. Smith would use the Police Court endorsement to aid him in the fight for the Municipal Court post.

Sees Vann's Support

Two of the local daily papers have been giving considerable publicity to Judge Cobb and his candidacy, but on the other hand the leading colored papers have leaned towards Mr. Scott. A Pittsburgh paper owned by Robert L. Vann, a "big four" Democrat and who holds a responsible position in the Department of Justice, came out last week with columns of space devoted to Attorney Scott and his New York address.

From the point of view of an onlooker, Mr. Scott has the backing of those on the inside and the powers, but Judge Cobb is in the job which is half of the battle.

Coage on Spot

Another local post that is very much convcted by Democrats is that of Recorder of Deeds now held by Jefferson Coage, a Republican. Mr. Coage is saying little, but is playing a game of watchful waiting.

Democrats from all angles are trying to unseat him and place one of the party in the job. Truly Hatchett, Baltimore real estate man, is one of the outstanding candidates for this position. Mr. Hatchett is seen in Washington quite often and is said to have the backing of Tom Smith, Baltimore boss and Democratic leader, as well as all of the Maryland senators and representatives.

Clever Strategy

Mr. Coage is another who worked for the Hoover regime against Roosevelt.

Friends of these Republican office holders are playing up to the "fact" that they should stay in because if they are put out the positions may be "lost" to the colored race. This is a clever bit of stragedy, but leading Democrats say it will not work.

DR. THOMPKINS SECURES POST OF RECORDER

Senate Confirms Appointment Wednesday of K. C. Physician

WASHINGTON. — Confirmation of the appointment of Dr. William J. Thompkins, Kansas City, as recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia, was made by the United States Senate last Wednesday.

His name was recommended for the post by President Roosevelt and was given to the Senate, March 19. The Kansas City physician becomes one of the first members of President Roosevelt's "Negro cabinet." His is the first confirmation to be made by the senate of a Negro.

The position pays $5,600 a year and there are approximateely 90 persons under the supervision of the recorder's office. In the 1932 national campaign. Dr. Thompkins was active in behalf of President Roosevelt. He was Negro campaign manager for the western states and was a member of the now historic "Big Four" composed of Robert L. Vann, Julian Rainey, Dr. Joseph L. Johnson and himself.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.
MORNING PUBLIC LEDGER
APR 8 1934

U. S. AIMS TO HELP NEGROES OF SOUTH

Hundreds of Complaints Lead to Assembly of Corps of Race's Experts

IN 4 MAJOR DEPARTMENTS

By JOSEPH V. BAKER

Washington, April 7.—The United States Government is receiving complaints of discrimination against Southern Negroes in every phase of its recovery program to the extent of nearly 200 letters a day. In an effort to do something about conditions among that group, the Administration has assembled here the most outstanding corps of Negro experts ever in Federal employ.

Four Cabinet departments and virtually every unit of the emergency set-up draw on at least one Negro advisor, and the Senate now has before it for confirmation the name of Dr. William Thompkins, who, despite the fact that his official position will be that of recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia, will figure largely in advising the Administration on Negro affairs in the Southwest. If he is confirmed, and it seems likely that he will be, he will be the eleventh Negro holding a major position under Democratic appointment.

The most recent Negro appointment is that of Lieutenant Lawrence Oxley, former director of Negro welfare in North Carolina, to the position of conciliator in the Department of Labor. His work, as assigned by Secretary Perkins, is that of representing Negro labor in any outbursts and "devising ways and means whereby the workers of that group may figure more equally in the whole recovery program." The new appointee is a native of Boston, but has spent the last fifteen years as a teacher and social worker in the South. He resigned a professorship at St. Augustine College, Raleigh, to take over North Carolina's work among Negroes.

Lieutenant Oxley's Experience

In the last six years he has been instrumental in having fifteen death sentences to Negroes commuted to life imprisonment and throughout the first years of the depression was virtually in sole charge of North Carolina's relief work among its Negro citizenry. As an attache of the morale unit he served more than a year with the A. E. F. General Staff in France during the World War. His position is, perhaps, the most permanent of the entire "Black Cabinet," as the group of Negro workers are becoming known here in the Capital.

Most of the hundreds of complaints, however, are sent immediately to the desk of Forrester B. Washington, president of the Atlanta School of Social Work, who is an advisor and director of Negro work for the entire EWA under Henry L. Hopkins. Noted for his bluntness, which distinguished him as head of the Armstrong Association, Philadelphia, the Negro director is taxing his entire office set-up to late hours in an effort to bring relief to Negroes in Alabama, Mississippi and Georgia, where most of the complaints are originating. Pennsylvania has filed only nine Negro complaints, all of which had to do with political reprisals.

Other Negro attaches of the several departments include Eugene Kinckle Jones, head of National Urban League, New York, on leave, who is adviser to Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper; Robert S. Vann, Pittsburgh, who is a special assistant to the Attorney General; Dr. Henry Hunt, head of the Fort Valley (Ga.) Industrial School one of the group's foremost agriculturists, who is an assistant to the Governor of AAA; Theophilus Mann, Chicago, legal adviser for PWA; William Hastie, also a PWA legal man; Dr. Robert Weaver, assistant to Clarke Foreman, adviser on the economic status of the Negro Interior Department; John P. Murchinson, co-ordinator in the Division of Homestead Subsistence, and Earl Moses, research director for FERA.

Big Building Program Begun

Despite the depression and budgets, Howard University, the Government-supported school here, has begun a building program under special public works appropriations which will almost reach the $2,000,000 mark before the last unit is completed. Work has already got under way on the new education-classroom building, the largest unit in the program, which will also give the university a new library building, a chemistry hall and a new Freedmen's Bureau under President Andrew Johnson. Dr. Johnson succeeded the prominent white churchman, the Rev. Dr. J. Stanley Durkee, as president in 1926.

The school has just inaugurated a special program of student aid through full and part scholarships. The funds for this effort are raised, by the setting aside of 7½ per cent of the school's current income and optional donations. A committee of seven faculty members, appointed by Dr. Johnson, pass on scholarship applications. The first requisites for which are "A" rating in college averages for full scholarships and at least "C" averages for work scholarships. Under the latter, the student does

Political - 1934

Office Holding.

D.C.

"INSIDE STORY" OF COBB-SCOTT FEUD REVEALS AMAZING FACTS; G.O.P. TRIES TO DOMINATE NEW DEAL POLICY IN D.C.

Facts Dug Up Show District Bar Association, Which Endorsed Judge Cobb, Has 19 Republican Office-holders and 4 Democrats—Other Subtle Motives Seen In Move.

By Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 31—Down here at the national capital, where the all absorbing subject is jobs and more jobs, one hears little or nothing except the much talked of possibility of a Democrat succeeding Judge Cobb as a member of the Municipal Court Bench. All sorts of reports come in for discussion. Republicans are slow to believe that the Democrats are in power, despite the year or more of Roosevelt rule.

Cobb as a Republican, he is reported to have contributed to the Hoover Campaign and then later to the Roosevelt inauguration. Yet, his friends try to say that he has not dabbled in politics. Where a man puts his money, he usually has some interest. He has been rather busy, too. As soon as the inaugural committee had formed, he advanced one hundred dollars as a bid for Democratic favor. He "helped inaugurate Roosevelt," and he admits it.

Startling Figures

He secured the endorsement of the District Bar Association well in advance of the entry of any other candidates for his place. He had little or no difficulty in securing this endorsement because the District Bench and Bar are dominated by Republicans, and here are the figures:

In the Supreme Court of the District there are 9 judges, 8 Republicans and 1 Democrat; in the Court of Appeals there are 5 judges; 4 Republicans and 1 Democrat; in the Police Court, there are 4 judges; 3 Republicans and 1 Democrat; in the Municipal Court (where Judge Cobb sits) there are 5 judges; 4 Republicans and 1 Democrat.

Democrats for Scott

It can be seen that the Bar Association boasts of 19 Republican judges and only 4 Democrats. The endorsement of the Bar Association means a strict Republican endorsement of a brother Republican. What else could one expect? But the joke of the situation is that all the Democratic judges are for Armond W. Scott to succeed Judge Cobb, but no one says anything about the Democratic side of the Bench and Bar. All we hear is the Bench and Bar are for Cobb. This makes Cobb look like the only man in the District fit to be judge and the daily papers at Washington have fallen for the trick and are boosting Cobb to the danger point, because the other Negro lawyers take offense at the imputation that no one of the Negro lawyers is fit to be judge but Cobb. Then, too, the subtle campaign of the Republicans for Cobb has another angle which the President may not have observed.

There are several Republican judges whose terms are to expire soon. About three of them are to come up for re-appointment very soon. These Republican judges are boosting Cobb for re-appointment so they may establish a precedent for Mr. Roosevelt to follow when their terms expire. They will say: "Mr. President, you retained on the bench a Negro Republican, and certainly you will retain us, who, although Republicans, are white men." But the President is understood to be "wise" to the subtility of the Republicans.

White Man May Get Post

And they advance another argument: They tell of the great virtues of Judge Cobb as a man. They point out that no one has said a word against Cobb. But they have no idea what will be said if Cobb's name is sent to the Senate for confirmation. There are people waiting to attend the hearing, and what was said about Cobb when he was first up for appointment, it is said, will sound mild indeed in comparison to the testimony said to be ready and waiting for the hearing. If Cobb fails of confirmation, and the Republicans succeed in eliminating every worthy Democrat, a white man will certainly get the place, and this is what the Republicans are really driving at in making such a howl for Cobb and louder howls against every and any Democrat put forward for the place.

"Temper" Lie Is Nailed

On the other hand, Armond W. Scott withstands all the maliicious darts hurled at his candidacy. Not a word against his character, not a word. But the Republicans make much of his "temper." "O, his temper is thus and thus," they say. But one little lady attorney, (white) came forward with a deadly denial of the insinuation, and gave Scott a clean bill on the question of "poise, demeanor and gentlemanly" bearing. She says she has tried cases against Scott, time and again, and he has always demeaned himself as a gentleman. So the "temper" question was killed. Then was said that Scott was run out of came the lowest sort of attack. It Wilmington, N. C., his native home, during the Wilmington riot of many years ago. And this lie was started by a Negro, it is said, and to make it more contemptible, a Negro, who, it is said, was at one time seeking the very place for which Scott and Cobb are candidates. Gentlemen always fight in the open.

The riot lie was nailed to the mast by Mr. Taylor, a white man of Wilmington, who was head of the Safety Committee during the riots. He sent his own worded statement that Scott was NOT run out of Wilmington, nor was he asked to leave, but left of his own accord, the same as any other citizen did who desired to change his place of abode. Cobb left South Carolina under the same circumstances, possibly. So the riot lie was nailed.

Scott's Record Clean

They must remember, too, that Scott has practiced before all the courts of the District for the past 34 years, and not once has he been called before the grievance committee for any infractions of the rules or ethics of the profession. Scott is backed by three members of the committee of four who led the fight for Roosevelt in 1932. The lone other member is backing Cobb as a personal matter, said to grow out of a credit transaction which Cobb played no small part. Rainey, Vann and Thompkins are asking for the appointment of a Democrat as a matter of right, and since all candidates except Armond W. Scott have been eliminated, they are asking that Scott be named to the Municipal Court Bench. If Dr. Johnson is supporting Cobb in return for financial favors to him or to any of his friends, that is his own personal business. Perhaps Cobb was thinking ahead a little when he assisted the Columbus doctor, if he did.

Convenient Memories

The whole question resolves itself into whether the Republicans who dominate the District Bench and Bar can get away with their attempt to frighten the Democrats away from their deserved patronage, not only on the bench but every other place in the government service. How they howl when a Republican is displaced by a Democrat, and yet when the Harding crowd came in, they took the proverbial broom and swept the place of every Democrat that could be found.

Want No Temporizing

To allow this kind of Hokum to deprive the Negro Democrats of the party of the biggest place they could inherit, would be a blunder and an error which the President would never be able to explain. Negroes who went Democratic enlisted for the duration of the "war" and they want their share. They will never be reconciled to "temporizing with the enemy." The President can not expect Negroes to defend the retention of Cobb. His place was filled by others, and can and will be filled satisfactorily by others. When the President gives that place to a Democrat, he will, by the very act, say to his Negro followers that the New Deal means a full hand to every player in the game of honorable partisan preference.

The Case of Cobb the Judge

The Washington Daily Post editorially on Tuesday of this week, in an attempt to endorse Judge James A. Cobb for reappointment as judge of the Municipal Court, not only insulted all the members of the D.C. bar (except Cobb) but clearly showed two things. First: the lack of knowledge on the part of the editor as to the legal (or judicial) ability of the men of our group, and second: the unreasonable extent to which Republicans will go to try and hold on to positions under a new Democratic administration.

The editorial, among other silly statements had to say: "It has been freely admitted that another colored jurist, measuring up to Judge Cobb's standards can not be found in Washington."

Just how the Post editor happens to KNOW that the administration, with its keen Mr. Farley, its well trained Mr. Garnett, not to mention its capable Mr. Cummings, has reached the conclusion that NO Negro can be found to replace Judge Cobb, we are at a loss to understand. However, it may be that this Democratic administration has awaited this analysis of the Post editor, as well as advice from their Republican viewpoint before they could make their choice of a Democratic appointee. It would be, therefore, very unfortunate (if we take seriously the Post editorial), if Judge Cobb should die or resign. We, the citizens of Washington, would certainly suffer for the want of a proper judicial official on the handling of our petty civil cases.

Among other praiseworthy expressions in this editorial was the one referring to Judge Cobb's activities in investigating Southern Labor Conditions on a commission appointed by President Hoover. Perhaps if the editor had known that not only did Mr. Cobb not investigate, but did not even leave the city to go South with any commission as stated he would have omitted this compliment.

We publish elsewhere in this issue a letter by B. L. Gaskins, widely known as an able lawyer, the conservatism and sanity of whose views upon public matters has been the subject of official comment by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia. His letter clearly shows the reaction of the colored bar.

However, knowing this administration as we think we do, the mere fact of an endorsement of the Republican Post should, and probably will, do more to prevent the naming of Cobb, a Republican, and the rewarding of some Democrat, than had the Post said nothing. For of the twenty-two judges now serving us here, eighteen are Republicans. The Tribune is quite confident that this silly and unfounded "bushwah" of the Post will not cause this administration to further feather the nest of the gang who would rather have seen Dillinger president than the man who came to us with a "new deal" for the forgotten man.

Attorney B. L. Gaskins Says Post Editorial Gross Insult to Negroes

Washington Tribune 5-24-34

Articles Claims No Negro Here Qualified for Judgeship

Washington, D.C.

Characterizing an editorial in the Tuesday morning Washington Post as an insult to the colored lawyers of the District, Benjamin L. Gaskins, prominent member of the Washington bar, protested to the editors of that paper for "the insult to a hard working group of your fellow citizens."

The Post editorial as well as other local dailies have been advocating the reappointment of Judge James A. Cobb to the Municipal Court bench. Judge Cobb's time expired some time ago. He was appointed by a Republican administration.

The editorial claimed that "it has been freely admitted that another colored jurist measuring up to Judge Cobb's standards cannot be found in Washington."

Mr. Gaskins denies this statement and says the editorial is an insult to the colored citizens of Washington. He also points out that the post now held by Judge Cobb was once held by the late Judge Robert H. Terrell, who was also known as one of the most able jurists to hold office in that court.

Cobb Seeks Bench

The outstanding candidate for the post now held by Judge Cobb is Armond W. Scott, well known Democrat who has been a supporter of the party for over 25 years. Mr. Scott was recommended to President for the position by Attorney- General Cummings. Following the recommendation the white bar association protested against the selection of Mr. Scott and asked that Mr. Cobb be retained by the President.

Postmaster General Farley recently let it be known that Mr. Cobb was definitely out of the picture and denied making a statement attributed to him that Mr. Scott would not be further considered.

Washington, D.C. 5-24-34

Since the appointment of Mr. Scott was held up, hundreds of organizations from all sections of the country have flooded the White House with endorsements of Mr. Scott and urged his appointment by the President.

Mr. Gaskins' letter to the Post editor follows.

To the Editor of the Post,

I am a colored lawyer.

I am a Republican.

I do not possess the qualifications necessary to make a successful or competent judge in any court; am not now, never have been, and never will be a candidate for such a post. My friends know that I am sincere in this.

I am very proud of the juristic ability and reputation of James A. Cobb. I had hoped that he would have been reappointed. But I think that the supporters of Mr. Cobb have exhibited extreme bad taste in indulging in "odious" comparisons between his known ability and the ability of other candidates. For instance, you say in your editorial of Tuesday morning, "It has been freely admitted that another colored jurist measuring up to Judge Cobb's standards cannot be found in Washington." Such an imputation on your part is a gratuitous insult to a hard working group of your fellow citizens.

There are Others to Take Cobb's Place

This fight is between James A. Cobb and several Democratic candidates for his position. The rest of us are going about our business and attending to our clients' business. But we do not admit either freely or otherwise, that Judge Cobb's position cannot be filled, even as was that of the late and great Robert H. Terrell. No one else can make that admission for us.

I personally know several men of my race in the District of Columbia whose "character, ability, knowledge, tact, and discretion" fit them for any judicial position to which they might be appointed.

ATTORNEY B. L. GASKINS

Smith Named New Director in FERA Post

Afro-American

Arkansan Succeeds Forrester Washington as Hopkins Returns from Eng.

9-1-34

E. K. JONES MENTIONED ALSO FOR THE POST

Baltimore Afro

Quick Appointment Proves Surprise to Politicians.

WASHINGTON — Political unrest that has existed here among politicians since the resignation of Forrester B. Washington as Director of Negro Work, was brought to a sudden halt this week when Harry L. Hopkins, FERA director, arrived here from England and announced that Alfred Edgar Smith would be in charge of the office, effective September 1.

It was added by the director of publicity for the FERA that Smith would carry the full title of Director of Negro Work, as did his predecessor.

Politicians Not Consulted

The announcement came as a surprise to members of the political group who apparently had not been consulted concerning the appointment. Only last week, it is reported, they held a conference at which the filling of the position was discussed.

Though Eugene Kinckle Jones is reported to have said he did not desire the position, the AFRO was reliably informed this week that at the time of the appointment of Smith, Jones was still in the race for the appointment.

Was Washington's Assistant

Smith, who is 31 years of age, and who lives at 1901 3rd Street, northwest, was appointed as first assistant to Mr. Washington soon after the office was created. It is believed that Washington recommended Smith for the position.

Born in Hot Springs, Ark., Smith attended the public schools there and was graduated from the Langston High School of that city. He came to Washington in 1924 to enter Howard University, and was graduated from that institution in 1928 with an A.B. degree, and two years later received his master's degree from Howard.

After graduating, he taught in the public schools here. As a side line he conducted the column, "A Young Negro Looks at Life," in a weekly newspaper, as well as contributing several articles to Opportunity and Crisis magazines.

Whitten Is Assistant

Assisting Smith in his position is John W. Whitten, who also was one of Mr. Washington's assistants.

Whitten, who is 24 years of age, was born in Roanoke, Va., and was graduated from the Harrison High School of that city. He attended the Johnson C. Smith University in Charlotte, N.C., and Howard University.

During the existence of the Prudential Bank, Whitten served as teller and was in charge of the disbursing of loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation at the bank. When the Joint Committee on National Recovery was organized, Whitten was brought in as a member of the staff and served in that capacity until his apointment.

Miss Mary Cheney, secretary to Mr. Washington, has been transferred to the FERA headquarters in New York. The move, it was learned, was made at her request to permit her to be with her husband who lives in New York.

Office Holding

Oxley Is Made a Division Chief

WASHINGTON (Afro Bureau)—Lawrence A. Oxley, recently appointed Commissioner of Conciliation in the Dept. of Labor, has been appointed "Chief of the Division of Negro Labor," a newly organized unit in the department, the AFRO learned this week.

From sources close to the department, the AFRO learned that this new division will provide employment for a staff of workers.

Although plans for the division's operation have not been outlined pending the removal of the Labor Department to its new quarters on the Mall, it is understood that there will be a close connection between the unit's work and that of the Woman's Bureau and the Children's Bureau, both of which are adjuncts to the Department of Labor.

Mr. Oxley is scheduled to begin a tour of the Atlantic Seaboard within a few weeks to get acquainted with his field and to contact colored labor executives.

OXLEY NAMED TO IMPORTANT POST

Courier 4-21-34

Frances Perkins Creates Negro Division In Department Of Labor—To Have Far-Reaching Effect.

By MANUEL R. ROQUE

WASHINGTON, April 19—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins has created a division in the Department of Labor in which a race man will act under title of authority as division chief in the department, it was learned from authoritative sources Monday. The new branch will be known as the Division of Negro Labor in the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Lieutenant Lawrence A. Oxley, already commissioner of conciliation, has been assigned by the secretary to head the new division. He will retain the title and authority of the first while at the same time assuming the broad powers conferred upon him by the second.

In the appointment of Lieut. Oxley to this important post, observers see the forerunner of a helpful program in the interests of Negro labor, for apparently it is the first time, they say, that the department has recognized this need.

At the anthracite and steel hearings sometime ago, Secretary Perkins expressed herself as wanting to see colored workers receive equal pay for equal work. What has just taken place confirms the view that she means business.

John A. Davis Is Named an Aide in U.S. Labor Dept.

WASHINGTON—Speculation as to who would fill the new position of research assistant in the division of colored labor, United States Department of Labor, was quelled this week, with the announcement of the appointment of John Aubrey Davis.

Davis, who will work directly under Lieut. Lawrence A. Oxley, division chief, is a graduate of Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa in his junior year of college. He received his master's degree in political science from Wisconsin University, last June.

Founded Alliance

The appointee is given credit for conceiving and founding the New Negro Alliance, whose function is the gathering of statistics on the participation of the colored people in white businesses, and the achieving of just economic returns by the application of the principle of consumers' power.

Davis collected statistics on three A. and P. stores, showing the exact amount spent by colored people in each store, and the social and economic condition of the colored people who spent that money. Following the gathering of these statistics, the New Negro Alliance was able to force A. & P. officials to employ colored clerks.

The Davis appointment is considered another step forward by the Department of Labor in the development of a staff of trained colored workers to deal with the industrial problems of the race.

Afro American 4-21-34

Newsmen Still Vie

The battle between Manual Roluez and Floyd Calvin, two fellow newsmen, working for the same employer, for the position of field worker and investigator, continues, as it was learned that Robert L. Vann, one of the Big Five in the Roosevelt campaign, had not made a recommendation for either of the men yet.

Oklahoma City, Oklahoma

He is president of the Fort Valley (Ga.) Training School and for his work in developing this school he was named several years ago a recipient of the Spingarn Medal for distinguished service.

Mr. Hunt has an office in the building on Pennsylvana avenue which houses the Farm Credit Bureau. It is a one-room office and he has one secretary. His salary is $5,900 per year. He spends much time in the field investigating. His job is to ease a flow of credit to Negro farmers, who are fast having their mortgages foreclosed. He gave a hint of his thinking at the Tuskegee Conference last December. He has an idea that eventually Negro sharecroppers can buy the farms they are now operating for white owners, if they can be helped with loans from the government.

With the development of a plan to redistribute unemployed families on farm land, the position of Hunt will be most important. There are millions of Negroes in the South whose future will depend on the office of Mr. Hunt. And although Mr. Hunt is old fashioned, he has a clear mind and a keen perception of the needs of the southern Negro farmer.

Altogether Mr. Hunt is the oldest, quietest, least colorful of the Black Cabinet. He is also the only recipient of the Spingarn Medal on the Black Cabinet. And he has the opportunity to do the greatest good for the farmer class of the race. With such superlatives to hold him up, Mr. Hunt will probably not muff the opportunity.

Next week: Eugene Kinckle Jones.

HENRY A. HUNT, FARMER

When a group of young intellectuals of the Negro race met last August on the Spingarn Estate in Amenia, New York, at the invitation of Dr. W. E. B. DuBois for the N. A. A. C. P., fate began work which finally made Henry A. Hunt assistant to the Governor of the Farm Credit Bureau.

Black Cabinet

Henry Morgenthau, wealthy gentleman, farmer, neighbor of Spingarn and friend of Roosevelt, as an invited guest, spoke at the Amenia Conference. It developed, much to the surprise of Mr. Morganthau and of others, that the Governor of the Farm Credit Bureau did not know what a "share-cropper" was, although thousands of Negroes held this title of disadvantage in the south. Mr. Morganthau asked the conference to name someone of the race for a position in his office. A committee was selected composed of DuBois, Ira DeA. Reid and Elmer Carter. This committee named Henry A. Hunt and this gentleman became the "Assistant to the Governor of the Farm Credit Bureau."

Hunt is an old man, by far the oldest member of the Black Cabinet. He is a colorless old gentleman, colorless both literally and figuratively. Literally, he is colorless because he is the color of a Caucasian. Moreover, he has a colorless personality. In spite of his white hair and his Van Dyke, he is not impressive looking.

But Mr. Hunt is not nearly so dumb as he looks. He knows how to keep his mouth shut, and underneath it all he is very smart. He is well fitted for his job. He is a real farmer. He knows the problems of the Negro farmer as few men in America do. He knows the share-crooper's woes and their struggle to get ahead under conditions similar to peon-

WALLER NAMED TO PROBATION POST

Bulletin 4-3-34

Former Transient Relief Head Gets Position in Juvenile Court

Washington D.C.

Arthur Waller, supervisor of Negro work in the Transient Bureau of the District of Emergency Relief Administration, has been appointed to the post of probation officer in the District Juvenile Court, it was announced this week by Judge Fay Bentley, newly appointed jurist. Waller will assume his new duties as soon as a successor can be chosen to head the Transient Bureau.

A graduate of the Springfield College of Physical Education, Waller studied in Geneva for a year on a scholarship and taught American camping methods to European instructors during 1928. From 1929 to 1930 he served as Dean of Men at Virginia State College, and from 1930 to 1933 he was connected with the department of Physical Education at Howard University.

His probable successor as head of the Transient Relief program will be Leonard Hill, of this city, who was formerly connected with the Associated Charities.

Dr. William J. Thompkins Sworn In Crisis

WASHINGTON, (CNS) —Dr. William J. Thompkins, editor of the Kansas City (Mo.) American who was recently confirmed as Recorder of Deeds of the District of Columbia to succeed Jefferson S. Coage, was sworn in on Friday, April 20, surrounded by a group of his many friends.

Dr. Thompkins was confirmed by the Senate April 10, to be the eleventh incumbent of this office and the tenth colored appointee to the position. Three colored Democrats and six colored Republicans have preceded him as recorder, beginning with Frederick Douglass, appointed in 1881 by President Garfield.

Senator George McGill (Democrat) of Wichita, Kansas, and Representative Ralph F. Lozier, (Democrat), of Missouri, as well as Edwin A. Halsey, secretary of the Senate, were present as he took the oath of office. Incidental ceremonies were held at the recorder's office immediately afterward, there colored Republicans and Democrats joined in welcoming Dr. Thompkins to the Capital. Addresses were delivered by Bishop John A. Gregg, Perry W. Howard, Dr. Emmett J. Scott, Mrs. J. Finley Wilson, Dean Kelly Miller, Dr. Joseph L. Johnson, Dr. Marshall Talley, Dr. William T. Thomas, Dr. A. K. Curtis, J. A. Lankford and Mrs. Reuben S. West.

THE BLACK CABINET In The NEW DEAL

The Inside of the Outer Circle

By

EUGENE DAVIDSON

An Associated Negro Press Feature

EUGENE KINCKLE JONES

WASHINGTON.—Eugene Kinckle Jones holds the position in the government and on the Black Cabinet of Advisor on Negro Affairs in the Commerce Department. His salary is $5,600 per annum. He has a two-room suite of offices in the Commerce Department building and one secretary.

The appointment of Jones was one of the fundamental causes of the break in the ranks of the famous Big Four of the campaign days. Jones, himself, had nothing to do with this tempest in the teapot. It all happened this wise:

Sometime before the dropping of James A. (Billboard) Jackson from the Commerce Department as head of the Small (Negro) Business Bureau, whose personnel consisted of only Jackson, there were numerous applications for his position. Jones was not an applicant for many reasons. He was not primarily interested in business. He was wrapped up in his work as head of the National Urban League and was getting a salary that he could not expect in the government.

'Big Four' Plan Fails

The Big Four, however, (Johnson, Rainey, Thompkins and Vann) drew up a comprehensive plan for a Negro Bureau in the Commerce department. The head of this bureau was to be Dr. Joseph L. Johnson, former minister to Liberia and chairman of the Negro Campaign Committee. This plan did not get very far, for there were other more powerful forces working. G. David Houston, classmate of President Roosevelt and Robert L. Vann, one of the Big Four, selected a committee of "outstanding" Negroes to be an advisory committee to Secretary of Commerce Roper. Roper called this committee together and told them to select a man to be named as his "adviser on Negro Affairs". A member of this committee was Eugene Kinckle Jones.

In executive session to select a man for the position, someone suggested that the committee need go no further than its own members to find the best man available and that man was Eugene Kinckle Jones. Mr. Jones, surprised and perhaps embarrassed because he was a member of the selecting committee, refused. But the committee was unanimous in its spontaneous choice and urged him to give the matter some thought before deciding definitely. Mr. Jones consented to this, went back to New York and conferred with his Urban League board. After some six weeks it was decided that a "loan" of Mr. Jones would be made to the government and that he should not suffer financially by the lower salary which the government might offer him. Eugene Kinckle Jones became the Commerce department's "Adviser on Negro Affairs"—and Johnson and Vann are not playmates any more.

Not a Politician

Approaching fifty, Jones is still a young man. He has straight black hair, mixed slightly with gray, a huge black moustache through which bursts constantly a genial, man-sized smile. He is easy to talk with and lacks entirely the pomp and arrogance sometimes assumed by men less successful and in smaller positions. He is honest in his convictions and exceptionally far-seeing and statesmanlike in his analyses of race problems. He is intelligent and race-interested. Jones is registered, generally, in his biographies as a Republican, but he voted for both Al Smith and Roosevelt. He is not a politician in the general acceptance of the word but words. One suspects that he is a very uncanny politician in the sense that he can diplomatically get men to do things that he wants done, without their even knowing that his is the guiding hand.

As an official of the Commerce department, Eugene Kinckle Jones is a square, square peg in a round, round hode. And this expression of an opinion is neither a reflection on the peg nor on the hole. Nor is it to be concluded that the size of the hole and of the peg have anything to do with the misfit. Square pegs just will never fit well in round holes.

Not a Business Man

Negro business and industry must be developed if the economic future of the Negro, and by so much his entire future, is to be made secure. So long as the colored wage earner is absolutely dependent on white employes, so long will the race be dependent economically, and otherwise, on the prejudiced sense of justice of the white race. From this slavery we must emerge. The hope is in the development and promotion of Negro business and industry. Efforts of the government towards promoting and developing the general business of the country have fallen on unfertile soil so far as the race was concerned, for the special problems and peculiar handicaps of the Negro business man have not been taken into consideration. "It would seem to me obvious," Professor Paul R. Douglass, of the Department of Economics, University of Chicago, wrote to me, "that people, such as Negroes, would have problems and that the government should have a bureau that would deal with them in the best way possible."

Into that round hole has been placed Eugene Kinckle Jones, a square peg, if there ever was one. Mr. Jones' life work, in which he has been eminently successful, has been not in the field of business, but in the field of race relations, employment and social work. Receiving his M. A. degree from Cornell in 1908 he joined the National Urban League in 1911 and has been in that work ever since. The Urban League seeks to better the understanding between the races, to secure better positions for Negro wage-earners, to better living conditions of colored people and to train Negroes for social work. Under the leadership of Jones, the League has had remarkable success. It has placed several hundred thousand of Negroes in positions. It has offered fellowships and scholarships to train more than a hundred students and has placed them in important positions throughout the country. It maintains an industrial relations department and a department of research and investigation. It is a vast, worthwhile organization and its growth during the past twenty-five years has been due primarily to the genius and ability of Eugene Kinckle Jones. But the promotion of Negro business is neither the field nor the purpose of the Urban League.

His Interest Elsewhere

It seems absurd and illogical to imagine that a man with this background of labor problems and social work can be enthusiastic over the capitalistic problems of Negro business. The best way for the white man to keep the Negro "in his place" is to keep him economically dependent. The man who will sell the government the idea of helping the Negro become economically independent through the promotion of Negro business and industry must be more than passively interested in Negro business. He must be an ardent and keen enthusiast. He must have no other interests more important to him.

Not only would Mr. Jones have to be superhuman to change overnight his interests of 25 years in labor and race relations to capital and business promotion, but the fact cannot be overlooked that he is still connected with the Urban League and still directs its course and that it is still his well beloved offspring. An efficient German army officer with loved ones in the Fatherland could not be over-enthusiastic if he should accept command in a French army. A heavy stockholder is an ice manufacturing company would have a difficult time as a sales manager for electric refrigerators, regardless of his efficiency or ability. The fact that Mr. Jones, with his ability is not a business man is not so much against him as is the fact that his past and present interests are not parallel with the promotion of business.

Where To Buy?

Mr. Jones has a program for his department and he may get the necessary staff to put it over and he will administer the office well. But he likes too well, it seems, the title of "Adviser" which means but little in this revolution where dynamic direction of a program is needed and an enthusiastic sponsorship of an unpopular idea is essential.

Mr. Jones talks too fluently of the need for "increased purchasing power." That is a problem of the day and an important one, but that is not his problem as a director of a division on Negro business. Where will Negro business and industry be when that increased purchasing power has been attained? From whom will the colored man purchase? If these fundamental problems are forgotten and not concentrated on by some leader, the Negro will find himself lost in the shuffle. White business is laying its plans to take advantage of this new purchasing power that is to come. Colored business must do the same thing. And the function of the Department of Commerce is to help promote and develop business.

Eugene Kinckle Jones is far better fitted for other positions in the New Deal. He should be a member of the Labor Advisory board of the NRA. There his interests and ability could combine to make him most useful to his race and his country. And of all men he is best fitted for such a position.

Keen, intelligent, able, statesmanlike and efficient, Eugene Kinckle Jones is not best fitted for the Black Cabinet. He is, through no fault of his, the square, square peg in the round, round hole.

NEXT WEEK—Clark Foreman.

COBB VACANCY IS YET UNFILLED AS F.D. GOES OFF

WASHINGTON—Before leaving for Annapolis last Sunday night to board the cruiser Houston for a month of relaxation in tropical waters, the President failed to make a recess aupointment of any of the candidates seeking the judgeship now held by Judge James A. Cobb, on the municipal court of the District of Columbia.

It was rumored here last week that Richard R. Horner, who has been a candidate for the municipal court bench with every change of administration. would be given a recess appointment. It was reported that the appointment would be made to placate Senators Carter Glass and Harry F. Byrd, both Democrats, of Virginia, who have vigorously opposed some of the administration's policies. The rumor, however, never materialized into anything more substantial than street gossip.

Scott Expectant

Earlier in the week, Armond W. Scott, lawyer, who has been strongly urged for the place, and whose name was sent to the White House by the Department of Justice, but returned for further investigation, expected a recess appointment.

It is not believed here now that any action will be taken in the matter until the President returns in August.

D.C.

Political - 1934
Office Holding.

A Man Resigns

Close friends of Forrester B. Washington who resigned this week as director of Negro Work in the Federal Emergency Administration do not believe he left solely for the purpose which was stated in a formal release.

Mr. Washington has been one of the few Negroes in the New Deal to come to the front for the Negro and was independent enough to speak what he thought of the New Deal as it concerned the Negro. It is well known that he has been at odds with some of the higher ups in the FERA in regards to relief as administered to Negroes, especially in the South.

As director of the Atlanta School of Social Work he was sure of his bread and butter when he left the government service. He vigorously opposed discrimination and did not hesitate to tell his superiors what he thought of the many segregated setups and relief projects. It is also known that he incurred the ill-will of some of the southern high office-holders for his blunt and pointed criticism of certain phases of relief among Negroes.

More men of independent means who do not fear to speak out when it is necessary is what is needed in this so-called New Black Cabinet of the New Deal. Rather than stay on and take it like many others have done, he quit rather than be made a yes-man.

Pittsburgh Courier 8-25-34

FORRESTER B. WASHINGTON, director of colored work under the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, who has resigned his post to return to full-time employment as director of the Atlanta School of Social Work. No reason has been given for the resignation and Mr. Washington could not be reached early this week. His successor has not been named.

Brown Gets Gov. Job

Baltimore, Md.

Appointed Director of Negro Publicity in FERA ADMINISTRATION Will Be Assign to Public Relation Division

Quits U.S. Post

Savannah, Ga. 9-27-34

Washington, D. C. Sept. 24—Administrator Harry L. Hopkins last week appointed Edgar G. Brown of Chicago as director of Negro publicity in the Federal Emergency Relief Administration. This is the first recognition of this character which has come to the race in any of the New Deal administrations in Washington.

Brown will be assigned to the Public Relations Division under direction of Morton M. Milford.

This is the first government position ever held by Edgar G. Brown well known throughout the nation as the four times national tennis singles champion of the A. T. A. He is president of the National Lawn Tennis Association of Chicago; director of the National Plan Beautiful and the Ten Years Progress Plan and Program for the Colored Citizens. Brown first became an outstanding newspaper representative as advertising manager of the Madam C. J. Walker Manufacturing Company and for a number of years he has served as head of the Chicago Defender's Public Relations Bureau as well as general representative for a number of race publications and national organizations. He is married and has two boys, one five years of age and the other two.

"It is a distinct honor to join up with President Roosevelt's great social program which has come through this appointment by Administrator Hopkins of the FERA," said Brown. "The race publications throughout the country can now be assured of the fullest and most reliable information on the official transactions of this department of the government from day to day throughout the country, touching as it does the lives of over sixteen million American citizens and spending upwards of One Hundred Million Dollars monthly."

Edgar G. Brown Named Head of FERA Public'ty

Tennis Ace Assigned To Public Relations Division; His First U.S. Job

Pittsburgh Courier 9-29-34

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept.—Administrator Harry L. Hopkins last week appointed Edgar G. Brown of Chicago as director of Negro publicity in the Federal Emergency Relief Administration. This is the first recognition of this character which has come to the race in any of the New Deal administrations in Washington.

Brown will be assigned to the Public Relations Division under the direction of Morton M. Milford.

This is the first government position ever held by Edgar G. Brown, well known throughout the nation as the four times National tennis singles champion of the A. T. A. He is president of the National Lawn Tennis Association of Chicago; director of the National Plan Beautiful and the Ten-Year Progress Plan and Program for the Colored Citizens. Brown first became an outstanding newspaper representative as advertising manager of the Madam C. J. Walker Manufacturing Company and for a number of years he has served as head of the Chicago Defender's Public Relations Bureau as well as general representative for a number of race publications and national organizations. He is married and has two boys, one five years of age and the other two.

—NEGRO COUNCILMAN—

Negro Is Proofreader in U. S. Printing Department

Call 9-28-34

WASHINGTON. — (ANP) — Otho Gilbert Braithwaite, who for the past six years has been foreman of the Gordon Green printing company of New York, this week took over duties as full-time proofreader in the U. S. bureau of printing and engraving here. Mr. Braithwaite is the first Negro to hold such a position in 23 years.

No Sucessor to Forrester Washington; Abolish Post

Pittsburgh Courier 9-29-34

WASHINGTON.—(ANP). — The position of Director of Negro Work in the FERA, abandoned September 1 by Forrester B. Washington, has been abolished, although routine of the office is continuing as always, it was learned this week.

Previous reports had it that Alfred Edgar Smith, former assistant to Mr. Washington, had been named as director to succeed the fiery Atlantan. This week Bruce McClure, executive secretary of the administration, denied that this was the case and said that Smith had been retained on the FERA rolls as a special assistant in the correspondence division, doing practically the same work which he did while Mr. Washington's aide. Associated with him in this work is John Whitten, Mr. Washington's second assistant.

"It is not true that the Department of Colored Work has been abolished," Smith told the press this week. The title of Director, he added, may have been temporarily dropped.

"BLACK CABINET" NOT ON WAY OUT IN WASHINGTON

Rumor Is Unfounded, Investigation Reveals

10-26-34

WASHINGTON, D. C. (ANP)—Rumors to the effect that Clark Foreman, white, advisor on the economic status of Negroes in the Department of the Interior, was on his way out of the national political picture and that the entire "Black Cabinet" system of the New Deal was soon to be scrapped by administrative authorities, were found to be totally without foundation when investigated here this week.

If anything, Foreman was found to be more firmly entrenched than ever before, while the remainder of the "Black Cabinet" is just beginning to function in the manner desired of it.

Through Foreman's office more Negroes have been placed in high positions in the Department of the Interior than under any previous administration, and the work of integrating Negroes into the entire federal set-up is only now gaining momentum. Diplomatic tact, rather than bludgeoning partisanship, has been the white advisor's chief weapon of attack upon the age-old policies of the department, and the tangible results of his work are only now beginning to become apparent.

Foreman Stands High

That Foreman, personally, stands high with the head of his department is revealed in the fact that he is named about Washington as co-author and editor of Secretary Ickes' forthcoming book, "The New Democracy." It will be interesting to note the stand that Ickes takes in regard to America's Negro population when this volume is issued.

Of the remainder of the Black Cabinet, only Eugene Kinckle Jones, who holds the title of adviser on Negro affairs in the Department of Commerce, is likely to vacate his position in the near future. Mr. Jones, according to all reports, is anxious to get back to his duties as head of the Urban League and his resignation is expected momentarily.

This, however, would not mean abandonment of the position nor would it sound the death knell of remaining members of the "Black Cabinet."

Offices of Lawrence Oxley, director of the Negro Division of the Department of Labor; Henry A. Hunt, assistant to the governor of the Farm Credit Administration; and Edgar Smith, FERA correspondence director, are only now beginning to function at expected efficiency.

POLITICIANS OBJECT TO CABINET

"Negro Brain Trusters" Not Producing Results Back in the States

10-6-34

(By Special Correspondent)

The shake-up and possible abolition of the so-called Negro Cabinet predicted in last week's issue of The Tribune took a new turn this week when it was learned from sources close to the administration that one good reason why the administration was thinking so strongly of doing away with most of its Negro "advisors" was one which concerns not only the administration but also the welfare of the colored people in general.

One current rumor is that the administration is distinctly dissatisfied with their showing and that their failure to provide any form of program by means of which the administration and its departments can go ahead and do things it had promised to do for the colored people is putting the New Deal "on the spot" with thousands of Negro voters throughout the country.

Feathered Own Nests

Many of the colored "advisors," it was learned, have done no more since they came to Washington than "feather their own nests" and that they have weakened their position and whatever influence they had when they came to Washington by their attempt to dabble in politics and also by their job-getting proclivities.

It was said that this has stirred bad feelings in the Democratic ranks as their insistent demands and interference in patronage matters has caused several Congressmen and Senators to get their wires crossed with their party workers back in the States.

Blame Brain Trusters

They made certain promises which they thought they could fulfill and they claim that some of the colored Brain Trusters are at fault. It is no secret that some of these Congressmen and Senators made a protest some time ago and that many of them remained in Washington long after Congress adjourned in the hope that they would be able to carry some kind of political "plum" for the deserving one in their districts and States.

One of these, a Western Senator, is said to be openly bitter about a "Negro Cabinet" and its failure to do the right thing for the Negro, also for the attempt some of its members have made to dictate State patronage policies, which is admittedly the absolute prerogative of the Senator and State party machine.

.. .. Double in Politics .. ...

Thousands of letters are said to be pouring into the White House to regular Cabinet members as well as to Senators and Congressmen from colored and white politicians out in the States demanding the removal of the "Black Cabinet" on the grounds that their "meddling" has obstructed the proper distribution of party patronage to Negroes and that "their indecision, lethargy and inactivity" has prevented the Negro from getting his rightful share of New Deal benefits.

Newspapers thoughout the country, both colored and white, are also said to be looking askance at the little progress the "Negro Cabinet" has made since it came to Washington. Letters are coming in from them addressed to "Black Cabinet" members and other government officials are asking then what is being done, if anything and when do they expect to start to work.

Abbott Heads Committee of 100

Together with these subtle protests, there are the letters coming from politicians asking them why they don't come out and tell the people just what they have done to justify the fat salaries they are drawing. Some of them have been out in the field making claptrap speeches but somehow the people are just as in the dark as they have been and this is not helping the politicians any. With so many Negroes on relief the politicians are also a bit shaky and many a Congressional district is in the balance.

One significant move that precludes the early exit of the present "Black Cabinet" was the formation the other day of a committee of one hundred prominent colored citizens, which is headed by Robert S. Abbott, and which was made up with the definite purpose of bringing the Negro's condition under the Recovery Program before the national government. Ordinarily this would have been the job of the colored "brain-trusters."

Many other such organizations have been formed and are quietly working to the end that greater articulation be evidenced by the job-holders in presenting some form of hopeful program for the colored people and if not for them to get out and let someone else do the job as it should be done.

Dr. R. Weaver Named To Succeed Foreman In Dept. Of Interior

10-27-34

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(CNS)—Clark Foreman, now Special Counsel to the Secretary of the Interior, made a surprise announcement of a new Adviser on the Economic Status of Negroes, at the anniversary dinner of the Joint Committee on National Recovery, Friday evening, October 19, at the Whitelaw Hotel.

Mr. Foreman declared he had accepted the invitation to speak at the dinner because he believes that the work of the Joint Committtee during the year contributed in no small measure to focusing attention on the many problems which touch the Negro in his relation to governmental activities and affairs.

He called attention to the fact that when he first took office he said:

"I considered jobs the prime essenial for improved economic status and that I would try to get for Negroes as many jobs as possible, including my own. I know that many people thought I was joking and that I would not give my job up to anyone. But I meant what I said, and I am happy to announce that an extremely well-qualified Negro, whose attitude on problems affecting colored people is one which merits your confidence, now has my job.

"I feel obligated to you as it was at your annual dinner last year that I first saw my colleague the present Adviser to Secretary Ickes, Dr. Weaver. During the months that we have worked together Dr. Weaver and I have become real friends. I believe he is qualified to carry on the work as Adviser to the Secretary and I hope that his associates will continue to give him their cooperation and help which characterized the beginning of this Joint Committee on National Recovery. Dr. Weaver will be assisted in his work by John P. Muchison, heretofore of the Subsistence Homesteads Division."

SAYS DR. CLARK'S REMOVAL STILL LEAVES JIM CROW

11-3-34

Transfer of Negro Adviser Does Not Solve Governmental Segregation

In a statement to the Tribune this week, Miss Gretchen McRae, who has been fighting segregation in government circles, stated that the removal of Dr. Clark Foreman, advisor on Negro affairs, Department of Interior, and the appointment of Dr. Robert Weaver, does not remove the stigma of segregation from the so-called special set-up.

Miss McRae Says:

"I am glad Dr. Clark Foreman has been removed for propagating and advocating a policy of segregation, of which there was a wealth of evidence and proof against him. His own job as adviser on Negro affairs was the most eloquent witness against him, for while he protested that there was no segregation, he could not inspire confidence when even the designation of his job declared the contrary.

"A review of his work shows that the chief help he was willing to render colored people was under the backward policy of segregation which he enunciated in the beginning.

Does not Change Setup

"But replacing Dr. Foreman by a colorman in no way changes the policy of segregation or remedies the discrimination complained of. For a colored man can infringe on your constitutional rights the same as a white man.

"There is the same segregated set-up for the new encumbent that brought about Dr. Foreman's removal, and that is the discriminatory job itself, the kind of job that depends upon imposing on other people's constitutional rights for its very existence.

Additional Handicap

"There is this additional handicap now. The case has been argued and the points elucidated in the public press, and the encumbent takes the job with his eyes wide open.

"He knows now that this set-up and his job take the affairs of colored people out of the main and therefore preferable channel of employment and administration, and shunts them into an isolated and proscribed channel, which so far as administration goes, is nothing but a segregated hog.

Lowers Status

"He knows that for the sake of being an adviser he unlawfully curbs the freedom of other employees, and tends to lower the status before the government of other citizens. If he as adviser has not a higher program or outlook to offer colored people, the masses are already ahead of him in ideals and wisdom, and are demanding to press forward.

Rests on Ickes

"But the chief responsibility for the whole matter rests upon Mr. Ickes because he is the one who, while denying segregation, hurriedly initiated conferences, the outcome of which extended these segregated units in the other departments, and he has continually strengthened the policy of segregation rather than break it down.

"Because he has ignored the just protests of colored people, and refused to clear up these discriminations, but has engrated the worst features of the old deal on the new deal, he has been unfaithful not only to the employees, the power of his office should have protected and helped, and unfaithful to the principles of equality and justice for 15,000,000 colored citizens.

Political - 1934

Office Holding.

D.C.

Forrester Washington Denies Break With Men of Black Cabinet

Tribune 9-11-34 Washington, D.C.

Nothing Accomplished at Monthly Meetings of Negro Brain Trusters

REPORT SAID TO BE NRA INDICTMENT

Startling Revelations in Document in Hands of Harry Hopkins

By GARLAND MACKEY

Forrester B. Washington denied this week that a break between himself and his superiors caused his resignation last week as director of Negro Work in the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

Mr. Washington tendered his resignation last week to Harry Hopkins, director of the FERA, to take place September 1. In statement to The Tribune, Mr. Washington said that he would resume his duties as head of the Atlanta School of Social Work, Atlanta, Ga., which position he held before coming to Washington.

Successor not Named

His successor has not been named and an attempt to ascertain whether the office would be continued could not be verified as Hopkins is said to be in Europe.

Mr. Washington denied published statements that he had disagreements with his chief, Hopkins, and members of the Interdepartmental Conference, composed of 16 white and colored heads of departments.

The colored members known as the Black Cabinet, is composed of the following:

The Black Cabinet

H. A. Hunt, assistant to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration; Eugene Kinckle Jones, Advisor of Negro Affairs Department fo Commerce; Lieut. Lawrence A. Oxley, Chief of the Negro Division Bureau of Labor Statistics, Department of Labor; Robert L. Vann, Assistant to the Attorney General; Dr. Robert Weaver, assistant to Clark Foreman, white, who is advisor on the economic status of the Negro, Department of Interior; Ambrose Caliver, senior specialist on Negro education, Office of Education, Department of Interior; Bruce Melvin, in charge of work with colored groups for Subsistence Homesteads Division, Department of Interior and Mr. Washington.

Cabinet Sleeping

This cabinet was formed at the suggestion of Clark Foreman and meets monthly. So far the public is unaware of anything this cabinet has done. It is reported that Mr. Washington insisted on action at the meetings and other members of the cabinet differed and thought a more conservative policy of watchful waiting was the better plan.

It is also known that Mr. Washington has one of the most elaborate reports on the condition of Negroes under the present administration than has ever been assembled. He has given this report to his superior, Hopkins, but nothing has been done about it. He hopes that it might reach the President but Hopkins and Mr. Roosevelt are out of the city and Mr. Washington does not know the fate of the report so far. However, it is certain that unless it reaches the President through Hopkins it will reach the Chief Executive by other hands after September 1. Besides it will be given wide publicity through the press.

Report an Indictment

This report is said to be an indictment against the present administration and contains some things that are backed by affidavits and letters that prove a blight on the NRA, CWA, and the other alphabets. It is also reported that Hopkins does not wish to have the President see this indictment and is trying to keep it away from the White House.

Three Negroes Get Jobs As U. S. Interviewers

Pittsburgh Courier 9-8-34

WASHINGTON.—(CNS) — The United States Employment service bureau has just announced the appointment of three interviewers to assist in the work of the bureau's investigations into where the unemployed can best be directed to find employment.

They are: George Cohran, formerly with the National Benefit Life Insurance Company, who was appointed senior interviewer; Victor Daly, realtor, also appointed senior interviewer, and Mrs. Minnie P. Hackley, formerly manager of the Howard university cafeteria and dining hall, before their abolishment during the past years, who was appointed junior interviewer.

Assistant Promoted In Surprise Move

Chicago Defender 9-8-34

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 7.—The designation of Alfred Edgar Smith as Director of Negro Work in the Federal Emergenmy Relief Administration to succeed Forrester B. Washington, who recently resigned, proves that the "speculations" as to strife "within the charmed circle of latter day office holders" were well founded.

Harry L. Hopkins, director of the FERA, who was out of the country when Mr. Washington submitted his resignation, immediately upon his return to Washington, designated Mr. Smith, assistant to Mr. Washington, to take charge of the office, effective September 1. This was a surprise move as far as the so-called Negro Democratic "Advisers" were concerned. It confirmed, however, the rumor that Eugene Kinckle Jones, an aspirant for the place, would not be transferred and further, that "no one would be appointed to the place made vacant by Mr. Washington's resignation."

Big Four Powerless

The group of so-called "Advisers" were fully expectant of having someone that they oked appointed to the place, but they seem to have lost their "pull"—if they ever had any—with the Administration; and what remains of the "big four" is equally as ineffective in getting things done as they suggest.

Despite denials, the concensus of opinion in Washington is that Mr. Washington resigned "a very much disappointed and disgusted man at the indifference and complete apathy on the part of the Administration toward doing anything tangible for the masses of the Race, despite numerous recommendations and surveys which have been made at the suggestion of Administration officials for the past sixteen months."

Mr. Smith, the new appointee, was born in Hot Springs, Ark., and received his A. B. and A. M. degrees at Howard University. He was Mr. Washington's first assistant. Mrs. Mary Cheney, wife of Dr. Perry Cheney, who served as clerk to Mr. Wahington, of New York City, has been transferred to the FERA office in New York.

DR. ABRAM HARRIS RESIGNS FROM NRA POST IN DISGUST

Call 9-21-34

WASHINGTON.—(CNS) — Following close on the resignation of Forrester B. Washington from the FERA because of disgust in the administration of the New Deal, came the resignation of Dr. Abram Harris last week from the Consumers' Advisory Board of the NRA. Dr. Harris, who held the only important post given a Negro in the NRA announced to Mrs. Ramsey, chairman of the board he would no longer serve.

The letter expressed no reason for the resignation, but it is known that Dr. Harris was unwilling to continue in the NRA because of its unfair attitude toward Negro labor. He was appointed to the board last May following a long fight by the Joint Committee on National Recovery to secure Negro representation. Eminently qualified, Dr. Harris was admittedly of distinct value to the board and aided in determining some of its most important policies.

His resignation is certain to cause embarrassment to the New Deal Administration which has begun a concerted effort to persuade Negroes that the NRA has been of benefit to them. In a better position to know what the NRA has done to Negroes than anyone else, Dr. Harris' resignation is effective proof that NRA has served as a hindrance to Negro industrial workers.

Washington FERA Post Suddenly Abolished Sept. 1

Afro-American

Conflicting Reports Float Around as to Whether Experiment Is to Last.

9-22-34

SMITH INSISTS HE IS STILL CARRYING ON

Baltimore Md.

E. K. Jones Denies Seeking Post; Miss Cheney in N.Y.

WASHINGTON (AFRO Bureau) — The Department of Colored Work, from which Forrester B Washington resigned as head, September 1, has been abolished, Bruce McClure, executive secretary of the FERA, told the AFRO this week.

Reports from the office of Morton M. Milford, white, FERA publicity director, stated that Alfred Edgar Smith, who had served as chief clerk in Washington's office, had been appointed to succeed Washington as Director of Colored Work. Announcement of Smith's appointment was given to the AFRO three weeks ago as coming from the office of Harry L. Hopkins, administrator.

Special Assistant

According to McClure, Smith is a special assistant in the correspondence division, and is in charge of handling letters containing complaints from colored people. His salary is recorded in the personnel department as $2,000.

When told that the AFRO had been sent a release, supposedly coming from the publicity department of the FERA, declaring Smith to have been named successor to Washington, McClure stated:

Misunderstanding Alleged

"There had been some misunderstanding concerning that department, but the department has been abolished and no one has the right to go under the title of Director of Colored Work."

Milford told the AFRO that his office hadn't sent out any release on a successor to Washington, and also stated that Smith was in the correspondence division, as well as Washington's other assistant, John Whitten.

The release, which came to the AFRO from Milford's office, telling of the appointment of Smith to succeed Washington, was verified over the telephone, when Milford's office was called by an AFRO reporter. The report that he would carry the title of Director of Colored Work was also confirmed in a telephone conversation between an AFRO reporter and the assistant director of publicity for the FERA.

Smith and Whitten Moved

However, the date that Mr. Washington's resignation took effect, both Smith and Whitten were moved from Mr. Washington's headquarters, across the hall from the office of the assistant administrator, Aubrey Williams, and placed on the first floor in a room with approximately 50 white stenographers, who were handling correspondence.

This location was said to have been only temporary, and that as soon as another office could be located, the two would be moved to a private office.

Miss Chaney to New York

Mary Chaney, who served as Washington's secretary, was immediately transferred to the New York office of the FERA. It is reported that it was intended that when Washington resigned, that his assistants would be placed in another branch of the FERA.

Inasmuch as Miss Cheney was first in order, she was given the preference of choosing her location, and New York was said to have been her choice. Smith and Whitten were then said to have been placed in the correspondence division.

End Planned for September 1

Reliable reports here are that it was Hopkins's intention to do away with the colored department on the first of September, and that Washington was given the privilege of resigning before the department as abolished.

Mr. Washington left the capital about two weeks before his resignation became effective, and has not returned to the city since.

Eugene Kinckle Jones Talks

Eugene Kinckle Jones, an adviser to the Secretary of Commerce, Daniel Roper, told an AFRO reporter that he had made attempts to have a successor appointed to Washington's post but his advice had not been heeded.

He gave himself credit for the original organization of the department and the appointment of Washington to head it.

Reports that he had tried to obtain the position upon Washington's resignation were denied by Jones, who said he was perfectly content with his present position, and added:

"When I get through here I am going back to the Urban League in New York City. You know I never resigned, I merely got a year's leave of absence."

Smith Insists He's Holding On

Smith told an AFRO reporter, that, while the title has been changed, the work that he and his assistant, Whitten, are doing is the same that was done under the title, "Director of Colored Work."

"To say that the Department of Colored Work has been abolished isn't true," Smith said.

Plain-Talking Brain Truster Is First to Quit F. D.

(AFRO Bureau)

WASHINGTON. — Announcement of the resignation of Forrester B. Washington from the position of director of colored work of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration this week is being viewed by veteran observers along the national political row as the possible beginning of a trek back home of members of the colored brain trust.

Afro-American

Mr. Washington, who returns to give full time to the work of directing the Atlanta School of Social Work, after less than six months of Federal employment, gave his resignation as effective September 1. No successor has been named and Mr. Washington could not be reached for a statement on Tuesday.

Speculation Rife

Speculation has been rife regarding the primary reason for the social worker's resignation, there being an opinion in some quarters that he either overestimated the significance of the U.S. post of else underestimated the importance of his position in Atlanta.

In other quarters it is being pointed out that the unprecedented growth and expansion of the Atlanta school, as a result of the present demand for trained social workers, has made urgent the presence of Mr. Washington to direct the work, who never completely severed his connection with the institution, having been granted a leave of absence by the board of trustees.

The increased student body, the establishment at the school of a headquarters for training Emergency Relief Administration workers at state expense, and the consequent expansion of the curriculum and staff have made inadequate the little time Mr. Washington has been able to give the school during the past six months while he has maintained headquarters in Washington.

Harry Hopkins, administrator of the FERA, feeling that one of the greatest services the organization can render is to foster a great training program for colored ERA workers, intends to invest a large sum of money in such a program this fall and winter.

With this in mind, the Atlanta School of Social Work has been chosen as a training base for ERA workers, along with certain other schools that are members of the Association of Schools of Social Work. The second session of the training school for ERA workers is scheduled to begin at the Atlanta School of Social Work on September 24.

It is rumored in informed circles that Eugene Kinckle Jones is slated for Forrester Washington's post. No appropriation has been made for Mr. Jones's department and it may be that he will be transferred. Another report is that Mr. Washington's office may be abolished.

Lawrence Oxley stated that Forrester Washington said at the Swarthmore conference, "If I can't get a recommendation through Harry Hopkins's (his chief) office, I'll resign."

This statement is not to be construed that Washington and Hopkins did not get along. It was merely a part of his radical speech and given as one of the probable reasons for his resignation. Reliable reports are to the effect that there has been no run-in with the administration.

Concerned About School

Persons close to Mr. Washington say that he was concerned greatly about the Atlanta school and felt that his presence there might have avoided the student strike there, recently.

Mr. Washington is known to have made a report to President Roosevelt for the latter to take with his on his vacation. The report, it is said was thorough, stinging and factual. In it Mr. Washington is said to have urged the President to exercise his duty personally in seeing that colored people are given a better chance under the NRA, CWA, et cetera.

It is said to have contained a statement to the effect that the way colored people have suffered under the new deal through the CWA is "a reflection and a disgrace that stinks to heaven."

Letters were produced in the report that sufferers had written to the President that the President had never seen, but had been turned over to him instead. He also included letters that Mrs. Roosevelt had received and had sent to the FERA for consideratiion with her personal signature.

It has been officially reported that Mr. Washington's ideas and policies were not in accord with those of Eugene Kinckle Jones, Dr. John Murchinson and Dr. Victor Cools, other members of the "brain trust."

For this reason, it said, friends of the trio urged that Mr. Washington be dismissed.

"Black Cabinet" Going?

Morton Milford

MR. ROOSEVELT (if you take the word of Garland Mackey, Washington newspaper man) is contemplating abolition of the "Black Cabinet." This "cabinet," as you probably know, is a group of Negroes and white men who hold more or less important Federal posts at Washington, but whose duties are concerned in many instances with the darker tenth of our population. As far back as the days of Frederick Douglass we had a similar group, often referred to as the "Kitchen Cabinet."

10-13-34

New York Times

Mr. Mackay claims to have reliable authority for his statement that Mr. Roosevelt feels Negroes should hold governmental positions on merit alone, and the black constituency should receive the same considerations tendered the rest of our citizenry. No President has been assailed more bitterly on the color line question than Mr. Roosevelt. Frequently we have been in the ranks of his critics. Now we are promised concrete indication that he has been merely biding his time. Should Mr. Roosevelt translate such an advanced view into action he may rest assured of a place in history among America's great statesmen.

Political—1934

Office Holding—

D.C.

Talking It Over

With Roy Wilkins

THE undercover report is that Forrester B. Washington, late-y director of Negro work for the Federal Emergency Relief Admin-stration, has resigned because he refuses to be a "Yes" man. I hope it is true. From what little I know of Mr. Washington, it sounds as though it could very well be true. If you will run back in your mind over the speeches of the Black Brain Trust assembled in Washington by the Roosevelt administration, you will find very few outbursts by Forrester Washington. Practically every other man (and there are some good men there, too) has come forth with vociferous defense of the administration, with scoldings for the Negro people, with glowing promises of what is to be and smooth explanation of what has not been done.

Forrester Washington, of all the men taken to Washington, was closest to human misery. He saw a picture of the people which the economists and the philosophers never see. His trained social case-work mind told him this job called for something more than pretty speeches.

With every trip he took from his desk, with every batch of mail placed before him he caught the picture of stark misery, nakedness, starvation, degradation. And of all the misery, none was worse than that of the Negro millions in the South.

FORRESTER Washington knew that Negroes, especially in the rural areas of the South, were not getting what they should from the federal relief administration. They were being handed what local white relief administrators thought was "enough for a Negro." Some were being given as little as 80 cents a week to feed a family of five. Many had to clothe themselves in burlap bags to hide their nakedness.

When they went to get relief they had to appear either on certain days set aside "for Negroes", or they had to come in the back door after all the whites had been waited upon. The local administrator's word was law, Washington or no Washington. The money was there; it was being sent by the federal government to the state, but the people were not getting it.

How could Forrester Washington grin and make speeches about the New Deal when he knew it was the same old deal? In many places it was worse than the old deal. How about the thousands of Negro farm laborers turned loose in the acreage reduction plan for the relief administration to feed? What was there for Forrester Washington to make speeches about—nice speeches?

SO NOW he is on his way back to his Atlanta School of Social Work, which he left only on leave of absence, anyway. He is going to continue training Negro social workers for the great work of guiding a people into a new way of living. Perhaps Mr. Washington will never tell exactly why he resigned from his government job. It is hard to keep the truth down however. He probably would not say "yes" all the time. He probably told the FERA officials what really ought to be done for Negroes. There is no surer way to encourage the displeasure of most white people than to be called "unreasonable" for speaking out for your own people.

We could use a few more Forrester Washingtons in and out of Washington. We could use some in the Republican party and the Democratic party. We could use them in social work and education. God knows we have carried these "yes" men on our backs long enough. Think how far down the road we could have been without them weighting us down!

MR. ATKINS GETS FERA APPOINTMENT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24—James A. Atkins of Denver, Col., has been appointed assistant to Dr. Ambrose Caliver in the educational division of the FERA, it was announced today by Harry L. Hopkins, administrator. Much of Mr. Atkins' time will be spent in the field, making contacts, and promoting the emergency education programs among Negroes. It is expected that this expansion of activities in the federal office will result in Negroes receiving a more equitable share of the emergency education funds.

Mr. Atkins is a native of Tennessee and holds the bachelor of arts degree from the University of Denver, and has completed the residence and thesis requirements for the master of arts degree at the University of Denver, and has completed the residence and thesis requirements for the master of arts degree at the University of Chicago, with a major in education. He has had teaching experience both in public school and college. He was for five years instructor in English and chairman of the department at Tennessee A. and I. College.

During the past year, Mr. Atkins served as director of adult education at the Glenarm Y. M. C. A. in Denver, and during the past summer completed the course in adult education in the Federal Teacher Training Center at the University of Denver. He is a printer by trade, and has worked in many other occupations. His education, teaching, and other vocational experience, together with his first hand knowledge of a contact with the FERA program in a local community eminently fit him for the work he is to do, the announcement said.

It is understood that the emergency education division of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration has no administrative powers aside from the allocation of funds to states and approval of their general educational programs. Beyond this the interest of the Federal Administration is merely advisory, each state having full control of the details of their educational program, as is the case in normal times. In the absence, therefore, of any regulation assuring an equitable distribution of funds to Negroes, the measures used to promote their interests are: (1) to develop favorable attitudes on the part of public officials, and (2) to inform Negroes concerning the projects and the procedures, and the encourage them to take initiative in setting forth their needs and in obtaining benefits from the various projects.

Much has been done in this connection during the past year by Dr. Caliver, who was assigned to the FERA for this purpose by the office of education for part-time service. Thousands of letters and pieces of literature were sent out to leaders in Negro education and Negro life and, in addition, many personal contacts have been made and much advisory service rendered in matters affecting the Negro.

However, the magnitude of the task and the need for more personal contacts have made it increasingly apparent that a full-time assistant in the work was needed. Administrator Hopkins said today that his organization is pleased to secure a man for this special service with such training, experience, and general qualifications as Mr. Atkins possesses.

Sacramento, Cal.

Jan. 1934

9-27-34

Foreign.
8

Political - 1934

Office Holding.

Only Girl in Foreign Service Home for 30-day Furlough Talks for AFRO

Afro-American, Baltimore, Md. 8-11-34

Miss Lillie Marie Hubbard who has seen 12 years' duty as a foreign service clerk in Liberia, Portugal and Canary Islands.

78 C

Office Holding.

THE BLACK CABINET In The NEW DEAL

The Inside of the Outer Circle

By EUGENE DAVIDSON

An Associated Negro Press Feature

THE RIM OF THE WHEEL

"Dere's a wheel within a wheel!
De little wheel's run by faith
And de big wheel runs by the grace of God!
Dere's a wheel within a wheel!"

After some such fashion goes the old spiritual. And there is more truth than poetry in the words as applied to the Negro in America, even in the working out of a New Deal.

Roosevelt is the hub of our wheel of progress. Inspired by faith in God and in the people of a great nation he is the center around which everything governmental revolves.

On the outside of this wheel is the outer circle, the rim, the iron rim that takes all the hard knocks of the uneven road. This rim may even fall off but the wheel goes on just the same, although with less efficiency and more wear and tear. This rim, this outer circle is the Black Cabinet.

The name, Black Cabinet, as applied to this mythical organization is not new. Two decades ago when Vernon was Register of the Treasury; Dancy, Recorder of Deeds; and Tyler, Auditor for the Navy, some one thought of the name "The Black Cabinet" to apply to members of the race who were closest, officially, to the President.

In my mythical Black Cabinet I have chosen to include, besides presidential appointees of color, also men appointed by Cabinet officers or heads of "administrations" to responsible executive or administrative positions.

The Black Cabinet should be, by virtue of its name and its significance, composed of colored men.

But here I run into a dilemma. What shall be done with a white man who holds a position as "Advisor" on Negro affairs? Where shall I place a white man who not only holds a position a colored man should have, but has a complete colored setup in his office; who associates closely with the other members of the Black Cabinet, works with them on problems affecting the Negro and except for his race is in every way outwardly and openly a Negro? As anomolous as it may seem, this man must be considered as a member of the Black Cabinet. If I am making a mistake the first mistake was made by a Cabinet officer. The white man who passes for colored must be a member of The Black Cabinet, so that's that.

Ladies and gentlemen—I give you the Black Cabinet of the New Deal!

Robert L. Vann, special assistant to the attorney general.

Henry A. Hunt, assistant to the governor of the Farm Credit bureau.

Eugene Kinckle Jones, adviser on Negro affairs in the Department of Commerce.

Clark A. Foreman, white, adviser on the Economic Status of the Negro in the Department of Interior.

Forrester B. Washingtn, director of Negro Work, Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

Lawrence A. Oxley, U. S. Commissioner of Conciliation, Department of Labor.

William J. Thompkins, Recorder of Deeds for the District of Columbia.

There is aalso in the New Deal set up a group of younger men, who while not meriting memberships on the Black Cabinet, nevertheless hold positions of sufficient importance to merit mention. I call these members of the "Little Black Cabinet." They are: William H. Hastie, assistant solicitor, Interior Department.

Robert L. Weaver, associate aadviser on the Economic Status of the Negro in the Interior Department.

Ambrose Caliver, specialist in Department of Education on duty with the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

Earl R. Moses, research executive in Division of Statistics and Research, Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

Theophilous Mann, attorney in Division of Private Projects, Public Works Administration.

John P. Murchison, field agent, Labor Advisory Board.

A third group of men who should be mentioned as having some influence on the administration of the New Deal, include men who hold no official position in the government. These men, however, for varius reasons are playing parts in the present revolution. They have their influence upon the administration and upon the future of the Negro in America. I call them members of the "Associate Black Cabinet." Some of these, about whom more will be said, are G. David Houston, the colored Colonel House, John P. Davis, executive secretary of the Joint Committee on National Recovery and Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

(NEXT WEEK: ROBERT L. VANN)

BLACK CABINET IN WASHINGTON CONSISTS OF 13

WASHINGTON — Quietly, there has been forming here what is being termed the "black cabinet," a group of colored men appointed to responsible positions with the Government. Included are:

Robert L. Vann, special assistant to the attorney general; Henry A. Hunt, farm credit bureau; Eugene Kinckle Jones, Department of Commerce; Clark A. Foreman, white adviser; Forrester B. Washington emergency relief; Lawrence A. Oxley, Department of Labor; and William H. Thompkins, recorder of Deeds.

Members of the "little black cabinet" include: William H. Hastie, Robert L. Weaver, Ambrose Caliver, Earl R. Moses, Theophilus Mann and John P. Murchison.

A third group of men who should be mentioned as having some influence on the administration of the new deal includes men who hold no official position in the government.

They are: John P. Davis, executive secretary of the Joint Committee on National Recovery; G. David Houston, and Walter White, executive secretary of the NAACP.

Chattanooga, Tenn.
TIMES
MAR 29 1934

NEGROES IN CONGRESS.

Although there is at present only one Negro member of Congress, Representative Oscar DePriest, of the First Congressional District, Illinois, there have been, including DePriest, a total of twenty-three Negroes sent to Congress, two to the Senate and twenty-one to the House of Representatives.

Most of the Negro Congressmen have been one-termers, but there have been at least two notable exceptions. Representative Joseph Rainey, of South Carolina, served eight years and Representative DePriest is now serving his third successive term. Again, most of the Negro Congressmen were elected during the hectic years after the close of the War Between the States, but three were elected in the last decade of the past century. The term of one of the three extended into the present century, ending March 4, 1901. From that date until the election of Oscar DePriest six years ago there was no Negro in Congress.

Negroes have gone to Congress from nine States. Illinois is one of them, while the eight others lie south of the Mason and Dixon line. South Carolina holds the record for Negro Congressmen having had eight Negro Representatives. Mississippi is the only State to have been represented in the Senate by a Negro. It had two Negro Senators, one serving from 1869 to 1871, the other having been elected in 1875. The Southern States having had Negro members in the House of Representatives, and the number of them, follow: South Carolina, 8; Louisiana, 1; Georgia, 1; Mississippi, 1; North Carolina, 4; Alabama, 3; Virginia, 1; Florida, 1.

The foregoing information, taken from the recent special edition of the Nashville Globe and Independent, is part of the record of a grim past, which the South is happily forgetting. With the passing of the race question from the field of politics there have come happier race relations and marked progress by both races. Especially marked has been the progress of the Negro.

THOMPKINS IS 11TH RECORDER OF DEEDS

Afro-American

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Except during Wilson's regime al have been colored—Douglass first.

Recorders of Deeds

Frederick Douglass, D.C., 1881-1887, Garfield, Arthur, Cleveland.
James C. Matthews, N.Y., 1886-1887, served 6 months, not confirmed; Cleveland.
James Monroe Trotter, Mass.; 1887-1890 Cleveland.
Blanche K. Bruce, Miss.; 1890-1894, Harrison.
Charles H. J. Taylor, Kansas; 1894-1897, Cleveland.
Henry P. Cheatham, N.C.; 1897-1902, McKinley.
John C. Dancy, N.C.; 1902-1910, Roosevelt.
Henry L. Johnson, Ga.; 1910-1914, Taft.
Arthur G. Froe, W.Va.; 1922-1929, Harding, Coolidge.
Jefferson S. Coage, Del.; 1930-1933, Hoover.
Dr. J. H. Thompkins, Missouri; 1934-, Roosevelt.

LESS FOR HONOR, MORE FOR SERVICE

There is a new deal in politics for Negroes. Of old certain jobs were given as "recognition." In those days the race's leaders were easily identified by their holding the collectorship of the port of New Orleans, collectorship of the Port of Charleston, S. C., the recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia, being minister to Haiti or Liberia and the like.

In the days when the "bloody shirt" type of campaigning was depended upon to keep the Negro a supporter of the G. O. P. there was a liberal sprinkling of these jobs through the South and East. Today most of them are only memories. The decline began under William McKinley, the first of the Republican dynasty to undertake to bring North and South together by putting the Negro in the status that pleased the South.

On through Coolidge this elimination of the Negro from political prominence continued. The one exception was the return of the Negro to Congress, but that was largely the work of Negroes themselves.

With the coming of Franklin D. Roosevelt's new deal this disappearance of the Negro from public office made it probable that the many contacts of the government with the people would never reach Negroes, because white office holders would find their hands full taking care of their own. That actually did happen, but the situation was saved by the President and his cabinet calling in Negroes to see that their people got a share.

The old style of appointive office, out of recognition for past political support, has been replaced by the new deal style in which the Negroes appointed are expected to render a service. The government is not playing politics when it calls Henry A. Hunt from his Ft. Valley (Georgia) school to help it extend financial aid to farmers. It is using an expert. Establishing a bureau to help the Negro get work and calling L. E. Oxley from the great work he was doing in North Carolina to manage it, is vastly different from picking the crack orator of the last campaign for a place in the "black cabinet."

The old jobs are gone almost to the vanishing point. But the new ones, dedicated to service have come. Negroes have their chance. If these men chosen for key positions under the new deal will only realize that they are chosen for what they can do, all is well.

A Joseph saved Egypt, though he was an outlander. It is very possible that a member of a despised race can demonstrate special ability today the same as then which the nation will use in spite of prejudice.

We will continue to have political wheel horses crowding up to the trough for theirs. Let them have it. The spoils system is a part of American life, and black Americans might as well get a share. But in this crisis when there is work to be done, it is very heartening to see the new type of Negro men and women called to the government's service.

Practical politicians will not step aside for experts willingly. Already they prove that by their sharp condemnation of the President's "brain trust." When the change of policy is felt among Negroes, it should be seen for what it is, not as an evidence of race prejudice.

Rumors of the Retirement Black Cabinet Members Gain Credence in Political Circles

Latest Rumor is that Victor Daniels is Slated for the Post of Governor of Virgin Islands Thompkins Still "King Pin"

By Special Correspondent

Rumors and contradiction about the retirement of the Black Cabinet are still running the gamut of Washington's governmental circles. Latest developments indicate, however that there is quite some truth in published reports purported to have come from authoritative sources. One strong indication is that the office of economic adviser to the Secretary of Commerce is already disintegrating. The adviser's private secretary has been seen looking about for a job.

As to the assertion that politicians and Democratic keymen have their finger in the pie there is plenty of truth. One or two of the members of the Black Cabinet are said to be willing to capitulate and stop trying to get jobs for their friends back home and are now trying to please the politicians.

Merely Marked Time

However, altough there are one or two "real" politicians in the Black Cabinet, they have so far done nothing to build the political fences. So far they have been content in "pleasing" some one without watching to see just what political significance their appointments and recommendations for appointments do really have.

Latest development of a major nature is the question of sending colored men to take up the reins of the Virgin Island government. It has been understood for sometime that sooner or later a Negro would be sent down there, but until this week the story has not taken hold although for sometime it had been rumored that Dr. William J. Thompkins, recorder of deed, would Thompkins recorder of deed, would be the man for the job.

Victor Daniels

The latest rumor in regard to the Virgin Island governorship, which the insiders agree will soon go to a Negro, is that Victor Daniels is the strongest contender for it and that he has a good chance of gettiig it. It all depends now on cetain preliminary negotiations and the cutting of red-tape.

Politicians and Democratic candidates throughout the country are all up in an uproar waiting to see just what happens in the matter of getting jobs for the deserving brethren. More than one of them has been coming to Washington since Congress adjourned to put in his bid for those who really helped during the campaign and whose support is needed right now.

Just what effect their representations had with the big shots, no one seems to know, but the furore created during the last few weeks, and the many rumors that have filled the air about the Black Cabinet retirement looks like they did not return home unheard.

As to the Virgin Island question it is no secret that native elements down there want a colored man to take up where Governor Pearson is soon to leave off. Pearson is a holdover from the Republican administration and it is certain that he will be replaced in the near future. Since the facts are known colored aspirants for such a distinguished "plum" are leaving nothing to chance and are working day and night trying to make their point. However, as has been said Mr. Daniels is believed to have the inside race by a nose and that is how the thing stands at the present moment.

Politically speaking, Thompkins is to be the "king-pin" in the intra-party conclaves. For sime time the recorder had been left holding the "political bag," but now things are brightening up. Until now there has been some uncertainty as to which of the vanishing "Big 4" should be the political counselor, and observers are pointing out to certain movements as indicative of the fact that Dr. Thompkins is still holding his own in the high places of the Democratic party. No one knows just what has happened to the "Big Four," and it looks like nobody cares but at this time, when so many contests are about to take place throughout the country, they are asking themelves many questions, chiefly, "Where is the Big Four of yore?"

Moguls Not Worried

But the moguls of the party are unworried. The New Deal is holding its own with colored voters throughout the country and there is little or anything anybody can do to stem their allegiance to President Roosevelt. Even the most pessismitic politician admits that there is really nothing that can be lone. The vote is in the Democratic bag, and only dynamite can dislodge it. So that may be one of the reasons no more is heard of the 1932 leadership. Everything seems to be just right for the big pickings in November.

But even with such promising outlook there are many party-men who believe something should be done about those who are doing nothing but "integreagating." They want to know just how far this mystic word has gone the way of helping the colored people of the country. For, as some say, they have been helped by the New Deal and in spite of the office-holding "integrators."

TAMPA, FLA.
TRIBUNE

DEC 27 1934

NEGRO OFFICIALS

OCALA.—When Teddy Roosevelt invited poor old Booker T. Washington to a conference at the White House, it was terrible the way the Democrats raved and cut up. And just look now! Negro Congressman, negro Recorder of Deeds in Washington, negro secretaries, negro assistants, negro assistant attorney-general, negro arbitrator for Miss Perkins, negro this and negro that, until it looks as if "Sambo" is going to capture the whole works. Roosevelt himself has shoved white men out to make places for 28 negro employes in the White House, three of whom are chauffeurs, a half dozen messengers in his private office, and one full-powered clerk, Heaven help us! Even "Sunny Jim" Farley won't ride in his private P. O. elevator without a colored girl and a negro supervisor in it. The writer doesn't think Southern Democratic Congressmen need feel at all ill at ease about Brother Mitchell eating at their same table.

L. D. L.

Political - 1934

Office Holding.

Illinois.

HOUSE BURIES RESOLUTION OF REP. DEPRIEST

Journal & Guide 2-3-34

Investigation of Jim Crow Order Must Wait 30 Days

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Representative Oscar DePriest's resolution authorizing an investigation of the authority exercised by the Accounts Committee in operating the House Restaurant has been buried for at least 30 days by procedural technicalities.

The Rules Committee, to which the resolution has been referred, has 30 days in which to report its action. If it refuses to bring the matter before the house at the end of that time, Mr. DePriest has indicated that he will move to have the committee discharged from consideration of the resolution.

A petition signed by 145 members will be necessary to discharge the committee and bring the resolution to the floor.

Jurisdiction Questioned

The controversy regarding the operation of the House restaurant recently arose when Morris Lewis, secretary to Mr. DePriest, and his son, Morris Lewis, Jr., were refused service when they visited the House restaurant.

The Accounts Committee received jurisdiction over the House restaurant in a special resolution adopted in the Sixty-seventh Congress on June 2, 1921. It is contended by Mr. DePriest that such authority ceased when that Congress ended and no committee since has been authorized to conduct the restaurant. That resolution, he said, could not bind later Congresses.

As far as could be learned Tuesday, the question of denying colored persons the right to eat in the House restaurant is temporarily buried. Under cover, however, supporters of Mr. Lindsay in barring colored persons are reported to have been active in working up sentiment in favor of the action taken by him. In the meantime, Mr. DePriest can do nothing but await action by the Rules Committee or expiration of the 30-day period.

DePriest Defies Order

Another report current in congressional circles is that Speaker Rainey and Representative Bertrand H. Snell, of New York, minority leader, have decided to quiet the matter by allowing the DePriest resolution to remain in committee without action. Mr. DePriest, however, has declared that he will not allow the matter to rest.

Since Mr. Lewis and his son were refused service in the restaurant, he has eaten there with Representative DePriest. The two sat along the wall near the center of the room and necks were craned from all sides as they took seats.

In the morning on the day he introduced his resolution, Mr. DePriest visited the White House, but later denied that he had discussed with Marvin McIntyre, one of President Roosevelt's secretaries, the restaurant incident.

Fight Planned

Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, acting minority leader in the absence of Mr. Snell, said he believes Representative DePriest would have the support of many members.

"Undoubtedly a majority of the Republicans will support him when the resolution comes up," said Mr. Martin. "The Republicans don't believe in discrimination. They will also support him in the Rules Committee."

Mr. Martin said he understood that Representative James M. Beck, Republican, of Pennsylvania, former Solicitor General of the United States, is prepared to take the floor in defense of Representative DePriest and the rights of colored people.

If sufficient pressure is brought to bear on members of either the Accounts or Rules committee, their personnel indicates Representative Warren will be rebuked. A majority of both committees are northerners or from States in which the colored vote is a factor.

Under a sectional division in the Accounts Committee, Representative Warren would be rebuked by a vote of 9 to 3. Under a similar division in the Rules Committee, the DePriest resolution would be ordered favorably reported by a vote of 7 to 5.

Smithfield, N. C. Herald
January 26, 1934

Attacks Color Line

OSCAR De PRIEST, Republican and negro Representative from Illinois, who has stirred up the negro question in Washington with his demand that negroes be allowed to eat with whites in the public restaurant operated in the Capitol. He made the demand after waiters refused Tuesday to serve his secretary and another negro. The manager of the cafe stated that it was operated for the convenience of Congressmen and that negro employees or negro visitors had never been served there. De Priest threatened to have the cafe closed if negroes are barred from its service.

JOURDAIN RE-ELECTED

EVANSTON, Ill., April 12—Edwin B. Jourdain was swept back into office as alderman of the Fifth ward last week by a three to one majority over W. D. Twiggs, one time clerk in the City Hall.

Concord, N. C. Tribune
January 30, 1934

AFTER NEGRO VOTE.

Oscar DePriest, negro congressman from an Illinois district lying almost wholly within the city of Chicago, has done little during his term in office, so now with an election in the offing he seeks support by insisting that negroes be permitted to eat in the restaurant of the capital which serves the House of Representatives.

DePriest apparently is seeking to gain support by making some sort of a fight for social equality, a gesture that may win him votes at home but will find little backing throughout the nation. If he had done anything during his two terms it wouldn't be necessary for him to paramount such an issue in the hope of gain- in support, but having been practically a negligible factor heretofore he may be expected to make a great hullabaloo over this issue of equality.

Representative Lindsay Warren, of North Carolina, has charge of the restaurant for the House committee, and it is but natural that he should oppose eating in the restaurant when DePriest and his negro friends are there. The negro congressman is said to eat often at the big Republican table but most of the time he has his own party of negroes.

They may insist that Mr. Warren permit the negro to eat in this restaurant but the North Carolinian can be counted on to resist to the last, just as 99 per cent. of his neighbors at home would do. And this is especially true in light of the fact that DePriest is seeking to make political thunder out of the case.

Raleigh, N. C. Times
January 24, 1934

NON-RACIAL PORK CHOP RIGHTS NEW DEMAND OSCAR DE PRIEST

Oscar De Priest, sole negro representative in Congress, is off again with a crusade insisting that the constitutional rights of his race be respected to the point of the privilege of eating in the House restaurant, never accused of being color blind.

De Priest was not personally involved in the present campaign to force a white and black color scheme of decorations in the refectory, that is, in the public section thereof. As for himself, he as a member of the House is entitled to all its privileges, dining along with his white fellow members included. The trouble arose when his secretary, one Morris Lewis, tried to crash the restaurant in company with a friend, and was refused service.

Declaring that he would draft a resolution for presentation to the House, De Priest made a statement in which he said that the manager of the restaurant had told Lewis that Representative Lindsay Warren, chairman of the accounts committee, had issued orders to keep negroes out. He added that, "If the Democrats are going to act that way toward the negroes, we might as well have a showdown now. It seems funny to me that a man with money to pay for his food whether he be Jew, Gentile or negro, should be refused food in a public restaurant. That is a public restaurant and everybody ought to have a right to eat there. I am going to insist on a square deal for Jews, Gentiles and negroes."

All of which is pure fulminate for oratorical bombs to be fired in Chicago later. As to constitutional rights, the country is just now being given one of the most graphic illustrations in its history that the instrument of the fathers is of an extreme flexibility. But even on the pure question of law, he and all others who take the trouble to inquire will learn that the houses of Congress are, as to their own concerns, a law unto themselves. They may and sometimes do refuse a duly elected member admission because they do not like the cut of his eye. As to their own restaurants, they could bar diners with whiskers apt to get into the soup just as effectively as they can, in their discretion, bar negroes. They cannot bar De Priest himself from the restaurant, seeing that he is a joint administrator thereof, but they can effectively overrule him in setting up standards applying to guests to be admitted, even if they include the trouble-some point of color.

ST. LOUIS, MO.
STAR TIMES

SEP 21 1934

Negro Congressman to Speak.

Oscar DePriest, Negro Republican congressman from the First Illinois District, Chicago, will speak at 7:30 p. m. Sunday at the Pine Street Y. M. C. A., 2846 Pine street.

Illinois.

Political - 1934

Office Holding

HOUSE BURIES RESOLUTION OF REP. DEPRIEST

Journal & Guide 2-3-34

Investigation of Jim Crow Order Must Wait 30 Days

2-4-34

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Representative Oscar DePriest's resolution authorizing an investigation of the authority exercised by the Accounts Committee in operating the House Restaurant has been buried for at least 30 days by procedural technicalities.

The Rules Committee, to which the resolution has been referred, has 30 days in which to report its action. If it refuses to bring the matter before the house at the end of that time, Mr. DePriest has indicated that he will move to have the committee discharged from consideration of the resolution.

A petition signed by 145 members will be necessary to discharge the committee and bring the resolution to the floor. 2-3-34

Jurisdiction Questioned

The controversy regarding the operation of the House restaurant recently arose when Morris Lewis, secretary to Mr. DePriest, and his son, Morris Lewis, Jr., were refused service when they visited the House restaurant.

The Accounts Committee received jurisdiction over the House restaurant in a special resolution adopted in the Sixty-seventh Congress June 2, 1921. It is contended by Mr. DePriest that such authority ceased when that Congress ended and no committee since has been authorized to conduct the restaurant. That resolution, he said, could not bind later Congresses.

As far as could be learned Tuesday, the question of denying colored persons the right to eat in the House restaurant is temporarily buried. Under cover, however, support of Mr. Lindsay in barring colored persons are reported to have been active in working up sentiment in favor of the action taken by him. In the meantime, Mr. DePriest can do nothing but await action by the Rules Committee or expiration of the 30-day period.

Journal & Guide

DePriest Defies Order

Another report current in congressional circles is that Speaker Rainey and Representative Bertrand H. Snell, of New York, minority leader, have decided to quiet the matter by allowing the DePriest resolution to remain in committee without action. Mr. DePriest, however, has declared that he will not allow the matter to rest.

Since Mr. Lewis and his son were refused service in the restaurant, he has eaten there with Representative DePriest. The two sat along the wall near the center of the room and necks were craned from all sides as they took seats.

In the morning on the day he introduced his resolution, Mr. DePriest visited the White House, but later denied that he had discussed with Marvin McIntyre, one of President Roosevelt's secretaries, the restaurant incident.

Fight Planned

Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, acting minority leader in the absence of Mr. Snell, said he believes Representative DePriest would have the support of many members.

"Undoubtedly a majority of the Republicans will support him when the resolution comes up," said Mr. Martin. "The Republicans don't believe in discrimination. They will also support him in the Rules Committee."

Mr. Martin said he understood that Representative James M. Beck, Republican, of Pennsylvania, former Solicitor General of the United States, is prepared to take the floor in defense of Representative DePriest and the rights of colored people.

If sufficient pressure is brought to bear on members of either the Accounts or Rules committee, their personnel indicates Representative Warren will be rebuked. A majority of both committees are northerners or from States in which the colored vote is a factor.

Under a sectional division in the Accounts Committee, Representative Warren would be rebuked by a vote of 9 to 3. Under a similar division in the Rules Committee, the DePriest resolution would be ordered favorably reported by a vote of 7 to 5.

Smithfield, N. C. Herald
January 26, 1934

Attacks Color Line

OSCAR De PRIEST, Republican and negro Representative from Illinois, who has stirred up the negro question in Washington with his demand that negroes be allowed to eat with whites in the public restaurant operated in the Capitol. He made the demand after waiters refused Tuesday to serve his secretary and another negro. The manager of the cafe stated that it was operated for the convenience of Congressmen and that negro employees or negro visitors had never been served there. De Priest threatened to have the cafe closed if negroes are barred from its service.

JOURDAIN RE-ELECTED

EVANSTON, Ill., April 12—Edwin B. Jourdain was swept back into office as alderman of the Fifth ward last week by a three to one majority over W. P. Twiggs, one time clerk in the City Hall.

Concord, N. C. Tribune
January 30, 1934

AFTER NEGRO VOTE.

Oscar DePriest, negro congressman from an Illinois district lying almost wholly within the city of Chicago, has done little during his term in office, so now with an election in the offing he seeks support by insisting that negroes be permitted to eat in the restaurant of the capital which serves the House of Representatives.

DePriest apparently is seeking to gain support by making some sort of a fight for social equality, a gesture that may win him votes at home but will find little backing throughout the nation. If he had done anything during his two terms it wouldn't be necessary for him to paramount such an issue in the hope of gaining support, but having been practically a negligible factor heretofore he may be expected to make a great hullabaloo over this issue of equality.

Representative Lindsay Warren, of North Carolina, has charge of the restaurant for the House committee, and it is but natural that he should oppose eating in the restaurant when DePriest and his negro friends are there. The negro congressman is said to eat often at the big Republican table but most of the time he has his own party of negroes.

They may insist that Mr. Warren permit the negro to eat in this restaurant but the North Carolinian can be counted on to resist to the last, just as 99 per cent. of his neighbors at home would do. And this is especially true in light of the fact that DePriest is seeking to make political thunder out of the case.

Raleigh, N. C. Times
January 24, 1934

NON-RACIAL PORK CHOP RIGHTS NEW DEMAND OSCAR DE PRIEST

Oscar De Priest, sole negro representative in Congress, is off again with a crusade insisting that the constitutional rights of his race be respected to the point of the privilege of eating in the House restaurant, never accused of being color blind.

De Priest was not personally involved in the present campaign to force a white and black color scheme of decorations in the refectory, that is, in the public section thereof. As for himself, he as a member of the House is entitled to all its privileges, dining along with his white fellow members included. The trouble arose when his secretary, one Morris Lewis, tried to crash the restaurant in company with a friend, and was refused service.

Declaring that he would draft a resolution for presentation to the House, De Priest made a statement in which he said that the manager of the restaurant had told Lewis that Representative Lindsay Warren, chairman of the accounts committee, had issued orders to keep negroes out. He added that, "If the Democrats are going to act that way toward the negroes, we might as well have a showdown now. It seems funny to me that a man with money to pay for his food whether he be Jew, Gentile or negro, should be refused food in a public restaurant and everybody ought to have is a public restaurant and I am going to insist on a square a right to eat there. They cannot bar De Priest and negroes."

instrument of the fathers is of an extreme flexibility. But even on the pure question of law, he and all others who take the trouble to inquire will learn that the houses of Congress are, as to their own concerns, a law unto themselves. They may and sometimes do refuse a duly elected member admission because they do not like the cut of his eye. As to their own restaurants, they could bar diners with whiskers apt to get into the soup just as effectively as they can, in their discretion, bar negroes. They cannot bar De Priest himself from the restaurant, seeing that he is a joint administrator thereof, but they can effectively overrule him in setting up standards applying to guests to be admitted, even if they include the trouble-some point of color.

ST. LOUIS, MO.
STAR TIMES

SEP 21 1934

Negro Congressman to Speak.

Oscar DePriest, Negro Republican congressman from the First Illinois District, Chicago, will speak at 7:30 p. m. Sunday at the Pine Street Y. M. C. A., 2846 Pine street.

As to that, De Priest has set a record going far beyond the Booker Washington precedent in the matter of the Teddy Roosevelt sandwiches. He has been entertained in the White House by the Great Engineer and his consort was one of Mrs. Hoover's especially invited lady friends at a tea. He might better rest on these laurels without inviting disappointment in the effort to capture the House restaurant by an infiltration of race-conscious constituents from Illinois.

DES MOINES, IA.
REGISTER

JAN 30 1934

NO PRAYER SEEMS TO BE MORE NEEDED.

Congressman DePriest's request that a Negro minister be permitted to offer the opening prayer at a session of the house of representatives recalls the ancient anecdote of the clergyman from the hinterland who faced the senate for a similar service and then "prayed with particular fervor for the United States."

The Rev. James S. Montgomery chaplain of the house to whom Speaker Rainey referred the Chicago Negro congressman's request, has simply "deferred the matter."

Anyone familiar with the baggage of race-prejudice which southern congressmen all carry with them to Washington will understand—whether or not he endorses—the "jim-crow" rules they have imposed upon the government-operated restaurant of the house of representatives.

But by what stretch of even that bigotry or by what interpretation of Christianity the house and its chaplain can object to an invocation delivered by a Negro clergyman, must remain a mystery to reason as well as to democracy.

If, in an unguarded moment, the house chaplain yields to DePriest's request, the prayer of that day may logically be a fervent plea for guidance in tolerance and understanding.

CONCORD, N. C.
TRIBUNE

JAN 30 1934

AFTER NEGRO VOTE.

Oscar DePriest, negro congressman from an Illinois district lying almost wholly within the city of Chicago, has done little during his term in office, so now with an election in the offing he seeks support by insisting that negroes be permitted to eat in the restaurant of the capital which serves the House of Representatives.

DePriest apparently is seeking to gain support by making some sort of a fight for social equality, a gesture that may win him votes at home but will find little backing throughout the nation. If he had done anything during his two terms it wouldn't be necessary for him to paramount such an issue in the hope of gaining support, but having been practically a negligible factor heretofore he may be expected to make a great hullabaloo over this issue of equality.

Representative Lindsay Warren, of North Carolina, has charge of the restaurant for the House committee, and it is but natural that he should oppose eating in the restaurant when DePriest and his negro friends are there. The negro congressman is said to eat often at the big Republican table but most of the time he has his own party of negroes.

They may insist that Mr. Warren permit the negro to eat in this restaurant but the North Carolinian can be counted on to resist to the last, just as 99 per cent. of his neighbors at home would do. And this is especially true in light of the fact that DePriest is seeking to make political thunder out of the case.

ST. LOUIS, MO.
POST DISPATCH

SEP 21 1934

ST. LOUIS POST-DIS

Oscar DePriest to Speak.

Oscar DePriest, Negro Republican Congressman for the First District of Illinois, the Chicago "Loop," will address a meeting of Negro professional men Sunday at the Pine Street Y. M. C. A. Rev. J. E. Cook will introduce him.

WASHINGTON, D. C.
STAR

FEB 19 1934

COLORED LEADERS ARE PAID TRIBUTE

William Tyler Page Speaks at Concert of Howard Glee Club.

Tribute to nine colored members of Congress whom he knew personally during his long service in the House was paid by William Tyler Page, former clerk and author of "The American's Creed," in a patriotic speech at a concert by the Howard University Male Glee Club in the auditorium of the new House Office Building yesterday, sponsored by Representative and Mrs. Oscar De Priest. Mr. Page also extolled such other champions of the colored people as Abraham Lincoln, Frederick Douglass and Benjamin Banneker.

The concert drew a capacity audience, which included many members of Congress and their wives. It was directed by Roy W. Tibbs. William L. Houston was master of ceremonies. Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, president of Howard University, pronounced the invocation.

Seated on the rostrum with Representative and Mrs. De Priest were several House members and Prominent colored leaders, including:

Representative Robert L. Doughton of North Carolina, Representative U. S. Guyer, Kansas; Representative James M. Beck, Pennsylvania; Representative Walter G. Andrews, New York; Representative P. H. Moynihan, Illinois; Representative Edgar Howard, Nebraska; Dr. Charles Edward Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Garnet C. Wilkinson, Judge James A. Cobb, Dr. Emmett J. Scott, Dr. William Stuart Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Talley R. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Morris W. Lewis, jr.; Mrs. Samuel A. Milton, Miss Muriel Milton and Miss Grace McCard.

Statesville, N. C. Daily
February 22, 1934

NO CAUSE FOR CRITICISM.

Writing from Washington Mr. H. E. C. Bryant tells that the glee club of Howard University, colored institution in Washington, gave a concert in the auditorium of the house office building on a recent Sunday in honor of Congressman De Priest, the negro representative from Illinois. Permission to use the hall was asked of Congressman Doughton, who as head of the ways and means committee has the custodianship. After consulting other congressmen Mr. Doughton gave permission. Also Mr. and Mrs. Doughton, who happened to be passing while the concert was on, and other members of Congress stopped for a little while to listen to the music of the glee club. Mr. Bryant seems to think there may be a hereafter to this incident—that attempt will be made to arouse race prejudice in connection with the color line.

It is impossible to see any sound reason for that. The negro congressman has the same rights and privileges as other congressmen and he can't be denied on account of his color. He eats in the house restaurant where the white congressmen are served and can take his friends there with him, as the white congressmen. The negroes are of course served at separate tables but in the same room. There was no good reason that we can see to deny the negroes the use of the public building for their concert. If it had been denied it would probably have raised a row and Congress would have permitted it. The negroes are allowed the use of court houses and other public buildings in North Carolina to give concerts and for other meetings. The white folks are invited to attend and frequently do attend, being given separate reservations. Stopping to hear the negroes sing in Washington Mr. Doughton was doing no more than numbers of his constituents do in North Carolina.

Not only do white folks here in North Carolina and in the south attend negro singings on occasions because all southern whites like to hear negroes sing, but negro choirs and glee clubs and concert troupes have become common and they are invited often to sing before white luncheon clubs, Sunday Schools and sometimes for the services in white churches. Nobody tries to arouse race prejudice about that. They couldn't. The colored folks sing as a part of the entertainment the whties desire and that does not of itself mean social equality, mixed schools or anything similar.

ST. LOUIS, MO.
GLOBE DEMOCRAT

SEP 23 1934

NEGRO CONGRESSMAN GUEST HERE TONIGHT

Oscar De Priest, Negro Congressman from the First Illinois District, the Chicago loop will be tendered a dinner at the Pine Street Y. M. C. A. 2846 Pine street, at 7:30 o'clock tonight. J. W. Cook, active in the Negro Boy Scout movement, will introduce the Congressman. Richard W. Kent, Republican Committeeman from the Sixth Ward, heads the Committee on Arrangements.

KANSAS CITY, MO.
STAR

AUG 6 1934

DE PRIEST A SPEAKER TONIGHT.

Negro Representative Will Urge Renomination of U. S. Guyer.

Oscar De Priest, Chicago, Negro representative in Congress from the first Illinois district, will be the principal speaker in the interest of the candidacy for the renomination and re-election of U. S. Guyer, representative in congress from the second Kansas district, at 8:30 o'clock tonight at Heathwood Park in Kansas City, Kansas, at a special meeting in behalf of Mr. Guyer.

Mr. Guyer will make a radio talk from 7:30 to 8 o'clock tonight.

Political – 1934

Office Holding.

Illinois.

DePriest Defeated—Do We Lose or Gain?

Black Dispatch 11-8-34

Defeat of Oscar DePriest, congressman from the 1st Illinois district, removes from active participation in the national arena one of the most virile and dynamic figures Negroes have produced since Abraham Lincoln. DePriest is recognized as congressman for 12,000,000 Negroes. He gave voice and resonance to the black man's viewpoint on all questions and issues. In the main he was, in the judgment of the Black Dispatch, right on all questions, and America's submerged tenth had learned to lean upon the weighty things he said.

Perhaps his undoing, and yet, in this enlarged vision was his greatest service rendered, rested in DePriest's admonition to Negroes to vote as independents and non-partisans. It was the Illinois congressman who in many of his speeches in the South urged the Negro to vote with the majority party in the state where they lived. This was used against him with telling effect, and while he today stands defeated we believe the historians of the years to come will characterize him as a statesman because of his efforts to transform the Negro from Republican granite into a flexible, movable, effective force.

Last June, while in Oklahoma, DePriest urged Negroes in Oklahoma to vote the Democratic ticket in this state. He pointed out that Democracy is the majority party in Oklahoma and that only by allying with this majority party could the Negro expect to move politically forward.

Aside from our personal friendship, we liked DePriest and thought he fit the bill, because in our return to congress, the black man needed a two-fisted, upstanding fighter to reclaim the ground we had lost. No one will charge that DePriest did not stand four-square in Washington for every objective and hope that nestles in the breast of America's bronzed hued citizenship. From the President's tea table to the congressional dining room he symbolized all that stands for equality and opportunity.

The new Illinois congressman has a hard hill up which to climb. It will be no easy task to walk in shoe-leather of DePriest. The nation stands askant, the novice will have to prove himself. Worst of all the seniority which Oscar DePriest had gained through service will be lost. This means much in committee assignment.

On the other hand, the election of a Negro Democrat to congress will have resonance throughout the Southland. If the Democrats in congress use their head, they will give Arthur Mitchell the "breaks." This is possible and it will mean much in proving the new attitude and complex of the men who compose the Democratic party of today.

The elevation of Arthur Mitchell to congress by Democrats will cause many Negroes who have been wavering in the Republican column to break away from their old traditional ties, and view the dawn of a new day. There is nothing which symbolizes a "New Deal" for Negroes in American politics more than the selection of Arthur Mitchell to a congress seat on the Democratic ticket.

Douglas, Ga., Enterprise
November 22, 1934

An Alabama negro won the race for congress in the recent elections, defeating the well known republican negro, DePriest. The victor won on the democratic ticket in the well known Chicago negro district. He was once an office boy for Booker T. Washington, and is graduated from several well known colleges. He says he will get along with the whites because he won't keep thinking of his color. That was DePriest's trouble. Anyway, he is from the South.

Graham, N. C. Gleaner
November 22, 1934

Oscar De Priest, negro Republican Congressman from the First Illinois District, was defeated in the recent election by Arthur W. Mitchell, Democratic negro, said to be the first Democratic negro ever elected to Congress. It is to be hoped that he will be an improvement on his predecessor.

South Boston, Va. Gazette
November 15, 1934

When Oscar DePriest, a Chicago Negro, was elected to Congress in 1898, considerable indignation was expressed in various quarters, especially by Southern Democrats. They got rid of De Priest in the recent election, but didn't get rid of his color. His successful Democratic opponent, Arthur W. Mitchell, is also a Negro.

DISPATCH

Richmond, Va.

NOV 27 1934

The Negro Congressman

An extract from an editorial appearing in the Chattanooga Times, in which the election of a Negro Democrat, Arthur W. Mitchell of Chicago, is discussed.

Let it be said that the presence of a Negro congressman on the Democratic side of the House of Representatives cannot properly be taken as raising the question of social equality. It will be most unfortunate if Representative Mitchell and other Democratic congressmen and officials should permit the question to obtrude itself in their thinking and influence their conduct.

Arthur W. Mitchell has been elected to the House to serve his constituents and the nation in matters of government. Other Democratic congressmen and officials generally should accord the Negro congressman, in matters relating to government, every consideration customarily shown those of their own color. Social intercourse is very largely a matter of taste, congeniality and policy, in which race is often a factor; in the transaction of government business, race should never be a consideration.

There is not the slightest valid reason why Mitchell's should be a determining factor in the official treatment accorded him. In business, industry and the professions, the Negro should be dealt with, even in the South, on terms of business, industrial and professional equality.

Much more, if anything, is a representative of the race in Congress entitled to be met and dealt with on terms of official equality.

Any Democratic congressman or other official who may fail to meet and deal with Mitchell on such terms on the floor of the House, in committee rooms, in cloakrooms or in executive and administrative offices, will thereby be violating and denying the first principle of democratic government.

Newberry, S. C. Observer
November 20, 1934

THE DEMOCRATIC NEGRO CONGRESSMAN.

Times do change. For the first time in history, there is to be a negro sitting in Congress as a Democrat. That any negro should be a Democrat is almost unbelievable.

The reason why negroes are Republicans is plain enough. We remember, away back in the 1880's, when "we" were a small boy asking an old Newberry negro how he was going to vote. He replied, perfectly respectfully, and with some little embarrassment at the thought of displeasing his white friends, "I reckon I'll vote Republican; dey ho'pe to git my freedom."

The old negro could not be blamed. He remembered all that and he felt a proper gratitude to the party that "ho'pe to git" him his freedom, as we would have felt toward any party that had similarly helped us.

But now things have changed. It's a long long way to Tipperary; but it's an even longer way back to 1865; and the younger generation of negroes in the North are evidently beginning to judge politics more by the present than the past.

So thinks Congressman-elect Arthur Mitchell, Alabama-born Chicago mulatto, who has bee nelected as a Democrat on the New Deal plaform. Mitchell was a Republican before 1932, but at that time he decided the Democratic party had more to offer him and his race merely as human beings than had the Republican.

It will be a little embarrassing to the Southern Democrats to adjust themselves in all respects to their colored fellow member. So long as the Republican De Priest, who was defeated by Mitchell, was the only negro in the House, the Southern Democrats could blow off their irritation on the racial feature involved because De Priest was a Republican. But what of fellow-Democrat Mitchell? Democrats would prefer to have only 321 Democrats instead of the destined number of 322. What will happen when Mrs. Mitchell is invited by the Democratic President to tea at the White House along with the wives of the 321 white Democratic Congressmen? And what of Congressman Mitchell's sitting right next to some good Southern Democrat on the Democratic side of the House?

Probably most Southern Congressmen would prefer for the Democratic membership of the new House to be 321 instead of 322.

New Congressman's Wife Won't Give up Her Job

Afro-American 11-17-34

Mrs. Arthur Mitchell to Continue as Clerk in Government Post in Capital.

(AFRO Bureau)

WASHINGTON — Mrs. Arthur Mitchell, wife of the newly elected congressman from Chicago, does not expect to give up her position when her husband takes his seat, she said, adding, "My husband and I have always planned together and pulled together. I have always helped him. I could stop my work now, but I would rather not, for we have other plans."

Mrs. Mitchell, who lives at 1320 R Street, northwest, has been employed as a clerk in the General Accounting Office since 1923, with an intervention of four years. She resigned her position in 1929 and went to Chicago where her husband had gone in 1928 to practice law. In 1932, she decided to come back and was reinstated in her former position.

Began in Census

She came to Washington with her husband in 1919, and was employed in the 1920 government census compilation work. She was born and reared in Connecticut, and after taking preparatory work at Howard University, she returned to Connecticut

White Republicans Helped Defeat Oscra DePriest

Afro-American

Underworld Activities Cited as Cause of Congressman's Defeat in Chi.

11-17-34

DePRIEST MIXED IN LOCAL FUSSES

Baltimore, Md.

Sore Places Made in Primary Failed to Heal.

CHICAGO. (ANP)—That former Congressman Oscar DePriest signed his own death warrant last winter, when he took sides in a factional squabble within the Republican party is one of the many theories advanced by political analysists concerning the defeat of the Chicagoan by Arthur W. Mitchell, Democrat.

The elected leader of the second ward, which contains more Republican votes than any other in the city, was William E. King. William L. Dawson, alderman of the second ward, wanted King's job as committeeman. DePriest backed Dawson against King for the post and Roscoe Simmons against King for the senate post. The then senator, Adelbert H. Roberts, was also running for the nomination. DePriest also opposed him. Both Dawson and Simmons lost, and the Congressman had made two powerful enemies, King and Roberts. Their followers lusted for DePriest's blood.

From the primary in April until last week's election, the wound was kept open by Dawson's contest of the election of King as a committeeman.

Coming down to the election there were more Democratic votes in the district than Republican but there were more colored votes than white. With a white Democratic candidate, the colored votes went to DePriest. But when the Democrats elected a colored candidate, he got the white vote and a large percentage of the colored votes. Furthermore, DePriest could not look to the white Republican leadership for support.

The reason given is that this resulted from a deal with Dan Serritella, an Italian, who is committeeman of the first ward, where most of the white vote is located. Serritella is also a state senator and ran for re-election during the recent campaign. It is charged that he formerly worked with Scarface Al Capone, underworld figure now in prison.

The Democrats did not put up a candidate against him, and it is alleged that they agreed not to oppose Serritella if he would throw his white Republican strength to the Democratic candidate, Mitchell. If Serritella entered into such a deal as this to insure his own re-election, the white vote was practically solid against DePriest.

Break Before Election

DePriest's support of King for the senate seat is reported to have been a strain on Dawson, who broke with him two days before the election and failed to attend the final big Republican rally. Roberts, stung by DePriest's treatment of him in the primary, would give no active support in the election.

Against DePriest on election day were some of Dawson's followers, some of King's followers, and some of Roberts's followers. Some of the colored Republicans who opposed DePriest set up an organization for Mitchell and worked actively for him.

Mitchell also had the active support of Democratic Mike McKenna and the passive support of Serritella, Dawson and Roberts.

DE PRIEST IS A VICTIM OF MANY 'DEALS'

Call 11-15-34

Democrats and G. O. P.'s Trade to Beat Him More Than to Elect Mitchell

Chicago

By Frank Hall

CHICAGO. — (ANP) — Now that the shouting is all about over and Congressman-elect Arthur W. Mitchell takes the "mike" from Congressman Oscar DePriest, the fellows who thumb their pages and read deeply, are talking over why and who was responsible for the DePriest downfall.

The analysis is a crazy-quilt patchwork of deals, steals and personal enmities.

First and foremost, they say, DePriest signed his death warrant last winter when he took sides in a factional squabble within the Republican party. The elected leader of the second ward, which contains more Republican votes than any ward in the city, was William E. King. But William L. Dawson, alderman of the second ward, wanted King's job as committeeman. A Sunday confab was held and King was informed that he must step aside as committeeman and be satisfied to run for the state senate. King balked, walked out, and the fight began.

Bitter At DePriest

DePriest backed Dawson against King for the committee post and Roscoe Conklin Simmons against King for the senate seat. The then senator, Adelbert H. Roberts, was also running for the nomination. DePriest also opposed him. Both Dawson and Simmons lost. DePriest had made two powerful enemies within his own party, King and Roberts. Their followers lusted for DePriest's blood.

From the primary in April until the election November 6 the wound was kept open by Dawson's contest of the election of King as committeeman.

Coming down to the election, the situation was something like this: There were more Democratic votes in the district than Republican, but there were more Negro votes than white. With a white Democratic candidate, the Negro votes went to DePriest. But when the Democrats selected a Negro to run, he got the white vote and a large percentage of the Negro votes. Furthermore, DePriest could look to the white Republican leadership for no support.

A Vote Deal

The reason was Dan Serritella, Italian, who is committeeman in the first ward where most of the white vote is located. Serritella is a state senator and it is charged that he used to work with "Scarface" Al Capone, the racketeer now in a federal prison. Serritela ran for reelection in this election. The Democrats did not put up a candidate against him. It is alleged that they agreed not to oppose him if he would throw his white Republican strength to the Democratic candidate, Mitchell. If Serritella entered into such a deal thus to insure his own reelection, the white vote was practically solid against DePriest.

Negro voting strength broke up somewhat as follows: King was still running as a Republican for the state senate and supported DePriest. DePriest supported King. But Dawson, the Republican alderman who had his own independent organization in the second ward instructed for Hammond. King's Democratic opponent because of the primary strife. DePriest's suport of King in the election is alleged to have been a strain on Dawson who, finally, two days before the election, broke with DePriest and failed to attend the final big Republican rally on Sunday. Roberts, stung by DePriest's treatment of him in the primary, would give him no active support in the election. Against DePriest on election day within his own party there were some of Dawson's followers, some of King's followers, but not King himself, and some of Roberts' followers. Some of these Negro Republicans who opposed DePriest, set up an organization for Mitchell and worked actively for him.

Election day the pattern worked out as follows:

White Democrats and Republicans opposed DePriest.

Dawson Negro Republicans were not unfriendly to the Negro Democrats, Mitchell and Hammond.

Roberts Negro Republicans flirted with the Negro Democrat, Mitchell.

Hammond Negro Republico-Democrats supported the Republican, DePriest, as against Mitchell Democrat.

Mitchell Republico-Democrats supported King, Republican, as against Hammond, Democrat.

DePriest, the Republican, had the support of the King Republicans and the Hammond Democratic-Republicans.

Mitchell, the Democrat, had the active support of Democratic Mike McKenna and the passive support of Republican Dan Serritella, Republican Dawson, and Republican Roberts.

This is a real resume of the rumors and reports which are on the lips of most of the active political leaders. It may be correct or it may not be but it's what the wise boys are saying. The suspense and uncertainty attending the final vote on DePriest and Mitchell, the outcome not being certain until the next day made this the most interesting and catacylsmic election held in Chicago in years.

DePriest to Continue Fight

CHICAGO.—(ANP)— Undaunted by defeat in last Tuesdays' election, Congressman Oscar DePriest, speaking Friday, expressed his diminished confidence in his people and his determination to continue his efforts in their behalf. Said he:

"My interest in the welfare of the American Negro will not diminish. I shall continue my fight for human rights and human justice. I still have confidence in the integrity of the Negro race despite the failure of some of the voters to resist the methods of the opposition.

"In my campaign, I was handicapped by relief, money, powers of the police, and the floating vote methods which were used against me."

Political - 1934

Office Holding-

Illinois.

Lancaster, S. C. News
November 13, 1934

A NEGRO DEMOCRAT

The election of a negro democrat in Chicago who bears the name of Arthur Mitchell unseated Congressman DePriest, negro republican who has served two terms in the lower house. A negro on the democratic side in Washington is something new in Washington and he may prove to be embarrassing to the Democratic party members, especially those from the south.

Mitchell is said to be a scholarly negro lawyer in Chicago and was at one time an office boy to Booker T. Washington at Tuskegee. He is said to be an eloquent speaker and during the campaign in Chicago made impassioned pleas for the support of Franklin D Roosevelt. Both DePriest and Mitchell are originally from Alabama. Mitchell is but 37 years of age and DePriest with his snow white hair appears to be considerably older.

It is hardly probable that Mitchell will be as narrow as DePriest in asking for recognition at Washington but at the same time he may prove to be a problem h democrats. His seems to be a real democrat and while h present no problem his color does and he cannot chang a.

Selma, N. C. Johnstonian
November 15, 1934

COOLEY'S NEGRO CRY.

News has come to our ears that Congressman Harold D. Cooley tried to besmear the Republican party in one of his recent campaign speeches here in Johnston county, by raising the howl about the Negro. We would have given Mr. Cooley credit for exercising better judgment than to raise the Negro question as a campaign issue in the face of the modern trend of the Negro vote.

Since the votes were counted which were polled on November 6th, 1934, it develops that the Democrats elected two Justices of the Peace in the city of Durham, North Carolina; and add to this twin-victory of the Negro Democrats of Durham we have of still greater successes by Negro Democratic politicians, reference to which may be had by reading an article in last Sunday's issue of the Greensboro Daily News, from the pen of R. R. Clark, one of the State's best known Democratic writers. His article reads in part as follows:

Oscar De Priest, negro, has represented the first Illinois district in Congress for several terms, as a Republican. Arthur W. Mitchell, negro and Democrat, defeated De Priest in the recent election and report comes from Washington that some southern Democrats are not so happy at the thought of having a negro in a Democratic caucus. It is assumed that the North Carolina delegation will make no point on that; at least those will not who are aware of the election of a negro a member of the Democratic precinct committee in a Raleigh ward and of the number of negroes who vote with the Democrats in Wake and elsewhere in the state. De Priest annoyed white congressmen most by his insistence on sending his colored friends into the house restaurant to eat. Our own Lendsey Warren, who is manager of the restaurant as committee chairman, may be able to manage the Democratic congressman of color so that he will not make himself offensive in this respect. From that angle the Democrats should welcome the change.

Thomasville, Ga., Times
November 16, 1934

Hoop DeLa ! Negro Democrat, Arthur Mitchell defeated Oscar DePriest, Republican Negro Congressman from the Negro district in Chicago. By insolent manner and personal conduct DePriest has done the negro race grave injustice, while holding a seat in Congress. Mitchell is said to be "a scholary negro lawyer from the Old South, 37 years old, and a former office boy to the late Booker T. Washington." He will sit with the Democratic side of the lower house, and it is to be hoped he will win respect andconfidence through his manners and conduct.

Kingsland, Ga., S. E. Georgian
November 15, 1934

A Negro Democrat In Congress

One of the odd developments of the recent battle of ballots was the announcement from Chicago that a negro Democratic lawyer Arthur W. Mitchell, had nosed out a victory over Oscar De Priest, negro Republican incumbent, by a margin of 3,000 votes. The Columbia State views the result as "the most singular and unexpected of all political happenings of all times," pointing out that "Something unique will occur when Congress meets. There have been any number of negro members of Congress, but if a negro Democrat ever at in that august body our memory fails to record the fact," adding this comment, "Congressman De Priest is conceded to have ability, but for some reason probably touching 'personality,' he has not made a hit with his own race."

Following the announcement of his election, Mitchell, who is a native of Alabama, as is De Priest, said he felt the race issue should not be the dominant idea of a negro in Congress. He declared "There is no prejudice against my people in the present administration. This is a new day under a new deal."—Savannah Morning News.

Beaufort, N. C., News
November 15, 1934

AN UNUSUAL OCCURRENCE

A very unusual incident of the recent election was that in Chicago where Congressman DePriest was defeated by a man named Mitchell. Both men are Negroes, DePriest a Republican and Mitchell a Democrat. The population of the district in which they live is overwhelmingly colored. No white man can ever be elected there if the Negroes oppose him.

In New York city there is a district with an immense Negro population. There is talk now that these people will have a candidate of their own race next year, and it is quite likely that they will. If Negroes were allowed to vote in South Carolina and Mississippi they could elect several members of Congress.

Hartsville, Ga., News Reporter
December 5, 1934

When a Negro Democrat defeated a negro Republican for a seat in Congress, in the recent Illinois election, it proved, at least, that the colored race of our country are beginning to realize the good things in life.

ILLINOIS COMMERCE COMISH JOB GOES TO ATTY. MOORE

CHICAGO, Dec. 13—A new first in local political history was recorded here Friday, when announcement was made that Gov. Henry Horner had appointed Attorney Herman E. Moore as an assistant commissioner of the Illinois Commerce Commission. Mr. Moore is the first Negro Democrat to receive the appointment.

The action of the governor seems to indicate a determination on the part of Democratic leaders locally to convince colored voters that they are grateful for the support so far given the party and to prove to them that there is no difference between them and Republicans when the opportunity comes to reward supporters.

The first colored man to serve on the commerce commission was the late Edward H. Wright, Republican leader. Mr. Wright was appointed to a full commissionership by former Governor Len Small and served until Small was succeeded as chief executive by Louis Emmerson.

After the defeat of Small, Gov. Emmerson appointed former Congressman Oscar DePriest to an assistant commissionership. He served until he went to Washington and was succeeded by a downstate colored Republican.

Thus three colored Republicans have served on the commission.

Mr. Moore is one of the most active and prominent lawyers in the city. In the early twenties, he worked with the Republican party and was, for a short time, a real estate appraiser. His association with the Republicans did not last long, however. He became a busy supporter of Assistant Attorney General Earl B. Dickerson in his various campaigns and last spring entered the lists in the Third ward as a candidate for committeeman. He conducted a vigorous, spirited campaign, but was defeated by the incumbent, Edward M. "Mike" Sneed.

During the election campaign just ended, he threw his support in with that of the organization candidates and gave his support to Arthur W. Mitchell, elected congressman and to the Democratic candidate in the Second district.

Mr. Moore was born in Mississippi and educated at Howard University. He has a brilliant scholastic background and soon won a front-rank place in his profession after he began his practice here.

Herman E. Moore Is Given Appointment By Governor

Chicago Attorney Is Named on Illinois Commerce Commission

Herman E. Moore, prominent Chicago attorney, was notified this week of his appointment by Governor Horner as assistant commissioner of the Illinois Commerce Commission. He will be the first member of the Race to serve on this commission since the death of Edward H. Wright in 1930.

Mr. Moore, a graduate of Howard University and Boston University College of Law, has been active in social and civic affairs of Chicago since his coming here several years ago. He is a former president of the Cook County bar association, former member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People board of directors, and is president of the 44th Street Property Owners' Association.

The new deputy commissioner came into the political limelight a few months ago when, running as an independent candidate for Democratic ward committeeman of the Third Ward, he polled 3,000 votes in the Democratic primary. In making the appointment, Governer Horner declared:

"I am happy that Mr. Moore has consented to accept this appointment as I have wanted to make an outstanding appointment of a member of the Race as soon as I could find the right man qualified for the post, and now that I have found Mr. Moore, a man fully qualified, I am glad to make him a member of my official family."

Mr. Moore, who has his law office in the Loop, has practiced here for 14 years. He is a member of the Third Ward Democratic organization.

Virginia Beach, Va., News
December 7, 1934

THE NEGRO CONGRESSMAN

(Chattanooga Times)

Let it be said that the presence of a Negro congressman on the Democratic side of the House of Representatives cannot properly be taken as raising the question of social equality. It will be most unfortunate if Representative Mitchell and other Democratic congressmen and officials should permit the question to obtrude itself in their thinking and influence their conduct.

Arthur W. Mitchell has been elected to the House to serve his constituents and the nation in matters of government. Other Democratic congressmen and officials generally should accord the Negro congressman, in matters relating to government, every consideration customarily shown those of their own color. Social intercourse is very largely a matter of taste, congeniality and policy, in which race is often a factor; in the transaction of government business, race should never be a consideration.

There is not the slightest valid reason why Mitchell's should be a determining factor in the official treatment accorded him. In business, industry and the professions, the Negro should be dealt with, even in the South, on terms of business, industrial and professional equality.

Much more, if anything, is a representative of the race in Congress entitled to be met and dealt with on terms of official equality.

Any Democratic congressman or other official who may fail to meet and deal with Mitchell on such terms, on the floor of the House, in committee rooms, in cloakrooms or in executive and administrative offices, will thereby be violating and denying the first principle of democratic government.

TODAY

In Washington, D. C.
Capitol and Monuments
Chief Justice Hughes
The President Himself

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

Copyright, 1934, International Copyright and all Other Rights Reserved.

This is about Washington, some things and people there. Leaving the railroad station in the evening, you see first the Capitol's dome, bathed in artificial white light. It looks solid and comforting. Address it, saying: "You have seen the beginning and end of many other depressions, and you will see the end of this one."

How many brains have worked under that white dome in the progress of building the United States to its present height.

How many others, greater because they will have greater knowledge, will work there through centuries to come, building the name and glory of this country still higher.

It may interest you to know what the wisest politicians in Washington are now discussing, and consider a most important political development. They put it in seven words:

"The Negroes have learned to vote Democratic." They have come to realize that Abraham Lincoln is dead and buried, whereas Franklin D. Roosevelt is alive, and distributing baksheesh. Much power in baksheesh.

Congressman Mitchell from Chicago, who will take his seat among the lawmakers in a few days, is the first Democratic Negro ever sent to Congress. And do not overlook the fact pointed out by the very able Frank Hitchcock, who was postmaster general: "In several important states the negro vote holds the balance of power."

MITCHELL OPENS OFFICE; READY TO BE CONGRESSMAN

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—(AP)—Arthur H. Mitchell, Chicago, colored who has arrived to occupy the congressional seat of Oscar DePriest, colored, has taken a one room suite in the House Office building.

Expressing his disapproval over those "who think I ought to be ignored simply because I am a colored Democrat," Mitchell said he planned to serve the first district of Illinois "with all the seriousness and efficiency of a man who asks for no more than should be accorded a regularly elected member of the house."

Announcing that he had employed Claude Holman of Chicago, as his secretary, Mitchell said he was determined to get down to work as soon as possible.

"Be it understood above all else," he said, "that I am in Congress for the purpose of representing my constituents. If I am colored, I am no different than hundreds of thousands of other Americans. I intend to represent those of my race who are my constituents; I intend to do it with no greater partiality than I represent my white constituents.. I refuse to encourage race consciousness. I am here to work."

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.
STAR
DEC 15 1934

RALLY SPEAKER.

ARTHUR W. MITCHELL.

Arthur W. Mitchell of Chicago, the first Negro Democrat elected as Representative in Congress, will be the principal speaker at a Twelfth ward Democratic victory rally at Walker Casino Monday night.

Other speakers will be Henry Richardson, state representative, and Dr. Theodore Cable, Indianapolis councilman-elect. Mr. Mitchell, who was elected in the First Illinois district Nov. 6, was educated at Tuskegee, Columbia and Harvard universities. He will be introduced by F. B. Rantsom, Indianapolis Negro leader.

Political - 1934

Office Holding -

Illinois -

A Bit Of Advice

CONGRESSMAN-ELECT ARTHUR W. MITCHELL is quoted as saying he will not be a Negro representative, and that the time has past when the representative of the first Illinois district will nominate only colored youths for admission to West Point and the Naval Academy.

We think we understand what he means to say. He believes that he must not let his race be overly predominant in his thoughts and actions. He doesn't have to. Mr. DEPRIEST did not.

But Mr. DEPRIEST never let an opportunity pass to help any American citizen who needed the help and influence of a congressman. It so happens that a Negro congressman, inevitably, will find a great number of opportunities to serve Negroes. He is not being per se, a "Negro congressman" if he accepts these opportunities. On the contrary, he is not being much of any kind of congressman if for any reason he fails to do his duty. An effort by congressmen for the Negro's benefit is a stern endeavor. Only stout-hearted ones buck the prejudices and politics of the national legislature to "carry through" their work in this sphere. We believe that Mr. MITCHELL, in trying to express a desire to be a representative of THE people has said something he did not mean to say. We think he will prove stout-hearted. We hope so, certainly.

Out side of Congressmen CELLER and GAVAGAN, who get votes from Harlem, no white congressman bothers to name Negroes to the U. S. military or naval academies. This is a denial of a privilege to American citizens. Any congressman worth his salt will step into the breach to stamp out this denial. This Mr. DEPRIEST did. When the occasion arises, Mr. MITCHELL will do the same thing.

That is your highest duty. We hate to give advice. You know your way about. But we think this is sound advice.

Mountaineer
Walhalla, N.D.
NOV 22 1934

"THERE IS NO PREJUDICE"

Something unusual is a Negro who is a Democrat; somthing unusual is a Negro in the U. S. Congress; something very unusual is a Negro Democrat in the U. S. Congress.

Oscar DePriest, Negro Republican represented a Harlem district of the city of Chicago in the last congress. This year he was opposed for re-election by another Negro,—Democratic Arthur Mitchell, who defeated him. As a candidate Mr. Mitchell informed his constituents that "there is no prejudice against my people in the present administration." We fear Mr. Mitchell is in for a sad awakening.

Race prejudice is a regrettable state of affairs but not more regrettable than the fact that the race problem is definitely on our hands and cannot be readily disposed of.

Many people foolishly assert that they have no prejudice against a negro or any other race. Asking such people whether or not they would be willing to marry a negro or a Japanese quickly brings a different fact to light. THERE IS RACE PREJUDICE and what is more it is instinctive and beyond our control. If there were no such things as race prejudice, the various races on the face of the globe would long ago have merged and become one composite race.

From our position near the 49th parallel it is easy to decry the race prejudice in the south; however, if we lived south of the Mason-Dixon line our opinions might be radically changed. One thing should be remembered in our feelings towards the negro. He did not come to our shores,—e brought him here.

Arthur W. Mitchell, Chicago Negro Democrat, is preparing to take over the seat in the House of Representatives which he wrested from the Negro incumbent, Oscar DePriest. Mitchell is a native of Alabama, was educated at Tuskegee Institute, served as office boy to the late Booker T. Washington, and finally became a lawyer. His wife is an accounting machine operator, holding a government job. Their son is a college graduate. Mitchell worked for Hoover in 1928, but had switched parties by 1932, and in his recent campaign fought for the New Deal.

© International

TWIN FALLS, IDAHO
IDAHO TIMES
NOV 26 1934

NEGRO CONGRESSMAN

Something new under the sun will be a Negro Democratic representative in the next congress. He is Congressman-elect Mitchell, 37, from Chicago, and was schooled at Tuskeggee, under Booker T. Washington, and at Columbia and Harvard.

Mitchell succeeds Republican Oscar De Priest as representative, and his status is certain to create quite as much furore.

In the light of this, it is interesting to get the viewpoint of a typical southern newspaper on the subject.

"Let it be said that the presence of a Negro congressman on the Democratic side of the house of representatives cannot properly be taken as raising the question of social equality," says the Chattanooga Times, and continues:

"It will be most unfortunate if Representative Mitchell and other Democratic congressmen and officials should permit the question to obtrude itself in their thinking and influence their conduct.

"Arthur W. Mitchell has been elected to the house to serve his constituents and the nation in matters of government. Other Democratic congressmen and officials generally should accord the Negro congressman, in matters relating to government, in the south, on terms of business, industrial and professional equality.

"Much more, if anything, is a representative of the race in congress entitled to be met and dealt with on terms of official equality.

"Any Democratic congressman or other official who may fail to meet and deal with Mitchell on such terms, on the floor of the house, in committeerooms, in cloakrooms or in executive and administrative offices, will thereby be violating and denying the first principle of democratic government."

Political - 1934

Office Holding -

Illinois -

A Bit Of Advice

CONGRESSMAN-ELECT ARTHUR W. MITCHELL is quoted as saying he will not be a Negro representative, and that the time has past when the representative of the first Illinois district will nominate only colored youths for admission to West Point and the Naval Academy.

We think we understand what he means to say. He believes that he must not let his race be overly predominant in his thoughts and actions. He doesn't have to. Mr. DEPRIEST did not.

But Mr. DEPRIEST never let an opportunity pass to help any American citizen who needed the help and influence of a congressman. It so happens that a Negro congressman, inevitably, will find a great number of opportunities to serve Negroes. He is not being per se, a "Negro congressman" if he accepts these opportunities. On the contrary, he is not being much of any kind of congressman if for any reason he fails to do his duty. An effort by congressmen for the Negro's benefit is a stern endeavor. Only stout-hearted ones buck the prejudices and politics of the national legislature to "carry through" their work in this sphere. We believe that Mr. MITCHELL, in trying to express a desire to be a representative of THE people has said something he did not mean to say. We think he will prove stout-hearted. We hope so, certainly.

Out side of Congressmen CELLER and GAVAGAN, who get votes from Harlem, no white congressman bothers to name Negroes to the U. S. military or naval academies. This is a denial of a privilege to American citizens. Any congressman worth his salt will step into the breach to stamp out this denial. This Mr. DEPRIEST did. When the occasion arises, Mr. MITCHELL will do the same thing.

That is your highest duty. We hate to give advice. You know your way about. But we think this is sound advice.

Mountaineer
Walhalla, N.D.
NOV 22 1934

"THERE IS NO PREJUDICE"

Something unusual is a Negro who is a Democrat; somthing unusual is a Negro in the U. S. Congress; something very unusual is a Negro Democrat in the U. S. Congress.

Oscar DePriest, Negro Republican represented a Harlem district of the city of Chicago in the last congress. This year he was opposed for re-election by another Negro,—Democratic Arthur Mitchell, who defeated him. As a candidate Mr. Mitchell informed his constituents that "there is no prejudice against my people in the present administration." We fear Mr. Mitchell is in for a sad awakening.

Race prejudice is a regrettable state of affairs but not more regrettable than the fact that the race problem is definitely on our hands and cannot be readily disposed of.

Many people foolishly assert that they have no prejudice against a negro or any other race. Asking such people whether or not they would be willing to marry a negro or a Japanese quickly brings a different fact to light. THERE IS RACE PREJUDICE and what is more it is instinctive and beyond our control. If there were no such things as race prejudice, the various races on the face of the globe would long ago have merged and become one composite race.

From our position near the 49th parallel it is easy to decry the race prejudice in the south; however, if we lived south of the Mason-Dixon line our opinions might be radically changed. One thing should be remembered in our feelings towards the negro. He did not come to our shores,—e brought him here.

Arthur W. Mitchell, Chicago Negro Democrat, is preparing to take over the seat in the House of Representatives which he wrested from the Negro incumbent, Oscar DePriest. Mitchell is a native of Alabama. was educated at Tuskegee Institute. served as office boy to the late Booker T. Washington, and finally became a lawyer. His wife is an accounting machine operator, holding a government job. Their son is a college graduate. Mitchell worked for Hoover in 1928, but had switched parties by 1932, and in his recent campaign fought for the New Deal.

© International

TWIN FALLS, IDAHO
IDAHO TIMES
NOV 26 1934

NEGRO CONGRESSMAN

Something new under the sun will be a Negro Democratic representative in the next congress. He is Congressman-elect Mitchell, 37, from Chicago, and was schooled at Tuskeggee, under Booker T. Washington, and at Columbia and Harvard.

Mitchell succeeds Republican Oscar De Priest as representative, and his status is certain to create quite as much furore.

In the light of this, it is interesting to get the viewpoint of a typical southern newspaper on the subject.

"Let it be said that the presence of a Negro congressman on the Democratic side of the house of representatives cannot properly be taken as raising the question of social equality," says the Chattanooga Times, and continues:

"It will be most unfortunate if Representative Mitchell and other Democratic congressmen and officials should permit the question to obtrude itself in their thinking and influence their conduct.

"Arthur W. Mitchell has been elected to the house to serve his constituents and the nation in matters of government. Other Democratic congressmen and officials generally should accord the Negro congressman, in matters relating to government, every consideration customarily shown those of their own color. Social intercourse is very largely a matter of taste, congeniality and policy, in which race is often a factor; in the transaction of government business, race should never be a consideration.

"There is not the slightest valid reason why Mitchell's should be a determining factor in the official treatment accorded him. In business, industry and the professions, the Negro should be dealt with, even in the south, on terms of business, industrial and professional equality.

"Much more, if anything, is a representative of the race in congress entitled to be met and dealt with on terms of official equality.

"Any Democratic congressman or other official who may fail to meet and deal with Mitchell on such terms, on the floor of the house, in committeerooms, in cloakrooms or in executive and administrative offices, will thereby be violating and denying the first principle of democratic government."

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.
DAILY NEWS
NOV 28 1934

Democracy's Negro Congressman

WASHINGTON, ever alert for an official contretemps, is bubbling with conjecture as to the social, if not official, status of Representative-elect Mitchell, the first Negro elected to congress as a Democrat.

The gossipers hark back to the professed embarrassment of certain officials of southern birth when Republican Representative De Priest proposed to take his Negro friends into the house dining room. But De Priest, as a Republican, could accept with composure a snub from his Democratic colleagues.

Mitchell, educated at Tuskegee (where for a time he was Booker T. Washington's office boy), Columbia and Harvard, is intellectually the equal of his confreres. It would be unfortunate if any discrimination should be shown him because of his color.

If what an old southern newspaper—the Chattanooga Times—has to say about him will govern the attitude of the members from south of the line, there will be no unpleasantness or embarrassment.

After pointing that he has been elected "to serve his constituents and the nation in matters of government," the Times says:

"Other Democratic congressmen and officials generally should accord the Negro congressman, in matters relating to government, every consideration customarily shown those of their own color. Social intercourse is very largely a matter of taste, congeniality and policy, in which race is often a factor.

"In the transaction of government business, race should never be a consideration. There is not the slightest valid reason why Mitchell's should be a determining factor in the official treatment accorded him. In business, industry and the professions, the Negro should be dealt with, even in the south, on terms of business, industrial and professional equality. Much more, if anything, is a representative of the race in congress entitled to be met and dealt with on terms of official equality. Any Democratic congressman or other official who may fail to meet and deal with Mitchell on such terms, on the floor of the house, in committee rooms, in cloakrooms or in executive and administrative offices, will thereby be violating and denying the first principles of democratic government."

That is what one expects from a southern gentleman of the New Deal. Let us hope that in such a spirit will the southern members meet their Negro confrere. It is an opportunity for a long step over an ugly chasm. —R. R. K.

KANSAS CITY, MO.
TIMES
DEC 5 1934

NEGROES HEAR A LEADER

ARTHUR W. MITCHELL, ELECTED TO CONGRESS, SPEAKS HERE.

Attitude of the Democratic Administration Toward His Race Is Praised by the Chicago Man.

A Democratic Negro representative in congress who talked racial economic equality without racial hatred addressed 250 Kansas City Negroes last night at Street's hotel, Eighteenth street and the Paseo.

The congressman was Arthur W. Mitchell, who was reared in the deep South and was sent to congress from the first Illinois district in Chicago. He was a guest yesterday of Kansas City Democratic Negroes, who ended a busy day with 5-hour dinner at the hotel.

"I want it distinctly understood," he said, "that I am going to congress to represent the first district of Illinois. I am also going to support legislation which I think is good for the nation as a whole, and particularly such legislation as is designed for the good of my own group."

He asserted the hope of the Negro lay in the present administration and that if "you can't see it, then there's nothing for you to do but remain Republicans."

DANGER IN ENFORCED IDLENESS.

"The most dangerous element in our country today is enforced idleness," he said. "I am in favor of any legislation which will put people back to work. There is no monetary price too great to pay to bring about employment and a return of prosperity.

"We didn't kick when the country spent 22 billion dollars to win the war, and I think it is a burning shame now, when we have half of all the gold in the world piled in the vaults at Washington, that people are kicking because we are spending money to keep people alive. I am not afraid of taxes when we have the capacity to produce so much wealth, and when our natural resources are so great.

"I believe we should wipe out racial discrimination which breeds hatred and injustice and retards the progress of this nation in the larger sense. We can never be the great nation we ought to me until all the rights of the citizen belong to all the people.

FOR EQUALITY IN CIVIL SERVICE.

"I believe discrimination in the government and civil services of the country should be eliminated, and I intend to speak out against that in Washington. I am going to propose to congress that the civil service rules be amended to eliminate the requirement that photographs be filed with applications, and substitute finger-printing for it.

"I shall ask for the passage of an anti-lynching bill such as was introduced in the last congress, and I believe it will pass. I have no illusions about it and I do not believe that when the law is passed it will stop lynching. Laws against murder have not stopped murder. But I believe there should be laws against every wrong, so that it can be brought as nearly under control as is possible.

"I shall work for the re-enfranchisement of the Negroes of the South.

NEGRO MUST STAY HERE.

"The Negro is in this country to stay. He has no other place to go, and he knows no other place or system. I am speaking to the white people now. You cannot continue to be unjust to 12 million citizens of this country who have always been loyal and who have gone to the front when called and given their lives and service that this country might live."

He asserted President Roosevelt was the greatest President in the history of the country, and cited the experience of Sylvester Harris, a Negro farmer in the delta country of Mississippi who called the White House to beg for relief from a burden of mortgage, and got it. To him, and to the Negroes in the audience, that was symbol of equality for the Negro in the benefits of Amercan citizenship.

Q. J. Gilmore, manager of General Hospital No. 2, was toastmaster. Dr. P. C. Turner, superintendent of the hospital, represented Mayor Bryce B. Smith and welcomed the guest. Carl H. Johnson welcomed him in behalf of the bar association and Mrs. Rosetta Gibson in behalf of the women. Joseph B. Shannon spoke.

NEWS
Virginia Beach Va
DEC 7 1934

THE NEGRO CONGRESSMAN

(Chattanooga Times)

Let it be said that the presence of a Negro congressman on the Democratic side of the House of Representatives cannot properly be taken as raising the question of social equality. It will be most unfortunate if Representative Mitchell and other Democratic congressmen and officials should permit the question to obtrude itself in their thinking and influence their conduct.

Arthur W. Mitchell has been elected to the House to serve his constituents and the nation in matters of government. Other Democratic congressmen and officials generally should accord the Negro congressman, in matters relating to government, every consideration customarily shown those of their own color. Social intercourse is very largely a matter of taste, congeniality and policy, in which race is often a factor; in the transaction of government business, race should never be a consideration.

There is not the slightest valid reason why Mitchell's should be a determining factor in the official treatment accorded him. In business, industry and the professions, the Negro should be dealt with, even in the South, on terms of business, industrial and professional equality.

Much more, if anything, is a representative of the race in Congress entitled to be met and dealt with on terms of official equality.

Any Democratic congressman or other official who may fail to meet and deal with Mitchell on such terms, on the floor of the House, in committee rooms, in cloakrooms or in executive and administrative offices, will thereby be violating and denying the first principle of democratic government.

Office Holding.

DePriest for Negro Rights—But in Words

Daily Worker

I'm For a Fair Return to Capital, He Tells In Interview

4-28-34

By MARGUERITE YOUNG
Daily Worker Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, April 24.—"What have you, the only Negro representative in the United States Congress, to say to the Negro people particularly to Negro workers?"

Oscar Depriest just laughed.

I repeated the question. His head rolled on his short, fat neck and Oscar Depriest laughed and passed again: "I guess I won't say anything."

This was the upshot of an hour's interview in which the Negro Republican congressman repeatedly told the Daily Worker correspondent, in answer to queries on today's Negro problems, from jim-crowing to the denial of voting rights and lynchings. "I know the only answer is a revolutionary program . . . But I am against revolution. I'm for a fair return to capital."

Thus coldly the son of two Alabama slaves who is now the representative of Chicago Negro "freedmen" according to the lights he learned as boss in one of the world's most notorious political machines, the Thompson-Small ring of Cook county, clearly drew a line—on one side, Depriest and the white politicians and the profits they made on corruption that brought him indictment for alleged connection with a South side vice ring; on the other side the Negro people and their interests as Depriest admitted he saw them.

The N. R. A. "has been detrimental, from the black man's standpoint," Depriest confessed. But as to his attitude toward the N. R. A., he replied "Well, that's hard to say."

The resolution which Depriest introduced to provide investigation merely of the "authority" under which Negroes are excluded from public restaurants in the capitol building, he realized was "just a wedge." I asked what he intended to do about jim-crowing throughout the District of Columbia. He said:

"I hadn't thought of it. I cross one bridge at a time. I don't know that I would have thought of this if it hadn't been brought to my attention."

"Controlled Lynching"

Of lynching, he thought "there should be some control." Control, apparently, rather than abolition of lynching.

He was aware that his Republican party "isn't what it ought to be for the Negroes by a jugfull." I asked why he runs on its ticket.

"Oh," he laughed again, "your Party, the Communist Party, isn't strong enough to send anyone to Congress yet."

"Are you aware that jim-crowing and lynching are by-products of the double oppression of Negro workers, of the fact that Negroes are exploited even more than white workers by those who own the jobs today as the masters owned the slaves before the Civil War," I asked.

"That may have a good deal to do with it," he replied. "It's an outgrowth of the slave situation."

"What do you think about the program of the League of Struggle for Negro Rights to abolish this situation? What about the League's—"

"Is that one of your Red outfits?" he interrupted.

"It's not a Communist organization—"

"Well, it's first cousin to the Reds, but I'll say it has some virtue. So far as Negroes are concerned, it has a good deal of virtue. You see, I try to keep an open mind on these things — I'm almost as radical as you are."

There was a note, distinctly, of ingratiation here.

"There's a lot of difference between sitting there and saying you agree and acting," I said.

"I know that too," he laughed.

In the appearance and bearing of this self-described bank director and real estate operator there is nothing to even hint that he started out as a house painter. He wears the quiet, expensive clothes of his bank-directing role. His snowy hair is trained across his forehead in a precisely flowing statesman's lock. He has a shrewd blue eye. He talks very fast.

Vice-Ring Connections

He has been in Chicago politics since 1894—commissioner of Cook County, first Negro member of the city council, alderman, delegate to three national Republican conventions. The Journal of Negro History, a throughly non-revolutionary publication, recently reported his long association with Mayor William H. Thompson, Len Small and the rest of the Republican politicians who bought the Negro votes from Negro "leaders" for decades and his indictment, a proceeding dropped two days before DePriest was seated in the House.

"His detractors," the Journal cautiously continues, "have represented DePriest as practically forcing the mayor (Thompson) to repay him (with the nomination for Congress) for certain services involving 'black and tan' resorts, vice-rings, 'protection,' collections and other matters in which the two are said to have been associated. . . Despite the unsavory political reputation of the man, his induction into the office of Congressman constituted another milestone, etc."

It is a fact that Negroes throughout the country looked to DePriest for a champion; he was the first Negro sent to Congress for decades, following the reconstruction days and the withdrawal of Negro voting rights promised in the Thirteenth Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments. But when I asked him what he had done or would do to validate those promises, he said: "Why, the only way that it could be done would be through an enforcing act—and that would be a long, hard problem, unless some revolutionary outfit accomplished it."

I asked again what he had done. He gave me three things—a bill he introduced proposing to furnish pensions of $30 a month to former slaves more than 75 years of age; a bill proposing to provide a change of venue in trials where (white) Federal courts decided the place of trial, "prejudiced" the trial; and the resolution calling for investigation of the "authority." All three are reactionary measures which could only emphasize DePriest's acceptance of inferiority for other members of his people than himself.

"I know there's terrific discrimination against Negroes throughout the country," he told me, "—though I myself am not in contact with it."

Does Not Care for Social Equality

He told the House, in making for consideration of his resolution: "I do not give a damn about it (social equality for Negroes.) This resolution calls for investigation only."

And he apologized for the fact that many Howard University Negro students marched to the restaurant to protest against the exclusion of Negroes. He said: "I might say that I am very sorry that those boys came down here from that university. If they had consulted me I would have told them to stay away."

But to the Communist newspaper correspondent, DePriest expanded. "Discriminations are driving the Negroes toward the Reds. The Communists have very fertile ground to work in today. . . . If the Negro doesn't get justice from 'the' two parties, he'll seek another party, and maybe it'll be the Communist Party."

"And you, of course, don't approve of that."

He laughed again, his face just a fat politicians: "I haven't said that I approved." Then he added solemnly, "there's a lot of things about the Communists I don't approve of—their religious teachings, and their regimenting people and industry."

"Particularly, 'regimenting' industry—forcing the landlords in the Black Belt to give up the land to Negroes, and taking control of production out of the hands of industrialists and putting it into the hands of a Workers' Government," I offered.

"I don't believe in Government control of industry, he insisted, refusing to distinguish between a capitalist and a workers' government. He said also, "Of course, I know the people are more and more determined to take control for themselves. They call it mob psychology. Maybe it's an intelligent movement. I don't attempt to say."

"How long do you expect Negro workers to trust the Republican Party, which you say isn't all it should be for them 'by a jugful?' "

"Well, it takes more than one or two generations to change a country."

"You know countries have changed practically overnight?"

Against Revolution

"I know that too," he replied. "But that's revolution, and I'm against revolution. I don't think people ought to kill each other off."

"You know there was no 'killing off' in the Soviet revolution, compared to the 'killing off' in the World War?"

"I know that too," he repeated. "And I'll say there's a lot of unrest among the Negroes all over this country, particularly among the young. What percentage of Negroes are there in the Communist Party's membership?"

I handed him a copy of the L. S. N. R.'s bill for civil rights for Negroes—a bill to punish lynching by execution and to establish full legal equality for Negroes and asked what he thought of it.

"I hadn't seen it," he responded. "But I'd have to be for it, because it's for what I'm for."

"Would you introduce such a bill?"

"Now," he said, "what's the use of introducing anything like that now?"

DE PRIEST ADDRESSES MEETING OF NEGROES

Daily Worker 4-30-34

Oscar De Priest, negro representative from Illinois, in an address at Bethel A. M. E. church Saturday night, assailed the administration's economic policies as they affected the "common people," warned against communism and urged upon people "the weapon of the ballot." Declaring that the sole means of obtaining the rights of American citizens was through the vote, he urged negroes to use the influence of their ballot in elections.

Amid frequent bursts of applause from an audience of several hundred negroes, De Priest attacked the NRA, the AAA and other economic measures of the Roosevelt government. He said the bank deposit insurance bill was the "only good bill passed by the present congress."

In conclusion he referred briefly to the recent controversy in Washington over the right of negroes to eat in the house restaurant, and said "don't follow this red stuff." Regarding the franchise of negroes he said, "the finger that was good enough to pull a trigger in Flanders Fields is good enough to mark a ballot in Georgia. "But," he said "don't carry on the fight with fists, guns or razors."

Mitchell and West P

Daily Worker 4-30-34

Congressman-elect Arthur W. Mitc Chicago, speaking in Alabama last said:

> "While he [Oscar DePriest] has been in o white boys have had an opportunity to ente napolis or West Point, but that will be altered There will be no discrimination."

The new Congressman, since election, has lost no opportunity to take a wallop at Mr. DePriest, whom he defeated for office.

Since Mr. DePriest is out of the picture, it would seem to be a wiser policy for him to concentrate on his own record and see whether or not he can make a still better Congressman than his former opponent. He cannot do it by useless and unnecessary partisan talk.

The record of Mr. DePriest on the Annapolis and West Point appointments is clear. Whenever he had the opportunity to name candidates, he selected colored boys. In six years he has gotten only one to remain more than a year in West Point and none in Annapolis.

If Mr. Mitchell can make a better average in his appointments, let him go to it. We doubt that he can do it by his "no discrimination policy" as idealistic as it sounds.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.
STAR ENTERPRISE

MAY 12 1934

DePriest Charges Graft Honeycombs Emergency Divisions of Government

Warns That United States Is Piling Up Debt That Will Reach 31 Billion by End of Year

Emergency divisions of the federal government were charged last night with being "honeycombed with graft," and the government was assailed for piling up a debt which will reach the 31 billion mark by the end of the year by Representative Oscar DePriest of Chicago, the only negro Congressman in an address last night before the Poughkeepsie Neighborhood club at A. M. E. Zion church. The speaker praised President Roosevelt for good intentions but deplored the high government officers who surround the President and attacking the Brain Trust specifically, said it could not solve the problem of the unemployed.

While both Republican and Democratic office holders were present Mrs. John Harden, president of the club, emphasized at the start of the meeting it was not intended to be a "campaign" gathering, but was inspired by the idea of the group's having pride in its representation in Congress and guided by a wish for enlightenment and education.

Speakers included Mayor Spratt, who sat on one side of Congressman DePriest; former Mayor Caven, who sat on the other; Assemblyman Fite, and Frederic H. Bontecou, chairman of the Republican County committee.

Assemblyman Fite made a plea for parole measures which will reduce the number of hardened criminals and said that first offenders should not be treated like the veteran criminals. "The young offender," he said, "should be allowed to stay out of prison so long as he makes good. He said that after they have been incarcerated for two years they become hardened.

Mr. Bontecou said only that he was glad of the opportunity to be present and hear Congressman DePriest.

Mr. DePriest was introduced by Yarbrough Chapman, head of the negro Elks' organization. The meeting was in the charge of Mrs. Harden, and the toastmaster was Mrs. Herbert Payne, state president of negro women's clubs. Invocation was by the Rev. J. M. Branch ,pastor of the church, and a solo was given by Alice Lawrence.

Asserting that people of the 26th district would commit an "unforgiveable sin," if they did not return Representative Fish to the House, Representative DePriest spoke of Mr. Fish as a "man among men" who believes that everyone has just rights under the constitution. He commended Mr. Fish for his attacks on Communism, and asserted that he was not one of those who believed in "soaking the rich."

Extending the greetings of the city, Mayor Spratt stressed the friendship which he has had with the negro people here for the last 40 years, and while thanking God for political parties, emphasized that after the five or six weeks of a political campaign, the people should "settle down" to do their best for Poughkeepsie. "We are all good citizens," he said, "and I believe we all try to do our best for the city without regard to politics."

Former Mayor Caven spoke of the high place which Congressman DePriest holds in the government, representing a colored district of Chicago of some 260,000 people, and also fighting for the rights of 12,000,000 negroes in the country. Mr. Caven quoted Congressman Fish as saying that Mr. DePriest is a man of great courage and ability and one who does not fear the southern representatives in Washington.

Mr. Fite emphasized a need for the federal government to tackle state problems which have an interstate nature, such as the power problem, truck legislation, and parole of criminals. He said the power problem ought to be solved by the Congress, that the truck problem is by its very nature an interstate problem because of the long distances which trucks travel.

The government officials who surround President Roosevelt, said Mr. DePriest, are doing the President no good with their "pet theories." "I don't believe there is anyone," he said, "who knows the solution to the unemployment problem, but certainly the so-called Brain Trust doesn't know it."

A trip through the southern states, Congressman DePriest said, convinced him that the crop reduction program was being abused to the damage of the tenant farmers. The allotments passed along to the landlords for reduction of crops, he said, are not shared with the tenants. "The rich are getting richer and the poor are getting poorer," he said.

His investigation of CWA conditions in the south, he said, disclosed petty graft. Negroes and others, he said, are assigned to work but are obliged to "kick back" $2 or more of what they receive to those in influential positions. The same holds for hire of trucks, he said.

The taxpayers are being burdened, he said, by about $1,000,000,000 additional debt a year. He recalled that the total debt was 27 billion after the war, that it was reduced to 24 billion but is now piling up so that it is estimated it will reach the 31 billion mark by the end of this year.

All this debt, he asserted, must sooner or later be paid. He warned, however, that if conditions go on, the American government will be in a story state if repudiation of debts should develop.

The home loan service, he said, is "honeycombed with graft, asserting that he knew of instances in Chicago where persons had paid graft to obtain loans.

Turning to the problems of the negro, Congressman DePriest vigorously assailed lynching and people taking the law into their own hands. "Let the law decide," he asserted, and admonished his hearers to fight for constitutional rights of negroes and white people alike.

The speaker asserted that all worthy legislation on behalf of the negroes had been sponsored by Republicans, and that southern representatives were responsible for all the detrimental legislation.

He urged his hearers not to be discouraged in the fight for equal rights, and admonished them to be cheerful and optimistic. He said also one should first respect himself before asking others to respect him.

The speaker reviewed the House restaurant controversy, and said that he hoped for a report soon from the investigating committee appointed last Saturday on his own resolution. If rights of negroes are denied in the capitol there is no hope of maintaining those rights elsewhere in the country, he said. He asserts that he did not want to exercise his own right to eat in the capitol restaurant unless other negroes could share that right with him.

COLORED FOREMAN IN CHICAGO POSTOFFICE APPOINTED BY CHIEF

Afro-Am Independent

J. Wesley Jones, Noted Choir Leader, Gets Higher Government Job

E 9-28-34

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 9 (ANP) — Announcement has been made by Honorable Ernest J. Kruetgen, Postmaster of Chicago, that J. Wesley Jones, well-known in musical circles throughout the country, has been appointed Foreman in charge of the Equipment and Supply Section of the Chicago Postoffice, succeeding the late Rollin R. Dent, who died suddenly on September 9. Mr. Jones' appointment took effect September 13. Entering the postal service more than 15 years ago, Mr. Jones has been active in organizations of postal workers including the Chicago Branch of the National Alliance of Postal Employees which endorsed him for the position. He is Director of the Metropolitan Community Church choir, and is also Executive Secretary of the National Association of Negro Musicians.

Masonic Temple

P.O.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.
VINDICATOR

OCT 12 1934

COOPER LAUDED BY DE PRIEST

Negro Congressman Says Representative Is Held in High Esteem

Congressman John G. Cooper was praised as "one of the outstanding men in Congress" by Oscar De Priest, of Chicago, Negro Congressman, who arrived here this morning for an appearance at a Republican mass meeting at the Central Auditorium tonight.

Congressman De Priest said that Cooper's long and faithful service to the people has gained him a host of friends and that the people of the 19th district should realize that few men in Congress are esteemed as highly as Mr. Cooper.

De Priest has just concluded a 10 days' speaking tour in the East and said that Republican chances of gaining more seats in Congress "are excellent."

"There is a change of sentiment everywhere," he said. Attorneys Berry Hill and W. M. Howard, B. L. Underwood and Mitchell Williams greeted De Priest.

He was taken for luncheon to the West Federal Y. M. C. A. where a dinner will be given in his honor tonight with all the colored leaders in Mahoning and Trumbull Counties attending. Berry Hill will be toastmaster.

Birmingham, Ala., Age-Herald
November 13, 1934

A Negro Congressman

Arthur W. Mitchell, born and bred in the Alabama briar patch, the first Negro Democrat to be elected to Congress, has just visited Birmingham and so has given his home folks, white and black, an opportunity to realize what a blessing his defeat of Oscar DePriest is certain to be. The latter had made himself notorious by the harshness of his racial resentment. That was in effect to repeat the unwisdom and wrong of the prejudice against which it was directed. Congressman Mitchell can be relied on to bring to the problem of race relations a mellow understanding which his beaten rival was incapable of.

Reared in a setting where the process of adjustment is substantially at work, knowing the white man as only a Negro who has lived for a long time in the South can know him, and approaching the business of accommodation between the races as one dedicated to a great cause rather than as a vulgar, passion-tearing politician, he is in a position to accomplish genuine good, felt by his own people and responded to by the majority of another color. On that account, the result of the congressional campaign in the First Illinois district takes on an undeniable significance

Political - 1934

Office Holding -

(William Dawson)
(Arthur W. Mitchell)

Illinois.

Anniston, Ala. Star
November 18, 1934

Noted Alabama Negroes

The people of Alabama generally should view with pride the achievements that have been made recently by two Negroes in the realms of music and politics. Both William Dawson, the Anniston musician, and Arthur W. Mitchell, who is to be Congressman from the First Chicago District, the richest in the United States, got their inspiration to high achievement from Tuskegee Institute, which also has given to the world of science that great genius, Dr. George Washington Carver.

William Dawson is director of music at Tuskegee. A few years ago he was shining shoes here in this city, but on Wednesday evening of last week he had the pleasure of hearing the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Leopold Stokowski, one of the world's greatest, give the premiere performance of his fine musical composition, "Negro Folk Symphony No. 1," which has been widely acclaimed by critics who say that Dawson has genuine creative talent.

Dawson's triumph seems to verify a statement that repeatedly has been made by The Anniston Star — that the first genuinely great American music would be written by a Negro. We do not know whether the composition in question will qualify in this respect or not, but we still are of that opinion; for it has been observed that no people ever produces a great music until they have suffered, and the mental, spiritual and physical hardships that the American Negro has undergone eventually will be expressed in terms of music, whether Dawson has done so or not. As great an artist as Lawrence Tibbett stated recently that the best singing he has ever heard was that of a Negro chorus in Birmingham. The race is peculiarly gifted in the art of song and if they once are educated we may expect from them a large contribution to American culture.

The reason that we rejoice in the election of Mitchell to Congress is because he defeated the despicable Oscar Depriest and seems destined to keep his feet on the ground, recognizing that he can help his race only in proportion as he works with and not against the dominant race on this continent. Mitchell says that as long as his predecessor was in Congress he worked almost exclusively in the interest of his own people, although there are both whites and blacks in his district. The Democrat promises that this sort of discrimination shall be ended and that he will serve his constituency regardless of race, color or previous condition of servitude.

There will, of course, be shortsighted white persons all over the country who will resent the election of a Negro to Congress. But The Anniston Star does not share this view. We believe it would be well if we could have one or two Negroes of the Mitchell type in every State Legislature to speak for their race. Indeed, there is probably not another civilized country in the world where a minority race as considerable as is the Negro race in America is given so little opportunity for self-expression. They have rights that should be recognized and the white race is hurting itself as long as those rights are denied in the various channels of social control.

It was Edgar Gardner Murphy, the great Alabama preacher and social worker, who made the statement several years ago that no graduate of Tuskegee had ever been accused of a crime against a white woman and we believe the statement holds good to this day. Certainly Booker Washington, one of the greatest Americans of all time, did a big work there and his tradition has been carried forward by Dr. Robert R. Moton, who is honored by such men as Dawson and Mitchell, and whose proposed retirement as president of Tuskegee is to be deplored.

Birmingham, Ala., News
November 12, 1934

MITCHELL, NEGRO SOLON, VISITS CITY

Illinois Congressman - Elect, Who Defeated DePriest, Alabama Native

An Alabama Negro who attended and taught in many schools of this state and who last Tuesday became the first Negro to be elected to Congress by the Democratic party, came home Monday for a visit.

He is Arthur W. Mitchell, who defeated the Republican Negro, Oscar DePriest, in the First Illinois District which is the richest congressional district in the United States, including all of the Chicago Loop.

"They made a fight on me by calling me the tool of designing white bosses," Congressman Mitchell said, "but I told them I had no apologies to make for my white friends and that I only wished I had more."

He numbers among his friends many whites and blacks of this state. In fact, he says, Congressman McDuffie is one of his best and DePriest made McDuffie an issue in the campaign, charging McDuffie was running Mitchell for the congressional post.

Mitchell is strong for President Roosevelt and the Democratic party.

"The first political lie I heard told in Alabama was told by a Republican campaign worker for McKinley," says Congressman-Elect Mitchell. "I was standing with my daddy, listening to the speech in Birmingham, and the Republican told us that if McKinley was elected every Negro would get 40 acres and a gray mule.

"My father lived many years waiting for that promise to be fulfilled. He always believed it would be, and he carried that belief to his grave but he never got the acres or the mule. None of us did until President Roosevelt came into office. It took a Democratic president to fulfill that Republican promise."

In this connection, Mitchell recalled the New Deal experiences of Sylvester Harris, the Columbus, Miss., Negro, who went to Chicago and helped him with his campaign.

"When a poor Negro farmer in overalls and unable to speak a correct sentence can get the ear of the president and get what's coming to him, then I think the Negroes of the South must look to that sort of man," he said.

Mitchell recalled how Harris had been hearing of government grants, of how he drove one of his cows to market, sold her and took the money to telephone the president.

"He called four times, and wouldn't talk to any one but the president. Finally Mr. Roosevelt answered the phone and Sylvester told him his troubles. The president assured him he would look after the matter, and four days later an agent from the Federal Land Bank from New Orleans called on him. Sylvester was given $1,200 immediately and saved his farm from mortgage foreclosure.

Mitchell was born in Randolph County and spent two years at both Tuskegee Institute and Talladega College, later doing postgraduate work at Harvard and Columbia. He studied law in New York and is a member of the Illinois bar.

He taught school in Alabama 10 years, at schools in Choctaw, Sumter and Hale Counties. He was principal of the Negro schools in Greensboro for four years and was in the real estate business in Birmingham in 1906 and 1907. He also taught in Dooley County, Georgia.

"I saw Gov. Miller when he first mounted the bench as a circuit judge, and I lived in Greensboro when Judge Thomas E. Knight, Sr., was on the bench," he says.

After staying on a Randolph farm until he was 14 years old, he walked the 66 miles to Tuskegee College, where he worked on the farm during the day and attended school at night.

His first work after finishing college was to establish the Armstrong Agricultural College in Alabama's Black Belt. For 10 years he served as president of this school, working most of the time without salary. Later he studied law and lived in Washington, where he took much interest in church and civic work. In 1928 he with his wife and son moved to Chicago, where he has lived since, practicing law.

He has a letter from Judge Harry M. Fisher, dean of the Chicago jurists, saying:

"Being the first Democrat to represent your people, in the Congress, a new world is open to you in which your responsibilities are great. Take advantage of it so that you may turn out to be a real blessing to that minority group in our nation that, more than any other, is in need of loyal sons and worthy leaders."

He has many letters and telegrams of congratulations, including some from Jim Farley, Congressman Sabath, Congressman Byrns, Congressman McDuffie, Congressman John D. Dingell, State Treasurer John C. Martin, of Illinois; Gov.-Elect Curley, of Massachusetts; T. M. Campbell, of Tuskegee; Gov. Henry Horner, of Illinois and Congressman Mitchell, of Tennessee, who welcomes "another member of the Mitchell family" into Congress.

Mitchell's legislative ideas are to wipe out racial discriminations which he says "breed hatred, prejudice and injustice," to improve the welfare of his race, to put through an anti-lynching bill to give American born labor preference over immigrants, eliminate idleness and reenfranchise the Negroes of the South.

"I know the white man and the black man of the South, and know the conditions here," he said. "I have an understanding that makes me believe I can be of service. To show you how ridiculous are the thoughts of some, I was asked before leaving Chicago if I wasn't afraid to come to Birmingham as a congressman."

Congressman Mitchell's district is 40 per cent white and 60 per cent Negro. He got all of the white votes and half of the Negro votes, being elected by a majority of 3,695 over DePriest who is also a native Alabamian.

"DePriest had drawn the color line in making appointments to West Point and Annapolis,' he said. 'During his six years in office no white boy of that district had a chance for these appointments. I will have no such discrimination."

Mitchell, who is 50 years old, is cultured and of distinguished appearance. He is a member of Odd Fellows, Pythians, Elks and the Masons and for eight years has served as national president of the Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity.

"They will say in Chicago that immediately after election I ran South to see my white bosses," he said, "but I am here to see my sick sisters here also. He will visit Tuskegee Tuesday.

Mitchell says his work is not to be confined to his district but to bring about better racial relations throughout the country. It is in this he believes he can be of the greatest service to both blacks and whites.

He tells an interesting story of how his friendship with Congressman McDuffie first developed. It was while he was teaching school in Choctaw County that he got in

"I saw what he was after, that I would accuse them of being liars too, but I merely said that 'the plaintiffs had the worst sort of lies in that case.'

McDuffie heard that he has been my friend ever since." and that he has been my friend ever since." and that he has been my friend ever since." and

Political - 1934

Office Holding -

(William Dawson)
(Arthur W. Mitchell)

Illinois.

Anniston, Ala. Star
November 18, 1934

Noted Alabama Negroes

The people of Alabama generally should view with pride the achievements that have been made recently by two Negroes in the realms of music and politics. Both William Dawson, the Anniston musician, and Arthur W. Mitchell, who is to be Congressman from the First Chicago District, the richest in the United States, got their inspiration to high achievement from Tuskegee Institute, which also has given to the world of science that great genius, Dr. George Washington Carver.

William Dawson is director of music at Tuskegee. A few years ago he was shining shoes here in this city, but on Wednesday evening of last week he had the pleasure of hearing the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Leopold Stokowski, one of the world's greatest, give the premiere performance of his fine musical composition, "Negro Folk Symphony No. 1," which has been widely acclaimed by critics who say that Dawson has genuine creative talent.

Dawson's triumph seems to verify a statement that repeatedly has been made by The Anniston Star — that the first genuinely great American music would be written by a Negro. We do not know whether the composition in question will qualify in this respect or not, but we still are of that opinion; for it has been observed that no people ever produces a great music until they have suffered, and the mental, spiritual and physical hardships that the American Negro has undergone eventually will be expressed in terms of music, whether Dawson has done so or not. As great an artist as Lawrence Tibbett stated recently that the best singing he has ever heard was that of a Negro chorus in Birmingham. The race is peculiarly gifted in the art of song and if they once are educated we may expect from them a large contribution to American culture.

The reason that we rejoice in the election of Mitchell to Congress is because he defeated the despicable Oscar Depriest and seems destined to keep his feet on the ground, recognizing that he can help his race only in proportion as he works with and not against the dominant race on this continent. Mitchell says that as long as his predecessor was in Congress he worked almost exclusively in the interest of his own people, although there are both whites and blacks in his district. The Democrat promises that this sort of discrimination shall be ended and that he will serve his constituency regardless of race, color or previous condition of servitude.

There will, of course, be shortsighted white persons all over the country who will resent the election of a Negro to Congress. But The Anniston Star does not share this view. We believe it would be well if we could have one or two Negroes of the Mitchell type in every State Legislature to speak for their race. Indeed, there is probably not another civilized country in the world where a minority race as considerable as is the Negro race in America is given so little opportunity for self-expression. They have rights that should be recognized and the white race is hurting itself as long as those rights are denied in the various channels of social control.

It was Edgar Gardner Murphy, the great Alabama preacher and social worker, who made the statement several years ago that no graduate of Tuskegee had ever been accused of a crime against a white woman and we believe the statement holds good to this day. Certainly Booker Washington, one of the greatest Americans of all time, did a big work there and his tradition has been carried forward by Dr. Robert R. Moton, who is honored by such men as Dawson and Mitchell, and whose proposed retirement as president of Tuskegee is to be deplored.

Birmingham, Ala., News
November 12, 1934

MITCHELL, NEGRO SOLON, VISITS CITY

Illinois Congressman - Elect, Who Defeated DePriest, Alabama Native

An Alabama Negro who attended and taught in many schools of this state and who last Tuesday became the first Negro to be elected to Congress by the Democratic party, came home Monday for a visit.

He is Arthur W. Mitchell, who defeated the Republican Negro, Oscar DePriest, in the First Illinois District which is the richest congressional district in the United States, including all of the Chicago Loop.

"They made a fight on me by calling me the tool of designing white bosses," Congressman Mitchell said, "but I told them I had no apologies to make for my white friends and that I only wished I had more."

He numbers among his friends many whites and blacks of this state. In fact, he says, Congressman McDuffie is one of his best and DePriest made McDuffie an issue in the campaign, charging McDuffie was running Mitchell for the congressional post.

Mitchell is strong for President Roosevelt and the Democratic party.

"The first political lie I heard told in Alabama was told by a Republican campaign worker for McKinley," says Congressman-Elect Mitchell. "I was standing with my daddy, listening to the speech in Birmingham, and the Republican told us that if McKinley was elected every Negro would get 40 acres and a gray mule.

"My father lived many years waiting for that promise to be fulfilled. He always believed it would be, and he carried that belief to his grave but he never got the acres or the mule. None of us did until President Roosevelt came into office. It took a Democratic president to fulfill that Republican promise."

In this connection, Mitchell recalled the New Deal experiences of Sylvester Harris, the Columbus, Miss., Negro, who went to Chicago and helped him with his campaign.

"When a poor Negro farmer in overalls and unable to speak a correct sentence can get the ear of the president and get what's coming to him, then I think the Negroes of the South must look to that sort of man," he said.

Mitchell recalled how Harris had been hearing of government grants, of how he drove one of his cows to market, sold her and took the money to telephone the president.

"He called four times, and wouldn't talk to any one but the president. Finally Mr. Roosevelt answered the phone and Sylvester told him his troubles. The president assured him he would look after the matter, and four days later an agent from the Federal Land Bank from New Orleans called on him. Sylvester was given $1,200 immediately and saved his farm from mortgage foreclosure.

Mitchell was born in Randolph County and spent two years at both Tuskegee Institute and Talladega College, later doing postgraduate work at Harvard and Columbia. He studied law in New York and is a member of the Illinois bar.

He taught school in Alabama 10 years, at schools in Choctaw, Sumter and Hale Counties. He was principal of the Negro schools in Greensboro for four years and was in the real estate business in Birmingham in 1906 and 1907. He also taught in Dooley County, Georgia.

"I saw Gov. Miller when he first mounted the bench as a circuit judge, and I lived in Greensboro when Judge Thomas E. Knight, Sr., was on the bench," he says.

After staying on a Randolph farm until he was 14 years old, he walked the 66 miles to Tuskegee College, where he worked on the farm during the day and attended school at night.

His first work after finishing college was to establish the Armstrong Agricultural College in Alabama's Black Belt. For 10 years he served as president of this school, working most of the time without salary. Later he studied law and lived in Washington, where he took much interest in church and civic work. In 1928 he with his wife and son moved to Chicago, where he has lived since, practicing law.

He has a letter from Judge Harry M. Fisher, dean of the Chicago jurists, saying:

"Being the first Democrat to represent your people, in the Congress, a new world is open to you in which your responsibilities are great. Take advantage of it so that you may turn out to be a real blessing to that minority group in our nation that, more than any other, is in need of loyal sons and worthy leaders."

He has many letters and telegrams of congratulations, including some from Jim Farley, Congressman Sabath, Congressman Byrns, Congressman McDuffie, Congressman John D. Dingell, State Treasurer John C. Martin, of Illinois; Gov.-Elect Curley, of Massachusetts; T. M. Campbell, of Tuskegee; Gov. Henry Horner, of Illinois and Congressman Mitchell, of Tennessee who welcomes "another member of the Mitchell family" into Congress.

Mitchell's legislative ideas are to wipe out racial discrimination; which he says "breed hatred, prejudice and injustice," to improve the welfare of his race, to pass through an anti-lynching bill to give American born labor preference over immigrants, eliminate idleness and reenfranchise the Negroes of the South.

"I know the white man and the black man of the South, and know the conditions here," he said. "I have an understanding that makes me believe I can be of service. To show you how ridiculous are the thoughts of some, I was asked before leaving Chicago if I wasn't afraid to come to Birmingham as a congressman."

Congressman Mitchell's district is 40 per cent white and 60 per cent Negro. He got all of the white votes and half of the Negro votes, being elected by a majority of 3,695 over DePriest who is also a native Alabamian.

"DePriest had drawn the color line in making appointments to West Point and Annapolis,' he said. 'During his six years in office no white boy of that district had a chance for these appointments. I will have no such discrimination."

Mitchell, who is 50 years old, is of distinguished appearance. He is a member of Odd Fellows, Pythians, Elks and the Masons and for eight years has served as national president of the Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity.

"They will say in Chicago that immediately after election I ran South to see my white bosses," he said, "but I am here to see my sick a school. He won the suit.

"The next day we were all gathered at a store where the Negroes met at one end of the counter and talked to the whites at the other end. Finally one of the white men, in trying to embarrass me, says: 'Mitchell, they tell me you Negroes told the worst sort of lies in that case.'

"I saw what he was after, that he thought I would accuse them of being liars too, but I merely said that 'the plaintiffs had the worst sort of memories.' McDuffie heard

Mitchell has several brothers and sisters here also. He will visit Tuskegee Tuesday.

Mitchell says his work is not to be confined to his district but to bring about better racial relations throughout the country. It is in this he believes he can be of the greatest service to both blacks and whites.

He tells an interesting story of how his friendship with Congressman McDuffie first developed. He was while he was teaching school in Choctaw County that he got in poorest ever since,

that and he has been my friend

another who is so recover."

Harlem, Ga., News
November 15, 1934

The Negro Vote Breaks Away

A Negro Democrat, for the first time in history has been elected to Congress. He is Arthur W. Mitchell, of Chicago, and he succeeds in office, Oscar DePriest, another Negro. In Oklahoma, the town of Boley, entirely populated by Negroes, deserted the Republican party and gave a plurality to all Democratic candidates. In St. Louis Thomas C. Hennings, Democrat, was elected to Congress from the Eleventh Missouri District, whose population is 40 to 45 per cent Negro.

These are examples that might be cited to show that the historic adherence of Negroes to the party of Abraham Lincoln has been gravely shaken. The Negro vote has formed a source of support that G. O. P. leaders could always count on in advance. That this condition did not minister to the best interests of Negroes has been vainly preached by many intelligent members of the race. That the Democratic and Republican parties of today bear little resemblance to the same parteis in the 60's has likewise been a futile argument.

Now, it seems, modern Negroes, responding to education, are beginning to vote with discrimination. Many of them have joined the great and growing army of independent voters, who give constant allegiance to neither of the great parties but decide between them in the light of men and issues. The change from the day when the Negro vote went blindly to one party is a salutary thing for the Negroes—and for all the political parties, including the Republican, as well.

Burlington, N. C. Times
November 16, 1934

First Democrat Negro Victor

The first negro ever elected to Congress on the Democratic ticket, Arthur W. Mitchell, above, will represent the First Illinois district. Mitchell, Chicagoan, defeated Oscar DePriest, Republican, in the Nov. 6 landslide. He is a former student of Tuskegee, Harvard, and Columbia.

Chattanooga, Tenn. Times
November 14, 1934

A DEMOCRATIC NEGRO CONGRESSMAN.

When the Seventy-fourth Congress convenes next January, for the first time a Negro will occupy a seat on the Democratic side of the House of Representatives. This Negro is Arthur W. Mitchell. He will represent the heavily Negro and traditionally Republican First Congressional District of Illinois, by which he was elected last week over the elderly Oscar De Priest, who is completing his third successive term in Congress.

Mitchell, who is 37 years of age, was born in Alabama. At the age of 14 he ran away from a farm and walked to school at Tuskegee, where he was for a while Booker T. Washington's office boy. He was graduated from Talladega College in Alabama and subsequently studied at Harvard and Columbia. While maintaining his residence in Chicago, he has lately been engaged in practicing law and conducting a real estate business in Washington, D. C. These facts are recited by way of indicating his qualifications for service as a member of Congress.

There have been a considerable number of Republican Negro Congressmen since the War Between the States. Among Democrats—among Democrats of the South in particular—the presence of these Negroes in the National Legislature has been widely regarded as creating social and official problems for their Republican colleagues and some other Republican officeholders in Washington. And some Democrats have on occasion and with not a little glee contemplated what they considered embarrassing situations for Republicans, due to the presence in their midst of a Republican Negro Congressman. Now the shoe, to use a homely expression, will soon be on the other foot. How are Democrats going to meet the situation?

Let it be said that the presence of a Negro Congressman on the Democratic side of the House of Representatives cannot properly be taken as raising the question of social equality. It will be most unfortunate if Representative Mitchell and other Democratic Congressmen and officials should permit the question to obtrude itself in their thinking and influence their conduct. Arthur W. Mitchell has been elected to the House of Representatives to serve his constituents and the Nation in matters of Government. Other Democratic Congressmen and officials generally should accord the Negro Congressman, in matters relating to Government, every consideration customarily shown those of their own color. Social intercourse is very largely a matter of taste, congeniality and policy, in which race is often a factor; in the transaction of Government business, race should never be a consideration.

There is not the slightest valid reason why Arthur W. Mitchell's color should be a determining factor in the official treatment accorded him. In business, industry and the professions, the Negro should be dealt with, even in the South, on terms of business, industrial and professional equality. Much more, if anything, is a representative of the race in Congress entitled to be met and dealt with on terms of official equality. Any Democratic Congressmen or other officials who may fail to meet and deal with Arthur W. Mitchell on such terms, on the floor of the House in committee rooms, in cloak rooms or in executive and administrative offices, will thereby be violating and denying the first principle of Democratic Government.

"GENTLEMAN FROM ILLINOIS"

In Time, the weekly newsmagazine of extensive circulation, in issue of November 19 reference was made to the election to Congress from the first Illinois district of Arthur W. Mitchell. In that reference Time referred to him as the "gentleman from Illinois."

In the succeeding issue of Time, a letter appears from Memphis, Tenn., signed by K. S. Dargan who charges Time with being deliberately offensive to Southern people because of its intelligent and courteous reference to Congressman-elect Mitchell as the "gentleman from Illinois."

The letter of K. S. Dargan is only important from the standpoint of public notice in that it represents the last dying embers of a speedily decaying age, and if it had not an air of taunt and disparagement indicating a hazy belief in a lofty and asserted superiority, we would be inclined to let it continue to die a natural death in the slimy gutter of its mental origin with its sponsor.

However, there are just a few reasons why we will not permit Mr. Dargan's remarks to go unchallenged. The writer, who chanced to be noticed by Time in that they give his letter publication, cannot claim to speak for the living, breathing and growing South of today. His very utterance stamps him as a vile traducer of all the high and noble sentiments which are now carrying the South through a new process of elevated civilization and Christianity.

Mr. Dargan may be assured that he has wounded no respectable black man's pride, because the putridity of his argument and the falsity of his reasoning rescued his remarks from intentional irony, which, if he had represented the intelligent South of today, would have probably been its general acceptation.

SENATOR-ELECT MITCHELL

Arthur W. Mitchell, Democratic Congressman-elect from Illinois, is scheduled to visit Indianapolis at next Monday.

The Chicago politician reportedly will be guest of honor at a Democratic victory rally to be held by local Democrats.

A member of our group of substantial ability both as a lawyer and a politician, Mr. Mitchell, we feel confident, is coming to Indianapolis with a message of great moment to party workers of Indiana.

As the first Negro Democrat ever to be elected to the United States Congress, the Chicago representative is truly a creation of the New Deal.

It is worthy of note that, as a leading advocate of the principles of the opposite party and like his Republican predecessor, this race man has succeeded in landing a pivotal position in the political setup of the nation that embodies many attractive potentialities for colored Americans especially.

And now that his constituency has seen fit to substitute him for their former G.O.P. representative in Congress, it is up to Mr. Mitchell to prove his competence to play ably his part as a member of the national legislature.

It is not at all unlikely that the newly elected Negro Congressman will measure up fully to what is expected of him as constituted representative of the people.

Meanwhile it is highly desirable that citizens of this community should extend a rousing welcome to the distinguished visitor; make him feel completely at home while in our traditionally hospitable City of Indianapolis.

Political-1934

Office Holding

Illinois.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.
EAGLE NEWS
MAY 12 1934

De Priest Charges Graft Under New Deal in South; Hits President's Advisers

Negro Representative Assails Heavy Costs Of Bureaucracy

COMMENDS FISH

Roosevelt Doing Best, But Not Succeeding, Speaker Asserts

Huge appropriations and the mounting load of debt for the program of the New Deal were assailed by Representative Oscar DePriest of Chicago in an attack last night on the policies of the Roosevelt administration and its Brains Trust.

Speaking at A. M. E. Zion church under the auspices of the Poughkeepsie Neighborhood club, Mr. DePriest declared that he cannot support increasing taxation for administration of the NRA code system, economies effected by reducing veterans' pensions and federal employees salaries, and the new doctrine of transferring to the President the constitutional rights of legislators. He said he believed President Roosevelt was making an earnest effort to bring about recovery but that the executive is surrounded by advisors who are making this impossible.

"President Roosevelt is trying to do all he can, and I hope he is making an improvement, although I cannot see any," he said. "The poor are getting poorer and the rich richer."

Mr. DePriest declared that graft exists in federal unemployment relief and house loan operations and in the farm allotment plan in the South and that he intends within a few weeks to resume his personal investigation of these practices. He encouraged negroes to be optimistic about their future and urged them to regard America as their homeland and be determined to assist in improving conditions for themselves and all the nation's citizens.

The negro representative addressed an audience which included many white persons and members of negro organizations in several cities of the Hudson valley. On the platform with him were Mayor Spratt, former Mayor Caven, Assemblyman Fite, Frederic H. Bontecou, chairman of the county Republican committee, and officers of negro organizations of the city.

Commends Fish

Mr. DePriest gave his views of the Roosevelt administration's recovery program as he discussed the outlook of the negro citizens of the United States. He commended Representative Fish highly, declaring that the people of the 26th district would commit "an unforgiveable sin" if they should they fail to send Fish back to Congress.

"The thing I like about Representative Fish," he said, "is that he is a man among men, who believes that every man has just rights under the constitution. And he is fighting the battles of the negro just as much as Oscar DePriest."

Expressing his confidence in the sincerity of President Roosevelt, he declared: "The President is doing the best he can, but he is surrounded with fellows who are anxious to try their pet theories. He means well, and there is no more honorable man living, but he is badly surrounded. He has been obliged to give high appointments to men without whose support he cannot put through the legislation which is part of his program."

Mr. DePriest said that his belief that the farm allotment plan would not operate satisfactorily was verified on a recent trip through the South when he interviewed negro tenant farmers and found that they had never heard of the processing tax which they are supposed to receive from the government.

Although the tenant farmers sell their produce under the law and receive the government's receipt, it is the landlord who later collects the additional money which the government pays to fulfill its terms of the crop limitation contract, the representative said. He said he also found in the south instances of intimidation of CWA employees who were forced to give $2 of their weekly paychecks of $12 to the relief administrator in order to be kept on the payroll. The same fee was exacted from those who leased trucks for CWA work, he said. The victims are afraid to testify to these conditions for Department of Justice agents because of the possibility of losing their jobs, he said.

Form of Slavery, He Says

These conditions constitute a form of slavery under which both negro and white workers are suffering, he declared.

The federal government's home owners' loan system is also "honeycomber with graft," said Mr. DePriest, citing that in Chicago applications for loans must be accompanied by a "tip" to the administrator if the application is to be approved.

Attacking appropriations for the New Deal program, the Chicago representative said the administration went into debt for seven billion dollars the first year for its codes system and increased the taxes about a billion dollars in the last fiscal year. This billion was raised by an increase of about 417 million dollars in revenue taxes, he said. In its burget the administration is asking 10 billions for indebtedness and three billions for refunding of indebtedness and at the end of the fiscal year the government will be 31 billions in debt, he said.

He warned that if the confidence of the people in the government is destroyed through repudiation of debts by the administration, there will be no hope of recovery. He also assailed what he termed "almost a dole system" in the country.

Mr. DePreist reviewed the House restaurant controversy and said that he hoped for a report soon from the investigating committee which was appointed last Saturday on his resolution. He emphasized that his interest is solely in the principle involved and asserted that if the rights of negroes as citizens are denied under the dome of the capitol there is no hope of maintaining those rights elsewhere in the country.

Commenting on the fact that he is at present the only negro representative in Congress, Mr. DePriest observed:

Too Much Legislation

"At least I'm the only one who claims to be a negro—that's a sure thing."

Pointing out that he examines all proposed legislation first to determine whether it affects the negro, he declared that there has been too much legislation on the negro question, most of which has been detrimental to the negro's cause, resulting in "Jim Crow" laws and other forms of segregation.

"I'd rather take my chance on legislation designed to treat everyone alike," he said.

He credited the Republican party with doing every good for the negro and asserted that "every piece of legislation against the negro has been passed in the southern states where the Democrats are in control." If the negroes were given their full franchise in the south there would be more than one negro representative in Congress, he said.

Mr. DePriest urged Poughkeepsie negroes to take full advantage of the equal educational advantages here and reminded them that they must make themselves qualified for the positions they seek. He urged Mayor Spratt to give young negroes encouragement by giving a negro boy or girl "a good job in the city hall."

Decrying discrimination against negroes or any class, he declared that he is also opposed to excessive tax on wealth. "I don't believe in the cry of 'soak the rich,'" he said. "I am not willing to soak anyone in America. Why try to equalize wealth by excessive tax?"

Closing, he cautioned negroes: "You can never command the respect of the rest of the American people until you learn to respect yourselves."

Mayor Spratt extended greetings of the city to Representative DePriest. He observed that in the past negroes have not taken full advantage of the educational facilities in the city and urged them to do so. Mr. Caven quoted Represenative Fish as saying that Mr. DePriest is a man of great courage and ability and one who does not fear the southern representatives in Congress. Mr. Fite recited the problems confronting New York state and told Mr. DePriest that he hoped Congress would soon legislate to control the power and truck industries which are inter-state. He said he also hoped that New York would soon have a satisfactory parole system which would have young men from becoming hardened in prison.

Mr. DePriest was introduced by Yarbrough Chapmon, head of the negro Elks' organization. The meeting was in the charge of Mrs. John Harden, president, of the Neighborhood club, and the program was announced by Mrs. Herbert Payne, state president of negro women's clubs. Invocation was by the Rev. J. M. Branch and a solo was rendered by Alice Lawrence.

St. Matthews, S. C., Times
November 15, 1934

DE PRIEST BITES THE DUST

A most unusual thing happened in Chicago on election day. Oscar De Priest is the only negro congressman. He was beaten by a negro Democrat, Arthur Mitchell. So far as we are concerned the joy would have been practically undiluted had Mitchell been a Republican. Any honest proceeding to put Oscar on the scrap heap would have been welcome. He is a bad egg. His sole stock in trade is hatred of the white man. It is a peculiar freak of human nature that the narrowest, bitterest hatred for the Caucasian is often found among so-called leaders, with a strong flow of white blood in negro viens. Born and reared a Southerner, his animus against the South is profound.

Sprinkle this country pretty generally with De Priests, and L'Ouventures, San Domingos, and the fate of the Indians would soon follow.

Among the other blessings resulting from the Roosevelt landslide, the scrapping of Oscar De Priest is one over which we rejoice.

Pope's dictum that a little learning is a dangerous thing certainly applied with interest to Oscar

DePriest Loses Fight for Square Deal in Education

WASHINGTON—(ANP) — Congressman John J. Douglass, Massachusetts Democrat, believes it would be presumptuous to believe that the South does not fairly distribute funds for education which are appropriated by the Federal government.

Mr. Douglass expressed this conviction last Thursday when Congressman De Priest offered an amendment to a bill appropriating $9,000,000 home economics, industrial and agricultural education the South.

In his amendment, Mr. DePriest sought to set up the limitation that the funds should be distributed according to the population of the white and colored races, based on the last census.

He cited figures to show that the Negro is cheated of educational unds in the South and that the noney spent for the education of Negro children in southern states is only one-fourth of that spent for whites.

In spite of these figures, however, Mr. Douglass, describing himself as a friend of the Negro race, felt that for Congress to order the South to be fair in the distribution of funds alloted to it by Washington would be invading states' rights and presuming that the southern states would not do what was right, according to "tradition".

The DePriest amendment was therefore rejected without a roll call.

CHICAGO, ILL.
AMERICAN
SEP 25 1934

De Priest's Use of Mail Frank Protested

An appeal to the Postoffice Department has been taken in the First Congressional District where a hot battle is raging for the honor of representing Chicago's colored voters in Congress.

Arthur W. Mitchell, first colored man to be nominated for Congress in Chicago on the Democratic ticket, has protested that Representative Oscar De Priest, Republican congressman, is unfairly using the congressional "frank" in mailing out campaign literature to Chicago voters.

Mitchell supporters called attention of the postal authorities to postcards mailed in Chicago with Congressman De Priest's frank in lieu of postage. In the upper left-hand corner of the postcard was the printed statement:

"Congress of the United States-House of Representatives-Official Business—Free."

MENTIONS OFFICES.

On the reverse side Congressman De Priest called attention to the fact that:

"I have opened up congressional headquarters at 3140 Indiana av. on the second floor. I would be pleased to have you call any day between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. and in the evening between 7 and 8."

De Priest evidently learned that the Postoffice Department was investigating the matter, for cards mailed later carried stamps. It became a question of whether he was inviting comment on legislation.

Mitchell, his opponent, is making a campaign in the district on political issues solely.

Mitchell, a dignified, competent-appearing individual, attorney with many years experience and has the distinction of having established the Armstrong Agricultural College, in the so-called Black Belt of Alabama, where he was born, in Randolph County.

WORKED TO LEARN.

When he was 14, he walked sixty-six miles to Tuskegee College, founded by the late Booker T. Washington. He worked on farms by day, went to school by night, saved his money and continued his education at Talladega College, later attending both Harvard and Columbia universities, and began the practice of law in Washington.

Reports have been current that he was to be "traded" for B. A. Hammond, Democratic candidate for state senator in the Second Ward.

Democratic headquarters deny emphatically there is any "trade" and Committeeman and Alderman Michael Kenna has declared that his First Ward organization, of which he still is the czar, "will go 100 per cent for Mitchell."

Democratic headquarters insist Mitchell will win by from 10,000 to 15,000 in the district, which comprises all of the First Ward, 90 precincts of the Second, 14 of the Eleventh and seven of the Fourth Ward.

FEDERAL LAW ENFORCER

Hon. J. Gray Lucas, prominent attorney and former member of the Arkansas legislature, has been appointed assistant district attorney for the northern district of Illinois, at the instance of Senator James Hamilton Lewis. Attorney Lucas, who received his A.B. degree from Arkansas State college and his L.L.B. from Boston university, is a lawyer of exceptional ability and has appeared in person four times before the Supreme Court of the United States and at least thirty times before the Supreme Court of Illinois.

Attorney Lucas was the first and only living lawyer of the Race to hold the position of United States Commissioner for the United States Circuit Court in the State of Arkansas, and, incidentally, the first Democrat to occupy this position. He has been a consistent Democrat for a number of years and has served his party with distinction at every opportunity. This latest appointment is just another milestone of achievement in a long and brilliant career.

Attorney Lucas served with distinction as assistant corporation counsel in this city under Mayor Dever. He has been prominently identified with every civic movement initiated for the benefit of the Race. He was for years attorney for Elbert Robinson, inventor of the trolley-wheel and also of the railroad car wheel, now in use all over the world. His skillful handling of this case attracted nation-wide attention.

J. GRAY LUCAS

Albany-Decatur, Ala. Daily
November 13, 1934

Southerners Intimate They Object to Negro on Democratic Side of House; But Chicago Man's Election May Result in New Deal for Colored People; Roosevelt's Cousin Makes President "Administrator" of Father's Estate; DuPonts Expected to Volunteer Plan for Regulation of Munitions Trade.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—It looks as if the election of Arthur W. Mitchell, colored Congressman from Chicago, as successor to Oscar De-Priest, also colored, might cause the New Deal a little trouble.

Already some of the old guard Democrats have privately intimated objection. What they say is, that they don't mind having a Republican Negro around, but that a Democratic Negro Congressman is different. Mitchell, they say, will be a member of their own crowd and party.

And it has more significance than merely the opposition of southern Congressman. For Roosevelt and his Administration have deliberately courted Negro support.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes was once an officer in the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Oscar Chapman, his assistant, had been a strong rooter for more funds for Howard University (colored) which is run by the Interior Department. Harry Hopkins, Relief Administrator, has operated on the assumption that black men can be just as hungry as white.

Finally Mrs. Roosevelt has conferred with Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

It has escaped the attention of most, but this is the first time in history that the Democratic Party has sent a Negro to Congress.

Political - 1934

Office Holding.

Illinois.

Both DePriests at the White House

MRS. DePRIEST
(AFRO Bureau)
1-27-34

WASHINGTON.—Representative and Mrs. Oscar DePriest attended the President's reception for senators and congressmen at the White House last Thursday evening.

Mr. DePriest arrived in Washington Thursday morning from Chicago. Mrs. DePriest arrived Tuesday morning. They spent nearly an hour at the reception, arriving shortly after nine o'clock.

Mrs. DePriest wore a gown of eggshell satin, decolletege with train, silver slipper with rhinestone buckles and diamond jewelry. Her wrap of American beauty velvet was trimmed with chinchilla fur.

There were about 1,000 guests present. This is the third of a series of receptions of the season given in honor of the members of the upper and lower houses of Congress, their wives and families.

The presidential procession formed in the state dining room promptly at 9 p.m., led by a detail of army, navy and marine corps aids, which preceded the President and his party into the Blue room, where the receiving line formed.

DE PRIEST IN HOUSE RAISES RACE ISSUE

Times

Barring of Negro Aides From Restaurant Brings Threat of Fight on Floor.

1-25-34

RAINEY TRIES TO END ROW

New York, N.Y.

Illinois Member Promises to Await Snell's Return Before Seeking Rules Change,

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The race question was brought into the House today when Representative De Priest of Illinois, only Negro member of Congress, offered a resolution authorizing an investigation of the authority exercised by the Accounts Committee, charged with responsibility of operating the House restaurant.

Yesterday, he charged, Morris Lewis, his secretary, and Morris Lewis Jr., a clerk, were barred from service when they visited the restaurant, although previously they had enjoyed the privileges of both dining rooms.

The incident was noticed, but little attention was paid to it until Representative De Priest, furious at the "discrimination," threatened to take the floor and assail Representative Warren of North Carolina, chairman of the committee, who issued the order prohibiting further service to Negroes.

The Negro Representative visited the White House this morning, but later denied that he had discussed the restaurant incident with Marvin McIntyre, one of President Roosevelt's secretaries.

Minority Leader Snell was away from the city today, and in his absence Speaker Rainey summoned Mr. De Priest before the House convened. What occurred was kept secret, but Representative De Priest did not ask to take the floor. Instead, he asked and obtained unanimous consent to extend his remarks in the Record.

Many Wait for "Blast."

In this manner he can write anything he chooses and insert it in the daily record of House happenings. Tonight numerous members were awaiting the expected "blast."

"It never came to my attention until Monday that Negroes were eating in the House restaurant," Mr. Warren explained today. "It has been the rule ever since I have been a member that Negroes would not be served. I ordered that the practice of serving Negroes cease as soon as I discovered that it was being done."

Representative Martin of Massachusetts, acting Republican leader, said he believed Representative De Priest would have the support of many members.

"Undoubtedly a majority of the Republicans will support him when the resolution comes up," said Mr. Martin. "The Republicans don't believe in discrimination. They will also support him in the Rules Committee."

Rainey Hopes to End Row.

Mr. Martin said he understood that Representative Beck of Pennsylvania, former Solicitor General, was prepared today to take the floor in defense of Representative De Priest and the Negro race.

Speaker Rainey admitted that the situation might develop into a national argument if it was not curbed. In view of his success in quieting Representative De Priest this morning, he indicated that he hoped to hush up the whole situation before Friday, when Mr. Snell is expected back in the House.

"It is going to be a party fight and I think I owe Mr. Snell, the leader, the courtesy of awaiting his return before starting the row on the floor," Representative De Priest said this afternoon. "I have nothing against Mr. Rainey or any other leaders, but this fellow Warren —"

The resolution alleges that the Accounts Committee received jurisdiction over the House restaurant in a special resolution adopted in the Sixty-seventh Congress on June 2, 1921. It was pointed out that such authority ceased when that Congress ended and no committee since has been authorized to conduct the restaurant. The resolution, he said, could not bind succeeding sessions. A committee of five members was asked to investigate why such authority is exercised now by the Account Committee and also why discrimination is permitted against Negro citizens.

Cites Loyalty of Race.

Negroes, Representative De Priest asserted in a preamble to the resolution, "have been the victims of commercial traffic in souls," and for years have been loyal to their government.

"I stand peculiarly as the representative of the 12,000,000 loyal colored citizens of the United States," he said.

"These people and their forebears have contributed of might and main, blood and sinew in the development of this country. From the year 1619, when a group of twenty slaves were landed at Jamestown, Va., these people have been loyal to the country to which they and their forebears were brought through a commercial traffic in human souls.

"For 244 years of unrequited toil these loyal citizens tilled the soil, planted the fields, harvested the crops of the Southern plantations, nursed and succored the families of their masters, were custodians of the 'family chest' while master was at war to keep them in slavery.

"The first blood that fertilized the soil of this continent in the cause of liberty and fraternity flowed from the life stream of that hero martyr, Crispus Attucks, who fell on Boston Common in 1770.

"The colored citizens of the United States have borne their full share of responsibility and sacrifice in every military movement in which this country has been engaged, from the revolutionary period, through the Civil War, on through Carizal, San Juan Hill and the Argonne front, and this loyalty must gain for them the liberal plaudits of patriotic America and place them beyond the pale of present-day serfdom and slavery.

"Under the Constitution of the United States and the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments thereof, these people are citizens of the United States, entitled to all the privileges and immunities as are enjoyed by others."

DePriest's Bill Delayed Until Return Of Snell

Advertiser

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—(AP)—A lot of persons, white and black, went to the House of Representatives today in the expectation of hearing its lone negro member demand for those of his race the right to eat with whites in the public restaurant in the capitol.

They were disappointed.

Representative DePriest (R) Illinois, the negro member, decided he would not press the issue until Friday after Representative Snell, of New York, the Republican leader, returns.

BOSTON, MASS.
AMERICAN

MAR 21 1934

Cong. De Priest Talks Here Tonight

How colored people have been barred from the United States Senate restaurant and other public places in Washington will be explained to the people of New England by Congressman Oscar De Priest tonight.

Mr. De Priest, the only colored member of Congress, will make his first New England appearance, speaking at a mass meeting of the Isaac W. Taylor Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in Cambridge.

Asheville, N. C., Citizen
May 23, 1934

DEPRIEST GIVES NEGRO SPEECH AT MORGANTON

MORGANTON, May 22. (Special)—In an address here Sunday before 600 negroes of Western North Carolina, Oscar DePriest, negro congressman from Chicago's "black belt," declared that he is not seeking social equality of races, but equal opportunity.

"If the negro wants the respect of the Caucasian American, he must respect himself," the speaker declared. "I do not blame the southern white man; I blame you. I think if I were a white man I would do about like he does."

Urging his hearers to take an active part in politics, the colored congressman declared "If I lived down here, although I am a Republican in Chicago, I would join the Democratic party and help put the best white men in my section in office."

Negroes from Asheville, Lenoir, Hickory, Marion and other nearby towns were present to hear DePriest at Slade's Chapel A. M. E. Zion church.

DePriest To Demand House Vote To Permit Negroes In Capitol Cafe

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—(AP)—A decision whether negroes shall be allowed to eat with whites in the public restaurant operated in the Capitol will be demanded of the House tomorrow.

Representative Oscar DePriest, (R), Illinois, the only negro member, said tonight he would bring up the question. Employes of the restaurant had refused to serve his secretary and another negro.

Chairman Warren (D), North Carolina, of the accounts committee, which has charge of the restaurant, said tonight in a brief formal statement:

"In refusing to serve two negroes today in the House restaurant, Manager P. H. Johnson, of the restaurant, was acting upon my orders and instructions. The restaurant has been operated by the committee on accounts since 1921.

"It has never served negro employees or visitors, nor will it so long as I have anything to do with it."

DePriest said his secretary, Morris Lewis, went to the grill room as usual sat at a horseshoe counter, and ordered food. He was accompanied by another negro.

The negro waiter declined to serve them and a cashier was called. Manager Johnson said the cashier referred the negroes to him.

"They demanded to know who was responsible for the order not to serve them," said Johnson. "I told them the House accounts committee. Then they wanted to know who the chairman was and I told them Mr. Warren."

They went into Warren's office nearby, but the Representative was in the House chamber. They then saw DePriest outside.

"I didn't know anything about it until a few minutes ago." said DePriest. "The manager of the restaurant told Lewis that Representative Warren had issued orders to keep out negroes.

"If the Democrats are going to act that way toward the negroes, we might as well have a showdown now. It seems funny to me that a man with money to pay for his food, whether he be Jew Gentile, or negro, should be refused food in a public restaurant.

"That is a public restaurant and everybody ought to have a right to eat there. I am going to insist on a square deal for Jews, Gentiles and negroes."

He said he would force a vote on a privileged resolution tomorrow for the House to decide whether negroes could eat in the restaurant.

DE PRIEST TO FIGHT 'JIM CROW' RULE IN RESTAURANT OF HOUSE

Negro Representative Plans to Force Showdown to See Whether Members of His Race Shall be Permitted to Eat With Whites in Public Dining Room

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—A decision whether Negroes shall be allowed to eat with whites in the public restaurant operated in the capitol will be demanded of the house tomorrow.

Representative Oscar DePriest, (R., Ill.), the only Negro member, said tonight he would bring the question up after employes of the restaurant had refused to serve his secretary and another Negro.

Chairman Warren (D., N. C.) of the accounts committee, which has charge of the restaurant, said today in a brief formal statement:

"In refusing to serve two Negroes today in the house restaurant Manager P. H. Johnson of the restaurant was acting upon my orders and instructions. The restaurant has been operated by the committee on accounts since 1921.

"It has never served Negro employes or visitors, nor will it so long as I have anything to do with it."

DePriest Wants Showdown

DePriest said his secretary, Morris Lewis, went to the grill room as usual, sat at a horseshoe counter and ordered food. He was accompanied by another Negro.

The Negro waiter declined to serve them and a cashier was called. Manager Johnson said the cashier referred two Negroes to him.

They then went into Warren's office nearby but the representative was in the house chamber. Later they saw DePriest.

"If the Democrats are going to act that way toward the Negroes, we might as well have a showdown now," DePriest declared. "It seems funny to me that a man with money to pay for his food, whether he be Jew, Gentile or Negro, should be refused food in a public restaurant.

He Plans to Force Vote

"That is a public restaurant and everybody ought to have a right to eat there. I am going to insist on a square deal for Jews, Gentile and Negroes."

DePriest said Lewis had been eating in the grill room.

He said he would force a vote on a privileged resolution tomorrow for the house to decide whether Negroes could eat in the restaurant.

Explaining he often had Negro guests in the restaurant, DePriest said that he could see no objection to Negroes eating in the public section, although he could see how the members' section could be reserved.

DePriest Declares War on Jim Crow 'Laws' Backed by Southerners in Washington

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 26.—Further evidence of the impropriety of placing southerners in important positions in the government came to light this week when Representative Warren, Democrat, of North Carolina, admitted that he had issued orders to the management of the capitol restaurant not to serve Race citizens.

Warren's statement was made public Tuesday when Morris Lewis, secretary to Congressman Oscar DePriest, and a companion, were refused service in the capitol restaurant. Mr. Lewis, after waiting some time for service, complained to the manager, P. H. Johnson, who informed him that he had received orders from Congressman Warren to draw the color line. The North Carolina congressman then told Mr. Lewis that he had given such orders.

"The restaurant has never served negroes," he said, "nor will it so long as I have anything to do with it."

Congressman Warren gets his authority by virtue of the fact that he is chairman of accounts committee of the house of representatives, which has charge of all public places at the capital. His attitude explains how it is that segregation, discrimination and other attendant evils are gaining such public approval.

The stand taken by Congressman Warren will serve to bring Democratic policies under the New Deal administration under fire generally, it was indicated here as an aftermath of this incident. Congressman DePriest, when told of the statement by the North Carolina congressman, said: "If Democrats are going to act that way toward Negroes, we might as well have a showdown now. It seems funny to me that a man with money to pay for his food, whether he be Jew, Gentile or Negro, should be refused food in a public restaurant."

Mr. DePriest indicated also that he intends to bring the issue before congress under his personal privilege authority and demand a showdown.

Another prominent Washingtonian, discussing the situation, declared that "it's time for Democrats to stop putting fools in high places. Anyone with the opinions of Warren should be relegated to the back rooms of the party where they cannot come in contact with the public or help make policies. It is time for Warren to take his place alongside the Heflins and the Bleases, whose wild opinions have done their party and their country more harm than the depression," he said.

G.O.P. PRIMARIES RENAME HIM FOR CONGRESS

CHICAGO. (ANP)—Oscar DePriest won an overwhelming victory Tuesday in the Republican primaries and was renominated for Congress.

DePriest not only licked Chandler Owen, his opponent, but also easily defeated Patrick Prescott for Republican committeeman of the Third Ward.

State Senator Adelbert H. Roberts appears beaten by William E. King, who also is ahead of William L. Dawson for Second Ward G.O.P. committeeman. The King victories in some quarters are regarded as a menace to the DePriest power in the Second Ward.

Legislators Ahead

Charles J. Jenkins, George T. Kersey and William J. Warfield appear victors for nomination to the legislature.

An Alabama Negro Elected Congress

A scholarly Negro lawyer from the old south has unseated Representative Oscar De Priest to be the first of his race on the Democratic side of congress.

By a margin of 3,000 votes, Arthur W. Mitchell, 37, one-time office boy to Booker T. Washington at Tuskegee Institute, was declared elected by the First Illinois district that since 1928 has been represented by the only Negro congressman, the elderly De Priest. The board of election commissioners gave the vote still unofficially totaled, as: Mitchell 27,970; De Priest, 24,840.

De Priest, Alabama-born, Kansas schooled, rose through city council service to congress and never until this year was he opposed by a Negro. This spring a white man won the primary nomination, but died, and the Democratic committee thrust Mitchell in to entice the heavy Negro vote to its party.

Mitchell, also an Alabamian, ran away from a farm at 14 and walked to school at Tuskegee.

If the down town district of Chicago wants a Negro to represent them in Congress it certainly suits us. We are pleased to have them elect a democrat instead of a republican for we believe the former will fit into the scheme of things and use more sense around Washington than did the republican congressman De Priest.

Political - 1934

Office Holding

Illinois

A STATESMAN TO THE MANNER BORN

Birmingham World

GEORGIANS were delightfully thrilled a week ago with the fine personality and message of Oscar DePriest, representative of the First Illinois district and congressman at large. Mr. DePriest, with his excellent physique and snow-white hair, presented a fine specimen of health and vigor. He had the tone of a general and the punch of a pugilist and in every way measured up fully with his record as a champion of forgotten men.

5-29-34

With many an avenue of endeavor closed to him, his political rights taken and his color a barrier, the Negro knows little of the timber of real statesmanship in his group. For the want of a field in which to operate and the opportuinty to throw forward his gifts, "full many a flower about him was born to blush unseen and waste its fragrance on the desert air." In the case of Mr. DePriest, it was the strange coincidence of his affiliation with the late Congressman Madden and a district in which Negroes hold the majority of power that brought him within our notice. Birmingham, Ala.

A condition in which color is called to play the major role in determining one's fitness—obscuring those powerful virtues so essential to good government, will at all times render a hazard, the getting of the best man to do the job.

Coming up from slavery where his loyalty to his nation and his God was tempered in the fires through which only that pure gold can pass, the Negro is by nature and impulse a patriot of the first water. His realty has naver been questioned and there has never been any hesitancy in his selection, when it was desired to make certain that a man was placed on guard who would not for any price sell a secret, nor betray a cause. It is no wonder that with the training he has massed through his own efforts that the Negro is a challenge to every civilization. Despite his frailties, mistakes and pitfalls to which he has been reduced, he is a tower of strength and through the sodden heaps of debris and cold poverty and its attendant starvation, glitters the pearl of his hope and his courage.

Birmingham World 5-29-34

Such is a modest record that spans the advent of a poor, homeless, unwanted and forgotten man in this country.

In such an environment was Oscar DePriest born. A child of slavery, he has been acquainted with grief. Being forgotten himself, his big heart waxes warm to the forgotten. His every movement and thought could not be directed toward any but constructive government. Birmingham, Ala.

No organization can ever take a true stock of its assets with the possibility of some of its brightest gems being hidden beneath the "sod and the dew". No nation can augment its full strength and present a real appraisal of its potentiality with a part of its populace handcuffed to the stocks and chained to the soil.

The tall tower of Oscar DePriest is a testimony against the iniquitous practice of keeping black hands from the ballot as well as a satire on the travesty of an unrighteous and illegal procedure.

Being the lone member of color in the great Congress of the United States, despite his contentions when the rights of his people are questioned, he maintains the respect of both wings of that august body. This was demonstrated beyond a doubt in his ability to get the required signatures for the bringing before the house the discrimination practiced in the state cafeteria.

The demonstration of Congressman DePriest, presents to this country an opportunity to study if it will, its potential strength that possibly lies in part within that group so long placed on the black list of its liabilities. It can never come into the heritage of its inert possibilities until the shackle of political slavery is stricken from the hands whose color was the determining argument by which they were bound.

A conference to nominate candidates will take place this coming Sunday at 2 p.m., at 3847 So. State St. All workers organizations are asked to send delegates.

DePriest Took Insull Money to Fool Negroes

Daily Worker 5-29-34

Chicago Negro Workers To Oppose Traitor in Coming Elections

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Oscar De Priest, Negro millionaire Congressman, accepted thousands of dollars from the Insull utility interests as bribes to line up the "Black Vote" for Insull candidates, according to evidence placed before the Federal Commission today.

Daily Worker

Charles Weinfeld, partner in the Chicago law firm of Schuyler & Weinfeld, and an agent of the Insull interests, testified: 5-29-34

"We gave Oscar De Priest a lot of money in connection with campaigns. He would line up the black vote in connection with some special candidate that we happened to be interested in. Some of De Priest's fights have cost as much as $10,000 or $15,000."

New York, N.Y.

(Daily Worker Midwest Bureau)

CHICAGO, May 28.—Oscar De Priest is well-known to Negro workers on the South Side for his "arbitration" policies and his attempts to sell out the workers during the Sopkin Dress Shop strike.

South Side workers in the First Congressional District are putting up their own working-class candidates for Congress There is very strong support for the candidacy of Herbert Newton, militant Negro worker and a member of the Stock Yards Labor Council, who ran once before on the Communist ticket against De Priest.

PROBE SHOWS INSULL WAS DE PRIEST BACKER

Courier Journal

Funds Used 'to Line Up Black Vote' in Chicago, Records Reveal

5-29-34

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—Testimony that Schuyler & Weinfeld, a Chicago law firm, "spent a lot of money" received from Insull utility interests to help Oscar De Priest, before he became a representative from Illinois, "line up the black vote" in local political campaigns was received today by the trade commission in its utilities investigation.

A. M. McDermott, a trade commission investigator, produced records of private hearings before the internal revenue bureau in February, 1920, relating to funds allegedly not disclosed by Schuyler & Weinfeld in an income tax return.

Charles Weinfeld, of the law firm, on the stand today, testified he had no recollection of the specific statements made at the internal revenue hearings but that he assumed the internal revenue transcript was correct.

At the 1920 revenue hearing, the transcript quoted Weinfeld as testifying.

"In 1916 we were one of the main springs in the Harry Miller campaign for state's attorney and we spent an enormous lot of money in the different newspapers in Chicago. . . .

"Senator Barr was candidate for attorney-general. He called me his local manager. We gave him a lot of money in connection with it. I should say he got between $8,000 and $10,000, part of which was from ourselves and part of it from others.

"In addition to that, we gave Oscar DePriest a lot of money in connection with campaigns. He would line up the black vote in connection with some special candidate that we happened to be interested in.

"We gave him money in connection with the peoples' movement that is run as charitable organizations for the advancing of the colored people and indirectly it was political, . . . some of De Priest's fights have cost as much as $10,000 or $15,000, perhaps."

De Priest is the only negro member of congress.

Charlotte, N. C. Observer
May 24, 1934

D'PRIEST ASKS EQUAL CHANCE FOR NEGROES

Special to The Observer.

MORGANTON, May 23—In an address here Sunday before 600 negroes of western north Carolina, Oscar DePriest, famous negro congressman from Chicago, declared that he is not seeking social equality of races, but desires equal opportunity.

"If the negro wants the respect of the Caucasian American he must respect himself," the speaker declared. "I do not blame the southern white man; I blame you. I think if I were a white man I would do about like he does."

DEPRIEST IS WARNED NOT TO MAKE ADDRESS

Journal and Guide

Tells Audience He Will Go Anywhere In The U. S.

6-30-34

ASHEVILLE, N. C. — "Mr. Chairman," said Congressman Oscar DePriest as he arose to addroess an audience here last Saturday night, "I am glad to be here, mainly because my coming was opposed. Norfolk, Va.

"I go any place in America I choose," he continued opening a telegram he had received warning him not to come. "That's why I'm here. In fact, I was so anxious to get here I caught an aeroplane from New York to Washington so as to be on time."

The section reserved for whites in the large Carolina Warehouse in which the meeting was held was very sparsely populated but all other sections were well filled. The meeting was held under the auspices of the local branch of the N. A. A. C. P.

E. W. Pearson presided and the Congressman was introduced to an enthusiastic audience by the Rev. T. L. Scott.

Vote As Democrats

Mr. DePriest confined his address largely to how Negroes might better their condition in North Carolina. He pointed out tha there was no need for the race to vote the Republican ticket in the South. Negroes should vote as Democrats, the Congressman said, in order to elect the best candidates among that party.

"The trouble with the Negro," Mr. DePriest said, "is too many never register and vote." He added, "If you would exercise your suffrage rights, you would be respected."

The speaker scored the gross injustice to Negroes in the distribution of funds for public education. The government, according to Mr. DePriest, spends anually about $12 for the education of each Negro child in the rural South and $44 for each white child. But he charged this condition to the fact that Negroes don't vote.

Fight Own Battles

In Mr. DePriest's opinion the Negro must fight his own battles and achieve his own economic and political freedom. He asserted that the older generation can do little but that the youth of the race should be optimistic and strive for better things. The speaker also advised that Negroes should patronize race business and thus create jobs for the group.

In conclusion the speaker said, "We died for America, for God's sake let us live for America." He pointed out that we find many things unfair, unjust and un-American in our daily experience in the United States, but these will not always be the case, the Congressman said.

He praised Senator R. R. Reynolds during the course of his address. He said there was "no fairer or finer man in Washington on the Senate than Mr. Reynolds."

DePRIEST SPEECH EVOKES COMMENT OF KANSAS PAPER

By C. E. CHAPMAN

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 28 — The address here Wednesday evening at Grand Avenue Temple, downtown white church, by Congressman Oscar DePriest of the First Congressional Illinois District on the New Deal evoked widespread comment.

The powerful Kansas City Star in its Friday morning's issue comments editorially as follows:

OSCAR DePRIEST TO NEGROES

The New Deal affects everybody. It affects different classes and different interests variously. It affects the Negro race peculiarly and, in many cases, hurtfully. It is pertinent, therefore, that Oscar DePriest, Negro representative of the first Illinois district, should address his race on the new order, as he did Wednesday night in Kansas City. The country needs to have its attention directed to the conditions he criticizes.

Few would go so far as Mr. DePriest in condemning the whole recovery program. But few would take exception to his protest against the enormous expenditures, the terrific unbalancing of the budget, and the tendency toward elimination of business incentive. Also those who are informed on the subject will be in agreement that the New Deal has often borne heavily upon the Negro. "Under it" (the Recovery Act), says the congressman, "the Negro is not given shorter hours and higher wages; he is discharged." This is an extravagant way of saying that under the NRA the Negroes, who are unorganized, are handicapped and suffer as a result of the closer selective processes resulting from New Deal requirements. Yet while this discrimination has been going on, the Negroes have held their patience and given to the government the loyal support that is traditional with them. Their spokesman in congress warned them against giving ear to communism or other radical doctrines, his admonition prompted by knowledge that agitators have been active among them in some places.

Washingtonians Laud DePriest As Example of Outstanding Manhood In Representation of Negro Race

By EDWARD LAWSON

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(ANP)—Representative Oscar DePriest, of Illinois, and Mrs. DePriest, were guests of honor at a formal banquet and testimonial held in the main ballroom of the new Masonic Temple here under the auspices of the College Alumnae Club. The affair was given in apreciation of Mr. De Priest's service to the colored race in America.

More than three hundred men and women joined in the testimonial, including representatives from various institutions which hve benefitted by the legislative activities of the Illinois Representative, university faculties and administrators and teachers of public schools, as well as the principal colored business men and women of the community.

A meagre fare, in view of the $2.50 per plate charge, was served at the banquet by the club. The menu, served by Shipley's, colored caterers of Baltimore, featured broiled duck as the entree and strawberry water-ice as dessert. No wines nor liqueurs were included.

Speakers Pay Tribute

Esther Popel Shaw, president of the College Alumnae Club, on behalf of the National Association of College Women, of which the club is an affiliate, as toastmistress, spoke of Representative DePriest's activities for racial betterment for which the organization was desirious of giving formal expression of appreciation.

The political and social leadership of Mr. DePriest was discussed by William L. Houston, who characterized him as a "Big Brother to the entire Negro group."

M. Albert Blanchet, Haitian Minister, compared the DePriest leadership with that of Frederick Douglass in the Reconstruction era, while Garnet C. Wilkinson, assistant superintendent of Washington schools, paid tribute to DePriest's devotion to the cause of the Negro, placing his racial adherence above party lines, and to his passion for educational and political uplift of the masses of the people.

Effectiveness of the work of the Illinois Representative in organization and development of racial solidarity under the banner of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was the subject of an address by Walter A. White, secretary of that organization.

Example of Real Manhood

Dean Lucy D. Slowe, of Howard University, speaking of "College Women and Public Life," said:

"When Illinois sent Oscar De Priest to the House of Representatives it sent a man who knew in his heart that he was an American citizen.

"He has gone through the country encouraging, inspiring, and exhorting colored men and women to study the Declaration of Independence, and the constitution as it affects Negroes everywhere. He has preached the doctrine that the Negro American must use the self-same means of working his will in the body politic that other people do.

"Colored women throughout the country must arouse themselves if they are to fight to gain and retain their citizenship and its attendant privileges. If Oscar DePriest has done nothing else for them, he has set an example of upstanding manhood in the halls of Congress and in every section of the country. It is for these reasons that we have honored ourselves by uniting with him tonight."

Etta Moten, colored motion picture, star contributed several musical selections. Other speakers were Miss Jaunita C. Howard and Miss Muriel Milton, in charge of incidental ceremonies.

LOUISVILLE, KY.
COURIER JOURNAL

JUN 27 1934

In answer to the report of the Federal Trade Commission that the Insulls financed his political activities prior to his election to Congress, Oscar DePriest, Negro Congressman from Chicago, denied receiving any money from them. "I've always worked among Negro voters," he said, "and I have always received money to pay the necessary expenses of the work. But this money came from a political jackpot and who filled it was never any of my business." And how he spent it, of course, was nobody else's business, and it is none of the business of citizens in other districts whom the people of his district send to Congress to make laws for them. Politics seems to be an aggregate of private affairs. Only the resulting government is public.

The Hoovers and DePriest

The general understanding that the White House tea invitations to Congressman and Mrs. Oscar DePriest during the Hoover administration were issued open-heartedly and as a matter of routine, received a jolt last week with the publication of Head Usher Ike Hoover's book, "Forty-two Years in the White House."

There the public learns for the first time that the question whether to invite Mrs. DePriest was debated for weeks, and that even when advisors recommended it Mrs. Hoover not only hesitated to extend the invitation but finally invited a specially-selected list of wives of Congressmen to be present at the tea with Mrs. DePriest.

If Ike Hoover is right — and we presume he is, for like many a servant, he learned the inside of things — we get for the first time, a view of the pettiness and prejudice of Mrs. Hoover that was not suspected.

President Hoover's refusal to pose with colored delegations which visited him at the White House was well known and capitalized upon to make him lose thousands of votes.

No one, however, suspected that Mrs Hoover also, the first woman of the land with her social obligations to Congressmen's wives to perform, would hesitate to do her duty, or look up and ponder over precedents, and finally arrange a special tea rather than invite Mrs. DePriest to the regularly-set functions.

The single high light in the whole narrative is Ike Hoover's observation that dignified Mrs. DePriest was the most composed person at the tea.

Here was Mrs. DePriest acting like a first lady and Mrs. Hoover acting like the wife of a small-town mayor.

Illinois.

Political - 1934

Office Holding.

Prof. Kelly Miller Suggests Nation-Wide Banquet For Oscar De Priest

By KELLY MILLER

Oscar DePriest is still a member of Congress and will remain so until January 3 when his successor, the Hon. Arthur W. Mitchell shall have been installed. The Race has no quarrel with the voters of the first district of Illinois for selecting the representative of their own choice. We hail our coming and speed our parting Congressman. Oscar DePriest has served his race faithfully and well.

His achievements have been little less than marvelous when we consider the isolation of his lot. A lone Negro Congressman among 434 white colleagues who were uncertain as to the line of treatment to be accorded the offscouring brother and also be longing to the minority party which was but recently deprived of dominating power. He maintained himself not only with dignity which becomes a congressman, but so demeaned himself as to be able to secure for his special constituency many of their just claims from both party camps. Senator Bruce of Mississippi sat in the upper chamber for six years and won wide esteem merely by force of quiet, gentlemanly conduct and dignified demeanor. Mr. DePriest not only did this, but by active insistence secured many benefits for his race.

Any considerable group of citizens without representation in Congress is simply out of luck. "Out of sight; out of mind," is an old motto with present day significance. Unless the Negro, like Amos and Andy, appears in person, his cause is lost by default. The white race has too many interests of its own to pay much mind to those which are peculiar to the Negro group or to turn aside from the pursuits of its own affairs to see to it that the Negro gets his rights under the law. Abraham Lincoln truly says that no man is good enough to govern another, without his consent. The white race, at its best, is not good enough to govern the Negro without his consent and participation. Every time a Negro is elected to a state legislature, a city council, or to the federal Congress, the race gains thereby some assurance that it will have a friend and advocate in court. The mere physical presence of the Negro in the seats of power and authority protects the race, not only from neglect, but puts the whole body on its good behavior towards the group which is constructively present through its representatives. Let the race, then, keep in city councils, state legislatures and the federal Congress as full a quota of representatives as its voting power and opportunities will allow.

Oscar DePriest was our Congressman at large. He had a larger constituency than any other member of either house of Congress. The eyes of twelve million Negroes were upon him. The whites conceded his representative capacity and listened to him as the accepted and acknowledged spokesman of his vast constituency. He was faithful to the responsible trust imposed upon him. The services he rendered his race in various directions are fresh in all of our minds. Of course he could not accomplish all which he essayed, against the thinly veiled indifference of his co-partisan Republican colleagues and the more undisguised disfavor with which some of his political opponents witnessed his bold demands. He did it all with a forth right courage and a dauntless dignity that disarmed all opposition. His swift rejoinder to Congressman Blanton of Texas will long take rank among classic congressional repartee. When the Texan taunted him with the suggestion that he ought to be satisfied in that he was personally accorded the full rights and recognition which belong to a Congressman, our ever-ready Oscar responded, "If any discrimination were attempted against your constituents you would raise more hell than any other member of Congress. I demand the same rights for my constituency that you demand for yours." Even the Texan had to concede, good naturedly, the aptness of the thrust which the whose House relished with laughter and applause.

I might single out the signal service he rendered the race in securing by strategic parliamental ingenuity, essential appropriations for Howard University which had been placed in serious jeopardy. But enough along this line of suggestion which each reader can complete by his own recollection of the splendid deeds and accomplishments of our dauntless Congressman.

In appreciation for these signal services, I do here and now propose a nation-wide testimonial to Oscar DePriest. I feel sure that the suggestion will find apontaneous and enthusiastic response in the minds of many thousands who recognize the debt of obligation under which he has placed us all. This proposed testimonial has no reference to Mr. DePriest's future political plans or purpose. The past at least is secure. All shades of political opinion and belief can join heartily in this testimonial, without jeopardizing their party adherence or political affiliation.

I suggest that the City of Washington is the appropriate place for such a testimonial and about the middle of February is the most appropriate time. Beyond this, I leave the further details in the hands of a committee of arrangements which will be appointed from among the respondents to this suggestion.

I invite immediate response from all who favor the suggestion, in order that arrangements might get under way at once. Behold our beloved Congressman, Oscar DePriest, whom we all delight to honor.

KELLY MILLER

Getting Congressman Mitchell Told.

To the Editor of the AFRO:

We want to tell Arthur Mitchell to his face that we do not at all relish the way in which he is hurrying to assure the "white folks" that when he gets down to Washington he is going to be a good colored man, not a bad one like Oscar DePriest. He might as well understand that the New Deal is not sending him to Congress because they wanted him but because they did not want Oscar DePriest. It was a Texan in Congress (quoted by Ira Bennett, in a newspaper column) who said humorously that the southern Democrats were out to get and to destroy Mr. Bentures, DePriest and de Tariff."

So, if Arthur is going to Washington under the false notion that they meant to help his race by electing him, then Arthur is not going to be as useful to us as was Oscar. Bennett says that Southerners are wondering what Mitchell is going to do about it if his people are insulted and thrown out of Congressional restaurants, and boasts that even DePriest's "loud squawk" was ignored by the dominating South.

We want to warn Mr. Mitchell that he should begin to think more of his handicaps and less of his advantages in being a cog in the machine which is determined to keep his race down, and which has allowed him to enter only as the lesser of the two evils that threatened that machine. Mitchell says blithely that he will stand for "opportunity" and so forth, for his race. But such generalities do not mean anything; any first-class Southern gentleman could safely utter the same principles.

Even Bilbo, of Mississippi, would subscribe to "fairness" to the colored citizens, if you let him and the South determine just what precisely is "fair for them." We would much prefer to hear the Congressman-elect say that he was opposed to specific wrongs; opposed to shutting colored people out of the House restaurant, or out of any other restaurant where American citizens are admitted and that he was opposed to having the South to count every colored person as a basis for Southern representation in Congress and then excluding them from the polls.

We will be pleased to have the new Congressman to come down to specific programs. We can fight better for definite objectives. Generalities do not inspire us much.

WILLIAM PICKENS.
New York City.

LOWELL, MASS.
EVENING LEADER

DEC 7 1934

A Plea for Official Equality.

One Southern newspaper, the Chattanooga Time[illegible] no at all disturbed by the election of Arthur W. Mitchell, [illegible]egro to Congress. On the contrary, it bespeaks fair play for hi[illegible] in his endeavors to serve the government and the p[illegible]le.

In the transaction of government business rac[illegible] should never be a consideration, it says. "There is not the [illegible]ghtest reason," the editor continues, "why Mitchell's color should be a determining factor in the official treatment accorded him. In business, industry and the professions the Negro should be dealt with, even in the South, on terms of business, industrial and professional equality. Much more, if anything, is a representative of the race in Congress entitled to be met and dealt with on terms of official equality."

There is no disputing the logic and force of that argument. Unfortunately the ideal of business, industrial and professional equality for the Negro race is rarely realized. Here and there in the case of outstanding ability it is accorded. But the tendency, and notably in the professions, is to restrict the Negro's opportunities for the development of a career.

The Chattanooga editor admits that social intercourse is a matter of taste. And therein, one suspects, is the germ of the difficulty in the equalization process.

Santa Barbara, Cal.
DAILY NEWS

DEC 18 1934

NO PLACE FOR INTOLERANCE

WASHINGTON Democratic circles are in a quandary, with the approach of the opening of congress, due to the imminent appearance in their midst of the first negro Democrat to sit in the house of representatives. Arthur W. Mitchell, the gentleman in question, was chosen from a Chicago district to succeed Representative De Priest, colored Republican. No one seems to know what to do, although it is obvious to any intelligent observer that there can be no course other than to treat Mr. Mitchell with the same consideration as that accorded any other member of congress. A graduate of Tuskegee Institute, he has attended both Columbia and Harvard universities and through years of living in Washington he has acquired a thorough knowledge of the capital and its devious ways.

Marking an advance in the southern attitude toward the negro, the Chattanooga Times says:

"There is not the slightest valid reason why Mitchell's color should be a determining factor in the official treatment accorded him. In business, industry and the professions, the negro should be dealt with, even in the South, on terms of business, industrial and professional equality. Much more, if anything, is a representative of the race in congress to be met and dealt with on terms of official equality. Any Democratic congressman or other official who may fail to meet and deal with Mitchell on such terms, on the floor of the house, in committee rooms, in cloakrooms or in executive and administrative offices, will thereby be violating and denying the first principle of democratic government."

While it is specifically at the point where officials and social relations begin th[illegible] the troublesome has arisen—the seating arran[illegible]ement and the house dining room—it seems difficult to see why there should be so much excitement over something that long ago should have passed out of the realm of argument. If Mr. Mitchell is considered fit and capable of representing a large group of American citizens, and his election would mark him up as such, then there is no valid reason for any discrimination against him. And it may be said in passing that it is entirely probable that Mr. Mitchell has more intelligence and a far better background of education and experience for his position than many of those who are creating a tempest in a teapot over his election.

The situation being what it is, and Mr. Mitchell apparently having good sense and tact in order to have risen to his present status, he will undoubtedly solve the matter by refraining from those things which might embarrass his confreres or create bad feeling within the party he represents.

Political - 1934

Office Holding.

Illinois.

Thomasville, Ga., Times-Enterprise
November 17, 1934

DE PRIEST'S DEFEAT

The defeat of one Oscar DePriest as congressman from the black belt of Chicago was not accomplished by a white candidate. A democratic negro congressman, Arthur H. Mitchell, takes office for the first time in the history of the party. He will be preferable to De Priest, although it is doubtful if he will make as much noise or do as much harm to the race as his predecessor by his equality ravings.

De Priest was the only negro representative in congress. He came from a district where the vast majority of voters were negroes and it was perfectly natural that he should have been sent to Washington. The fact that another negro on the democratic side won indicates very strongly that the negro section is also convinced that the republican party is not doing its job or they are convinced that the democrats can do it better. Hence the switch.

In this case there is no vast difference from that in all sections of the country, except that it indicates that there is no sector in which that feeling has not become sufficiently strong to overturn republican candidates. It is hoped that Mitchell will do his job well and that means doing it in a manner that will not bring trouble to his race, even though it cannot bring much to that immediate sector of one of our great cities from which he was sent.

CHICAGO, ILL.
TRIBUNE

AUG 22 1934

ICKES' PWA FUND SNUB IS ISSUE IN CONGRESS RACE

Discrimination Blamed on Politics by De Priest.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

An issue over the New Deal's attitude toward the distribution of federal "easy money" as it affects Chicago is looming up in the fight over the election of a congressman to represent the First district on the south side. The issue centers around Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, head of the government's huge spending agency, the Public Works Administration.

The two candidates are Congressman Oscar De Priest, an avowed "rock-ribbed Republican" completing his third term, and Arthur W. Mitchell, Democrat, who declares that he is "a New Dealer all the way." The district, stretching along the lake shore from the Chicago river to 43d street has 140,000 voters, 65 per cent of whom are colored. Both candidates are colored.

De Priest Pledges Fight.

Congressman De Priest asserted that, if reëlected, he would aid in a fight on the floor of the house of representatives for an explanation of why Chicago was not obtaining its "just share" of PWA funds. He said that Chicago projects had been "consigned to limbo in Washington while people are crying for employment."

Examples of this discrimination, the congressman declared, were the proposed loans of $7,000,000 for the outer drive bridge, which would provide employment for an estimated 3,000 men; $22,400,000 for a water filtration plant, providing jobs for 4,500, and $8,600,000 for the lake front airport, with an unestimated employment figure.

Funds for the bridge originally were set aside, but were withdrawn by Ickes on July 19. The PWA chief maintained that the bonds offered as security did not warant an advance of federal cash.

Blames Politics Alone.

"There's only one reason for this discrimination against Chicago and that's politics," said De Priest. "You would think that Ickes would have a more sympathetic attitude toward Chicago since he once was a Chicagoan.

"I know why Ickes said he was recalling funds for the outer drive bridge, but I don't know the real reason for it. If the reports are true that Ickes and the present city administration are going to have a fight then that might be the reason.

"I'm for anything that will help Chicago. I'm against any deal, new or old that 'monkeys' with the constitution written by our forefathers."

Mitchell Backs New Deal.

Candidate Mitchell, on the other hand, said that he was "strictly" a New Dealer and had known and believed in the President since the latter was assistant secretary of the navy.

"So far as I know there has been no discrimination against our city in the allotment of federal funds," said Mitchell. "I think that any little faults that have cropped up in the national administration have been magnified many times over for political purposes."

Backed by the regular Democratic organization, Mitchell said that he had heard the report that Ickes was unfriendly toward the local administration but did not believe it to be true.

Fairfax, Va., Herald
November 23, 1934

The old axiom that politics make strange bedfellows has again been exemplified. When the 74th Congress convenes next January, a Chicago negro, named Arthur W. Mitchell, will be among the Democratic members of the House of Representatives. Oscar De Priest, the negro Republican, was defeated in the Democratic landslide this month, and Mitchell, a Democrat, takes his place. This probably will not worry the northern and western Democrats very much, but how the Southern delegation will enjoy it is another question. However, the New Deal party seems to have courted negro support. According to press reports, the ex-Republican Secretary of the Interior, Mr. Ickes, was once an officer in the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. This is the organization which is agitating for the passage of the Federal anti-lynching bill, which would penalize any community in which a lynching happened to occur, and put the whole matter in the hands of the United States government. It is further reported that Oscar Chapman, Mr. Ickes' assistant, is very much interested in securing further Federal grants to aid Howard University, the colored college, in Washington. It is even stated that Mrs. Roosevelt has had conferences with Walter White, executive secretary of the Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

From all this it would appear that the people of the South may be called on to get a new deal in their ideas about the relationship between the two races. This is one subject on which Southerners feel deeply, and about which they resent outside interference. However, the Brain Trusters, having changed everything else, may feel that this prejudice must go, along with other "antiquated" ideas. If they should attempt anything of the sort, they are likely to meet with determined opposition. Left to themselves, the two races in the South live together in harmony. When there is trouble, it is usually because some agitator from some other section of the country has come down South to "improve" conditions and "uplift" the colored race. At any rate, the New Dealers evidently would like to see the colored vote an element in politics. Whether they will try to insist on the establishment of social equality remains to be seen.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.
TELEGRAM

DEC 7 1934

MITCHELL'S PROBLEMS

MANY of our readers who recognize the problems of our colored citizens will be interested in the election of a Negro Democratic congressman from Illinois and the problems he may face. They are summarized in a current column by Robert Allen and Drew Pearson, the Washington Merry-go-Round.

It looks as if the election of Arthur W. Mitchell, colored congressman from Chicago, as successor to Oscar DePriest, also colored, might cause the New Deal a little trouble.

"Already some of the old guard Democrats have privately intimated objection. What they say is, that they don't mind having a Republican Negro around, but that a Democratic Negro congressman is different. Mitchell, they say, will be a member of their own crowd and party.

"And it has more significance than merely the opposition of southern congressman. For Roosevelt and his administration have deliberately courted Negro support.

"Secretary of the Interior Ickes was once an officer in the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Oscar Chapman, his assistant, had been a strong rooter for more funds for Howard university (colored) which is run by the interior department. Harry Hopkins, relief administrator, has operated on the assumption that black men can be just as hungry as white.

"Finally, Mrs. Roosevelt has conferred frequently with Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"It has escaped the attention of most, but this is the first time in history that the Democratic party has sent a Negro to congress."

Congressman-Elect To Be Invited To White House

WASHINGTON, D. C. (CNS)—White House hospitality will be extended, as during the Hoover administration, to the newly elected Negro Democratic member of the House of Representatives Arthur W. Mitchell, of Illinois Mrs. Roosevelt announced at her press conference.

Mrs. Roosevelt had been asked whether Mitchell, who defeated the Republican Negro member of the House, Oscar DePriest, of Chicago, would be given equal treatment.

"What has happened in the past will continue to happen," she replied. "There will be no change."

KANSAS CITY, MO.
STAR

DEC 4 1934

NEGROES ON A NEW PATH

ROOSEVELT RISES AS A FRIEND GREATER THAN LINCOLN.

Arthur W. Mitchell, Chicago Democrat, Congress Member-Elect, Believes the NRA Holds Much for His Race.

Abraham Lincoln, great Emancipator President, revered by generations of Negroes, has been supplanted by another leader who now is held to be even greater—Franklin D. Roosevelt. So declared Arthur W. Mitchell, first Negro Democratic congressman-elect, who visited in Kansas City today.

"Of course, Lincoln was a great man," Congressman-elect Mitchell said. "But he didn't have the problems to meet that President Roosevelt has, and F. D. R. is greater because of the masterly way in which he is meeting those problems."

ACTIVE ONLY SINCE 1930.

Mitchell, who defeated Oscar DePriest in the first Illinois congressional district, has been an active working Democrat only since 1930. Before that he was independent, he said.

"But I am heartily in support of the President's program," he asserted. "I have a well-defined program of my own legislation to offer, but I can't give the details of that now. I will consider it my job to work for the great humane program which the President is putting across. I'm not going to make a lot of noise, but instead do some work."

Mitchell, quiet spoken, scholarly, is a lawyer. He is 51 years old, married and has one married son. Mitchell's wife is a government employee, having been working in the general accounting office about a year.

"What of the Negro under the new deal?" the congressman-elect was asked.

THE AGENCIES AT FAULT.

"The agencies of the new deal are responsible for the injustices which are being done the Negro," he asserted. "The 'powers that be' in Washington are not responsible. I believe they have the good of our group at heart.

"One injustice has come under the NRA. In some parts of the South, Negroes once worked for $6 to $8 a week. When the NIRA was promulgated, setting a wage of $14.50, these Negroes were fired and white persons employed. And the Negro has not been in any position to fight against the situation.

"As to the status of the Negro under the AAA and under federal relief activities, I am not prepared to say, since I have not studied those problems.

"There have been great changes since the Democrats took office which have worked tremendous hardships. The Negro has been less prepared to resent these hardships and injustices since the group has been too hostile to the Democratic party.

DESERT THE G. O. P.

"But now that is changed. The Negro has deserted the Republican party. Under the old regime each capitalist had nineteen economic slaves. Our race has needed someone to hear the cries of the man at the bottom. That has been done."

The interest and sympathy the administration has for the Negro race were demonstrated by the trip Mrs. Roosevelt took to the Virgin Islands, Mitchell said.

POINTS TO THE WHITE HOUSE.

"That shows the President means to do right by us," he explained. "Why, out of fifty-two persons employed in the White House, twenty-eight of them are Negroes. Look at McDuffy—I don't know his first name, but he used to be one of the men who ran that big barber shop at Atlanta—he's colored and he's the President's personal valet. He dresses him—tells him what to wear. And McDuffy and his wife live there at the White House."

Mitchell will speak tonight at a dinner given by the Negro Democratic Club of Kansas City and Jackson County to be held at the Street hotel, Eighteenth street and the Paseo. More than 300 Democrats are expected to attend. Today he was to confer with various local Democratic politicians.

DALLAS, TEX.
JOURNAL

NOV 26 1934

Negro in Congress

WHAT ought a Southern gentleman who happens likewise to be a white Congressman to do when he finds himself seated in the same chamber with a Negro who is also a Congressman and also a Democrat? The Chattanooga Times says something on the subject:

Let it be said that the presence of a Negro Congressman on the Democratic side of the House of Representatives can not properly be taken as raising the question of social equality. It will be most unfortunate if Representative Mitchell and other Democratic Congressmen and officials should permit the question to obtrude itself in their thinking and influence their conduct.

Arthur W. Mitchell has been elected to the House to serve his constituents and the Nation in matters of government. Other Democratic Congressmen and officials should accord the Negro Congressman, in matters relating to Government, every consideration customarily shown those of their own color.

In short, the Tennessee paper feels that the Negro from Illinois has the same right in Congress that the white man from Tennessee has. And it expects a gentleman from Tennessee to be gentleman enough not to take advantage of the Negro's color in order to insult or belittle him in his performance of his duties as a public servant. Surely the code of courtesy and consideration in the South is big enough to manage that. He whose status as a gentleman is so parlous that he has constantly to be making a row about it is usually of dubious standing after, as well as before, the row. The sum of it is that a man chooses his own table companions but not the fellow-occupants of public place.

Mitchell to Ask Passage Of Mob Bill

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—(Special)—In an address made here Monday, Representative-elect Arthur W. Mitchell of the First Congressional district of Illinois, which is rated as one of the wealthiest sections of the country, stated that he would sponsor an anti-lynching bill in the next Congress.

Mr. Mitchell, a democrat, whose sensational surprise defeat of Oscar De Priest upset all political predictions by not only being the first Negro democrat to be selected to Congress, but by defeating one of the old Republican stalwarts is, like his victim, Mr. De Priest, a former resident of Alabama.

"I will work for the end of racial discrimination which breeds hatred, prejudice and injustice" the new congressman told citizens of his native state, "and will work toward a preference for American born labor, seek to end idleness, and re-enfranchise the Negro of the South."

Congressman - elect Mitchell took time out to criticize Mr. De Priest for his narrowness in making appointments to the United States Military and Naval academies.

"While he was in office," he asserted, "no white boys have had an opportunity to enter Annapolis or West Point, but that will be altered now. There will be no discrimination."

The new congressman obtained his preparatory education at Tuskegee institute where he was, at one time, office boy to the late Booker T. Washington. He is also a graduate of Talladega college, pioneer Negro institution of higher education in this state.

CHARLOTTE, N. C.
NEWS

DEC 14 1934

Unhappy Start.

The first official act of North Carolina's new third district representative-elect to the congress is not especially comforting. Assigned office space, he refused it because the lone Negro in the House had an office on the same floor, although at some distance from him.

Mr. Barden is entitled to his prejudices, certainly, but so is the elected representative of Chicago's Democracy entitled to be treated with respect until he shows himself unworthy of it. Mr. Barden should have known, too, that it was neither his coloring nor his race nor his social graces that entitled him to an office in the House building and a seat in congress. It is, rather, the commission which he has received at the hands of the people. The Negro Mitchell holds precisely the same rank.

Political - 1934

Indiana.

Office Holding.

City Official

HON. C. R. RICHARDSON

RICHARDSON NEW PROSECUTOR FOR CITY OF RICHMOND

Gary American

Richmond, Ind.—Attorney Cornelius R. Richardson, of this city who has just been appointed prosecuting attorney for the city of Richmond, is one of the most outstanding lawyers in the state of Indiana and is one of the leading figures in social, fraternal and political circles. 1-19-34

Although Attorney Richardson is entirely deserving of the appointment because of his unquestioned ability, as an able lawyer, much political significance is said to be attached to the appointment coming at this particular time.

Those high in state Republican politics seem to view in the appointment as a gesture on the part of state Republicans in an effort to regain the foothold they lost a few years ago to the Democratic party. And to regain that foothold the Republicans must depend very largely upon the colored vote, particularly since the Negro voters hold the balance of power.

Indiana Lawyer Made Assistant Attorney General

Gary American

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 9.—Appointment of Henry R. Wilson Jr., prominent member of the Indiana bar, as an assistant attorney general, was announced this week by Philip Lutz Jr., attorney general. Mr. Lutz said that the definite duties to which the new appointee will be assigned have not been determined.

The appointee is the son of Henry R. Wilson Sr. of Chicago, Ill., who in 1925 was one of the three postal employees first appointed Race supervisors in the postoffice.

Two Gain Appointments By Indiana Governor

Argus

INDIANAPOLIS—Governor Paul V. McNutt has named Charles Epps to World War Memorial work and Arthur Lee Valentine to work in the new State library. This increases the Negro appointees under the governor to 60. Epps is a prominent Democrat in Haughville. Valentine has been a supporter of William Black, member of the state legislature.

THREE JUSTICES OF PEACE TO BE IN MICHIGAN CITY

Gary American 6-29-34

Within a week Michigan City will probably have three justices of the peace instead of one as at present, it was learned this week following action of the board of county commissioners in appointing Atty. Tenola E. Graves and Barney M. Noveroski to those positions.

Under state law, Michigan township is entitled to three but since the death of the late Allen J. Snook, Lowell T. Hay, Republican, has been the only justice.

Atty. Graves made attempt after attempt to get the appointment to fill the vacancy created by Mr. Snook's death, but just as many times, the commissioners passed the matter over.

However, Atty Graves appeared lately and pursuaded the commissioners not only to appoint him to the vacancy, but also to name Mr. Noveroski to the third position.

Both Mr. Noveroski and Atty. Graves are Democratic candidates for the posts in the fall election, and by right of the commissioners' order can serve until a successor is named in the fall elections to take office, Jan. 1, 1935. In event, they are elected, they will merely succeed themselves. Mr. Snook's term would have expired next Jan. 1.

Mr. Graves said today he expected to receive his commission from the government Thursday or Friday of this week and will be an acting justice by Saturday or after a $2,000 bond is posted. Mr. Noveroski may not take the position because of the short time to serve.

Atty. Graves is a well known Democrat, influential in party circles and aligned with the "regulars." In his 11 years' practice in Michigan City he has gained a host of friends and a wide popularity.

GRAVES WINNER OF J. P. POST AT MICHIGAN CITY

Gary American 11-9-34

Benefiting also by the general landslide which swept the country at Tuesday's election at which time the electorate expressed its confidence in Pres. Roosevelt's 'New Deal' was Attorney Tenola E. Graves of Michigan City who was elected Justice of the Peace by a majority of over 2000 votes notwithstanding the fact that there are only about three hundred colored voters in Michigan City.

Three months ago, Atty. Graves was appointed Justice of the Peace by the La Porte county commissioners to fill a vacancy created by the death of the regularly elected Justice. In making the appointment, the commissioners are said to have commented that in selecting Mr. Graves for the vacancy, it was solely upon merit that few men had conducted themselves more honorably and in a high class manner than Att'y Graves in the twelve years he has practiced law in Michigan City!

Mr. Graves was also appointed by Gov. McNutt as a member of the lunacy board of the Indiana State Prison, which position still holds. He is also Judge Advocate of the Last Man's Club, an ex-service men's organization and of which he is the only colored member. He is a member of the John F. Miller Post No. 37, American Legion, at Michigan City, a 32 degree Scottish Rite Mason, a Shriner, Knights of Pythas and a Graduate of Prairie View College at Marcshll, Texas also a graduate of the Howard university Law school at Washington D. C.

RICHARDSON AND CABLE ELECTED

Recorder

Two colored men were swept into office in the Democratic victory last Tuesday, Dr. Theodore Cable winning the office of city councilman, and Henry J. Richardson, Jr., winning re-election as State Representative from Marion county.

Unofficial returns indicate Richardson won tenth place among the seven to be elected in the legislative race by a vote of 85,079, only 3,000 behind the leader, Colbert.

R. L. Brokenburr, candidate for the same office, was among the Republican casualties.

11-10-34

Dr. Cable, a newcomer in local politics, became the fourth colored man to become a member of the Indianapolis city council. His predecessors, all Republicans, were: Henry Sweetland and John Pur year, who served between 1895 and 1900 and Dr. Sumner A. Furniss who entered the council 1918 for a four-year term.

Indianapolis, Indiana

Smiling and happy, and maintaining the graceful poise that won for him a veritable army of friends in every section of the city, the councilman-elect received the news of his election with characteristic gesture. "I shall endeavor to perform my new duties to my fellow citizens to the best of my ability and in a manner that will bring credit to them and satisfaction to myself," he told his informers.

Richardson was elected to the legislature in 1932 and became one of the outstanding members of the 1933 General Assembly. He sponsored and was co-author of a number of important bills enacted into law. An anti-labor discrimination bill, introduced by him and passed by the legislature had served as a model for similar measures introduced in other states. His latest victory, it is believed, will place him among the leaders in state politics among colored people.

Richardson's Statement

In commenting upon his victory, Mr. Richardson said:

"It is with a deep sense of appreciation that I express my thanks to the thousands of voters for their loyal support in the recent election. The voters of Marion County have shouldered their responsibilities as citizens to the end that they have expressed through their vote an approval of democratic government. This expression was made by electing me along with other Democratic candidates as their representatives.

"I am happy to be an advocate of the 'new deal' and to be among those who marched to victory with that great party which is giving to the people this 'new deal.'

"I am mindful of my duty to the people both as a citizen and as a legislator and it shall ever be my purpose to serve the people of this state without regard to race or religion or party affiliation. I shall live up to my record as an uncompromising fighter for the rights of the people with a double purpose of serving the interests of my group in particular and all the people in general. The underlying principle on which I will always labor is the welfare of all the people."

Mr. Richardson will leave Saturday for French Lick to attend a conference of party leaders.

WINNERS IN TUESDAY'S ELECTION

Reading left to right: Henry J. Richardson, Jr., state representative from Marion county given an O. K. by voters for a second term; Dr. Theodore Cable, elected member of the Indianapolis City council and Dr. Robert V. Stanley, East Chicago, also given a second term in the state legislature, by voters of Lake county. All three are Democrats.

Detroiter 11-10-34

Indianapolis Indiana

Political - 1934

Office Holding -

Kansas.

Deputy Prosecutor

D.C.P.

A. B. HOWARD

Kansas side attorney, was appointed deputy in the county attorney's office in Wyandotte County, last week by A. J. Stanley Jr., county attorney elect. He is active in church and civic affairs and was on Tuesday night elected president of the newly-organized alumni association of Sumner high school.

—Photo by Pickens

Political - 1934
Office Holding

Maryland.

Gets Federal Post

W. ROLLO WILSON,
of Philadelphia, for many years a newspaper man, who has been appointed a storekeeper-gauger in the Internal Revenue Bureau of the United States Treasury Department, following a successful Civil Service examination.

Mr. Wilson, who assumed his office Tuesday, is commissioner of baseball, a deputy state athletic commissioner, corresponding secretary of the Citizens' Republican Club and is active in the Elks. He is married and lives at 765 North Forty-seventh Street.

Gen. I. R. Dept U. S.

Massachusetts.

Political – 1934
Office Holding

DEMOCRATS IN MASS. GIVEN REVENUE POST

Courier 2-10-34
Pittsburgh, Pa.

By J. THOMAS HARRISON

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 8—Dr. Silas F. Taylor, president of the Massachusetts Colored Democratic League and prominently known in business and social circles has been made a Deputy Internal Revenue Collector of this district. Dr. Taylor, J. Thomas Harrison of Cambridge, vice president of the League. Dr. Walter O. Taylor and a few others led the forces which placed Massachusetts in Democratic columns in 1928 and in 1929 they organized the first Democratic Club of Colored Voters in the State.

Miss Ethel Williams of Cambridge and well known in religious and social circles has been named as typist-stenographer in the office of Internal Revenue in Boston. She had the indorsement of the Colored Democratic Club of Cambridge of which she is an active worker.

These appointments of Dr. Taylor and Miss Williams were due directly to Hon. Joseph A. Maynard, chairman of the Massachusetts State Democratic Committee, who has insisted that loyal Democrats of all racial groups be given recognition in appointments.

"Merit and fitness alone count," he said.

JULIAN RAINEY TO RESIGN

Will Campaign for Curley's Nomination

Chronicle 8-4-34

Information is to hand that the resignation of Attorney Julian D. Rainey, assistant Corporation Counsel of the City of Boston, has been sent to Mayor Mansfield. Mr. Rainey has begun his vacation and it is definitely stated that he will not return to the office of the Corporation Counsel at its termination.

Boston Mass.

Atty. Rainey is an appointee of ex-Major James M. Curley, and it was thought that he would have gone out of office simultaneously with the Curley administration. When seen by a Chronicle reporter, Mr. Rainey was reticent about his resignation, but hinted that he would not be returning to the Beacon Street office after his vacation.

Chronicle

There is no doubt, however, that Atty. Rainey will leave the City Law Department. It is known that he is a loyal and enthusiastic partisan of Mayor Curley. There is little love lost between the Curley and Mansfield forces, and it is obvious that the holding over of the Assistant Corporation Counsel may have been with the idea that he would develop a change of mind. Still, another angle is that there were several unfinished cases which demanded the presence of Mr. Rainey.

The attorney, however, still sticks by the ex-Mayor and it was not so long ago he was heard berating certain henchmen who had leaned to Gen. Cole, and failed to rally to Mr. Curley, who is also a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

During his association with the office of the Corporation Counsel, Atty Rainey was a prominent trial lawyer. He has been commended on several occasions for his expert handling of the city's cases. He has been prominent in Democratic circles and was one of the four Negroes who aided the lining up of colored voters for President Roosevelt. With his resignation from the Corporation Counsel's office he will undoubtedly devote much time to ex-Mayor Curley's campaign.

Political—1934

Office Holding.

Michigan.

Bledsoe Takes Oath As First Race Man To Occupy Post

(Picture on Page 13)

DETROIT, Mich., July 27.—Attorney Harold Edward Bledsoe, president of the Michigan Democratic league, was appointed assistant attorney-general Thursday by Attorney-General Patrick O'Brien. Mr. Bledsoe was sworn in Thursday and will work in the Detroit office.

The appointment of Attorney Bledsoe to the office of assistant attorney-general is just one of the high appointments made by the Democrats since they have been in office. This marks the first time a member of the Race was ever appointed to the office of assistant attorney-general in the history of the state of Michigan.

Mr. Bledsoe had practically been selected to an appointment in the Federal attorney's office in Detroit, but failure of the ranking Democrats to arrive at an agreement on the man to head the office, withheld the appointment. His appointment to the attorney-general's office follows the dismissal of two white assistants the early part of last week.

Educated at Howard

The appointee was born in Marshall, Texas, August 29, 1896, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Filga Bledsoe. After completing the elementary grades at Marshall, he enrolled at Howard University in 1917, finishing in 1922. He played football, baseball and was a member of the Howard debating team. He graduated from the Detroit College of Law in 1925.

Shortly after passing the bar examination, Mr. Bledsoe was admitted to a membership in the law firm of Lewis & Rowlette. This was later changed to Lewis, Rowlette, Bledsoe & Dent. The two young partners, Bledsoe and Dent, later joined the firm of Barnes & Stowers. Following the death of Barnes and Stowers, the firm became Bledsoe and Dent.

The Michigan Democratic league, the foremost colored Democratic organization in Michigan, was organized in 1932 in Bledsoe's office. He was a supporter of Governor William A. Comstock's unsuccessful candidacy for governor in 1926. This was his first venture into the field of politics. Since the organization of the Michigan Democratic league more members of the Race have attended Democratic conventions than at any time in the past. It was Attorney Bledsoe who seconded the nomination of Governor Comstock at the pre-primary convention held in Battle Creek last month.

He married Mamie G. Neale in 1923 and from this union three children have been born. Mrs. Bledsoe is a member of the Democratic State Central committee. Mr. Bledsoe is first cousin of Jule Bledsoe, the noted singer. and has two brothers, Dr. O. L. Bledsoe, in Marshall, and William, teacher in the high school at Fort Worth, Texas.

Wins Position As Medical Examiner

DR. WILLIAM T. LOVE

The appointment of Dr. William T. Love, prominent Detroit, Mich., physician to the Wayne County board of medical examiners at a salary of $3300 a year, is unprecedented in Wayne county, and is considered a distinct step forward in the Democratic program to corral the ballots of the Race voters in this section. Ray D. Schneider, Democratic county auditor, is responsible for the appointment.

Michigan Democracy Gives Race Another Major Appointment

Harold E. Bledsoe, Prominent Lawyer, Is Named Assistant Attorney General In Michigan—Under Square Deal Regime—Appointment Pleases Citizens.

DETROIT, July 26—Another precedent was broken by the precedent-breaking, square-deal Democrats of Michigan when, on Thursday, July 19, Attorney General Patrick H. O'Brien named to his staff Harold E. Bledsoe, practicing attorney of Detroit and President of the Michigan Democratic League of Michigan. Michigan literally broke out in a shout when the announcement was made of the appointment of Mr. Bledsoe, who is one of the most popular Democrats in Michigan. His political activities have taken him all over the State where he has made scores of friends and has held many audiences spell-bound with his matchless oratory. Profoundly referred to as the party's most able platform orator, he has carried the fight for real Democracy for every group into every nook and corner of the vast State of Michigan.

Starting back in the lean, hopeless years when to be white and a Democrat in Michigan was hopeless fanaticism, and to be black and a Democrat was to be an outcast, a pariah among his own people, Mr. Bledsoe, with a few other men, willing to endure the social ostracism, fought hard, long, zealously, to bring the Negro of Michigan out of the slough of political despondency where he paid slavish homage to the Republican party who handed him only crumbs from the political table, into a larger and fuller participation in his government. That day has arrived. Our engineer and other men are surveying the highways of Michigan; our clerks serve the public in numerous new capacities; a Negro girl takes the governor's dictation; our doctor sits on the Wayne County Board of Medical Examiners; our manager, clerk, cashier and other employees help guide Michigan in prudent, restrained enjoyment of the fruits of repeal; our stenographer and statisticians help direct Michigan's educational system and new Democracy invites a black son to join Michigan's legal staff. Truly a new day and a brand new deal! The true answer to all this attainment is leadership with vicion and strong organization. Under the leadership of Mr. Bledsoe, the Michigan Democratic League has become one of the most powerful organizations in political affairs. Made up of two organizations that extend throughout Michigan, it has won the respect of all political parties.

Mr. Bledsoe, a native of Marshall, Tex., was graduated from Howard University, the University of Detroit Law School and has practiced law in Michigan since 1925.

YOUNG DETROIT POLITICIAN NOW HOLDS IMPORTANT STATE POST

Rise of Petry Fisher In Michigan Politics Has Been Rapid—Named to Liquor Control Investigator's Post.

DETROIT, Dec. 6—Petry Fisher, special investigator for the Michigan State Liquor Control, is considered the most astute politician in this State. This young man's rise in State and national politics is unparalled by anyone in the entire State of Michigan. Mr. Fisher was one of the first men to recognize the fact that the salvation of his race lay in the Democratic party, and with this as an ideal se bent every effort to organize the people of his race in support of democracy and the New Deal. The fact that he succeeded is proven by his appointment to a position that carries more authority than any position ever held by a Negro in the State of Michigan.

He is recognized as one of the most effective speaker in the Democratic ranks, and during the past election, he toured the State, speaking in behalf of the party and the New Deal. At the State convention at Battle Creek, Mich., he was called upon to second the nomination of Hon. Frank E. Picard, candidate for United States Senator. His nominating speech was the highlight of the convention. He campaigned during the past election with Julian D. Rainey, of Boston, special representative of the President to Michigan.

Mr. Fisher was a member of the reception committee that received the President on his visit to Detroit.

He is also the editor and owner of the Michigan World, one of Michigan's greatest newspapers, whose offices are in the People's Finance Building, Vernor Highway at St. Antoine street.

Office Holding.

K. C. DOCTOR IS NAMED RECORDER OF DEEDS

Courier 3-24-34

Dr. Thompkins Replaces Jefferson S. Coage As Democrats Make Another Major Appointment.

Pittsburgh, Pa.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 22—Dr. William J. Thompkins of Kansas City, Mo., was named Friday as Recorder of Deeds for the District of Columbia. He will succeed Jefferson S. Coage Republican, of Delaware.

Dr. Thompkins' name has been sent to the United States Senate and his confirmation is believed to be a mere formality.

Editor of the Kansas City American and former superintendent of the Colored Municipal Hospital in Kansas City, Dr. Thompkins, a life-long Democrat, has been active in national political circles for a number of years. During the Roosevelt campaign, he was one of the leaders in Democratic circles who had charge of the drive among colored voters. This group became known as the "Big Four."

The new Recorder of Deeds was first suggested by his friends for appointment as governor of the Virgin Islands, but when it was decided by the President to retain Governor Paul Pearson, another appointment was sought for him. His appointment was backed by the Kansas and Missouri delegations in Congress, led by Senator George McGill of Kansas.

The Recorder of Deeds post pays a salary of $5,600 a year and the office has more patronage than any federal office occupied by a member of the group.

Dr. W. J. Tompkins of Kansas City To Get Rec. of Deeds Post

Age

WASHINGTON, (CNS) — The announcement on Friday, March 15 that Dr. W. J. Tompkins editor of the Kansas City American, of Kansas City, Missouri, and one of the "Big Four" of the last campaign, is be to the next Recorder of Deeds of the District of Columbia, caused the "old line Negro Democrats" to rejoice exceedingly. 3-24-34

The recognition and appointment of Dr. Tompkins is looked upon as a rebuff to others of the "Big Four" who are pushing other candidates. It is claimed that Robert L. Vann made such a determined effort to land Percy Jones, of Ohio, a former messenger around Democratic headquarters, in the place, that Pennsylvania politicans, including M. Guffey, were advised to call him off.

Other candidates for the job include Dr. S. H. George, of Paducah, Kentucky, backed by Senator Barkley; Truly Hatchett, of Baltimore, Maryland, the Senator Tyding's candidate; and Arthur Mitchell, of Chicago, sponsored by Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois.

Dr. Tompkins will replace Jefferson Coage, Republican of Wilmington, Delaware, who was appointed by President Hoover, in 1930 at the request of Senator Hastings of Delaware, then up for reelection.

All Vote for Thompkins

Courier-Journal

The Senate last Tuesday confirmed the nomination of Dr. William J. Thompkins of Kansas City, Missouri, to be recorder of deeds in the District of Columbia. 4-24-34

Despite the fact that this office has employees of both races and sexes, not a single Southerner raised the social equality question or made a speech denouncing the party that proposes to give a colored man a position in which he will direct whites.

We have come a long way since James C. Matthews (1886), James Monroe Trotter (1887), and C. H. J. Taylor (1894), all Democrats, were appointed to the same office by President Grover Cleveland. And it's the height of something or other, when even the most backward Southerner fails to squawk about it.

SENATE CONFIRMS U. S. APPOINTMENT OF DR. THOMPKINS

Outstanding Negro Leader Chosen for Post in Washington.

Appointment of Dr. William J Thompkins, one of Kansas City's outstanding Negro citizens, as recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia was confirmed by the United States senate late Tuesday according to a telegram received by Dr. Thompkins from Edwin A. Halsey, secretary of the senate.

Dr. Thompkins is editor of the Kansas City American, a Negro newspaper and is assistant commissioner of child hygiene and communicable diseases in the city health department. He has held responsible positions under the Democratic national committee in the last three presidential campaigns, and in the Roosevelt campaign was Negro campaign manager for the western states.

Health Move Leader.

Dr. Thompkins for many years has been a leader in all movements to improve the health and housing conditions of Kansas City Negroes. As superintendent of general hospital No. 2 from 1918 to 1922, he raised the rating of the institution from Class D to Class A and obtained its recognition by the American College of Surgeons, the American Medical association and the National Hospital association.

Seven years ago Dr. Thompkins conducted a survey of tuberculosis and housing conditions of Negroes in Kansas City. His findings resulted in many reforms, including the condemnation of hundreds of homes in the Negro districts, the construction of a tuberculosis hospital and the construction of a new general hospital No. 2.

Has Two Daughters.

Dr. Thompkins is married and makes his home at 1306 Euclid avenue. He has two daughters, Miss Helen Thompkins, a student in Lincoln university, and Marion Elizabeth Thompkins, 6 years old.

He is president of the National Colored Democratic association, curator of Lincoln university, chief of the surgical staff of general hospital No. 2, and chairman of the health commission of the Elks, which recently made a survey of health conditions among Negroes in 256 cities.

Pays $5,600 Yearly.

The position as recorder of deeds in Washington has been held by a Negro for many years. The office is one of the small group of important Negro appointments which always is known as the president's Negro cabinet. The post pays $5,600 a year. Ninety persons are employed in the office.

Dr. Thompkins, who is 50 years old, was born in Jefferson City. While going to school he worked as a bellboy in the Madison hotel and became acquainted with many of the state's outstanding Democrats, including Governor Stone, Governor Stephens and Champ Clark.

He received a degree from Lincoln university, obtained his medical training at the University of Colorado and Howard university, Washington, and served his internership in Freedman's hospital, Washington.

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE FETED

By R. C. FISHER

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 14—Democrats of the fifth constabulary district had formal ceremonies and a victory celebration last Saturday morning, honoring Atty. Frank S. Bledsoe, the first member of the Race in the history of Missouri to be elected justice of the peace by the Democratic party, and Jordan W. Chambers, who was elected on the same ticket as the first of the Race to the office of constable.

It was an epoch making occasion, this gathering at the old courthouse, Broadway and Market Sts. in the identical historic courtroom where Dred Scott, the first slave north of the Ohio river received his freedom through legal enactment in 1856.

White Officials present

A sprinkling of white Democrats who were elected to major positions in the November election were present to wish joy and success to the two officers of our group.

Bledsoe, an honor graduate of the law department of Howard university, and who is highly esteemed as a gentleman and a brilliant lawyer, bore his honor modestly, with a broad smile, as he sat on the bench in the court room where he is to preside, listening to greetings from friends.

Standing at his left side was Jordan W. Chambers, the newly-elected constable and five other attaches who will compose the official family of the Fifth District court.

Attorney Silas E. Garner, who was in charge of the Republican state headquarters in the last campaign, presented Judge Bledsoe with a gavel, as a token of respect and loyalty from the Mound City Bar association, of which Bledsoe is a former president.

Lauds Bledsoe

In his speech, Garner proclaimed the election of Bledsoe on the Democratic ticket proved that our folk had begun to climb out of conditions in which they had seemed content to remain for the past 70 years. "During that period the Republican party did not know how to treat us men," he said. "Such a situation could not last. There has been unrest and an eagerness for a change.

"Our courts have had a double standard in dispensing justice. Many of our Circuit judges—and I am sorry they are not here today to hear this statement—have felt it as a duty to render judgments in favor of members of my Race in values that are far less than what they award white litigants in similar lawsuits.

"Our white citizens have discriminated against us socially and industrially. If the Democrats will accept us as men, paying strict attention to our individual accomplishments, they will be in power a long time." Garner warned.

In accepting the token from the Bar association, Bledsoe explained that the gavel would serve him as a symbol of justice rather than an emblem of authority. He thanked his friends for their support and told them that his Race would continue to achieve in this country in proportion as they will have "vision, purpose and a certain amount of stubborness."

ST. LOUIS DEMOCRATS MAKE HISTORY

Democrats in St. Louis, Mo., had a victory celebration last week, honoring Atty. Frank S. Bledsoe, the first member of the Race in the history of Missouri to be elected justice of the peace, and Jordan W. Chambers who won on the same ticket as the first of the Race to be elected constable. In above photo, Judge Bledsoe is seated at the bench and standing at his right side is Constable Chambers. Seated at the judge's left is Attorney Silas E. Garner, who presented a gavel to the magistrate. Others in the photo are court attendants and friends.

—Photo by Ellis

Political - 1934

Office Holding.

New Jersey

Atty. R. S. Hartgrove Gets $6000 Appointment As Asst. N. J. Atty-Gen.

JERSEY CITY,—Attorney Robert S. Hartgrove, president of the New Era Democratic Club of this city and a former Assemblyman, was appointed Assistant State Attorney-General last week. The position is reported to carry a salary of $6,000 annually.

The appointment was made by Governor A. Harry Moore, who is now a candidate for United States Senator.

$6,000 Post Given to Hartgrove by N.J. Democrats

(Special to the AFRO)

TRENTON, N.J. — (UNP) — Robert S. Hartgrove, Jersey City attorney, was named an assistant to Attorney-General David Wilenz here Monday afternoon. The post pays $6,000 a year.

A state-wide split among Democrats in New Jersey may follow the appointment. Leroy Jordon, Elizabeth attorney, had been groomed for this post or a similar job as assistant U.S. attorney in the state. Supporters of Jordon are not exactly pleased with the appointment of Hartgrove.

Reached at his home in Jersey City on Monday night, Hartgrove admitted he had received the appointment. He said he would issue a formal state later in the week.

Hartgrove, known as a brilliant lawyer and lately famous for his victory in the Trenton High School swimming pool case, lives in Jersey City.

Several years ago he engaged in a fight with Mayor Frank Hague, czar of the Democratic party in New Jersey, and maker of Gov. A. Harry Moore. For a time he appeared to be a loser, but the present appointment means that he is still in the good graces of the party.

Roger Yancey, Newark lawyer, was seated with Hartgrove at the latter's home in Jersey City when reporters reached him Monday. Hartgrove declared then that Yancey was in line for appointment to the post of assistant U.S. attorney.

At present this U.S. job is held by a Republican, Oliver Randolph, well-known Newark lawyer. It pays $3,600 a year.

Dr. J. Leroy Baxter, leader of state Democrats, said when interviewed in Newark Monday night that he hoped appointment of Hartgrove did not mean that Jordon would be overlooked in the national appointment. Baxter intimated that a serious division in state Democratic ranks would result unless Jordon was named to the national post. On the other hand he praised Hartgrove's legal ability.

Baxter pointed out that Hartgrove had a great advantage because he lived in Jersey City, "where Frank Hague takes care of his own."

Jordon lives in Elizabeth.

Appointment of Hartgrove is generally regarded as a move to add popularity to the Democratic party in the state in the current election. Throughout the state there has been dissatisfaction because of the lack of patronage.

Lightfoot Appointed to Political Post in N. J.

James A. Lightfoot, prominent attorney of Atlantic City, was named last week as special assistant prosecutor of Atlantic county, and automatically assistant attorney general of the State of New Jersey.

Mr. Lightfoot is a graduate of Howard University, both from the college department and the School of Law, class of 1907. He holds the distinction of being the only Negro in Atlantic county ever to be so honored.

Post A-G

Political - 1934

Office Holding.

New York.

WATSON SWEARS IN N. Y. MAGISTRATE

Courier 1-13-34 Pittsburgh Sun

(Courtesy Daily News, New York City)

Left to right: Martin J. Healy, Harlem district leader; Alderman Bradford of the 19th Assembly district; Ellis Jungman, Cayuga Club official; Judge Watson of the Municipal Court, and George Stern, Cayuga Club official. When Alderman Bradford was sworn in Monday, it was the first time that an aldermanic candidate had the honor of being inducted into office by a colored judge.

DELANY IS GIVEN $10,500 POST

Afro American 2-4-34 2-3-34

By EDGAR T. ROUZEAU

NEW YORK CITY — With the $10,500 appointment of Hubert T. Delany, local attorney, as a commissioner on the board of taxes and assessments, Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia has acknowledged the debt of his Fusion party to Harlem voters, with the Delany appointment being considered as the first down payment.

Commissioner Delany is one of seven charged with the responsibility for appraising, revaluating and assessing real estate in New York City. He has been designated as commissioner for Manhattan, with its billions in realty values. The assessment for Greater New York is estimated at $18,500,000,000.

The appointment throws on the shoulders of Mr. Delany the greatest amount of responsibility ever reposed in a Negro by the city government. He becomes one of the two Negro commissioners in New nand Q. Morton civil service commissioner. 2-3-34

Con By T+A

While an assistant U. S. district attorney, from 1927 to 1932, Delany was assigned to prosecute 500 cases, losing only two. He rose to chief of the counterfeiting bureau and resigned last year to join, as a full fledged partner, the white law firm of Mintzer, Todarelli, Kleid and Delaney.

The new commissioner was a candidate to Congress in 1929. He is the son of the late Henry Beard Delany, former bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church. He married Miss Clarissa M. Scott, daughter of Emmett J. Scott, in 1926. She died the following year. He has not remarried.

PICKS LAWYER AS TAX BOARD COMMISSIONER

Amsterdam News 1-31-34

Mayor F. H. LaGuardia Swears In Delany—Is Republican

New York

Hubert T. Delany, to whom recognition has come as a result of his brilliant work as an assistant United States district attorney when he won 498 out of 500 cases he prosecuted in Federal Court, was on Monday appointed a commissioner-member of the Board of Taxes and Assessments.

The appointment was announced on Monday at City Hall shortly after the new commissioner had been sworn into office at noon by Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia.

Commissioner Delany, who becomes one of seven members of a board with the responsibility for appraising, revaluating and assessing real estate in New York, received the designation as commissioner for the island of Manhattan with its billions in realty values. The assessment of the five boroughs has been estimated at $18,500,000,000. 1-31-34

Is Republican.

From sources close to the mayor it was revealed that the appointment is non-political, although Mr. Delany, a Republican, is a member of the political party which was believed to have formed the backbone of the triumphant Fusion organization.

The new commissioner, who lives at 200 Bradhurst avenue and is a member of the law firm of Mintzer, Todarelli, Kleid and Delany of 30 Pine street, made the acquaintance of the mayor years ago when the latter was in Congress. More than once the prosecutions handled by the young assistant district attorney were the outcome of exposures in Congress by LaGuardia.

Ran for Congress.

When in 1929 Delany ran for Congress as a candidate from the Twenty-first Assembly district, his candidacy was endorsed by the then Congressman LaGuardia, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University and other notables.

He joined the staff of the United States district attorney for the Southern district of New York in 1927 to serve successfully under the regime of Charles H. Tuttle and George Z. Medalie. The new commissioner was always effective in argument, practical, witty, sarcastic and smooth-tongued.

Mr. Delany, a graduate of the College of the City of New York and of the New York Law School, is one of two Negroes in New York City who are members of the Association of the Bar, the other being Francis E. Rivers. His name was offered to the association by former United States Attorney Medalie.

Commissioner Delany married in 1926 when he took as his wife Miss Clarice M. Scott, second daughter of Dr. Emmett J. Scott, secretary-treasurer of Howard University. She died in 1927. He is the son of the late Henry Beard Delany, suffragan bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and is one of several brothers and sisters who are practicing medicine, dentistry and law, or who are active as school teachers in this city and elsewhere.

The only other Negro commissioner here is Ferdinand Q. Morton of the Civil Service Commission.

Negro Judges Lead In Work Done In Municipal Court

Age 3-31-34

New York, 3-31-34

The annual report of the Presiding Justice of the Municipal Court for 1933, which was recently given the public, shows that the two Negro members of this court, Justices Charles E. Tony and James S. Watson lead all the others in the amount of work accomplished during the year.

Both Judge Watson and Judge Toney were in court 210 days during the year—216 days was the maximum time spent in court by any judge, but the average number of days was 188.

Judge Toney heard 947 inquests: 1350 non-jury trials; 90 jury trials; 4091 motions; and 5674 summary proceedings.

Judge Watson's record included 868 inquests; 901 non-jury trials; 132 jury trials; 3085 motions; and 1945 summary proceedings.

OUR FIRST TAX COMMISSIONER

UNLESS we are wrong on our history, Hubert T. Delaney of New York is the first Negro ever to be appointed Tax Commissioner in a large American city. Negroes have held almost every other job, but when it came to assessing real estate and collecting taxes, that was considered employment for white folks only. However, New York's Italian Mayor, Fiorella La Guardia, seems determined to appoint capable and trustworthy officials as a change from years of Tammany corruption, so he picked a Negro measuring up to the exacting standards of the New Deal. Courier 2-10-34

Other cities have boasted a bit more than New York about the number of their Negro office holders, but the folks in Harlem seem not to have been asleep. Perhaps the modesty of the effete East has prevented them from blowing their horn too loudly. And yet, they have something to boast about. They have two municipal judges, a civil service commissioner, a commissioner of assessments and taxes, a police surgeon, two assistant attorney generals, an assistant district attorney, a captain in the fire department, a lieutenant in the police department, several civil engineers in the transportation department, 600 school teachers, over 100 policemen, and almost 2,000 other civil service employees, to say nothing of representatives in the State legislature and City Hall. Pittsburgh, Pa.

And the most pleasing thing about it all from our viewpoint is that these are not jim-crow positions but positions won on merit, with the same pay, the same rank, the same duties, the same privileges as those held by white New Yorkers. This is an almost ideal situation, and as it should be. It is the goal toward which all Negroes are striving. We must come to govern as well as be governed. We must examine for civil service as well as being examined. We must collect taxes as well as pay them. We must pass laws as well as obey them. We must first measure up to the highest standards and then demand absolute equality of opportunity —and get it.

With a number of highly placed Negroes in Washington and a Negro appraising the Empire State building in New York, the New Deal begins to take on additional meaning.

N. Y. HERALD
FEB 4 1934

Harlem Pleased As Delany Gets Tax Board Post

Former Assistant U. S. Attorney Wins $10,800 Office Under LaGuardia

Believed Record for Race Lawyer, as Prosecutor, Won 498 of 500 Cases

The first shuffle of the LaGuardia "new deal" was made in Harlem last week with the swearing into office of Hubert T. Delany as a Commissioner of the City Board of Taxes and Assessments at $10,800 a year. It is believed that the thirty-three-year-old Tax Commissioner thus becomes the highest salaried Negro appointive officeholder in the country.

Although the choice of the young lawyer is listed as non-political, he was a spirited supporter of Mayor LaGuardia's campaign last fall and has been a lifelong Republican. Negro politicians are counting on more political plums than ever came their way before, particularly since the Negro vote in November far outdistanced any before cast in the city.

Ranks High as Lawyer

Delany ranks high among the young lawyers in the city. He was appointed by Charles H. Tuttle in 1927 as an Assistant United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York. During the five years he was in office he prosecuted successfully 498 out of 500 criminal cases and was requested to remain an additional six months as special prosecutor when he resigned in 1932.

It was while Delany was in the District Attorney's office that he met Mr. LaGuardia, then a Representative. More than once the prosecutions he handled were the outcome of exposures in Congress by Mr. LaGuardia. When in 1929 Delany ran for Congress on the Republican ticket from the 21st District his candidacy was indorsed by Mr. LaGuardia.

A native of Raleigh, N. C., Mr. Delany came to New York as a youth and matriculated in the College of the City of New York. He graduated in 1923. He then attended New York Law School, from which he was graduated in 1926. While there he taught in the grade schools. In the same year he finished his law course, he married a Wellesley graduate, Clarissa Scott, daughter of Dr. Emmett J. Scott, secretary-treasurer of Howard University. She died in 1927.

Avoids Racial Appeal

Tax Commissioner Delany has been practising law in the law office of Mintzer, Todarelli, Kleid & Delany, 30 Pine Street. He sticks to the rule of seeking success not as a Negro, but as a lawyer. When he ran for Congress in 1929, he stated: "I do not want the voters in the 21st District to vote for or against me because I am a Negro, but to govern their course on the theory that I am either capable or incapable."

Capt. R. A. ATKINS

Capt. R. A. Atkins Gets Appointment As Supt. College Station P. O.

Age

Captain Rufus Atkins of the 369th Infantry, N. Y. N. G., who has been assistant superintendent of the College Station branch Post Office, 140th street and Eighth avenue, for the past five years, was promoted last week to superintendent. 2-17-34

It is said that Captain Atkins' record in the Post Office service for the past 16 years was such that officials of the Post Office felt he was entitled to the promotion on his merits. He had the endorsement of high officials in the service, including Postmaster-General James A. Farley, Vincent Daily, L. Ross and John J. Kiely, postmaster of New York.

At the same time announcement was made of the promotion of Lieutenant Stanley A. Miles from the position of foreman at the General Post Office to that of assistant superintendent, under Captain Atkins, at Colege Station.

Second Colored Superintendent

Captain Atkins is the second Negro to become a superintendent in the New York post office. When he was first transferred to College Station, he worked as assistant to Alexander King, the dean of colored P. O. employees, who is now superintendent of Station U—at 102nd street and Third ave.

Unlike Captain Atkins, who has supervision over about 100 men who are 95 per cent colored, Mr. King's branch is not located in a colored neighborhood and most of his subordinates are white.

Both Captain Atkins and his new assistant, Lieut. Miles, are veterans of the Old Fifteenth Regiment, now the 369th Infantry. The new superintendent has continued his connection with the famous regiment since the war and has been in command of the Machine Gun Company, which has the reputation of being the best in the state, for several years. He is also the athletic officer of the regiment. He is 45 years of age and resides in the Dunbar Garden Apartments with his wife and three children.

Supt.

Political - 1934

Office Holding.

New York

Politics

Charles W. Anderson Passes On--But His Record Remain

Active Service Under 7 Presidents Has Exacted Its Toll

By EDGAR T. ROUZEAU.

PRESIDENT WILSON wheeled on his heels to face a group of Democrats. Nineteen-thirteen was the year. The President gesticulated at a batch of reports on his desk in his office in the White House. He exploded:

"He is worth twenty thousand dollars a year. Those records prove it. He is holding down a five thousand-dollar job. Why kick him out?"

And for once the counselors of the party were at sea. They were practical politicians and had but one reason to offer, one that President Wilson knew. Charles W. Anderson was not a Democrat. But wait a moment. Wasn't it true that the U. S. Collector of Internal Revenue for the Second District of New York—the man entrusted with collecting millions for the Government from one of the richest areas in the world—wasn't it true that he was a Negro? Yes, Charles W. Anderson was, and remains, a Negro, and succeeding generations may regard him as one of the most outstanding New York ever had.

7-14-34

SO, IN 1914 the counselors of President Wilson had their way. Charles W. Anderson was asked to resign. He stepped out of office after ten years of distinguished service at his post. In 1921 President Harding was elected. Two years later he reappointed Mr. Anderson to a newly created revenue district in New York, the third, and succeeding Republican administrations retained his services until the other day, when again he was asked to resign by another Democratic administration. In all, twenty-one years in one of the largest and most responsible positions his country ever gave a Negro. Now he's out for good.

Collector of Revenue Was Institution in Republican Party

Charley Anderson was a big man as prestige goes, very big. He was a business cardinal of the first rank, Prometheus shackled by the limitations of American racial bans. He traveled in a circle far above the circle of today's Negro business urchins, political puppets, talkative cocksparrows and religious Hop o' My Thumbs.

He was every inch a man, every inch a gentleman, every inch a leader. He was the possessor of manners that were impeccable. He used lines of English that were macadamized, profound. He was an astute politician, a spellbinder, a great orator. He was a man who needed room to deploy his prowess. Had he been white, he might have been a cabinet officer.

He is the only collector of internal revenue in the history of America whether white, black, yellow or sun tanned, to serve under seven Presidents—four years under Roosevelt; four with Taft; two with Wilson; four months with Harding; five-and-a-half years with Coolidge; four with Hoover, one with the present Roosevelt.

He was originally appointed by the first Roosevelt, whose friendship he won while "Rough Rider Teddy" was governor of New York and Anderson an employee in the state treasury. Anderson took office, with jurisdiction over the financial waterfront sections downtown, the manufacturing center on the East Side and the theatrical and residential sections on the West Side. The collections for his district took leaps and bounds until people began to whisper. Today they would have said that somebody was using a tin box before Mr. Anderson took charge.

PRESIDENT Theodore Roosevelt, at the close of his second term, sent the following letter of appreciation for the services rendered by Mr. Anderson:

February 17, 1909.

My dear Mr. Anderson:

I thank you for your letter of the 16th instant. You have been one of the most satisfactory officials I have had under me. I have taken pride and pleasure in your appointment.

With all good wishes, believe me,

Faithfully yours,

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Hon. Charles W. Anderson,
Collector of Internal Revenue,
New York.

* * *

THERE WERE great moments by the score in Anderson's life. He was committeeman at large for the state for years—the only one. He was the toastmaster at all sorts of big banquets downtown, chairman of all sorts of commissions for the reception of important foreign delegations and such personages as Marshall Joffre of France, Signor Marconi, inventor of wireless, of Italy, and others. He was honorary pallbearer at Mayor Gaynor's funeral. He spoke at a peace banquet at the Hotel Astor in 1914, attended by delegates from firty nations. He was chairman of draft board No. 139 during the World War. He was in on nearly everything of importance during that period.

He is a member of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Academy of Political Science, the New York Peace Society, the Japanese Franchise League, the National Geographical Society and the Roosevelt Memorial Association, to mention a few.

Most Presidents have emerged from the White House to die in a year or two, victims of an overworked mind. The years he spent in computing millions in revenue for the government have dealt just as harshly with Charley Anderson. He hardly realized what he was signing when the letter of resignation was brought to his home, 156 West 132d street, and stuck under his nose. He is unable to concentrate on anything, so his housekeeper reluctantly nodded her head to indicate that it was all right. Charley Anderson obediently signed the document. For the benefit of the public it was reported that he had resigned. But it was just as well.

* * *

AT 69 CHARLEY ANDERSON is a kindly-faced old gentleman, who sits for hours at a table in the basement of his home, never without his coat and vest, his collar and tie, saying little, staring for hours at nothing.

His thinning hair is leniently gray. His shoulders are slightly bent. He once weighed 200 pounds, but his year's confinement at home has cost him a lot of weight. He is quiet as long as no one talks to him. Try to draw him into a conversation and he becomes upset, a bundle of pins and needles; he stands up, is urged gently to resume his seat, he stands up again, and finally manages to say that he can't talk today—come back tomorrow. When the next day arrives he again says come back tomorrow. The doctors say he shouldn't be made to talk.

And this is the pathetic, tragic picture of the great Charley Anderson, the man President Stenio Vincent of Haiti would have been delighted to meet, for Vincent wanted to meet the Negro Magogs of the country and Anderson was always a Magog in the service of his country—a man who could have talked fluently with M. Vincent in terms of millions, something the Haitian President understood.

He was born in Oxford, Ohio, April 26, 1866, and was educated in Ohio and Massachusetts. He came to New York in the eighties, entered politics and rose to prominence in the councils of the Republican Party. In 1890 he was appointed U. S. gauger in the second revenue district, and from there his rise was rapid.

First, private secretary to the state treasurer; chief clerk in the state treasury; supervisor of accounts for the New York State Racing Commission, handling from $300,000 to $400,000 yearly, and then fate took a hand in his career.

President Roosevelt appointed a Negro to an important executive position in the South. A big clamor was raised about it. Southerners protested and told the President he would not dare to appoint a Negro to a position of equal importance in the North. Roosevelt promptly appointed Anderson as Collector of Internal Revenue in what he declared was "the most important district" in the United States.

* * *

ANDERSON'S WIFE, the former Emma Lee Bonaparte, died not long ago. One cannot attempt to describe his loss. It must have been great. Such companionship as was theirs is not for an outsider to reflect upon; one could never do it justice. One passes to another subject.

What is to become of Anderson's job? He filled it with distinction and made it a Negro heritage. If selfishness is submerged, it may yet be saved to the Negro race. What will our leaders do? They should unite and agitate. That's what the great Charley Anderson would have advised if he were in position to discuss the matter. He was, and is, that sort of a man.

CHARLES W. ANDERSON, as he appeared at his desk before his most recent illness forced him into confinement at his home.

NEGROES MAY SECURE FORTY REVENUE JOBS

Amsterdam News

Charles W. Anderson Quits; Successor May Be White

For the second itme in twenty-one years—it happened first under Woodrow Wilson in 1915—a Negro is scheduled to be replaced by a white man as collector of internal revenue in New York City, The Amsterdam News has been reliably informed. But unlike the first time, the Negro voters are to be repaid now for the substitution. Forty colored Democrats are to receive minor posts in the Third district revenue office, which until last Friday was headed by Charles W. Anderson.

This information was unearthed three months ago by The Amsterdam News and confirmed yesterday by an unofficial spokesman for the Federal administration. The move is to be one of the first ventures in national and local Democratic co-operation with the view of electing Postmaster General James A. Farley as Governor of New York State in 1836. The Democratic leaders are said to be proceeding on the premise that two-score smaller jobs will be more effective than one large job in building a strong machine among the Negro voters for the gubernatorial election.

The position of collector of internal revenue for the Third New York district has come to be regarded as a Negro sinecure because of the twenty-one-year tenancy of Anderson, who was appointed in 1905 by President Theodore Roosevelt to head the Second district. He was reappointed by President Taft and served four years under him. Anderson served two years under President Wilson before the Democrats replaced him in 1915 by a white man. The veteran politician, who was a power in New York Republican circles, was recalled from retirement by President Harding in 1923 to head the newly created Third district. He held this position until last Friday when he resigned on orders of the present Roosevelt administration. A prolonged illness was cited as the cause of his resignation, although the action has been expected since the change in the national administration.

Solomon Favored.

Anderson's post is expected to go to Sigmund Solomon, brother of William Solomon, Tammany leader of the Seveneenth Assembly district. The appointment of Solomon is supposed to serve two purposes: First, it is expected to assure the national administration of the support of the Edward J. Ahearn forces, with which the district leader is aligned, in the election Monday of James J. Dooling as leader of Tammany Hall. Next, it is supposed to repay Solomon and his brother for the undercover support the district leader is alleged to have given Joseph V. McKee in Harlem during the last mayoralty election.

The proposed appointment of Solomon will bring to a close a bitter fight among a large number of Negro Democrats and Recoveryites for the position once occupied by Anderson. From the moment of Roosevelt election in 1932, the candidates have vied with each other in an effort to secure the appointment. Statements emanating from one or other of these aspirants have led to the rise of many early rumors of Anderson's retirement.

One of the earliest aspirants for the post was Dr. Godfrey Nurse, presidential elector in 1932 and political protege of Martin J. Healy, Tammany leader of the Ninteenth Assembly district. The candidacy of Dr. Nurse evoked much discussion in Harlem when it was found that certain Negro Democrats had opposed his appointment.

Another Harlemite who has been prominently mentioned for the post is Henri Shields, leader of the Beavers' Club and almost successful candidate for the leadership of the Twenty-third Assembly district in last year's Democratic primaries. Shields has been dickering with Tammany for the splittering of the district now headed by Thomas F. Murray, white, but plans for the action are believed to have fallen through. The Federal administration is said to have frowned on the Beavers' leader's negotiations with Tammany at that time.

Others reported to have sought the Anderson post include James C. Thomas, former United States assistant district attorney who headed a section of the McKee work in the recent Harlem campaign. Attorney Thomas has received wide backing from many war veteran groups and is still considered a strong candidate for Federal recognition. John M. Royall, prominent realtor and one of the sponsors of the recently organized "Harlem Political Union," and Jay Williams Clifford, United States customs inspector, are also believed to have sought the position.

The appointment of the forty or more Negroes to staff positions in the Third district office is expected to be made immediately after the official naming of the collector. The positions are said to include a score of field and office collectors, ten clerks and a similar number of stenographers.

ANENT THE COLLECTORSHIP.

It would be downright hypocrisy to assert that Negroes are not disappointed over the failure of one of their number to receive the appointment of Collector of Internal Revenue for the Third New York District, for they are. Charles W. Anderson held the position so long and so acceptably it was natural for the race to expect that his successor would be a Negro of character and ability.

Many valuable lessons might be learned throughout the country from the non-successful yet hotly-waged fight for the coveted position. Some of the aspirants are accused of having done everything in their power to boost themselves and tear down the reputations of others. Even the private lives and domestic affairs of applicants were attacked. So distressed did one Democratic boss become over the uncalled for exhibition of mudslinging that he is reported to have critically commented upon the lugging in of personalities.

Perhaps it is asking too much of Negroes to to a big political appointment. ing of hopefulness exists that other representative positions will be given colored New Yorkers. The President, Chairman Farley and others high in the councils of the Democratic Party are not unmindful that the numbers of Negroes enrolled officially under the combined enrolled vote of Negro Democrats in the entire country.

Deserved recognition of the Negro Democrat in New York is bound to come. It is a great loss of Mr. Anderson and the selection of a white man to succeed him, because of the friendly attitude of the Roose-

CHARLES W. ANDERSON, as he appeared at his desk before his most recent illness forced him into confinement at his home.

NEGROES MAY SECURE FORTY REVENUE JOBS

Amsterdam News

Charles W. Anderson Quits; Successor May Be White

7-14-34

New York Times

For the second itme in twenty-one years—it happened first under Woodrow Wilson in 1915—a Negro is scheduled to be replaced by a white man as collector of internal revenue in New York City, The Amsterdam News has been reliably informed. But unlike the first time, the Negro voters are to be repaid now for the substitution. Forty colored Democrats are to receive minor posts in the Third district revenue office, which until last Friday was headed by Charles W. Anderson.

This information was unearthed three months ago by The Amsterdam News and confirmed yesterday by an unofficial spokesman for the Federal administration. The move is to be one of the first ventures in national and local Democratic co-operation with the view of electing Postmaster General James A. Farley as Governor of New York State in 1836. The Democratic leaders are said to be proceeding on the premise that two-score smaller jobs will be more effective than one large job in building a strong machine among the Negro voters for the gubernatorial election.

The position of collector of internal revenue for the Third New York district has come to be regarded as a Negro sinecure because of the twenty-one-year tenancy of Anderson, who was appointed in 1905 by President Theodore Roosevelt to head the Second district. He was reappointed by President Taft and served four years under him. Anderson served two years under President Wilson before the Democrats replaced him in 1915 by a white man. The veteran politician, who was a power in New York Republican circles, was recalled from retirement by President Harding in 1923 to head the newly created Third district. He held this position until last Friday when he resigned on orders of the present Roosevelt administration. A prolonged illness was cited as the cause of his resignation, although the action has been expected since the change in the national administration.

Amsterdam News

Solomon Favored.

Anderson's post is expected to go to Sigmund Solomon, brother of William Solomon, Tammany leader of the Seveneenth Assembly district. The appointment of Solomon is supposed to serve two purposes: First, it is expected to assure the national administration of the support of the Edward J. Ahearn forces, with which the district leader is aligned, in the election Monday of James J. Dooling as leader of Tammany Hall. Next, it is supposed to repay Solomon and his brother for the undercover support the district leader is alleged to have given Joseph V. McKee in Harlem during the last mayoralty election.

The proposed appointment of Solomon will bring to a close a bitter fight among a large number of Negro Democrats and Recoveryites for the position once occupied by Anderson. From the moment of Roosevelt election in 1932, the candidates have vied with each other in an effort to secure the appointment. Statements emanating from one or other of these aspirants have led to the rise of many early rumors of Anderson's retirement.

One of the earliest aspirants for the post was Dr. Godfrey Nurse, presidential elector in 1932 and political protege of Martin J. Healy, Tammany leader of the Ninteenth Assembly district. The candidacy of Dr. Nurse evoked much discussion in Harlem when it was found that certain Negro Democrats had opposed his appointment.

Another Harlemite who has been prominently mentioned for the post is Henri Shields, leader of the Beavers' Club and almost successful candidate for the leadership of the Twenty-third Assembly district in last year's Democratic primaries. Shields has been dickering with Tammany for the splittering of the district now headed by Thomas F. Murray, white, but plans for the action are believed to have fallen through. The Federal administration is said to have frowned on the Beavers' leader's negotiations with Tammany at that time.

Others reported to have sought the Anderson post include James C. Thomas, former United States assistant district attorney who headed a section of the McKee work in the recent Harlem campaign. Attorney Thomas has received wide backing from many war veteran groups and is still considered a strong candidate for Federal recognition. John M. Royall, prominent realtor and one of the sponsors of the recently organized "Harlem Political Union," and Jay Williams Clifford, United States customs inspector, are also believed to have sought the position.

The appointment of the forty or more Negroes to staff positions in the Third district office is expected to be made immediately after the official naming of the collector. The positions are said to include a score of field and office collectors, ten clerks and a similar number of stenographers.

ANENT THE COLLECTORSHIP.

It would be downright hypocrisy to assert that Negroes are not disappointed over the failure of one of their number to receive the appointment of Collector of Internal Revenue for the Third New York District, for they are. Charles W. Anderson held the position so long and so acceptably it was natural for the race to expect that his successor would be a Negro of character and ability.

7-21-34

Many valuable lessons might be learned throughout the country from the non-successful yet hotly-waged fight for the coveted position. Some of the aspirants are accused of having done everything in their power to boost themselves and tear down the reputations of others. Even the private lives and domestic affairs of applicants were attacked. So distressed did one Democratic boss become over the uncalled for exhibition of mudslinging that he is reported to have critically commented upon the lugging in of personalities.

Perhaps it is asking too much of Negroes to receive has sustained a great loss of Mr. Anderson and the white man to succeed him, be- friendly attitude of the Roose- cause of the selection of a white man and give him undivided support for a big political appointment. Many white men are candidates for one positions will be given colored New tion, so in these days of unemployment and Yorkers. The President, Chairman Farley small bankrolls the spectacle of a large num- ber of colored candidates scrambling after one political plum is to be expected. How- ever, they should confine their efforts to pre- senting their own claims for favorable con- sideration and not bending their energies to knocking their rivals and declaring their un- fitness. As a rule no Negro benefits by such unfair, unethical, unsportsman like tactics in the end.

While the race has sustained a great loss by the resignation of Mr. Anderson and the selection of a white man to succeed him, be- cause of the friendly attitude of the Roose- velt Administration toward the Negro, a feel- ing of hopefulness exists that other represent- ing the democratic party are not unmindful that the num- ber of Negroes enrolled officially under the Democratic banner in Greater New York ex- ceeds the combined enrolled vote of Negro Democrats in the entire country.

Deserved recognition of the Negro Democrat in New York is bound to come. It is a foregone conclusion.

Political - 1934

Office Holding

North Carolina

OXLEY APPOINTED COMMISSIONER IN LABOR DEPARTM'T

Succeeds Karl Phillips; Highly Recommended by Democratic Leaders

Lieutenant Lawrence A. Oxley well known welfare worker of North Carolina, was appointed last week to the post of commissioner of conciliation in the Department of Labor. Lieutenant Oxley succeeds Karl Phillips, who has held the position for several years under Republican administrations.

Native of Boston

Lieutenant Oxley who retains his title from service in the World War, is a native of Boston. For several years he has been associated with the North Carolina State Board of Public Welfare, heading the division of Negro welfare and relief.

Highly Recommended

Lieutenant Oxley is a Democrat and was urged for the position by many leading Democrats, including Senator Josiah W. Bailey, Senator Robert R. Reynolds, United States Ambassador to Mexico Josephus Daniels, O. Max Gardner, national committeeman from North Carolina; Mrs. Palmer Jerman, national committeewoman from North Carolina; Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus, of North Carolina; Chief Justice W. P. Stacey of the North Carolina Supreme Court, Robert L. Vann, assistant to the Attorney General; Julian D. Rainey, leading Democrat of Boston and Eugene Kinckle Jones, Advisor on Negro Affairs in the Commerce Department.

Named Commissioner on Conciliation in D.C.

LIEUTENANT LAWRENCE A. OXLEY

well-known welfare worker of North Carolina, who was appointed last week to the post of Commissioner of Conciliation in the Department of Labor. Lieut. Oxley succeeds Karl Phillips who has held the position for several years under Republican administrations.

Lieutenant Oxley is a native of Boston and was urged for the position by Senator Josiah W. Bailey, Senator Robert R. Reynolds, United States Ambassador to Mexico Josephus Daniels, O. Max Gardner, National Committeeman from North Carolina, Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus of North Carolina. Chief Justice W. P. Stacy of the North Carolina Supreme Court, Robert L. Vann Assistant to the Attorney General Julian D. Rainey, leading Democrat of Boston, Mrs. Palmer Jerman, National Committeewoman from North Carolina and Eugene Kinckles Jones Advisor on Negro Affairs in the Commerce Department.

WASHINGTON, D. C. TIMES

MAR 9 1934

Oxley Appointment Pleases Democrats

With the appointment of Lawrence Oxley, of Raleigh, N. C., Negro welfare commissioner in that State, as commissioner of conciliation, United States Department of Labor, Negro Democratic leaders have been given another important post under the Roosevelt regime.

Lieutenant Oxley replaces Karl Phillips, Republican, who has held the post since the President Harding administration.

Wilson, N. C., Times
January 29, 1934

ROMINENT WILSON NEGRO CHAIRMAN RULES COMMITTEE

F. S. Hargrave, colored, a member of the Lower House of the New Jersey legislature has been made hairman of the committee on rules.

He is the only negro in the Assembly and before he moved to New Jersey resided here, built the colored hospital located in Wilson and directed its affairs.

He was a prominent physician of Wilson and very successful.

His talents have caused him to make good in his adopted state of New Jersey, and his Wilson friends, white as well as colored, appreciate this recognition of a man who was once a citizen of Wilson, and well deserves his good fortune.

OXLEY NAMED TO LABOR DEP'T POST

WASHINGTON, Mar. 22—(ANP)—Lieut. Lawrence A. Oxley, Raleigh, N. C., has received his appointment in the United States Department of Labor. The announcement was made Friday by Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor.

Prematurely reported several weeks ago, the appointment was officially confirmed by [illegible] has been abolished. Mr. Phillips is no longer connected with the labor department in any capacity. It is understood that he will engage in the practice of law. The Lieut. Oxley, a native of Boston, who adopted North Carolina after the World War, has served actively in the welfare department of that State.

the labor secretary, who explained that Mr. Oxley would be engaged in investigating problems concerning Negro labor. Mr. Oxley's title has not been decided upon. The position of commissioner of conciliation, held by Karl Phillips dur-ing several Republican administra-

Mocksville, N. C., Record
November 28, 1934

Negro Justices Of Peace At Durham.

The Democratic newspapers of the state, including the Winston-Salem Journal, Davidson Dispatch and other lesser lights have kept extremely quiet over the fact that at the recent election two well known negroes were elected to the office of the justice of the peace in the city of Durham

Tom Bost, Raleigh news writer has let the "cat out of the bag" and writes of this snappy event to the Greensboro News as follows:

"Democratic dry grins are written all over Durham faces as the final returns come in and the electors discover that they elected two negroes as justices of the peace on the Democratic ticket.

"L. F. Austin, editor of the Carolina Times. is said to have led the ticket, and F K Watkins, "moving picture magnate," in Haiti, is the other Both were on the regular ticket and won easily. Neither of these new judges could be seen, but friends of both say they will qualify and actually hold court.

"They will of course not have any such powers as inhere in the Supreme court, but Editor Austin may be able to send many a ticklish question to that Supreme court. Recently he has indicated that if President Roosevelt names Chief Justice Stacy for the next Supreme court appointment in Washington. the Carolina Times will make war on the nomination. But that isn't serious. The Democrats have more than two-thirds of the United States Senate. They can confirm Justice Stacy if he is nominated

"But a justice of the peace can get important legislation on the way. The Durham editor is in position now to do that thing. If an issue involving race rights can take a start in his court he can put it up to the highest tribunal finally. There will probably be such issues! And the Democrats have this man on their hands."

It might be a good idea for the papers to copy the above for the information of their readers and the Ashbero Courier might likewise publish it and send a marked copy to its Congressmen Harold D. Cooley.—Winston-Salem, Lexington and other Union Republican

Political - 1934

Office Holding.

North Carolina

OXLEY APPOINTED COMMISSIONER IN LABOR DEPARTM'T

Succeeds Karl Phillips; Highly Recommended by Democratic Leaders

Lieutenant Lawrence A. Oxley, well known welfare worker of North Carolina, was appointed last week to the post of commissioner of conciliation in the Department of Labor. Lieutenant Oxley succeeds Karl Phillips, who has held the position for several years under Republican administrations.

Native of Boston

Lieutenant Oxley who retains his title from service in the World War, is a native of Boston. For several years he has been associated with the North Carolina State Board of Public Welfare, heading the division of Negro welfare and relief.

Highly Recommended

Lieutenant Oxley is a Democrat and was urged for the position by many leading Democrats, including Senator Josiah W. Bailey, Senator Robert R. Reynolds, United States Ambassador to Mexico Josephus Daniels, O. Max Gardner, national committeeman from North Carolina; Mrs. Palmer Jerman, national committeewoman from North Carolina; Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus, of North Carolina; Chief Justice W. P. Stacey of the North Carolina Supreme Court, Robert L. Vann, assistant to the Attorney General; Julian D. Rainey, leading Democrat of Boston and Eugene Kinckle Jones, Advisor on Negro Affairs in the Commerce Department.

Named Commissioner on Conciliation in D.C.

LIEUTENANT LAWRENCE A. OXLEY

well-known welfare worker of North Carolina, who was appointed last week to the post of Commissioner of Conciliation in the Department of Labor. Lieut. Oxley succeeds Karl Phillips who has held the position for several years under Republican administrations.

Lieutenant Oxley is a native of Boston and was urged for the position by Senator Josiah W. Bailey, Senator Robert R. Reynolds, United States Ambassador to Mexico Josephus Daniels, O. Max Gardner, National Committeeman from North Carolina, Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus of North Carolina. Chief Justice W. P. Stacy of the North Carolina Supreme Court, Robert L. Vann Assistant to the Attorney General Julian D. Rainey, leading Democrat of Boston, Mrs. Palmer Jerman. National Committeewoman from North Carolina and Eugene Kinckles Jones Advisor on Negro Affairs in the Commerce Department.

WASHINGTON, D. C. TIMES

MAR 9 1934

Oxley Appointment Pleases Democrats

With the appointment of Lawrence Oxley, of Raleigh, N. C., Negro welfare commissioner in that State, as commissioner of conciliation, United States Department of Labor, Negro Democratic leaders have been given another important post under the Roosevelt regime.

Lieutenant Oxley replaces Karl Phillips, Republican, who has held the post since the President Harding administration.

Wilson, N. C., Times
January 29, 1934

ROMINENT WILSON NEGRO CHAIRMAN RULES COMMITTEE

F. S. Hargrave, colored, a member of the Lower House of the New Jersey legislature has been made chairman of the committee on rules.

He is the only negro in the Assembly and before he moved to New Jersey resided here, built the colored hospital located in Wilson and directed its affairs.

He was a prominent physician of Wilson and very successful.

His talents have caused him to make good in his adopted state of New Jersey, and his Wilson friends, white as well as colored, appreciate this recognition of a man who was once a citizen of Wilson, and well deserves his good fortune.

OXLEY NAMED TO LABOR DEP'T POST

WASHINGTON, Mar. 22—(ANP)—Lieut. Lawrence A. Oxley, Raleigh, N. C., has received his appointment in the United States Department of Labor. The announcement was made Friday by Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor.

Prematurely reported several weeks ago, the appointment was officially confirmed by the labor secretary, who explained that Mr. Oxley would be engaged in investigating problems concerning Negro labor. Mr. Oxley's position has not been decided upon. The position of commissioner of conciliation, held by Karl Phillips during several Republican administrations, has been abolished. Mr. Phillips is no longer connected with the labor department in any capacity. It is understood that he will engage in the practice of law.

The Lieut. Oxley, a native of Boston, who adopted North Carolina after the World War, has served actively in the welfare department of that State.

CC in Dept of L.

Mocksville, N. C., Record
November 28, 1934

Negro Justices Of Peace At Durham.

The Democratic newspapers of the state, including the Winston-Salem Journal, Davidson Dispatch and other lesser lights have kept extremely quiet over the fact that at the recent election two well known negroes were elected to the office of the justice of the peace in the city of Durham

Tom Bost, Raleigh news writer has let the "cat out of the bag" and writes of this snappy event to the Greensboro News as follows:

"Democratic dry grins are written all over Durham faces as the final returns come in and the electors discover that they elected two negroes as justices of the peace on the Democratic ticket.

"L. F. Austin, editor of the Carolina Times, is said to have led the ticket, and F K Watkins, "moving picture magnate," in Haiti, is the other Both were on the regular ticket and won easily. Neither of these new judges could be seen, but friends of both say they will qualify and actually hold court.

"They will of course not have any such powers as inhere in the Supreme court, but Editor Austin may be able to send many a ticklish question to that Supreme court. Recently he has indicated that if President Roosevelt names Chief Justice Stacy for the next Supreme court appointment in Washington, the Carolina Times will make war on the nomination. But that isn't serious. The Democrats have more than two-thirds of the United States Senate. They can confirm Justice Stacy if he is nominated

"But a justice of the peace can get important legislation on the way. The Durham editor is in position now to do that thing. If an issue involving race rights can take a start in his court he can put it up to the highest tribunal finally. There will probably be such issues! And the Democrats have this man on their hands."

It might be a good idea for the publishers to copy the above for the information of their readers and the Ashbero Courier might likewise publish it and send a marked copy to its Congressmen Harold D. Cooley.—Winston-Salem, Lexington and other Union Republican

Wilkesboro, N. C. Patriot
December 6, 1934

Negro Magistrates

Durham, Dec. 3—For the first time in the history of the state two negroes today took the oath of office as magistrates of Durham county. They were Louis H. Austin, editor of a negro weekly paper, and Frederick Watkins.

Political-1934

Office Holding

Ohio

Clayborne George Named on Civil Service Board

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 5.—Former Councilman Clayborne George was appointed Saturday a member of the civil service commission to succeed Attorney Harry E. Davis, whose six-year term expired Dec. 31. To Mayor Harry L. Davis is due the credit for making the appointment to a position that went to one of our group six years ago through the broadminded spirit of Hon. Maurice Maschke, then chairman of the county Republican organization.

It may said that Mr. George has had the benefit of more favorable comment from the local dailies (white), civic and political organizations during his councilmanic career than any other member of our group who has served in the legislative branch of the city.

His appointment to the civil service commission has been commented upon favorably by Plain Dealer, News and Press of Cleveland. In the Cleveland Press of Monday, George is referred to as "an excellent leader in the city council," and "capable of exercising courageous independence when he wants to exercise it."

Harry E. Davis was an excellent member of the commission during his six-year term, but was not sufficiently favorable towards the Republican candidacy for mayor, it is said.

Clerk of Ohio Town Holds Job a Half Century

CADIZ, O.—William Henry Lucas, 82, began his 52nd year as municipal clerk of Cadiz January 1.

Mr. Lucas is highly respected for his efficiency and amiability, so much so that, for the last 25 years, authorities have guarded against any opposition from other Republicans or from Democratic office-seekers.

He was born in Richmond, Va., of free parents, and has papers to verify that fact. His parents brought him to Cadiz because of the opportunities that were afforded him here. Cadiz permits no intolerance, and provides equal educational facilities for children, regardless of color or creed.

Mr. Lucas was the first colored pupil to be graduated from Cadiz High School and was the first teacher of Dunbar School. For nearly a half century he headed the Sunday school department of the A. M. E. Church here.

WILLIAM HENRY LUCAS

Attorney Gets Bar Post

CLEVELAND, O.—Percy B. Jackson, attorney, has been elected to serve a three-year term on the board of trustees of the Cuyahoga County Bar Association, which has a membership of more than two thousand lawyers.

Cites Losses in In[illegible] Urges Organizati[illegible] of Field by Col[illegible]

PHILADELPHIA.—A plea that we compile our own statistics on our contribution to education here was made by Miss Nellie Bright, a teacher in the Alexander Wilson public school, at the winter meeting of the Pennsylvania Association of Teachers of Colored Children, Thursday night.

The meeting was held at the Southwest branch, Y.W.C.A., 1605 Catherine Street.

"Many of the dangers of the past are still dangers of the present," asserted Miss Bright. "In the early days sentiment was divided, one group regarding Negro education as a social necessity, the other regarding the cost of such education as not commensurate with the return.

"This is a vital question today," continued Miss Bright, "when experts consider everything on a monetary basis. Are we willing to let others formulate statistics on the basis of our work, showing that the return for the expenditure is inadequate, or are we doing such a fine job that the statistics are a challenge to the experts to spend more for Negro education? Are we as a group sufficiently aroused to this danger?"

Deploring the decline of the per centage of Negroes in the field c industry, Miss Bright added, "Man of our teachers in industrial school have not had the actual experienc or the adequate training in thei field because the doors of industr for the highl skilled and technica schools are usually closed to Ne groes."

Miss Bright further pleaded fo the development of peculiar racia talents and for unity of effort o the part of the colored teachers o Philadelphia.

Mrs. Mallaviere C. Russell, teacher in the Singerly School, 22n and Berks Streets, and president o the association, described presen times as representing a "crisis" fo colored teachers.

Teachers representing this city Morton, Pa., Downingtown, Cheyne and West Chester, Pa., attended th meeting, which was presided over b John Brodhead, principal of th Arnold School, Second and Dauphi Streets. James H. N. Waring, prin cipal of Downingtown Industria School, was another speaker on th program.

Negro Keeps Job For Half-Century

CADIZ, Ohio (UP)—For 52 years William Henry Lucas, beloved 82-year-old Negro, has served Cadiz as municipal clerk.

For the past 25 years of that time, voters have never allowed an opponent to file against him in a campaign, either on his own ticket or the Democratic.

Lucas was born in Richmond, Va., during slavery days and has free-born papers to prove that his father and mother were not slaves. As a young man, he was brought here by his parents, because the town permitted no intolerance and provided equal educational facilities for colored and white children.

He was the first colored student to be graduated from Cadiz high school and was the first teacher of Dunbar, a school for colored children. As town clerk, he is regarded as remarkably well informed, and his courtesy and efficiency have won him friends throughout Ohio and other states.

Active in church affairs, he was head of the African M. E. Sunday school for almost a half century.

Political - 1934

Pennsylvania

Office Holding.

Gets Keystone Plum

DR. JAMES E. JONES, Harrisburg, who was recently appointed special investigator for the Bureau of Professional Licensures of Law Enforcement Division of Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction. Dr. Jones is a graduate of Union University, at Richmond, Va., and of Meharry Medical School, Nashville, Tenn.

He has practiced dentistry in Harrisburg for the past five years. This is the third outstanding appointment made by Gov. Pinchot during his administration. The other two are Mrs. Maude B. Coleman, Interracial Consultant in the Department of Welfare, and Robert Nelson, member of the Pennsylvania Boxing Commission.

GETS CITY APPOINTMENT

Attorney Wilbur C. Douglass (left) being sworn in by City Solicitor C. D. Scully as Assistant City Solicitor.

Another Evidence of "New Deal" Shown As Pittsburgh Gives Lawyer First Big Appointment Under Democratic Administration.

Courier

'Mid simple but impressive ceremonies, Attorney Wilbur C. Douglass, graduate of the University of Pittsburgh Law School, and for many years a practicing attorney in the city, was duly sworn in as Assistant City Solicitor last Friday morning. The oath of office was administered by C. D. Scully, City Solicitor.

Attorney Douglass, active in the Roosevelt and McNair campaigns had received the endorsement of State Leader Joseph F. Guffey, County Chairman David Lawrence, Mayor McNair and M. L. Benedum, millionaire backer of the party in this State.

He was recommended for the position by Attorney Robert L. Vann, Assistant to the Attorney General, Washington, D. C.

Democrats Hit Back at Nelson

Afro-American

PHILADELPHIA— Democratic leaders hit back at Robert J. Nelson's statement on patronage given out recently when John B. Kelley, city committee chairman, denied the athletic commissioner's charge that the Democrats had failed to keep their word.

10-20-34

In a statement sent out by Joseph H. Rainey of the Democratic State Committee, Mr. Kelley is quoted as saying that since the Democrats had taken over four city offices, sixty-two colored citizens had been given appointments and that 30 per cent of the appointments made in the mint have been from the colored race.

To Name Attorney

Almost at the same time, Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic nominee for the United States Senate, indicated that within a fortnight a colored lawyer will be named to the office of the United States District Attorney here as an assistant.

Penna. Democrats Are Out for 1,450 Jobs

Afro-American

11-17-34

(AFRO Bureau)

PHILADELPHIA. — That the $5,000 political plum now held by Robert J. Nelson, boxing commissioner, will land in the lap of Joseph R. Rainey, local newspaper man, former sports writer, and director of the Democratic campaign among colored people in the eastern part of the state, is regarded as almost a certainty.

The AFRO-AMERICAN learned from authoritative sources Monday that Mr. Rainey's name was at the top of the list of those being considered for the place.

Only $5,000 Job

The post of boxing commissioner is the only $5,000 state job held by a colored citizen in Pennsylvania. Mr. Nelson, who held the appointment under the Republican administration, is expected to relinquish the post as soon as the shakeup which is expected to replace some 20,000 Republican jobholders with good and faithful Democrats, begins.

At the climax of his campaign, Governor-elect George H. Earle stated to a big audience that he would see that colored citizens get their share of state jobs, pointing out that their voting population basis entitled them to some 1,450 positions.

Leaders are inclined to believe that the newly elected governor will go as far as possible in keeping that promise.

Many Rumors Out

Some doubt, however, is expressed that City Committee Chairman John B. Kelly will be inclined to pass this $5,000 boxing commission plum to any colored man. This opinion expressed even by some Democratic leaders, is based on the meagre consideration Mr. Kelly gave to some of the chief workers in the campaign preceding this last one.

It is known, however, that powerful influences in the party are favorable to the appointment of Mr. Rainey to the boxing commission and that his appointment is almost a certainty.

Analysis of the election returns also point to the fact that the Democrats could not have won in 7 for B of P I of 1 E Dept Pa.

Political - 1934

Office Holding.

South Carolina

Long Service With Government

Palmetto Leader

William W. Cooke, Engineer Now With Government Located In Wisconsin.

2-17-34

Editor of The Palmetto Leader:

We are sure that the readers of your excellent paper will be interested in a brief recital of the brilliant career of a young man who has distinguished himself as a Government Construction Engineer.

Columbia

W. Wilson Cooke, son of Hon. Wilson Cooke, of Greenville, was educated at Claflin College and after his graduation he was employed as Superintendent of the Department of Manual Training in the same institution. Personally he specialized in Architectural Drawing and Building. Among his first efforts he constructed several buildings in Orangeburg, including "Dunwalton" the first bungalow erected in Orangeburg.

Mr. Cooke married the accomplished daughter of the Hon. T. E. Miller, formerly president of the State A. & M. College of Orangeburg. They have two children, one a teacher in Spelman Seminary, Atlanta, and a son a student in the Wisconsin university.

W. Wilson Cooke, government construction engineer, has been in the government service since 1907.

He was appointed as an architectural designer in the treasury department, Washington, D. C. during the administration of President Theodore Roosevelt, and two years later was assigned to do field work in Marietta, Ohio where he had supervision of the construction of a federal building He also supervised other jobs in Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin and West Virginia. He was supervising engineer on thirty buildings having a value of $6,000,000.

In 1918, when government building dropped down to a low point he went out of the treasury department's building service, but was assigned by the war department to service in Ohio, where he was a director of vocational training for overseas army contingents. His courses consisted of eight weeks of intensive training during which the soldiers were given training similar to that provided in the colleges and universities.

After the war, Mr. Cooke was retained in the vocational education department of the government as counsellor for disabled veterans returning from overseas training them for a new life work. He continued in this work until 1920, when he resigned, and returned to his architectural practice in Gary, Ind.

When government building activities were resumed in 1929, Mr Cooke was called back into the service, and was assigned to such work as he is now doing. He has been in Wisconsin most of the time since then, having supervised construction of buildings in Appleton, Menasha, Ashland, S. Milwaukee, and Sheboygan, and on remodeling projects at Beaver Dam, Ishpeming, Marinette and Merrill. He also inspected sites and soils for a time, including the sites for government buildings in Waupun, Wisconsin Rapids and Fond du Lac.

L. M. DUNTON,
Orangeburg, S. C.

Political - 1934

Office Holding

Virginia

GETS STATE JOB

Defender

HOMER M. TAYLOR

A graduate of Purdue University, college of engineering, who has been appointed an engineer in the Road Commission of West Virginia. Mr. Taylor's appointment, the first of its kind in this state, was announced this week.

C. 30-34

E.R.D.

Political - 1934
Office Holding.

West Virginia

Kump, Chambers, Bailey, Moore Back 'New Deal' For Race

Courier 6-16-34 Pittsburgh Pa.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 14—With amazing finesse the Democratic party in West Virginia again demonstrated its attitude toward the Negro, when it appointed Dr. Eugene L. Youngue, prominent physician of Welch, to the Welch Emergency Hospital. Like a clap of thunder, the announcement of his appointment hit the State as another milestone in the Negro's advancement. For almost a quarter of a century Negroes have sought, in vain, to secure a physician at the Welch Emergency Hospital, where miners and the citizens of Southern West Virginia are treated, and where one-third of the patients are Negroes .

Not only was the appointment of Dr. Youngue secured at the hands of the Democratic party, but also along with it, Governor Kump announced that four Negro nurses are to be appointed at the hospital. This hospital is a unit among a chain of State-supported hospitals in West Virginia.

The bold stroke was engineered by Secretary James A. Chambers of the Board of Control, while in the background stood Ernest L. Bailey, road commissioner of West Virginia, who took a wide interest in the move. Charles Benjamin Moore of Bluefield, assistant secretary of the Negro Democratic State Committee and personal friend of Dr. Youngue, was foremost among colored Democrats in seeking for Negroes of the State this representation.

According to reports, the appointment of Dr. Youngue was hailed by citizens throughout the State. This marks another new place where the Negro has found recognition in a new field in the State government.

Recently Frances Stephenson Ayres of Charleston was given a responsible post as an attache in the road department at the instance of Road Commissioner Bailey. She, like Dr. Youngue, is the first colored citizen so recognized.

Dr. Youngue is a graduate of the Leonard Medical School and has done post-graduate work at Howard University and was prominent in Republican politics, having served as chiarman of the speakers' bureau of the Republican party and chairman of the McDowell County Colored Republican Committee. The appointment marks the addition of another prominent citizen to the Democratic ranks.

Political-1934

Wisconsin.

Office Holding.

Dedicates Post Office

WILLIAM W. COOKE

COLORED ENGINEER DEDICATES POST OFFICE IN WIS.

Gary American

Sheboygan, Wis.—(Special to The Gary American)—William W. Cooke, government construction engineer, was recently chosen to dedicate the new post office here.

Mr. Cooke has been here in a supervisory capacity since the actual work on the building was started. He has been in the government service since 1907.

He was appointed as architectural designer in the treasury department, Washington, D. C., during the administration of President Roosevelt and two years later was assigned to do field work in Marietta, Ohio, where he had supervision of the construction of a federal building. He also supervised other jobs in Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois and West Virginia. He was the supervising engineer on thirty buildings having a value of $6,000,000.

In 1918 when goernment building dropped down to a low point, he went out of the treasury department building service, but was assigned by the war department to service in Ohio, where he was a director of vocational training for overseas army contingents. His courses consisted of eight weeks of intensive training during which the soldiers were given trainnig similar to that provided in the colleges and universities.

After the war, Mr. Cooke was attained in the vocational education department of the government as a counsellor for disabled veterans returning from overseas, training them for a new life work. He continued in this work until 1920, when he resigned and returned to his architectural practice in Gary, Indiana, where he was one of its most highly respected citizens and a leader in its political, civic and religious affairs.

When government building was resumed in 1929, Mr. Cooke was called back into service, and was assigned to such work as he is now doing. He has been in the state most of the time, having supervised construction of buildings in Appleton, Menasha, Ashland, South Milwaukee and Merrill. He also inspected sites and soils for a time, including the sites for government buildngs in Waupun, Wisconsin Rapids, and Fon Du Lac.

Political—1934 I

Alabama.

Suffrage

Democrats Exercise J.C. in Alabama Primaries

Afro-American

MONTGOMERY, Ala., 5-26-34—(ANP)—Attempts on the part of colored people to vote in the Democratic primary met with blank refusal, last week.

ALABAMA DEMOCRATS EXCLUDE NEGRO LEADERS FROM VOTING IN PARTY PRIMARY

President H. C. Trenholm of State Teachers College Among Number Found "Unqualified," Court test May Follow

Montgomery, Ala., (ANP)—Several of the most prominent colored citizens of Montgomery were refused the opportunity to vote in the Democratic primary here this week. Among those denied the right to exercise their franchise, were President H. C. Trenholm of the Alabama State Teachers College, Morris Smith, a leading undertaker as well as several members of the Montgomery Civic League, the most important organization in the community at this time. Sentiment is in favor of bringing a test case in the courts to force the Democratic party to permit Negroes to vote in its primary.

The Negro question was openly flaunted as an issue in the primary, one of the candidates for governor praising the child labor law if it could be made to apply to white alone, while attorney general Knight of Scottsboro fame ran for Lt. Governor. Observers are certain however that the same cheap demaggic methods through which appeals were made to the ignorant white electorate, would have been tempered to suit the occasion if Negroes here had freedom to vote and really exercised thier power.

Appreciation is being expressed because of the stand taken by President Trenholm. The appropriations for the school which he heads must come through the Democrats of this capital of the confederacy, Jefferson Davis' old home being located scarcely two blocks from the college grounds. Trenholm dared however to ask for a ballot. In some sections of Alabama a few Negroes are permitted to vote. In Tuskegee for example, there are a number of registered voters who vote as democrats.

Vote-Buying Charges In Montgomery County

Before and since the May 1 primary there have been reports of vote-buying in Montgomery County. It has been charged that there was wholesale trafficking in absentee ballots. And the fact that there was an unprecedentedly large absentee vote in Montgomery County in the May 1 primary is, to say the least, a suspicious circumstance. The absentee vote was several times as large as it has ever been before. There were far more absentee ballots cast in Montgomery County than there were in Jefferson County, which has several times as many voters.

Some voters, it is charged, were paid to apply for and vote absentee ballots when there was no reason for them to cast an absentee vote—that is to say, when they were not in fact absent from the county on the day of the election. The reason why anyone who wished to buy votes would deal in absentee ballots is, of course, obvious. An absentee ballot is turned in before election day; it is not marked at a polling place, and the buyer can easily make certain that the vote he bought is marked in the way the voter was paid to mark it.

Birmingham Ala. Herald 5-24-34

The Montgomery County Grand Jury took notice of the charges of vote-buying and ordered the absentee ballots cast in the first primary impounded. On June 18, six days after the second primary, the Grand Jury will reconvene to investigate the charges of ballot box corruption.

Since the Grand Jury ordered the absentee ballots impounded pending its reconvening, there have been further developments concerning vote-buying in Montgomery County. Last week two men were arrested in Montgomery charged with the misdemeanor of buying absentee ballots in connection with the second primary.

The Montgomery Advertiser, in a strong editorial entitled "Ballot Box Corruption and the Well Springs of Liberty," says that these arrests serve "to enforce the popular conviction that the Montgomery County Grand Jury, recently in session, acted bravely and in the best tradition of good citizenship when it caused the absentee ballots cast in the first primary to be impounded." The Advertiser thinks it regrettable that the Grand Jury at its first session did not go immediately into an investigation of the reports of vote-buying; but it can understand that the Grand Jury desired to clear up other necessary work and that it "desired especially to keep itself clear of suspicion of partisan motives in undertaking such a delicate inquiry."

The Advertiser voices its confidence in the integrity and patriotism of the present Grand Jury and its belief that on June 18 the grand jurors will approach their task of looking into charges of corruption "without fear or favor."

"In the circumstances," it says, "naturally the Grand Jury will feel that it is itself on trial and is honor-bound to give the best that is in its heart and brain to clearing the thick atmosphere that has lately fallen over this county, and brought its historic good name into ill repute."

The Advertiser proceeds with a vigorous denunciation of the evils of ballot box corruption and a warning of what it portends:

> No other moral issue is comparable in significance to the public to that of corruption of the ballot box.
>
> Who sells his vote sells his country!
>
> Who buys an office will sell it for one consideration or another!
>
> Vote-buying and vote-selling constitute a challenge to every citizen who loves his dignity and freedom.
>
> In a democracy all that stands between the citizen and tyranny is the ballot.
>
> Corrupt the ballot, make it the pawn of the highest bidder, and thereafter the only protection that the hearthstone can seek is in physical force.
>
> If by the improper use of insensate money the conscience and the intelligence of this republic can be chloroformed and so neutralized, then but two alternatives remain to the citizen—the mercy of God on the one hand, or the great American shotgun on the other.
>
> Corruption in politics in this republic must be stamped out, or upon some fair and early tomorrow we shall have scenes in our country such as we have lately witnessed in the lovely city of Havana and other playgrounds in Latin America.
>
> Let the Grand Jury of Montgomery County, let the Grand Juries of all the 67 counties in Alabama beware! Let them go instantly to the attack upon a vice which, if unchecked, will yet poison the well-springs of our national life, degrade our citizens and wreck our civilization!

Finally, The Advertiser thinks that when the next Legislature convenes, it should revise our election laws by abolishing absentee voting outright, and by modifying the penalty for vote-selling. With regard to the latter, it should be easier to obtain convictions if the penalty is modified. The Montgomery paper suggests that a vote-seller should be disfranchised rather than fined. "Put the political bar sinister on him for life!" Of course, the penalty upon the vote-buyer should be more severe.

The question of abolishing absentee voting outright is debatable. Undoubtedly, under the present system, absentee voting is open to abuse. But absentee voting, properly conducted and adequately safeguarded, is a useful and a desirable thing, especially under present-day conditions when business affairs so frequently take voters away from home on election days. It should be possible to devise a solution to the problem through more stringent regulation of absentee voting.

"Only a baby," The Advertiser concludes, "can doubt that in a time of misery such as this a high percentage of the voters of Alabama can be and are bought for cash over the counter.

"The first concern of government should be to purge the source of its power so that government itself may be put above suspicions of vice and corruption."

The Advertiser is unquestionably right in thinking that some revision should be made in Alabama's election laws to make ballot box corruption more difficult and punishment of offenders more certain. The next Legislature should go into this subject carefully.

In the meantime, wherever corruption of the ballot box is suspected in Alabama, the law should act promptly and vigorously. The Montgomery County Grand Jury should make a thorough investigation of the charges in that county, and if there are any other counties in the state where there is reason to believe vote-buying or other corrupt practices have taken place, similar action should be forthcoming.

THE ALABAMA PRIMARY.

One result of the Alabama primary on Tuesday has a national interest. Judge JAMES E. HORTON of Athens, circuit judge for the Eighth district, was beaten as a candidate for renomination. In June of last year he was respected and admired by the country in general. Amid the local passion about the trial of the Scottsboro Negroes his dignity, calmness and impartiality were constant. His opinion setting aside the verdict of guilty against HAYWOOD PATTERSON as contrary to the weight of evidence was so lucid and cogent as to increase the high regard which he had already won.

His moral courage was worthy of his intellectual power. He knew what the consequences were likely to be. The air was full of threats to get even with him for doing his duty. At first he decided to leave the bench at the end of his present term. The bar association of Athens urged him to run again. It was hoped, rather than expected, that he would be renominated. He was beaten by voters who set prejudice and hate above reason and justice. Defeat for such causes is but another testimonial of honor.

Dear to sociologists and collectors, BIBB GRAVES turns up again, and his great name conquers. Governor from '27 to '31, he was of the straitest sect of prohibitionists. He venerated and was venerated by the hooded pontiffs of the K. K. K. In those glorious days that noble order was the government. It flogged everybody displeasing to its refined moral sense. In one Legislature BIBB prevented the passage of bills forbidding the Klansmen to wear their hoods in public. Later he threatened to scrimp the funds which the State Attorney General needed to lay the floggers by the heels. Hear an echo from that sweet time. The Grand Dragon writes to a smaller bigwig, believed to be an Exalted Cyclops, his confidence that the Governor "will lend "us his full cooperation in the future "as he has so nobly done in the past."

The Klan is done for. The noble cooperator won in the "run-off" Tuesday, and will be the next Governor—the first Governor in nearly a generation to get a second term. Such is the power of merit. BIBB is going to bring back "peace and prosperity" to Alabama. Proud and happy Alabama!

New York Times

JUN 15 1934

THE ALABAMA PRIMARY.

One result of the Alabama primary on Tuesday has a national interest. Judge JAMES E. HORTON of Athens, circuit judge for the Eighth district, was beaten as a candidate for renomination. In June of last year he was respected and admired by the country in general. Amid the local passion about the trial of the Scottsboro Negroes his dignity, calmness and impartiality were constant. His opinion setting aside the verdict of guilty against HAYWOOD PATTERSON as contrary to the weight of evidence was so lucid and cogent as to increase the high regard which he had already won.

His moral courage was worthy of his intellectual power. He knew what the consequences were likely to be. The air was full of threats to get even with him for doing his duty. At first he decided to leave the bench at the end of his present term. The bar association of Athens urged him to run again. It was hoped, rather than expected, that he would be renominated. He was beaten by voters who set prejudice and hate above reason and justice. Defeat for such causes is but another testimonial of honor.

Dear to sociologists and collectors, BIBB GRAVES turns up again, and his great name conquers. Governor from '27 to '31, he was of the straitest sect of prohibitionists. He venerated and was venerated by the hooded pontiffs of the K. K. K. In those glorious days that noble order was the government. It flogged everybody displeasing to its refined moral sense. In one Legislature BIBB prevented the passage of bills forbidding the Klansmen to wear their hoods in public. Later he threatened to scrimp the funds which the State Attorney General needed to lay the floggers by the heels. Hear an echo from that sweet time. The Grand Dragon writes to a smaller bigwig, believed to be an Exalted Cyclops, his confidence that the Governor "will lend "us his full cooperation in the future "as he has so nobly done in the past."

The Klan is done for. The noble cooperator won in the "run-off" Tuesday, and will be the next Governor—the first Governor in nearly a generation to get a second term. Such is the power of merit. BIBB is going to bring back "peace and prosperity" to Alabama. Proud and happy Alabama!

A Terrific Indictment Of Our Voting System

The Montgomery County Grand Jury has just completed its investigation into charges of election frauds in that county in the two recent primaries. These charges consisted principally of allegations of irregularities in absentee voting. In short, it was charged that in the primaries in Montgomery County absentee ballots were bought, paid for and delivered on a wholesale scale.

The Grand Jury is convinced that these charges are true. Unfortunately, however, it says in its report that owing to the secrecy with which ballot-buying was conducted it was virtually impossible to obtain sufficient evidence to warrant indictments in most cases. In a few instances the Grand Jury did return indictments—there were 10 in all.

But if the Grand Jury was short on indictments for violations of the election laws, its report brings a terrific indictment against the voting system in Alabama which makes possible such trafficking in absentee ballots. The Grand Jury was so strongly convinced of the evils which grow out of absentee voting that it urged repeal of the absentee ballot law.

Scoring the "laxity and looseness" of the whole election system, and branding the absentee ballot in particular as a "shame and a disgrace," the Grand Jury says in its report to Judge Walter B. Jones:

> We have been in continuous session, hearing testimony in these cases, and have indicted where the evidence warranted indictments. The Grand Jury has been profoundly impressed with the laxity and looseness of our whole election system. The absentee ballot is a shame and a disgrace and is the source of nine-tenths of the fraud in this system. We urge and demand of the representatives of Montgomery County and the state that the absentee ballot law be instantly repealed. The number of absentee votes in this county is many hundreds more than is warranted, or than could have been honestly voted. Most of the absentee votes were voted by people who were in this county, but who made affidavits they would be out of the county on election day, without rhyme or reason, the sole purpose, as appears to this Grand Jury, being to achieve the monetary consideration by the voting of absentee ballots.
>
> The kind and character of witnesses which came before the Grand Jury in the majority of cases impressed the Grand Jury with the futility and uselessness of indicting or bringing in indictments on their testimony.
>
> The exigencies of the times favored buying and selling of votes and the absentee ballot law is such as to facilitate the greatest amount of fraud which cannot be detected and proved, as is necessary to obtain a conviction before a petit jury; and although it is perfectly apparent to us that vote-buying was engaged in almost publicly and openly in both primaries, the secrecy with which the actual transactions were handled renders well nigh impossible such a high degree of evidence as would insure petit jury conviction.

The Grand Jury's report, after regretting the inability to return more true bills in the vote-buying scandal, rebukes by implication the failure of citizens and candidates to cooperate in the investigation. "We had no report or outside aid," it says, "from any citizen or candidate interested in the purification of our election system, although your honor in his charge had called upon the citizenry to bring before us any information they possessed."

The alleged buying of absentee ballots is not the only kind of election irregularities to draw the condemnation of the Montgomery County body. It strikes also at the lavish expenditure of money in the recent primaries and at the system of registering voters in Montgomery County. With respect to the latter, the Grand Jury found that names are permitted to stay on the poll list in instances where the voters are dead or have been out of the county 10 years or longer. Concerning the expenditure of money, its report says: "That there was a very large amount of money expended and that those directly in charge of its disbursement were not of financial ability to have furnished the money, it seems clear to us from the testimony we have heard; but we have not felt the testimony sufficient to connect the real source of the financing of this vote-buying campaign."

While the names of the few persons who were indicted were not revealed, evidently they include some notaries suspected of having signed absentee ballots in wholesale fashion. Although the Grand Jury did not deem it wise to indict "all these people who were notarizing absentee ballots," its report says on that subject:

"In both primaries, from the evidence which appeared before the Grand Jury, numerous persons who were interested in the results of the election, clothed with notarial powers, were busily engaged in securing votes for the candidates they were interested in and notarizing ballots without even knowing the voter to whose signature they attested. In many instances, from the testimony offered, these notaries never even saw the voters at all, but the ballot was delivered to them in some manner, either signed or unsigned, and the necessary work was done to make it a countable vote."

The report of this Grand Jury is not of interest to Montgomery County alone. The conditions and practices which it describes are of concern to every county in the state. That would be true even if Montgomery County were the only one in the state where such election irregularities existed; for the election results in that county, one of the largest in the state, have an important bearing on the outcome of races in which the whole state is interested. Besides, even if that were not the case, the people of the state as a whole should properly be indignant over ballot-box corruption anywhere in Alabama.

But can other counties in the state point the finger of scorn at Montgomery? If conditions such as those described by the Grand Jury exist in that county, how many other counties can be assured that similar practices do not obtain within their own borders? The belief is widely prevalent, at any rate, that there are abuses in absentee voting throughout the state. Also it is generally thought that the expenditure of money in campaigns is too lavish in all parts of the state. And certainly everyone knows that the criticism directed against the registration system in Montgomery County—the leaving of names of deceased or removed voters on the poll lists—can be applied to almost every county in Alabama.

Political - 1934 II

Suffrage.

Alabama.

Clearly, there is need for purifying our election system. And manifestly the phase of it which chiefly demands attention is the absentee ballot law. The News would not go so far as to join with the Montgomery County Grand Jury in recommending repeal of that law. Absentee voting is a useful and proper device, if it is conducted with strict legality and honesty. Cannot the absentee ballot law be strengthened and the system surrounded with safeguards so as to eliminate the evils complained of? That should be possible.

This question and others relating to the purity of our election system should have the attention of the next Legislature.

Democrat[illegible] To Keep Ot[illegible] Out Of Primary

Legislation To Be Initiated Requiring Voter To Tell Party When Registering

Aimed At Abuses

Would Nullify Republican Balance Of Power And Keep Party Lines Taut

By ATTICUS MULLIN

A method by which Democrats will vote in Democratic primaries and Republicans in Republican primaries will be presented to the legislature next January in the form of a bill further regulating the primary system of the State.

The bill is now being worked out and will probably be discussed by the new Alabama Democratic Executive Committee when it meets early in January next year prior to the convention of the legislature.

The system that will be proposed in Alabama is modeled along the lines of the system in vogue in several States and provides for registration prior to a primary wherein a voter will have to say whether he or she will take part in the Democratic primary or in the Republican primary. If the voter desires to take part in the Democratic primary, the voter will so declare in the registration and cannot vote in a primary of any other party in the same year.

To Correct Old Abuse

The purpose of the measure is to have a declaration beforehand from voters as to their party preference and inclinations. This will prevent a recurrence of what has happened in many Alabama Democratic primaries wherein Republicans have gone into the primaries holding the balance of power as between Democratic candidates and by their combined vote have nominated a Democrat for public office in a Democratic primary.

There are approximately 45,000 Republicans normally in Alabama. There have been times when the Republican vote exceeded this figure but certainly there are not more than 50,000 regular Republicans in Alabama. In many past campaigns these Republicans have gone into Democratic primaries by approximately 70 per cent and they usually vote as a unit and determine the results in a race between Democratic candidates for public office.

Little Extra Expense

The registration machinery which will be included in the bill is being worked out. It is regarded as an easy problem to solve with little if any additional expense to the State. Certain county officials may be selected to hold the registration. This of course, will not interfere with the present system of county registrars who determine whether applicants for the voting privilege are entitled to it.

It is stated that measure is not aimed to correct anything that might have happened in the recent Democratic primary. Republicans went into that primary as they have always done. But the idea is to correct a situation which has proved detrimental t. the Democratic party in Alabama for several decades. Other States have solved the same problem as between the various parties.

And while the measure to require party preference through registration is being drawn, several bills will go into the legislative hopper designed to correct the abuses of the absentee voting system. It is said that Montgomery County is not the only guilty county insofar as crooked practices regarding the corraling of absentee votes are concerned. Several other counties had absentee ballot frauds in the last primary, especially the May 1 primary. Several of the bills will be designed to throw further safeguards around absentee voting while at least one bill will be introduced to abolish absentee voting altogether.

Considerable legislation will be considered at the next legislative session regarding Alabama's primary election laws. Sufficient experience has been had with these laws now to determine the weak spots and it is expected that the next legislature will plug them up.

Grand Jury Is Sifting Alleged DeKalb Countu Vote Frauds

FORT PAYNE, ALA., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Crowds, keyed to a high pitch over the closeness of election results in DeKalb County, this afternoon thronged the streets and courthouse here as Judge A. E. Hawkins charged a hurriedly summoned Grand Jury to investigate alleged widespread violation of election laws.

Both Democrats and Republicans claimed the victory in yesterday's election, the result of which may hinge on uncounted absentee ballots. The county administration now is largely Republican, but Democrats claim at least a 75-vote majority for their ticket when the absentee ballots are counted.

Judge Hawkins, in charging the Grand Jury, ordered that a probe of "every violation of every description be made" and to remain in session until the matter was thoroughly investigated.

"Every kind of violation of election laws possible was reported to me," Judge Hawkins said, in discussing his quick call for the Grand Jury.

"Men and women not on the legal lists, but who appeared at the polls to vote and made the proper affidavit, were denied the privilege," Judge Hawkins said. "I have a report that some of the ballot boxes were opened after the count was made and certified, and the results changed."

A mandamus was granted yesterday to force election officials in some boxes to count the challenged votes, Judge Hawkins said, and added that officials also had refused to count the absentee ballots.

For years DeKalb County has been closely divided between the two parties, but, in county elections, the Republicans usually have been successful.

Democrats this year made an intensive drive, with party leaders coming into the county to speak in behalf of both State and county tickets. The campaign was one of the warmest in many years, as Democratic forces with the outside aid scented victory and pushed their drive all possible.

Sheriff Pope this afternoon, when asked if he anticipated trouble, said, "Well we can't tell about that, but we hope not."

The sheriff also denied reports sent outside that calling out the National Guard was anticipated.

The streets of Fort Payne, located in Wills Valley between Sand and Lookout mountains, were crowded, with E. O Davidson, editor of a weekly newspaper here, estimating 3,000 persons from outside the town were gathered here.

Groups of factionalists congregated and discussed the situation and steps that might be taken to assure their party victory, but while frequently talk was heated, there had been no violence.

It was in this county, that former Senator J. Thomas Heflin charged after the Democratic primary on May 1, he had been counted out in his attempted political comeback as a candidate for Congress from the Fifth District. Former Senator Heflin received less than 10 per cent of the votes cast in this county in the primary.

Alabama

Political-1934

Suffrage

Poll Tax Paying Drive Urged To Remind Voters

Advertiser

The suggestion was offered yesterday at the courthouse that some civic organization of the city sponsor a poll tax paying campaign for the next few weeks.

Hundreds of voters, it was learned at the office of R. C. Phelps, tax collector, have not paid their 1934 voting privilege tax. Again Collector Phelps warned them that Feb. 1 is the last day his office can receive the tax to qualify electors for this year's primaries and election.

M'CORD ADVOCATES NEW POLL TAX LAW

Would Find Means To Return Vote To Citizens Who Cannot Pay

SCOTTSBORO, ALA., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Changes in poll tax laws to facilitate voting by qualified citizens and a curb on legislative lobbyists were declared necessary today by Judge Leon McCord of Montgomery in an address in behalf of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Judge McCord called attention to omission of mention of utilities in his platform announced a week ago and said that the United States Government now was engaged in this area in establishing "yardsticks" to show what rates utilities should be charged.

"When this law is promulgated," said the candidate, "and laid down by our government, I pledge to follow it absolutely in my administration."

The Montgomery jurist dwelt at length on various planks in his platform which he discussed at Athens last week, and then turning to the poll tax laws, he said:

"We must devise ways and means to make voters of 100,000 or more men and women who have been unable to pay back polltaxes.

"We can do this without changing our grandfather clause. We have been able to exempt ex-service men from paying poll tax. We also have brought the women of Alabama the right to vote without in anywise changing the constitutional provision relating to qualifications.

"We can devise a way to permit our delinquents, who are far behind in poll tax, to pay up two years and thus make the election speak the will of the entire people. Moreover this will mean a new fund to the public schools of over $150,000 per year."

Judge McCord spoke of his years of service on the Circuit Court bench and said he would seek to revise laws to permit more expeditious handling of the dockets.

"One of the ills that has so much beset poverty and weakness," said Judge McCord, "is exorbitant interest. Men and women all over Alabama have lost their homes because of exorbitant interest and exorbitant taxes.

"Those who enter the next administration, must resolve that the weak and the poor shall not be destroyed by interest which measures above that provided by our laws.

"At this time, I desire to strike with all the force I possess at the organized lobbyists who frequent the capital when our Legislature meets.

"Every lobbyist who comes to the Legislature must be required to state in writing whom he represents. The will of the people has been thwarted time after time by paid lobbyists who have bartered away their government.

"We must stamp this out in Alabama. Lobbyists must be kept off the floor of the Legislature."

Only Four Days Left For Paying Poll Taxes

Only four days remain in which to pay poll taxes. The deadline is Feb. 1. Reports from over Alabama are that poll tax payments have been coming in rather briskly in most places, but there are many thousands of citizens in Jefferson and in other counties of the state who have not yet paid.

This is an extremely important election year, and no citizen should allow himself to become ineligible to vote by failure to pay his poll tax. The fact that all poll tax revenue goes to the support of education should be an added inducement to pay, for the schools have a desperate need for the money this year.

For the convenience of Birmingham citizens, and to relieve the rush of the last few days at the courthouse, poll tax booths have been set up at several points in the city. If you have not yet paid your poll tax, go to one of the booths or to the courthouse between now and Thursday and discharge this important part of your civic responsibility.

Board Deluged By New Voters

Advertiser

2-4-34

Unparalleled Registration In Montgomery County; Last Opportunity Today

Smashing previous registration marks, the Montgomery County Board of Registrars yesterday added 280 names to the rolls of electors eligible to pay poll tax and vote in this year's primaries and general election. The board will complete its session at the courthouse today, and prospects are the rush will even be greater than yesterday's strenuous day.

Approximately 2,400 voters have registered here since the registrars opened their regular session last Fall. The special 10-day term ending today found greater crowds before the board.

Only a small percentage of yesterday's applicants were young men and women coming 21 years of age before the November general election. The Attorney General recently held that such persons may register now and cast ballots in the Democratic primaries this Spring.

Today is also the last opportunity voters will have to pay their poll tax in order to take part in this year's elections. The office of R. C. Phelps, tax collector, was jammed yesterday with 11th hour voters. Extra clerical force was taken on to serve the several hundred customers.

Tomorrow's final checkup of poll tax receipts is expected to show that collections for the current year will show a marked increase over the preceding year.

Candidates for county offices and political observers in general are predicting the vote in the first primary on May 1 will break all voting records in this county. A great many estimate that more than 12,000 ballots will be cast in that hot contest.

NEW ALL-TIME PEAK FOR POLL TAX PAYMENTS

Advertiser

Collections For '33-34 Reach $417,682, Far Ahead Of '27-28 Total

SUM OF $18,778 IS PAID IN MONTGOMERY COUNTY

3-4-34

More money was paid out by Alabamians for poll tax during the 1933-34 period, and more people paid back poll tax than has ever before been recorded.

Total final figures on poll tax receipts for that period, made public yesterday by Comptroller J. H. Hard, Jr., show that they exceeded those for 1927-28—the previous all-time peak year—by $25,043. For 1933-34 total poll tax collections amounted to $417,682.50—a new record; compared with the total of $392,639.50 for 1927-28.

Advertiser

Oddly enough, the gain in revenues was shown for 1933-34 despite the fact that the grand total of 150,731 poll tax receipts issued for that period was less by 2,478 than the total for 1927-28. Total receipts recorded for back poll tax for 1933-34, of 58,416, exceeded those for the previous period by 16,269. Current year receipts for 1927-28 totalled 111,062; for 1933-34 the total was 92,315.

3-4-34

In Montgomery County during the 1933-34 period payments of poll tax totalled $18,778.50, compared with $19,204.50 for 1927-28. In Mobile County payments for 1933-34 totalled $15,873 compared with $12,520.50 for the previous period. In Jefferson 1933-34 poll tax revenues amounted to $43,242 compared with $47,464.50 in 1927-28.

While collections of this tax at the rate of $1.50 a year for each voter, for 1933-34, run into a huge total, these payments are not made by all voters in the State by any means. By constitutional amendment, all World War Veterans in Alabama are exempt from payment of poll tax. All citizens over 45 years of age are also exempt.

In connection with his announcement of total and comparative figures on poll tax collections for the two yearly periods indicated, Mr. Hard also made public the following interesting compilation, showing the number of poll tax receipts issued for the current year, and for back years, during 1933-34, by counties:

County:	Current Year	Back Year
Autauga	494	212
Baldwin	679	437
Barbour	741	800
Bibb	799	428
Blount	1307	599
Bullock	385	210
Butler	981	416
Calhoun	1774	909
Chambers	1148	1266
Cherokee	1200	497
Chilton	1228	1500
Choctaw	508	748
Clarke	867	935
Clay	1246	440
Cleburne	737	300
Coffee	998	539
Colbert	978	1256
Conecuh	750	574
Coosa	1104	434

Writer Believes Election Of Good Men Would Correct Law

Editor, The Post:

In regard to revising the poll tax laws of Alabama, it seems every time anyone down in Montgomery mentions paying two or three years back poll tax and voting, someone will shout "negro voters" and it scares the Black Belt senators and representatives so the subject is forgotten.

I believe if we will elect the right bunch this time we will repeal the two-year requirement law.

I would lots rather vote with the negro than be disfranchised with him, like we are now.

We have to compete with them in other things, such as labor, so why not at the polls?

While I don't believe many negroes would be interested in voting, those who did I believe would have sense enough to do the right thing with their votes and put them where they would do the most good.

I don't believe it would make them eager for social equality any more than some things that are happening to the negro of today. Until the working class of people get back their franchise they will never get out of the rut they are in today.

The politicians serve the ones who have the votes now. I don't believe we should ever send another lawyer down to Montgomery to make laws for the poor people.

I am for more voters and less lawyers for the legislature.

H. A. DOSS,
Kimberly, Ala.

Covington	1547	1069
Crenshaw	1272	475
Cullman	2647	1409
Dale	868	611
Dallas	1017	483
DeKalb	2598	3862
Elmore	1476	1348
Escambia	767	939
Etowah	2086	1144
Fayette	1328	450
Franklin	1526	1442
Geneva	966	805
Greene	263	252
Hale	573	248
Henry	597	441
Houston	1196	704
Jackson	1346	1288
Jefferson	12641	4544
Lamar	1073	580
Lauderdale	1474	717
Lawrence	897	594
Lee	783	593
Limestone	983	404
Lowndes	456	446
Macon	381	343
Madison	1843	1218
Marengo	602	700
Marion	1052	762
Marshall	1568	997
Mobile	4127	1894
Monroe	770	626
Montgomery	4180	2879
Morgan	1807	941
Perry	466	440
Pickens	631	247
Pike	1617	821
Randolph	1173	609
Russell	702	668
Shelby	1102	1027
St. Clair	1326	663
Sumter	445	299
Talladega	1946	692
Tallapoosa	1501	787
Tuscaloosa	2224	963
Walker	2623	1269
Washington	600	1062
Wilcox	499	188
Winston	776	773
Totals	92,315	58,416

Although the central states are not thought of as the "apple orchard" of the country, they produce 25 per cent of the apples grown in the United States.

Investigation of White Primary

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 23.—Resolutions scoring lynching and indorsing the Costigan-Wagner federal anti-lynching bill were adopted here at the closing sessions of the six-day meeting of the Woman's Missionary council, Methodist Episcopal church, South, on Monday, March 12.

The council voted also to have its members make a study of the so-called "white primaries" in their own communities in the various states to determine whether Negro people entitled to vote were being barred.

1,000 Women Present

Approximately 1,000 women, including delegates and visitors from all over the South, attended the council meeting.

After citing lynching figures and noting that only 12 persons have been convicted of participating in mob violence in 44 years, the lynching resolution declared:

"The weakness of the local courts in dealing with mobs, as shown in the above figures, inheres in their purely local character, giving little hope for delivering us from the terrible situation of mob violence and outlawry in which we find ourselves.

"Therefore, be it resolved that we, the members of the Woman's Missionary council, in annual session at Birmingham, Ala., March 7-12, 1934, do hereby give our indorsement to the Costigan-Wagner bill which seeks to stimulate local state governments to perform their duty in protecting life and property and which gives to the federal government the responsibility of apprehending and convicting persons guilty of mob murder in cases where local government has failed to perform its duty."

County's Longest Registration List Published Today

The longest list of voters ever registered in Montgomery County—18,000 of them—is published in this morning's Advertiser.

They fill 24 tabloid pages and approximately a page and a half additional, in the regular section. It will be the only official poll record published this year.

And while the longest list of voters in Montgomery's history was being prepared yesterday, the first batch of absentee ballots for the May 1 Democratic primary was being mailed out by Sheriff Stearns. More than 400 applications for ballots have been received from all parts of the country. Beginning yesterday, voters whose business will take them out of the county on election day may receive in person their ballots at the courthouse.

Mrs. Virginia B. Rangeley, who has charge of issuing absentee ballots, received nearly 75 applications Monday. For the first time in the annals of absentee voting, the ballots are being handled by the sheriff. Heretofore the Probate Judge has had charge of them. The new law provides that in elections where the Probate Judge is a candidate and has opposition the Sheriff shall issue the absentee ballots.

Voters have the rest of the month to return their ballots to Judge John B. Scott, chairman of the Montgomery County Democratic Executive Committee.

New Absentee Voting Record Set With 1,744 Ballots Issued

But Not Half Have Been Marked And Sent To County Chairman

Absentee voting in Montgomery County closed yesterday with a new record of 1,744 ballots delivered to voters who said they would be out of the county "in pursuit of business" on Tuesday. Only one time in the history of the absentee voter's law did the vote come within several hundred of the number of ballots delivered for the Democratic primary on May 1.

Mrs. Virginia B. Rangeley, who had charge of the ballots at the sheriff's office, said that if other applications were received through the mail before midnight they would be granted. Fifty-two voters received ballots yesterday, the last applicant entering the sheriff's office at 4:30 p.m., 30 minutes before closing time.

Less than 50 per cent of those receiving ballots had marked and returned them to Judge John B. Scott, chairman of the Montgomery County Democratic Executive Committee. Judge Scott announced late yesterday he had received 850 ballots which have been locked up in a safe deposit box at a local bank. All ballots must be in the chairman's possession before the polls open Tuesday morning.

The petition of Joseph R. Sellers for a mandamus to require Chairman Scott to surrender an absentee ballot which the voter claims he marked and sent to Scott several days ago will be heard by Judge Walter B. Jones at 10 a.m. today in Circuit Court. The petitioner sets forth that when applying and marking an absentee ballot he thought his business would take him out of the county on May 1. Since then, however, Sellers avers that his business plans have been changed and that he will be in the city on Tuesday.

Judge Scott declined to return the ballot when the demand was made on him by Sellers, explaining that he knew of now law by which he could give the voter back his ballot. Sellers is a voter in box four, Ward five.

The United States Court Grand Jury in session since Tuesday to continue its inquiry into complaints of fraudulent use of the mails in the obtaining and sending of absentee ballots and other violations, probably will report today, Hartwell Davis, assistant district attorney, said yesterday.

While the grand jury thus far has returned indictments against two road foremen employes of the Montgomery Board of Revenue, the outcome of the session this week was awaited after it had become known that two witnesses, allied with the Brown-Gunter faction, had appeared before the grand jury.

Political - 1934

Suffrage.

Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, ARK.
DEMOCRAT

JUN 26 1934

NEGRO SUFFRAGE.

While negro suffrage in the Democratic primaries in Texas will reach some kind of a showdown July 28, for the most part the matter has been left to the individual election judge to pass on, because most of the county committees have followed the example of the State Committee by sidestepping the question, The Texas Weekly says.

The Weekly condemns the committee, declaring that its action "is certainly not the ideal way to deal with a matter of this kind . . . for what is going to happen is that negroes will be permitted to vote by some election judges and they will be denied the right to vote by others."

Candidates assume that the majority of white voters of Texas are opposed to admitting negroes to the primaries, no matter what the Supreme Court of the United States or any other tribunal may say, the editor says, but he believes that if the committees felt that way about it, it should have acted under the law which makes it the duty of the commissioners to define the qualifications of voters in the primary.

The Dallas News comments on the issue, taking an enlightened view, to which the Weekly points. "So far as the negro voter is concerned," says the News, "there is no reason keeping him out of the Democratic party. He is part of Texas and his political strength may grow to such proportions as would make him a welcome participant in party effort. The intelligent and capable negro should vote and in Texas his ballot is wasted unless it is cast in a Democratic primary. . . . Common sense should tell the Democratic party that it is no longer necessary, as it was in the 70's, to maintain a strictly white man's party. Where black ignorance remains, it is chargeable to the failure of the white dominated school system. It would be a splendid deed for the Democratic party itself to assume responsibility for curing that condition wherever it is found."

Demagogues won't admit it but there are millions of negroes in the South as capable of passing judgment on governmental issues as an equal number of white voters. Some day that fact will be accepted by politicians, but today they appeal to race hatred, as they do to other human weaknesses, because they believe the average white voter hasn't risen high enough intellectually to surmount his emotions.

FAYETTEVILLE, ARK.
DEMOCRATE

JUL 7

NEGRO SUFFRAGE AND THE POLL TAX

While negro suffrage in the Democratic primaries in Texas will reach some kind of a showdown July 28, for the most part the matter has been left to the individual election judge to pass on, because most of the county committees have followed the example of the State Committee by sidestepping the question, The Texas Weekly says.

The Weekly condemns the committee, declaring that its action "is certainly not the ideal way to deal with a matter of this kind . . . for what is going to happen is that negroes will be permitted to vote by some election judges and they will be denied the right to vote by others."

The Arkansas Democrat, commenting on the same thing, says:

"Candidates assume that the majority of white voters of Texas are opposed to admitting negroes to the primaries, no matter what the Supreme Court of the United States or any other tribunal may say, the editor says, but he believes that if the committees felt that way about it, it should have acted under the law which makes it the duty of the commissioners to define the qualifications of voters in the primary."

The Dallas News comments on the issue, taking an enlightened view, to which the Weekly points. "So far as the negro vote is concerned," says the News, "there is no reason keeping him out of the Democratic party. He is part of Texas and his political strength may grow to such proportions as would make him a welcome participant in party effort. The intelligent and capable negro should vote and in Texas his ballot is wasted unless it is cast in a Democratic primary. . . Common sense should tell the Democratic party that it is no longer necessary, as it was in the 70's to maintain a strictly white man's party. Where black ignorance remains, it is chargeable to the failure of the white dominated school system. It would be a splendid deed for the Democratic party itself to assume responsibility for curing that condition wherever it is found."

The Arkansas Democrat continues:

"Demagogues won't admit it but there are millions of negroes in the South as capable of passing judgment on governmental issues as an equal number of white voters. Some day that fact will be accepted by politicians, but today they appeal to race hatred, as they do to other human weaknesses, because they believe that the average white voter hasn't risen high enough intellectually to surmount his emotions.

All of the above editorial comments are no doubt true. Still in states such as Mississippi and Louisiana where Negroes predominate, and in parts of Arkansas where they outnumber the white people three to one, a complete Negro ballot would mean Negro government.

This no doubt is the one reason why Arkansas has kept the poll-tax law, without which all Negroes over 21 could vote. Few of them, however, will pay a poll-tax. They would register free, if they could.

We have these things to consider:

With the present poll-tax law all kinds of corruption and charges of corruption can continue.

But to eliminate the poll-tax law and permit all persons to register free of charge multiplies the votes. In some States where it has been tried and where the Negro vote is in the majority, corruption has continued as it was found that the Negroes sold their votes to the highest bidder and sometimes in the big cities where checkups are difficult, to both sides.

This voting business is a problem.

Yet, without an honest electorate, there can be no true Democracy.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK.
GAZETTE

JUL 9 1934

Believes That Ballots Should Be Counted in Public.

To the Editor of the Gazette:

No reader of the Gazette enjoys the editorials and "From the People" better than the writer, and I have confidently looked for some one to rise as the Moses to lead us out of this wilderness of uncertain politics. You, Mr. Editor, in your issue of June 30, in my judgment, spoke the truth about the "King Fish," but the average voter, when he hears Mr. Long tell about what he is doing and is still trying to do, simply throws his hat in the air and shouts for "Huey Long." Why, because Mr. Long does do many things, that are real vote-getters. "You have just got to hand it to him," he is bright and brainy and you must be ready to weigh the good against the bad, to readily see that he is not trying to serve all the people for the good of the masses. After all this we have read about the uncertainty of putting our trust in the average politician, suppose we do like the old merchant told me years ago to do: 'Treat every man you deal with just like he was a damned rascal, until you find out that he is one." Now how will we apply this advice: In every township in Arkansas (and in every voting precinct in the United States, as to that matter) organize a voters' committee of loyal Democrats and select judges and two clerks, and have a ballot printed containing all names and matters to be voted upon, and print at the bottom this oath: "I, John Doe, solemnly swear (or affirm) that the above ballot is what I have today voted and deposited in the ballot box according to law, so help me God." So at some convenient place reasonably near the voting or polling place, have your judges and clerks duly selected and sworn and supplied with tally sheets together with these tickets of your own printing. "Openly and above board," and at the expense of our loyal Democrats or taxpayers. Every man who wants to see an honest open vote and fair count should be privileged to stand by and see the votes counted after they are cast, just as we did 40 years ago. We enacted the "Australian ballot system," so we could count out the Negro in about 30 river counties and at the same time made it also easy for "Ins" to count out the "Outs," you see. An the puffed-up voter whose word he law that makes it from having a fair election if this is honest man wants to be watched and thinks must be his bond will vote the the other kind need watching. Every loyal Democrat's ticket. But I predict voter goes to the polls on August 14 enough will vote this second ballot to the regular primary election, and votes ward off much chronic rascality. in the usual way and walks to the voting place of these loyal Democrats and makes out his ticket in exactly the same way and subscribes to the oath at the bottom. How could we be prevented

Distressed Farmer

Ola, Ark.

Political - 1934

Suffrage.

Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, ARK.
DEMOCRAT

JUN 26 1934

NEGRO SUFFRAGE.

While negro suffrage in the Democratic primaries in Texas will reach some kind of a showdown July 28, for the most part the matter has been left to the individual election judge to pass on, because most of the county committees have followed the example of the State Committee by sidestepping the question, The Texas Weekly says.

The Weekly condemns the committee, declaring that its action "is certainly not the ideal way to deal with a matter of this kind . . . for what is going to happen is that negroes will be permitted to vote by some election judges and they will be denied the right to vote by others."

Candidates assume that the majority of white voters of Texas are opposed to admitting negroes to the primaries, no matter what the Supreme Court of the United States or any other tribunal may say, the editor says, but he believes that if the committees felt that way about it, it should have acted under the law which makes it the duty of the commissioners to define the qualifications of voters in the primary.

The Dallas News comments on the issue, taking an enlightened view, to which the Weekly points. "So far as the negro voter is concerned," says the News, "there is no reason keeping him out of the Democratic party. He is part of Texas and his political strength may grow to such proportions as would make him a welcome participant in party effort. The intelligent and capable negro should vote and in Texas his ballot is wasted unless it is cast in a Democratic primary. . . . Common sense should tell the Democratic party that it is no longer necessary, as it was in the 70's, to maintain a strictly white man's party. Where black ignorance remains, it is chargeable to the failure of the white dominated school system. It would be a splendid deed for the Democratic party itself to assume responsibility for curing that condition wherever it is found."

Demagogues won't admit it but there are millions of negroes in the South as capable of passing judgment on governmental issues as an equal number of white voters. Some day that fact will be accepted by politicians, but today they appeal to race hatred, as they do to other human weaknesses, because they believe the average white voter hasn't risen high enough intellectually to surmount his emotions.

FAYETTEVILLE, ARK.
DEMOCRATE

JUL 7

NEGRO SUFFRAGE AND THE POLL TAX

While negro suffrage in the Democratic primaries in Texas will reach some kind of a showdown July 28, for the most part the matter has been left to the individual election judge to pass on, because most of the county committees have followed the example of the State Committee by sidestepping the question, The Texas Weekly says.

The Weekly condemns the committee, declaring that its action "is certainly not the ideal way to deal with a matter of this kind . . . for what is going to happen is that negroes will be permitted to vote by some election judges and they will be denied the right to vote by others."

The Arkansas Democrat, commenting on the same thing, says:

"Candidates assume that the majority of white voters of Texas are opposed to admitting negroes to the primaries, no matter what the Supreme Court of the United States or any other tribunal may say, the editor says, but he believes that if the committees felt that way about it, it should have acted under the law which makes it the duty of the commissioners to define the qualifications of voters in the primary."

The Dallas News comments on the issue, taking an enlightened view, to which the Weekly points. "So far as the negro vote is concerned," says the News, "there is no reason keeping him out of the Democratic party. He is part of Texas and his political strength may grow to such proportions as would make him a welcome participant in party effort. The intelligent and capable negro should vote and in Texas his ballot is wasted unless it is cast in a Democratic primary. . . . Common sense should tell the Democratic party that it is no longer necessary, as it was in the 70's to maintain a strictly white man's party. Where black ignorance remains, it is chargeable to the failure of the white dominated school system. It would be a splendid deed for the Democratic party itself to assume responsibility for curing that condition wherever it is found."

The Arkansas Democrat continues:

"Demagogues won't admit it but there are millions of negroes in the South as capable of passing judgment on governmental issues as an equal number of white voters. Some day that fact will be accepted by politicians, but today they appeal to race hatred, as they do to other human weaknesses, because they believe that the average white voter hasn't risen high enough intellectually to surmount his emotions.

All of the above editorial comments are no doubt true. Still in states such as Mississippi and Louisiana where Negroes predominate, and in parts of Arkansas where they outnumber the white people three to one, a complete Negro ballot would mean Negro government.

This no doubt is the one reason why Arkansas has kept the poll-tax law, without which all Negroes over 21 could vote. Few of them, however, will pay a poll-tax. They would register free, if they could.

We have these things to consider:

With the present poll-tax law all kinds of corruption and charges of corruption can continue.

But to eliminate the poll-tax law and permit all persons to register free of charge multiplies the votes. In some States where it has been tried and where the Negro vote is in the majority, corruption has continued as it was found that the Negroes sold their votes to the highest bidder and sometimes in the big cities where checkups are difficult, to both sides.

This voting business is a problem.

Yet, without an honest electorate, there can be no true Democracy.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK.
GAZETTE

JUL 9 1934

Believes That Ballots Should Be Counted in Public.

To the Editor of the Gazette:

No reader of the Gazette enjoys the editorials and "From the People" better than the writer, and I have confidently looked for some one to rise as the Moses to lead us out of this wilderness of uncertain politics. You, Mr. Editor, in your issue of June 30, in my judgment, spoke the truth about the "King Fish," but the average voter, when he hears Mr. Long tell about what he is doing and is still trying to do, simply throws his hat in the air and shouts for "Huey Long." Why, because Mr. Long does do many things, that are real vote-getters. "You have just got to hand it to him," he is bright and brainy and you must be ready to weigh the good against the bad, to readily see that he is not trying to serve all the people for the good of the masses. After all this we have read about the uncertainty of putting our trust in the average politician, suppose we do like the old merchant told me years ago to do: 'Treat every man you deal with just like he was a damned rascal, until you find out that he is one." Now how will we apply this advice: In every township in Arkansas (and in every voting precinct in the United States, as to that matter) organize a voters' committee of loyal Democrats and select judges and two clerks, and have a ballot printed containing all names and matters to be voted upon, and print at the bottom this oath: "I, John Doe, solemnly swear (or affirm) that the above ballot is what I have today voted and deposited in the ballot box according to law, so help me God." So at some convenient place reasonably near the voting or polling place, have your judges and clerks, duly selected and sworn and supplied with tally sheets together with these tickets of your own printing. "Openly and above board," and at the expense of our loyal Democrats or taxpayers. Every man who wants to see an honest open vote and fair count should be privileged to stand by and see the votes counted after they are cast, just as we did 40 years ago. We enacted the "Australian ballot system," so we could count out the Negro in about 30 river counties and at the same time made a law that makes it also easy for "Ins" to count out the "Outs," you see. An honest man wants to be watched and the other kind need watching. Every voter goes to the polls on August 14 the regular primary election, and votes in the usual way and walks to the voting place of these loyal Democrats and makes out his ticket in exactly the same way and subscribes to the oath at the bottom. How could we be prevented from having a fair election if this is followed? Of course the boodler and the boodler's bond will vote the ticket. But I predict enough will vote this second ballot to ward off much chronic rascality.

Distressed Farmer

Ola, Ark.

THE "GRAB" AMENDMENT

To The Commercial Appeal:

Proposed amendment No. 21 known as the "Grab" Amendment based on political selfishness, should be defeated by Arkansas voters Nov. 6. This measure provides four-year terms for all officials except congressmen and representatives to the Arkansas Legislature. If it is passed, people will have to contend with incompetent or unsatisfactory public officials four years instead of two.

Elections would be necessary every two years for electing congressmen and representatives. Men aspiring to these offices would have to pay the cost of the election in years when other officials were up for re-election. The cost of seeking legislative offices would be so high that persons of moderate means could not finance a race. Only men with adequate finance or financial support from selfish interests could be candidates. This would give privileged interests that pay candidates' expenses in some instances a chance to control the Legislature.

At the same time during such campaigns officials would be free to exert their influence to elect men to Congress and the Legislature who would be favorable to them in lawmaking bodies. Men most active in sponsoring this amendment are public officials who have been elected for two years and would benefit greatly by having their terms doubled.

Honorable Harve Thorn, author of the Amendment, has been making trips over the state for the purpose of organizing officials for an attempt to put over this amendment.

If passed, this act would have a tendency to cause laxity on the part of some officials who would not be up for re-election until the end of four years. People, voting for the larger number of officials only once in four years, would probably lose interest in county and state affairs to some extent.

Friend voter, when you take into consideration that the author of the proposed amendment is calling upon officials in our state, urging them to spend considerable money now to put over the four-year term amendment so that they will not have to spend money in a campaign two years from now, and to lend their influence to carry out a movement solely in their interest; that this amendment is meant to benefit only a few men and not the masses, you can easily understand that the movement has a selfish purpose and should be defeated by citizens of Arkansas.

RALPH UNDERHILL.
White County.

NEGROES CAST VOTES IN PRIMARY, CLAIM

Sheriff-elect Takes Stand in Parks-Kitchens Suit

HAMBURG, Ark., Dec. 21.—(AP)—J. E. Bearden, sheriff-elect of Hempstead County, testified here today that more than 60 negroes voted in the Stephens School precinct at the August 28 Democratic primary. Records showed about 30 poll tax receipts were issued in the precinct, but approximately 140 votes were polled.

Bearden took the stand today as the Ashley circuit court continued its inevstigation into irregularities in Hempstead County, where Congressman Tilman B. Parks, Democratic nominee, charged 540 votes were cast illegally for Wade Kitchens, Magnolia, who is contesting Parks' nomination.

Attorneys for Kitchens offered Sheriff John Wilson as a rebuttal witness, to establish that many of the names of voters might have been challenged erroneously because initials were signed instead of full names. Wilson said that unless there was some clerical error any person paying poyy taxes and having his name placed on the record was entitled to a poll tax receipt.

The sheriff said he was not certain as to the number of tax receipts issued before June 15, but estimated it at close to 4,000.

Subpoenas were issued today for Columbia County officials and they are expected to appear tomorrow. Witnesses from Nevada County who previously had been notified to appear tomorrow were ordered to report Dec. 31.

It was indicated today that the defense expected to finish by Jan. 5 and the case probably will be settled by Jan. 21, when the regular court term convenes.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK.
DEMOCRAT

DEC 21 1934

Negroes Voted In Hempstead, Witness Says

Officials Admit Names of 420 Voters Not on Poll Tax Lists.

Hamburg (AP)—The Ashley Circuit court investigation into alleged irregularities during the August 28 Democratic primary was extended to Columbia county Friday, and Nevada county witnesses had been summoned for Saturday.

The inquiry is underway in behalf of Congressman Tilman B Parks, whose nomination is being contested by Wade Kitchens, Magnolia. Parks filed counter charges to Kitchens' contest and offered a witness Thursday who testified that some 60 negroes were voted at the Stephens school precinct in Hempstead county.

Walter Powell, the witness, identified many of the negroes and said their names were taken from the register of voters in the August primary. He said he voted at Springhill because the ballots at Stephens became exhausted.

Parks challenged 540 votes which were cast for Kitchens in Hempstead county. Sheriff John Wilson, County Clerk Arthur C. Anderson, Tax Assessor J. W. Ridgill and the deputy assessor, Mrs. Will Omstead, said the names of approximately 420 voters were not found on copies of the county poll tax list.

The county's absentee ballots, which were disallowed by the County Democratic Central committee, were introduced and counted in the presence of the court. The count gave Parks 10 votes and Kitchens three, after six ballots were thrown out.

Negro Year Book

Suffrage

MONTEREY, CALIF.
HERALD

FEB 20 1934

Colored Voters Organize League

The colored voters of the Monterey peninsula met last night at the Carolina Chicken Shack and organized the Monterey Peninsula Colored Voters League.

After a round table discussion by those present the following officers were elected: Chas. Brown, president; C. Hughes, vice president; Fred Lewis, secretary, and L. C. Smith, treasurer.

Many important questions were discussed. The next meeting will be held Monday night at the same place. A great future is predicted for the betterment of colored citizens on the peninsula through the efforts of this league.

MONTEREY, CALIF.
HERALD

APR 9 1934

COLORED VOTERS TO CONVENE TONIGHT

The Monterey Peninsula Voters' League will hold its monthly business meeting at 8 o'clock tonight in the Carolina Chicken shack, Castroville highway. All colored voters are urged to attend. C. Brown is president and Mrs. Naomi Paul secretary of the league. Wellington Smith is chairman of publicity.

Force Vote Over Heads Of Leaders

Daily worker

Convention on Record to Oust Unions for Discrimination

10-6-34

By Bill Dunne

(Daily Worker Special Correspondent)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 5.—The Negro question surged into this session of the 54th annual convention of the A. F. of L. and shook the whole official set-up right to its heels. Three resolutions on the Negro question that precipitated the demonstration, amazing the entire officialdom and all observers, were reported out by the organization committee.

The rank and file A. F. of L. committee has introduced resolutions against the long-established discrimination against workers by many National and International unions affiliated to the A. F. of L. But the resolution on which the discussion hinged, is known as No. 141. The delegate body overruled the report of the organization committee on this resolution and forced its adoption.

This resolution called for the expulsion of all unions by the A. F. of L. Executive Council if they do not comply with the demand for the discontinuance of all discrimination against Negro workers.

The tremendous pressure on reformist Negro leaders by the mass campaign around the Scottsboro issue, the pressure resulting from tremendous popular support of such struggles as those of the Tuscaloosa sharecroppers and the militant battles of Negro metal miners in Alabama, all of which are recent enough to retain their influence among the rank and file from which many of these delegates come, compelled A. P. Randolph of the Sleeping Car Porters Union to arise and make what can only be called an eloquent and passionate speech in favor of resolution No. 141.

Resolution Carried

The reception given Randolph's speech by the delegate body was such that Hutchinson, head of the Carpenters Union was impelled, of course because he is engaged in a bitter official battle with the Building Trades Department leadership to speak in favor of this resolution.

By a viva voce vote the resolution carried. What the official decision in regard to its being carried will be remains in doubt.

But there can be no question that today for the first time in all of its fifty-three previous conventions the officialdom of the American Federation of Labor had to take the Negro question on the chin and it took the count.

The resolution of the rank and file opposition on the Negro question which took up the general question of discrimination resolved that the convention go on record calling for the elimination of clauses of constitutions of any affiliated unions of the A. F. of L. containing any suggestion of discrimination against Negro workers, and that all Jim-Crow locals be immediately merged with the existing locals to establish the closest unity of Negro and white workers, and be it further resolved, to rally the membership of organized labor against the provisions of the N.R.A. codes which discriminate against Negro workers, and for a struggle to establish equal pay for equal work and equal opportunity for any jobs for Negro workers, as well as to establish full equality for white workers in all other working conditions in the shop, and equal rights in the union, including the right to hold any office.

Perkins Speaks

Preceded by a laudatory introduction delivered by President Green, Frances Perkins, the greatest Secretary of Labor since William Nuckles Doak of the Hoover Cabinet, let herself go today in her speech to the A. F. of L. convention. Miss Perkins referred in her carefully cultivated liberal way to the present great test of strength by labor and capital with its great strike wave as a "transitional period." The Secretary of Labor, accompanied by her Assistant Ed. McGrady, the man who helped break the coal and shoe workers' strikes, assured the convention that the present strike wave was not of an unusual character, but that most of them were "susceptible of settlement by means of mediation and so forth."

In the face of all the facts reluctantly established in the Executive Council report and the official speeches of the A. F. of L. dynasty Miss Perkins assured the convention that total "employment and payrolls had increased" under the beneficent rule of our great President in the year elapsing since the Washington convention of the A. F. of L.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Connecticut.

HARTFORD, CONN
COURANT

FEB 9 1934

Negroes Confer With Mayor.

Alderman John H. Hurley of the Third Ward and a group of Negro residents of this ward conferred Thursday with Mayor Beach in regard to a proposal that recognition be given Negro voters of Hartford through appointment to a municipal commission or employment in some municipal department. No decision was reached on the matter.

Political - 1934

Delaware

Suffrage

STAR
WILMINGTON, DEL.

MAR 25 1934

Asks Negroes to Form Independent Units

Editor, Delmarva Star: I would like to know what progress our race leaders have made in their demands that the Republican party restore to General J. A. Ellison his past political powers if they want to be victorious November 6. I attended the meeting Friday, March 16, when this resolution was passed and wish to inform the public that I am highly interested in a change of leaders in my race. I think it would be best for our race to demand harmony in the ranks of the Republican party by ignoring the B. G. L. party-wreckers.

The voting population of this State is 54,000 citizens and 12,000 are Negroes, which shows as a race we have the balance of power. I appeal to the leaders of our race let us organize and sponsor an independent rally in some hall or church in this city urging citizens of our race from all parts of the State to be present and instruct the Republican party to restore to General J. A. Ellison his past political power in New Castle county or the 12,000 Negroes of this State will go on record as independent voters supporting party leaders and candidates that are interested in our race and clean government.

JOSEPH MATTHEWS.

March 24, 1934.

STAR
WILMINGTON, DEL.

MAY 13 1934

Colored Voters Lose by Board Revision

Editor, Delmarva Star: The colored voters cannot control large amounts of capital. Consequently they have been unable to make any headway against great combinations. Nevertheless, here is an opportunity, and if they wish to grasp it make ready now and prepare for the coming fall election by organization with one set of rules, applicable to all alike and without discrimination against any voter of our race.

Not so very long ago there was a political school opened for the instruction of women voters of the G. O. P. I would like to know if any of our race leaders attended, and are they ready to educate the women voters of our race in the principles of political science? Colored voters have it within their power to rise above any race prejudice just as other races are doing. Other races made a bitter fight for their political rights and gained the respect of their fellow citizens and embraced every opportunity to get on top in progressive influences and they succeeded.

Let us as a race start now as independents, and if epithets of the G. O. P. offer obstacles in the way of our progress, then as a race give battle. We belong to race entitled to respect, if we ourselves respect it. We have lost the personnel of the Board of Health by the B. G. L. political trading system. This political trading has been a death blow to the voters of our race and the G. O. P. Ten years of progressive recognition of our race has gone to the world's garbage heap all for the benefit of the B. G. L. faction of the G. O. P.

JOSEPH MATTHEWS.

May 7, 1934.

STAR
WILMINGTON, DEL.

MAY 20 1934

Blames Mayor for Negro Voters' Ousting

Editor, Delmarva Star: The incidents that have occurred during the past week in connection with the appointment of workers in the different sections of the Health Department is one more demonstration of the attitude of Mayor William H. Speer toward the colored voters of Wilmington. It is the last of a series of actions that have been un-Democratic and that will increase antagonism toward the party rather than provide additional votes and friends.

It is now fairly well known that the board that was appointed by the Mayor to conduct the affairs of the Department of Health has taken upon itself the power of acting, not according to the principles of the Democratic Party, but has given jobs in a manner contrary to the spirit of the party and the real Democrats of the city of Wilmington.

The colored voters of the city, who had expected some consideration from the men whom they helped to put in office, not only were entirely barred from the executive positions in the garbage department, but were entirely eliminated from jobs long held by them, such as foremen, truck drivers, etc. They were offered work known as bucket carriers and dumpers, which they refused and rightfully so. The results, now well known, have cast a bad reflection on the party. The mayor is chiefly at fault for what has happened, and indicates that he is following the advice and dictates of others than those who have the interests of the Democratic party at heart. His acts are a worse reflection on the party itself in this city and throughout the State.

Before the voters decide upon a candidate at the next Fall election it would be an excellent policy for them to listen to and follow the advice of Jack Hazzard and others who appreciate the allegiance of the voters regardless of color, race or creed.

J. HENRY LYONS

May 17, 1934.

WILMINGTON, DEL.
JOURNAL—EVERY EVENING

SEP 17 1934

Delaware Cautious in Acting On Constitutional Amendments

The nation remembers that on this day (September 17) 147 years ago, the Federal Constitutional Convention at Philadelphia completed its work and sent out to the Thirteen States for ratification "the greatest document ever struck off by the hand of man."

As that memorable day is recalled, it also is remembered that within three months after the Philadelphia convention Delaware became the first State of the Union by leading her sister-colonies in ratification.

But there is another story to be told. While Delaware made her decision in 1787 (the date was December 7 of that year) quickly and favorably, her subsequent legislatures were not so rapid in their approvals of Constitutional amendments. How and why Delaware declined to ratify almost half a dozen Federal Constitutional amendments is so far an uncorrelated chapter of her history. Perhaps, too, are lost the notations, explanations and details of the arguments pro and con that must have swayed the political ship of state.

Quick to Ratify

There did seem to be no hesitancy by Delaware in adopting the Constitution proper or the Bill of Rights which constitutes the first ten amendments, but after that, one finds the Legislatures of Delaware proceeding slowly, cautiously, most often on strictly party lines.

A hurried research does not reveal Delaware's action on the Eleventh Amendment, restricting the suing of States. She may have ratified it.

But it is known that Delaware did not ratify the Twelfth Amendment, prescribing the manner of choosing a President and Vice-President. She also rejected the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments — the Reconstruction amendments— although years later, the action was rescinded and on February 12, 1901, as if in tribute to Abraham Lincoln, her Legislature ratified the three amendments that abolished slavery, made Negroes citizens and guaranteed their rights of citizenship.

The Seventeenth Amendment of 1913, whereby United States senators are elected by direct popluar vote did not receive the ratification of Delaware.

The Fifteenth Amendment of 1920, giving women suffrage, was rejected June 2, 1920.

The proposed child labor amendment, still hanging fire, not having been ratified by the required number of States, also was rejected by Delaware, along with 25 other States.

Reconstruction Amendments

It is the three Reconstruction Era amendments which Delaware turned down, only to accept in later years, that form the more interesting phase of Delaware's rejection of Constitutional amendments.

The Thirteenth Amendment was submitted to the States in 1865, providing for the abolition of slavery. Governor William Cannon in February of that year, submitted it to the Delaware Legislature for ratifiation, with the hope that such a step would make "Delaware a Free State." But the Legislature turned a deaf ear and resolved that the Thirteenth Amendment was "violative of the reserved rights of the several States." This, then, was the curious situation in a border State that fought for the preservation of the Union but rejected the slavery abolition amendent.

The year after the Thirteenth, came the Fourteenth Amendment, providing the Negroes with citizenship. It also demanded that no person shall be a Senator or Representative in Congress or elector of President or hold any civil or military position under the United States or under any State who had previously taken oath of Federal or State public office and shall have engaged in a rebellion against or aided enemies of the nation and State.

Governor Gove Saulsbury was unqualifiedly heeded by the Delaware Legislature in 1866, when he said he hoped the Legislature of no southern or border State will be found "wanting in self-respect as to hestitate to reject a proposition so unworthy of consideration."

Equal Suffrage Rejected

Then came the Fifteenth Amendment to guarantee equal right of suffrage for white or black citizens. The Delaware General Assembly of 1869 rejected this, too, on the ground that it would foster and excite a bitterness and unkind relations between the citizens of the different sections of the country and would delay the restoration of amicable feelings between the States.

If it had been successful, no citizen of the United States could have accepted or retained any title of nobility or title of a foreign nation, or could have, without consent of Congress, accepted any present, pension, office, or emolument of any kind from any emperor, king, prince or foreign power.

"The inability to amend the Constitution to suit every notion of the day seemed a great blessing"

It is interesting to note that since the first Congress, there have been more than 2,000 proposed amendments to the Constitution. One of them, proposed in 1810, was ratified by Delaware, on February 2, 1811. But the amendment died.

English historian, who remarked of the American Constitution:

Suffrage

STAR
WILMINGTON, DEL.

MAR 25 1934

Asks Negroes to Form Independent Units

Editor, Delmarva Star: I would like to know what progress our race leaders have made in their demands that the Republican party restore to General J. A. Ellison his past political powers if they want to be victorious November 6. I attended the meeting Friday, March 16, when this resolution was passed and wish to inform the public that I am highly interested in a change of leaders in my race. I think it would be best for our race to demand harmony in the ranks of the Republican party by ignoring the B. G. L. party-wreckers.

The voting population of this State is 54,000 citizens and 12,000 are Negroes, which shows as a race we have the balance of power. I appeal to the leaders of our race let us organize and sponsor an independent rally in some hall or church in this city urging citizens of our race from all parts of the State to be present and instruct the Republican party to restore to General J. A. Ellison his past political power in New Castle county or the 12,000 Negroes of this State will go on record as independent voters supporting party leaders and candidates that are interested in our race and clean government.

JOSEPH MATTHEWS.

March 24, 1934.

STAR
WILMINGTON, DEL.

MAY 13 1934

Colored Voters Lose by Board Revision

Editor, Delmarva Star: The colored voters cannot control large amounts of capital. Consequently they have been unable to make any headway against great combinations. Nevertheless, here is an opportunity, and if they wish to grasp it make ready now and prepare for the coming fall election by organization with one set of rules, applicable to all alike and without discrimination against any voter of our race.

Not so very long ago there was a political school opened for the instruction of women voters of the G. O. P. I would like to know if any of our race leaders attended, and are they ready to educate the women voters of our race in the principles of political science? Colored voters have it within their power to rise above any race prejudice just as other races are doing. Other races made a bitter fight for their political rights and gained the respect of their fellow citizens and embraced every opportunity to get on top in progressive influences and they succeeded.

Let us as a race start now as independents, and if epithets of the G. O. P. offer obstacles in the way of our progress, then as a race give battle. We belong to race entitled to respect, if we ourselves respect it. We have lost the personnel of the Board of Health by the B. G. L. political trading system. This political trading has been a death blow to the voters of our race and the G. O. P. Ten years of progressive recognition of our race has gone to the world's garbage heap all for the benefit of the B. G. L. faction of the G. O. P.

JOSEPH MATTHEWS.

May 7, 1934.

STAR
WILMINGTON, DEL.

MAY 20 1934

Blames Mayor for Negro Voters' Ousting

Editor, Delmarva Star: The incidents that have occurred during the past week in connection with the appointment of workers in the different sections of the Health Department is one more demonstration of the attitude of Mayor William H. Speer toward the colored voters of Wilmington. It is the last of a series of actions that have been un-Democratic and that will increase antagonism toward the party rather than provide additional votes and friends.

It is now fairly well known that the board that was appointed by the Mayor to conduct the affairs of the Department of Health has taken upon itself the power of acting, not according to the principles of the Democratic Party, but has given jobs in a manner contrary to the spirit of the party and the real Democrats of the city of Wilmington.

The colored voters of the city, who had expected some consideration from the men whom they helped to put in office, not only were entirely barred from the executive positions in the garbage department, but were entirely eliminated from jobs long held by them, such as foremen, truck drivers, etc. They were offered work known as bucket carriers and dumpers, which they refused and rightfully so. The results, now well known, have cast a bad reflection on the party. The mayor is chiefly at fault for what has happened, and indicates that he is following the advice and dictates of others than those who have the interests of the Democratic party at heart. His acts are a worse reflection on the party itself in this city and throughout the State.

Before the voters decide upon a candidate at the next Fall election it would be an excellent policy for them to listen to and follow the advice of Jack Hazzard and others who appreciate the allegiance of the voters regardless of color, race or creed.

J. HENRY LYONS

May 17, 1934.

WILMINGTON, DEL.
JOURNAL—EVERY EVENING

SEP 17 1934

Delaware Cautious in Acting On Constitutional Amendments

The nation remembers that on this day (September 17) 147 years ago, the Federal Constitutional Convention at Philadelphia completed its work and sent out to the Thirteen States for ratification "the greatest document ever struck off by the hand of man."

As that memorable day is recalled, it also is remembered that within three months after the Philadelphia convention Delaware became the first State of the Union by leading her sister-colonies in ratification.

But there is another story to be told. While Delaware made her decision in 1787 (the date was December 7 of that year) quickly and favorably, her subsequent legislatures were not so rapid in their approvals of Constitutional amendments. How and why Delaware declined to ratify almost half a dozen Federal Constitutional amendments is so far an uncorrelated chapter of her history. Perhaps, too, are lost the notations, explanations and details of the arguments pro and con that must have swayed the political ship of state.

Quick to Ratify

There did seem to be no hesitancy by Delaware in adopting the Constitution proper or the Bill of Rights which constitutes the first ten amendments, but after that, one finds the Legislatures of Delaware proceeding slowly, cautiously, most often on strictly party lines.

A hurried research does not reveal Delaware's action on the Eleventh Amendment, restricting the suing of States. She may have ratified it.

But it is known that Delaware did not ratify the Twelfth Amendment, prescribing the manner of choosing a President and Vice-President. She also rejected the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments — the Reconstruction amendments— although years later, the action was rescinded and on February 12, 1901, as if in tribute to Abraham Lincoln, her Legislature ratified the three amendments that abolished slavery, made Negroes citizens and guaranteed their rights of citizenship.

The Seventeenth Amendment of 1913, whereby United States senators are elected by direct popluar vote did not receive the ratification of Delaware.

The Fifteenth Amendment of 1920, giving women suffrage, was rejected June 2, 1920.

The proposed child labor amendment, still hanging fire, not having been ratified by the required number of States, also was rejected by Delaware, along with 25 other States.

Reconstruction Amendments

It is the three Reconstruction Era amendments which Delaware turned down, only to accept in later years, that form the more interesting phase of Delaware's rejection of Constitutional amendments.

The Thirteenth Amendment was submitted to the States in 1865, providing for the abolition of slavery. Governor William Cannon in February of that year, submitted it to the Delaware Legislature for ratifiation, with the hope that such a step would make "Delaware a Free State." But the Legislature turned a deaf ear and resolved that the Thirteenth Amendment was "violative of the reserved rights of the several States." This, then, was the curious situation in a border State that fought for the preservation of the Union but rejected the slavery abolition amendent.

The year after the Thirteenth, came the Fourteenth Amendment, providing the Negroes with citizenship. It also demanded that no person shall be a Senator or Representative in Congress or elector of President or hold any civil or military position under the United States or under any State who had previously taken oath of Federal or State public office and shall have engaged in a rebellion against or aided enemies of the nation and State.

Governor Gove Saulsbury was unqualifiedly heeded by the Delaware Legislature in 1866. When he said he hoped the Legislature of no southern or border State will be found in "wanting in self-respect as to hestitate to reject a proposition so unworthy of consideration."

Equal Suffrage Rejected

Then came the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution guarantee equal right of suffrage for white citizens of the different sections of the country and would delay the restoration of the States.

If it had been successful, no citizen of the United States could have accepted or retained any title of nobility or title of a following foreign nation, or could have, without consent of Congress, accepted any present, pension, office, or emolument of any kind from any emperor, king, prince or foreign power.

"The inability to amend the Constitution to suit every notion of the day seemed a great blessing" English historian, who remarked of the American Constitution:

It is interesting to note that since the first Congress, there have been more than 2,000 proposed amendments to the Constitution. One of them, proposed in 1810, was ratified by Delaware, on February 2, 1811. But the amendment died.

Delaware General Assembly of 1869 rejected this, too, on the grounds "that it would foster and excite unkind relations between the bitterness and

STAR
WILMINGTON, DEL.

SEP 30 1934

The Colored Element in Delaware Politics

By The Reverend JOHN R. CROSBY, D. D.

There were two interesting and significant signs of the times at the Democratic Convention in Dover. From my seat on the platform I had a comprehensive view of the hall and careful inspection revealed only two colored delegates—if they were delegates—both, I was informed, from the City of Wilmington, and an inoffensive little note read the night before to the effect that the colored population desired some kind of recognition, and referring to the possibility of the forming of a separate colored party. The latter was received with chuckles of amusement, and occupied the attention of the assembled solons for about two minutes. I have reason to believe that very much the same thing occurred in the Republican Council chamber of the week before.

I do not want to ascertain the attitude of the white politician towards the colored voter in the lower end of the State, it is so plain as to be unnecessary, and I have noticed some slight signs of his political importance as a racial entity beginning to be noticeable in the city of Wilmington. This article is an attempt to impress upon the various party organizations that the time has now come to realize that the colored race is rapidly ceasing to be a dumb and purchaseable factor in party elections, having a merely numerical value in the body politic, but is developing a real sense of his racial importance in the community, and that the younger generation is beginning to want, and intends to have, a share in those good things that have hitherto been the peculiar perquisites of the dominant race and are also the constitutional right of every colored citizen born under this flag, and entitled to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

I would submit to the political parties of the State of Delaware that should this third party organize (and my social and religious work among the colored convinces me that in a very few years they will) they will be the holders of the balance of power in this State and the party that has the support of the fifty thousand Negroes in Delaware will be the party in power as long as they retain it.

The old Negro population is passing, and will in a few years, except in remote and rural centers of population, be as extinct as the people of Ninevah. A younger generation is arising, education is becoming general, the colored boy and girl are beginning to think. They are, many of them, refusing to accept the prospect of spending their lives hoeing other people's corn, and doing other people's laundry. They want a voice in the control of their own destiny, the electric light, the baths and libraries and radios of modern civilization and are beginning to realize that the only way to attain these ideals is to utilize the political power given them by the Constitution after the Civil War, and which lack of education, organization, and ability has prevented them acquiring until the present age.

That this fact is generally true, and especially in this border State of Delaware has been, and is, very generally ignored by the white population, but must be faced as an incontrovertible political fact. I happen to be one of the board of a college for colored people, and also one of the directors of a colored hospital with a large training school for nurses. I have also visited and observed with keen interest the excellent colored schools and high schools in this part of the State. The figures are astounding, but the fact that this younger generation is reaching out for the higher walks in life, and that the better class of Delaware Negroes is essentially a different individual from those of ten or twenty years ago is unnoticed, or not recognized by ninety-nine per cent of the white population living by their side. Five years ago in this district of Sussex my colored worker informed me that except for one girl studying to become a teacher the staff of the local school, the ministers of the colored churches, and one family, there were no colored individuals outside the class of casual labor. Since then five classes have graduated from the high school. Of this younger generation two have become teachers, two are in training, medical students one, college four, hospital nurses or in training five, business school two, social worker (in training) one, training for ministry one. Of the number gone to the city, one is a bell hop attending classes in evening, fifteen in domestic service, one Pullman porter, two chauffeurs, one mechanic. In this town now we have three skilled automobile and general mechanics, and four intelligent better class citizens of the artisan type. Does anybody think that these individuals will be handed a five-dollar bill and told how to vote, or that the opinions of "Miss Evelyn" or "Mr. Robert" have any longer any influence? Does anybody think that the influence of these young and eager citizens is not spreading, and their political example not followed by their parents and less fortunate brothers and sisters?

The older order has changed. The city is just over our border. Our colored population has been moving there in swarms. They see colored policemen, colored street car conductors, colored teachers in white schools, both races sitting side by side on the benches of the public schools, colored political bosses, and the effect of political organization. During the depression many of them have returned to Delaware, and, as any old inhabitant will tell you, a great change has come over the younger population. The colored individual knows that he is regarded as an inferior race, he cannot worship in our churches, meet with us socially, join our lodges, or have a voice in our political organizations. Can you blame him for seeking political recognition through his own outlets. What are you going to do about it?

There are certain traditions about the colored race dating from the days of slavery, and the mass of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" literature that flooded the country around the civil war, and no doubt there are many, possibly a majority of this type in the communities of Southern Delaware. The high yellow, mulatto and halfbreed are not, thank God, common in Delaware. Miscegenation is comparatively unknown and looked upon with disgust and disapprobation by both races. Why this should be is a mystery, austere morality not being, apparently, a racial characteristic of either color. The idea of these traditions has become so ingrained in the consciousness of the superior race as to have the force of almost religious belief. Stereotyped maxims resting upon very doubtful premises have become the basis of our attitude towards the colored population, especially politically. "Nobody can deal with colored people except southerners;" "Colored people will only respond to emotional forms of religion, and ministers of their own race;" "All colored people are happy children;" "Education for them is impossible, they can only assimilate a certain quantity." "No colored person attains any position, or shows any mental ability unless they have a white streak." All this may have had a foundation of truth in past generations. Things are changing in Harlem, a new type of colored race is already here, and will soon be predominant. What are the politicians going to do? Something very different to what they are doing now. I venture to prophesy that the party that has the vision and prophetic insight to deal with the colored race with sympathy and understanding, to recognize their share in the New Deal, and their right to their share of the heritage of our common humanity, will be the dominating party of the State of Delaware.

The Negro, poor or rich, wise or ignorant, does not want to be white or ape the white, any more than the white wants to imitate or mix with the black. God forbid they ever should. I lived years enough in the East and in Africa to know the horrors of the attempted mingling of racially different civilizations, and the appalling condition of a halfcast population.

The great negroid empires and civilizations, the vast organizations, the literature, art and culture of the Ethiopian race in Northern Africa show what an essentially racial civilization can do in their own land. The greed of our ancestors brought the Negro over here, and the natural consequence of slavery was the Negro problem as we have it. We sowed the earthquake and are reaping the whirlwind. The only hope, it would seem to the philosophic historian, is for the two civilizations, black and white, sharing the same ideals of democracy, and the common heritage of constitutional rights, to devlop side by side the educational and cultural developments of their separate races, and advance hand in hand to the splendor of the coming millennium.

Almighty God did not intend, we may prayerfully believe, black and white to either mingle or ape the ways each of the other. Black and white, whatever we may think, are children of the One Father and entitled, each in their own sphere, to make the best both spiritually and materially of the world in which they are placed.

One thing is sure, that the Negro has a place in the political fabric of this State, and a right to a voice in his own destiny. The party who will give him sympathetic assistance in the working out of his political destiny, bring him into the platform and machinery, organize him to help that party to carry out the policies of that party, and bring him into the promises of the New Deal, will be the party to whom the colored race will turn and give a united and organized support, and prove a very present help in times of political trouble and agitation.

This will not be done by excluding him from the counsels of the party, or by unintelligent attempts at mass bribery, basing our attitude on preconceived prejudices and ignorant generalizations. I would respectfully suggest that we might start now. Much can be done between now and November. If you do not know how to set about it, and I doubt if any politician of either party does, the experience will do both of you a world of good, and might, in years to come be of very considerable value and experience.

Eight hundred colored votes between Harrington and Delmar, all waiting to be picked up, and nobody knowing how. Just think of them, eight hundred, all in a lump! That ought to fetch you to a sense of your responsibilities.

Seaford, Del., Sept. 26, 1934.

WILMINGTON, DEL.
NEWS

OCT 23 1934

ILLEGAL REGISTRATION CHARGED BY DEMOCRATS

Party Leader Indicates Warrants May Be Sworn Out Today

William M. Duffy, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, declared last night he has information that many persons were illegally registered by Republican workers in the First, Second, Sixth and Eighth wards on Saturday.

"We are prepared to show," Mr. Duffy said, "that in the Eighth ward, alone, the Republicans registered several Negroes from the addresses of white people." He claimed he had evidence that in the wards mentioned many persons were registered "from false addresses" by Republicans. Mr. Duffy indicated warrants may be sworn out today by Democratic leaders for arrests of persons who, he claimed, "willfully registered illegally."

Republican leaders, including Walter W. Bacon, city chairman scoffed at the charges and said they would welcome any evidence of irregularities.

Resident Judge David J. Reinhardt will hear any registration appeals today in the county courts.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Florida

Tallahassee, Fla. Democrat
February 8, 1934

NEGRO COLLEGE OVER THE TOP ON POLL TAXES

Total for 1933 Reaches 386, for 1932 Total Is 1,040

Seventy-seven members of the faculty of Florida A. and M. College for Negroes sent in their dollar to pay 1933 poll taxes today.

Now 100 Per Cent

According to Dr. J. R. E. Lee, president of the college, the payments today made the institution 100 per cent. A number of others employed at the college already had paid before the campaign began in behalf of poll tax collections.

Added to the $77 which came from the college yesterday is $73 collected from the following persons, it was reported by W. Kenneth Collins, county tax collector:

Those Who Paid

Lela B. Walker, A. F. Marshall H. C. Summitt, Mrs. T. S. Green Robert J. Blake, Lois Culbreath Dorothy Rose Disher, Elberta H Hinson, M. R. Hinson, Charles S Scruggs, Mrs. Hazel Robie, W. M Boozer, C. P. and Margaret M Datson, Anita P. Stewart, Sam C. and Vinny C. Smith, Louise Covington, Mrs. C. H. Covington, Ida S. Webb, John E. McCollum, Janette T. Reid, and Alzina E. McPherson.

The above named persons paid for two years. Those listed below paid for one year.

Helen Smith, Morris S. Taylor, J. H. Taylor, J. P. Harris, Lucile G. Bass, Evelyn J. Thigpen, A. B Cooke, W. D. White, Charles C Mayhew, Mrs. Charles Mayhew W. K. Dawtery, J. H. Green, jr. R. W. Pendelton, C. H. Walker Susan Mae Cowart, W. B. Hopkins, Thelma Langston, Alice E Fish, T. K. Jiles, B. Love Ford, Alvin Gregory, L. S. Marshall, Lige Jones, Mrs. F. B. Cromartie Sarah D. Lewis, G. E. Lewis, Mrs H. H. Bohler.

A. & M. College List

The following representatives of the A. & M. College paid poll taxes:

W. S. Allen, J. C. Baldwin, S L. Beasley, J. H. Blow, J. W Caulder, R. E. V. Charlton, S O'T. Cohen, G. W. Conoly, G. DeCoursey, L. H. B. Foote, C. C Frazier, C. C. Hayling, A. R. Hofman, B. F. Holmes, C. S. Holmes Edward Jones, A. L. Kidd, E. E King, W. M. King, L. A. Kirksey M. R. Kyler, N. L. Merrifield, C B. Nasby, U. G. Nixon, A. S. Parks B. L. Perry, R. L. Reynolds, J. E Sanford, J. P. Scott, E. J. Smith E. P. Southall, W. H. Stickney, A P. Turner, E. E. Ware, L. A Whitfield, G. T. Wiggins, T. A Wright, I. R. Anderson, J. E Baker, R. T. Bates, A. M. Bonds A. C. Briggs, T. E. Butler, T. M Carey, I. L. Coleman, L. F. Curry, L. R. Dawson, L. M. Fleming F. I. Ford, C. E. Frazier, J. H Greene, E. M. Griggs, L. R. Long Hall, K. I. Hewitt, Georgia Hill E. I. Johnson, E. P. Jones, M. A Jones, S. B. Kelker, T. I. Lang, A J. McCampbell, N. S. McGuinn M. F. McMillan, E. O. Paige, J. R. Phillips, L. F. Reed, E. E. Renfrow, R. B. Stewart, M. M. Sydes S. R. Thomas, L. H. Washington M. L. Watkins, L. M. White, G. U. Williams, A. B. Robinson, E. E. Robinson, W. T. Reed.

Payments yesterday and the day before brought the total of 1933 poll taxes paid up to 386, whileter 1932 poll taxes paid now number 1,040, Collins' records show. On January 1, this year, only 37 1933 poll taxes had been paid in the county.

Jacksonville, Fla., Times-Union
April 27, 1934

Negro Seeks Writ To Register Name

An alternative writ of mandamus, to require Emory H. Price, county supervisor of registration, to register Sylvanus H. Hart, negro, as a Democrat, or to appear and show cause why he should not do so, was sought in Duval Circuit Court yesterday.

Hart claimed in his petition that Mr. Price refused to list his name on the county register as a Democrat. Hart, with negro counsel, appeared before Judge George Couper Gibbs in Circuit Court yesterday.

Mr. Price's answer was made returnable at 10 o'clock this morning. The county supervisor said he had an opinion from Cary D. Landis, State attorney general, to the effect that the State Democratic Executive Committee has the right to set any limitations it saw fit on party membership Acting under instructions of the State Democratic Executive Committee, Mr. Price declared, he has refused to place negroes on the county register as Democrats.

Tampa, Fla., Times
April 28, 1934

BIG NEGRO VOTE CHARGE DENIED

Whitaker's Allegations of Wholesale Fraud Are Also Challenged

John Dekle, Supervisor of Registration, today challenged Senator Pat Whitaker's charges in a recent radio speech that negroes are being registered as Democrats so that they may vote in the approaching June primary and that the registration books contain more than 7000 fradulent names. Whitaker charged that "special interests" opposing his renomination were responsible for both the negro and the fradulent registrations.

Dekle's reply to Whitaker by letter follows:

"I did not hear you over the radio on Wednesday. From the press reports of your remarks I gather, however, that you made two charges which directly reflect upon my conduct of the office of Supervisor of Registration — first, that negroes were registering in large numbers as Democrats so as to cast their ballots in the primary; second, that there are more than 7000 fradulent registrations upon the books of the County at this time.

"I am a public officer and one of the public officers charged with the duty of fairly and honestly conducting this election and that I intend to do irrespective of who may be helped or hurt by such an administration of this office. That was the promise which I made when I was nominated in 1932 and that is the promise which I shall keep in 1934.

"First, as to negro registrants, under the law I cannot deny a negro possessing the requisite qualifications the right to register. Under the law such negroes cannot vote in a white Democratic primary even though they register as Democrats As a matter of fact, however, there are very few negroes registered in Hillsborough County. An actual check of the precincts lying in the City of Tampa shows a total registration of 63 negroes, 34 Republicans, 28 Democrats and one Independent. I am satisfied that the total negro registration in Hillsborough County does not exceed 100.

"The negro registrants are many of them disabled negro veterans who register in order to comply with the law allowing them to obtain exemption from payment of occupational license tax, although some have apparently been sent to my office by the Negro Assistant City Physician, who is himself registered as a Democrat. The reason for the registration for the first class is quite clear to me. Just what the Negro Assistant City Physician's interest in the matter of registering those of his color may be I am not advised. You may, however, rest assured that to date a negro registration of possibly 100 out of 33,000 is no great cause for alarm.

"Second, you charge that there are 7,000 fradulant registrations. I am of the opinion that the basis of your information in this regard comes from past rather than present conditions. If in your statements you were referring to the registration for the 1932 primary I can agree with you, as after I took office and checked the books I struck over 9,000 names representing illegal and fradulent registrations from the rolls.

"The conditions that existed in 1932 do not exist today. However, I do not hold the office of Supervisor of Registration for any other purpose than so far as it lies in my power to assure an honest election and an honest expression of the will of the people. I am making every investigation possible to check every registration and assure myself that the registrant is a qualified voter. I shall welcome information from you or from any other citizen which will assist me in this task. Therefore, if you have any knowledge of 7,000 fradulent registrations, or any less number, you will do the honest voters of Hillsborough County and this office a great service by furnishing me with that information. It will be checked and appropriate action taken.

"You may rest assured that whenever a fradulent or illegal registration is discovered the name will be stricken, and that without regard as to whether such action helps or harms you or any other candidate in this election."

FLORIDA NEGROES SEEK TO VOTE AS DEMOCRATS

PENSACOLA, Fla., June 9.—(AP)—Several negroes filed a petition in federal court here today seeking an injunction to compel the democratic party to permit them to vote in the primary June 26.

The case probably will be the first decided by Judge A. V. Long, recently appointed to the federal bench in this district.

Jacksonville, Fla., Times-Union
April 29, 1934

Court Denies Negro's Plea

Rules Against Registration as Democrat.

A motion to quash a petition for an alternative writ of mandamus to require Emory H. Price, county supervisor of registration, to place the name of Sylvanus H. Hart, negro, on the county register as a Democrat, was granted in Duval Circuit Court yesterday by Judge George Couper Gibbs.

The petition for the writ was filed Thursday and arguments, beginning Friday afternoon, were concluded yesterday morning. Counsel for Hart indicated they would file a motion to amend the petition for the writ.

The text of Judge Gibbs' order follows:

"This cause coming on to be heard upon the motion of the respondent to quash the alternative writ of mandamus, heretofore issued herein, and the same having been argued by counsel for the respective parties and considered by the court it appearing to the court that under the law it is the duty of the supervisor of registration prior to a general primary election, to register during the period of time set forth in the statutes (Sections 307 and 312 Revised General Statutes of Florida 1920, Sections 363 and 369 Compiled General Laws of Florida 1927) all persons presenting themselves for registration who are legally qualified to register for said election; that, under the law, certain committees of any political party, having the right to participate in such general primary election, shall constitute the executive, or central or managing committees thereof; that among these committees is specifically named a State executive committee (Section 304 Revised General Statutes of Florida 1920, Section 360 Compiled General Laws of Florida 1927); that such State executive committee of said political party may by resolution declare the terms and conditions on which legal electors shall be declared and taken as proper members of such party, and therefore entitled to vote in said general primary election and that it shall be the duty of the supervisors of registration of the various counties in the registration of electors to comply with the terms of any such resolution upon the filing with them of copies thereof duly certified by the chairman and secretary of any such executive committee at any time before the opening of the registration books as herein required (Section 309 Revised General Statutes of Florida 1920, Section 365, Compiled General Laws of Florida, 1927); that the alternative writ of mandamus and the petition of the relator herein do not show that he is qualified for registration as a Democrat under the resolution of the State executive committee of that party, or that the terms and conditions of said resolution on which legal electors shall be declared and taken as proper members of such party, or any, of such terms and conditions, are inapplicable to said relator, or unconstitutional, or void, or that no resolution fixing the terms and conditions was adopted by said State executive committee of said party, and that said alternative should be quashed.

"It is, thereupon, ordered and adjudged that said motion, be, and the same is hereby granted, and said alternative writ of mandamus, be, and the same is herebv quashed."

Jacksonville, Fla., Times-Union
May 9, 1934

Negro Renews Effort Toward Registration

Hearing on an application to amend a petition for a writ of mandamus seeking to require Emory H. Price, county supervisor of registration, to register Sylvanus H. Hart, negro, as a Democrat, will be held before Judge George Couper Gibbs in Duval Circuit Court at 10 o'clock Friday morning, it was announced yesterday after counsel for the negro filed application to amend the petition.

Judge Gibbs recently granted a motion to quash the petition for the writ of mandamus. Registration for the Democratic primaries ended last Monday.

Mr. Price refused to register negroes as Democrats after receipt of an opinion from Cary D. Landis, State attorney general, holding that the State Democratic Executive Committee had the power to set up regulations fixing the qualifications of members of the party eligible to participate in the party primaries.

Tampa, Fla., Times
April 28, 1934

BIG NEGRO VOTE CHARGE DENIED

Whitaker's Allegations of Wholesale Fraud Are Also Challenged

John Dekle, Supervisor of Registration, today challenged Senator Pat Whitaker's charges in a recent radio speech that negroes are being registered as Democrats so that they may vote in the approaching June primary and that the registration books contain more than 7000 fradulent names. Whitaker charged that "special interests" opposing his renomination were responsible for both the negro and the fradulent registrations.

Dekle's reply to Whitaker by letter follows:

"I did not hear you over the radio on Wednesday. From the press reports of your remarks I gather however, that you made two charges which directly reflect upon my conduct of the office of Supervisor of Registration — first, that negroes were registering in large numbers as Democrats so as to cast their ballots in the primary; second, that there are more than 7000 fradulent registrations upon the books of the County at this time.

"I am a public officer and one of the public officers charged with the duty of fairly and honestly conducting this election and that I intend to do irrespective of who may be helped or hurt by such an administration of this office. That was the promise which I made when I was nominated in 1932 and that is the promise which I shall keep in 1934.

"First, as to negro registrants under the law I cannot deny a negro possessing the requisite qualifications the right to register. Under the law such negroes cannot vote in a white Democratic primary even though they register as Democrats. As a matter of fact, however, there are very few negroes registered in Hillsborough County. An actual check of the precincts lying in the City of Tampa shows a total registration of 63 negroes, 34 Republicans, 28 Democrats and one Independent. I am satisfied that the total negro registration in Hillsborough County does not exceed 100.

"The negro registrants are many of them disabled negro veterans who register in order to comply with the law allowing them to obtain exemption from payment of occupational license tax, although some have apparently been sent to my office by the Negro Assistant City Physician, who is himself registered as a Democrat. The reason for the registration for the first class is quite clear to me. Just what the Negro Assistant City Physician's interest in the matter of registering those of his color may be I am not advised. You may, however, rest assured that to date a negro registration of possibly 100 out of 33,000 is no great cause for alarm.

"Second, you charge that there are 7,000 fradulant registrations. I am of the opinion that the basis of your information in this regard comes from past rather than present conditions. If in your statements you were referring to the registration for the 1932 primary I can agree with you, as after I took office and checked the books I struck over 9,000 names representing illegal and fradulent registrations from the rolls.

"The conditions that existed in 1932 do not exist today. However, I do not hold the office of Supervisor of Registration for any other purpose than so far as it lies in my power to assure an honest election and an honest expression of the will of the people. I am making every investigation possible to check every registration and assure myself that the registrant is a qualified voter. I shall welcome information from you or from any other citizen which will assist me in this task. Therefore, if you have any knowledge of 7,000 fradulent registrations, or any less number, you will do the honest voters of Hillsborough County and this office a great service by furnishing me with that information. It will be checked and appropriate action taken.

"You may rest assured that whenever a fradulent or illegal registration is discovered the name will be stricken, and that without regard as to whether such action helps or harms you or any other candidate in this election."

JACKSONVILLE, FLA.
TIMES UNION

MAY 9 1934

Negro Renews Effort Toward Registration

Hearing on an application to amend a petition for a writ of mandamus seeking to require Emory H. Price, county supervisor of registration, to register Sylvanus H. Hart, negro, as a Democrat, will be held before Judge George Couper Gibbs in Duval Circuit Court at 10 o'clock Friday morning, it was announced yesterday after counsel for the negro filed application to amend the petition.

Judge Gibbs recently granted a motion to quash the petition for the writ of mandamus. Registration for the Democratic primaries ended last Monday.

Mr. Price refused to register negroes as Democrats after receipt of an opinion from Cary D. Landis, State attorney general, holding that the State Democratic Executive Committee had the power to set up regulations fixing the qualifications of members of the party eligible to participate in the party primaries.

GROUP TO ATTACK VOTING BARRIER

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 7—Stirred by the order recently handed down by Circuit Judge George Couper Gibbs here barring Negroes from the Democrtic primary and ruling that the party has a right to decide who shall form its ranks, a committee of Jacksonville Negroes has retained Attorney L. E. Lenord, counsel for Sylvanus H. Hart who brought the suit against county supervisor of registration, to press the issue.

J. E. Shepard, secretary of the Pensacola branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, has sent Attorney Lenord, upon request of the Jacksonville committee, a copy of the brief in the decision of the supreme court of Florida in the celebrated Pensacola white primary case which ruled that Negroes could vote in the Democratic primaries.

In a letter to Emil Hurja, assistant to the chairman of Democratic National Committee, Washington, D. C., Roy Wilkins, assistant secretary of the N. A. A. C. P. calls attention to this and other recent denials of the right of Neegro citizens to participate in the Democratic primaries in the South and urges that the Democratic National Committee "take cognizance of this situation without great delay" and "take some action calculated to prevent the denial of the ballot to qualified voters on account of race or color, since such denial is a plain violation of the Constitution."

"Several court decisions" writes Mr. Wilkins, "notably, two from the United States Supreme Court, one in Texas and one in Virginia, and one in the Florida supreme court, have seemed to outlaw this restriction by a party executive committee."

The N. A. A. C. P. is backing the Florida Negroes to the limit in their fight against the primary vote bar.

THE WHITE PRIMARY

(Florida Sentinel)

Judge Cooper Gibbs of the Circuit Court here ruled Wednesday that the white primary in Florida is within its rights in barring the Negro.

The right of the judge to so decide from the facts before him is not to be puestioned. All who know the judge feel that he has no idea other than be led up to his decision from his understanding and interpretation of the law.

But there are other courts and other judges. Some of these other courts and other judges have had occasion to differ on the same subject upon which Judge Gibbs rendered his opinion. The lower courts of Texas ruled in favor of the white primary. There is a concurrence of opinion even on matters of law in accordance with the leaning toward established custom in the South or the North or anywhere else.

The U. S. Supreme Court found it necessary to reverse the action of the Texas courts in upholding the white primary, not once, but twice. From the viewpoint of Texas' courts the white primary was as legal as a gold dollar is solid. Now Florida holds the same grounds.

But as the case in Texas was the first and the second time carried up to the highest court before the invalidity of the white prmary in Texas was declared, so in Florida, if necessary, must the white primary be given every chance to prove itself constitutional.

There is nothing to be discouraged over in the action of the Circuit Court here. When the Negro went into this matter it was with the understanding that there are no middle grounds upon which to rest, but that the matter must be followed up until the last vistage of law is exhausted in the place of the present machinery, is it not clear that the Negro's duty is to proceed against the new order since it to is aimed to counteract the sense and purpose of the 14th and 15th amendments? What if we are kept in litigation three or five or even ten years to learn for ourselves whether or not the Constitution of the United States is a mere scrap of paper.

Florida

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Judge Gibbs Renders Adverse Decision In Hart Case, But Lauds Brilliant Young Lawyers For Their Conduct Of the Case—Florida Press Evades Issue.

By FLOYD J. CALVIN
Special Feature Writer

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 21—Although Judge George Cooper Gibbs in the Circuit Court of the Fourth Judicial Circuit of the State of Florida for Duval county rendered an adverse decision in the case of Sylvanus Hart versus the Supervisor of Registration of Duval County, he complimented the brilliant young attorneys, J. Leonard Lewis, A. B., Morehouse '29 and LL. B., New York University '33, and a native of Jacksonville, and Lawson E. Thomas, B. S., Florida A. & M. '19 and LL. B., University of Michigan '23, and a native of Ocala.

This was "round one" of the "White Primary" case of Florida—an evil that is really 33 years old, having been made possible by the enactment of a law in 1901. The young lawyers, however, are not discouraged. They are determined to "break up" this vicious practice which keeps Negroes from having a voice in the government which rules them, which, they hold, is contrary to the Constitution of the United States, and which, they believe will ultimately give way if they persevere in their efforts to crush this monster which stands between them and the effective use of the ballot.

6-23-34

The fact that Judge Gibbs told the young men "the case was well handled no matter who handled it"—a left-handed compliment but a compliment, nevertheless—that the pleadings were well drawn, etc., and that Judge Gibbs is reputed to be one of the most learned circuit judges in the state—renewed the courage and determination of the young lawyers to push the case relentlessly. As this was written, they were undecided on their next move—the element of strategy being one of the paramount points in procedure. After all, it is a case in which the wits of individuals are given the fullest play, for the opposition knows perfectly well it is wrong, but it hopes to win on several negative points—tiring out the aggressors, carrying them through such a maze of technicalities that they will lose sight of the main issues and become lost in detail, or giving them the "run-around" by fooling them into certain courts that will be sure to lead to a "blind alley."

Pittsburgh Courier

The type of opposition that the young men face, however, proves that the "White Primary" advocates tured. Whether this attitude of failure to comment editorially is due to the fact that each paper carries a large Negro clientele of readers through its special pages with Negro editors devoted to Negro readers, is not known. There are those who recall, however, that some years ago one of these papers embarked on an anti-Negro campaign and lost most of its Negro readers, which it spent consideable time and money to win back. It is believed that this block of Negro readers is a silent force working (although in a negative way) in behalf of the young lawyers, by keeping the editorial columns of these papers from fomenting sentiment against their cause, which would make it doubly hard for them to win. As matters now stand they have only to fight officialdom, while it might be that they must fight officialdom and an artificial public sentiment.

What Lewis and Thomas are avoiding in a generally hostile public sentiment is illustrated in an obscure white Jacksonville weekly, The Herald, published by one William Coleman of 106 Flagler street, which obviously exists in a large measure through special political advertisements on which it or any white paper has a monoply through the very system they seek to maintain. The issue of May 11th, carrying six columns of political reading notices, and more than 50 inches of display political advertisements which Negro papers do not have a chance to solicit because of their "exclusion" from the "White Primary," carries two front page headlines, the first on the right side of the state executive committee of the Democratic Party, state senator, and counsel of the Atlantic Coast Line Railway, and Assistant Attorney General Robert J. Pleus of Tallahassee.

The attitude of the white press on this case has been interesting. The two leading dailies, the Times-Union and the Journal, have refrained from editorial comment. They have, however, carried the news angles of the case well fea- the page reads: "Negroes Continue Fight to Force Their Way Into the Democratic Primary—Quick Action Prevented Influx of Their Votes In June Election—LAW MUST BE AMENDED—South Must Remain Immune to Traditional Menaces; and the second on the left side of the page reads: "Waybright Warns State Democratic Committee—Unless Primary Law Is Amended Crisis Will Be Faced in 1936." This paper, which carries on one side of its mast-head the legend, "Duval County's Independent Newspaper" and on the other, "Read the Herald if You Want the Truth," obviously exists for the purpose of getting the political advertisements. Most of the "news" is what is known in newspaper circles as "boilerplate" do not minimize their ability. In the opposing counsel are Edgar W. Waybright of Jacksonville, and his partner, Paul F. Marion, and J. H. Hodges of Lake City, chairman of

Pensacola, Fla. Journal
June 16, 1934

ARGUMENTS ON NEGROES' VOTE PLEA ARE HELD

Group Seeks Right To Cast Ballots In Democratic Primary In State

Arguments on the petition of a group of negroes contending the right to vote in the Democratic run-off primary of June 26, required most of the afternoon session yesterday in United States court.

Judge A. V. Long, who presided, reserved his decision, stating that he would spend today considering the case.

The first skirmish occurred yesterday morning, when Judge Long upheld the claim of H. E. Carter and Robert J. Pleus, representatives from the attorney-general's office, that the application for injunction was defective.

Attorneys for the negroes, William McChesney and A. Morley Darby, promised to amend the bill to meet the claim of opposing counsel that names of inspectors and clerks at the polls should have been included as defendants. The attorneys for the negroes stated that these officials had not been named when the bill was filed.

Judge Long also held that the bill should have alleged that the state Democratic executive committee was acting under the state of Florida's primary election law when it prescribed qualifications for voting in a Democratic primary.

Attorneys for both sides argued the merits of the case during the afternoon.

ATLANTA, GA.
CONSTITUTION
JUN 12 1934

NEGRO CASE TO BE ARGUED

PENSACOLA, June 9, (AP)—One of the first cases to be argued before recently-appointed Federal Judge A. V. Long, will be that in which several negroes seek to require the Democratic Party to permit them to vote in the run-off primary, June 26.

Listed as defendants were J. B. Hodges, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, L. M. Wells, chairman of the county committee, and H. A. Brosnaham, chairman of the county commission.

Marianna, Fla., Courier
June 21, 1934

Negroes Lose Voting Fight

Judge of United States District Court Rules That They Cannot Take Part In Primary

Judge A. V. Long of the United States district court denied a petition Monday afternoon filed by four negroes of Pensacola for a temporary injunction against Democratic election officials forcing the latter to permit negroes to vote in the Democratic run-off primary June 26.

Judge Long handed down a brief order in which he declared that "the equities of said cause are with the defendants" and dismissed the application for a restraining order.

The plaintiffs were E. B. Farrow, R. H. Blount, George W. King and H. D. Goode.

PENSACOLA CITIZENS PRESS FIGHT ON THE WHITE PRIMARY

Savannah Journal

UNDAUNTED BY ADVERSE DECISION OF JUDGE A. V. LONG

7-21-34

PENSACOLA, Fla., July 21.—Undaunted by the adverse decision handed down by Judge A. V. Long in the United States District Court on June 18 in their suit for a temporary injunction forcing Democratic election officials to permit Negroes to vote in the run-off primary on June 26, the Pensacola branch of the Notional Association for the Advancemetn of Colored People and the Pensacola Voters League, are determined to continue the fight until victory is won. This statement was made here today by J. E. Sheppard, secretary of the N. A. A. C. P. branch.

Two Northern-born white attorneys, William McChesney and A. Morley Darby, have been retained to again carry the case to the U. S. District Court and, if necessary, to the United States Supreme Court. They say the case can be won and they are anxious to win it for the Negroes of the state. The case is arousing statewide interest as manifested by the financial support coming from Negroes and the increase in Florida N. A. A. C. P. membership.

The suit has already cost $136.35 to which the national office made an unsolicited contribution of $25. The renewal of the petition in the district court will cost $112.50. If it is necessary to go to the U. S. Supreme Court, the cost will be around $1,000. The Pensacola branch is asking other branches and individuals throughout the country to contribute financially to the costs of the case since it affects all Negroes.

The temper of the Pensacola Negroes can be gauged from the editorial expressions in the Colored Citizen, a local newspaper which, in commenting on the contribution of the N. A. A. C. P. national office to the legal costs said of the Pensacola Negro:

"One defeat does not discourage him and he does not get cold feet. It is only by such pluck that our various problems will be easily overcome, that we shall arrive at the full fruition of our just and deserved rights . . . It is unthinkable for anyone to try to assign the Negro to any party and attempt to say to him you can be a member only of a certain party and no other, or that you must be a member of that party because your grandfather was a member of it. There is no such thing as inheriting party."

Florida

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Judge Gibbs Renders Adverse Decision In Hart Case, But Lauds Brilliant Young Lawyers For Their Conduct Of the Case—Florida Press Evades Issue.

By FLOYD J. CALVIN
Special Feature Writer

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 21—Although Judge George Cooper Gibbs in the Circuit Court of the Fourth Judicial Circuit of the State of Florida for Duval county rendered an adverse decision in the case of Sylvanus Hart versus the Supervisor of Registration of Duval County, he complimented the brilliant young attorneys, J. Leonard Lewis, A. B., Morehouse '29 and LL. B., New York University '33, and a native of Jacksonville, and Lawson E. Thomas, B. S., Florida A. & M. '19 and LL. B., University of Michigan '23, and a native of Ocala.

This was "round one" of the "White Primary" case of Florida—an evil that is really 33 years old, having been made possible by the enactment of a law in 1901. The young lawyers, however, are not discouraged. They are determined to "break up" this vicious practice which keeps Negroes from having a voice in the government which rules them, which, they hold, is contrary to the Constitution of the United States, and which, they believe will ultimately give way if they persevere in their efforts to crush this monster which stands between them and the effective use of the ballot.

The fact that Judge Gibbs told the young men "the case was well handled no matter who handled it"—a left-handed compliment but a compliment, nevertheless—that the pleadings were well drawn, etc., and that Judge Gibbs is reputed to be one of the most learned circuit judges in the state—renewed the courage and determination of the young lawyers to push the case relentlessly. As this was written, they were undecided on their next move—the element of strategy being one of the paramount points in procedure. After all, it is a case in which the wits of individuals are given the fullest play, for the opposition knows perfectly well it is wrong, but it hopes to win on several negative points—tiring out the aggressors, carrying them through such a maze of technicalities that they will lose sight of the main issues and become lost in detail, or giving them the "run-around" by fooling them into certain courts that will be sure to lead to a "blind alley."

The type of opposition that the young men face, however, proves that the "White Primary" advocates tured. Whether this attitude of failure to comment editorially is due to the fact that each paper carries a large Negro clientele of readers through its special pages with Negro editors devoted to Negro readers, is not known. There are those who recall, however, that some years ago one of these papers embarked on an anti-Negro campaign and lost most of its Negro readers, which it spent consideable time and money to win back. It is believed that this block of Negro readers is a silent force working (although in a negative way) in behalf of the young lawyers, by keeping the editorial columns of these papers from fomenting sentiment against their cause, which would make it doubly hard for them to win. As matters now stand they have only to fight officialdom, while it might be that they must fight officialdom and an artificial public sentiment.

What Lewis and Thomas are avoiding in a generally hostile public sentiment is illustrated in an obscure white Jacksonville weekly, The Herald, published by one William Coleman of 106 Flagler street, which obviously exists in a large measure through special political advertisements on which it or any white paper has a monoply through the very system they seek to maintain. The issue of May 11th, carrying six columns of political reading notices, and more than 50 inches of display political advertisements which Negro papers do not have a chance to solicit because of their "exclusion" from the "White Primary," carries two front page headlines, the first on the right side of its mast-head the legend, "Duval County's Independent Newspaper," and on the other, "Read the Herald if You Want the Truth," obviously exists for the purpose of getting the political advertisements. Most of the "news" is what is known in newspaper circles as "boilerplate" the state executive committee of the Democratic Party, state senator, and counsel of the Atlantic Coast Line Railway, and Assistant Attorney General Robert J. Pleus of Tallahassee.

The attitude of the white press on this case has been interesting. The two leading dailies, the Times-Union and the Journal, have refrained from editorial comment. They have, however, carried the news angles of the case well fea- the page reads: "Negroes Continue Fight to Force Their Way Into the Democratic Primary—Quick Action Prevented Influx of Their Votes In June Election—LAW MUST BE AMENDED—South Must Remain Immune to Traditional Menaces; and the second on the left side of the page reads: "Waybright Warns State Democratic Committee—Unless Primary Law Is Amended Crisis Will Be Faced in 1936." This paper, which carries on one side and on the other, "Read the Herald

Pensacola, Fla. Journal
June 16, 1934

ARGUMENTS ON NEGROES' VOTE PLEA ARE HELD

Group Seeks Right To Cast Ballots In Democratic Primary In State

Arguments on the petition of a group of negroes contending the right to vote in the Democratic run-off primary of June 26, required most of the afternoon session yesterday in United States court.

Judge A. V. Long, who presided, reserved his decision, stating that he would spend today considering the case.

The first skirmish occurred yesterday morning, when Judge Long upheld the claim of H. E. Carter and Robert J. Pleus, representatives from the attorney-general's office, that the application for injunction was defective.

Attorneys for the negroes, William McChesney and A. Morley Darby, promised to amend the bill to meet the claim of opposing counsel that names of inspectors and clerks at the polls should have been included as defendants. The attorneys for the negroes stated that these officials had not been named when the bill was filed.

Judge Long also held that the bill should have alleged that the state Democratic executive committee was acting under the state of Florida's primary election law when it prescribed qualifications for voting in a Democratic primary.

Attorneys for both sides argued the merits of the case during the afternoon.

ATLANTA, GA.
CONSTITUTION
JUN 12 1934

NEGRO CASE TO BE ARGUED

PENSACOLA, June 9, (AP)—One of the first cases to be argued before recently-appointed Federal Judge A. V. Long, will be that in which several negroes seek to require the Democratic Party to permit them to vote in the run-off primary, June 26.

Listed as defendants were J. B. Hodges, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, L. M. Wells, chairman of the county committee, and H. A. Brosnaham, chairman of the county commission.

Marianna, Fla., Courier
June 21, 1934

Negroes Lose Voting Fight

Judge of United States District Court Rules That They Cannot Take Part In Primary

Judge A. V. Long of the United States district court denied a petition Monday afternoon filed by four negroes of Pensacola for a temporary injunction against Democratic election officials forcing the latter to permit negroes to vote in the Democratic run-off primary June 26.

Judge Long handed down a brief order in which he declared that "the equities of said cause are with the defendants" and dismissed the application for a restraining order.

The plaintiffs were E. B. Farrow, R. H. Blount, George W. King and H. D. Goode.

PENSACOLA CITIZENS PRESS FIGHT ON THE WHITE PRIMARY

Savannah Journal

UNDAUNTED BY ADVERSE DECISION OF JUDGE A. V. LONG

7-21-34

PENSACOLA, Fla., July 21.—Undaunted by the adverse decision handed down by Judge A. V. Long in the United States District Court on June 18 in their suit for a temporary injunction forcing Democratic election officials to permit Negroes to vote in the run-off primary on June 26, the Pensacola branch of the Notional Association for the Advancemetn of Colored People and the Pensacola Voters League, are determined to continue the fight until victory is won. This statement was made here today by J. E. Shepard, secretary of the N. A. A. C. P. branch.

Two Northern-born white attorneys, William McChesney and A. Morley Darby, have been retained to again carry the case to the U. S. District Court and, if necessary, to the United States Supreme Court. They say the case can be won and they are anxious to win it for the Negroes of the state. The case is arousing statewide interest as manifested by the financial support coming from Negroes and the increase in Florida N. A. A. C. P. membership.

The suit has already cost $136.35 to which the national office made an unsolicited contribution of $25. The renewal of the petition in the district court will cost $112.50. If it is necessary to go to the U. S. Supreme Court, the cost will be around $1,000. The Pensacola branch is asking other branches and individuals throughout the country to contribute financially to the costs of the case since it affects all Negroes.

The temper of the Pensacola Negroes can be gauged from the editorial expressions in the Colored Citizen, a local newspaper which, in commenting on the contribution of the N. A. A. C. P. national office to the legal costs said of the Pensacola Negro:

"One defeat does not discourage us. It is only by such pluck that we can be a unthinkable for anyone to try to no other, or that party because your grandfather was a member of it. There is no such thing as inheriting party." assign the Negro to any party and our various problems will be settled easily. him and he does not get cold feet

TALLAHASSEE, FLA.
DEMOCRAT
DEC 1 0 1934

5,673 REGISTERED VOTERS IN COUNTY

There are 5,673 registered voters in Leon county, Miss Hattie Coles, county supervisor of registration has informed Governor Dave Sholtz.

The figures were furnished the governor's office Saturday. Similar requests were made of other county registration supervisors.

Miss Coles also stated that of the total number of voters registered in the county, 5,454 are white democrats, and 84 are registered as white republicans. There are 135 negroes registered as republicans, bringing the republican list to a total of 219.

There are no voters registered with allegiance to any other political party.

At the last general election on November 6, less than 3,000 persons were qualified to vote out of the total registered on the books here.

CLEARWATER, FLA.
SUN
DEC 1 8 1934

RECORD VOTE IS EXPECTED IN ELECTION

Polls Will Close at 6:30 Five Hundred Cast Ballots by 2:30

Voting in the municipal election this afternoon promised to set a record for recent years, with only half the number of qualified citizens casting ballots.

The polling place, at the Garden Avenue fire station, closes at 6:30.

At 2:30 this afternoon 500 persons had voted, less than a third of the qualified list of approximately 1800. Voters were standing in line, however, and officials looked for a total of 800 to 900 ballots by the time the polls closed.

In last year's election there were 630 ballots cast. At 2:30 on the afternoon of election day 314 persons had voted.

A number of negroes were among the voters today. It was the first time in recent years in which negroes had voted in any great number.

A mayor and two commissioners will be elected by today's ballots. Ray Green is unopposed for mayor but there are four candidates for the commission seats. They are Commissioner Reade F. Tilley, L. A. Marsh, D. O. Batchelor and S. J. Meares.

The officials elected today will be installed in office January 7.

Members of the election board serving at the polls today are E. J. Armstrong, Charles R. Jones, Miss Corrine Buell and William Weldon.

At the same polling place today, members of the Chamber of Commerce are choosing four members of the board of governors. Nominees are Walter G. Blair, H. H. Constantine, Jr., W. M. Goza and H. E. Tooke, the four whose terms expire; and Jesse G. Smith, David G. Perkins, W. J. Irion and Mayor H. H. Baskin.

Political - 1934

Suffrage.

General.

RECENT VOTE SHOWS NEGRO RACIAL GROUP FILED DECLARATION POLITICAL INDEPENDENCE SAYS DEAN K. MILLER

(By Dean Kelly Miller)

The Negro has at last filed his declaration of political independence. He has broken from the leash which held him bound to the Grand Old Party of long ago. For more than a decade this drift has been discernible. It has been estimated that fully a third of the Negro vote was cast for Al Smith in 1928, while as much as a half went to Roosevelt in 1932. But these are mainly estimates biased by the predilections of the estimator. Now, in the recent Congressional election we have for the first time more definite data of determining how the black voter split his ballot between the contesting parties. Indeed undisputed facts demonstrate the New Deal drift with mathematical certainty.

Let us begin with Pennsylvania. In this commonwealth there are nearly two hundred thousand qualifiable colored voters. These were aroused, as it were, to a pitch of political fury over Roosevelt and the New Deal. Led by Robert L. Vann, of the east end of the state, W. Justin Carter, of the central portion and Judge Henry, of the eastern section, it did seem as if the colored voters as one man rose up in revolt against the party tyranny which had so long held the race in political bondage.

I addressed a meeting in Harrisburg at which the sister of Senator-elect Guffey, Governor-elect Earl and the local candidate for Congress were present and made addresses. Political veterans of both parties declared that they never before witnessed such an outpouring of colored people in middle Pennsylvania. Judge Henry and Mr. Carter declared that similar enthusiasm was manifest throughout the state. Mr. Earle, expectant candidate for governor, said that this enthusiastic gathering presaged his election and that of Mr. Guffey. His prediction was fulfilled four days later.

DEAN KELLY MILLER

I might say, incidentally, that in addition to Mr. Carter and Judge Henry, D. L. H. King and W. Justin Carter, esq., Jr., all graduates of Howard University, participated in the program. This occurrence was incidental but deeply significant. Howard University, the capstone of Negro education, has no political complexion. It depends upon both political parties for support. It does not, it dare not, teach any political or partizan bias. But the true function of education is to teach the youth how to use their own intellect and judgment in reaching political decision and action. It seems to be a simple proposition that any Negro today who follows his intellect rather than his emotions will find himself in alignment with Roosevelt and the New Deal. What took place in Pennsylvania was duplicated in all parts of the free voting states of the North and West. The Negro vote figured essentially in the most strategic of all victories in the Pennsylvania election.

In the first district of Illinois the veteran stand pat Republican Oscar DePriest, was supplanted by the young heroic Negro Democrat and New Dealer, Arthur W. Mitchell. Here was a clear trial of strength between the two parties in bidding for the Negro vote. The Democrats and the New Deal won. In St. Louis, a Negro Democrat was pitted against L. W. Dyer, of the Dyer Anti-Lynching Bill fame. While the white Republican won, yet it is a safe bet to claim the majority of the Negroes in that district voted for the black democratic aspirant. Chicago also sent one Negro Democrat to the legislature.

Harlem sent two Negro Democrats to the legislature over their colored Republican rivals on the basis of the black vote. That there are more Negro Democrats than Republicans in Harlem was demonstrated several years ago when two colored Democratic municipal judges were chosen over their colored Democratic rivals. Pittsburgh, Pa., and staid old Philadelphia sent each a Negro Democrat to the state assembly. Indianapolis, Ind., chose two Negro Democrats for the state legislature against colored Republican antagonists. But perhaps, most convincing of all, is what took place in the wholly Negro town of Boley, Okla. All of the Democratic candidates running for office received more votes from Boley than did their Republican adversaries. In this case both sets of contestants were white, southern men.

These instances are quite sufficient to convince us with mathematical certainty that the tide has turned. The Negro vote has drifted from the Republican to the Democratic party.

The work of the National Non-Partizan League is finished so far as the North is concerned. The Negro voter casts his ballot for men, measures and movements and is no longer slave to party labels. But let us not deceive ourselves that all is well. The race will have to fight for its rights and privileges under the one party as vigilantly as under the other. But in the purely political sense the fight is won.

Now turning to the South, the situation is pathetic in the last degree. All sparks of political life have died away. The new leadership in the South must arise which will have the practical wisdom to so propitiate local sentiment as to become integrated in the political and economic considerations of the New Deal. There is emerging among the young educated whites a generous sentiment that will meet the approach more than half way. The Norfolk Journal and Guide, it seems to me, points out the lines along which this much desired emancipation of the Southern Negro will take place.

Atlanta, Ga. Constitution
November 25, 1934

Changed Allegiance of Colored Voters Discussed by Negro Educational Leader

Editor Constitution: The negro during the past quarter of a century has been showing increasing dissatisfaction with the treatment which he has received at the hands of the republican party. The grand old party, which freed the negro, gave him citizenship and equality before the law placed the benefited race under a heavy debt of lasting gratitude. But, gratitude will not long survive the changed attitude of the benefactor.

There was a noticeable restlessness and complaint under the administration of President Taft. As result, a great number of colored voters cast their ballot for President Wilson in 1912. The administration of Harding, Coolidge and Hoover accentuated this dissatisfaction beyond the point of endurance. A great many negroes voted for John W. Davis against Calvin Coolidge in 1924. It has been estimated that fully one-third of the colored race, in the free voting states of the north, supported Al Smith in 1928, while quite half of them supported Franklin D. Roosevelt in the last presidential election.

That the overwhelming majority of negroes upheld the New Deal in the recent congressional election can be proved with mathematical certainty. In the first congressional district of Illinois with a preponderant negro population, Congressman Oscar DePriest, the veteran stalwart negro republican, was replaced by Oscar W. Mitchell, a negro democrat who supported Roosevelt and the New Deal. In Harlem, the black belt of New York city, two negro democrats were sent to the legislature over their negro republican opponents. Even though Sinclair and his Epic philosophy lost the state of California to the democratic fold, yet in Los Angeles negro voters elected a democratic negro to the legislature over his negro republican opponent who had held the seat for eight or ten years. Indianapolis sent two negro candidates to the legislature over their republican rivals, on the basis of the colored vote.

Perhaps, most convincing of all, the voters of Boley, Okla., a wholly negro town, gave every candidate running on the democratic ticket a majority of its vote. The remarkable triumph of the democratic ticket in Pennsylvania was due in large part to the 200,000 qualified negro voters of that state, who in unprecedented numbers threw their strength to the democratic candidates.

Similar facts can be cited from other states and cities. It is wholly within the bounds of likelihood to say that fully two-thirds of the negro vote in the recent election was thrown on the side of Roosevelt and the New Deal.

Serious reflections grow out of these plain facts of observation. The political center of gravity of the negro race has not only shifted from the south to the north but from the republican to the democratic party. The northern contingent of the democratic party, now in the ascendency, is every whit as kindly disposed to the negro's claim to political and civic equality as are the republicans of that section. On the other hand, the southern republicans, of the lily white variety, are just as hostile to his aspirations as are local democrats. Racial attitude is not an attribute of partizanship or of lines of latitude, but rather of relativity of number of the two races. An understanding of this principle will go far toward absorbing the negro in the political equation on the basis of equity and justice.

The northern migration of the negro has had as its political by-product his espousal of the democratic cause. The New Deal has baptized the nation in a new spirit regardless of race, section or previous political belief. Just as the democratic party of the north has become liberalized toward the negro through proffer of support, it is to be hoped that the southern contingent of that party will be induced to go and do likewise. Where outside compulsion has failed propitiation may succeed.

KELLY MILLER,
Howard University.
Washington, D. C., November 23, 1934

A Campaign With The Negro Issue Left Out

KELLY MILLER

For the first time since emancipation we are engaged upon a national campaign where the race issue does not figure as a partizan feature. Negro spell-binders of the traditional type, will be hard put to fling in the race question for partizan purposes. Roosevelt, by one swell stroke, has effectively eliminated this issue as a bone of contention between the two chief parties, from the construction days until now. The New Deal holds the center of the political stage. The voters are called upon to decide between the Old Deal of Hoover and the NEW DEAL of Roosevelt, without regard to race or color, sex or section. Both sectional and racial lines have been obliterated. There is neither North nor South, white nor black. Both the solid South and the solid Negro vote are things of the past, as far as political issues are concerned. The voter is asked to decide as to whether he believes in the liberty of the rugged individual to make more money and accumulate more money, a parti-millions or the right of the forgotten man of milder and less rugged individuality, to make a living for himself and family. The Negro is destined to be the greatest beneficiary of the New Deal, if fairly administered, and therefore should be its greatest advocate and defender.

In former campaigns self-called friends of the Negro dramatized their friendship while his political enemies exploited their hostility—the former in order that he might secure his vote, the latter to arouse and consolidate his constituents. But neither friend nor foe finds any function in the pending campaign. No longer is there any waving of the bloody shirt across the section line for political effect. At the same time fire-eating Negro haters have been forced from the political arena. Tillman, Vardamann, Tom Watson, Hardwick and Jeff Davis the lesser, among the dead, and Heflin and Blease among the living, have ceased their ravings for there is nothing for it to feed on. In the North and West where the Negro votes, both parties are equally anxious to woo his vote. In the South where the mass of the race resides and where the Negro's political power is in the potential state, both parties are equally disregardful of his claims. Like Hancock's tariff, the Negro problem, in its political aspect, has become a local issue.

A Hibernian wit of the Tammany school of political philosophy once set the nation smiling over the aphoristic query? "What is the Constitution between friends?" The North and South, East and West, Democrats and Republicans, have agreed that the Thirteenth Amendment is to be observed in its integrity. But the Fourteenth and Fifteenth are to be observed where only they meet with local favor and ignored or annulled where local sentiment makes their enforcement troublesome. Nothing will alter this firm attitude short of a change of the white man's psychology.

During the debate in the Senate on the Dyer Anti-Lynching Bill, Senator Underwood, of Alabama, stated that white men would not seriously fall out over the Negro. There was no dissent from this dictum on either side of the Senate nor in either political camp. The fuss and furor of the Negro about the present day Republican Party enforcing these Civil War Amendments, may indeed be necessary to assert a principle and keep alive and alert his flagging spirit, but they are likely to have no more effect upon results than the hooting of the midnight owl that does to the moon complain. Someone has defined a pessimisst as one who has followed the advice of the optimist. This applies on all fours to the deluded enthusiasts who still expect that the Republican Party is likely ever to enforce the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments.

The margin between the two parties has been reduced to a meaningless margin by recent and current political happenings. President Roosevelt has selected more colored men for important governmental assignments than did Harding, Coolidge and Hoover, his three immediate Republican predecessors. These positions were not merely political seizures, but demand efficient and expert service in important governmental function. During the last session of Congress there was not one hostile or ungenerous word against the Negro. Congressman DePriest has acknowledged that he found ready and willing cooperation on both sides of the party aisle for every constructive measure which he proposed for the betterment and welfare of his race.

To still further emphasize the absence of the partizan attitude on the race question, the Democrats have nominated a Negro Democrat, in the First Illinois District to contend with Oscar DePriest for congressional honors. Postmaster-General Farley, chairman of the National Democratic Committee, has added the sanction of the party by approving the nomination, and proffering such help as his high position might enable him to render. In a previous release I have stated why, in my view, the race should prefer the elder statesman, but not because of his partizan affiliation.

Both sides will appeal to the Negro vote where his franchise is effective; neither will bother itself with his abstract right where it is not. Let the Negro, then, enter the campaign, freed from the bondage of partizan allegiance, and cast his vote on the only issue before the electorate—the merits or defects of the New Deal.

Political - 1934
Suffrage.

General.

WHEN IGNORANCE GOES A-VOTING

Call 9-28-34

Because Negroes are the victims of the vicious political practices of the South, we have been prone to think of it as the only section of the country whose ignorance was undermining American principles. Now it appears that ignorance is to be found elsewhere too. Voters in Oklahoma and Nebraska, to the number of 30,000 wrote in the name of Dr. J. H. Brinkley for governor at their state elections four years ago. Brinkley was a candidate in Kansas at that time. He used the radio in his campaign. Oklahomans and Nebraskans listened in and to the number of tens of thousands were so ignorant of the facts that they voted for this man, citizen of another state, to be governor of theirs.

Kansas City, Mo

We had thought that the reign of ignorance could never be so complete anywhere as it is in those states which to this day elect their officials on Civil war issues. But this vote for Brinkley makes us know they have no monopoly on dumbness. The poor white movement in the South at least has a reason, and the rise of Tillman, Vardman and their ilk can be explained. But no reason on earth can be found for trying to elect an outlander as governor, except crass ignorance. Whoever would have gotten these votes, had they not been cast for Brinkley, would have received a poor compliment indeed.

It is a grave question whether our country can live with the democratic principle on which it depends, in the hands of voters who do not know candidates, not even the territorial boundaries in which they are to serve.

The coming of a storm has its signs. When troops must guard elections, as they did in Louisiana, dictatorship is not far off because dictators thrive on ignorance.

The presence of troops at a 1934 election grows logically out of the years of ignorance permitted, even encouraged, in order to keep the Negro an issue. No smart man believes the blacks are as ignorant as the are painted and at the same time believes they are capable of taking over the control of states. However it has proven a winning argument with southern voters. Evil spreads. The nation is being impregnated by the same virus of ignorance as is shown by votes for Brinkley cast in states where he was neither candidate nor citizen.

An ignorant people cannot maintain democracy. They never have. American politicians have fostered blind obedience to their leadership, rather than trained the people to do their own thinking. Now come signs that ignorance has progressed to the point where it endangers the nation. If the nation perishes, the politicians lose all along with the people. It has been a penny wise and pound foolish policy.

There are other signs of weakness in our country. Strikes fought to the bitter end either by labor or capital could never occur if the people were trained to think. If men took counsel of their brains instead of their interests, farmers, even the poorest educated, would not receive NRA benefits on the one hand and cheat by false claims on the other, because they would realize that they were destroying themselves too when they burdened the federal government.

It all comes back to the general principle which this paper enunciates on every occasion, namely, the deliberate injustice permitted because it victimizes Negroes, is an evil which spreads and in the end involves all. Ignorance makes possible "white supremacy" in the South. But tolerated there, it spreads until indifference to the general good is everywhere and contaminates all. Justice will be done the Negro because justice becomes every one, the white man in power as well as the Negro who is under his domination. Either that or the strongest will be dragged down into the depths along side of those he victimizes. The only way any man can keep another in a ditch is to get down in it with his victim.

If an understanding of public affairs was standard for the American people, the evils now tolerated would be so plain that Mississippi could not elect a man like Bilbo, and Chicago would not choose Bill Thompon as its mayor because he denounced King George of England. Fanning hate would be the sure road to public disfavor in any community which had an intelligent grasp of its problems and possibilities.

LOWELL, MASS.
COURIER CITIZEN

AUG 8 1934

THE COLORED VOTE.

To the people of the North allowing Negroes to vote is a matter of simple justice and recognition of their rights under the Constitution. The educational qualifications of the states should be high enough to bar illiterate Negroes and whites alike; so discrimination seems entirely needless and the result of an old prejudice.

The case it not quite so simple as all that. In a few states the white and Negro populations are so nearly balanced that there is a genuine and perhaps not wholly unjustified fear of Negro domination. The Texas Weekly suggests an objection to Negro voting that possibly does not exist in any of the other states where this vote is suppressed. To allow Negroes to exercise their right, it is urged, would add to the number of manageable voters who could be got together in blocks for the support of powerful bosses. That is a broader question, however, than that of Negro voting. As the Weekly expreses it:

> What is needed in Texas is a thorough revision of the whole electoral system, including the qualifications for voting, and among other things to be sought is the elimination of the ignorant and manageable vote because it is ignorant and manageable, a block vote, and not on any racial ground. When this is done, the question of the entrance of Negroes into the Democratic primaries can be settled without much trouble, we think.

In many of the states the general sentiment would frown upon any attempt on the part of white candidates to appeal to the colored voters, en masse. The very fact, if it is a fact, that white politicians in Texas are ready to make use of the colored vote and that this can be done without exciting general indignation makes the question, it would seem, really more complicated than it is where suppression is the result of a determination to keep the Negro "in his place." At any rate, there can be no disputing that Texas politics should be cleaned up so as to make block voting of the ignorant more nearly impossible, as a preparation to allowing to the Negro his constitutional privilege.

Suffrage

Letters To The Editor

Please be brief. We reserve the right to cut letters more than 300 words long.

THE ALABAMA VOTER

Editor The Advertiser:

The United States Bureau of Census in 1930 listed the population of the following states:

Alabama	2,646,248
Kentucky	2,589,907
Georgia	2,891,646
Maryland	1,528,936
Oklahoma	2,356,992
Tennessee	2,597,534
Virginia	2,394,601

In the last presidential election the following table gives the total vote cast in these states:

Alabama	243,727
Kentucky	970,340
Georgia	253,981
Maryland	498,498
Oklahoma	704,633
Tennessee	385,963
Virginia	293,617

Alabama, with a total population exceeded only by Georgia, cast the smallest total of votes of any of these several States in the last presidential campaign. This apathy on the part of the citizenship of Alabama should be a matter of grave concern to everyone who is interested in good government.

In the forthcoming primary, when candidates for all of the State officers are to be nominated, approximately 200,000 people will go to the polls, out of a total white population of about 1,700,000, and too many of the voters will concern themselves only with some major State office or with some local county office. The voters who desire to obtain the maximum of efficiency and results from government should make it their concern to learn of the qualifications, efficiency and honesty of every candidate for every office, State and county, and then they will be enabled to vote intelligently.

It is common knowledge that first place, when occupied by the name of a candidate on a ballot, some particular office, taken as a state-wide proposition, means several thousand votes advantage for the candidate whose name occupies first place; that is to say that several thousand voters over the State, when they cast their ballot, not knowing any of the candidates for a particular office, vote for the first name on the ballot for that office, without concern for who he might be or what his qualifications are. The Legislature of 1931, recognizing such advantage (or rather disadvantage) changed the law in that regard, and now the ballots are required to be printed so as to alternate in position the names of the candidates, to the end that the name of each candidate shall occupy with reference to the name of every other candidate for the same office, first position, second position and every other position, if any, upon an equal number of ballots; and the law further provides that said ballots be distributed by the various Probate Judges impartially so as to carry out the idea and purpose stated.

Citizens and tax payers who are so careless and indifferent that they do not qualify as electors and go to the polls and vote for competent officials should not raise their voice against the way and manner in which the affairs of our State are conducted. When our entire citizenship awakens to the importance of voting in every election and the necessity of voting for efficient and honest candidates for public office, we may expect such government as is desired by the majority.

L. A. FARMER.

Dothan, Ala., March 23, 1934.

Charlotte, N. C., News
March 21, 1934

Negro Voters Gaining Power Over Nation

Reports Show Colored Population Holds Balance Of Power In Voting In Several States.

By H. E. C. Bryant
Charlotte News Staff Writer

Washington, March 21 — The trouble Representative Lindsay C. Warren, chairman of the house committee on accounts, is having with ambitious negroes is not just a racial prank. Negro leaders are beginning to realize their strength at the ballot box in states where they vote and it is recognized by political parties. In the south, where the negro question has been uppermost in the minds of people for many years, the grandfather and other suffrage restriction clauses have had a quieting effect. But, in northern middle western and eastern states where the negro's vote counts for just as much as that of his white neighbor, the situation is different. Southern people looked upon the negro migration to the west and north 19 years ago as a blessing. They were glad to be rid of a portion of the colored population. But they did not realize then that within 20 years the voting strength of some of the larger and more powerful states of the union would undergo such a change that the new element from Dixie would hold the balance of power in elections. They never dreamed the negro would turn Democrat in his new home and change the attitude of Congress toward his race, but that is what has happened. This fact became most apparent when a united effort of negroes in close states defeated the confirmation of John A. Parker for the supreme court after a Republican President had given him the nomination. If one would frighten a Democratic member of congress, representing a district or state north of the Mason-Dixon line, he can do so by forcing to a vote some measure in which the race issue is pronounced. A quick decision for a show down vote in the house on the question of permitting negroes to eat in the restaurant would result in such a stampede from the floor that onlookers would be reminded of a court adjournment back home.

Hold Balance of Power

The negro holds the balance of power in congressional districts and city elections in 18 or 19 states. In municipalities where Democrats dominate as a rule, negroes support the successful leaders.

New York negroes voted with Tammany and held remunerative offices.

Here is the latest census of negro voters in states that count for them: Michigan, 100,000; Illinois, 300,000; Indiana, 150,000; Kentucky, 125,000; Ohio, 200,000; Pennsylvania, 250,000; New Jersey, 100,000; New York, 250,000; Massachusetts, 100,000; Delaware, 30,000; Maryland, 50,000; Connecticut, 30,000; Rhode Island, 15,000; West Virginia, 75,000 Colorado, 20,000; California, 100,000; Iowa, 30,000, and Wisconsin, 25,000. In counties in Montana, Idaho, and other western states negro voters influence close elections.

If Representative DePriest, the lone negro in congress, succeeds in getting his proposal to open the house dining room to negroes to a vote, there will be many sad hearts, for all Democrats except those from the states where the negro is barred from the ballot by constitutional amendments or other devices, do not want to go on record.

IS THE SOUTHERN NEGRO IN EARNEST ABOUT HIS VOTING?

THE contention of Southern historians and journalists that certain amendments dealing with Negro suffrage and citizenship were pinned on them with federal bayonets has had an answer for 70 years at the ballot box. The Negro in the South has never been a welcome guest at the polls. In the early days of the exercise of his suffrage, the Negro was met by those conditions which made his voting hazardous. Bloodshed, boycott at labor and all kinds of subterfuges were visited upon him.

The Republican party, which claimed credit for his freedom, only made half a bid for his vote, in that, having an inactive state organization, the Negro vote came into use every four years when the time came for swapping horses for president. Even at that the Negro was carried to the convention and auctioned off to the highest and best bidder. The late Sam W. Small used to tell of an incident when a group of Negroes were interviewed as to whom they would support at a Republican convention, the terse remark was: "Part of us is for General Algers and the rest of us ain't been sold."

Before the advent of the white primaries and their attendant subterfuges, the Negro was sought. In a way he did not know for whom nor what he was voting. Designing politicians often bought his vote and in many instances, his vote was thrown out when it was not scratched to suit the managers of the election.

On down the years the appearance of the Negro at the polls left a bad taste in the mouths of those whose fathers had fought on the side of Stonewall Jackson and Lee. The standard contention was that Negroes had no right to participate in affairs "where white men had met to settle their differences." The grandfather clause and total disfranchisement were the final solutions that drove the Negro from participating in selecting those who were to represent him and spend his tax money.

A few old timers and those who sought patronage control and federal office were all that remained to fan the spark of Negro suffrage. Somehow as the years passed by the Negro gradually lost his hold on patronage plums. The Republican party, which Fred Douglass had told him was the ship and all else the sea, began to become submerged in the sea. That party, realizing that the Negro had no other haven, began to take him as a pawn. Every year seemed to sweep the Negro further and further from the pie counter until he finally lost interest in being herded up every four years to have his nose counted in state conventions.

Another feature contributing to the Negro's stranglehold was the law passed in many of the Southern states providing that all taxes be paid before qualifying to vote. Many eminent Southern commentaries, in objecting to the repeal of this law during the present depression when many white citizens could not pay their tax, frankly stated that this was the main subterfuge for the keeping of the Negro from the polls; that if the law provided that only the poll tax be paid, the flood gates would be open for some Republican interest to drop in over night and enfranchise thousands of blacks. It was also pointed out that in Georgia, there were eleven counties in which eligible Negroes outnumbered the whites.

The ballot finally beame a will-o-the-wisp to the Negro, eluding as he pursued. The psychology of voting finally took a shift to the field of interest and reward for participation. Under these heads, the Negro saw in every instance that he could not be voted for. A new school came upon the scene which flatly declared that Negroes were tired of voting for or against somebody. They wanted to be voted for. Under the debris of these conditions there came an inertia in which the Negro was not particularly interested in qualifying for the polls.

The callous attitude of the Hoover administration toward the Negro seemed to have wiped out the last vestige of interest left the Negro in proclaiming his featyy to his first love. He finally reached the conclusion that he had paid the debt he owed Lincoln, Steward Stevens, who took the stick from his back. Many of them openly declared that they would as soon vote Democratic. But that party has never made a bid for his vote in the South. It protects itself from his intrusion by what is styled a Democratic white primary.

We hear much ado at times urging Negroes to register and arm themselves with the ballot. Little result has come from these efforts. It calls for the beating of tom-toms and the raising of cain in general to get a few names on the eligible list. The Negro flatly refuses to register and has little or no concern on election day as to who gets elected. Now and then there is a school of citizenship and mass meetings to create an educational campaign to register Negroes, but when the tumult and the shouting die, the interest lags. It takes a storm to get them on the registration list and a storm to keep them there.

The Negro has had good and sufficient grounds many a time to contest the irregular elections that have been carried through, without exercising that weapon. It will call for educational campaigns and long appeals to race pride and the power of the ballot to ever get the Negroes out in any appreciable manner to vote.

From this angle it would seem that the Negro is unwilling to break the ice into the Democratic primaries; that he has not backbone and guts sufficient to rise up and put out candidates on his own hooks. He has to be shamed out and harrassed to the registration books and guarded like a convict on election day. In the evening of cool and deliberate reasoning, an honest appraisal would justify a conclusion that the Negro in the South is not particular about voting but just gets a kick out of raising the devil now and then about it.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.
REPUBLICAN
AUG 24 1934

DISFRANCHISING WHITES

To the Editor of The Republican:—I am afraid that many people, even colored people, do not get the significance of Huey Long's present "labors" in Louisiana. He is a product of the system invented to disfranchise and decitizenize the weak. Having got rid of the weak, the "strong" have now divided into two factions and each faction is trying to get hold of the tricky weapon which they forged to use against the weak; namely, the machinery of "registration" and "primaries" control.

They know, for example, that whichever side controls registration and primary voting is unbeatable. How do they know it? Because they made their new "constitution" and sham laws so that they could disfranchise any Negro in Louisiana, from a university graduate to a field hand. The tricky system which they set up would make it legally possible for them to disfranchise Franklin Delano Roosevelt and all his family and cabinet.

That is why I am rooting for Huey; he is doing what of course he does not mean to do: He is showing up the rotten system which he and the others have created.

Now we see the spectacle: The "decent" white hypocrites who helped the Huey Long type to "get rid of the Negro vote," now have their "decent" backs to the wall, and the decent Negroes who were disfranchised are powerless to come to their aid. If they could vote today, undoubtedly the great majority of Louisiana Negroes would stand against political trickery and tampering with elections. It is the disadvantaged minority who always have the greatest interest against tampering with election machinery—against trickery in the management of elections.

As it is, Huey is not even satisfied with the tricks invented to use against the Negroes; he has had two or three dozen other bills passed by the Legislature to make sure of hogtying his opposing whites.

There are other states, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, South Carolina, which have similar "pet monsters" in their systems of law which may some day be turned against any efforts they make for reform. Just now, however, Louisiana seems about to hit the political bottom in America, as it long held the educational bottom in both its white and its colored populations. WILLIAM PICKENS.

New York city, August 20, 1934.

Changed Allegiance of Colored Voters Discussed by Negro Educational Leader

Editor Constitution: The negro during the past quarter of a century has been showing increasing dissatisfaction with the treatment which he has received at the hands of the republican party. The grand old party, which freed the negro, gave him citizenship and equality, before the law placed the benefited race under a heavy debt of lasting gratitude. But, gratitude will not long survive the changed attitude of the benefactor.

Atlanta Constitution Nov 26 '34

There was a noticeable restlessness and complaint under the administration of President Taft. As a result, a great number of colored voters cast their ballot for President Wilson in 1912. The administration of Harding, Coolidge and Hoover accentuated this dissatisfaction beyond the point of endurance. A great many negroes voted for John W. Davis against Calvin Coolidge in 1924. It has been estimated that fully one-third of the colored race, in the free voting states of the north, supported Al Smith in 1928, while quite half of them supported Franklin D. Roosevelt in the last presidential election.

That the overwhelming majority of negroes upheld the New Deal in the recent congressional election can be proved with mathematical certainty. In the first congressional district of Illinois with a preponderant negro population, Congressman Oscar DePriest, the veteran stalwart negro republican, was replaced by Oscar W. Mitchell, a negro democrat who supported Roosevelt and the New Deal. In Harlem, the black belt of New York city, two negro democrats were sent to the legislature over their negro republican opponents. Even though Sinclair and his Epic philosophy lost the state of California to the democratic fold, yet in Los Angeles negro voters elected a democratic negro to the legislature over his negro republican opponent who had held the seat for eight or ten years. Indianapolis sent two negro candidates to the legislature over their republican rivals, on the basis of the colored vote.

Perhaps, most convincing of all, the voters of Boley, Okla., a wholly negro town, gave every candidate running on the democratic ticket a majority of its vote. The remarkable triumph of the democratic ticket in Pennsylvania was due in large part to the 200,000 qualified negro voters of that state, who in unprecedented numbers threw their strength to the democratic candidates.

Similar facts can be cited from other states and cities. It is wholly within the bounds of likelihood to say that fully two-thirds of the negro vote in the recent election was thrown on the side of Roosevelt and the New Deal.

Serious reflections grow out of these plain facts of observation. The political center of gravity of the negro race has not only shifted from the south to the north but from the republican to the democratic party. The northern contingent of the democratic party, now in the ascendency, is every whit as kindly disposed to the negro's claim to political and civic equality as are the republicans of that section. On the other hand, the southern republicans, of the lily white variety, are just as hostile to his aspirations as are local democrats. Racial attitude is not an attribute of partizanship or of lines of latitude, but rather of relativity of number of the two races. An understanding of this principle will go far toward absorbing the negro in the political equation on the basis of equity and justice.

The northern migration of the negro has had as its political by-product his espousal of the democratic cause. The New Deal has baptized the nation in a new spirit regardless of race, section or previous political belief. Just as the democratic party of the north has become liberalized toward the negro through proffer of support, it is to be hoped that the southern contingent of that party will be induced to go and do likewise. Where outside compulsion has failed propitiation may succeed.

KELLY MILLER.
Howard University.
Washington, D. C., November 23, 1934.

Political - 1934

Suffrage.

General

5

PHILADELPHIA, PA.
RECORD

MAR 3 1934

Negro Vote

Editor of The Record:

Sir:—The War Board, newly created to supervise the coming campaign locally and guide the Republican party back to a majority status, has justly provoked criticism from 219,599 Negroes (census 1930) because of the exclusion of one of its members from the personnel.

The lesson taught Vare in 1933 that the vest-pocket security of the vote of this group was a misplaced conjecture seems to have had no telling effect upon the seemingly ignorant minds of the directors of the destiny of the Republican party.

The slight will be well remembered in the coming primaries and general elections, for deliverance from political allegiance has been accomplished at the hand of Hazlett, who heretofore has been able to wield the whip.

Beware the Ides of March!

ADOLPHUS W. ANDERSON.

Raleigh, N. C. Times
March 21, 1934

NEGRO MOVE HAS MEANING

Bryant Sees Real Significance In House Restaurant Row

BALANCE OF POWER

Negro Vote Can Swing Elections In Closely Divided States

By H. E. C. BRYANT
(Raleigh TIMES Washington Bureau)

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The trouble Representative Lindsay C. Warren, chairman of the House Committee on Accounts, is having with ambitious Negroes is not just a racial prank. Negro leaders are beginning to realize their strength at the ballot box in states where they vote, and it is recognized by political parties. In the South, where the Negro question has been uppermost in the minds of people for many years, the grandfather and other suffrage restriction clauses have had a quieting effect. But, in Northern, Middle Western, and Eastern states, where the Negro's vote counts for just as much as that of his white neighbor, the situation is different.

Southern people looked upon the Negro migration to the West, and North 19 years ago as a blessing. They were glad to be rid of a portion of the colored population. But they did not realize then that within twenty years the voting strength of some of the larger and more powerful states of the Union would undergo such a change that the new element from Dixie would hold the balance of power in elections. They never dreamed that the Negro would turn Democrat in his new home, and change the attitude of Congress toward his race, but that is what has happened.

Fact Apparent

This fact became most apparent when a united effort of Negroes in close states defeated the confirmation of John A. Parker for the Supreme Court after a Republican President had given him the nomination. If one would frighten a Democratic member of Congress, representing a district or state, North of the Mason-Dixon line he can do so by forcing to a vote some measure in which the race issue is pronounced. A quick decision for a showdown vote in the House on the question of permitting Negroes to eat in the restaurant would result in such a stampede from the floor that onlookers would be reminded of a court adjournment back home.

Negroes In Balance

The Negro holds the balance of power in Congressional districts and city elections in 18 or 19 states. In municipalities, where Democrats dominate as a rule, Negroes support the successsful leaders.

New York Negroes voted with Tammany, and held remunerative offices.

Here is the latest census of Negro voters in states that count for them: Indiana, 150,000; Kentucky, 125,000; Ohio, 200,000; Pennsylvania, 250,000; New Jersey, 100,000; New York, 250,000; Massachusetts, 100,000; Delaware, 30,000; Maryland, 50,000; Connecticut, 30,000; Rhode Island, 15,000; West Virginia, 75,000; Colorado, 20,000; California, 100,000; Iowa 30,000, and Wisconsin, 25,000. In counties in Montana, Idaho, and other Western states Negro voters influence close elections.

If Representative DePriest, the lone Negro in Congress, succeeds in getting his proposal to open the House dining room to Negroes to a vote there will be many sad hearts, for all Democrats, except those from states where the Negro is barred from the ballot by Constitutional amendments or other devices, do not want to go on record.

Doughton Stands Alone

Twice within the last week Farmer Bob—Representative Robert L. Doughton, chairman of the House Committee on Ways and Means, was the only member of the North Carolina delegation to stand with the administration in opposing bills in the House. He voted against the bonus measure and later the Dies silver bill. Messrs. Abernethy and Pou did not vote on the silver proposal.

It was said on the floor of the House during the debate that the administration did not object to the Dies bill but Mr. Doughton went to the trouble to call up the treasury department and the White House and ask if that was true and he was told by the President that he did not favor the legislation. Secretary Morgenthau made a smiliar statement.

SOMETHING WRONG SOMEWHERE

Two statements published in a national weekly set us to thinking. One is that there are 181 counties in the United States where Negroes outnumber whites. In 169 of these 181 counties, notwithstanding they are in the majority, Negroes hold no elective or administrative office whatever. Evidently government of the people by the people is something to be talked of, not to be lived by, in those counties.

The other statement is that 13,000,000 persons are drawing money indirectly from the government; 9,000,000 more get money directly. This nation has boasted of its progress built on individual initiative. Yet one-fifth of the people are not showing individual initiative according to these figures. To that degree at least the boast is empty.

The American people have the habit of saying a thing with force, as much as to say no one dare challenge their word. They have said the participation of Negroe in public affairs, especially in the South, would be against the public interest. Evidently with the Negro taking no part even where his numbers entitle him to control. all is not well

Case
3
23 Bill
Leg. Exp.

Louisville, Ky., Irish American
March 31, 1934

TAKING IT OUT ON NEGROES.

The Kansas City election Tuesday indicated again that the Republican party is still mad at the Negro Republicans for their defection from the G. O. P. standard. Just as in the Louisville election, many Negroes supported the Democratic ticket for the first time, and this aroused the fury of the Republican bosses. A Negro Democratic election officer was killed and many others of his kind were battered and assaulted. Just about the same result as in Louisville, one Negro Democrat being murdered and many beaten up. Posing as the "honest election" party and running under a Fusionist emblem many ex-convicts and thugs were recruited to work for "reform" against the Democratic ticket and one of the "reform" leaders was exposed as having been arrested twenty-seven times. This "reform" leader led squads of thugs specializing in beating up Negroes who dared support the Democratic ticket.

This would remind you of the Brownie Camp crew who were here on election day, specializing in terrorizing and intimidating Negro Democrats. In another way the Kansas City Republican Fusionists imitated the Louisville Republicans. Much was made of the "awful" Pendergast Democratic machine, just as local Republicans talked of the "awful" Brennan machine. The voters weren't fooled in Kansas City as the 60,000 Democratic majority showed, just as they were not fooled in Louisville when the voters overcame a padded and juggled registration majority of 50,000 to win. In St. Louis, Chicago, Indianapolis, New York and other cities, and now Kansas City and Louisville the Negroe voters have been getting away from the Republican party and the Abe Lincoln fetish, which has aroused the G. O. P. to particular frenzy against their former allies.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.
TRIBUNE

MAR 29 1934

Perplexing Returns

KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI, in 1930 had a population of 399,746. Metropolitan Kansas City contains some large suburbs and also embraces Kansas City, Kansas with a population of over 100,000, but the city election on Tuesday of Kansas City, Missouri, affected only the population of 399,746.

The unofficial returns from the election show 223,000 votes cast. That means that 56 percent of the entire population voted. In New Orleans there are almost no Republican registered voters and our colored population for the most part is unregistered and so ineligible to vote. The population of New Orleans in 1930 was 458,000. If we deduct from that 100,000 colored residents we have 358,000. The recent city primary in New Orleans showed approximately a round-figure vote of 107,000. Everyone knows that every possible vote was cast in the city in the Democratic primary. Roughly, 30 percent of the population of New Orleans voted in that primary. Moreover, we are inclined to believe that despite all the checking that could possibly be exercised by the various sections, there were some improper votes cast.

It therefore remains a puzzle to us and we believe will remain a puzzle to the nation how Kansas City can possibly cast legitimately the overwhelming vote which it recorded as having cast in its city primary.

Colored people are eligible to vote in Kansas City. Dr. A. Ross Hill, heading the ticket which opposed the Pendergast machine, received 81,749 votes. The Pendergast candidate received over 141,000. Four persons were killed in the Kansas City election. There are reports of scores of sluggings and of machine-gun terrorism. The young people's movement of a bi-partisan and non-political character backed Dr. Hill for the mayoralty.

A MOVEMENT of this character is under way in New Orleans and in Louisiana. We have repeatedly expressed our sympathy for this organization. Dishonest registration and dishonest voting hit at the very roots of a Democratic form of government.

All of us must acquiesce in majority rule whether we like it or not. Majority rule means orderly government, and if we do not recognize the right of a majority to rule, we must turn to dictatorship.

The young men of New Orleans and Louisiana who organize to clean up our elections—city and state—should organize with the idea definitely in mind that they are not going into a pink-tea movement. Any organization which seeks honest voting and honest elections must work between elections. It is reasonable to assume that no political faction in New Orleans would throw any serious obstacle in the way of a thorough checking and revision of all the election rolls of the city.

Frauds were perpetrated on the voters of New Orleans when the Old Regulars and the State machine were operating in conjunction. When they get out and fight one another, a practical and automatic check is created against the padding of the registration rolls.

We have always maintained that it is much more important that New Orleans should have honest elections, than it is that any particular group should control the city.

A really virile organization which seeks to clean up election roles would find a good field for its labors in the parishes adjacent to the city. These parishes influence city elections and national elections in that they are included in the First and Second Congressional Districts.

A THOROUGH check-up and clean-up of the registration rolls in the First and Second Congressional Districts would convince the rest of the state that New Orleans is sincere in wanting to lead the way to honest primaries in Louisiana. We can imagine no schooling more valuable in public life for the young men of this state than to have their organization throughout the entire state take charge of this work.

We are discussing this matter in connection with the Kansas City election, partly because New Orleans and Louisiana have, in our opinion, been given a disproportionate amount of unfavorable report in connection with our elections and election methods. We can't help the notoriety, we can't help what other people say or think, but we can help what we do, and if all of us who protest that we want honest elections give time and personal effort and money in connection to it, we can clean up our election system.

There is a great deal of hypocrisy in many of the protests which come from country districts regarding election methods in New Orleans. Some of the election returns which have come to New Orleans from country districts within the past decade have represented almost as much suspicious vote-counting as do the election returns from Kansas City.

We need an organization among responsible, old-time Americans and believers in democracy, not only in New Orleans and Louisiana, but throughout a great many sections of the United States, including, in our opinion, Kansas City.

PARSONS, KANS.
SUN

APR 6 1934

Supreme Court Swings Back

When the 14th amendment to the constitution was adopted it was intended to protect the newly enfranchised Negro citizen in his newly acquired rights. For 20 years a fairly liberal supreme court of the United States held it to that purpose. Then came a conservative—we almost said reactionary—bunch of judges and they held that "no person shall be deprived—without due process of law" meant corporations. The most brilliant lawyer of Kansas, Fred Dumont Smith of Hutchinson, wrote a little book about the "revolution" brought about through that interpretation. Smith is a conservative, too.

Now the court is swinging back to the original position. Yesterday, in its New York milk decision the supreme court took the longest step toward holding the 14th amendment to its proper purpose that has been taken for 50 years—or since the court made its first departure to protect property. The question itself had some importance but the court's implication goes far beyond the immediate case.

There isn't a chance in the world that the 14th amendment ever would have been adopted had the people forseen the use to which it would be put in the interference with state control of, for example, public utility regulation and other corporation matters, arising out of the warped judgment of men upon a great court. Warped because of their inherent conservatism and not from any corruptibility.

The writer felt so keenly on the subject that he had discussed with senators and leading lawyers the possibility of trying to amend the amendment so as to bring it back to the original purpose. If the high court will follow up the instant decision—and the present court doubtless will do so—with other precedents that will be unnecessary. The liberal membership of the court is more likely to be increased than diminished in the next several years.

The use of the 14th amendment is the most striking example in our whole history of where the courts have—in effect—legislated without and beyond the sanction of the people or any legislative body. The sun of liberalism shines brightly upon the nation at this time.

How Will He Vote?

Negro, Ballot in Hand, Who will He Support? Three Alternatives

Editor, Journal and Guide:

Among the great unanswerable questions of the season and one that is giving the leaders of the major political parties much concern is "How will the colored voter cast his vote in the coming elections?" This importance is enhanced by the knowledge that the colored votes, if properly managed, could decide an election in at least a dozen doubtful states.

Since their enfranchisement, the colored voters have been considered members of the Republican party, conceded as such by the Democrats, and accepted as such without much ado by the Republicans. But to the utter surprise of both parties, a survey has shown that over 1,500,000 of these voters went to the Democrats in the last general election.

These came to the Democrats without invitation and quite naturally the Democrats desire to retain them, but without public announcement. The Republicans, realizing too late that their loss was due to negligence and overconfidence, besides their many other worries are racking their brains for a plan to lure them back into the fold without wounding their own political pride.

And so, the battle, as yet behind the scene, goes merrily on with the colored votes as the prize. The Democrats have recently made several well timed appointments that will boost their stock in the coveted prize, and the Republicans, terribly handicapped, being the "outs," are, at present quietly working under cover but are expected soon to come into the opening with something to "bring the bacon home."

It can be truthfully said, however, to the credit of the present day colored voter, that the basis of his party affiliation is neither sentiment, emotion nor inheritance, but rather sound reasoning on issues and men as they affect the race group as a whole.

The party therefore, setting forth best offer for a new emancipation of the race can expect the unstinted support of the race group in future campaigns. Reports are beginning to come in, that in many communities, the Negro voters have divorced themselves from both of the major parties, organizing as independents, and holding out for the best offer, not of money, but of manhood rights and opportunities in American life.

—H. J. FORD

Washington, D. C.

Political - 1934

Suffrage.

Georgia

Chattanooga, Tenn.
TIMES

APR 16 1934

CHARGES NEGROES IMPORTED TO VOTE

Thornhill Says Robinson Clan Wielded "Big Stick."

Claims Tate's Men Abused Antileaguers—Sees Democratic Shadow on G.O.P.

Negroes were brought from various county communities and from north Georgia, taken from ward to ward and voted in the republican precinct primaries Friday, W. E. Thornhill, secretary of the Colored Citizens Civic league, charged in a statement yesterday to The Times.

In the convention Saturday, Thornhill continues, two members of the executive committee of the Voters' league, Walter Robinson's organization, were placed on the credentials committee and voted on contests involving their own members. "Are the republicans hopelessly in the clutches of the democrats?" Thornhill asks, commenting on Dock Harper, who, according to Thornhill, must support the democratic county judge who employs him. Thornhill's statement is in part as follows:

"Please allow me space to give some facts concerning the elections of chairmen in the Negro wards. We, as a group of republican voters, opposed the candidates that represented the Voters' league. We formed organizations in each ward and instructed our groups against boss rule. The election is over and in only one instance was one of our group privileged to a seat in the convention. We had known all along that the democrats were going to try to rule the republican convention and in many instances they succeeded.

"We make no apology for our fight and opposition to the principles and policies of the Voters' league and make no excuses for not winning, rather for not being privileged to a convention seat. There was no possible way for our candidates for chairmen, no matter how fairly elected or how unfairly treated, to be seated. When any organization or convention puts members of one opposing group on a credentials committee to try members of the other group that in itself says a fair deal is not to be expected. This happened in the convention Saturday, as two members of the executive committee of the Voters' league were put on the credentials committee to hear and decide cases involving Voters' league members against the opposing chairmen. The political machine picked the chairmen they preferred, giving no concern to the wishes of the voters in the wards. Some more of the boss rule!

"The Voters' league members seemed to know they would get this advantage as Dock Harper said weeks before the election that if he only received three votes he would be seated, and on the eve of the election published a notice to the republican party saying if all the Robinson-Byers-Harper delegates were not seated they would all walk out. Harper is a democratic supporter, he has to be, and down through the next months he will be along with the others supporting the democratic judge. They have done this before and will have to do it now to save their jobs. What is it the republicans hope for in such a deal? Are they helplessly in the clutches of the democrats? One thing we do know is that votes from all citizens, whether they are in a party or not, count and only through this avenue can one count his success in the coming election.

"In seven of the Negro wards deputy sheriffs from the county jail were sent out and took charge of the election favoring the Voters' league candidates and abusing the opposing candidates and their voters. One particular instance is the First precinct of the Seventh ward. There the six deputies allowed voters for the Voters' league candidate to vote three and four times, while the workers for the opposing group were refused admittance and many of their voters were denied a chance to vote for their candidate. School children were allowed to vote all these wards for the Voters' league candidates, trucks and cars brought people from Ooltewah, Summit, Shepherd and other county precincts, from South Chattanooga, and even from Blowing Springs, Ga., into the wards, and voted these outsiders for the Voters' league candidates. These same trucks and cars carried these outsiders from ward to ward voting them several times for different ones of their candidates.

"Our candidates went to the convention to contest their right to be seated and lost every one of the seven wards through the credentials committee's political machine. In the ward where our candidate had over 300 voters present the Voters' league candidate won by saying there were only thirty present for this candidate.

"They knew they could not win fairly so fear made them resort to unfair tactics. Their actions say plainly they feared their opposition and laid plans to take what they knew they did not have. Opposition of an ant or midget causes the ordinary individual no apprehension, but let a lion or giant come on the scene the average individual becomes fearful and makes plans and preparations to try subdue or kill this kind of opposition. Giants and lions are not easily subdued.

"We are stronger today than we ever have been. When people know they are right and know so surely they did not get a fair deal, that a form of highway robbery was committed by the help of the law, they do not get discouraged, but get even more determined to win. Our forces are indignant and resentful to those who allowed such methods to be perpetrated."

Swainsboro, Ga., Forest-Blade
June 14, 1934

Georgia Politics

By J. F. B.

When I was a little boy, the people lamented over the fact that politics were rotten, and the public officers were all grafters. Just as they are doing today. The leaders blamed the Negro voters for not being able to elect good, upright and honest men to public office. They accused the Negro of having a selfish motive, and voting for the candidate that gave him the most money, or the last drink of rotten whiskey, regardless as to whether he was a fit character to fill the office.

Soon the shout went up from the leaders, "The Negro is the man in the wood-pile, he holds the balance of voting power. Let us disfranchise him, and forever eliminate him from from the politics of Georgia. Then we can elect statesmen to fill our public offices, and then the millennium of pure politics will begin in Georgia." And immediately the Negro was disfranchised. Did this act purify the political structure of Georgia? No. It only proved to be the greatest blessing the white man ever bestowed upon the colored man in Georgia. Taking him out of rotten politics. He has lived happier and better ever since. This was a wonderful move for the betterment of the Negro race in Georgia.

In a short time the leaders decided that it was not altogether the Negro voter that was causing so much trouble in state Government. It was the railroads of Georgia. They were giving passes to all the office-holders, and bribing them to make laws and act in favor of the railroad against the laboring man. They said the railroads were controlling the state. Right here began a series of surgical operations on the railroads of Georgia. They operated for different complaints of the public annually for several years, before the operations were completed, however, highway building started, good roads opened up. Very soon passenger cars, busses and trucks removed the railroads from politics, and practically put them out of business. Has eliminating the railroads corrected the evils in our state organizations? This question needs no answer.

About the time our leaders finished eliminating the Negroes and railroads from poltics, our governmental affairs in Georgia were rrunning in high, corruption, grafting and other troubles was abroad in the state, just like it is today. Our leaders stood looking in every direction for the cause of the trouble, but failed to take a look at themselves and the other voters of the state, why by their vote had caused all of the unrest by electing the wrong man to office.

The good women of Georgia (God bless them, they are the finest in the world, with all their faults) were the first to see the great danger to the state. They made a special demand for the right to vote in Georgia. They cried, "Give us the ballot, you drunken, spineless, brainless, walking pants, and we will eradicate, renovate and rejuvenate the state until it will almost be a paradise."

The good women of the state showed their ability intelllectually in making these demands for the ballot just when they did. Of course, they wanted to help correct the evils in their beloved State. At the same time they saw it was the opportune time to put over their fight for the ballot. The World War was becoming to be very serious with most of the men. They realized that these good wives, mothers and sisters was all there was between them and the Germans' guns. So we sent a few uneasy men up to Atlanta, and they soon ratified the amendment which gave the women the free and unlimited right to the ballot in Georgia, which was perfectly alright. I think they are entitled to the ballot. Their voting has made but very little difference in correcting the evils in the state government. We have had plenty of voters all the time, but not the right kind. Most of our voters vote and then think how they voted afterwards. Georgia needs voters who think well first, then cast the ballot intelligently. This is the only way we can ever elect good, sound men to fill our positions of public trust.

I do not think the ballot has done our women any good, personally, since they have been voting something has had a demoralizing effect upon them. I believe there is a larger per cent of immoral, smoking, cursing, whisky drinking women in Georgia today than ever before in the history of the State.

We are voting today just as we claimed the Negroes voted, "for the loaves and fishes". We no longer consider the sacredness of the ballot. Many of us will vote to re-elect a candidate to office just because he carried out a pledge in his first race, to do this might have cost the tax payers millions of dollars. Others will vote to re-elect a candidate through personal or selfish reasons, at the same time knowing down in his heart that he is not fit for the place.

The only way under heaven to correct the mistakes of the past, and not make any more, is for every voter to lay aside, all likes and dislikes, personal favors, selfish motives, forget self and think of your duty you owe to the great state of Georgia and pick out the candidate who you think it honest, upright and had manhood enough to fill whatever office he is asking for, with credit to himself and honor to the people who elected him. If we will put good honorable men with experience and ability in our public offices, dishonesty, graft, wastefulness military rule, strife, and all kinds of dissention, will pass away, and we will have harmony and peace.

Mr. voter will stand in his place on Georgia. Voter, then good times will return and election day as an honest citizen and to our State again. It all depends on how you vote. I hope that every the honor of the great State of

REGISTER AND VOTE.

The city registration books will close Saturday, July 28, yet at this time not one-half of those who are entitled to register have done so.

If the city gets a council that will enmesh it in debt and ruin its credit the slackers who do not register will have only themselves to blame.

The city is a corporation, just as is an industrial institution, and every person over 21 years of age is a stockholder. The city council acts as does a board of directors in conducting the business of the city, and for its welfare and the safe conduct of its business, the stockholders should participate in the selection of the men who will have charge of receipts and expenditures for the ensuing year.

Time was when men fought for the right to vote, and say who should direct the affairs of state. For many years women campaigned to secure the right to vote, and one of their best arguments for the right of franchise was that they would see to it that better officials were elected.

But here in Atlanta less than half of those who should register and vote, both men and women, have shown any inclination to make use of their right and privilege.

If an attempt were made to disfranchise them for not exercising this right there would be a terrific howl; but having it, they disregard it, and then complain about the official acts of some of the men who secure office.

Only the rigid economy program to which Mayor Key has strictly adhered during the past few years has saved the city from being plunged deeply into debt.

The selection of officials at the primary this fall is a grave matter in which every citizen is vitally interested, and only men should be elected who will be as careful with the city's affairs as they are with their own.

Register now, and vote at the primary!

Don't be a slacker!

Constitution 7-17-34 Atlanta, Ga.

Preparing To Fight White Primary

Colored Democratic Club Engages SEVERAL LAWYERS

Plans Being Laid to Raise Campaign Fund

Tribune 7-19-34

An enthusiastic meeting of the Colored Democratic Club of Chatham county was held Monday night at St. Phillip A. M. E. church, Charles and West Broad streets.

President T. J. Hopkins, jr., opened the meeting with an outline of the reasons for the organization of the club and the benefit that would be obtained if they proceeded to function according to the plans of the organization. He treated upon our position in the community and the lack of rights and privileges which obt in in the community for us because of our disfranchisement in reference to the Democratic Primary. He also analized the legal attack which the club is sponsoring and stated that this was not just a fight of the colored Democrats, but a fight of every colored citizen for a guaranteed right under the constitution of the United States of America and also the state of Georgia He then presented Attorney Aaron Kravitch, who has been retained as one of the lawyers to conduct the legal attack against the white primary.

Mr. Kravitch said in part: "The Democratic party North and South offered more to the colored people than any other party." He said, "we are living in the South, therefore we must be Democrats if we expect to function properly in our local government and we would have to assert ourselves leally, peacefully and quietly if we expected to get our rights."

He stated further "that majority of the people only recognize physical oppression, but other kinds of oppression were just as bad if not worse." He said some of us felt the physical oppression and for that reason we were conducting this attack. After realizing the nature of our oppression we should face the issue fairly and squarely and if we have the courage and manhood or womanhood to see the fight then we would not lose. He said the supreme court of the United States would repeat itself in this case as it had in the Texas case.

He further admonished us to forget our personal differences and think in terms of the race. Forget we were Republicans or Democrats and to see the issue in its real light which is a denia of a constitutional right as the right to vote in the primary is the right to vote as meant in the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution.

Prof. Thomas N. Roberts responded to Mr. Kravitch very ably and said that we were men and women and would deport ourselves as such and would see the fight through. He said further that we would be willing now to try the ballot since we had tried religion to lead us forward to our rightful place in the community, and it had failed; we had tried education and it had failed and now at last we should give this a trial and if it should fail we should leave America.

Attorney W. H. Hopkins then analyzed our legal attack and the methods that would be used by our attorneys in their fight. He gave us the cost of seeing the fight through the United States Supreme court to be at least $1,500 and he detailed how this money would be spent. He asked the audience if they would not be willing to pay ten thousand dollars to see our rights protected and to give our children their rights and privileges as guaranteed by the Constitution. He pledged himself, Mr. Kravitch and Mr. Jackson to make the strongest fight possible for our cause and assured us that we would be successful if we stuck together.

All of these addresses were well received and Rev. C. P. Hobbs responded and assured us that he would support the movement and would do everything possible to see the fight through.

The meeting adjourned with prayer by Rev. Paul Johns, after the president annuonced that solicitors would try to see every one for a contribution to this legal attack and if you did not receive a call from a solicitor, send your contribution to Toland J. Edwards, treasurer, at 611 West Broad St.

Voters Meet Friday Night

To Discuss Plans For The Prosecution of THE COMING CONTEST

Will Meet at Monroe Under taking Establishment

Tribune 9-4-34

All colored voters are requested and urged to be present at a mass meeting of voters at Monroe's Chapel, Charles and West Broad street on Friday night, September 7th, at 8 o'clock. This meeting is called in order to instruct the voters upon their rights and how we are to secure the right to vote in the primary on September 12. It is necessary that all colored voters appear at the polls if we expect to insure to ourselves all the rights of citizenship and improve our condition in the community.

This meeting is called by the Colored Democratic Club of Chatham County in furtherance of its ideals of advancing the Negroes of Savannah politically.

SAVANNAH, GA.
NEWS

SEP 16 1934

PRIMARY PROTEST FATALLY DEFECTIVE

Experts Say Should Have Appeared Before Judges

Political circles were unperturbed yesterday by the reported movement among a group of colored citizens to contest the Democratic white primary last Wednesday on the ground that they had been denied the right of the ballot in the primary.

The reason for the lack of anxiety was occasioned by the statement of a prominent official that any such movement was fatally defective because the colored citizens who presented themselves at the polls and requested ballots failed to follow through the protest routine. It was stated that no colored citizens denied a ballot in the primary appeared before the judges of the election at the court house to complain. The judges of the election were just what their titles implied. In disputes over the qualifications of any voter to obtain a ballot and to place it in the ballot boxes they were the judges.

The Colored Democratic Club had instructed those denied ballots to make affidavits of same at certain law offices of colored lawyers. The view in informed circles yesterday was that the affidavits will be no good, because those swearing or affirming thereto failed to go through the proper procedure to lodge a complaint and to obtain a ballot.

Much interest was taken in the case, because there are more than 1,100 registered negro voters in the county

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Georgia
6

Status of the Primary

Representative E. E. Cox is one of the ablest members of the Georgia delegation in Congress. He challenges admiration for his independence in discussion of any public question and the clearness with which he supports his contention.

We are unable to follow him, however, in his argument that "a state primary is not a condition precedent to the holding of a bona fide legal election to fill a vacancy in the House from Louisiana or any other commonwealth." Specifically, he adds that a legal election is not dependent upon a primary, "which is merely a party activity."

The discussion arose in the matter of the contested election claims of Mrs. Boliver E. Kemp and of Jared Y. Sanders, Jr., of the Sixth Louisiana district. The House, following the recommendation of the committee on privilages and elections, refused to seat either contestant, which means that the district will probably have no representation in the House during the present session, since it would not be possible, under Louisiana law, to hold a primary and election before April.

The House is well within its right in refusing to seat either contestant. The constitution declares that each branch of Congress shall be the judge of the election of its own members. It does not have to give any reason for refusing to seat a contestant.

It seems to us, however, that since the House did undertake to declare that the elections in question were illegal, the contention was absolutely sound.

It will be remembered that the governor of Louisiana, who is a partisan of Huey Long, called an election to take place within a few days, without the preliminary of a primary, and the district executive committee, also allied with Long, certified the name of Mrs. Kemp alone. A number of the parishes in the district refused to hold elections in such circumstances.

Later the opponents of Long, in what might be called a series of mass meetings, nominated Sanders and he received a far larger number of votes in the following election than Mrs. Kemp had previously received.

We are not especially familiar with the election laws of Louisiana, but Mr. Cox makes the broad statement that a primary in "other commonwealths" as well as in Louisiana, is "merely a party activity."

There was a time when this was true in Georgia, but it can hardly be said that it is true now. Large through the efforts of the late Hoke Smith, all the safe-guards thrown around an election were made to apply to a primary. False registration or illegal voting of any kind in a primary is just as much punishable as in a regular election. Can it be contended that pains and penalties could be imposed for illegal participation in a primary if it were merely a party activity? The Democratic executive committee of the state and of any political unit in the state certainly has no authority to impose penalties for a violation of election laws. In short, the primary has long since acquired the same dignity before the law as a general election. Indeed, in a state like Georgia, where success in a Democratic primary is equivalent to election, the primary becomes the real election and very properly should be clothed with every safeguard.

There can hardly be any doubt that the election of Sanders, by a kind of spontaneous acclamation, was illegal, particularly when he lacked the essential possession of a certificate signed by the secretary of state.

We repeat that it is always refreshing to follow the arguments of Mr. Cox because he does his own thinking and, in the main, is on solid ground, but we cannot agree that the primary, in this state at least, is merely a party activity.

HOW NEGROES VOTED

To the Editor of The Telegraph:

Now that the bond election is all over, I would like for the public to know how the Negroes stood. There were not many who were qualified to vote, only 38. But out of that number 36 did vote for bonds. The other two were in favor of bonds, but one was at home too ill to get to the polls and the other person had illness in his home and could not leave.

And too, I know personally that at least 25 of the 38 are property owners, and they doubtless thought twice before voting once. The Negroes' support of the bonds partly verify a statement made by a Negro before city council several weeks ago, when he said, "Give us a chance and we will make as good citizens as anybody."

FRANK J. HUTCHINGS.

Bargains in Poll Taxes

The people of Georgia will this year have their first opportunity to register and vote at the new bargain rate of $1 provided by the constitutional amendment adopted in the last general election.

This means that every person, male or female, who becomes 21 years of age this year, between now and the holding of the general election, will not have to pay anything for the privilege of getting on the voters' list. Even in the matter of poll taxes, the law only requires that such taxes shall be paid as are due, and that the would-be voter has had an opportunity to pay. Taxes for this year are not due until December 10, after the holding of the general election in November.

Every man who arrived at his majority before this year will be required to pay $1 a year poll taxes for all the years since he became of age, but he does not have to pay up his past due property taxes as a condition of being able to register.

There is a little peculiarity in the law which a woman should understand before she offers to register. The gist of it is that if she was 21 years of age in 1922, she will have to pay $1 poll tax for the year 1922.

The explanation is that the woman suffrage amendment to the federal constitution was ratified in 1920, and the Georgia legislature, meeting the following year, passed an act enfranchising women. They were placed in the same category with men, so far as voting was concerned, and this meant, of course, that they owed an annual poll tax of $1.

In 1923 the legislature changed the law. It provided that unless a woman wished to qualify as a voter she did not have to pay a poll tax. The law could not be retroactive, however, so all those who were subject to a poll tax in the year 1922 still owe that $1.

If they came of age after 1922 they do not owe that back poll tax of $1 and if they register for the first time this year they do not have to pay anything. If they have registered in the past, and have not taken their names from the voters' list, they must pay all back poll taxes up to and including 1933. If they were at one time registered and later took their names from the voters' list, they can register anew this year without paying anything.

The registry list will close this year on May 6. That day falls on a Sunday, and there is some doubt whether it will be legal to register on the following Monday, so the Attorney General has advised that all persons register on or before Saturday. May 5.

Every citizen who believes in good government should exercise his or her right of franchise and to be qualified to do so must pay the taxes required. The bargain rates provided by the recent amendment to the constitution should bring about the heaviest registration in the history of Georgia.

SAVANNAH, GA.
PRESS
MAY 21 1934

NEGROES PLAN VOTE IN DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY

Colored Club Will Have Meeting Tonight.

A group of colored voters who have formed the Colored Democratic Club of Chatham County are planning to attempt to vote in the Democratic primary in September, which has heretofore been regarded as strictly a white Democratic primary and which it is so declared to be by the party.

The regular meeting of the Colored Democratic Club will be held at 8 o'clock tonight at Monroe's Chapel, West Broad and Charles streets. T. J. Hopkins, Jr., is president of the club and he will preside. Hopkins today stated it was the purpose of the colored Democrats to vote in the September primary and he anticipated no difficulty in view of the decision of the United States Supreme Court in holding that negroes could not be excluded from the Democratic primary in Texas. Hopkins said the move on the part of the colored Democrats was one of co-operation with the whites. What benefits one race benefits the other and one can not progress without the other, as their interests are inseparably bound together, Hopkins said. Unofficially he had obtained legal opinion that there was no legal reason why negroes should not vote in the Democratic primary he said.

At the meeting of the colored club several members will be elected to the executive committee and by-laws will be adopted. Al M. Roberts is chairman of the by-laws committee. The president will outline plans of the club, appoint committees and arrange a series of meetings within the next thirty days "to arouse the colored citizenry to the ideals and aspirations of the Colored Democratic Club of Chatham County." Hopkins said a large attendance was expected tonight and more than a hundred registered voters had announced they would join the club at this meeting.

Large numbers of negroes, particularly women who were registered for the first time, were enrolled on the registration books during the past few weeks when large numbers of voters registered in order to be qualified to vote in the September Democratic primary.

CHECKING UP

In the last general election there was a great switch of the Negro vote from the Republican party to that of the Democrats. This wholesale changeover of voters came as a great surprise because up to that time the allegiance of the Negro to the Republican party was unquestioned. However, during the Taft, Harden and Hoover administrations a deaf ear was given his pleadings and he was almost totally ignored. Sentiment against the Republican party began to crystalize. This was first made evident in the actions of the younger Negroes who resented the apathetic attitude of the Republican leaders. As time went on and the political standing of the colored man became more and more less favorable the attitude of those who saw little hope for recognition by the Republican party became general and as a result, together with the arrival of the great depression in economic conditions and the craving desire of all peoples of the country for relief which they thought might come from a change in administration, the vote of the Negro went avalanching to the Democratic party. A year and a half have past since that time and now the Negro is beginning to check-up on the results to see whether he has profited by his change of allegiance. Throughout the country he is watching, thinking and planning as to his future actions. One thing is certain and that is that he no longer feels it his bounden duty to swear allegiance to the Republican party which he supported zealously since its organization and which in recent years has paid him but scant attention. Along with other peoples of America, he is now determined to cast his vote for the party from which he believes he will get the most benefits, an attitude which he should have arrived at years ago. Under the caption, "The Political Trend," this matter is very interestingly discussed by the Gary American as follows:

> Among the great unanswerable question upon the life of the parties giving the leaders of the major political parties much concern is "how will the colored voter cast his vote in the coming elections?" "How old is Ann," or "How high is up," would be easy in comparison because of the effect of this question upon the life of the parties concerned. This is enhanced by the knowledge that the colored votes, if properly managed, could decide an election in at least a dozen doubtful states.
>
> Since their enfranchisement, the colored voters have been considered members of the Republican party, conceded as such without much ado and by the Republicans. But to the utter surprise of both parties a survey has shown that over 1,500,000 of these votes went to the Democrats in the last general election. These came to the Democrats without invitation and quite naturally the Democrats desire to retain them, but without public announcement. The Republicans realizing too late that their loss was due to negligence and overconfidence, besides their many worries are racking their brains for a plan to lure them back into the fold without wounding their own political pride.
>
> And so, the battle, as yet behind the scene, goes merrily on with the colored votes as the prize. The Democrats have recently made several well timed appointments that will boost their stock in the coveted prize, and the Republicans, terribly handicapped, being the "outs", are, at present quietly working under cover but are expected soon to come into the opening with something to "bring the bacon home."
>
> It can be truthfully said, however, to the credit of the present day colored voter, that the basis of his party affiliation is neither sentimental emotion nor inheritance, but rather sound reasoning on issues and men as they affect the race group as a whole. The party, therefore, setting forth the best offer for a new emancipation of the race can expect the unstinted support of the race group in future campaigns.
>
> Reports are beginning to come in, that in many communities, the Negro voters have divorced themselves from both of the major parties organizing as independents, and holding out for the best offer, not of money, but of manhood rights and opportunities in American life.

End of Minority Rule and Greater Legislative Efficiency Cited by Davis As Benefits of Fairer Representation

Editor Constitution: In view of the improvements made by other states in their systems of government, the antiquated method in Georgia of electing legislators shows a want of progress which would be astounding, if the people were not accustomed to it.

Most people look upon politics with suspicion, and many with eschewal. They seem to think that any change simply means the ousting of one set of politicians and the installation of another, with no lasting benefit to the people. This view wars against progress and improvement, and is especially harmful when a fundamental right of citizenship is denied by the constitution or laws.

No one will question that, in a democratic state, the power to make the laws rightly belongs to the majority of the people through their representatives. If the machinery of the government is so ordered as to give the enacting of laws into the power of a minority, it utterly fails in its function, and any observer may well conclude that there is "something rotten in Denmark."

Our legislature is chosen by a plan which contains such gross inequalities and discriminations between different counties as to make rule by the majority of the people a mere theory.

The 51 members of the senate are chosen by districts which vary in population to such an extent that a majority of the members is elected by districts containing 893,585 people out of the total 2,908,506 in the state. The senator from the district of 14,485 inhabitants has the same voting power as the senator from the district of 361,404 inhabitants. These figures are only illustrative; there are many other gross disproportions in the plan.

The members of the house are chosen three from each of the eight counties of largest population, two each from the 30 counties of next largest population, and one each from the remaining 121 counties. The absurdity of this apportionment of representatives becomes apparent when the immensely different populations of the counties are considered. Then it is found that a majority of the house members is elected by counties containing 984,597 people out of the total of 2,908,506 in the state. And the member representing a county of 2,744 inhabitants has voting power equal to that of any one of the three representatives of the county of 335,220 inhabitants. These figures are only illustrative; there are many other gross disproportions in the plan.

Benefits of Readjustment.

Here it may be asked: What good would come from adjusting representation so as to make it fairly proportional to population?

The probable benefits of substituting real (i. e., equal) representation of the people, in place of the present chimerical representation of counties, would be:

(1) The elimination of local and special laws as the chief objects of legislative consideration.

(2) The expansion of the limits of the smaller territories which elect a member of the house, so as to include more people, thereby providing a larger number from whom a representative may be chosen, and a similar readjustment of the senatorial districts.

(3) Stimulating interest in voting, which is at a very low ebb, especially in the populous counties.

(4) Increasing public respect for the office of legislators and for the laws enacted by them.

(5) Making it more difficult for the state to be governed by a political machine.

(6) Doing away with the incubus of minority rule with all its degeneracies and dangers.

One of the greatest evils of our legislative system is the vast number of local and special laws which are pressed upon the legislature by the 159 counties. It seems also that these measures are given the right of way over other legislation. The printed acts of 1927 cover 1,736 pages, of which the general public laws take 368, the local and special laws 1,368 pages. The acts of 1929 cover 1,471 pages, of which the general public laws take 354, the local and special laws, 1,117 pages. The acts of 1931 cover 1,036 pages, of which the general public laws take 258, the local and special laws, 778 pages. The acts of 1933 cover 1,146 pages, of which the general public laws take 278, the local and special laws, 868 pages.

Unnecessary Loss of Time.

It thus appears that more than three-fourths of all legislation is local and special. Since the legislature can meet in regular session only once in every two years and the session is limited to 60 days, it is vastly important that their limited time should be used on matters of vital and general interest. Why should it be occupied with considering whether a particular county should have or not have a board of county commissioners? This is a matter of no concern to the state, but only to the people of the county. Yet the books show an enormous number of statutes creating, amending, abolishing or re-establishing county boards.

Why should the little factional fights of the counties come into the legislature for settlement? A general law could be passed allowing the people of any county to vote to establish or abolish a board of commissioners for the county.

But there will be no such remedy, unless the legislature is put upon a higher plane. All this trouble comes from the intensely provincial character of our system. As long as legislators represent counties instead of people, and as long as the smaller counties are in position to dominate all legislation, the legislature will continue to serve as the clearing house for all kinds of local political schemes.

If the composition of the legislature is going to remain as it is, then the sessions should be made longer, or should be made annual, so as to give the politicians ample time to grind their little axes and have enough time left to attend to the important business of the state.

The other benefits to be gained for the state by adopting a modern democratic plan of electing legislators and the chief officers of the state must be left for future comment.

ARCHIBALD H. DAVIS.

Atlanta, Ga., April 12, 1934.

Political - 1934
Suffrage

Georgia

Both Parties in Philly Gain In Registration

Afro-American
9-15-34
Baltimore, Md.

Republican and Democratic Leaders Claim Victory Thursday.

G.O.P. GAINS LARGEST IN THE THIRTIETH WARD

Democrats Register 1,926, Republicans Get 3,114.

PHILADELPHIA—Both parties read victory into the first of three registration days to be held before the fall elections, when 303,680 new voters were placed on the rolls, Thursday.

Almost complete returns give 195,937 Republicans and 106,153 Democratic registrants.

In the 30th, the one city ward dominated by colored votes, there were 3,114 Republicans and 1,926 Democrats registered.

B. G. Collier, Republican leader in the 30th Ward, told the AFRO-AMERICAN that he was well pleased with the results of the registration Thursday. "This is the largest first day registration in the history of the ward," he said, "and I have every reason to believe that the Democrats have made their best showing, and that the next two registration days will find the ward safely back into the Republican column."

Democratic Gains

On the other hand, Joseph H. Rainey, Democratic state publicity director, analyzing the results of Thursday's registration, states that the Democrats showed a 112 per cent gain over the 1933 figures and that the heavily populated colored wards increased their figures in Democratic registration 96 per cent over that of a year ago.

"In the 30th Ward," Rainey says, "where Magistrate Edward W. Henry holds sway, the Democrats increased their registration 100 per cent over a year ago.

"Even in the 47th Ward, where whites and colored are about evenly divided, the Democrats registered 1,863 this year in comparison to 682 in 1933. It is expected that 60,000 colored Democrats will register during the three registration days." said Mr. Rainey.

Analysis of 30th Ward

In analyzing registration in the 30th Ward, however, AFRO-AMERICAN reporters found basis for varied predictions.

In the Fifth Division, where John C. Asbury, George Jeter, John M. Marquess and Wilmount Jones reside, the Republicans registered 151 while the Democrats registered 27, the smallest Democratic registration in any division.

In Magistrate Henry's division, the eighth, there were 151 Republicans and 27 Democrats registered. Magistrate Henry is one of the Democratic chieftains.

In the Second Division, where B. G. Collier, 30th Ward Republican leader resides, there were 207 Republicans and 58 Democrats registered. In the Tenth Division, where Arthur Daniels resides, there were 164 Republicans and 121 Democrats registered.

The Eleventh Division, where John Harris, former member of the State Legislature resides, the Republicans registered 141 and the Democrats 106. There was also a close run in the Third Division where Reginald Randolph resides. There the Republicans registered 126 and the Democrats 102.

Leaders Give Views

Edward Hill, Independent Democratic leader in the 34th Ward said: "Members of our race in the 34th registered heavily Democratic without any effort on the part of the organization to bring out the voters. There were 7,161 Republicans and 4,749 Democrats registered.

Samuel B. Hart, member of the State Legislature from the 7th Ward, and a Republican, said:

"The first day's registration is gratifying to me as the figures show that our people all over the city are showing resentment against the Democratic party, its policies and its attitude towards colored labor.

"The 7th Ward increase in Republican registration, which stands in Thursday's figures at 3,259 Republicans and 1,036 Democrats, shows that colored voters are returning to the fold."

Reynolds Pleased

Hobson Reynolds, Republican candidate for the State Legislature from the 47th Ward, states that colored voters were registering Republican so that they could send a colored man to the legislature.

In the 47th there were 1,992 Republican men and 1,348 Republican women registered Thursday. There were 1,114 Democratic men and 723 Democratic women registered.

A Kelly Follower

Russel A. Allen, John B. Kelly follower of the 38th Ward, and a deputy coroner, stated that 65 per cent of the colored voters in this ward registered Democratic. There were 5,608 Republican and 4,978 Democratic registrants of both races. "This early heavy Democratic registration," said Allen, "means a Democratic landslide in November."

Dr. Milton White, for many years, active in Republican politics in the 24th Ward, stated that colored people registered largely Republican in his ward.

"There is a decided trend back to the Republican party by our people, due to false promises on the part of the Democrats, and the closing of mills and factories, due to the NRA," said Dr. White.

The registration in the 24th Ward, was 6,406 Republicans and 3,601 Democrats.

Adolphus Lewis, Republican committeeman from the 32nd

Refuse Allow Negroes To Vote

Tribune
9-13-34

In Local Primary Election Wednesday

MANY GO TO THE POLLS

Savannah, Ga.

And Are Told They Are Not Eligible

In the Democratic primary election, here yesterday a number of Negroes attempted to break through the ban which which has prevented them from casting their votes in these elections ever since they were inaugurated several years ago, but were unsuccessful. Approximately seventy five of them presented themselves to the polls in the various precincts and requested ballots, only to be turned down by a statement from those in charge that it was a white primary and, therefore, no Negroes were eligible to participate in it.

This refusal to allow Negro Democrats to take part in voting is looked upon by those who are in the knowing to be the entering wedge for legal proceedings which will be brought against the officials of the primary.

Among those who were refused a ballot was T. J. Hopkins, jr., president of the Colored Democratic Club of Chatham County.

No untoward incidents occurred at any of the polls where the Negroes tried to vote, although most of them were firm in their requests for ballots. The officials, however, were just as firm in their refusal to accommodate them.

Most of the colored voters who were refused went immediately to the offices of Attorneys W. H. Hopkins and W. S. Jackson, where they signed affidavits stating that they applied for the right to vote and were denied. These affidavits will be turned over to the legal committee of the Colored Democratic Club for such action as they may bring.

It was anticipated, of course, that the election officials would not permit the colored Democrats to exercise their right in this election and most of those who went to the polls were aware of the fact that they were going to meet with a refusal. However, in order to make a test case, it was necessary for them to do this in order to take any egal action.

The Colored Democratic club will hold a meeting tomorrow (Friday) night at Monroe's Chapel, at which time the future course of the organization will be determined. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock and it is requested that a large crowd be present.

PITTMAN PREDICTS PRIMARY VICTORY

Candidate Claims 'Race Is Now Won;' Discusses Walter Roe's Capture.

Constitution
9-11-34

Judge Claude Pittman in an address Monday night predicted that he would be elected governor in Wednesday's primary, saying "due to the loyalty of my friends and citizens interested in clean government this race is now won."

The speech was broadcast by radio station WSB.

"I have had the faith from the beginning that when the facts are fairly presented to the people that they would retire the present governor from public life forever," Judge Pittman said. "That faith is amply justified tonight.

"You need only now to go to the polls on election day and cast your vote, and clean government will be restored in Georgia."

Discussing the arrest of a negro identified by Sheriff J. P. Bryant, of Whitfield county, as Walter Roe, whose case has become an issue in the gubernatorial campaign, Judge Pittman said, "tonight, more than any other time in this campaign, I am happy because through my efforts and efforts of my sheriffs, the negro is in the hands of Governor Talmadge."

Discusses Roe Case.

Continuing, Judge Pittman said:

"I sentenced Walter Roe to 20 years in the chain gang, and had him safely delivered into the chain gang. Talmadge's Warden, J. C. Thrasher, let him escape but I heard nothing of this until the governor injected it into the campaign.

"I know he did not want Walter Roe, for he offered no reward. So, as soon as I learned of the escape, I urged my sheriffs to spare no effort or expense to get this negro. I was determined to get him so I could answer the governor's question 'Where is Walter Roe?' Now the governor has him—let him do with him as he sees fit.

"In spite of the efforts of my vigilant officers, I had begun to despair of getting him caugt before the election. But last Thursday fortune smiled on us and Hooker Bryan, sheriff of Whitfield county, happened to catch this negro wandering along the railroad near the Tennessee line.

"I was in south Georgia and heard nothing of the capture until last night. Immediately I communicated an order to the sheriff in Whitfield to turn this negro over to the prison commission as quickly as possible, which he did at 10:30 o'clock today.

"Issue" Called Outrage.

"It is an outrage that a worthless negro should have been a prominent issue in determining who should be governor of Georgia. It never would have been an issue, but for the deliberation of Hugh Howell, Charlie Stewart and Governor Talmadge to stave off defeat they are circulating foul, false and libelous charges in character for two reasons. They are able to buy.

Avoided "Private Lives."

"I have tried to bring every issue in this campaign fairly before the people. I have not stooped to make any charge that I could not prove and I have avoided making any charge about the private lives of the Benford case from Jones county, a case where Governor Talmadge pardoned Benford, who was convicted

Political - 1934
Suffrage

Georgia
6

Both Parties in Philly Gain In Registration

Afro-American

Republican and Democratic Leaders Claim Victory Thursday.

9-15-34
Baltimore, Md.

G.O.P. GAINS LARGEST IN THE THIRTIETH WARD

Democrats Register 1,926, Republicans Get 3,114.

PHILADELPHIA—Both parties read victory into the first of three registration days to be held before the fall elections, when 303,680 new voters were placed on the rolls, Thursday.

Almost complete returns give 195,937 Republicans and 106,153 Democratic registrants.

In the 30th, the one city ward dominated by colored votes, there were 3,114 Republicans and 1,926 Democrats registered.

B. G. Collier, Republican leader in the 30th Ward, told the AFRO-AMERICAN that he was well pleased with the results of the registration Thursday. "This is the largest first day registration in the history of the ward," he said, "and I have every reason to believe that the Democrats have made their best showing, and that the next two registration days will find the ward safely back into the Republican column."

Democratic Gains

On the other hand, Joseph H. Rainey, Democratic state publicity director, analyzing the results of Thursday's registration, states that the Democrats showed a 112 per cent gain over the 1933 figures and that the heavily populated colored wards increased their figures in Democratic registration 96 per cent over that of a year ago.

"In the 30th Ward," Rainey says, "where Magistrate Edward W. Henry holds sway, the Democrats increased their registration 100 per cent over a year ago.

"Even in the 47th Ward, where whites and colored are about evenly divided, the Democrats registered 1,863 this year in comparison to 682 in 1933. It is expected that 60,000 colored Democrats will register during the three registration days." said Mr. Rainey.

Analysis of 30th Ward

In analyzing registration in the 30th Ward, however, AFRO-AMERICAN reporters found basis for varied predictions.

In the Fifth Division, where John C. Asbury, George Jeter, John M. Marquess and Wilmount Jones reside, the Republicans registered 151 while the Democrats registered 27, the smallest Democratic registration in any division.

In Magistrate Henry's division, the eighth, there were 151 Republicans and 27 Democrats registered. Magistrate Henry is one of the Democratic chieftains.

In the Second Division, where B. G. Collier, 30th Ward Republican leader resides, there were 207 Republicans and 58 Democrats registered. In the Tenth Division, where Arthur Daniels resides, there were 164 Republicans and 121 Democrats registered.

The Eleventh Division, where John Harris, former member of the State Legislature resides, the Republicans registered 141 and the Democrats 106. There was also a close run in the Third Division where Reginald Randolph resides. There the Republicans registered 126 and the Democrats 102.

Leaders Give Views

Edward Hill, Independent Democratic leader in the 34th Ward said: "Members of our race in the 34th registered heavily Democratic without any effort on the part of the organization to bring out the voters. There were 7,161 Republicans and 4,749 Democrats registered.

Samuel B. Hart, member of the State Legislature from the 7th Ward, and a Republican, said:

"The first day's registration is gratifying to me as the figures show that our people all over the city are showing resentment against the Democratic party, its policies and its attitude towards colored labor.

"The 7th Ward increase in Republican registration, which stands in Thursday's figures at 3,259 Republicans and 1,036 Democrats, shows that colored voters are returning to the fold."

Reynolds Pleased

Hobson Reynolds, Republican candidate for the State Legislature from the 47th Ward, states that colored voters were registering Republican so that they could send a colored man to the legislature.

In the 47th there were 1,992 Republican men and 1,348 Republican women registered Thursday. There were 1,114 Democratic men and 723 Democratic women registered.

A Kelly Follower

Russel A. Allen, John B. Kelly follower of the 38th Ward, and a deputy coroner, stated that 65 per cent of the colored voters in this ward registered Democratic. There were 5,608 Republican and 4,978 Democratic registrants of both races. "This early heavy Democratic registration," said Allen, "means a Democratic landslide in November."

Dr. Milton White, for many years, active in Republican politics in the 24th Ward, stated that colored people registered largely Republican in his ward.

"There is a decided trend back to the Republican party by our people, due to false promises on the part of the Democrats, and the closing of mills and factories, due to the NRA," said Dr. White.

The registration in the 24th Ward, was 6,406 Republicans and 3,601 Democrats.

Adolphus Lewis, Republican committeeman from the 32nd

Refuse Allow Negroes To Vote

Journal

In Local Primary Election Wednesday

9-13-34

MANY GO TO THE POLLS

Savannah, Ga.

And Are Told They Are Not Eligible

In the Democratic primary election, here yesterday a number of Negroes attempted to break through the ban which which has prevented them from casting their votes in these elections ever since they were inaugurated several years ago, but were unsuccessful. Approximately seventy five of them presented themselves to the polls in the various precincts and requested ballots, only to be turned down by a statement from those in charge that it was a white primary and, therefore, no Negroes were eligible to participate in it.

This refusal to allow Negro Democrats to take part in voting is looked upon by those who are in the knowing to be the entering wedge for legal proceedings which will be brought against the officials of the primary.

Among those who were refused a ballot was T. J. Hopkins, jr., president of the Colored Democratic Club of Chatham County.

No untoward incidents occurred at any of the polls where the Negroes tried to vote, although most of them were firm in their requests for ballots. The officials, however, were just as firm in their refusal to accommodate them.

Most of the colored voters who were refused went immediately to the offices of Attorneys W. H. Hopkins and W. S. Jackson, where they signed affidavits stating that they applied for the right to vote and were denied. These affidavits will be turned over to the legal committee of the Colored Democratic Club for such action as they may bring.

It was anticipated, of course, that the election officials would not permit the colored Democrats to exercise their right in this election and most of those who went to the polls were aware of the fact that they were going to meet with a refusal. However, in order to make a test case, it was necessary for them to do this in order to take any egal action.

The Colored Democratic club will hold a meeting tomorrow (Friday) night at Monroe's Chapel, at which time the future course of the organization will be determined. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock and it is requested that a large crowd be present.

PITTMAN PREDICTS PRIMARY VICTORY

Candidate Claims 'Race Is Now Won;' Discusses Walter Roe's Capture.

Constitution
9-11-34

Judge Claude Pittman in an address Monday night predicted that he would be elected governor in Wednesday's primary, saying "due to the loyalty of my friends and citizens interested in [illegible] this race is now won."

The speech was broadcast by radio station WSB.

"I have had the faith from the beginning that when the facts are fairly presented to the people that they would retire the present governor from public life forever," Judge Pittman said. "That faith is amply justified tonight.

"You need only now to go to the polls on election day and cast your vote, and clean government will be restored in Georgia."

Discussing the arrest of a negro identified by Sheriff J. P. Bryant, of Whitfield county, as Walter Roe, whose case has become an issue in the gubernatorial campaign, Judge Pittman said, "tonight, more than any other time in this campaign, I am happy because through my efforts and efforts of my sheriffs, the negro is in the hands of Governor Talmadge."

Discusses Roe Case.

Continuing, Judge Pittman said:

"I sentenced Walter Roe to 20 years in the chain gang, and had him safely delivered into the chain gang, Talmadge's Warden, J. C. Thrasher, let him escape but I heard nothing of this until the governor injected it into the campaign.

"I know he did not want Walter Roe, for he offered no reward. So, as soon as I learned of the escape, I urged my sheriffs to spare no effort or expense to get this negro. I was determined to get him so I could answer the governor's question 'Where is Walter Roe?' Now the governor has him—let him do with him as he sees fit.

"In spite of the efforts of my vigilant officers, I had begun to despair of getting him caugt before the election. But last Thursday fortune smiled on us and Hooker Bryan, sheriff of Whitfield county, happened to catch this negro wandering along the railroad near the Tennessee line.

"I was in south Georgia and heard nothing of the capture until last night. Immediately I communicated an order to the sheriff in Whitfield to turn this negro over to the prison commission as quickly as possible, which he did at 10:30 o'clock today.

"Issue" Called Outrage.

"It is an outrage that a worthless negro should have been a prominent issue in determining who should be governor of Georgia. It never would have been an issue, but for the deliberation of Hugh Howell, Charlie Stewart and Governor Talmadge in attempt to assassinate my character for two reasons.

"They know their charges to be as foul and false as the source from which they come. I have not stooped to make any charge that I could not prove and I have avoided making any charge about the private lives of the poor man financially unable to come and his associates. If I had wanted to parade rape cases before the women and children and upright citizenry of this state I could have told them of the Benford case from Jones county, a case where Governor Talmadge pardoned Benford, who was convicted for rape in open meeting. I have not stoopped to the sheriff in Whitfield to make you forget their effort to make you know that I could not prove and I have avoided making any charge about the private lives of the poor man financially unable to come and his associates. If I had wanted to parade rape cases before the women and children and upright citizenry of this state I could have told them of the Benford case from Jones county, a case where Governor Talmadge pardoned Benford, who was convicted and given life imprisonment for violating an old woman around 80 years of age and producing her death.

Avoided "Private Lives."

"I have tried to bring every issue of this campaign fairly before the people.

"I could have told them of the Starke case, wherein a negro confessed to violating the wife of an humble laborer and killing her. Lee Fowler was convicted in Madison county of murdering a man and burning him up in a house and he was given life imprisonment. Through the efforts of Hugh Howell and Charlie Stewart he was pardoned by Governor Talmadge last April.

"I, had I been so inclined, could have dwelt at length during this campaign on records such as these, but I have chosen to wage a campaign based on reason and not a campaign based on prejudices."

SAVANNAH, GA.
NEWS
SEP 15 1934

WHITE PRIMARY MAY BE CONTESTED BY NEGRO CITIZENS

Way Paved For Court Action In Letter to Voters

The Democratic white primary last Wednesday may be contested, it was reported yesterday, by a group of negro citizens who claimed they were denied the right to vote.

Groundwork for the possible contest was laid on the day of the primary by several negroes who had paid their poll taxes and who appeared at the proper precinct and requested a ballot, it was reported.

Election officials were puzzled frankly until yesterday when copies of a letter bearing the names of T. J. Hopkins, Jr., an attorney, who is president of the Colored Democratic Club; Dr. J. W. Wilson, secretary, and Toland J. Edwards, a colored undertaker, who is treasurer, were seen.

This letter was addressed to colored voters and urged them to appear at their precincts on election day and request a ballot, and if same was denied them, because of their color, to appear at certain places and make affidavits accordingly.

"These affidavits will be collected and will be turned over to our legal committee for use in such action as they may bring," the form letter to the colored voters, dated September 8, said.

The letter asked the registered colored voters when they appeared at the various precincts to make the request for a ballot "courteously but firmly," and upon being denied to go to the office of Attorney Hopkins or Attorney William S. Jackson, both colored.

When a reporter got hold of one of the letters yesterday and displayed it to certain election officials a solution was found to the puzzling appearance of a number of colored citizens at the polls on the day of the primary. Quickly the officials recalled that several negroes in various precincts had appeared and requested ballots in courteous manner, had been reminded by the election officers that the primary was a state "white Democratic primary," and denied ballots. There was no trouble and the negroes departed.

What move the committee designated in the letter will make was uncertain yesterday, but it was reported that the legal committee of the Colored Democratic Club was considering filing a formal contest.

Attorney Hopkins is known as a well-educated negro attorney, being a graduate of Howard and having studied at other places. He is a slender, be-spectacled young man, who was highly commended by the late Judge Peter W. Meldrim upon being presented to the bar in Superior Court after passing the examination. He has been practicing only a year or two. Edwards is known as a leader among the better element of the negroes, and has been associated with a leading colored undertaking parlor for many years. Dr. Wilson is not very well known among the white people.

Examination of the registered voting list yesterday disclosed that there are 1,138 negroes qualified to vote by payment of their poll taxes. All but 78 are residents of the city. There is one colored voter in Pooler. 12 in Port Wentworth. The other county colored voters are distributed as follows: Fifth district, 34; Sixth, 23; Seventh, 8. In the city the colored voters are distributed as follows: First district, First precinct, 108; Second, 189; Third, 97; Fourth, 127; Fifth, 74; Second district, First precinct, 1; Second, 12; Third 2, Fourth, 3; Fifth, 3; Third district, First precinct, 2; Second, 2; Third, 2; Fourth, 2; Fifth, 2; Sixth, 2; Seventh, 13. Fourth district, First precinct, 2; Second, 8; Third, 23; Fourth, 29; Fifth, 43; Sixth, 79; Seventh, 41; Eighth, 72; Ninth, 19; Tenth, 12; Eleventh, 28; Twelfth, 17; Thirteenth, 18; Fourteenth, 28.

There are no negroes registered from the Fourteenth, Fifteenth and Sixteenth precincts of the Fourth district.

The letter sent to a large number of colored voters shortly before the primary was headed "Colored Democratic Club of Chatham County," and was as follows:

"Dear Voter:

"The committee in charge of securing you the right to vote in the Democratic primaries finds that it will probably be necessary to take court action in order to obtain the right for you to be included among those for whom an action will be filed. It will be necessary for each one of you to make the effort to vote so that the petition can recite that you made an effort to vote and this effort was denied.

"The polls will be open from 8 a. m. until 5 p. m. At this time you should go to the voting place in the precinct in which you are living, present yourself to the officials in charge, state to them that you are a voter and would like to have a ballot and permitted to vote. The officials will probably tell you that they cannot get you a ballot, as you are a colored citizen and not permitted to vote. You will make the request courteously but firmly. If the right to vote is denied to you, you will then go to the office of Attorney William H. Hopkins in the Dunbar Theater building or to Attorney William S. Jackson at Sales Shoe Shop, Park avenue lane and East Broad street, where you will sign the proper affidavit that you applied for the right to vote and it was denied. These affidavits will be collected and will be turned over to our legal committee for use in such action as they may bring.

"Remember to go to the precinct in which you live to attempt to vote and then remember immediately thereafter to go to one of these places to report this fact and to sign an affidavit.

"Yours very truly,
"Colored Democratic Club of Chatham County."
"T. J. Hopkins, Jr, President.
"Dr. J. W. Wilson, Secretary.
"Toland J. Edwards, Treasurer.
"P. S.—The Democratic primary will be held Wednesday, September 12."

The Voters' League

FOR a time at least the citizens of Atlanta seemed to have gotten ashamed of themselves for their inactivity and indifference politically. A movement known as the voters' league came upon the scene to try out a new objective in getting names on the registration books. A careful inventory was taken of the trials and failures of the Negro to function politically and it was finally decided that giving him somebody to vote for would prove an incentive to the cause.

World 10-23-34
Atlanta, Ga.

Open forums and schools of citizenship were conducted all over the city in an effort to find out the contributing cause as to why a people, living in a great municipality where the only weapons to get those essentials so necessary to comfort, protection and human happiness were content to stand as mute as cattle in the expression of their wishes as to who would levy and spend their tax dollars.

Many of our people expressed themselves as being dissatisfied, but were tired of voting for somebody else. They felt that a people being called upon to vote all the time should at least be allowed to be voted for. And there is where the merit lies.

The voters' league has made such a sentiment in its circuits as to cause young men to throw their hats in the ring for office. While it is gratifying at the number of registrants we have on the list, it in no wise presents a creditable showing for the great mass of eligibles.

In this city and state the Negro has nearly passed off the scene of political activity. With a young group coming to the fore, with more advantage than their forebearers enjoyed in former days, it is a bit strange that so much "protracted revival" meeting should be resorted to to get them to do their plain duty.

There have been two major forces at work to destroy the Negro's political interest. Foremost of the two, disfranchisement, which sought to drive the Negro from the field, rendered a telling blow to the Negro's political prowess. The late United State Senator and one time Governor, Hoke Smith, ran for governor of Georgia on a platform to disfranchise the Negro. A campaign of hate was sold to the voters of Georgia and one of the first moves of the legislature was to disfranchise the Negro. Prior to that time the Negro voted in the primaries and general elections unmolested. Campaigners sought the Negro in his shops, fields, schools, and churches and made them pledges for their support. The disfranchisement bill removed these conditions

As the years passed by the Negro lost inter-off on the best foot. The slumber of the Negro on this occasion is inexcusest in his local government and finally became an extinct He wants relief, jobs, and those essentials enjoyed quantity in the process of selection and recall when it cameable. The world, and the country, are tired of to the men and measures by which they were to be govern-by other groups. The white primary was the solution of keeping thoseing their people content to sit on the pauper's stool all the time holded. from the polls who passed the registration test and whous contrihands and asking alms. There is no pest among qualified under the property owning system. The youngerinstitutio their hands and asking alms. There is no pest among crop is unacquainted with many of the trying conditionsportunitie contributing a more distasteful eyesore to our society and through which the Negro went in an effort to hang on to the tutions than that drone who in the face of glowing opballot. munities attempts to cry and beg his way

A few weeks ago an election for mayor was held. Fewer people voted for the winner than there are Negro eligibles in the city of Atlanta. The Negro is not dumb to this fact because the figures were in the daily papers. Negro voters in this municipality could sway the election if they were only aroused to their sense of duty. The Voters' league may be the solution. Take up the challenge.

The country is undergoing, at present, an unprecedented transition. We are beginning a new cycle and those who would come into the heritage of independence and those benefits derived from representative government, must get and given life imprisonment for violating an old woman around 80 years of age and producing her death.

"I could have told them of the Starke case, wherein a negro confessed to violating the wife of an humble laborer and killing her. Lee Fowler was convicted in Madison county of murdering a man and burning him up in a house and he was given life imprisonment. Through the efforts of Hugh Howell and Charlie Stewart he was pardoned by Governor Talmadge last April.

"I, had I been so inclined, could have dwelt at length during this campaign on records such as these, but I have chosen to wage a campaign based on reason and not a campaign based on prejudices."

SAVANNAH, GA.
NEWS
SEP 15 1934

WHITE PRIMARY MAY BE CONTESTED

BY NEGRO CITIZENS

Way Paved For Court Action In Letter to Voters

The Democratic white primary last Wednesday may be contested, it was reported yesterday, by a group of negro citizens who claimed they were denied the right to vote.

Groundwork for the possible contest was laid on the day of the primary by several negroes who had paid their poll taxes and who appeared at the proper precinct and requested a ballot, it was reported.

Election officials were puzzled frankly until yesterday when copies of a letter bearing the names of T. J. Hopkins, Jr., an attorney, who is president of the Colored Democratic Club; Dr. J. W. Wilson, secretary, and Toland J. Edwards, a colored undertaker, who is treasurer, were seen.

This letter was addressed to colored voters and urged them to appear at their precincts on election day and request a ballot, and if same was denied them, because of their color, to appear at certain places and make affidavits accordingly.

"These affidavits will be collected and will be turned over to our legal committee for use in such action as they may bring," the form letter to the colored voters, dated September 8, said.

The letter asked the registered colored voters when they appeared at the various precincts to make the request for a ballot "courteously but firmly," and upon being denied to go to the office of Attorney Hopkins or Attorney William S. Jackson, both colored.

When a reporter got hold of one of the letters yesterday and displayed it to certain election officials a solution was found to the puzzling appearance of a number of colored citizens at the polls on the day of the primary. Quickly the officials recalled that several negroes in various precincts had appeared and requested ballots in courteous manner, had been reminded by the election officers that the primary was a state "white Democratic primary," and denied ballots. There was no trouble and the negroes departed.

What move the committee designated in the letter will make was uncertain yesterday, but it was reported that the legal committee of the Colored Democratic Club was considering filing a formal contest.

Attorney Hopkins is known as a well-educated negro attorney, being a graduate of Howard and having studied at other places. He is a slender, be-spectacled young man, who was highly commended by the late Judge Peter W. Meldrim upon being presented to the bar in Superior Court after passing the examination. He has been practicing only a year or two. Edwards is known as a leader among the better element of the negroes, and has been associated with a leading colored undertaking parlor for many years. Dr. Wilson is not very well known among the white people.

Examination of the registered voting list yesterday disclosed that there are 1,138 negroes qualified to vote by payment of their poll taxes. All but 78 are residents of the city. There is one colored voter in Pooler. 12 in Port Wentworth. The other county colored voters are distributed as follows: Fifth district, 34; Sixth, 23; Seventh, 8. In the city the colored voters are distributed as follows: First district, First precinct, 108; Second, 189; Third, 97; Fourth, 127; Fifth, 74; Second district, First precinct, 1; Second, 12; Third 2, Fourth, 3; Fifth, 3; Third district, First precinct, 2; Second, 2; Third, 2; Fourth, 2; Fifth, 2; Sixth, 2; Seventh, 13. Fourth district, First precinct, 2; Second, 8; Third, 23; Fourth, 29; Fifth, 43; Sixth, 79; Seventh, 41; Eighth, 72; Ninth, 19; Tenth, 12; Eleventh, 28; Twelfth, 17; Thirteenth, 18; Fourteenth, 28.

There are no negroes registered from the Fourteenth, Fifteenth and Sixteenth precincts of the Fourth district.

The letter sent to a large number of colored voters shortly before the primary was headed "Colored Democratic Club of Chatham County," and was as follows:

"Dear Voter:

"The committee in charge of securing you the right to vote in the Democratic primaries finds that it will probably be necessary to take court action in order to obtain the right for you to be included among those for whom an action will be filed. It will be necessary for each one of you to make the effort to vote so that the petition can recite that you made an effort to vote and this effort was denied.

"The polls will be open from 8 a. m. until 5 p. m. At this time you should go to the voting place in the precinct in which you are living, present yourself to the officials in charge, state to them that you are a voter and would like to have a ballot and permitted to vote. The officials will probably tell you that they cannot get you a ballot, as you are a colored citizen and not permitted to vote. You will make the request courteously but firmly. If the right to vote is denied to you, you will then go to the office of Attorney William H. Hopkins in the Dunbar Theater building or to Attorney William S. Jackson at Sales Shoe Shop, Park avenue lane and East Broad street, where you will sign the proper affidavit that you applied for the right to vote and it was denied. These affidavits will be collected and will be turned over to our legal committee for use in such action as they may bring.

"Remember to go to the precinct in which you live to attempt to vote and then remember immediately thereafter to go to one of these places to report this fact and to sign an affidavit.

"Yours very truly,
"Colored Democratic Club of Chatham County."
"T. J. Hopkins, Jr, President.
"Dr. J. W. Wilson, Secretary.
"Toland J. Edwards, Treasurer.
"P. S.—The Democratic primary will be held Wednesday, September 12."

The Voters' League

FOR a time at least the citizens of Atlanta seemed to have gotten ashamed of themselves for their inactivity and indifference politically. A movement known as the voters' league came upon the scene to try out a new objective in getting names on the registration books. A careful inventory was taken of the trials and failures of the Negro to function politically and it was finally decided that giving him somebody to vote for would prove an incentive to the cause.

World 10-23-34
Atlanta, Ga.

Open forums and schools of citizenship were conducted all over the city in an effort to find out the contributing cause as to why a people, living in a great municipality where the only weapons to get those essentials so necessary to comfort, protection and human happiness were content to stand as mute as cattle in the expression of their wishes as to who would levy and spend their tax dollars.

Many of our people expressed themselves as being dissatisfied, but were tired of voting for somebody else. They felt that a people being called upon to vote all the time should at least be allowed to be voted for. And there is where the merit lies.

The voters' league has made such a sentiment in its circuits as to cause young men to throw their hats in the ring for office. While it is gratifying at the number of registrants we have on the list, it in no wise presents a creditable showing for the great mass of eligibles.

In this city and state the Negro has nearly passed off the scene of political activity. With a young group coming to the fore, with more advantage than their forebearers enjoyed in former days, it is a bit strange that so much "protracted revival" meeting should be resorted to to get them to do their plain duty.

There have been two major forces at work to destroy the Negro's political interest. Foremost of the two, disfranchisement, which sought to drive the Negro from the field, rendered a telling blow to the Negro's political prowess. The late United State Senator and one time Governor, Hoke Smith, ran for governor of Georgia on a platform to disfranchise the Negro. A campaign of hate was sold to the voters of Georgia and one of the first moves of the legislature was to disfranchise the Negro. Prior to that time the Negro voted in the primaries and general elections unmolested. Campaigners sought the Negro in his shops, fields, schools, and churches and made them pledges for their support. The disfranchisement bill removed these conditions. As the years passed by the Negro lost inter-off on the best foot. est in his local government and finally became an extinct quantity in the process of selection and recall when it cameable. The slumber of the Negro on this occasion is inexcusto the men and measures by which they were to be govern-by other groups. The world, and the country, are tired of ed. a people content to sit on the pauper's stool all the time holding their hands and asking alms. There is no pest among from the polls who passed the registration test and whous contributing a more distasteful eyesore to our society and qualified under the property owning system. The youngerinstitutions than that drone who in the face of glowing opcrop is unacquainted with many of the trying conditionsportunities attempts to cry and beg his way through which the Negro went in an effort to hang on to the The Voters' league may be the solution. Take up the ballot. challenge.

The white primary was the solution of keeping thoseing their hands and asking alms. There is no pest among

A few weeks ago an election for mayor was held. Fewer people voted for the winner than there are Negro eligibles in the city of Atlanta The Negro is not dumb to this fact because the figures were in the daily papers. Negro voters in this municipality could sway the election if they were only aroused to their sense of duty.

The country is undergoing, at present, an unprecedented transition. We are beginning a new cycle and those who would come into the heritage of independence and those benefits derived from representative government, must get

Political — 1934

Georgia.

Suffrage.

SEEK 10,000 VOTERS IN ATLANTA

Atlanta

Big Mass Meeting Is Planned for Friday At Wheat Street

REGISTER TODAY

Plans are being rushed for the big city-wide mass meeting which will be staged Friday night at the Wheat Street Baptist church in connection with the drive of the Colored Voters League of Atlanta and Fulton county for 10,000 registered Negro voters between now and November 25, the last date upon which citizens may register to take part in the General election early in December.

This meeting promises to be one of the biggest, by far, ever sponsored by the league and the pastors of the city are joining in to make this event a success and are urging the members of their congregation to register and vote.

The principal speaker of the evening will be S. W. Walker, president of the Pilgrim Life and Health Insurance company who, despite his recent illness, has consented to come out and do his bit towards urging the Negroes of the city toward a greater political activity.

Other speakers will be Dr. B. M. Sherrard, candidate for the school board from the First ward and Maceo Blackshear, who is also running on the independent ticket from the same section. Mr. Blackshear is out for an aldermanic post and local leaders are urging that the public support these two men, the first Negroes to ever run for city posts in the history of Atlanta. Both men have already filed and their names will appear on the ballot.

Leaders of the league point out that all men who register must pay their poll tax if they are over 21 years of age. The poll tax is one dollar a year. Women who have not previously registered are not required to pay a poll tax this year but will have to pay poll tax upon registering next year while all women more than 50 years of age are exempt from the payment of poll taxes. Men more than 60 years of age are also poll tax exempt. Both men and women, just 21 years of age, will not be required to pay their poll tax if they register now for the first time.

Voters league executives, working under the direction of the president, J. T. Carlton, are hopeful that large numbers of Atlanta Negroes will register.

"It is the civic duty of all to register and vote", Mr. Carlton states. "We shuld pay our poll taxes and do our bit toward keeping the city treasury alive. We must not shirk our obligations as citizens."

Registration may be made daily at the city clerk's office at the city hall.

Doing Away With Primaries

Macon Telegraph

The Tattnall Journal, down at Reidsville, becomes discouraged over the prospect of Democratic opposition for a nominee in the primary, and asks what's the use of putting candidates to the expense of a primary if the party members do not feel bound by the result?

Macon Tel. 11/11/34

It is a very natural question, and it has been asked many times since the beginning of the primary expedient; but the answer is simple. An independent rarely has the temerity to offer himself in the regular election after being defeated in the primary. Occasionally one will do so, and it has been noted in a few instances that an independent candidate can beat the regular nominee, but that does not occur very often. When a regular Democrat thus becomes irregular, the chances are that the party never backs him very strongly in after year, no matter how great his personality. He disrupts the party to some extent, but the voters will get back in line and repent their folly when it seems to them necessary to do so.

The corruption of carpetbaggers made the primary a necessity in this part of the country, and it has saved many communities from serious embarrassment and perhaps from bad government. If it were abolished, a good Democrat might find more than one formidable rival in the regular election, whereas at present his Democratic vote is not badly split in the regular election.

It is easy to imagine how the Republicans would welcome a disruption of the primary followers. If the Republicans could agree on one candidate for the general election and the Democrats were called upon to split their votes among several Democratic candidates, the Solid South would not long remain solid, even though Democrats were considerably in the majority.

The Journal has not enough provocation to justify a suggestion that the primary be abolished. It is better to whip the independent, and let candidates understand that the party as a whole is loyal to its nominees. But even an independent sometimes ought not to be defeated—as in the recent case of Lindsay of DeKalb.

Seek 10,000 Negro Voters For Election

Wired

Seeking 10,000 registered Negro voters before the general election on December fifth at which time two Negro candidates are expected to make their initial entrance into the local political arena members of the Colored Voters League of Atlanta and Fulton county are launching an intensive drive to have the names of that many colored citizens placed on the rolls at the city hall before the registration book is closed on November 25.

11-8-34

With the notification that the names fo Dr. B. M. Sherrard, candidate for the board of education from the first ward and Maceo Blackshear, as candidate from the same ward for the aldermanship will be placed on the ballot as independent candidates, members of the laegue started working to do all in their power to put these men across.

Atlanta

Plans are now being perfected for a big city wide mass meeting and political rally to be held Friday night, November 16, at the Wheat Street Baptist church on Auburn avenue. S. W. Walker, president of the Pilgrim Life and Health Insurance company will be one of the principal speakers while a number of other leading citizens, along with the candidates, will also speak. J. T. Carlton, president of the league, is to preside.

In the meantime the Rev. J. Raymond Henderson and other outstanding ministers of the city are urging that other ministers get together and urge their congregations to register enmasse. The payment of poll taxes between now and November 26th will entitle all citizens to vote while all women, registering for the first time, will be exempt from the payment of the poll tax for the current year, their poll tax becoming due the following year. Citizens just 21 will also be allowed to register without the payment of taxes while all residents of Atlanta, more than 60 years of age, are allowed to register without payment of the taxes.

It is pointed out by league leaders that it is the civic duty and right of every citizen to register, pay their taxes and to vote and it is hoped that many will vote this year.

Political - 1957

Historical

Suffrage.

First Colored Voter's Grave to Be Suitably Marked.

To the Editor of the AFRO:

The Exchange Club of the City of Perth Amboy has almost completed arrangements to do honors to Thomas Paterson, first colored man in the U.S. to cast a vote after the passage of the fifteenth amendment to the constitution, and a member of the committee which drafted the charter of this city.

Tom Peterson, or Tom Mundy, as everyone called him, was born a slave, in the Mundy family of Metuchen, N.J.

After emancipation, he moved to Perth Amboy, where he lived and worked until his death, February 4, 1904, at the age of 79 years.

He lies buried beside his wife in the churchyard of St. Peter's Episcopal Church where he was a member honored by his fellow parishoners, leaders in the civic life of the community at that time.

Tom Peterson's right to fame as the first colored man to vote was duly established by investigations conducted by William Paterson, mayor of Perth Amboy from 1858 to 1861, and again from 1874 to 1878, grandson of William Paterson, governor of New Jersey, and a justice of the supreme court of the United States at the time of his death.

There were elections in but five states of the union on the day the amendment became operative and only in New Jersey did colored people make use of their new privilege, one in Princeton and one in Perth Amboy, where Tom voted fifteen minutes after the poll opened, while in Princeton, Tom's rival voted late in the afternoon.

The Exchange Club has planned to erect over Peterson's grave a granite block bearing a bronze tablet with a suitable legend.

THE EXCHANGE CLUB
285 Smith Street,
Perth Amboy, N.J.

Political - 1934

Suffrage.

Illinois

CHICAGO, ILL.
AMERICAN

APR 10 1934

Big Democrat Vote in 1st, 2d Wards

While most of Chicago took today's primary with a touch of Spring fever, spirited contests raged south of the loop, with congressional, legislative and ward offices as the chief objects of combat.

While the Republicans were engaged in hot fights for ward committeemen in the Second and Third wards and for the nomination for seats in Congress and the Legislature held by colored men, the heaviest Democratic vote ever recorded in the colored sector was being cast.

Republican leaders charged that, with 60 per cent of the workers of the Second and Third wards unemployed and on relief or PWA or CWA job rolls, Democrats were telling voters to "get on the band wagon" or their relief and jobs would be gone.

JUMP FROM 15 TO 50.

Harrison B. Gaines, state representative from the First District, conceded that the average Democratic vote in the district would jump from 15 per precinct to 50 or 60, with an average total registration per precinct of 450.

Congressman Oscar DePriest had a battle on his hands for renomination and for committeeman of the Third Ward, in which he lives.

DePriest was opposed for the Congressional nomination by Chandler Owens, and for committeeman of his ward by Patrick B. Prescott Junior.

While both of his opponents have been waging long and active campaigns, the congressman came back from Washington only a week ago, swept through the district with a whirlwind of speeches, voted at 9:30 a. m. at his polling place, 4540 Calumet av., and took a 10:30 a. m. train to return to Washington.

DE PRIEST AIDS SPLIT.

Alderman William L. Dawson, De Priest standard bearer in the Second Ward, and State Representative and Committeeman William E. King, both former co-workers in the De Priest ranks, have split on everything but the support of De Priest for renomination. They were opponents for committeeman from the ward and Dawson and his followers were supporting Roscoe Conkling Simmons against King and State Senator Adelbert H. Roberts for the senatorial nomination.

A five-way fight was waged for the two nominations for state representative.

The Democrats had full tickets in the field. Five candidates sought the Democratic nomination for DePriest's congressional post—Arthur W. Mitchell, Harry Baker, Edgar G. Brown, Albert E. Redd and Frank J. Staufer, with Brown carrying endorsements from many colored organizations.

Bryant Hamlin and Paul Parks were battling for the state Senate nomination.

Joseph F. Tittinger and Ollie J. Dinwiddie waged a heated campaign for Democratic committeeman of the Second Ward, with Dinwiddie predicting he would be the first man of his race elected to the Democratic county central committee.

Leaders predicted that the vote for the district would surpass, in proportion to registration, the average vote for all other districts of the city.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Illinois.

CHICAGO, ILL.
TRIBUNE

APR 12 1934

2 Upsets Occur in Local Option Vote in Precincts

Complete returns received yesterday from the 23 Chicago precincts in which residents voted on local option, disclosed that in 19 of the districts citizens had voted to ban the sale of liquor. The four precincts in which the wets won were:

The first in the 17th ward, bounded by Garfield boulevard, Wallace street, 56th street and Stewart avenue.

The 54th of the 6th ward, bounded by 66th street, the Illinois Central railroad tracks, 67th street and Stony Island avenue.

The 46th of the 39th ward, bounded by Grace street, Ridgeway avenue, Avondale avenue, Addison street, and Central Park avenue.

The 50th of the 19th ward, bounded by Montvale and Vincennes avenues, 115th street and the Rock Island suburban tracks.

Upsets in Precinct Votes.

The result in the 19th ward precinct was an upset because it is in the heart of the Beverly Hills bone dry area. There the wets won by a vote of 98 to 65. Ald. O. E. Northrup of this ward stated yesterday that he had received recently a number of complaints from residents against saloons in the area. He said he believed that the district went wet only because the home owners who were overwhelmingly dry in sentiment had neglected to go to the polls.

The result of the vote in another precinct was surprising. The 13th precinct of the 3d ward, an area bounded by 44th street, Indiana avenue, 45th street and Prairie avenue, in the heart of the south side colored district, went dry against all predictions. The dry campaign in the area, which is almost entirely Negro in population, was conducted by Dr. Charles J. Myers and his wife. The area has no saloons at present, the alderman, Robert R. Jackson, having refused, at the request of his constituents, to approve the issuance of licenses for the precinct.

The other 19 precincts where the local option proposition was an issue were in the 19th ward, and in all of them the drys won solid victories. Ald. Northrup said that there are a number of saloons in the ward, which will be forced to close as a result. A number of these are along Ashland avenue from 87th street to 95th street, and along Western avenue from 95th street to 119th street. There are also several along 95th street between Winston and Western avenues.

Saloons Must Be Closed.

The state liquor control law provides that in precincts where local option has prohibited the sale of liquor, saloons must close their doors within a 30 day period. The state law allows the sale of liquors in drug stores and by physicians for medicinal purposes. Its sale for beverage purposes is barred.

Four precincts which embrace the unincorporated portions of New Trier township voted to be dry territory, the count being 114 dry votes to 60 wet. These precincts, which voted as a unit, include "No Man's Land" which lies between Wilmette and Kenilworth.

Suffrage 6

SPRINGFIELD, ILL
REGISTER

MAR 30 1934

Colored Voters Meet Tonight at Dye Headquarters

Colored voters of the city will gather at the "Dye for Sheriff" headquarters at 7:45 o'clock this evening. Addresses will be given by several prominent speakers.

Saturday afternoon will be devoted to a meeting for voters from the country precincts while a mass meeting will be held at 8 o'clock Saturday evening.

Ernest Dye, candidate for sheriff, was the chief speaker at last night's meeting. He pledged the voters an honest, efficient administration and told at some length of the efforts made to force him out of the primary race.

Other speakers were State's Attorney Alfred E. Greening, Roy Geibe Hill, candidate for county judge; E. C. Pruitt, candidate for superintendent of schools, and Harry Reiger for county judge.

Charles Bickhaus was chairman of the meeting.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.
STATE JOURNAL

MAR 25 1934

Lartz, Sheriff Candidate, To Speak In County

Edward Lartz, Republican candidate for sheriff, addressed a meeting of Negro voters last night at Twelfth and Madison streets, declaring himself free from all factions.

Lartz will talk at meetings tomorrow night at Auburn and Thayer; Tuesday night at Pleasant Plains, and Wednesday night at Pawnee and Divernon.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.
REGISTER

APR 4 1934

DYE CAMPAIGN TO CLOSE WITH MASS MEETING

Voters Invited to Hear Campaign Issues Saturday Night

The campaign of Ernest Dye, republican candidate for sheriff, will wind-up Saturday night with a mass meeting in the circuit court room at which a number of prominent speakers will be heard. The meeting will commence at 8 o'clock.

Voters in precincts 30 to 60 are invited to the Dye headquarters tonight, while precincts 60 to 85 will meet Thursday evening.

State's Attorney Alfred H. Greening speaking at a meeting of precinct workers last night urged the nomination of Dye.

"Sangamon county needs a sheriff who enjoys the confidence of the people; a sheriff who will represent the people and not some political faction, and a sheriff who will have the ability to carry out the duties of the sheriff's office, in a reasonable and efficient manner. In Ernest Dye, the people have that candidate."

Greening called attention to an advertisement to the effect that Clarence Davis, colored attorney, and Dr. J. I. Ford, colored chiropodist, would "tell the truth about Greening," at a meeting of colored voters to be held at the court house this evening.

"No one needs to go to the court house to find out why Clarence Davis is opposed to me," Greening said. "Here's the answer."

"Mr. Davis demanded that I name him first assistant state's attorney and when I declined to do so, he threatened to turn the colored people of Springfield against me.

"Whether Mr. Davis thinks so or not, the position of first assistant state's attorney is one that requires special training and the soundest judgment. My present assistant is a man who meets those qualifications. He is the author of several legal text books and a brilliant law student. Mr. Davis certainly does not measure up to the qualifications necessary for the position."

Ernest Dye spoke briefly telling the votes that if nominated and elected he would be free to direct the sheriff's office without entangling alliances and would be actively on the job himself, instead of turning the major portion of the work over to a chief deputy.

While Dye is not running on a slate, all other candidates have been invited to make use of his headquarters. Among those who spoke last night were Roy Geibe Hill, candidate for county judge; C. Raymond Sanford, candidate for county clerk; Frank Ramey, candidate for congressman and George Stickney, candidate for county superintendent of schools.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.
STATE JOURNAL

MAR 31 1934

Lock Boosters To Hold Mass Meeting Tonight

A mass meeting in behalf of the candidacy of "Hoke" Lock, Republican candidate for sheriff, will be held at 8 o'clock tonight at his headquarters at 117 North Fifth street. The public is invited to attend.

Lock last night addressed a meeting of Negro voters at his colored headquarters at Twelfth and Madison streets. He urged the voters to go to the polls April 10 and express their desire for new faces in public office.

He stated that he was making the race independently and free from any faction. He also pledged that he would appoint no other member of his family to a job in his office if he were the successful candidate.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.
STATE JOURNAL

APR 3 1934

DEMOCRATS IN MEET ADVOCATE OPEN PRIMARY

Announce Gatherings To Be Held In Chatham And Cantrall.

State Representative David Evans Loami, and Luke Gaule, candidate for sheriff, were principal speakers at Democratic meetings held last night at the Ridgely and Matheny schools.

The meetings were under auspices of the original Roosevelt-Horner Democratic organization, an unincorporated group opposing the Roosevelt-Horner organization, headed by Peter F. Rossiter, chairman of the county committee.

"This fight in defense of the open primary contest will be carried squarely and honestly into every voting precinct in the county to help this aggresive band of active Democratic candidates achieve a hard fought victory at the polls next Tuesday," Luke J. Gaule, candidate for sheriff, declared in an address at Matheny school.

"Democratic voters are rapidly acquainting themselves with the true issues in this campaign and are prepared to decide in favor of a change of leadership, in favor of a leadership that will give the rank and file of the party a right to select their own nominees," Andrew P. O'Neill, candidate for county treasurer, declared at the Matheny school meeting.

A revised schedule of sessions for the remainder of the week was issued from headquarters of the group last night. A meeting for residents of Chatham will be held at 8 o'clock this evening at Chatham. Tomorrow a meeting will be held at Cantrall. A mass meeting for all supporters and workers is scheduled for Thursday night at the St. Nicholas hotel. Friday night a meeting for all Negro supporters will be held at Palmer school, and the concluding session will be Saturday night at Illiopolis.

Other speakers at the school meetings last night included Myron E. Roberts, for congress; Thomas L. Jarrett, for county judge; Charles F. Dressendorfer, for county clerk; H. O. Barnes, for superintendent of schools; Mortimer C. Berry, Chatham, and Selby E. Nelson, for probate clerk.

Legislative candidates who spoke included Dr Edmund A. Walsh, William J. Doerfler, Jess P. Kessinger, Mrs. Pansy Stevens and Representative Evans.

EAST ST. LOUIS, ILL
JOURNAL

APR 1 1934

Democrats Say Republicans to "Jump" Parties

Charge Plot to Have G. O. P. Voters Cast Ballots of Opposition Party in Primary.

LEADER IN DENIAL

Reports that between 2000 and 2500 erstwhile Republican "regulars" will cast ballots in the East St. Louis Democratic primary April 10 resulted Saturday night in plans by Democratic candidates to concentrate in city precincts this last week of the campaign.

Apparently the Republicans who might be suspected of shifting to the Democratic primary this year have become the plum sought by both factions of the majority party. Both administration and new deal actions claimed the benefit of whatever Republican vote may be cast in the Democratic primary.

Charge, Counter Charge

Administration Democrats charged that the estimated 2,500 votes controlled by Dan McGlynn, Jr., East St. Louis Republican leader, will be sent into the party primary to aid new deal Democrats. New Dealers countered with the accusation that the administration is promising these Republicans jobs.

McGlynn, who has once more become the center of a local campaign despite his affiliation with the minority party, Saturday denied that he is interested in the Democratic race.

"Say for Me . . ."

"You may say for me that I only am interested in the Republican primary," McGlynn told The Journal. "I might add that it seems to me that Republicans have a much better chance of winning in the fall general election than expected. Therefore, you can see that I would have no motive or interest in the Democrats. I am advising Republicans to remain Republicans, to vote in our primary. This report is ridiculous and born of a bitter fight in Democratic ranks."

Appearance of Dr. E. P. Stahl, county physician and termed one of the Republican leaders of the county, in new deal meetings in this city is cited by administration leaders as substantiation of their charges.

Visit Doctor.

Dr. Stiehl, it was disclosed earlier in the campaign, had opened an office in East St. Louis. To this office 13 Democratic precinct committeemen were reported and seen to have gone on apparent "visits" to the physician. Dr. Stiehl treated these reports lightly at the time of their disclosure. Recently he was seen attending a new deal Democratic meeting in an East St. Louis Negro precinct.

Politicians Saturday night discounted reports that, in addition to the Republican votes expected in the East St. Louis Democratic primary, 1,000 Republicans are to cast their ballots in Belleville's Democratic race. However, consensus of opinion was that there is a strong possibility at least of 2,000 East St. Louis Republicans casting Democratic ballots.

Meetings.

Importance of the last week's campaign efforts being spent in this city and immediate vicinity was indicated when new deal Democrats released their schedule of meetings Saturday. They are:

April 2, Korecky's Grove, 4500 Forest boulevard; April 3, Polish hall in Fairmont City for Canteen township; April 4, meetings at Centerville station, Maplewood park, and in Turner hall at Belleville; April 5, meeting of 10 Lansdowne precincts at Lansdowne park, Comm a hall at 5555 Bunkem road, and precincts 23 and 24 at 2600 Kansas avenue; April 6, meeting of precincts 64, 65 and 66 at 225 Winstanley avenue, Lovejoy school at Brooklyn; April 7, Negro precincts in South End on Cahokia road; April 9, 6200 Forest boulevard for all Canteen township Eye Negroes.

Administration Democrats announced only one meeting that is scheduled for the week. It will be next Tuesday night, April 3, at Polish hall in Caseyville. Other administration meetings, unannounced, will be in East St. Louis precincts.

Leaders of both factions in the Democratis party were gazing with some apprehension on East St. Louis Negro precincts this week. Local Negroes polled 2,030 Democratic vots in the 1932 primary. Intensive campaigning will be carried into precincts 2, 4, 5, 7, 8, 10, 13, 14, 15, 16, 19, 20, 23 and 25, the Negro polls. Reports that Dr. A. H. Simms, Negro candidate for Legislature, will draw a solid Negro vote apparently disturbed the other candidates for that office.

Sheriff Race Keen

Aside from the East St. Louis Democratic battles between candidates for precinct committeemen the sheriff's race in that party continued to hold interest. Definite factional lines were drawn in Belleville last week. Wednesday night the county central committee, of which Deputy Sheriff Calvin Nesbit is chairman, indorsed Deputy Sheriff Henry Siekmann of O'Fallon for sheriff. Friday night, County Auditor Robert W. Tiernan was principal speaker at a new deal meeting of 26 candidates for precinct committeemen in Belleville.

Adherents of both candidates clashed at a meeting held at Eighteenth street and Division avenue Friday night. State's Attorney Louis P. Zerweck spoke in favor of Siekmann and he was followed to the rostrum immediately by Eddie Steele, new deal candidate for committeeman in precinct 66. Steele asked the indorsement of Tiernan for sheriff.

Runners Turn Out

Meetings Friday night were headlined by the St. Clair county Taxpayers' league at Belleville. It was candidates' night and 24 of the 91 candidates for state and county offices in both parties for this county appeared.

Nine of the candidates appearing were Republicans and 15 of the 59 Democratic aspirants were in the meeting. The League adopted a resolution to vote for candidates who are qualified for the offices they seek and who favor reduction in taxes.

No figures were available Saturday at the board of election commissioners as to the registration for the primary here. However, indication of the heaviest registration in years was seen in the fact that the polling place in precinct 69 was moved to allow for topheavy filings. Precinct 69 is John J. Hallihan's precinct. The transfer, not announced as to the site, was made from a room that permits two voting booths to one that has space for six. Eugene V. Menges, opponent of Hallihan for precinct committeeman, said this week that he has been asked by a member of the board of election commissioners not to challenge the votes April 10 as "it might tend to slow up voting," Menges quoted the commissioner as saying.

Melvin Price, secretary to Congressman E. M. Schaefer at Belleville, announced late Saturday night that the Schaefer campaign will be carried into Washington, Bond, Monroe and Madison counties this week for a wind-up. Stress will be laid on the Washington county campaign, with meetings scheduled at Ashley for Wednesday night; Okawville on Thursday night; Radom Friday night and Nashville Saturday night. Former Probate Judge Joseph Liesack of Chicago will address the Radom meeting.

Republicans said this week that they will continue a "quiet" primary campaign. Other than the meeting held in Brooklyn last Thursday night, the leaders have been content to allow the various candidates to pursue their own campaigns.

Joseph L. Moore of Springfield, Republican candidate for nomination as state treasurer, was in East St. Louis Friday. Moore conferred with city party leaders. He is a war veteran and practicing attorney at Springfield.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.
STATE JOURNAL

FEB 23 1934

NEGRO VOTERS TO ASSEMBLE TONIGHT

A meeting for Negro voters will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the circuit court room, for the discussion of the issues of the primary campaign. The address of the evening will be delivered by Dr. Alonzo H. Kenniebrew, followed by the introduction of candidates.

Dr. J. L. Ford will be chairman of the meeting and Attorney Clarence B. Davis will serve as secretary.

ure to obtain this job.

Other speakers included Rodney Wheatley, Frank and Robert Wright, candidates for precinct committeemen.

Will Meet Tonight

The republican new deal organization will terminate its primary campaign tonight with a meeting in headquarters, 326 South Sixth street. Henson Robinson will preside. There will be addresses by supporters of the ticket. Candidates on the ticket are Frank Schoettker, for sheriff; Harry A. Eielson, for treasurer; J. B. Myers, for county clerk, and Harlington Wood, for county judge. Entertainment is planned also.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.
REGISTER

APR 7 1934

Fish, Flinn and Davis Rap Dye, Candidate for Sheriff, in Plea for Colored Votes

George Fish, former county treasurer, speaking at a mass meeting of colored voters held under the auspices of the "New Deal" Republican slate, last night made a vitrolic attack on Ernest A. Dye of Williamsville, independent candidate for the republican nomination.

The meeting was held at the negro Masonic hall, 119½ North Eighth street. Lawrence L. Flinn, and Clarence Davis, colored attorney, were the other chief speakers. Dr. J. I. Ford presided and introduced Frank Schoettker, candidate for sheriff; J. B. Myers, candidate for county clerk and Harry Eielson, candidate for county treasurer.

Fish in his talk called Dye "the scissorbill from Williamsville" and declared he was a "glad hander and bunk artist."

"If Schoettker is elected he will give you a fair share of the patronage of his office," Fish promised the negroes.

Both Fish and Flinn claimed that when the new slate of candidates was being prepared, they had urged upon Wanless that Dye be a candidate for county treasurer instead of sheriff. They claimed that Wanless said Dye was "not educated" enough for a position as county treasurer.

"Then we don't want him for our sheriff," Fish asserted.

Fish also termed Dye a "blatherskite," and a "hill billy who poses as a farmer and claims he will get the farmers' votes."

Flinn, making the concluding address of the meeting attacked Fred Wanless, declaring that he (Flinn) could never trust Wanless in a political agreement.

Davis Attacks Greening

Attorney Davis attacked State's Attorney Alfred H. Greening, declaring that Greening had promised to name him assistant state's attorney but had not kept his word.

Both Davis and Dr. Ford charged that Fred Wanless had not given the Negroes a fair deal, in Sangamon county affairs, and claimed that the "New Deal" candidates, if elected, would carry out their promises.

Davis spoke directly to Eielson and Schoettker, telling them that "if Allan Cole can give a Negro a position as deputy sheriff, you (Schoettker) can," and that "if Harry H. Mason can appoint a Negro deputy treasurer, you (Eielson) can."

Major Robert A. Bird, former state employe, spoke in behalf of the new deal ticket, declaring that "we must develop leaders who are independent," and that the New Deal candidates would not be "subservent to a faction."

Attorney Lester Holman in a talk declared that he had been "humiliated while fighting for the Wanless faction in the last few years." He declared that he was offered a position under the late Charles L. Koehn, county treasurer, but that he never received this position. He declared that he blamed Wanless for his fail-

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Indiana

COLORED VOTERS OF INDIANA, STRICKEN BY UN-EMPLOYMENT, TURN ATTENTION TO POLITICS

Recorder 3-10-34

Indianapolis, Indiana

(By Staff Correspondent)

Abysmal rifts in the ranks of both major political parties in Indiana have served to disclose to the colored voter of the state an unprecedented opportunity to achieve for the first time, much desired racial political solidarity.

Still smarting under the handicap of age-old inability to do for himself or have others do for him, Mr. Colored Voter is seizing this opportunity to make himself as never before. Scores of juvenile and adult political organizations have cropped up throughout the state. Almost without exception their approach to political questions are predicted upon a new deal for Negro leadership and wider political recognition at the patronage trough.

New Spring Style

When the political game hunters, smeared with the war paint of insincere promises, and clutching the tomohawk of racial, political, and financial prestige, enter the colored districts this spring bent on a quick capture of the traditionally easy Negro voter, they're likely to find far too many "hides" too tough for the small doses of the old political bunk.

Clubs, committees, groups, social gatherings and even churches are reviewing, critically the past history of Indiana politics and its treatment of the Negro voters.

Much of the splenetic criticism heard is directed toward Indiana's two United senators. They are generally considered guilty of the charges of not having recognized Negro leaders and failing to make colored appointments where such were easily possible.

Indiana's twelve members of the lower house of Congress are in no less an unfavorable position, in the opinion of the average Negro. Some congressional districts of the state carry such an insignificant number of colored voters that no one has been heard to criticise these congressmen on that score. Other districts in which the colored vote is important, however, have faired no better than the former.

Non Recognition

With the exception of Indianapolis, Negroes find themselves practically exiles from the lists of office holders, despite their party allegiance. In the larger centers where the colored vote is sizeable, such as Evansville, Terre Haute, South Bend, Ft. Wayne, Gary and East Chicago, Mayors, county clerks, county prosecutors and other county court house officials, have consistently ignored the group demand for wider recognition.

Observers going up and down the state assert that with Negro employment seriously curtailed and reduced because of the depression, with many unions still refusing to countenance Negro membership with its consequent opportunity to earn a livelihood as a union worker, with decent pay, sentiment among the job-starved recipients of forced charity are revealing mental attitides that strongly suggest the wisdom of a new deal on the part of the politician and office holder. The politicians and office holders

AN OPEN LETTER TO:

Charles (Buck) Sumner, Judge John Kern, Walter Pritchard, George Denny and Louis R. Markum, Aspirants for the Office of Mayor of Indianapolis

Recorder 3-24-34

Indianapolis,

One among you will in all probability be chosen by the people of this city as their next chief executive.

The man on whom the electorate bestows this honor will be called upon to administer the affairs of the city in the interest of all the people.

Determination of many questions vital to the citizens of the community will be placed squarely in his hands and we do not believe it unfair if aspirants to the mayor's office state their positions on those questions.

One large group of citizens who form an important part of the city's population is definitely set apart from the rest. This fact is no fault of theirs' and no fault of yours. But the fact remains, nevertheless.

This group is seriously confronted with certain health problems that demand immediate consideration. These problems are made acute because of a deplorable lack of adequate hospital facilities, which means in turn, little or no opportunities for adequate training of those of that group engaged in the field of medical service.

The city of Indianapolis maintains a hospital for treatment of patients whose incomes do not permit attendance at private institution. Colored as well as white citizens are taxed for maintenance of the City hospital.

It is a common knowledge that colored physicians and surgeons suffer from lack of adequate clinical experience such as can be gained in a modern well-regulated hospital.

There is not a single institution in this city where a colored medical student can serve an interneship. There is also no training school for colored nurses.

If any one of you is elected to the high office of mayor of Indianapolis will you, through the board of public health which it will be your duty to appoint, and which control city hospital affairs, secure the appointments of colored physicians and surgeons, interns, and nurses to the staffs of the hospital?

Will you make your stand on this question known to the public at once, before you seek support of colored voters in your efforts to secure nomination and election to the office of mayor?

—The Editor. The Indianapolis Recorder.

BEWARE OF THE K.K.K.

This newspaper considers it of vital importance to call the attention of the citizens of Indianapolis and of Marion county to the unusually large number of candidates seeking nomination to offices on the people's pay roll.

Recorder

We regard it as highly essential that you, Mr. and Mrs. Indianapolis Voters, make it your business to weigh in the balance of your consciences the signaficance of this situation. 4-14-34

Embodied in the overwhelmingly large number of office seekers is a problem sufficiently enormous fellow citizens, to claim your undivided attention. Now!

Indianapolis,

Fair management of your municipal affairs necessitates as never before men of great courage, honesty and ability.

It is needless to remind you, for you know it too well already Mr. and Mrs. Tax Payer, that upon the integrity and sincerity of the men and women you induct in office next fall will depend themaintenance of your sacred right to _____ representation in our advanced form of government.

This being the case, the sole duty of choosing well your next city servants devolves entirely upon You, Dear Citizens.

Candidates aspiring to the mayoralty of the City of Indianapolis should be Sounded Out Now! on the question involving their position on the long advocated matter pertaining to proportionate representation for Negro physicians and nurses on the City hospital staff.

The Indianapolis Recorder has addressed several such unanswered queries to these gentlemen.

As citizens of this community, we have a perfect right to know, and should be informed on this momentous question by the several candidates seeking support from the people for the highest local office in the gift of this city.

And it is well that these mayoralty candidates should know that the intelligent public does not intend to be ignored any longer on the representation for Negroes.

question of needed City hospital

THE MINORITY BECOMES THE MAJORITY

The Negro group always referred to as the minority, this, that and the other, is the majority voter in the 5th ward, or the new fifth district in Gary.

The question uppermost in the minds of us is: How are we going to use this power of the ballot in the approaching primary, and the general election this fall?

The woods are full of candidates in both of the major parties; a few good men will file; lots of racketeers; some hoodlums, and a bunch of hustlers who are trying to get away from the steel mills or the CWA via the electorate.

The Democratic party locally, has shown in no uncertain terms, the short time it has been in power in the country, that it does not want the Negro vote—by no patronage and non-consideration policies.

The Republican party is just as bad or worse. It has in the past (before it was wrecked) fed the Negro up on promise that it never intended to keep. The Negro supported these hypocrites for years.

Again, what is the majority going to do this spring? Are you going to contribute without being in on some of the take? There was never a period in your lives that jobs meant more to you and your group than they mean now. You ought to support only candidates who are going to make places for you in their offices, from governor down to dog catcher, none excepted. Why, we find that in Kentucky Tennessee, Oklahoma and other states, colored clerks etc., used in all county and city offices. Why not Lake county, Indiana? This can and must be done. Have your preachers preach, and your teachers teach jobs YOU need jobs for your boys and girls and must have them wherever you are entitled to them.

Rise up in political arms against all office seekers who cannot promise you your part in the spoils. Jobs, JOBS—you must have JOBS!

VOTING PRACTICE

The proper conduct or management of the business of government, be it of the Democratic or Republican brand, depenls upon clean politics.

And clean politics is only procurable by means of more of courageous attempts at effectuating that objective by the entire electorate whose inseparable obligation is to keep in touch always with the policies and activities of public servants.

There must be much less of perfunctory attention paid to governmental matters by the voting public, if our administrative affairs are ever to be wholly unhandicapped by the retarding influence of unscrupulous politicians.

This newspaper is righteously interested in a proposed movement embodying as one of its principal missions the dissemination of special education among members of our own group as to the priceless value of the American ballot.

The plan is calculated also to perform the increasingly essential service of informing our people as to why they should never fail to vote, and when and at what voting place the citizen should cast his ballot.

There is much need for more knowledge on the part of both races involving the proper manipulation of voting machines.

And there is no reason whatever why any supposedly qualified voter should have to be shown how to mark his ballot.

The ignorance manifested along these lines by the average citizen at election time is a serious matter; callls for immediate elimination for the poltical good of our community and nation.

9th and 10

The people now have two years in which to prepare for another election.

Meanwhile, we venture to suggest that something should be done to make it possible for the people to practice on voting machines in all sections of the city.

We are confident that this would make for much needed advancement.

And so, Messrs Candidates For Mayor, What Is Your Position On This Matter? The Citizens of Indianapolis Want To Know; They have a constitutional right to know Now!

This newspaper is not unmindful of the fact that in the unusual vast crowd of candidates seeking places on the people's pay rolls are a dangerously large number of sneaking Ku Klux Klan affiliates.

That notorious order of organized cut-throats with its vicious system of hellish strife creating activities that infamous organidation of impudent religious hypocrits and avowed despisers of Negroes, Jews and Catholics that dared openly to masquerade before the eyes of a horrified world as peaceful "Christian Soldiers, Marching as to War" is trying to "Come Back".

We know this to be a fact, fellow citizens, and we are telling you so. Now, that you may be on your guard against plunging your city and your county back into the damnable state of political disruption that existed in the days of the "Great I am the Law," D. C Stevenson.

You may depend, dear citizens upon the traditional vigilance of this newspaper to turn the light of pitiless publicity on any known former Ku Kluxer that dares to insult the good people of our community by entering his candidacy for any public office in the County of Marion or the City of Indianapolis.

We have undertaken to do this for your benefit Mr. and Mrs. Citizen.

We also venture to suggest that you use your vested right to save your city from the clutches of these enemies of common decency; rapers of law and order.

Now is the time, Negro citizens of Indianapolis to use constructively your established balance of political power embodied in all your districts.

Take that power to the polls in the primaries and the November elections, and say with your votes No! Ku Klux Klan, You Shall Not Pass.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.
STAR

OCT 28 1934

Voters' Qualifications.

Lafayette Journal and Courier.

In twelve states, including Delaware, Georgia, Maine, Massachusetts, Missouri, New Hampshire New Jersey, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, Texas, Vermont and West Virginia, laws are in effect which divest the pauper of a vote. The people are agreed on the proposition that a person willing to work, but unable to get a job under existing national conditions, should not be disfranchised as a "pauper." However, if the courts were to rule that persons receiving relief are "paupers," some one million six hundred thousand voters would be disqualified in the twelve states named. In Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia the poll tax payment requirement for voters presents difficulties to voters who by force of circumstances are on relief rolls. Most of the states requiring the voter to undergo a literacy test are in the South, where such tests are set up merely and employed drastically to intimidate Negro citizens and keep them away from the polls.

Indiana

Political – 1934

Suffrage

VOTERS APPEAR APATHETIC TO CITIZENS SLATE

Indianapolis Recorder

To Two Republicans, Two Democrats, One Independent Drafted for School Board Race

8-11-34

URGE INDEPENDENTS TO RUN

Indianapolis

Believe Colored Voters Will Cast Largest Vote Ever in Election Next Fall

Local citizens are giving unmistakable signs of what will be only a slow recovery from the shock of the disappointment received through failure of the highly Citizens School committee of two hundred foremost citizens to include a colored candidate among the five the group has endorsed for school commissioners.

After many weeks of a selective process by which a sub-committee of five headed by Herman C. Wolfe, insurance man, reached an agreement, members of the larger committee at a meeting in the Lincoln hotel last Thursday approved endorsement of the following, as the School committee's candidates:

School Committee Selections

Mrs. Clayton H. Ridge, 27, South Denny street, worker in Parent Teacher groups.

Carl Wilde, 3864 Guilford avenue, attorney.

Alan W. Boyd, 522 East Fifty-eighth street, attorney.

Earl Buchanan, 1215 North King avenue, personel manager of the National Malleable and Steel Casting company.

John F. White, 1545 Lexington avenue, retired, former state representative.

Two of this group are said to be republicans, two democrats, and one independent.

Accompanying the announcement of the selection came a statement from John L. Niblack, managing director of the School committee, explaining the committee's aims, as follows: "The committee is proud of this ticket, all of whom were drafted to run, and feels that these five folk will represent no special interest or section, but will view school problems of the city as a whole. It feels that these five are of sufficient mental stature and ability to be fair to all classes and sections, and it knows they are of the highest personal honesty and integrety.

The Argument for Recognition

Supporters are of colored candidates urged their selection aside from questions of personal fitness and high intellectual and moral calibre, on the grounds that since a dual school system is in fact maintained by the school city, as separate and distinct as night and day, the interests of colored teachers and students could be better served by a representative of their own race on the board of commissioners.

Support of two colored candidates in particular gained significant proportions among many groups of colored voters. Rumors are current that efforts will be made to induce them to make an independent race.

Interest of colored voters in school board affairs as pertained to election of the commissioners remained dormant until five years ago, at which time records show he cast about 4,000 of the total of 60,000 votes for the commissioners.

Indications are the situation is different today. Numerous questions that rise from the problems that engulf colored teachers, students and parents are believed to have so spurred general interest that a much larger number than formerly will evince and active interest in the selection of the school commissioners this fall.

HEAVY NEGRO REGISTRATION

Registration of voters revealed an unusually large number of Negro eligibles for Marion county.

It goes to show to what great extent colored citizens are interesting themselves in the questions of politics and government.

10-20-34

It is generally conceded by Republicans and Democrats the heaviest vote in the history of this community will be recorded on November 6.

Indianapolis

The circumstance is disclosed in the fact that an unprecedentedly large number of colored citizens have qualified to vote in the elections.

Candidates of both major political parties are conducting an intensive campaign for the purpose of capturing the Negro votes.

The Marion county battle ground is now the scene of a terrific struggle between the two organizations for the coveted balance of power which resides safely in the lap of our own group.

An aspect that promises much unavoidable confusion for election day is reflected in the circumstance that besides the Democratic and Republican tickets, partial states have been filed by groups representing the National and Peoples Fusion, Socialist, and Prohibition organizations.

Although it has not yet been certified, the Communist party is also on record as having filed.

Meantime it is daily becoming more and more evident that the coming election will be one of the most hotly contested in the history of Marion county.

Negroes are being urged to study well and intelligently the character. back ground and fitness of aspirants so as to vote progressively on November 6.

THE NEGRO VOTE

One more week, and the people of Indianapolis and this state will go to the polls to perform a sacred duty to this municipality and commonwealth.

Recorder

The coming election, with its embodiment of significant issues promises to be one of the most hotly contested in the history of the United States.

10-27-34

Our people are expected to play their part well and constructively in helping to decide these issues in a manner best suited to all the people.

To do this, Negro citizens must have intelligent reasons for casting their ballots one way or the other on election day.

Only best fitted aspirants for public offices are entitled to the people's indorsement.

And the City of Indianapolis, the County of Marion and the State of Indiana expect every registered man and woman to vote conscientiously and progressively on November 6.

The intelligent voter is one who studies well the special fitness, educational back-ground and other qualifications o fopposing candidates and vote according to the dictates of his own unbiased conviction.

And, ever mindful of the welfare of all the people, such a citizen can be trusted to vote always in the best interests of his community.

It is in this broad spirit that colored citizen participants in the election are very properly being urged to cast their ballots.

KOKOMO, IND.
TRIBUNE

OCT 25 1934

BANKETT URGES VOTERS TO BACK CONSTITUTION

"Brain Trusters" Lambasted by Colored Orator in Talk at City Hall.

J. C. Bankett, colored orator of Indianapolis, in a fiery speech before a capacity crowd at the city hall Wednesday night urged Republicans and Democrats, true believers in the Constitution, to unite in the November election against the New Deal, the "Brain Trust" and the "Dictator" in the White House.

The New Deal was weighed and found wanting in benefits to the "poor man," by Mr. Bankett, who charged President Roosevelt violated his oath of office when he disregarded the Constitution, assuming both the executive and legislative power of the government.

The "Brain Trust" was pictured as college professors, envious of the successes of the captains of industry, who sought powers in government without having the talent for either government or business, although they might be good at knowledge found in books.

Coming Election Important.

"To my race," the speaker said "the coming election is an important one. Stand by the Constitution that guarantees your rights before the courts and at the polls. Remove the Constitution and you may be removed from industry, perhaps back to slavery."

Along this line, the speaker drew a laugh when he cited that under the homestead plan the poor white man gets two acres of land upon which to support his family, and asked the question what do you colored men think you'll get?

In the opinion of Mr. Bankett, the way for the Republican party to win the present election was to explode the Roosevelt myth that he is taxing the rich to feed the poor. The popularity of the President is based on the theory, the speaker said, that the government is taxing Morgan, Ford and the Vanderbilts to pass around the wealth of the country to the folks not so fortunate.

Consumer Pays Bill

Following this trend of reasoning, the speaker declared that taxes are always paid by the ultimate consumer, that you cannot tax the rich because they only pass the levy down to the ninety-five per cent of the poor people who pay it, at least indirectly.

Roosevelt was criticised for failing to stand by the Democratic platform pledge to reduce taxation in both federal and state governments. Thousands of Republicans, Mr. Bankett asserted, joined with the Democrats to elect Roosevelt President in the belief that they could expect a reduction in taxes. Instead of keeping the platform pledge taxes have been raised 137 per cent, the speaker said. "You carry the burden, not Mr. Roosevelt," was his warning to his audience.

He declared Roosevelt has a "Tammany" streak in him that causes him to always be promising the "poor man" something, but like the Tammany machine in New York City, the "poor man" does the paying when he settles his tax bill.

Defending the Republican party from the attack of "Shay" Minton Democratic candidate for U. S. senator, that the G. O. P. brought on the panic, Mr. Bankett pointed out the Republican party was elected to run the government, not business, asserting that installment paying by the people of this country built such a mountain of debt that there was not money enough with the Republican ticket and offered the invocation. The audiences as he put it, "put the brakes once, at the opening, stood and sang "America." One of the features of the evening's program, was the introduction of the farmer's pigs, the ploughing by Walter Smith of Barney under of cotton and corn." Stone Stone, a colored man who ran away introduced Bankett. from his master in Kentucky to join the Union army. Before the meeting, the "Harmony Four" enlivened the session with a series of songs. Eugene Gaskin presided. The Rev. D. A. Graham of the A. M. E. church opened and "pep" into his admonition to the colored voter to stand

Indiana

Political - 1934

Suffrage

VOTERS APPEAR APATHETIC TO CITIZENS SLATE

Indianapolis Recorder

To Two Republicans, Two Democrats, One Independent Drafted for School Board Race

8-11-34

URGE INDEPENDENTS TO RUN

Indianapolis

Believe Colored Voters Will Cast Largest Vote Ever in Election Nov. 6

Farland

Local citizens are giving unmistakable signs of what will be only a slow recovery from the shock of the disappointment received through failure of the highly Citizens School committee of two hundred foremost citizens to include a colored candidate among the five the group has endorsed for school commissioners.

After many weeks of a selective process by which a sub-committee of five headed by Herman C. Wolfe, insurance man, reached an agreement, members of the larger committee at a meeting in the Lincoln hotel last Thursday approved endorsement of the following, as the School committee's candidates:

School Committee Selections

Mrs. Clayton H. Ridge, 27, South Denny street, worker in Parent-Teacher groups.

Carl Wilde, 3864 Guilford avenue, attorney.

Alan W. Boyd, 522 East Fifty-eighth street, attorney.

Earl Buchanan, 1215 North King avenue, personel manager of the National Malleable and Steel Casting company.

John F. White, 1545 Lexington avenue, retired, former state representative.

Two of this group are said to be republicans, two democrats, and one independent.

Accompanying the announcement of the selection came a statement from John L. Niblack, managing director of the School committee, explaining the committee's aims, as follows: "The committee is proud of this ticket, all of whom were drafted to run, and feels that these five folk will represent no special interest or section, but will view school problems of the city as a whole. It feels that these five are of sufficient mental stature and ability to be fair to all classes and sections, and it knows they are of the highest personal honesty and integrety.

The Argument for Recognition

Supporters are of colored candidates urged their selection aside from questions of personal fitness and high intellectual and moral calibre, on the grounds that since a dual school system is in fact maintained by the school city, as separate and distinct as night and day, the interests of colored teachers and students could be better served by a representative of their own race on the board of commissioners.

Support of two colored candidates in particular gained significant proportions among many groups of colored voters. Rumors are current that efforts will be made to induce them to make an independent race.

Interest of colored voters in school board affairs as pertained to election of the commissioners remained dormant until five years ago, at which time records show he cast about 4,000 of the total of 60,000 votes for the commissioners.

Indications are the situation is different today. Numerous questions that rise from the problems that engulf colored teachers, students and parents are believed to have so spurred general interest that a much larger number than formerly will evince and active interest in the selection of the school commissioners this fall.

HEAVY NEGRO REGISTRATION

Registration of voters revealed an unusually large number of Negro eligibles for Marion county.

It goes to show to what great extent colored citizens are interesting themselves in the questions of politics and government.

Oct 25 1934

It is generally conceded by Republicans and Democrats the heaviest vote in the history of this community will be recorded on November 6.

Indianapolis

The circumstance is disclosed in the fact that an unprecedentedly large number of colored citizens have qualified to vote in the elections.

Candidates of both major political parties are conducting an intensive campaign for the purpose of capturing the Negro votes.

The Marion county battle ground is now the scene of a terrific struggle between the two organizations for the coveted balance of power which resides safely in the lap of our own group.

An aspect that promises much unavoidable confusion for election day is reflected in the circumstance that besides the Democratic and Republican tickets, partial states have been filed by groups representing the National and Peoples Fusion, Socialist, and Prohibition organizations.

Although it has not yet been certified, the Communist party is also on record as having filed.

Meantime it is daily becoming more and more evident that the coming election will be one of the most hotly contested in the history of Marion county.

Negroes are being urged to study well and intelligently the character, back ground and fitness of aspirants so as to vote progressively on November 6.

THE NEGRO VOTE

One more week, and the people of Indianapolis and this state will go to the polls to perform a sacred duty to this municipality and commonwealth.

Indianapolis

The coming election, with its embodiment of significant issues promises to be one of the most hotly contested in the history of the United States.

Our people are expected to play their part well and constructively in helping to decide these issues in a manner best suited to all the people.

To do this, Negro citizens must have intelligent reasons for casting their ballots one way or the other on election day.

Only best fitted aspirants for public offices are entitled to the people's indorsement.

And the City of Indianapolis, the County of Marion and the State of Indiana expect every registered man and woman to vote conscientiously and progressively on November 6.

The intelligent voter is one who studies well the special fitness, educational back-ground and other qualifications o fopposing candidates and vote according to the dictates of his own unbiased conviction.

And, ever mindful of the welfare of all the people, such a citizen can be trusted to vote always in the best interests of his community.

It is in this broad spirit that colored citizen participants in the election are very properly being urged to cast their ballots.

KOKOMO, IND.
TRIBUNE

OCT 25 1934

BANKETT URGES VOTERS TO BACK CONSTITUTION

"Brain Trusters" Lambasted by Colored Orator in Talk at City Hall.

J. C. Bankett, colored orator of Indianapolis, in a fiery speech before a capacity crowd at the city hall Wednesday night urged Republicans and Democrats, true believers in the Constitution, to unite in the November election against the New Deal, the "Brain Trust" and the "Dictator" in the White House.

The New Deal was weighed and found wanting in benefits to the "poor man," by Mr. Bankett, who charged President Roosevelt violated his oath of office when he disregarded the Constitution, assuming both the executive and legislative power of the government.

The "Brain Trust" was pictured as college professors, envious of the successes of the captains of industry, who sought powers in government without having the talent for either government or business, although they might be good at knowledge found in books.

Coming Election Important.

"To my race," the speaker said "the coming election is an important one. Stand by the Constitution that guarantees your rights before the courts and at the polls. Remove the Constitution and you may be removed from industry, perhaps back to slavery."

Along this line, the speaker drew a laugh when he cited that under the homestead plan the poor white man gets two acres of land upon which to support his family, and asked the question what do you colored men think you'll get?

In the opinion of Mr. Bankett, the way for the Republican party to win the present election was to explode the Roosevelt myth that he is taxing the rich to feed the poor. The popularity of the President is based on the theory, the speaker said, that the government is taxing Morgan, Ford and the Vanderbilts to pass around the wealth of the country to the folks not so fortunate.

Consumer Pays Bill

Following this trend of reasoning, the speaker declared that taxes are always paid by the ultimate consumer, that you cannot tax the rich because they only pass the levy down to the ninety-five per cent of the poor people who pay it, at least indirectly.

Roosevelt was criticised for failing to stand by the Democratic platform pledge to reduce taxation in both federal and state governments. Thousands of Republicans, Mr. Bankett asserted, joined with the Democrats to elect Roosevelt President in the belief that they could expect a reduction in taxes. Instead of keeping the platform pledge taxes have been raised 137 per cent, the speaker said. "You carry the burden, not Mr. Roosevelt," was his warning to his audience.

He declared Roosevelt has a "Tammany" streak in him that causes him to always be promising the "poor man" something, but like the Tammany machine in New York City, the "poor man" does the paying when he settles his tax bill.

Defending the Republican party from the attack of "Shay" Minton as Democratic candidate for U. S. senator, that the G. O. P. brought on the panic, Mr. Bankett pointed out the Republican party was elected to run the government, not business, asserting that installment buying by the people of this country built such a mountain of debt that there was not money enough for either government or business, although they might be good at knowledge found in books.

Coming Election Important.

"To my race," the speaker said "the coming election is an important one. Stand by the Constitution that guarantees your rights before the courts and at the polls. Remove the Constitution and you may be removed from industry, perhaps back to slavery."

Along this line, the speaker drew a laugh when he cited that under the homestead plan the poor white man gets two acres of land upon which to support his family, and asked the question what do you colored men think you'll get?

In the opinion of Mr. Bankett, the way for the Republican party to win the present election was to explode the Roosevelt myth that he is taxing the rich to feed the poor. The popularity of the President is based on the theory, the speaker said, that the government is taxing Morgan, Ford and the Vanderbilts to pass around the wealth of the country to the folks not so fortunate.

Consumer Pays Bill

Following this trend of reasoning, the speaker declared that taxes are always paid by the ultimate consumer, that you cannot tax the rich because they only pass the levy down to the ninety-five per cent of the poor people who pay it, at least indirectly.

Roosevelt was criticised for failing to stand by the Democratic platform pledge to reduce taxation in both federal and state governments. Thousands of Republicans, Mr. Bankett asserted, joined with the Democrats to elect Roosevelt President in the belief that they could expect a reduction in taxes. Instead of keeping the platform pledge taxes have been raised 137 per cent, the speaker said. "You carry the burden, not Mr. Roosevelt," was his warning to his audience.

He declared Roosevelt has a "Tammany" streak in him that causes him to always be promising the "poor man" something, but like the Tammany machine in New York City, the "poor man" does the paying when he settles his tax bill.

Defending the Republican party from the attack of "Shay" Minton as Democratic candidate for U. S. senator, that the G. O. P. brought on the panic, Mr. Bankett pointed out the Republican party was elected to run the government, not business, asserting that installment buying by the people of this country built such a mountain of debt that there was not money enough ticket and offered the invocation. The audibrakes once, at the opening, stood and sang put it, "put the 'Dictator' and stop the killing America."

as he put it, "put the ploughing the farmer's pigs, the ploughing under of cotton and corn." Stone introduced Bankett.
Before the meeting, the session
Barney's "Merry Four" enlivened the session with a series of songs. Eugene
Gaskin presided. The Rev. D. A.
Graham of the A. M. E. church offered the invocation.

Indiana.

Political-1934
Suffrage

For Whom Shall We Vote?

EDITORIAL

Gary is entering the last long stretch culminating in the coming elections. Candidates are amassing strength for the big sprint leading on to victory or defeat. The voter stands on the sideline, ballot in hand, waiting to hand his support to whomever convinces him of his own personal fitness for office. Gary American

And yet, at no time in recent political history, has an election approached this close without the black voter actively demonstrating a decided preference for men and issues at stake. The sentiment of the Negro in Gary thus far is uncrystalized

Even the most conservative of political observers predict that in the coming election, the winner in the county race will have not more than a majority of 5,000 votes and city victors will count majorities of even less. It is likewise well known that in Gary alone there are at least 10,000 registered Negro voters. 9-21-34

In other words, the colored residents of the Steel City will be able to swing an election for or against any candidate or party. In our hands is held the balance of power. A city or county office seeker can be made or broken in this, the central district of Gary. Gary Indiana

The general elections of 1932 on which Roosevelt stepped into office convinced this section as well as the nation at large that nol onger would the Negro fear the boogey-man of party names. The race has learned that not all Republicans are our friends, that not all Democrats are our enemies. It it a question of individual candidates and principles

At the present time there are approximately 4,000 on local government payrolls. Of this number 400, or 10 per cent are Negroes, although the proportion here of total population is around 20 per cent. And of the 400, only one is out of the pick-shovel-and broom class.

Obviously this condition is not one to gratify the colored voter.

On the other hand The American is unable to find one iota of race discrimination in the dstribution of federal funds handled by Democrats in this county. The recent re-opening of local schools found not one child starting to class without the protection of shoes and stockings. This is the work of the party of Jefferson at Washington, D. C.

Its ideas and ideals since 1932 have demonstrated to the Negro that h eno longer need fear the name of the Dmocratic party.

Counterbalancing this new sentiment. however, is the belief held by the race for many years that the Republican party is the ship, all else the sea. This is a time-imbedded opinion that cannot be altogether abolished in a day.

In the lists of candidates representing both parties we see the names of known friends. Good men are running on both tickets.

What, then, shall the Negro do? For whom shall he cast his ballot?

Is it the job of the Democrats to convince those of us who have allied ourselves with that party last election that we should remain in the fold as well as convince others now undecided to follow that banner?

Is it the job of the Republicans to re-claim those of us who have deserted their ranks for other pastures and convince others of us that our only hope today, as it was years ago, is in the party of Lincoln?

Or shall the colored voter wander along and give his ballot haphazardly when everybody knows that in him this election is vested, the balance of power, spellng doom or victory for either party and its standard-bearers?

Obviously it is time we should know the answers to these questions. If the nearly solid vote of the Gary Negro is to be bargained for by either party on the grounds of fair-play, it must begin at once

Election day draws nearer. —

No real advances have been made by either list of candidates.

What shall the Negro voter do?

Indiana

Political - 1934

Suffrage.

POLITICAL BATTLE FRONT

Citizens of Indianapolis, Marion county and the state at large are preparing to participate in the coming elections.

Voters are taking due note of prospective nomination candidates announcing themselves as spirants to placess on the people's pay roll.

Politicians and leaders in the two major parties are girding themselves for a finish fight at the polls.

In the meantime our people are being urged to study the personnel of candidates for whom they will soon be called upon to vote.

It is imperatively necessary that the principles to be espoused by each office seeker be thoroughly investigated and understood by us as soon as possible before the primary elections in May.

It now becomes especially necessary for Negroes of this and other Indiana communities to ascertain for themselves each candidate's stand on the question of greater recognition for members of the group.

To Negroes of the Hoosier commonwealth, the legitimate demand for a full measure of Negro representation in the administrative of fairs of this state has become an inseparable question; and very fortunately so.

Of the many issues to be discussed by the people of Indianapolis and Indiana throughout the campaign, the one having to do with a squarer deal for colored citizens will be among the most important to us as a race.

Greater recognitiin is ours by virtue of our constitutional rights as American citizens. Every intelligent member of the group knows that.

Voters, if appealed to in a spirit of co-operative righteousness can be depended upon to heed the call for a vaster measure of Negro representation in every department of local and state goverments.

It is therefore incumbent upon us as a worthy people to go to the polls this year determined to see to it that only men and women willing to support us in our claim for our rightful place in the political scheme of things are elected to offices in the pay of all the people.

There is no reason why colored Americans, with our solid background of service to the nation should be denied the right of participating more prominently in the management of our government.

With this logical point of view as a guiding star, voting Negroes of Indianapolis must go to the political battle front in the coming campaign.

Recorder 2-10-34

NEGRO VOTE WIDELY SCATTERED AMONG NEW WARDS; STUDY OF RECENT CHANGES REVEAL

Additional barriers have been placed in the path o political progress of the Indianapolis Negro, The Indianapoli Recorder has discovered upon investigation of the recen changes in precinct and ward boundaries ordered by the city council several months ago.

Recorder 3-1-34

Where formerly colored voters held a majority vote in two of the most important wards in the city, under the new "revamping", which increased the number of wards from fif teen to twenty-two, in no one ward are fifty per cent or more of the voters colored.

Negro politicians readily admit, in view of the present ward divisions, their inability to elect delegates to the political state or County conventions so long as the basis of a preponderant Colored vote. Loss of an opportunity to secure the election of the precinct commettmen of a ward chairman is also pointed out as one of the hurdles the new ward Re-division has place in the path of the ambitious Colored voter.

Responsibility for the "New Deal", that obviously seeks to keep the Colored vote as of the city unorganized and ineffective as possible has not yet been determined.

Tht Old Strong Negro Wards

Under he old ward division, six wards the first six wards, the first six carried important blocks of Negro voters. The old fifth was 85 per cent Colored. In the old sixth, between 70 and 75 per cent of he voters were Negroes. The old first and second averaged 25 per cent Colored; the old third, 33 per cent, while the old fourth, the largest ward in the State of Indiana had fifteen per cent Colored vote.

The nearest approach to a Colored ward now is the new 12th which is the old fifth ward revamped in such way that suffcient white precincts of the old fourteenth have been added to reduce the ward to only forty per cent of the Colored voting sthrength of its total. The new sixth has a 25 percent Colored vote to rang as second.

In less than five of the new wards has the redivision left the Colored voter any promise of holding the balance of power.

Negroes Urged To Run

Impetus was given by the report to the growing demand that qualified, capable Negroes offer themselves as candidates for major offices in the approaching elections. Investigations show that interest of the majority of colored voters centers on three offices which they believe members of their race should hold, whether democrat or republican.

These offices are: judge of one of the superior courts, of which there are five in Marion county; member of the city council (composed of nine elected representatives), and member of the Board of School commissioners.

These by no means represent the sum total of the group's political aspirations in the county and city. Greater representation in the appointive offices is to be added to the battle cry of the job-starved colored voters. Among the latter class frequently mentioned are: one representative on the city park board, the board of public safety, board of works and the health department.

Seek More Appointments

A further breakdown of the general demand shows a widespread desire for: an increase in the number of police officers from its present total of seventeen to seventy-five which is figured on a basis of population; increase in the number of city firemen from twelve to thirty; appointment of a probation officer in the municipal branch of the Criminal court, and appointments to the City hospital as staff physicians and surgeons, interneses, and nurses.

Recorder 3-10-34

Indianapolis Ind.

Apprehension has been felt and expressed by many voters over the failure of qualified Negroes to present themselves as candidates for the three elective offices. The opinions of several local politicians whose knowledge and reputations have made them potent factors in local elections for a number of years are that even the Negroes themselves who would make excellent candidates still share the opinions of white bosses that the time is not yet ripe for such a forward move on the part of Negroes.

This latter, it has often been pointed out, has from time imm

CITY VOTERS, IN DEFIA PRESS TOWARD MUCH EATER POLITICAL REPRESENTATION

Recorder 3-10-

Indianapolis Ind.

Revelations of the loss of ward control by virtue of the recent redivisions of wards and precincts as disclosed in The Recorder last week have produced a variety of reactions that are calculated to have a greater influence in local politics than at any time in the history of Negro enfranchisement.

Important among these reactions is a newly cemented determination of the colored electorate to "pull closer together" to offset the disadvantage of loss of the opportunity to name one or two of the city's ward chairmen. Evidence of this was seen in the budding of plans of politicians, office holders, and numerous political clubs to effect the election of precinct committeemen in all colored precincts, and the election of as many delegates as possible to both state conventions.

Recorder 3-10-34

morial been the ruse used by the whites to obviate the "embarrassment" they say strong Negro candidates would arouse.

Women Organizations Busy

The legislative berth won by the race recently continues to be the "apple of many eyes". Both democrats and republicans will find the lists of legislative candidates profusely sprinkled with the names of Negroes, before the final date of filing is reached April 9.

Most of the many women's organizations evincing a relish for the coming political battles show major interest in the elections of a colored councilman, member of the school board, and appointments at the City hospital.

Bills of Rights being drawn up by many of the mushroon precinc. and ward organizations among colored voters almost uniformly extend their interest to such matters as are admittedly of general public concern.

A driving force behind this unprecendented defiance of political traditions is said to be the widespread belief that the Negro is in striking distance of his objectives because he now holds the balance of power in city and county politics.

"THE NEGRO IN LAKE COUNTY"

Concerning "The Negro in Lake County," the title of an article appearing in the February issue of The Lake County Review, (a monthly magazine published by the Glen Park Democratic club, with Joseph Klein as editor) there have been many criticisms received by this office, of which the letter from a Crown Point citizen, appearing elsewhere in this publication, is typical, the intelligentsia of the group selected as a topic for discussion by such learned writers as the author of "The Negro in Lake County" are always reluctant to dignify such learned gentlemen's utterances with a reply, because always the utterances are their best answers. They most usually show the author or his clan to have failed in his or their efforts to reach a place of prominence, for profit only, at the expense of the group upon whom he loosens his wrath.

It always discloses another member of another group, who because of his own stupidity and incompetence has not been able to compete with the intelligence of his group in the struggle for existence, and consequently has selected the most illiterate and criminal element among the Negroes for his associates and as a means of his own economic advancement, during which association he has become ambitious and conceived the idea that with a few illiterate and criminal followers, he can crash economic and political barriers, the entrance to which his stupidity and incompetence has barred him.

It is recognized also by the better thinkers and best elements of all groups, as was so timely expressed in a Race Relations forum meeting a week ago by Mr. Wm. J. Hamilton, "It is unfair to generalize. There are as many different classes of colored citizens as there are different classss of white citizens, and it is unfair to judge either race by the standard of the worst elements of either of these races."

There are those intelligent and fair minded Negroes who want to believe that there are some honest, honorable and fair-minded Democrats and that "The Negro in Lake County" is the expression of a very small minority, among whom a little learning is dangerous and in whose hands a little power is disastrous.

It is not unusual for men of light calibre, with little or no intellectual training, to select for their bombastic discourses, the question of the Negro's failings.

Nor is it always very difficult for men of intolerance to find some listeners to their bombastic criticisms of minority groups, including the minority group of which they are members.

For the last six years, each elction year has disclosed a perceptibly larger number of Negro votes cast on the Democratic ballot. That is because there are those Negroes who prefer to vote for MEN and MEASURES rather than for party ONLY, and usually when Negroes become impressed with their experiment of voting for men and measurs, Democrats not excepted, some underling of the type of the author of "The Negro in Lake County," destroys that favorable impression and drives votes back to the Republican ranks.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.
STAR

SEP 12 1934

DISFRANCHISING NEGROES.

To the Editor of The Indianapolis Star:

Recently, I read an editorial in your paper in which attention is called to the continued disfranchisement of Negro citizens by Southern Democrats. This article must have struck home, because I noticed that several of the Democrats, in an effort to defend the indefensible new deal, have stated that no race issue is involved.

I wish to state that a system of disfranchisement in violation of the constitution of the United States is a race issue plus. It is of interest first of all to members of the Negro race to know that the so-called new deal is shuffled and dealt by the Southern Democratic majority, which, whether we call it a new deal or an old deal, is determined not to give Negro citizens a square deal. Secondly, it certainly would interest any self-respecting citizen to know that the disfranchisement of Negroes in the South has permitted the development of an inequitable basis for the election of congressmen. To reduce the congressional ratio, as it has been done in the South, so that a small percentage of the people determine the election results for the whole of the people of the state, is to reduce, in the same proportion, the voting strength of the Negro and white citizens of Indiana and every other state where elections are held in accordance with the Federal constitution. To deny this is to condone the nullifying of the constitution and this is un-American to say the least.

FRANK R. BECKWITH.
Indianapolis.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Iowa

DEMOCRAT

Oxford, Ia.

MAY 17 1934

THE COLORED VOTE

Very naturally the colored vote so far has been almost unanimously Republican. This is due to the fact that Abraham Lincoln, the Emancitor was a Republican and that the Republican majority in Congress was responsible for the enfranchisement of the negro. But among thinking colored men, there has come a growing realization that the Republicanism of Abraham Lincoln has long since been abandoned by the present G. O. P. leaders and that the traditional and hereditary adherence to Republicanism by the colored vote is no longer justifiable.

In the campaign of 1932 for the first time there was a heavy inroad made upon the Republican majorities in the colored centers, and in Iowa many hitherto staunch colored Republicans are now open and enthusiastic supporters of the New Deal. Last week the Iowa colored Roosevelt club was organized in Des Moines and word from every part of the state indicates that colored voters are interested and that the colored voters are preparing to cast their votes for an endorsement of the Roosevelt administration, by voting the straight Democratic ticket. An enthusiastic meeting was held by organizers of the club at the Colored Community center in Des Moines last Saturday evening, and arrangements perfected for carrying the campaign to every colored voter in Iowa.

BE SURE YOU REGISTER

Republican county organizations are making a check of voters throughout the state. Two objects are in view: first, to determine the number of republican voters and where they may be found, so that intelligent means may be devised to get them to the polls on election day; second, to find out if they are registered so that in case they are not, this all important task may be done in time.

Reports have come that altogether too many Negroes have failed to register—they are not the only guilty ones — and of course they will not be able to vote on election day unless they register before that time.

This situation is not very happy particularly in view of the fact that in many states, all dominated by democrats, Negroes are not permitted to vote. The exercise of the ballot is a privilege everybody should use for not only is it an opportunity to elect the officials whose salary the voter helps to pay, but also a badge of good citizenship.

Bugslander

Sep 25 34

See Oxford

DES MOINES, IA.

TRIBUNE CAPITAL

SEP 21 1934

Few Regain Vote Right

Registration for Fall Election Urged.

Concern about the small percentage of disqualified voters who are regaining their rights by registering again was expressed Friday by Sam Orebaugh, city clerk.

"We sent out about 5,000 notices to persons who had lost their right to vote by failing to cast a ballot during the last four years," Orebaugh said. "About 1,500 of the cards were returned by the postal authorities, indicating that many had moved from the address in the registration files.

Only 50 Register.

"Of the remaining 3,500, only about 50 have come in to register in order that they might vote at the state and county elections Nov. 6. They must do so at least 10 days before those elections if they expect to vote."

Of the 73,040 persons now registered properly, 34,313 are women and 36.143 men, Orebaugh reports

4,000 Eligible Voters.

There are 2,584 Negroes registered, the clerk's records show This he asserts, is far below the Negro voting strength. Orebaugh said the total Negro vote has been estimated at from 4,000 to 5,000.

The city clerk said that the registration office in the south basement of the city hall can handle from 500 to 600 registrations daily.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Iowa.

Negro Republican Voters League Endorses Turner for Governor

The Negro Republican Voters' League of Iowa favors Dan W. Turner of Corning for the Republican nomination for governor.

In doing this it must not be inferred that we think any one of the other candidates is not capable, but it is because we KNOW that Turner is; we have had enough of experimentation or seeking for the unknown, the last eighteen months, to last us for forty more years.

A great patriot has said, "There is no better source by which my feet are guided than by the experience of the past." We ask you to look into the records and compare the achievements of each of the candidates and reach your own conclusions. If you will do this without predjudice, we know you will agree with us when we say, that they who deny his sincerity of purpose, his loyalty to the Republican party, or his courage and integrity, are mentally deficient, or wilfully untruthful.

We know that it was through the firm stand taken by governor Turner and his administration, that the best position held by our group at the State Capitol was saved for us; we also know that through him and (G. C. Greenwalt, Secretary of State, under his administration, whom we are also supporting) a position was created in the motor vehicle department, for one of our group, which we never had before and do not have now, a matter that we wish the Negro democrats would look into.

We are for Turner on account of his record, we are Republicans and intend to support the standard bearer of the party, we do not mean by this that we are satisfied or think that the Negroes of Iowa have had what is due them as citizens of this great commonwealth; we are out to improve our status, therefore, from the records we recommend to the Negro voters of Iowa the support of Turner for governor of Iowa.

J. G. BROWNE.
State Chairman.

DES MOINES, IA.
TRIBUNE CAPITAL

MAY 10 1934

New Charges In Campaign

Turner and Colflesh Make Speeches.

Campaigning for the Republican nomination for governor took on new charges and countercharges Thursday as Dan W. Turner and Robert W. Colflesh spoke in Cedar Rapids and Audubon, respectively.

Turner centered his attack on Colflesh tax statements while Colflesh continued his gasoline-alcohol controversy with former Judge Fred C. Lovrien.

Turner said Colflish has "changed front, side stepped and now has actually reversed himself on his tax stand," and accused him of favoring the gross income tax in eastern Iowa speeches and opposing it in those in western Iowa.

Quotes Dispatches.

He quoted newspaper dispatches o show Colflesh had pledged sympathy and co-operation" with ross income tax supporters in ouncil Bluffs, Mar. 27, "symathy" for the movement in Clinon, Apr. 4, criticism of the sales ax and gross income tax in Fort odge three weeks later, and arning that "the gross income ax holds out dangerous promises" Algona May 2.

"If he is so uncertain now, what ope would the rank and file of e people have for real tax revion if he were to be elected govnor?" Turner asked. Turner ofred his own tax program as efinite and certain to produce roperty tax relief.

Pledges Reduction.

He pledged himself to further eduction in government expense, tax limit on real estate, a net ncome tax and equalization of taxes between utility and private property by prevention of what he termed "tax dodging" by utilities.

Colflesh said Lovrien "seems to be the gunman in the Turner organization," and that Turner supporters are circulating Lovrien's attacks throughout the state.

"Lobbyist."

"He poses as the champion of using corn-alcohol for fuel," Colflesh said, "and accuses me of having opposed this measure when it was before the legislature. I did oppose it. I did not favor compelling every gasoline consumer in the state to pay 5 cents additional for gasoline in the vague hope of benefiting the farmer."

Colflesh said he found no record of Turner support of the alcohol-gasoline bill and that it was strange that Lovrien, a legislator for three regular and three special sessions, did not discover its merits "until he appeared as a lobbyist."

"Salary Grab."

"Mr. Lovrien would be far more effective as a Turner champion if his record in connection with what is now notorious in Iowa as the legislative 'salary grab' were not open to public inspection," Colflesh said. "Mr. Lovrien voted himself the money, he accepted it, and so far he has refused to pay it back."

Both Clarence Knutson and Wallace M. Short, candidates for the Republican nomination for governor, are to speak at 8 p. m. Thursday at a politicial rally sponsored by the Capitol City Progressive league at Negro Community Center, Fifteenth and Crocker streets.

League Meeting.

Turner will speak on "Replacement of Interstate Taxes" at a meeting of the Liberty league at 8 p. m. Friday in the courthouse. The public is invited.

Byron Tusant, secretary of the Iowa Association of Tax Justice, Thursday spoke before the Des Moines Real Estate board in Younkers tearoom and advocated the gross income tax as a method of replacing property taxes and making real estate more desirable.

He spoke in place of Knutson, who was unable to appear because of an automobile breakdown.

Kansas.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

WICHITA, KANS
EVE. EAGLE

JAN 26 1934

CWA NEGROES TO MEET

Colored Voters League to Entertain ~~Relief~~ Workers Tonight

The Sunflower Equality and Educational league, an organization of colored voters in Sedgwick, Harvey, Reno and Butler counties, will hold a meeting in honor of all colored CWA workers at the St. Mark's Methodist Episcopal church at 8 o'clock tonight.

Speakers at the meeting tonight will be Inness Harriss, C. M. Fitzwilliams, John Madden, Charles S. Bettis, F. C. Helm, and Dr. H. T. Geeder. The committee sponsoring the meeting is composed of F. C. Helm, Dr. H. T. Geeder, Capt. S. W. Jones, B. F. Johnson, S. M. Jones and J. R. Johnston. A large turn out of CWA workers is expected.

WICHITA, KANS.
EVENING EAGLE

JUN 25 1934

NEGRO VOTERS RALLY

Landon-for-Governor Club Sponsors Program Thursday

Colored voters will rally Thursday at a Republican meeting scheduled to start at 8:30 p. m. on the lawn of St. Mark's Methodist Episcopal church. The colored Landon-for-Governor club will sponsor the affair. An entertaining program and a number of prominent speakers will feature the evening. All colored voters are invited and all Republican candidates are asked to attend to present their cause to the voters in brief talks. B. F. Johnson, chairman, Charles Penny, Edgar Duke, James Cumby and Roy Ballance are members of the committee in charge.

WICHITA, KANS.
EVENING EAGLE

JUL 3 1934

CARS FOR NEGRO VOTERS

All colored voters are being urged to register before July 7 in order that they may cast ballots in the primary election August 7. Those without cars may obtain transportation to the election commissioner's office by calling 2-0535. There will be no cost for this service, according to Evadner Lane.

Louisiana

Political – 1934
Suffrage.

LAW AIMED AT NEGROES DISFRANCHISES WHITES

Courier 8-18-34

White Louisiana Deeply Concerned About Technicality Which Disfranchises Their Own Race As Well As Negroes; Complaints From New Orleans Pour In To Registration Officials.

Pittsburgh Pa.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 16.—Like a boomerang, the policy of disfranchising colored citizens by making them ineligible through petty technicalities at the office of the registrar of voters, has come to react upon white citizens of Louisiana, causing dismay among them.

About 5,000 persons in New Orleans have complained to the Regular Democratic Organization registration law committee that they have been unable to register for the September primary.

It is claimed that, as the result of the current controversy between the city faction under Mayor Walmsley and the state political faction headed by U. S. Senator Huey P. Long, the state registration law in Louisiana is deliberately being employed by Mr. Long's registrar to keep properly-qualified white citizens off the voting rolls.

This law has been keeping properly-qualified colored citizens off the voting rolls for some time. As a matter of fact, it was admittedly aimed at the Negroes in an attempt to have them disfranchised.

According to the registration law the applicant must fill out a long application card, to the entire satisfaction of the registrar, who is the sole judge. He may refuse registration if the application card is not to his satisfaction.

If he considers that the card is properly filled out, he may still request the applicant to read and interpret any part of the state or federal constitution. The registrar is again the sole judge.

The possibility of chicanery and discrimination in this procedure is obvious. Negroes have been repeatedly denied registration on the grounds of the small technicalities to which the white folks are now being subjected, and an effort to have the law declared unconstitutional was made by A. M. Trudeau, who, in conjunction with the N. A. A. C. P., tried to have the U. S. Supreme Court pass upon it. The court refused to pass, stating that all recourse in the state had not been exhausted.

Now, however, that the discrimination in the registrar's office is taking place against white as well as colored, there is considerable comment in the white papers of New Orleans, and a rumor that the law may be amended—so that it will be harder for white people to be disfranchised.

Courier Pittsburgh Pa.

Mansfield, La. Enterprise
August 16, 1934

NEGROES WANT THE BALLOT

Louisiana negroes are expecting the ballot if the free poll tax constitutional amendment, sponsored by the Long-Allen machine, is carried in the next state election. This is the opinion justified by an article and an editorial in the New Orleans Broadcast, a newspaper operated by negroes.

Among the possible consequences pointed out by opponents of the free poll tax proposition was that of the entry of negroes into the political arena. Those advocating the free poll poll tax however, paid no heed to the prediction, being so eager to construct more powerful voting machines.

In the main article of July 21, the New Orleans Broadcast said:

"Thank the good Lord a better day is just ahead. It's here, and when it reaches us we must make use of it and never allow it to be taken from us, nor our children's children. The latest pronouncement, issued by Senator Huey P. Long and Gov. O. K. Allen, urging full support by the legislature on the poll tax question has much in it that is of importance to our race group, and we herewith produce it in full. We beg of you to read every word, and think it through and through. It could have been written for our case exactly, and if manhood counts for anything at all in us, we will, with faith in God and confidence and trust in one another, work like Trojans to have a hand in trying to help construct and settle some of these things vital to our very existence. To do less is cowardice."

The negro publication then reproduces a circular issued by Senator Long and Governor Allen urging the adoption of the free poll tax amendment. This indicates that the negroes expect to take part in the primaries in Louisiana, if the Long-Allen scheme is accepted.

Because of the possibilities of unfortunate misunderstandings offered by the free poll tax proposal, the voters who go to the polls in the next election when this proposition is to be decided should cast their ballots for the poll tax arrangement to remain unchanged. There is less danger from poll taxes that are paid for than there would be if free poll tax were offered to any and everybody.

Those who claimed that the negro would expect the ballot if the free poll tax plan were adopted evidently knew whereof they spoke.—Shreveport Journal.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.
ITEM

AUG 181[illegible]

Reaping The Whirlwind

WHEN some Louisiana Negroes recently killed another Negro, we remarked that the rest of the country would blame Loiusiana whites, rather than the Negroes immediately concerned, for the crime. Now comes the Commonweal:

"A brief news note contains about the most dearily tragic item that has come out of the South in a long time. A band of Negroes caught and killed another Negro, guilty of a crime against a colored girl, by beating him to death.

Does anyone question where this group of 'avengers' got the idea of this form of vengeance?

"Does anyone doubt that as many motives went into the perpetration of this act of 'wild justice' as go into the typical case of lynching when it is perpetrated by whites? Is there anyone who cannot see that a dreadful self-assertion against the degradation and terror of the lynch-law so long directed at them, a dreadful imitativeness, such as always operates in the vile contagion of crime, were at work here in the minds of these Negroes?

"Throughout history one reads that there is a worse thing oppressors do to the oppressed than wreak injustice on them. They infect the oppressed with their own viciousness. Those elements in the South which have taught the simple Negroes that the law is not the community's proper or trustworthy vehicle for expressing its just wrath at the crime of rape . . . have a heavy burden of guilt for this crime. Nor does the matter stop there. There will be other lynchings by Negroes. . ."

Shreveport, La., Journal
August 9, 1934

Negroes Want the Ballot.

Louisiana negroes are expecting the ballot if the free poll tax constitutional amendment, sponsored by the Long-Allen machine, is carried in the next state election. This is the opinion justified by an article and an editorial in the New Orleans broadcast, a newspaper operated by negroes.

Among the possible consequences pointed out by opponents of the free poll tax proposition was that of the entry of negroes into the political arena. Those advocating the free poll tax, however, paid no heed to the prediction, being so eager to construct more powerful voting machines.

In its main article of July 21, the New Orleans Broadcast said:

"Thank the good Lord a better day is just ahead. It's here, and when it reaches us we must make good use of it and never allow it to be taken from us, nor our children's children. The latest pronouncement, issued by Senator Huey P. Long and Gov. O. K. Allen, urging full support by the legislature on the poll tax question has much in it that it is of importance to our race group, and we herewith present it in full. We beg of you to read every word, and think it through and through. It could have been written for our case exactly, and if manhood counts for anything at all in us, we will, with faith in God and confidence and trust in one another, work like Trojans to have a hand in trying to help construct and settle some of these things vital to our very existence. To do less is cowardice."

The negro publication then reproduces a circular issued by Senator Long and Governor Allen urging the adoption of the free poll tax amendment. This indicates that the negroes expect to take part in the primaries in Louisiana, if the Long-Allen scheme is accepted.

Because of the possibilities of unfortunate misunderstandings offered by the free poll tax proposal, the voters who go to the polls in the next election when this proposition is to be decided should cast their ballots for the poll tax arrangement to re main unchanged. There is less danger from poll taxes that are paid for than there would be if free poll tax were offered to any and everybody.

Those who claimed that the negro would expect the ballot if the free poll tax plan were adopted evidently knew whereof they spoke.

Louisiana

Political - 1934
Suffrage.

LAW AIMED AT NEGROES DISFRANCHISES WHITES

Courier 8-18-34

White Louisiana Deeply Concerned About Technicality Which Disfranchises Their Own Race As Well As Negroes; Complaints Pour In From New Orleans Pour In To Registration Officials.

Pittsburgh Pa.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 16.—Like a boomerang, the policy of disfranchising colored citizens by making them ineligible through petty technicalities at the office of the registrar of voters, has come to react upon white citizens of Louisiana, causing dismay among them.

About 5,000 persons in New Orleans have complained to the Regular Democratic Organization registration law committee that they have been unable to register for the September primary.

It is claimed that, as the result of the current controversy between the city faction under Mayor Walmsley and the state political faction headed by U. S. Senator Huey P. Long, the state registration law in Louisiana is deliberately being employed by Mr. Long's registrar to keep properly-qualified white citizens off the voting rolls.

This law has been keeping properly-qualified colored citizens off the voting rolls for some time. As a matter of fact, it was admittedly aimed at the Negroes in an attempt to have them disfranchised.

According to the registration law the applicant must fill out a long application card, to the entire satisfaction of the registrar, who is the sole judge. He may refuse registration if the application card is not to his satisfaction.

If he considers that the card is properly filled out, he may still request the applicant to read and interpret any part of the state or federal constitution. The registrar is again the sole judge.

The possibility of chicanery and discrimination in this procedure is obvious. Negroes have been repeatedly denied registration on the grounds of the small technicalities to which the white folks are now being subjected and an effort to have it declared unconstitutional was made by A. M. Trudeau, who, in conjunction with the N. A. A. C. P., tried to have the U. S. Supreme Court pass upon it. The court refused to pass, stating that all recourse in the state had not been exhausted.

Now, however, that the discrimination in the registrar's office is taking place against white as well as colored, there is considerable comment in the white papers of New Orleans, and a rumor that the law may be amended—so that it will be harder for white people to be disfranchised.

Courier Pittsburgh Pa.

Mansfield, La. Enterprise
August 16, 1934

NEGROES WANT THE BALLOT.

Louisiana negroes are expecting the ballot if the free poll tax constitutional amendment, sponsored by the Long-Allen machine, is carried in the next state election. This is the opinion justified by an article and an editorial in the New Orleans Broadcast, a newspaper operated by negroes.

Among the possible consequences pointed out by opponents of the free poll tax proposition was that of the entry of negroes into the political arena. Those advocating the free poll poll tax however, paid no heed to the prediction, being so eager to construct more powerful voting machines.

In the main article of July 21, the New Orleans Broadcast said:

"Thank the good Lord a better day is just ahead. It's here, and when it reaches us we must make use of it and never allow it to be taken from us, nor our children's children. The latest pronouncement, issued by Senator Huey P. Long and Gov. O. K. Allen, urging full support by the legislature on the poll tax question has much in it that is of importance to our race group, and we herewith produce it in full. We beg of you to read every word, and think it through and through. It could have been written for our case exactly, and if manhood counts for anything at all in us, we will, with faith in God and confidence and trust in one another, work like Trojans to have a hand in trying to help construct and settle some of these things vital to our very existence. To do less is cowardice."

The negro publication then reproduces a circular issued by Senator Long and Governor Allen urging the adoption of the free poll tax amendment. This indicates that the negroes expect to take part in the primaries in Louisiana, if the Long-Allen scheme is accepted.

Because of the possibilities of unfortunate misunderstandings offered by the free poll tax proposal, the voters who go to the polls in the next election when this proposition is to be decided should cast their ballots for the poll tax arrangement to remain unchanged. There is less danger from poll taxes that are paid for than there would be if free poll tax were offered to any and everybody.

Those who claimed that the negro would expect the ballot if the free poll tax plan were adopted evidently knew whereof they spoke.—Shreveport Journal.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.
ITEM

AUG 181[illegible]

Reaping The Whirlwind

WHEN some Louisiana Negroes recently killed another Negro, we remarked that the rest of the country would blame Loiusiana whites, rather than the Negroes immediately concerned, for the crime. Now comes the Commonweal:

"A brief news note contains about the most dearily tragic item that has come out of the South in a long time. A band of Negroes caught and killed another Negro, guilty of a crime against a colored girl, by beating him to death.

Does anyone question where this group of 'avengers' got the idea of this form of vengeance?

"Does anyone doubt that as many motives went into the perpetration of this act of 'wild justice' as go into the typical case of lynching when it is perpetrated by whites? Is there anyone who cannot see that a dreadful self-assertion against the degradation and terror of the lynch-law so long directed at them, a dreadful imitativeness, such as always operates in the vile contagion of crime, were at work here in the minds of these Negroes?

"Throughout history one reads that there is a worse thing oppressors do to the oppressed than wreak injustice on them. They infect the oppressed with their own viciousness. Those elements in the South which have taught the simple Negroes that the law is not the community's proper or trustworthy vehicle for expressing its just wrath at the crime of rape . . . have a heavy burden of guilt for this crime. Nor does the matter stop there. There will be other lynchings by Negroes. . ."

Shreveport, La., Journal
August 9, 1934

Negroes Want the Ballot.

Louisiana negroes are expecting the ballot if the free poll tax constitutional amendment, sponsored by the Long-Allen machine, is carried in the next state election. This is the opinion justified by an article and an editorial in the New Orleans broadcast, a newspaper operated by negroes.

Among the possible consequences pointed out by opponents of the free poll tax proposition was that of the entry of negroes into the political arena. Those advocating the free poll tax, however, paid no heed to the prediction, being so eager to construct more powerful voting machines.

In its main article of July 21, the New Orleans Broadcast said:

"Thank the good Lord a better day is just ahead. It's here, and when it reaches us we must make use of it and never allow it to be taken from us, nor our children's children. The latest pronouncement, issued by Senator Huey P. Long and Gov. O. K. Allen, urging full support by the legislature on the poll tax question has much in it that it is of importance to our race group, and we herewith present it in full. We beg of you to read every word, and think it through and through. It could have been written for our case exactly, and if manhood counts for anything at all in us, we will, with faith in God and confidence and trust in one another, work like Trojans to have a hand in trying to help construct and settle some of these things vital to our very existence. To do less is cowardice."

The negro publication then reproduces a circular issued by Senator Long and Governor Allen urging the adoption of the free poll tax amendment. This indicates that the negroes expect to take part in the primaries in Louisiana, if the Long-Allen scheme is accepted.

Because of the possibilities of unfortunate misunderstandings offered by the free poll tax proposal, the voters who go to the polls in the next election when this proposition is to be decided should cast their ballots for the poll tax arrangement to remain unchanged. There is less danger from poll taxes that are paid for than there would be if free poll tax were offered to any and everybody.

Those who claimed that the negro would expect the ballot if the free poll tax plan were adopted evidently knew whereof they spoke.

Homer, La. Guardian-Journal
August 15, 1934

Negroes Want the Ballot

Louisiana negroes are expecting the ballot if the free poll tax constitutional amendment, sponsored by the Long-Allen machine, is carried in the next stote election. This is the opinion justified by an article and an editorial in the New Orleans broadcast, a newspaper operated by negroes.

Among the possible consequences pointed out by opponents of the free poll tax proposition was that of the entry of negroes into the political arena. Those advocating the free tax, however, paid no heed to the prediction, being so eager to construct more powerful voting machines.

In its main article of July 21, the New Orleans Broadcast said:

"Thank the good Lord a better day is just ahead. It's here, and when it reaches us we must make good use of it and never allow it to be taken from us, nor our children's children. The latest pronouncement, issued by Senator Huey P Long and Gov. O. K. Allen ,urging full support by the legislature on the poll tax question has much in it that it is of importance to our race group, and we herewith present it in full. We beg of you to read every word ,and think it through and through. It could have been written for our case exactly, and if manhood counts for anything at all in us ,we will, with faith in God and confidence and trust in one another, work like Trojans to have a hand in trying to help construct and settle some of these things vital to our very existence To do less is cowardice."

The negro publication then reproduces a circular issued by Senator Long and Governor Allen urging the adoption of the free poll tax amendment. This indicates that the negroes expect to take part in the primaries in Louisiana, if the Long-Allen scheme is accepted.

Because of the possibilities of unfortunate misunderstandings offered by the free poll tax proposal, the voters who go to the polls in the next election when this proposition is to be decided should cast their ballots for the poll tax arrangement to remain unchanged. There is less danger from poll taxes that are paid for than there would be if free poll taxes were offered to any and everybody.

Those who claimed that the negro would expect the ballot if the free poll tax plan were adopted evidently knew whereof they spoke.—Shreveport Journal.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.
ITEM
AUG 30 1934

Purifying Registration

THE Long machine over in Jefferson had an excellent reason for resisting efforts to inspect the parish registration books. It took court order to open the books. We read that the registration in one ward, taken as a sample, exceeds by 562 the total white-and-black population of the ward as shown in the 1930 census! Uncle Sam's census takers found only 1259 whites and blacks, of 21 years or over in the whole ward. The Negroes don't vote. But nobody need doubt that somebody will vote for all this surplus population on these books. For we had just that sort of a vote for Mr. Long's candidate in the late Congressional election in the great borough of St. Bernard.

This is how "majorities" are manufactured for Mr. Long.

It is perfectly plain, however, that he himself knows nothing whatever about such artless doings. His tremendous indignation over the appearance of several thousand names of dead or departed persons on the New Orleans pollbooks clearly proves his entire innocence.

IT IS quite impossible that any man so deeply and sincerely consecrated to political purity as Mr. Long is known to be could for an instant accept the benefit of this dizzy inflation of the voting rolls in a subject satrapy like Jefferson.

It is much to be hoped, indeed, that the shock and pain of the discovery of so much wickedness in this house of his minions, won't afflict him with apoplexy before he is able to scourge the sinners from the Temple of Purity which he has erected about himself.

This is a risk to which the satraps of the marshes ought not to have subjected their peerless leader. When a symbol of honor and an apostle of purity is so overcome by the innocent presence of a few harmless names, legally appearing on the City's pollbooks, that indignation chokes his utterance, what may be expected for the effect of these frightful revelations from the froggy fens?

IF THE sanctified Senator does not invade the other side of the River with the loyal National Guard, from Gretna to Grand Isle, before dawn, we shall lose our faith in Human Nature.

Unless he acts quickly it will be too late. Every fictitious name fraudulently on these books will be represented by a vote for Mr. Long's candidates next month. The remorse which this would inflict on this sensitive soldier of the common good in after life, might even shorten his brilliant career.

So far as the earnest natives go, who put names on registration books in lower Jefferson, perhaps they but do according to their lights and inspirations. We are reminded by them of Burke on Hastings "When I recall his opportunities, I marvel at his moderation."

Hundreds of thousands of mink, muskrats, and summer teal must infest the marshy recesses of romantic Barataria. Why have these not been registered too?

They would have just as much standing with a committee of Congressional investigators, as fictitious human animals would

NEVER

to Enter State Capitol Louisiana Negroes are told

NEW ORLEANS, La. — "Niggers ain't got no rights in Louisiana." This remark was directed to a delegation of jobless workers by the night Chief of Police Baton Rouge when they were arrested by the Louisiana State Patrol.

This delegation of Negro and white workers, elected by the unemployed organizations of New Orleans, had gone to the special session of the State Legislature to present their demands for ten dollars per week for each unemployed worker and three additional for each dependent.

Their other demands included: and end to the foreclosures on homes of workers and poor farmers against the military bills of the state to increase the National Guard.

The delegation was met on the steps of the state capitol by a squad of a dozen armed detectives, demanding to know the mission of the delegation.

When the delegation answered that they had come to present their demands, the delegation was informed that the legislature was too busy passing its own bills to consider any demands of the unemployed. Turning to Jane Speed, (white) he asked, "Aren't you Jane Speed? What are you doing associating with Negroes?"

When he was asked about rights of Negro people the reply was: "No Negroes have ever entered the State Capitol and never will."

The unemployed delegation was then placed into cars and driven to the police station where they were held about an hour and released after having been told to leave town.

The puppet state legislature of Huey P. Long, the famous advocate of "share the wealth," refused to listen to the program for the workers.

SHREVEPORT, LA.
JOURNAL
AUG 1[redacted]

Negroes Want the Ballot.

Louisiana negroes are expecting the ballot if the free poll tax constitutional amendment, sponsored by the Long-Allen machine, is carried in the next state election. This is the opinion justified by an article and an editorial in the New Orleans broadcast, a newspaper operated by negroes.

Among the possible consequences pointed out by opponents of the free poll tax proposition was that of the entry of negroes into the political arena. Those advocating the free poll tax, however, paid no heed to the prediction, being so eager to construct more powerful voting machines.

In its main article of July 21, the New Orleans Broadcast said:

"Thank the good Lord a better day is just ahead. It's here, and when it reaches us we must make good use of it and never allow it to be taken from us, nor our children's children. The latest pronouncement, issued by Senator Huey P. Long and Gov. O. K. Allen, urging full support by the legislature on the poll tax question has much in it that it is of importance to our race group, and we herewith present it in full. We beg of you to read every word, and think it through and through. It could have been written for our case exactly, and if manhood counts for anything at all in us, we will, with faith in God and confidence and trust in one another, work like Trojans to have a hand in trying to help construct and settle some of these things vital to our very existence. To do less is cowardice."

The negro publication then reproduces a circular issued by Senator Long and Governor Allen urging the adoption of the free poll tax amendment. This indicates that the negroes expect to take part in the primaries in Louisiana, if the Long-Allen scheme is accepted.

Because of the possibilities of unfortunate misunderstandings offered by the free poll tax proposal the voters who go to the polls in the next election when this proposition is to be decided should cast their ballots for the poll tax arrangement to remain unchanged. There is less danger from poll taxes that are paid for than there would be if free poll taxes were offered to any and everybody.

Those who claimed that the negro would expect the ballot if the free poll tax plan were adopted evidently knew whereof they spoke.

Louisiana

Political - 1934

Suffrage

6

NEW ORLEANS, LA.
ITEM

AUG 29 1934

Jury Restores 3rd Orleanian To Rolls

Attorneys representing the three Regular Organization candidates running in the Second Congressional District for Congress, Public Service commission and the supreme court are preparing today to purge the registration rolls of Ward Six of Jefferson parish, and will file 1500 separate suits in the Jefferson district court, beginning tomorrow to remove as many names from the books of that ward's two precincts on the plea that these are the names of persons illegally and improperly registered.

In New Orleans, this afternoon, a jury in Judge Bond's court, after being out only five minutes, unanimously returned a verdict in favor of Walter R. Stack, 2006 Carondelet street, who had sued to compel Registrar R. J. Gregory to put his name on the registration rolls. Mr. Stack, along with others, had been denied the privilege of registering on the closing day of the current registration in the city.

Only three suits were filed on behalf of persons thus kept from the rolls. Two were tried yesterday, before juries, from whose verdict, under the law, there could be no appeal. Both of them were ordered placed on the rolls as qualified voters. The last one came up for trial today, and another unanimous verdict against Registrar Gregory was returned.

Meanwhile, 11 additional suits were filed this morning in New Orleans by citizens seeking to have their names restored to the registration rolls from which, they allege, these names were wrongfully scratched.

20 Other Suits

This action was taken on the eve of the final hearing on 20 similar suits, which had been set for various days during the present week and last week, but which had been held up pending a decision by the Supreme Court on exceptions by Edward M. Heath representing R. J. Gregory, the Orleans parish vote registrar. The Supreme Court yesterday upheld Judge Bond's ruling on the exception, so that all twenty pending cases came up for trial tomorrow, though it is likely all will be decided by the test case of John C. Dunn. Today's filings bring the total of pending cases of this sort to 31, though the 11 suits brought this morning were set for a hearing on September 4, next Tuesday which means they will come up before Judge Michel Provosty who takes his term on the civil bench during the vacation term beginning September 1.

At the same time, the hearing of a third case began at noon before Judge Bond today, the suit being that of a voter who sought a writ ordering Registrar Gregory to qualify him as an elector, he having been denied the right to register when he applied with his wife on August 11. These cases are triable by a jury, and two identcal ones were tried before Judge Bond yesterday, both resulting in verdicts for the complaining citizen. One was a unanimous jury verdict, and the other was a directed verdict ordered by the court.

Today's Case

Today's case is that of W. C. Stack, 2006 Carondelet street, whose wife was one of the two persons who won her right to vote in one of the suits decided yesterday.

The case went to the jury just a little before 2 p. m., after arguments by Walter Hamlin and Harry Mayo for Mr. Stack, and by Attorney Heath for the registrar.

Mr. Stack testified that he had filled out three registration cards on the closing day of the registration, August 11, and all three were rejected. He stated positively he had not received any help from his wife or any one else in filling out the cards.

Charges "Whispers"

James P. Higgins, clerk in the registration office, testified that he had seen Stack and Mrs. Stack whispering to one another, and then pause in their whispering to write something down on the registration card in each case, and that for this reason he believed they had assisted one another in filling out the cards.

Members of the jury who heard the case are Eugene J. Dussoon, A. M. Cromwell, Lawrence C. McCloskey, J. W. Renaudin, L. Hayem, Alvin E. Johnson, A. C. Bissing, J. P. Airey, Emile Perroyea, Jr., R. A. Commagere, Herbert C. Parker and B. R. Hughes.

Work of copying the Jefferson parish registration rolls went forward in Gretna throughout the day.

A check of the registration list of the ward yesterday, under peremptory court order, disclosed the fact that 1821 voters were registered, whereas the adult population, white and Negro, of the ward was only 1259 by the United States census of 1930. The two polling places in the ward are at Barataria, which includes Lafitte, across the bayou, and at Grand Isle, which includes the Manilla Village settlement, and the other shrimp platforms of Grand Bay.

New St. Bernard Action

The action sought is to reduce the voting strength of this ward from 1821 to approximately 350.

At the same time, a writ of mandamus is being sought today in St. Bernard to compel the registrar of voters of that parish to permit a detailed inspection of the rolls, and to permit the rolls to be copied or photographed.

"We were permitted to see the rolls yesterday," Alvin Christovich, of the attorneys' committee, declared this morning, "but we were permitted only to make a casual inspection to check the registration of men whose names were put in as commissioners for our candidates. These candidates for Congress, who are Herve Racivitch in the first district, and Gus Blancand in the second, are leaving no stone unturned to place themselves properly on record in the event that Congress later decides to investigate this election, and we are therefore making up a proper set of facts to be laid before a congressional investigating committee, should this prove necessary."

"The St. Bernard mandamus suit will be brought as soon as it is physically possible to write up the papers, on which a force of stenographers are now at work. If they can be completed in time, the writ will be sought today. If not, the application will be filed in St. Bernard the very first thing Thursday morning."

Names of Citizens

The 11 citizens who filed suit in New Orleans today to have their names restored to the registration rolls from which they had been scratched are:

Frank Paul Loup and Daniel J. Estopinal, both of 1451 Annunciation street; Catherine Power, 421 South Pierce street; Anna Mae Schneider, 1524 Carondelet street; Rose O'Reilly, 2917 Milan street; Claire Zinser, 1425 Lesseps street; M'liss Tansey, 523 Bellecastle street; Harry Guerand, 2015 Kerlerec street; Bernard P. Lagasse, 733 Pleasant street; Robert J. Williams, 923 Erato street; Octave A. Bayhi, 1227 North Miro street.

The Jefferson parish situation was brought to light by two day's work of copying the registration rolls, which was begun Monday under court order of Judge Rivarde. The Sixth ward was the one on which the investigators concentrated their attention.

Population

The total population of the ward in 1930, according to census figures, is 2129 white men, women and children, and 281 Negro men, women and children, the figures including 155 foreign born residents or persons of mixed parentage, as well as persons under voting age at the time of the census.

Jefferson parish is the territory of State Senator Jules G. Fisher, close asociate of Senator Huey P. Long and the state administration. It has been faithful to the Long faction, and it has been notorious for its rich gambling houses.

Elias B. Fisher, the parish registrar of voters, a Sixth ward resident, had nothing to say about the increase when he was reached in Abita Springs last night.

The ward's registration is 144.7 percent of the 1930 population of voting age, including Negroes.

The total population of Jefferson parish, according to the census, was 31,867 whites and 7900 Negroes in 1930. The total population of voting age is given as 21,395, including whites and Negroes, and, based on the ratio of whites and Negroes in the total population, the total number of white persons of voting age in the parish should be about 16,050. The total registration, under examination Tuesday by anti-Long candidates in the September 11 primary, is given on the rolls as 13,101. The rolls were opened to examination on order of Judge Robert L. Rivarde in Gretna district court.

Registration

Registration by wards and precincts follow: Ward one, precinct one, McDonoghville, 544; precinct two, McDonoghville, 423; total, 967. Ward two, precinct one, Gretna, 794. Ward three, precinct one, Gretna, 1139; precinct two, Lower Harvey, 446; total, 1585. Ward four, precinct one, Upper Harvey, 446; precinct two, Marrero, 519; precinct three, Westwego, 916; precinct four, mid-Harvey, 457; total, 2338. Ward five, precinct one, Waggaman, 116. Ward six, precinct one, Barataria, 1280; precinct two, Grand Isle, 541; total, 1821. Ward seven, precinct one, New Carrollton, 913; precinct two, Shrewsbury, 654; total, 1567. Ward eight, precinct one, Metairie, 1012; precinct two, East End, 260; precinct three, Metairie, 1414; total, 2686. Ward nine, precinct one, Kenner, 725; precinct two, Harahan, 502; total, 1227.

The parish has cast heavy majorities for Governor and Senator Long and his administration's adherents since 1928. Since that year, too, the registration of the parish has doubled.

Long's vote for governor in the Sixth ward in 1928 was 51, while 800 votes were cast for Simpson and 7 for Wilson. Long polled 2783 votes in the parish, Simpson 4166, and Wilson 755.

In the senatorial election in 1930, Long received 1113 votes in the ward, Ransdell received 1. The parish gave Long 6916, Ransdell 905.

In 1932 the vote increased again, O. K. Allen receiving 1506, Guion and LeBlanc receiving 1 and 3 votes, respectively. The parish as a whole had an increase of 3342 votes over the 1930 total. The total of votes cast in the parish was 11,163, of which Allen got 8746, or 924 more than the total vote in 1930. Guion and LeBlanc got 1500 and 898 votes, respectively.

Shreveport, La., Journal
August 14, 1934

U. S. Court Says Party's Right to Bar Negro Voters

3

(Associated Press.)

SHERMAN, Texas, Aug. 14.—The right of the Democratic party of Texas to exclude negroes from voting in its primaries was upheld Monday by Federal Judge Randolph Bryant.

Judge Bryant's decision was handed down in a case brought by John Johnson, Denison negro, who sought to restrain the county Democratic executive committee from interfering with negroes voting in primaries.

The case never came to trial on its merits, as Judge Bryant sustained a defense motion to dismiss.

Judge Bryant held that the state Democratic executive committee had the right to prescribe qualifications of its members and that its action last year in passing a resolution to limit its membership to the white race was valid.

Louisiana

Political - 1933

Suffrage

NEW YORK
~~EVENING~~ WORLD

Telegram

JUN 6 1933

VOTE TEST IS UPHELD

U. S. Circuit Court Rules Against Negro on Constitutionality.

By the United Press.

NEW ORLEANS, June 6.—The "understanding clause" of Louisiana's election laws, through which many Negroes are barred from the polls, was upheld as constitutional today by the Fifth United States Circuit Court of Appeals, which held the clause to be "an intelligence test only, denying to none the equal protection of the law."

The question was brought before the federal courts in a suit filed by Antoine M. Trudeau, Negro, who was not allowed to vote by a New Orleans registrar when he failed to interpret satisfactorily some sections of the State constitution.

U. S. COURT O. K.'S NEGRO VOTE TEST

Courier-Journal

Louisiana 'Understanding' Clause Constitutional, Opinion Declares.

6-6-33

NEW ORLEANS, June 5.—(UP) Louisiana's "understanding clause" of the state election laws, through which negroes are barred from the polls, was upheld as constitutional today in a decision handed down by the fifth United States circuit court of appeals.

Actual

The court held the clause to be "an intelligence test only, denying to none the equal protection of the law," and ruled the clause was "not based on creed or color," but on the intelligence of the applicant to vote.

The opinion, written by Justice Nathan P. Bryan and concurred in by Justices Rufus E. Foster and Joseph C. Hutcheson Jr., held:

"The section is one which is a test only of intelligence and applies to all voters alike, denying to none of them the equal protection of the law. . . . The Louisiana constitution protects every citizen who desires to register from being arbitrarily denied that right by the registrar of voters. . . . He can appeal to the trial courts of the state for relief, if denied, and submit his case to a jury."

The ruling held the understanding clause to be essentially different in aim and operation from the "grandfather clause" of Oklahoma and a similar clause of the Maryland constitution.

It was also held in the opinion that Antoine M. Trudeau, negro who brought suit against C. S. Barnes, registrar of voters of Orleans parish, to force the registrar to permit him to vote, had not exhausted his legal remedies in state courts.

Trudeau's mandamus suit was filed directly in federal court, and dismissed on grounds he had not sought remedies in state courts. The negro immediately appealed the case, and today's ruling upheld the decision of the lower court.

LOUISIANA LAW IS ATTACKED BY NEGRO LEADER

Informer

6-17-33

Louisiana

Washington, D. C.—That the ten million Negroes of the great Southland will never give up the fight for their franchise rights until those rights are finally won and the constitution of the United States vindicated, was again clearly shown here last Monday when Antoine M. Trudeau, prominent Negro business man of New Orleans, manager of the Safety Industrial Life and Sick Benefit Association, appealed to the United States Supreme Court for relief.

Mr. Trudeau asked the high tribunal to grant him a writ of certiorari and to review and reverse the decision of the fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, which upheld the famous "understanding clause" of the constitution and laws of Louisiana, under which registrars are permitted to require all prospective voters to give "a reasonable interpretation" of the constitution of the United States, which interpretation must satisfy the registrar that it is "reasonable."

The clause is called the "understanding clause" because white people of Louisiana, and other Southern states which have such a provision in their constitution and laws, have "an understanding" that Negroes, for the most part, will never be able to give an interpretation of the constitution which the registrar will regard as reasonable.

That this understanding exists is clearly shown in this case, where Mr. Trudeau, a well trained and highly succesful business man, was refused the right to register by a fifth grade scholar, on the ground that he could not give a "reasonable interpretation" of the constitution. Mr. Trudeau contends in his plea to the Supreme Court that this is merely a device to disfranchise the majority of Negroes.

The court gave no indication of when it would act on the plea, or as to what its decision would be.

"Understanding Clause" Which Calls For Interpretation Of Certain Section of State Constitution, Thus Barring Many Negroes, Disqualifies Sister of White Politician.

3

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 21.—The "Understanding Clause" of the registration law of the State of Louisiana, which was admittedly made in order to prevent Negroes from being registered as voters, has backfired, and this time a white woman, relative of a prominent politician, is the victim. Miss Catherine Cobb, sister of Alvin A. Cobb, leader of the Jackson Anti-Long Democratic Club was refused registration by the deputy registrar of voters on grounds that she was unable to interpret for his satisfaction a class section of the state constitution. Miss Cobb complained that others wishing to be registered were not given sections of the constitution to read. The deputy stated that it was his prerogative to give the section to anyone he chose, and that he was the sole judge as to her ability.

This clause has been fought in all the courts up to and including the Supreme Court of the United States by A. M. Trudeau, local Negro insurance man. He received adverse decisions in all of the lower courts and the Supreme Court refused to hear his plea or to make a ruling on the constitutionality of the clause.

Courier-Journal 12-23-33

Publication

Maryland.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Negro Support Is Denied Senator

Advertiser

BALTIMORE, Aug. 29.—(AP)—A group of Maryland negroes has served warning they will not support U. S. Senator Phillips Lee Goldsborough if he receives the Republican nomination for governor.

The group charged that in voting for the confirmation of Judge J. J. Parker as a member of the United States Supreme Court, Senator Goldsborough displayed an "indifference" to the negro race.

Robert P. McGuinn, one of three attorneys who signed the warning, attributed the following statement to Judge Parker when accepting the Republican nomination for governor of North Carolina in 1920:

"The negro as a class does not desire to enter politics. The Republican party of North Carolina does not desire him to do so. We recognize the fact that he has not reached that stage in his development when he can share the burdens and responsibilities of government."

8-30-34

Morning Sun

BALTIMORE, MD.
MORNING SUN

SEP 11 1934

SMITH AND FRANCE ADDRESS NEGROES

Candidates Tell Between 2,000 And 3,000 To Beware Of "False Prophets"

ASSAIL WARD HEELERS

Exhortations Of Speakers Punctuated By Cries Of "Amen" And Other Ejaculations

Addressing between 2,000 and 3,000 Negro voters in churches in several sections of Baltimore last night, H. Webster Smith, a candidate for the Republican Gubernatorial nomination and Dr. Joseph Irwin France, a candidate for the G. O. P. Senatorial nomination, advised them to beware of false prophets.

The exhortations of the speakers were punctuated by fervent cries of "Amen" and other ejaculations, while at Shiloh Baptist Church, where 1,500 persons gathered in the main auditorium and other hundreds formed an overflow crowd in the basement, the old revival hymn "How Happy Am I!" shook the rafters.

Warns Of "False Prophets"

The candidates opened their evening's campaigning before several hundred persons in a church at Bond and Eager streets, where Dr. France said "false prophets will promise anything from a house and lot to pork chops on the kitchen range but don't deliver a damned thing."

Mr. Smith followed this up by asking if the Negro people had ever received anything from ward heelers and if the heelers had ever done anything for the advancement of the race. Cries of "No" came from every section of the auditorium.

Denies Buying Any Votes

"A speaker before me said that there are elements going among the colored people saying that I am trying to buy votes," Mr. Smith continued. "They must think you people are dumb. I have not given any voter a 5-cent piece or bought him a glass of beer. What else have they been saying lately?

"They said I had nothing to do with building the colored schools, when you know that I was the chairman of the Public Improvement Commission that did build them. I did not do it alone, but a group of fine gentlemen on the commission and I did do it and nobody else connected with the municipal government did it, and I defy them to say somebody else did it. If they do they are telling a deliberate falsehood and they know it.

"I don't care what they say about me," Mr. Smith continued. "I have a good law practice and it is a practice in which I don't make money out of people going to the Penitentiary. And I know of one candidate in this campaign who, as far as I know never has done anything for you—represented you in court—unless your money was first put on the barrel head.

Criticizes Rival Candidate

"This candidate, as far as I can learn, from the day of his birth until the present has not done a damned thing for the colored voters of Baltimore, yet he says I have done nothing when my name is borne on school houses for colored students in all sections of Baltimore.

"I believe in equality of educaton. The colored boy or girl who seeks an education should be given adequate advantages to obtain it. To do otherwise don't make sense."

Total Is 50,126 as 4,433 Voters Register Here

Afro-American

Largest Figure in City's History Passes Goal of AFRO'S Drive

10-20-34

7,516 NAMES ARE ADDED IN 2-DAY REGISTRATION

Baltimore Md.

Heavy Colored Wards Show Republican Trend.

CUMULATIVE REGISTRATION BY YEARS

Year	White	Colored
1894	84,166	13,174
1895	98,439	15,779
1896	95,045	17,379
1897	94,434	17,225
1898	90,858	17,855
1899	95,569	17,650
1900	100,778	18,739
1901	87,806	16,838
1902	84,346	15,791
1903	90,865	16,715
1904	101,394	17,880
1905	102,005	17,686
1906	89,689	16,494
1907	99,583	17,012
1908	98,821	17,165
1909	101,612	17,330
1910	90,310	16,127
1911	100,804	16,460
1912	96,374	15,664
1916	105,847	16,733
1920	217,822	35,497
1923	197,668	28,277
1924	217,787	30,996
1926	174,223	23,782
1927	190,914	25,051
1928	276,815	33,147
1930	250,390	36,749
1932	296,807	42,610
1934	317,647	50,126

Baltimore City now has 50,126 qualified colored voters on its registration rolls.

That figure was reached Tuesday when 4,433 persons added their names, bringing success to the AFRO-AMERICAN's campaign for a total of 50,000, just two years after its inauguration in 1932.

Tuesday's additions, together with the 3,083 names placed on the books on September 25, represent the third largest increase in the history of Baltimore, exceeding 1932's increase of 5,861 and that of 1930, which was 3,602.

Trebled Since 1916

From 1894, when there were only 13,174 qualified colored voters in the city, until 1916, the net increase was but 3,559, an increase of barely 27 per cent for the twenty-two-year period. The number trebled, however, between 1916 and 1934, growing from 16,733 to the present figure of 50,126, a net increase of 33,393.

The most significant single period of increase was between 1916 and 1920, when the figures jumped 18,764—from 16,733 to 35,497, due in a large measure to the influx of residents from the counties and from the South, just after the World War.

Decreases followed this peak, however, until in 1926 there were only 23,782 colored voters registered. Only in 1928, when the rgistration exceeded that of the previous year by 8,096, has a greater increase, in the years since 1920, been shown than this year's addition of 7,516.

Whites Exceeded in 8 Wards

Registration of colored voters exceeded that of whites in eight wards, Tuesday; the 4th, 5th, 11th, 14th, 16th, 17th, 18th, and 19th. These wards, incidentally, are the only ones in which a majority of the new registrants were Republicans.

In four of these wards, the 4th, 11th, 16th and 19th, the majority of the second-day registrants in 1932 were white. The remaining four, which were the only wards showing a majority of colored registrants for the corresponding period two years ago, showed marked increases in these majorities, Tuesday.

4th District Influence Weak

That Republican trend will hardly be felt, however, by legislative districts, as increases in the larger wards in the Fourth District revealed a Democratic advantage. That district, which entered the Democratic ranks for the first time in 1920, will, in all probability, be strengthened as a Democratic district as a result of this year's registration.

While it is debatable whether the intent of the recent Fourth District gerrymander was the weakening of Republican influence in that district or the direct breaking of the strength of colored candidates for office, the present trend indicates that both results have been attained.

BALTIMORE, MD.

Sun

DEC 6 1934

Denies Relief Influenced Negro Voters

To the Editor of The Sun—Sir: Mr. Frank Kent in his Sun article of November 30, in which he attempts to enumerate the factors responsible for the defeat of the Republican party in the last election, does the Negro a great injustice.

Mr. Kent states that the Republicans lost the Negro vote in this election because the Negro, being a recipient of Government relief, felt loath to vote against the Democratic party, which he felt was responsible for making it possible for him to receive relief.

The relief policies of the Democratic Administration have no more to do with the exodus of Negroes from the Republican ranks than the state of the weather in Nevada. Nor, perhaps, as much. The first time Negroes in any considerable numbers supported the Democratic party in a national election was in 1928. At that time Gov. Alfred E. Smith was the Democratic nominee, running on a platform that advocated repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution—an amendment which the majority of Negro voters had always opposed. Their opposition to prohibition, together with the fact that the Republican party—for the purpose of breaking the so-called solid South—had formed an alliance with the notorious Ku Klux Klan, left the Negro with no alternative but to vote the Democratic ticket.

Mr. Kent makes a further statement which is not original with him. He states that in Baltimore city more than fifty per cent. of persons on relief are Negroes. This statement is correct as far as it goes. But what Mr. Kent neglects to say is that in actual dollars and cents the Negroes of Baltimore city are receiving considerably less than fifty per cent. of the money expended for relief. In the final analysis, it must be evident that what really counts is not the number of persons on relief, but the amount of money spent.

If Mr. Kent will take the time and trouble to get the facts, I believe he will find the reaction of the Negro voters no different from that of any other fair-minded and impartial group.

HAROLD E. BROOKS.

Baltimore, Dec. 4, 1934.

Political — 1934

Suffrage

Massachusetts.

MASS. NEGRO VOTERS BECOME OF AGE

FATE and circumstances have a queer way of raising what seems to be the inconsequential into the limelight overnight. As one Mr. Kennedy was one night acting in the capacity of janitor and the next night the recipient of unusual wealth, just as significant was the change that came over the Negro voters in Mass. between the night of Sept. 19 and the 20th. Prior to this time both Republicans and Democrats had ample justification for feeling that they had been unjustly treated by their parties within the Commonwealth. And what was more depressing was the fact that there seemed to be no immediate relief in sight.

Chronicle

As far as the Democrats were concerned, there was hardly a single Northern state where the leadership of our group had received less consideration in national or state patronage. With the possible exception of one woman leader from the group, not a single member had been given anything, save insult. There have been numerous promises made, and still from the Mayor, right up to Washington, not a move had been made to encourage the affiliation and loyalty of the Negro Democrat. This type of reaction in a state that enjoys such a reputation for fairness, has caused a great many to wonder about the advisability of standing by.

9-29-34

The Republicans over a period of years have been utterly disregarding the Negro voter and still counting him in long before the elections, which is a decided insult to his intelligence. One outstanding grievance that we have is the fact that Atty. General Warner is reputed to believe that there is no Negro lawyer with sufficient intelligence to join his staff, and therefore he will not countenance a Negro in his office, save to run errands and swing a broom. Further, we feel that the Republican party, time after time, had refused to appoint a Negro judge, falling back on ~~the eternal~~ excuse "that the time was not yet ripe."

Boston

Now, the present circumstances bring both parties to a definite showdown. It is an indisputable fact that nothing will make a group of people think faster and more accurately than hard times. Thus, you find the common ordinary Negro voter in the streets today sensing the fact that the time has actually arrived for him to even up the score. He senses the fact that neither the Democrats nor the Republicans are going to have a walk away in the coming contest. He also knows that this victory is of major importance to their prestige, for with a defeat the Republicans are as good as dead in the state for the next four or six years; and with a like calamity the Democrats will lose their power with the Federal administration. Neither of these positions is an enviable one.

With these facts in mind both of these parties must do everything within their power to whip the Negro vote in line. We say, it is also an opportunity for the Negro to do a little whipping of his own. It is the time of his life to have a clear cut, definite understanding with his good white political brother, no matter what side of the fence he is on. Make him definitely declare his hands. Do not permit him to rest on the records of his very nebulous past, for that has been nothing but disgraceful, over a long period of years. All Negroes should remember that they have nothing to apologize for, inasmuch as no racial group in the Commonwealth has been loyal as they have to parties. The Democrats may yell to the high heavens about the newness of their Negro constituency, but two things they cannot deny: First, that those who have been allied with them for the past few years have given their uttermost and most enthusiastically; second, new votes, just like new money, spend just as well.

As for the Republicans, they have no such case, in fact they have no right to use the word case. Negroes have been voting with their party hook, line and sinker, ever since Lincoln's election. (And, lest they forget it, the argument of Negro loyalty now, on the basis of what Lincoln did years ago, is as dead as a door nail). It is what the Republican party has done for the Negro in the Commonwealth in recent years which seems to total zero.

There is no denying the fact that the Negro vote in Mass. can easily decide the coming contest, and that because of this strategic position, he cannot be ignored. Despite all the ballyhoo to the contrary by both parties, something between six and seven hundred thousand votes are going to decide this contest, and there is not likely to be a difference of more than 15,000 votes between the first and second man. On this very margin will the Negro cast his weight. Many of this group like Mr. Curley personally, and there is no getting away from the fact that he usually expresses his appreciation for those who support him. On the other hand, custom is a difficult thing to deal with, and the majority of Negroes . . . UP TO THE DEPRESSION . . . were in the habit of voting Republican. The DEPRESSION plus the cold attitude of white Republican leaders have brought the Negro to the point where he THINKS FIRST AND VOTES AFTERWARDS.

The above leaves both of these parties in a position where they MUST deal with the Negro if they want to carry-on on Beacon Hill.

THE BOSTON CHRONICLE appeals to every Negro voter in Boston and the Commonwealth to present to the leaders of both major political parties the following program as a fair and impartial consideration for the bulk of their votes in the November election and their continued party support.

1. That a Negro be appointed as a Probation Officer in the Roxbury Court at once.

2. That District Attorney Foley place a Negro on his staff immediately.

Boston Chronicle

3. That Attorney General Warner drop the bars and add a Negro lawyer to his office staff at once.

10-20-34

4. That both a Negro physician and dentist be placed in the Whittier Street Health Unit at once.

5. That Negro men and women be given fairer consideration for general employment in city and state departments.

6. That a Negro lawyer of repute be placed on the Massachusetts Bench.

Boston, Mass.

This program and this alone should be the principal basis upon which every Negro voter should base his conclusions.

Throw your votes to the major party that acts first and most extensively in these matters.

PLEDGE YOURSELF AND VOTE NOV. 6 ACCORDINGLY! !

I am thoroughly in accord with the above political program as suggested by the Boston Chronicle and I PLEDGE MYSELF to support only the candidates whose Party meets these requirements, irrespective of my present party affiliations.

Name .....

Address .....

Political Affiliation .....

(Fill in and return to BOSTON CHRONICLE, 794 Tremont St., Boston)

Political — 1934

Suffrage

Massachusetts.

MASS. NEGRO VOTERS BECOME OF AGE

FATE and circumstances have a queer way of raising what seems to be the inconsequential into the limelight overnight. As one Mr. Kennedy was one night acting in the capacity of janitor and the next night the recipient of unusual wealth, just as significant was the change that came over the Negro voters in Mass. between the night of Sept. 19 and the 20th. Prior to this time both Republicans and Democrats had ample justification for feeling that they had been unjustly treated by their parties within the Commonwealth. And what was more depressing was the fact that there seemed to be no immediate relief in sight.

Chronicle

As far as the Democrats were concerned, there was hardly a single Northern state where the leadership of our group had received less consideration in national or state patronage. With the possible exception of one woman leader from the group not a single member had been given anything, save insult. There have been numerous promises made, and still from the Mayor, right up to Washington, not a move had been made to encourage the affiliation and loyalty of the Negro Democrat. This type of reaction in a state that enjoys such a reputation for fairness, has caused a great many to wonder about the advisability of standing by.

9-29-34

The Republicans over a period of years have been utterly disregarding the Negro voter and still counting him in long before the elections, which is a decided insult to his intelligence. One outstanding grievance that we have is the fact that Atty. General Warner is reputed to believe that there is no Negro lawyer with sufficient intelligence to join his staff, and therefore he will not countenance a Negro in his office, save to run errands and swing a broom. Further, we feel that the Republican party, time after time, had refused to appoint a Negro judge, falling back on the eternal excuse "that the time was not yet ripe."

Boston

Now, the present circumstances bring both parties to a definite showdown. It is an indisputable fact that nothing will make a group of people think faster and more accurately than hard times. Thus, you find the common ordinary Negro voter in the streets today sensing the fact that the time has actually arrived for him to even up the score. He senses the fact that neither the Democrats nor the Republicans are going to have a walk away in the coming contest. He also knows that this victory is of major importance to their prestige, for with a defeat the Republicans are as good as dead in the state for the next four or six years; and with a like calamity the Democrats will lose their power with the Federal administration. Neither of these positions is an enviable one.

With these facts in mind both of these parties must do everything within their power to whip the Negro vote in line. We say, it is also an opportunity for the Negro to do a little whipping of his own. It is the time of his life to have a clear cut, definite understanding with his good white political brother, no matter what side of the fence he is on. Make him definitely declare his hands. Do not permit him to rest on the records of his very nebulous past, for that has been nothing but disgraceful, over a long period of years. All Negroes should remember that they have nothing to apologize for, inasmuch as no racial group in the Commonwealth has been loyal as they have to parties. The Democrats may yell to the high heavens about the newness of their Negro constituency, but two things they cannot deny: First, that those who have been allied with them for the past few years have given their uttermost and most enthusiastically; second, new votes, just like new money, spend just as well.

As for the Republicans, they have no such case, in fact they have no right to use the word case. Negroes have been voting with their party hook, line and sinker, ever since Lincoln's election. (And, lest they forget it, the argument of Negro loyalty now, on the basis of what Lincoln did years ago, is as dead as a door nail). It is what the Republican party has done for the Negro in the Commonwealth in recent years which seems to total zero.

There is no denying the fact that the Negro vote in Mass. can easily decide the coming contest, and that because of this strategic position, he cannot be ignored. Despite all the ballyhoo to the contrary by both parties, something between six and seven hundred thousand votes are going to decide this contest, and there is not likely to be a difference of more than 15,000 votes between the first and second man. On this very margin will the Negro cast his weight. Many of this group like Mr. Curley personally, and there is no getting away from the fact that he usually expresses his appreciation for those who support him. On the other hand, custom is a difficult thing to deal with, and the majority of Negroes . . . UP TO THE DEPRESSION . . . were in the habit of voting Republican. The DEPRESSION plus the cold attitude of white Republican leaders have brought the Negro to the point where he THINKS FIRST AND VOTES AFTERWARDS.

The above leaves both of these parties in a position where they MUST deal with the Negro if they want to carry-on on Beacon Hill.

THE BOSTON CHRONICLE appeals to every Negro voter in Boston and the Commonwealth to present to the leaders of both major political parties the following program as a fair and impartial consideration for the bulk of their votes in the November election and their continued party support.

1. That a Negro be appointed as a Probation Officer in the Roxbury Court at once.

2. That District Attorney Foley place a Negro on his staff immediately.

Boston Chronicle

3. That Attorney General Warner drop the bars and add a Negro lawyer to his office staff at once.

10-20-34

4. That both a Negro physician and dentist be placed in the Whittier Street Health Unit at once.

5. That Negro men and women be given fairer consideration for general employment in city and state departments.

6. That a Negro lawyer of repute be placed on the Massachusetts Bench.

Boston, Mass.

This program and this alone should be the principal basis upon which every Negro voter should base his conclusions.

Throw your votes to the major party that acts first and most extensively in these matters.

PLEDGE YOURSELF AND VOTE NOV. 6 ACCORDINGLY!!

I am thoroughly in accord with the above political program as suggested by the Boston Chronicle and I PLEDGE MYSELF to support only the candidates whose Party meets these requirements, irrespective of my present party affiliations.

Name .....

Address .....

Political Affiliation .....

(Fill in and return to BOSTON CHRONICLE, 794 Tremont St., Boston)

Political-1934
Suffrage.

Michigan.

COLORED ATTORNEY AND LEGISLATOR NOMINATED BY DETROIT REPUBLICANS AS CANDIDATE FOR U. S. CONGRESS

Republic and Independent
8-21-34

Hon. Charles A. Roxborough Defeats Two White Opponents In Spirited Contest In First District

Detroit, Mich.—(Special)—The probability that another colored man will take his place in the United States Congress loomed here the past week when the Hon. Charles A. Roxborough "went over the line" in the First Michigan Congressional District, located in Detroit, for the Republican nomination. He defeated his two opponents, Messrs. Sosnowsky and Mahoney by a handsome plurality. These two opponents are white Republicans. However, Mr. Roxborough, who has mad a brilliant record as a state senator in the Michigan legislature wa conceded by able white Republicar leaders as the best qualified man o the three running. This opinior was shared by many other of the white Republicans, and they together with a large majority of the colored Republicans staunchly supported Senator Roxborough. Announcement of the vote, which may show a slight difference in the final figures when the official count is certified, showed that the three candidates ran as follows:

Roxborough	6,078
Sosnowsky	4,110
Mahoney	2,204

The pre-primary campaign was quite a warm affair, which was punctuated with sharp jibes from all the candidates and their followers. However the opinion is that all this will be forgotten and a united front will be presented for Senator Roxborough in his contest with the Democratic opponent. The heavy vote cast in the Republican primary in the First Congressional District is being taken as a sure sign that Michigan, which was carried by Mr. Roosevelt two years ago, will return this year as one of the "old dependable" Republican states.

DETROIT, MICH.
FREE PRESS

AUG 17 1934

Warns Colored Voters of Danger Confronting Race

To the Editor: A recent article in the Free Press read, "Negro is lynched by others of race at Shreveport, La." It appears that the late Bert Williams was right in this now famous song "Getting more like the white folks every day." We act just like them in every way. They have contradicted the ancient proverb that there is nothing new under the sun.

Men of my race, I want you to give this type of Negro your most serious thought. He has not only become a party to the great Southern sport of lynching Negroes, but he has become an accessory in creating the precedent in casting his ballot in the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. By doing so he jeopardized the Thirteenth, Fourteenth, and Fifteenth Amendments, in which the party of Lincoln gave the Negro freedom, and for which Lincoln died a martyr.

I am sorry but some of my people are showing their gratitude by saying, "Turn the picture of Lincoln to the wall. I am a Democrat now." Unless we change our present selfish, so-called leaders, the end of our constitutional laws will come within the next 50 years.

J. W. RAWLINS.

Political - 1934.

Suffrage.

Mississippi.

Bilbo of the Bayous

Out of the backwoods of Mississippi comes Theodore Gilmore Bilbo, hell-bent for the U. S. senate.

Nothing can stop him. He's the Democratic nominee in a Democratic state, and if that isn't enough he's out flat-footed for the plain people, especially the veterans. In more than 1,000 speeches he has told 'em so.

Post 9-22-34

The rise of Bilbo of the Bayou state is another success story. From the time he was born in Juniper Grove he has been "diligent in his business" and therefore destined to stand before kings. He worked himself up from school teacher, preacher, lawyer and governor to a niche in Washton. Last year he was discovered working in the Agriculture Department clipping newspapers at $6,000 a year. Like Sir Joseph in Pinafore, who so carefully polished the handle of the big front door that he got to be ruler of the queen's navee, this hero clipped so well that now he is to be a senator at $10,000 a year less five per cent.

Neighbor Huey Long, whom the Mississippi statesman imitates, had better look to his laurels as a disturber of the senate peace. Bilbo has promised "to raise more hell than Huey"—a big order.

The senate will have a lot of serious work to do next winter and, doubtless, will not applaud the Long and Bilbo act.

Committee Throws Out Ballot Box When It Finds Negroes Voted

Call

CANTON, Miss.—(ANP) — Because three Negroes were permitted to participate in the voting, the Madison county Democratic executive committee had the Madison box which polled 112 votes in the senatorial run-off primary Tuesday thrown out.

9-28-34

It was pointed out by the committee, in announcing its action, that the Negroes had not been affiliated with the Democratic party during the past two years. J. H. Taylor, E. W. Taylor and Rosie Scott, the only Negro woman registered in this county, were the Negroes who voted.

Kansas City Star

Competition!

Post 9-22-34

Three Negroes Vote; Box Is Thrown Out

CANTON, Miss., Sept. 22.—The Madison station box in Madison County was thrown out today when the county Democratic executive committee ascertained that three negroes had been permitted to vote. The votes thrown out were Bilbo 43; Stephens 69; Ellzey 74; McGehee 42.

9-23-34

A resolution adopted by the committe stated that the three negroes had not been affiliated with the Democratic party for the past two years and therefore should not have been permitted to vote in a

BOSSES SEEK NEGRO VOTE

Daily Worker

Mississippi Tenants Told to Go to Polls for Cut in Crops

12-15-34

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 14.—Ruling class terror, usually directed towards preventing Southern Negroes from voting, is today being used in this State to mobilize Negro tenants and share croppers to vote for the continuation of the destruction of cotton acreage in the referendum being held today on the Bankhead Cotton Reduction Act.

New York Daily

Participation of certain Negroes in the referendum is advocated both by the big planters and the local agents of the New Deal administration in the fear that the Act will be repudiated by the small white growers and tenant farmers whose conditions have greatly worsened since its enactment. While Negro tenant farmers and croppers are by far the worst sufferers under the cotton reduction plan, those who are allowed to vote will be supervised by the planters and their agents, with the purpose of preventing any expression at the polls of their hostility to the "New Deal" program of plundering the small growers in the interests of the rich planters.

Many militant Negro croppers and small farmers are, however, reported to be planning to vote in today's referendum, both as a means of protesting the cotton reduction robbery, and of breaking through the ruling class terror which bars them from the polls in [illegible] ons.

GREENWOOD, MISS.
COMMONWEALTH

DEC 14 1934

A TASTE OF RECONSTRUCTION

All over the South today, the negro came back to the polls.

In most of the Southern states, the participation by the negro in the balloting on the Bankhead bill is the first time in nearly fifty years that the black man has been permitted to vote on any issue.

True the voting on the Bankhead bill is not a regular election. But it is a plebiscite on a matter of far reaching importance not only to those eligible to participate in the balloting but to the entire business life of the Southland.

Not being terrified by shadows, but it might be wise to point out that if the federal government has authority to prescribe eligibility qualifications for a vote on one thing it can do so on another, and eventually break down the carefully built up political system in the South which insures the voting supremacy of the white race.

Political - 1934

Suffrage.

Missouri.

CLEVELAND, O.
PRESS

OCT 2 1934

DAVIS YIELDS TO COLORED VOTE

Names Claybourne George as 11th Member of Campaign Committee

By RICHARD L. MAHER

The Press Politics Editor

Mayor Harry L. Davis, G. O. P leader in the county today capitulated to the demands of the colored voters for representation on the party campaign committee.

He announced that Claybourne George, former councilman and now member of the Civil Service Commission, had been selected as the 11th member of the committee due to requests for his appointment.

The committee was to meet today to inspect the new headquarters at 1240 Huron road and to make plans for the opening of the campaign.

The Democratic campaign committee of 12, headed by Felix Matia of the Board of Elections was scheduled to meet today, too. Gathering at Democratic headquarters at Hotel Statler, the committee was to ratify the campaign program laid out by Leader W. B. Gongwer.

* * *

Martin L. Davey, the Democratic nominee for governor, left Cleveland today following two talks over a state-wide hookup last night. Mr Davey accused Clarence J. Brown, G. O. P. standard-bearer, of misrepresenting the Democratic candidate's position on a moratorium on public debts.

Mr. Brown recently branded the Davey program a "repudiation" of debts.

"Anyone who calls my plan 'virtual repudiation' is either amazingly dumb or else intellectually dishonest," Mr. Davey told his radio audiences.

"I suggested a two-year moratorium on principal payments on bond issues with the requirement that the interest must be paid. Such a temporary measure actually would protect the investor and save him from the forced liquidation of his loan.

ONE DEAD, TWO SHOT BY MISSOURI GUNMEN

Commercial Appeal

Terrorists Seek to Keep Negroes From Polls

11-7-34

SOME VOTERS ARE BEATEN

Memphis

Pemiscot County Officers Report Clues to Identity of Attackers—Arrests Forecast Following Inquest Today

By The Associated Press

HOLLAND, Mo., Nov. 6. —Gunmen seeking to prevent negroes voting in today's election terrorized this Southeast Missouri town today, killed one white man, wounded two others, beat several negroes and disappeared before state highway troopers arrived.

Almost before the firing ceased, Grover W. Dalton, chairman of the state Republican committee, issued a statement calling the disorders "an outrage and a disgrace to the entire state" but "not more than should be expected from the Pendergast-dominated state Democratic machine."

Climax to Demonstrations

Today's shootings climaxed a series of anti-negro demonstrations in Southeast Missouri in recent weeks, prompted by the slaying of Dave Martin, shell-shocked Sikeston World War veteran, whose body was found in a field. Three negroes, now held in jail at Poplar Bluff for safekeeping, allegedly confessed to the slaying.

Horrace Ferrell, 36, was shot to death and his father, John E. Ferrell, 65, was wounded in an attack in front of the Holland Consolidated School about 8:30 a.m.

An hour later, Clarence Posey, identified as a well-to-do farmer, was shot but not dangerously wounded as he was driving into town with several negroes to vote Posey is said to be a Republican.

Warrants were sworn out for Hubert Utley, operator of a night club at the Arkansas-Missouri line and Walter Holley, well known farmer and member of a prominent Pemiscot County family, following statements by Posey who said they were his assailants.

The slaying of Horace Ferrell and the wounding of his father authorities said, was a case of "mistaken identity". The Ferrells officers said, had hired Sampson brown, a negro, to drive them to Alamo, Tenn., on a business trip, and that Edmond Drobie, negro school teacher, was making the trip with them.

Drobie asked to stop at the home of W. K. Myers, superintendent of the Holland school, for some books.

Gunmen Open Fire

As the car containing the Farrows and the two negroes pulled away from the Myers home, a machine containing three men drove up and one or more of the men started firing, the gunmen apparently under the impression that the Ferrells had brought the negroes into town to vote.

Several other reports of violence were received. In one instance, the three men stopped an automobile driven by a woman who was bringing several negroes to vote. She was not molested, but the negroes were reported to have been beaten severely.

Another report was that two negroes had been shot to death near the Arkansas line, but officers investigated throughout the day without verifying it. Investigators said there apparently was no truth to the report.

As soon as he learned of the disorders, Capt. A. D. Shepperd, commander of the Sikeston district of the state highway patrol, sent two troopers to search for the slayers By the time the troopers arrived order had been restored.

Pemiscot County officers said they had clues as to the identity of the gunmen and might make arrests after the inquest tomorrow. Pending the inquest, the coroner declined to discuss what information he had gathered.

Missouri.

Political-1934
Suffrage

SAMSON IN CHAINS

It should not be necessary to persuade Negroes to register and vote. The effort made to keep them from having that right is the plainest proof.

After having made a great Civil war bring them freedom their friends changed the basic law of the land so that it guaranteed that freedom in perpetuity. Realizing that a man is not free unless he can make a living, they gave Negroes the right of property. With those two great rights secured to them Charles Sumner and his co-workers still were not satisfied. They passed the 15th amendment, giving the right to vote. They knew that in a country like this where the people rule, other citizens could and would elect officials and pass laws which would put the freedmen back into virtual slavery, except they could act in their own defense.

Thus were born the great Civil war amendments to the Constitution, the 13th, the 14th and the 15th, about which Negroes make speeches. But they do not utilize the three amendments. Two of them, that about freedom and the other about property, they use, but many of them leave it to white men to do their voting. Young Negroes out of school, and women who are housekeepers are the two classes among us who think they can remain free and protect their property without taking a part in elections. They turn up their noses at politics, and then complain to high heaven about not getting treated fairly.

It is not how you vote, but that you vote which counts. Even a bad vote is to be preferred to voluntary disfranchisement. The non-voter is neither a force actively at work, nor a threat that can turn into action. He is Samson blind and chained, only fit to be laughed at. He voluntarily relinquishes his best weapon at the very time he says he is among enemies.

Negroes will never be respected as citizens so long as any considerable number among them refuse to vote. It is plain common sense that a non-voter be held in contempt. He does without being compelled to do it that which slavery imposed on his ancestors.

Of all the sins of omission and commission which the citizen can be guilty of, non-voting hurts longer and strikes deeper. It is disloyalty to country and suicide for self. It is a deliberate abandonment of public business to those whom the non-voter says are not as good as he.

In the case of Negroes, whose interests are not looked after by any allies, non-voting is suicidal. It is even worse than that, because Negroes who live where they are permitted to vote and yet do not use that privilege, are the hope of their disfranchised brethren.

It is no wonder we are the first fired and the last hired when we show such litttle interest in our own welfare! He who would have others help, must do something for himself first!

NEGRO DEMOCRATIC PRECINCT CAPTAIN SLAIN; WOMEN AND MEN BEATEN BY GANGSTERS

A reign of terror swept down upon the polls Tuesday in the municipal election, leaving four slain—one a Negro Democratic captain—and 11 injured from brutal sluggings in the bloodiest and most fiercely contested balloting in Kansas City's history.

These violent disorders came on the heels of one of the most bitter campaigns ever staged here that brought out a record vote of 222,000 retaining the Democratic organization in power. Democratic control had been challenged by the Citizens-Fusion ticket that elected two members of the city co

The first to die was William Finley, Negro Democratic precinct ca[illegible]n, who shot it out with a gang [illegible] raiders who rushed into a polling place at Twenty-fourth street and Michigan avenue, where L. S. Atkinson, Negro [illegible]ocer, conducted a store at 1901 [illegible]st Twenty-fourth street.

In Surprise Attack

[illegible]e shooting took place shortly [illegible] a shiny new car drove up in [illegible]t of the polling place and four [illegible] men, having dark hair and [illegible]plexion, rushed from the ma[illegible]ine into the store in a threaten[illegible]ng manner. The car bore no license plates.

When they entered the polling place Mr. Atkinson, the [illegible] was waiting on a customer. The [illegible]tion clerks, all of whom were Negroes, were busy handling voters who were casting their votes. Mr. Finley, captain in the Fourteenth precinct of the Fourth ward, was standing in front of the polling place chatting in his customary jovial manner and barking instructions to aides and workers.

The neighborhood is solidly colored and the voting had been peaceful. Before anyone knew what was taking place the raiders strode inside and began beating Douglas Gregg, 47, 2301 Flora avenue, Negro Democratic judge of election. He was at his seat busy with his tasks.

Rush and Beat Judge

Gregg was seized by his collar and the hoodlums were bounding him to the door as clubs, blackjacks and pistol butts swung on his head and body.

Outside the door Finley saw what was happening and rushed to his associate's assistance. Inside the women clerks became hysterical and fled out the rear door screaming.

"Let loose that man," Finley shouted. They did but they turned on him. In an instant three of the raiders pulled their guns and the Negro precinct captain pulled his. Amid screams of terror-stricken voters and passersby a volley of shots broke the erstwhile peace of the neighborhood.

Finley answered gunfire with gunfire. He fell mortally wounded with a bullet in his heart but not before he fired twice at the attackers seriously injuring one.

Dangerously Wounds One

The wounded man later turned up at General hospital seriously injured with a bullet in the stomach. He gave several names later giving his name as Charles Casciola, 25, 1210 Admiral boulevard. At the hospital it was said that during a visit of his brother, conversation centered around a fight at Twenty-fourth street and Michigan avenue, the place where Finley was slain. Mention was also made by someone that "they got the Negro."

Several speculations are rife concerning the shooting. A few minutes before the gang car drove up S. D. Harrison, detective, assigned to the polling place at Twenty-fourth street and Michigan avenue, was called away for no apparent reason by Bush Wells and Frank Clark, Negro patrolmen. Shortly after they left the carload of raiders drove up. When Harrison returned the shooting was over and the dead precinct captain lay on the sidewalk with ribbons of blood oozing from his body.

James Lindley, 2213 Flora avenue, Negro Republican judge, fled from the polling place when he saw the hoodlums enter. Some think it was Lindley the intruders were after instead of Finley and got confused on the name.

The other three dead are white. They are Lee Flacy, deputy sheriff, fatally wounded in a gun battle; P. W. Oddham, hardware merchant, bystander shot and Larry Cappo, occupant of one of the cars that carried slayers of Flacy shot.

Of the 11 injured, one is a Negro, James Washington, Citizens workers, who was slugged.

Born in Otterville, Mo.

Finley is a native of Otterville, Mo., and has been a political worker for the past 16 years. He has been a Democratic captain for the past nine years, and was a custodian at the criminal court building. He would have been married 19 years on April 15. There are no children.

"Bill always carried his precinct in primaries and elections," his widow, Mrs. Mable Finley said Wednesday, "and everybody liked him Although before the last presidential election he received some threats from a political opponnt that they were going to 'get him.'" When asked for the names of the person or persons who had threatened her husband's life she hesitated and said, "If guess I'd better not tell that just now."

Widow a Paritial Invaild

She was visibiy moved by her husband's sudden death and is a partial invalid. Her whole dependence for the past four years has been her husband.

"He was so good to me," she sobbed," and nothing was too good for him to get me if I wanted it."

Funeral ararngements have not been made but she said the body would be sent to his home in Otterville for burial.

His brother, George Finley from Otterville, was at the home helping his sister-in-law with the ordeal that has come so suddenly to the household.

Beside the widow and brother, two nieces, Mrs. Daniel Bell, Betty Anne Finley; and three nephews, Jack, Billy and Paul Finley, all of Otterville, survive.

He was a member of Perseverance lodge No. 74, Knights of Pythians. Watkins brothers have charge of the body.

KANSAS CITY, MO.
STAR

MAR 27 1934

"REFUSED RIGHT TO VOTE."

Negro Reports His Family Was Driven From Polls.

A charge Negro voters were intimidated and assaulted in the fourth precinct of the first ward was made at Citizens-Fusion headquarters today by V. H. Thurmand, Negro, 1139 East Fifth street.

He said he was beaten by a group of Italians at the address, after he protested because several Negro women who went with him to the polls to vote had been refused permission to do so. Thurmand said Mrs. Esther Thurmand, his mother, and Mrs. Bernice Callaway, his daughter, and Elijah Anderson, a friend, had been advised to "go across the street to the pool hall" when they sought to vote. Thurmand said Negro votes were "fixed" or bought, at the pool hall.

Many Negro voters in the precinct were afraid to vote the Citizens ticket today, Thurmand said.

KANSAS CITY, MO.
STAR

MAR 28 1934

James Lindley Yesterday Fled From Slaying Scene.

James Lindley, 2213 Flora avenue a Negro Republican election official who fled from the polling place at 1901 East Twenty-fourth street yesterday and probably saved his life when machine hoodlums shot and killed William Finley, Negro Democratic precinct captain, was discharged finally from a charge of vagrancy today by Judge Thomas J Seehorn in the circuit court. Judge Seehorn dismissed an application for a writ of habeas corpus filed in Lindley's behalf.

Lindley told the judge he was arrested the night before the election by a Negro policeman, Bush Wells, and placed in jail on a vagrancy charge. By the filing of the habeas corpus action Lindley was able to go to the polling place and serve as an election official. The hearing on the writ was postponed until today.

Lindley explained to Judge Seehorn he had managed to slip out a rear door before the election thugs arrived and in that way probably saved himself from the fate which the Negro Democratic official met when an attempt was made to protect another Negro.

PATTERSON'S INERTIA

The only terms on which Roscoe Patterson, candidate for reelection as United States senator for Missouri, should get the vote of Negroes in the fall election will be that he is the lesser of two evils. He had his chance to deserve support, but he made nothing of it. Six years are long enough for any good there is in him to have been demonstrated. Call

It is not usual for THE CALL to take a position in primary elections. So far as the nomination is concerned, we might as well be silent now, because it is fairly certain that Senator Patterson, asking renomination on the Republican ticket, will get it. But beyond the nomination lies the election, the harder of the two hurdles for him to overcome.

4-27-34

We enter our protest now against the election of a man who knows us not in service. Only if his opponent has a bad record indeed will we change, and then it will be regretfully, because it will be a choice between evils. Kansas City,

The condition is altogether wrong which makes Negro voters decide their political preferences by measuring the special attention given them. It ought to be—the Constitution and the whole code of laws so requires—that Negroes get a share of the advantages as well as the responsibilities of American citizenship. It is not so. Both the officials and Negro voters are in the habit of letting custom rather than law direct their actions.

There is revolt but not reform. When the Republican party under William McKinley turned its back on the traditional policy of that party which included a friendly interest in Negroes and a share of the offices which ignored their disfranchisement in southern states, Negroes began to vote for Democrats in local elections. This disaffection spread until it is highly probable that Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democrat, got the lion's share of it in 1932. The reason is plain—it is men like Senator Patterson.

Roscoe Patterson was a good party man when President Hoover tried to force Judge Parker of North Carolina onto the Supreme court bench. But Roscoe Patterson has never been the good party man who could get his requests—for No[illegible]—granted by the administration. He says he asked that some worthwhile appointment be made of a Missouri Negro. We are too polite to say we do not believe him. But if he did, he is powerful to act against us, but weak to serve us, and we want no more of him.

The case of the Republican senator from Missouri, who seeks reelection, is not helped any by the attitude of the national party and its leaders. Pat Hurley, Republican secretary of war, is typical of them. Hurley is the chap who sent white war mothers to France on one of the famous p[illegible]nger boats but spent only half as much government money and used a freight boat for Negro war mothers. Beginning back in the days when Dr. Hubert Work, national G. O. P chairman, led his party's national ticket to a tremendous victory, the national party headquarters has had an attitude which all but said it would take the Negro's support, but had nothing to offer for it.

Something for nothing is an unnatural relationship. It cannot last in politics any more than in any other walk of life. The grip of the Republican party on the Negro, actually loosed nearly forty years ago, but not perceived by the voter until recently, whenever renewed, will be by the conscious, deliberate, mutual action of both sides. Roscoe Patterson, Missouri's Republican senator like Everett Sanders, the National Republican chairman, will have to learn that Negroes have feelings, interests and ambitions like other men and are to be won only by a fair exchange. While he is learning, THE CALL refused to endow him with imaginary good qualities. We repeat—this paper will support Roscoe Patterson in the genral election only as a choice forced on it by his opponent proving to be worse in prospect than he has been in realization. No party nomination shall make a bad man good in our eyes. We shall continue to view all candidates for all offices from the viewpoint of the Negro and favor or oppose them according to how they serve the Negro's interests.

THE POLITICAL CAMPAIGN

Again we find ourselves amidst a political campaign. The keenest interest, of course, is centered around those seeking places as party nominees on the two major party tickets. There are quite a number of these members seeking to become their party's choice for election to some of the minor offices. This is right and as it should be. Representation in lawmaking bodies and party councils means much to us. As a matter of fact, we do not see how we, as a group, are to ever fill our rightful place in a democracy like this of ours until we find ourselves in such representative places.

We find, however, an unfortunate situation amongst us which should not exist. Many of those who yet vow their allegiance to the G. O. P. think that they are campaigning in the interest of their party by abusing members of the race who think differently from the way they think and vote differently from the way they vote. They do not understand that we are living in a new day, while they insist on playing the game in the same old way. They do not realize that the time has come when logic and reason have taken the place of ignorance and abuse. The colored men and women are beginning to think for themselves and are not excited over the story of Lincoln.

The coming primary will offer the voter an opportunity to select the best men who are candidates on the two major parties and we are pleased to note that the Negroes of St. Louis will have a part in these selections on both the Democratic and Republican tickets. We hope that they will use wisely their ballot and think.

KANSAS CITY, MO.
STAR

MAR 27 1934

"REFUSED RIGHT TO VOTE."

Negro Reports His Family Was Driven From Polls.

A charge Negro voters were intimidated and assaulted in the fourth precinct of the first ward was made at Citizens-Fusion headquarters today by W. H. Thurmand, Negro, 1139 East Fifth street.

He said he was beaten by a group of Italians at the address, after he protested because several Negro women who went with him to the polls to vote had been refused permission to do so. Thurmand said Mrs. Esther Thurmand, his mother, and Mrs. Bernice Callaway, his daughter, and Elijah Anderson, a friend, had been advised to "go across the street to the pool hall" when they sought to vote. Thurmand said Negro votes were "fixed" or bought, at the pool hall.

Many Negro voters in the precinct were afraid to vote the Citizens ticket today, Thurmand said.

KANSAS CITY, MO.
STAR

MAR 28 1934

James Lindley Yesterday Fled From Slaying Scene.

James Lindley, 2213 Flora avenue a Negro Republican election official who fled from the polling place at 1901 East Twenty-fourth street yesterday and probably saved his life when machine hoodlums shot and killed William Finley, Negro Democratic precinct captain, was discharged finally from a charge of vagrancy today by Judge Thomas J. Seehorn in the circuit court. Judge Seehorn dismissed an application for a writ of habeas corpus filed in Lindley's behalf.

Lindley told the judge he was arrested the night before the election by a Negro policeman, Bush Wells, and placed in jail on a vagrancy charge. By the filing of the habeas corpus action Lindley was able to go to the polling place and serve as an election official. The hearing on the writ was postponed until today.

Lindley explained to Judge Seehorn he had managed to slip out a rear door before the election thugs arrived and in that way probably saved himself from the fate which the Negro Democratic official met when an attempt was made to protect another Negro.

PATTERSON'S INERTIA

The only terms on which Roscoe Patterson, candidate for reelection as United States senator for Missouri, should get the vote of Negroes in the fall election will be that he is the lesser of two evils. He had his chance to deserve support, but he made nothing of it. Six years are long enough for any good there is in him to have been demonstrated. Call

It is not usual for THE CALL to take a position in primary elections. So far as the nomination is concerned, we might as well be silent now, because it is fairly certain that Senator Patterson, asking renomination on the Republican ticket, will get it. But beyond the nomination lies the election, the harder of the two hurdles for him to overcome. 4-27-34

We enter our protest now against the election of a man who knows us not in service. Only if his opponent has a bad record indeed will we change, and then it will be regretfully, because it will be a choice between evils. Kansas City,

The condition is altogether wrong which makes Negro voters decide their political preferences by measuring the special attention given them. It ought to be—the Constitution and the whole code of laws so requires—that Negroes get a share of the advantages as well as the responsibilities of American citizenship. It is not so. Both the officials and Negro voters are in the habit of letting custom rather than law direct their actions.

There is revolt but not reform. When the Republican party under William McKinley turned its back on the traditional policy of that party which included a friendly interest in Negroes and a share of the offices which ignored their disfranchisement in southern states, Negroes began to vote for Democrats in local elections. This disaffection spread until it is highly probable that Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democrat, got the lion's share of it in 1932. The reason is plain—it is men like Senator Patterson.

Roscoe Patterson was a good party man when President Hoover tried to force Judge Parker of North Carolina onto the Supreme court bench. But Roscoe Patterson has never been the good party man who could get his requests—for No[illegible]—granted by the administration. He says he asked that some worthwhile appointment be made of a Missouri Negro. We are too polite to say we do not believe him. But if he did, he is powerful to act against us, but weak to serve us, and we want no more of him.

The case of the Republican senator from Missouri, who seeks reelection, is not helped any by the attitude of the national party and its leaders. Pat Hurley, Republican secretary of war, is typical of them. Hurley is the chap who sent white war mothers to France on one of the famous p[illegible]nger boats but spent only half as much government money and used a freight boat for Negro war mothers. Beginning back in the days when Dr. Hubert Work, national G. O. P chairman, led his party's national ticket to a tremendous victory, the national party headquarters has had an attitude which all but said it would take the Negro's support, but had nothing to offer for it.

Something for nothing is an unnatural relationship. It cannot last in politics any more than in any other walk of life. The grip of the Republican party on the Negro, actually loosed nearly forty years ago, but not perceived by the voter until recently, whenever renewed, will be by the conscious, deliberate, mutual action of both sides. Roscoe Patterson, Missouri's Republican senator like Everett Sanders, the National Republican chairman, will have to learn that Negroes have feelings, interests and ambitions like other men and are to be won only by a fair exchange. While he is learning, THE CALL refused to endow him with imaginary good qualities. We repeat—this paper will support Roscoe Patterson in the genral election only as a choice forced on it by his opponent proving to be worse in prospect than he has been in realization. No party nomination shall make a bad man good in our eyes. We shall continue to view all candidates for all offices from the viewpoint of the Negro and favor or oppose them according to how they serve the Negro's interests.

THE POLITICAL CAMPAIGN

Again we find ourselves amidst a political campaign. The keenest interest, of course, is centered around those seeking places as party nominees on the two major party tickets. There are quite a number of these members seeking to become their party's choice for election to some of the minor offices. This is right and as it should be. Representation in lawmaking bodies and party councils means much to us. As a matter of fact, we do not see how we, as a group, are to ever fill our rightful place in a democracy like this of ours until we find ourselves in such representative places.

We find, however, an unfortunate situation amongst us which should not exist. Many of those who yet vow their allegiance to the G. O. P. think that they are campaigning in the interest of their party by abusing members of the race who think differently from the way they think and vote differently from the way they vote. They do not understand that we are living in a new day, while they insist on playing the game in the same old way. They do not realize that the time has come when logic and reason have taken the place of ignorance and abuse. The colored men and women are beginning to think for themselves and are not excited over the story of Lincoln.

The coming primary will offer the voter an opportunity to select the best men who are candidates on the two major parties and we are pleased to note that the Negroes of St. Louis will have a part in these selections on both the Democratic and Republican tickets. We hope that they will use wisely their ballot and think.

Political - 1934

Suffrage.

Missouri.

ST. LOUIS, MO.
TIMES

JUL 13 1934

REPUBLICANS HERE SEEKING TO REGAIN HEAVY NEGRO VOTE

Make Capital of Texas Ruling Barring Race From Democratic Primary.

Republicans are making a strong bid to regain the heavy Negro vote here, which they lost in large numbers in the Democratic landslide two years ago.

In several meetings for Negroes last night, G. O. P. speakers capitalized on the news that the attorney general of Texas has held that Negroes are not entitled to vote in the Democratic primary in that state.

State Senator William Maffitt Bates, a candidate for nomination and re-election in the August primary, remarked at one Negro meeting that "the Democrats are giving you folks a new deal, which carries with it in the great state of Texas, the banner Democratic state of the Union, exclusion from the polling booth."

Fred Weismann, Republican committeeman from the Fifth Ward, said:

"The Democratic party doesn't need your votes in Texas; they have an overwhelming majority without you, so they take it upon themselves to xeclude you from the polls.

"Here in St. Louis that same Democratic party solicits your votes; promises you jobs and than hands you taffy on a stick, after the election."

THE PRIMARY IS OVER

One of the interesting aspects of the recent primary election is the nomination of candidates for circuit judge. It was upon this subject we commented last week. In this comment, we advised the voters to disregard some of the endorsements by the bar associations. We pointed out that there were certain men who were candidates for the judicial bench but who had failed of endorsement, either by the St. Louis Bar Association or by the Mound City Bar Association. Among those were J. Ray Weinbrenner and Sigmund Bass both seeking nomination on the Republican ticket. We also pointed out the name of J. Wesley McAfee, who was seeking nomination on the Democratic ticket, but failed of endorsement by the Mound City Bar Association. We cited the caliber of man Mr. McAfee was and urged the voters to vote for these three men on their respective tickets. Now, therefore, we are pleased to announce that the voters did just what we suggested and smashed the recommendations of the bar associations and voted for men whom the Argus recommended for the nomination for judges of the Circuit Court.

Of course, we also recommended the name of James R. Claiborne for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Twelfth District and he was an easy winner. Such confidence in the Argus, as was expressed by the voters, is very much appreciated by the editor.

Ordinarily we, like many other people, have some respect for bar associations' selection of judges but it should always be borne in mind that most of the bar are just like other people—They have their pets and their friends. Their friends are sometimes judges on the bench or one whom they would like to see on the bench, and therefore they make a strenuous campaign among other members of the bar urging them to vote for a favorite. It has even gone to the extent where one lawyer may be heard to call another using this language, "Be sure and vote for Judge or Lawyer So-and-So, who is the candidate for the bench. You know he is a friend of mine and if he is elected so-and-so—and I am your friend and so-and so-and so."

As we stated in last weeks issue of this paper, "Just enough politics has played a part in these endorsements to make them less effective among voters and we, here and now, predict that ere a few years the public will have little or no respect for bar endorsements." No one should believe that there is any less "wire pulling" in securing bar endorsements than there is in any other form of politics.

COLORED VOTE WAS BIG FACTOR IN SAINT LOUIS PRIMARY

Members of Race Win Good Places on Republican Ticket

St. Louis, Mo.,—The colored vote was a big factor in the Republican primary Tuesday, August 7 Two colored candidates were nominated for justice of the peace—Charles H. Turpin in the Fourth and George M. Allen in the Fifth constabulary districts. Turpin was renominated, with the support of Richard W. Kent, colored Republican leader of the Sixth ward and one of the most influential colored G. O. P. leaders in St. Louis.

Kent put over the big four—Turpin, R. E. Walker, white, and Langston Harrison and William A. Morant—with a bang in the Fourth constabulary district — Sixth and Seventeenth wards.

George M. Allen, lawyer, and Ira Dorsey, constable, scored in the Fourth constabulary district, with the support of the Fifth and nineteenth G. O. P. organizations. Harry Meyers, white and Gabe Roth, white, went over to victory with Allen and Dorsey.

Two Named for Legislature

Dick Kent, Republican chief of the Sixth, also really nominated Sig Bass, Dick Hart, and Alfred Grattendick for the circuit court.

It was a big day for Boss Kent. He sent Walthall Moore to the front in the Third legislative district with 9,030 votes, leading the ticket. Moore is the first colored representative ever sent to the Missouri legislature.

Jasper C. Caston, another colored man, was nominated by the Republicans for the state legislature in the Fourth district.

Mrs. Lucy Bristoe Gilmore and Mrs. Naoma Oldham, colored women Republicion leaders in the Twenty-third ward, carried the ward for William Maffitt Bates, white, for the state senate, over J. W. McKelvy, Republican committeeman, who was supporting W. Blodgett Priest for the senate in the Thirty-second district.

Enemies Stick Together

This was one of the outstanding events of the St. Louis primary. Mrs. Gilmore is the G. O. P. committeewoman in the Twenty-third ward. She defeated Mrs. Oldham for the job two years ago. Though political antagonists, Mrs. Gilmore and Mrs. Oldham got together in the interest of State Senator Naffitt and Jim McKelvy, Republican leader of the Twenty-third for many years.

The Twenty-third is one of the big colored Republican wards of St. Louis.

All the big colored wards, the Fifth, Sixth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Nineteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-third figured prominently in the renomination of Edward Koeln, John Schmoll, William Tamme, Oliver G. Champman and other old-time Republican office holders.

Koeln, Schmoll, Tamme and Chapman were loyally supported by the colored vote for the reason that all four have played fair with the colored people in the distribution of patronage. Schmoll has colored stenographers and colored clerks in his office; so have Koeln, Tamme and Chapman. The Sixth ward, Dick Kent's stronghold, rolled up a big vote for Tamme, who formerly resided in the Sixth. He represented the ward in the city com-

VOTE AT ALL COSTS

Voting is increasing among Negroes. It is a most hopeful sign. For Negroes to vote was states where their part in elections is taken for granted, and in the South where it would have been for any other voters to do so. It is a most hopeful sign. For Negroes to vote was a big factor in the Republican primary. It is a most hopeful sign. The best thing about the increase of Negroes voting is that they themselves are being numbers. It is a most hopeful sign. did not realize that but it is the truth—if No Democratic form of government is democracy itself is not an impossible possible without all the people taking an active part. For Negroes as harmful to our government as it would gro voting is that they themselves are be- have been for any other voters to drop hind this movement. It is their money they have to overcome the attempts to dis- their participation. The American people which is backing their demands that the franchise them, they are voting in increas-

Political - 1934

Suffrage.

Missouri.

ST. LOUIS, MO.
TIMES

JUL 13 1934

REPUBLICANS HERE SEEKING TO REGAIN HEAVY NEGRO VOTE

Make Capital of Texas Ruling Barring Race From Democratic Primary.

Republicans are making a strong bid to regain the heavy Negro vote here, which they lost in large numbers in the Democratic landslide two years ago.

In several meetings for Negroes last night, G. O. P. speakers capitalized on the news that the attorney general of Texas has held that Negroes are not entitled to vote in the Democratic primary in that state.

State Senator William Maffitt Bates, a candidate for nomination and re-election in the August primary, remarked at one Negro meeting that "the Democrats are giving you folks a new deal, which carries with it in the great state of Texas, the banner Democratic state of the Union, exclusion from the polling booth."

Fred Weismann, Republican committeeman from the Fifth Ward, said:

"The Democratic party doesn't need your votes in Texas; they have an overwhelming majority without you, so they take it upon themselves to xeclude you from the polls.

"Here in St. Louis that same Democratic party solicits your votes; promises you jobs and than hands you taffy on a stick, after the election."

THE PRIMARY IS OVER

One of the interesting aspects of the recent primary election is the nomination of candidates for circuit judge. It was upon this subject we commented last week. In this comment, we advised the voters to disregard some of the endorsements by the bar associations. We pointed out that there were certain men who were candidates for the judicial bench but who had failed of endorsement, either by the St. Louis Bar Association or by the Mound City Bar Association. Among those were J. Ray Weinbrener and Sigmund Bass both seeking nomination on the Republican ticket. We also pointed out the name of J. Wesley McAfee, who was seeking nomination on the Democratic ticket, but failed of endorsement by the Mound City Bar Association. We cited the caliber of man Mr. McAfee was and urged the voters to vote for these three men on their respective tickets. Now, therefore, we are pleased to announce that the voters did just what we suggested and smashed the recommendations of the bar associations and voted for men whom the Argus recommended for the nomination for judges of the Circuit Court.

Of course, we also recommended the name of James R. Claiborne for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Twelfth District and he was an easy winner. Such confidence in the Argus, as was expressed by the voters, is very much appreciated by the editor.

Ordinarily we, like many other people, have some respect for bar associations' selection of judges but it should always be borne in mind that most of the bar are just like other people—They have their pets and their friends. Their friends are sometimes judges on the bench or one whom they would like to see on the bench, and therefore they make a strenuous campaign among other members of the bar urging them to vote for a favorite. It has even gone to the extent where one lawyer may be heard to call another using this language, "Be sure and vote for Judge or Lawyer So-and-So, who is the candidate for the bench. You know he is a friend of mine and if he is elected so-and-so—and I am your friend and so-and so-and so."

As we stated in last weeks issue of this paper, "Just enough politics has played a part in these endorsements to make them less effective among voters and we, here and now, predict that ere a few years the public will have little or no respect for bar endorsements." No one should believe that there is any less "wire pulling" in securing bar endorsements than there is in any other form of politics.

COLORED VOTE WAS BIG FACTOR IN SAINT LOUIS PRIMARY

Members of Race Win Good Places on Republican Ticket

St. Louis, Mo.,—The colored vote was a big factor in the Republican primary Tuesday, August 7 Two colored candidates were nominated for justice of the peace—Charles H. Turpin in the Fourth and George M. Allen in the Fifth constabulary districts. Turpin was renominated, with the support of Richard W. Kent, colored Republican leader of the Sixth ward and one of the most influential colored G. O. P. leaders in St. Louis.

Kent put over the big four—Turpin, R. E. Walker, white, and Langston Harrison and William A. Morant—with a bang in the Fourth constabulary district — Sixth and Seventeenth wards.

George M. Allen, lawyer, and Ira Dorsey, constable, scored in the Fourth constabulary district, with the support of the Fifth and nineteenth G. O. P. organizations. Harry Meyers, white and Gabe Roth, white, went over to victory with Allen and Dorsey.

Two Named for Legislature

Dick Kent, Republican chief of the Sixth, also really nominated Sig Bass, Dick Hart, and Alfred Grattendick for the circuit court.

It was a big day for Boss Kent. He sent Walthall Moore to the front in the Third legislative district with 9,030 votes, leading the ticket. Moore is the first colored representative ever sent to the Missouri legislature.

Jasper C. Caston, another colored man, was nominated by the Republicans for the state legislature in the Fourth district.

Mrs. Lucy Bristoe Gilmore and Mrs. Naoma Oldham, colored women Republicion leaders in the Twenty-third ward, carried the ward for William Maffitt Bates, white, for the state senate, over J. W. McKelvy, Republican committeeman, who was supporting W. Blodgett Priest for the senate in the Thirty-second district.

Enemies Stick Together

This was one of the outstanding events of the St. Louis primary. Mrs. Gilmore is the G. O. P. committeewoman in the Twenty-third ward. She defeated Mrs. Oldham for the job two years ago. Though political antagonists, Mrs. Gilmore and Mrs. Oldham got together in the interest of State Senator Naffitt and Jim McKelvy, Republican leader of the Twenty-third for many years.

The Twenty-third is one of the big colored Republican wards of St. Louis.

All the big colored wards, the Fifth, Sixth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Nineteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-third figured prominently in the renomination of Edward Koeln, John Schmoll, William Tamme, Oliver G. Champman and other colored Republican office holders.

Koeln, Schmoll, Tamme and Chapman were loyally supported by the colored vote for the reason that all four have played fair with the colored people in the distribution of patronage. Schmoll has colored stenographers and colored clerks in his office; so have Koeln, Tamme and Chapman. The Sixth ward, Dick Kent's stronghold, rolled up a big vote for Tamme, who formerly resided in the Sixth. He represented the ward in the city committee; also in the board of aldermen.

VOTE AT ALL COSTS

No Democratic form of government is possible without all the people taking an active part. For Negroes to vote was a most hopeful sign. It is a most hopeful sign. It is the truth—if it but it is the truth—if it did not realize that democracy itself is not an impossible dream.

Voting is increasing among Negroes. In states where their part in elections is taken for granted, and in the South where they have to overcome the attempts to disfranchise them, they are voting in increasing numbers. The best thing about the increase of Negro voting is that they themselves are behind this movement. It is their money which is backing their demands that the American people their participation. The government as it would drop other voters to courts protect their rights to vote in primary elections. It is men and women of their own race who are manning election booths and operating party machinery in the precinct. The day when Negroes voted because of whites is giving away to the new one in which they act because they themselves want to.

The next step is voting with judgment. The old appeal summed up in the sententious phrase, "waving the bloody shirt," had its logical conclusion. Both we who were victimized by it and those who sought to control our votes by that clap-trap, should have realized that Negroes can no more decide today's issues on yesterday's than could any other people.

It is true that Negroes are not the only ones thus appealed to. The idea back of the Klan and the other I-am-better-than-thou movements which arise is essentially a looking back. But they all fail. For the same reason it could have been foretold that Negroes would not maintain interest in politics when politics paid them off in panegyrics instead of substantial advantages.

Because Negroes needed the advantages, and were bound to fall behind their fellow Americans without them, they should have taken positive measures to correct the mistake. Instead they withdrew from voting, their self-disfranchisement going alarming lengths in northern and border states. From that folly they are now recovering.

We repeat again what we have said always, it is better for the Negro to vote foolishly, even vote for that which will hurt him than to fail to vote entirely. In the former case at least he is using the means at hand. In the latter he is both coward as well as fool.

The next step in Negroes' citizenship is voting wisely, now that the wisdom of voting at all has come to be recognized. It is too much to hope that this will be accomplished quickly. When white people cast thousands of votes for Andy Gump, a character exisiting only on the comic page, because the cartoonist pictured him as running for congress, Negroes may be expected to do some voting that will be open to criticism. But they will learn by doing. In time they will be as competent as other Americans to pick men and weigh measures.

Then will be achieved the democracy intended by Jefferson, an ideal not attained yet in this country, and not even attempted by those who have conspired to make any part of the people non-voters. Every election is an opportunity for more schooling in how to vote right. Prepare yourself to vote wisely as best you can. But vote always!

ST. LOUIS, MO.
POST DISPATCH

OCT 25 1924

HEADED FOR CORRUPTION.

Disclosures of primary election crookedness made in the primary recount report filed yesterday with Circuit Judge Ryan make plain the kind of elections St. Louis will have in the near future unless these disclosures are followed by prompt prosecution and punishment of whoever is responsible for misusing the ballots. Add these disclosures to the allegations of fraudulent registration, with the large voting area involved, and it is clear this situation is not sporadic. Ward after ward has become involved since the first disclosures were made. From corrupt voting and a corrupt count it is only a step to carting repeaters from one polling place to another, as was done in St. Louis under a corrupt political machine years ago.

No amount of explaining can account for such discrepancies as 451 unnumbered ballots being counted in the Fifth Ward for one candidate, and 319 for another, or the 656 improperly marked ballots that were thrown out in this ward on the recount. Even rank carelessness by polling place officials would not account for eight more ballots in a single box than were voted according to the list. Duplicate registration by some city employes can't be blamed on ignorance. Nor is there any legitimate explanation for the 7,113 irregular registrations just reported by the Non-Partisan Election Committee to the Board of Election Commissioners as having been found in eight of the wards. Suspension or removal of polling place officials does not permanently cure an evil spread that far.

Lodging house registration abuses in St. Louis never have been completely suppressed. They exist in every large city. But there could be a more rigorous check on these places than election authorities have seen fit to make in recent years in some of the machine-controlled wards. The fifty-eight registered Negro voters reported in the Star-Times from one lodging house in downtown Market street operated by a City Hall porter may all represent lawful votes. The city is filled with transients who have lived here the requisite twelve months. But this situation demands closer supervision than ever to make sure that the election law is not being abused. It makes no difference whether, as shown by the report to the court, no local candidate was displaced on the ballot by the alleged irregularities. State and national offices also are involved and a few corrupt votes might change the result in these in a close contest. Suppress fraudulent registration and voting now and scandal and misgovernment will be avoided later.

Women's Work -

Political - 1934

New Jersey

Suffrage

BAYONNE, N. J.
~~EVENING NEWS~~
Times
APR 13 1934

ADVICE TO NEGRO VOTERS

Editor, The Bayonne Times.

Dear Sir: Being a keen observer and noticing the present and past situation among the Negroes of this town, I want to say we are handicapped without sincere leaders.

A large number of our leaders are men who have their "pet" bosses to whom they attempt to sell their race. There are some so-called leaders who can't be seen for any purpose. This type of leader can only be seen a month before election trying to induce the voters to adhere to his wishes.

There are according to the last census about 142,585 Negro churches in the United States and of course each of the churches has at least one minister. I have referred to mistrust of our leaders and think that if the ministers of the Negro churches would instill in their congregations' mind the need of unity of race and the various economic problems along with the teachings of Jesus Christ they would be the men for the Negro leadership. The Negro has since slavery been taught the will of Jesus, but what he needs most is to have the shade removed from his eyes and learn the evils of our political leaders.

And, too, the Negro himself should consider the fact that when these so-called leaders approach him on election day or before these leaders realize he possesses an instrument that is precious. That instrument is the ballot and my friends should use the thinking faculties God Almighty endowed us with and use them at all times, especially when voting. Ask yourselves the question, "What has this man contributed (for or to) the Negroes in the past." Never mind his promises for it has been the politician's policy to make promises but to keep none.

Abraham Lincoln once said, "You can fool some people some of the time; and you can fool some people all of the time; but you can't fool all people all of the time." This should be the Negro's platform this election and at all election times. In the last election the Negroes of Bayonne had four supposed leaders, none possessing leadership qualifications.

So in closing I would advise in my small way that the Negroes of Bayonne stop the so-called leaders from hoodwinking them as they have in the past and use the mental faculties they have been endowed with.

WILLIAM H. LASH.

NEWARK, N. J.
SUNDAY CALL
APR 29 1934

Vote in Orange May Be Swung By Two Wards

Third and Fourth Hold Chief Interest for 19 Candidates.

Orange's two most cosmopolitan wards may hold the fate of nineteen candidates for city commissionerships. The Fourth, which includes the city's finest areas that have held more or less aloof from political battles in the past, is in the warfare almost to a man—and woman. Windows of residences which never had photos of candidates now have them. Banners that were regarded as unsightly on autos grace the rear of motors seen in the area.

The election is the main topic at homes and clubs, and, for once, there is no chiding of the Fourth ward's Hill section for apathy in a city campaign. Heretofore regarded as territory of the ins the Hill has become somewhat doubtful politically. The administration, however, betrays no anxiety over the ability of its chief worker there, Miss Mary L Dyckman, to carry the area as usual for its candidates.

Women Were Rivals.

Miss Dyckman's chief rival is Mrs. Burton M. Webb, a leading worker of the Junior League of the Oranges, who is championing the candidacy of Ira A. Kip Jr., a "favorite son" of the section, upon whom City Commissioner Walter B. Savage, leader in a drive to defeat the ins, places much dependence. Mrs. Webb also is seeking to dethrone Miss Dyckman as Republican county committeewoman in the ward's Eighth district, in the primaries May 15.

In the lower districts of the Fourth, including Orange valley, once the city's first manufacturing center, the administration is relying to a great extent upon City Commissioner John J. Conron, a product of the once flourishing hat shops and a political ally of the Valley's Democratic chieftain, Tax Commissioner William F. Kearney.

In the Third, the city's most densely populated ward, excitement also is high. Here the administration's main hope is in a favorite son, City Commissioner Charles Ippolito, long one of the locality's leaders, who supplied one of the 1930 surprises by capturing second place among the five winners. The outs also have favorite sons, Ralph E. Giordano and Ovid C. Bianchi. Each is in every combination rumored to have been agreed upon or in the making. Both have demonstrated strength in previous campaigns, and politicians say a winning out ticket, which does not include one or the other, would not be possible.

Richard J. FitzMaurice, who is attempting a comeback, having lost a commissionership in 1930, always has had strength in the two wards. His workers say he will poll a good vote as his supporters will be more alert than they were four years ago. The ins are thankful for the way former Mayor Frank J. Murray has jumped into the breach, believing he will save the day as Orange has followed his leadership consistently at the polls since 1914. Murray continues to make Savage the target of his verbal thrusts.

Eyes on Two Wards.

The vote in the First, Second and Fifth wards is expected to be close leaving the Third and Fourth to decide the issue. Administration backers privately concede that the Kip forces are to make inroads upon the ins majorities of previous elections in the Fourth, but they say the First, where the large Negro vote is concentrated will be more friendly this year than in the past. John M. Drabell, who emerged from political wilderness in 1930 to give the ins a scare, losing fifth place by only a few votes, developed marked strength in the First, and is thought to have retained it. He is regarded as one of the outs' strongest opponents. Political quarters are discussing the increasing strength of Frank M. Brown, who with Harry D. Welthing and William J. Gilchrist, is campaigning with the anti-administration forces.

The heaviest artillery of the West Orange outs is in action, but a wedge has been driven into their ranks, the split resulting in different groups teaming.

The West Orange administration is tightening its lines, and is said to be mostly concerned about the strength of Frank A. O'Connor and Benjamin P. Laidlaw, who fought a sharp duel for fifth place four years ago, O'Connor winning. O'Connor was dropped by the administration this year. The town's politicians say his supposed weakness has been bolstered by his dropping, and are speculating on whether the administration can give him his first political setback in forty years. Randolph F. Debevoise, Edward Albert and Francis A. Byrne are hurling the heaviest broadsides at the administration. Mayor Simeon H. Rollinson, who will leave the political stage next month after forty years, is doing his bit for the ins' warriors, Fred C. Erwin, George V. McDonough, Armand C. Brundage, Bernard M. Degnan and William F. Vosseler, after appearing with them.

NEWARK, N. J.
EVENING NEWS
MAY 11 1934

G. O. P. Rifts Put Ginger In East Orange Primary

New Alignments Mark Councilmanic Contests in First, Third and Fifth Wards, with Personalities to Fore—Vote of 20,000 Expected

East Orange political leaders expect a vote of about 20,000 at Tuesday's primary at which a mayor and five councilmen will be nominated by each party. Regardless of the vote, at least one new face will appear in the City Council after the general election in November.

The Republican primary campaign has stressed personalities rather than issues. Rifts resulting in new alignments in the party ranks have developed in the First, Third and Fifth wards. The Democrats have no major primary contests.

A complicated situation in the Third Ward holds the interest of Republican leaders. Shade Tree Commissioner Anthony P. Miele, Ward Chairman Howard B. Lloyd and Milton W. Chalmers are contesting for the councilmanic nomination.

Sectionalism Factor.

The break there is between the north and south sections of the ward, the latter contending it has been ignored in the past in selection of a council candidate. Hostilities flared up after Miele had been picked to run by the ward group of the City Central Committee. A group including James H. Owen, president of the Third Ward Republican Club, bolted, claiming insufficient notice of the meeting had been given. Lloyd is the candidate of the insurgents. Chalmers is the least active of the three in the field.

The Miele and Lloyd camps have been eager to gain open support by administration officials. Miele backers hailed the recent declaration of Mayor Martens, who lives in the ward, that he was going to vote for the shade tree commissioner.

In the campaign each side has been accused of lies and misleading statements. Negro ward leaders have assured Miele he will receive their votes.

Another interesting but less bitter battle is taking place in the Fifth Ward, where Councilman Christopher R. Morrow is opposed for renomination by William F. Metz, a former councilman. Morrow, who has organized a strong group including a number of young workers, has been defending the administration's handling of finances, prominent politically because of the refinancing program being carried on by Norman S. Taber, financial adviser. Morrow, a veteran in the council, is chairman of the finance committee.

Argues for Economies.

Metz has devoted efforts to personal canvassing. He has studied the municipal budget and argues economies can be instituted.

The Republican First Ward fight between Councilman Edwin L. Ellor, seeking renomination, and a newcomer, Leon La Rue, has been tepid thus far. La Rue is a leader in the Republican Better Government League, formed early in the campaign to place a second municipal ticket in the field. No other candidates of the league have appeared, although the group has announced support of Lloyd in the Third Ward. It also was backing Robert W. Wood, who withdrew as a candidate in the Fifth Ward. Wood is now allied with the Morrow forces.

There has been talk of rifts in both the Second and Fourth wards among Republicans, but Councilman Cyrus H. Vail of the Second and Councilman Frederick C. Rauch of the Fourth are unopposed. Mayor Martens also is without opposition as he seeks his ninth consecutive term.

BAYONNE, N. J.
EVENING
Times
MAY 29 1934

URGES NEGRO UNITY

Editor, The Bayonne Times,

Dear Sir: I want to use your columns for the first time to congratulate my colored people for the splendid support they gave the Garven candidates. We were fortunate to three women of our race for committeewomen, besides in the twelfth and twenty-third districts of the Third Ward our people were voting as they never did before, because they were tired of promises that were given them by the other leaders.

I worked hard in this campaign and I am sure that we got results, as our meetings were well-attended, and as long as I have been in Bayonne I have never seen the interest displayed as now.

Let us learn a lesson from Camden and other cities in New Jersey where the colored population is less than in Bayonne but where they have colored policemen, firemen, probation officers and City Hall clerks. Do you think that they got those jobs because they were loved by the leaders? My answer is no. They got jobs because their voting strength demanded them, and that is the only way we can do the same.

Take the last municipal election in 1931 here in Bayonne. Do you know that the minority group could have turned the election their way by a few hundred votes. It is a fact that if we had 300 solid votes instead of being divided in three groups we could demand anything we wanted.

I hope our colored voters will take heed to these figures as the next city election is not far off and we want to have something to say, and we want to be heard. In Bayonne we can't get a garbage job, a park job, or cleaning sewers and these are menial jobs.

Wake up, examine yourselves and I assure you that if you will listen to advice that we will come out more than conqueror.

RICHARD S. FITZHUGH,
President, Colored Stalwarts

NEWS
Moorestown, N.J.
AUG 29 1934

COLORED CITIZENS FORM NEW CLUB TO UNITE ALL VOTERS

On Monday evening of last week, the Colored Citizens' Political Association was formed with Sagamore Dorsey as president; Alexander Butler, vice president; Edythe C. Wimberley, secretary; Wilbert Warren, treasurer; Marie Long, chaplain, and Frank Anderson, Sr., sergeant-at-arms.

The association is the outgrowth of the desires of the colored citizens of Moorestown to bind themselves into one political unit. For several years, the negro population has lent its political efforts to either the Active Workers, or the Moorestown Colored Republican organizations.

"Various occasions have arisen when the progress of the colored cause has suffered because of the divided strength, and the failure of the two clubs to pool their interests," says an announcement from Mrs. Wimberley. She continues:

"Although the consolidation of the two organizations has not been accomplished, several Active Workers have pledged their aid, allegiance and support together with that of members of the Moorestown Colored Republicans in the birth of the Colored Citizens' Political Association.

"One awaits, with interest, the fruit which this organization, based upon such a strong foundation as unity, must bear."

HOBOKEN, N. J.
OBSERVER
OCT 9 1934

RALLY HELD BY NEGRO VOTERS

Hear Address by Hoffman at Lincoln High School.

Invading Jersey City in a surprise visit to make a bid for negro votes, Harold G. Hoffman, Republican candidate for Governor, took a shot at Mayor Frank Hague, calling him "head of a tyranny that is placing the greatest tax burden in years on the people of his city."

Hoffman spoke at a rally of negro voters heldin Lincoln High School, with about 1,000 attending and cheering all kinds of attacks which laid lynching, discrimination and brutality on the doorstep of the Democratic party, national and local.

Part of the address Hoffman made at the school was in repetition of his address earlier in the evening at Krueger Auditorium, Newark. His criticism of Mayor Hague came as he was labeling Judge William L. Dill, his Democratic opponent, as the hand-picked candidate of the Mayor.

Calls Dill Hand-picked

"Bill Dill was nominated," Hoffman said, "because the Mayor of this city, which has over $6,000,000 of its bonds in default and leader of a county that owes the State over $5,000,000 in back taxes and head of a tyranny that is placing the greatest tax burden in years on the people, put his hand on his shoulder and said, 'Bill, you're it."

After that, Hoffman repeated his charge that Dill was more under obligation to the Republican leaders he and Hague are attacking than Hoffman.

The candidate assailed the financial policy of the Democratic party and candidate, declaring that it was hanging a millstone around the necks of the children of the State.

"I am," he declared, "against new taxes. I don't want to see a sales tax, a business tax or an income tax. But I am for any or all of these taxes before I would see your schools closed or see anyone starve.'

Hoffman told the negroes that their place was in the Republican ranks. He said that with the help of the negroes of Hudson County cutting down the Democratic margin here his party would score the outstanding victory of its history.

"We are," he added, "coming up to the Hackensack River with a 250,000 majority. We want you to help cut down the Hudson margin of the Democrats. And that majority won't be so bad if we can get an honest count in this county. You have your workers out and see that we get an honest count and we'll score that greatest victory in Republican history."

Receives Noisy Ovation

Hoffman had dashed to the Lincoln High School meeting from Newark, accompanied by his campaign band and quartet. He received a noisy ovation.

Fred Conwell, negro candidate for the Assembly, was chairman of the meeting.

Among the speakers was Congressman Oscar DePriest, negro member from Illinois. He denounced the Democratic party nationally and called for the re-election of Senator Hamilton F. Kean.

The Congressman's son, Stanton DePriest, was another speaker. He flayed the national administration and charged it with responsibility for lynching and made the "hit" speech of the evening.

Among a long list of other speakers were Daniel Fitzhenry, Republican leader of the Eighth Ward; County Chairman C. Caesar Walter, Fred Labue, Freeholder candidate; J. Owen Grundy, Boulevard Commissioner candidate; Morris Chesler, candidate for the Assembly; C. Bion Jones, James Roberson and other negro leaders.

NEWARK, N. J.
LEDGER
OCT 18 1934

Elizabeth Mayor Replies to Brophy Platform

ELIZABETH, Oct. 17.—Mayor Thomas Williams at a meeting of the Williams-for-Mayor committee in the Elizabeth-Carteret Hotel today, replied to the platform announced by his Democratic opponent, Joseph A. Brophy.

The Mayor announced that within a few days he expects to be able to make public the name of a large manufacturing concern which will locate in the city.

Mayor Williams stated that a prominent Democrat recently said the Board of Education is one of the finest educational bodies the city ever had. He also criticized the Democratic City Council for giving opposition to his administration.

Announcement was made at the meeting of four inter-racial meetings. Oct. 23, for colored voters at 80 Bond street; Oct. 26, at Ukrainian Hall; Oct. 29, for Italian voters at Continental School, and Nov. 2, for Polish voters at the Polish National Home, 111 First street.

Political - 1934

New York.

Suffrage.

NEGROES' VOTES OPENED THE WAY

Negroes' votes are a powerful asset. The nearly 300,000 Negroes in New York city were given two judgeships by Tammany. Similar recognition would have been commonplace for any other group of voters so numerous, but because Negroes have not been getting it, Tammany was highly praised for its act.

Now comes high position for Hubert Delaney, a Negro, under the administration which supplants Tammany in New York City. Evidently the Negro people, these 300,000 New Yorkers, are coming into their own.

The appointment of Delaney to the board of taxes and assesments, especially representing the borough of Manhattan, an eighteen billion dollar responsibility, means that never again will the Negro in that city be said to have "his share" when given city hall janitorships and a few jobs in the street cleaning and police departments.

Tax commissioner for the richest portion of the world's greatest city is a tribute to the man who gets it. Furthermore because race and color have been such absolute barriers to all his people, this high seal of approval at the same time gives the lie to America's belief about Negroes.

Then there is the third and greatest effect, Negroes see that their votes have value, that they are a force which can open for them entry into even the highest level of American endeavor.

HEMPSTEAD VOTERS DEMAND NEW DEAL

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y.—Voters in this little Empire State town are insisting upon a revamping of local politics, asserting that this is a "downright Southern-governed town," with colored citizens barred from all municipal jobs.

Under the Citizens' Party, which has been in control for several years, not one colored person has been given a job, not even in the street cleaning department, is the statement of those seeking a change.

Reuben J. Stephens is leading the new deal forces. He has been asked to run with the white Democratic committeeman, for the twenty-third district, as his running mate, but has refused, to make an independent race.

Hillburn Negroes Help Defeat Biased Candidate

Special to The New York Age

HILLBURN, N. Y.—The Negroes of Hillburn are supposed to be too dirty and ignorant to go to the same school with the whites and too ignorant to have a parent-teachers association. But you should have seen the politicians carting the lowliest colored and white to the polls Tuesday to save the day for them.

We were advised two years ago that a state law required a fire alarm on every school. The powers bought them and put one on the white school a year ago and saved the one for the Negro school until two days before the election.

And yet the Democratic candidate for trustee lost by only 263 to 218 votes with 49 voided ballots and no party machinery.

The worm has turned.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.
TIMES UNION
JUL 2 1934

"So far as the Negro voter is concerned, there is no reason for keeping him out of the Democratic party. He is part of Texas and his political strength may grow to such proportions as would make him a welcome participant in party effort. The intelligent and capable Negro should vote and in Texas his ballot is wasted unless it is cast in a Democratic primary. . . . Common sense should tell the Democratic party that it is no longer necessary, as it was in the '70's, to maintain a strictly white man's party. —Dallas News.

NEGROES WIN IN NEW YORK PRIMARY VOTE

Eight Victorious in Election Contest; Two Will Go To Assembly

NEW YORK.—(ANP) — William T. Andrews and Thomas B. Dyett won nominations in the twenty-first New York state assembly district here Thursday, September 13, and in so doing, routed the old guards of the Democratic party.

It was said here that the race will gain two state assembly seats regardless of the way major party candidates fare as a result of Thursday's primary.

The successful candidates were sponsored by the Ramape Democratic club, which was organized to vie for leadership within the party with the Chicopee club and its leader, Thomas Murry, 76-year-old white man.

Stephens Renominated

Andrews, according to the latest tabulation obtained on Friday afternoon, had received 2,363 votes as compared to the 1,323 votes which Eustace V. Dench had gained. Mr. Dyett, who is an assistant district attorney was 700 votes out in front of James C. Thomas.

J. Dalmus Steele, well known member of the Elks and a prominent church figure, won the Republican nomination for the assembly in the twenty-first district. He ran ahead of Harold C. Burton by several hundred votes.

Elected four years to the assembly from the nineteenth district, James L. Stephens was renominated by the Democratic forces. He will be opposed in November elections by Robert W. Justice, principal of commercial school here, who made such a good showing in the primary.

Two To Assembly

Although conceding the triumph to Stephens, Mr. Justice stated he will run as an independent in November. Stephens, according to incomplete returns, had 959 votes to 757 for Justice.

In the nineteenth district, Dr. Godfrey Nurse won a seat on the Democratic state committee, while Eunice Hunton Carter, who was unopposed, won the Republican nomination for the assembly seat from the same district. Steele and Andrews will be contested in the general elections, but Lyett and Nurse will be the first elected to seats in the Democratic state committee in the country.

At the present, Stephens is the only Negro in the state assembly. But there will be two Negro assemblymen in November.

Register and Vote

WITH REGISTRATION days almost upon us—October 8-9-10-11-12-13—and election day just five weeks ahead, intelligent citizens today are preparing to enroll as voters. Exercise of the franchise is one civic obligation inescapable for all men and women who hold that they are concerned with the future of the nation, the state and their own communities.

As Negroes—a people who wail loudly about lack of representation and influence in legislative councils—we cannot pass up the duty of enrolling and voting and continue to blame our major ills on the dominant race. If you live in New York City provisions have been made for you to register near your home Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday between the hours of 5 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. On Saturday the hours are 7 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. The policeman in your block will tell you where to enroll.

The requirements are simple. If you have voted in the state before and have lived in the county four months, and thirty days in the election district (by November 6), you merely sign the rolls again. If you are a new voter you must be a citizen of the United States and state one year prior to election day, must have the same residential requirements necessary for other voters, and must be able to read and write English.

Regardless of your political preferment, enroll in one of these groups next week. The citizen who, by neglect or indifference fails to participate in the choosing of officials to legislate for and govern him cannot be considered worthy of the right of citizenship.

How Should We Vote?

WITH ELECTION DAY a scant three weeks ahead, it is not amiss to give serious consideration to candidates who will offer themselves for the approval of voters. Harlem's response to our plea for a big registration is gratifying, and the Thirteenth, Seventeenth, Nineteenth, Twenty-first and Twenty-second Assembly districts in which most of our Negro populace is centered, report enrollments totaling 97,621, an increase of 24,277 over 1930, the year comparable to 1934 so far as politics goes. This indicates that Negroes are acquiring a wholesome interest in a field which influences the warp and woof of our entire social and economic fabric, especially in view of the fact that the increase for the entire city was 415,841.

The question: "Which party should I support?" should prove easy for the intelligent Negro voter. While racial issues are not clearly outlined this year as in the past, every Negro can make his choice by accurately analyzing his race's position in our local, state and national scheme of politics. None can deny that we gain in some measure by the gains of our entire citizenry, and we lose by the same token.

One of our chief concerns should be strengthening the hand of the LaGuardia administration, which came into being last year when the people rose and rebelled against the corruption and waste of Tammany Hall. For the mayor to continue to keep us from municipal bankruptcy and improve the city's finances as he has done since January, Tammany Hall's fingers must be kept from New York City's purse strings. The intelligent and progressive controller, Joseph D. McGoldrick, must be elected.

So it should be all along the line, from chief state executive to assemblyman. Robert W. Moses, Republican candidate for governor, has demonstrated his capacity for understanding and meeting human problems. His vast projects as New York City and Long Island park commissioner reveal him as a scientific planner, whose whole aim is to advance the public welfare. His independence and managerial grasp likewise fit him for the post of governor in contrast with the weak-kneed kow-towing of Herbert H. Lehman to Tammany.

We urge you to vote the Republican ticket from top to bottom November 6 as a duty to yourself. Next week we will give you more reasons why any other course would constitute a failure to recognize the path to your own ambitions for your race and the commonweal.

39,505 Fewer Harlem Voters Registered For Coming Election

An apathetic registration in Harlem, showing a loss of 39,505 votes in the 7 assembly districts in which Negroes live, greeted Republican, Fusion and Democratic campaign chiefs, at the close of registration, Saturday evening, October 13th.

So marked was the lack of enthusiasm on the part of party workers in Harlem, in contrast with the high spirit of the workers last year that a New York Age reporter who visited various polling places, in the seven different assembly districts in which Negroes vote, was surprised to learn that as far as Republicans are concerned there is an almost universal resentment on the part of Republican workers against the lack of consideration for them shown by Mayor LaGuardia who still continues many Tammany hold-overs in his administration.

Equally resentful were the Democratic workers who have either been ignored by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in the matter of appointments to office or have become "fed up" with the many promises given them by the Tammany district leaders.

The registration figures, complete in Harlem, as compared with last year's figures are as follows:

A. D.	1934	1933
11	27,740	32,846
13	18,106	21,447
17	16,806	18,955
19	18,140	20,145
20	12,291	15,689
21	22,149	24,150
22	22,426	26,625
Total	137,652	170,157

One of the surprises at the polls was the fact that a large number of Democrats who are still in office despite the change of the local administration, were very active in trying to get out a large registration of Democrats, in an effort to defeat Controller McGoldrick, Republican-Fusion incumbent who seeks election. Should the Democrats succeed in electing Frank J. Taylor as controller, then the Republican-Fusion administration would lose control of the Board of Estimate, a possibility which is causing no little concern to Mayor LaGuardia.

Making Your Vote Count

LAST WEEK we pointed out why Harlemites (and Negroes throughout the state) should support the Republican ticket in the November 6 election. We ended by stating that any other course "would constitute a failure to recognize the path to your own ambitions for your race and the commonweal."

When one reviews the long fight Negroes have staged in their efforts to send Washington a congressman from Harlem, where black folk are 204,000 strong, it is not difficult to arrive at the conclusion we have made. For more than a decade students of New York politics have insisted (and with sane reasoning) that Harlem can elect its own national representative only when our gerrymandered Congressional districts are reapportioned along more sensible lines. The Twenty-first Congressional district, which includes most of Harlem, is one of the largest districts in the state. In 1920, when the state's population was 21.2 per cent less than it was in 1930, the average number of residents in each Congressional district was 225,000. The Twenty-first district had a population of 317,803. While figures are not available, it is safe to assume that the district still retains an amazingly disproportionate number of residents.

The district lines in New York City provide a distinct advantage for the Democratic party, a group which has ignored all pleas for a Harlem nominee for Congress in marked contrast to the G. O. P. Negroes must play their part in electing Republicans as governor, state senators, and assemblymen in order to secure reapportionment giving representation to Harlem's 204,000 residents. If we fail to choose a legislature and a chief executive sympathetic with our ambitions (the Republican state convention included a plank in its 1934 platform pledging full "interest and co-operation" in our struggle upward) we may not expect to elect a congressman of our choosing before 1940.

As for Harlem Democratic voters who have voted the straight party ticket in the past few years, they also have a stake in jeopardy. In the Twenty-first Assembly district William T. Andrews is the Democratic standard-bearer. He is sponsored by the Ramapo Democratic Club, an organization actually, but not nominally, headed by District Attorney Dodge, whose chief interest is to wrest the leadership of the district from the Chicopee Club. Negro Democrats predominate in the Twenty-first, but their claims to leadership have been rejected by the uptown Tammany bosses with the assistance of Negro adherents who hoped to gain some advantage for themselves or their friends.

If Andrews is elected the hand of Dodge will be strengthened and Negroes will find another obstacle in their path to the leadership next year. If Democrats assist in electing J. Dalmus Steele, progressive and able Republican, they will serve notice upon their leaders that they are unwilling to continue to furnish the votes and remain docile.

The situation is almost parallel in the Nineteenth, where Martin J. Healy rules over a territory some 80 per cent colored. He has defeated every attempt to change the leadership because Negroes have helped him. His candidate, the incumbent, J. Edward Stephens, is opposed by the militant, intelligent young attorney, Eunice Hunton Carter. Here also is an opportunity to elect perhaps the first Negro woman to any legislature.

Negro Democrats and Republicans in the Nineteenth and Twenty-first, particularly, may vote for Republican candidates with the full assurance that they are building a brighter future for themselves and their race. Negroes elsewhere should do likewise as an expression of their concern for their own welfare.

Political - 1934

Suffrage.

North Carolina

Moving Forward In North Carolina

F. K. WATKINS, formerly operator of a chain of theatres, and L. E. AUSTIN, editor Carolina Times, are candidates on the Democratic ticket for justice of the peace in Durham, North Carolina. In a neighboring city, Raleigh, Dr. LEMUEL T. DELANEY has been elected a member of the Democratic committee in his precinct, voters of his race combining their forces with quite a few white electors to insure his choice. Not so long ago a colored man made the race for city council in Greensboro, but was unsuccessful in his effort.

In a field of 44 candidates, out of which 40 were to be nominated in the recent Democratic primary in Wake County, North Carolina, were two Negro aspirants. They carried the three precincts in which members of the race held the balance of power, but lost in other precincts and failed of nomination.

A leading North Carolina Democrat said not so long ago that Negroes had no right to be active in politics except as Republicans, which meant in North Carolina to be active uselessly, since in the present state of affairs Republicans have practically no chance of emerging victorious at the polls in that state and other parts of the South. Negroes, and many white people, however, know that statement was merely a misleading smoke screen and that a citizen has the right to qualify and participate in politics under whatever party banner he chooses.

The movement in North Carolina is interesting. The candidacies of Negroes will have a tendency to arouse others of their race to actually vote, after qualifying of course. And whether that will mean the nomination and election to public office of more Negroes or not is not now so important.

The important thing at this stage is that a part of the population, which for a mixture of reasons has not been of much weight in North Carolina governmental affairs, is becoming a factor to be considered. In a democratic form of government every person has the right, and should exercise the right, to have a voice in how and by whom he shall be governed.

GREENSBORO, N. C.
NEWS

JUN 10 1934

GENERAL ELECTION VOTING.

Editor of The Daily News:

In a news item carried in Tuesday's issue of my favorite morning paper, I read the statement of a leader of a faction of the powers that be, in which she (Mrs. Iseley, of Raleigh) says the Republicans of Johnston county entered the Democratic primary at the expense of "would-have-been" congressman Pou. It is further stated that it is the intentions of this same faction to "see to it" that those Republicans vote the Democratic ticket this November.

I also read a letter in Tuesday's issue of the Daily News, written by Mr. Maxwell, of the state board of elections, explaining our election laws, regarding electors of one political faith voting in the primary of another, in which Mr. Maxwell gave a comprehensive interpretation of this part of our election law.

It would seem to me that some one has "the cart before the horse." The time to have taken action to "prevent" was on challenge day before the primary. To make a public statement that it is the aim to see that any elector cast his or her vote for any certain party at our general election is to assume that we are already living under those conditions of Dr. Wirt fame, one faction giving out a statement of this kind is only stating in this way the kind of government they would like for the people to endure, so long as this faction was in power, and what a dictatorial form of government it would be.

Congressman-Nominee Cooley acted before the primary. He challenged students. Did Mr. Pou challenge the negro Republican supporters who were in his line? Who said they were negro Republicans? They could just as easily have been negro Democrats as Raleigh has plenty of them, judging from the way they were voted by Democrats in 1927 city elections. Some election it was too, mud-slinging. Ha.

And too, this writer has no quarrel to make about the negro voting. If he complies with the law, he is entitled to it, but why say he is Republican because he is a negro? He can just as easily be a Democrat.

The Democratic politicians of the south have a way of saying, negro-Republican, etc., in order to hold their party together through prejudice. It would seem to me that the proper way to carry on political campaigns would be to eliminate intimidating remarks.

This Raleigh faction of Mr. Pou's has not helped their party by making this statement. Johnston Republicans, as well as elsewhere will continue to do their own voting.

A. E. C.

Salisbury.

GASTONIA, N. C.
GAZETTE

MAY 28 1934

NEGROES AND THE PRIMARY.

(Greenville News.)

Oscar DePriest, negro congressman from Illinois, advises South Carolina negroes that the "lily white" Republican party in this state is "not worth a tinker's dam," and that they would promote their own welfare by "lining up with the Democratic party which owns the state."

"The laws keeping you out of the Democratic primaries are not worth the paper they're written on," he asserted.

It is quite true that the Republican party can do little or nothing for the negroes in South Carolina. They must look to the Democratic party for whatever they get from government in this state.

The advice may prove somewhat embarrassing to the South Carolina Democratic party, however, which has existed as a "white man's party" and which is, one dares say, not at this time favorably inclined to the admission of the negroes of the state to its membership, thus giving them an effective vote in the selection of legislative and other officers.

Probably the South Carolina negroes will not be in any big hurry to attempt to follow DePriest's advice. But if and when they should decide to endeavor to do so, one wonders what will be the result. There are no "laws," as we understand it in this state barring negroes from the primaries. Such laws in other states have been declared unconstitutional. The party organization, however, has its rules and regulations or customs concerning qualifications for membership and under these few negroes have been permitted to participate. Politics is supposed to know no color lines under the federal constitution, however, and there is growing question as to whether the existing party system in South Carolina would stand if vigorous court contests were carried through. Negroes vote in Democratic primaries in some other southern states, one understands. With the continued diminution of the percentage of negroes in the state's population, the opposition to negro voting may be somewhat tempered.

Charlotte, N. C. Observer
July 22, 1934

Negroes Claim They Were Denied Ballot

Statesville Men Bring Suit Against Ward Registrar, Charging He Refused to Register Them.

Special to The Observer.

STATESVILLE, July 21.—A test case has been filed in Iredell superior court by two local negroes who were refused the privilege of registering in the recent primary.

The action was brought by T. E. Allison, Jr., and Robert W. Dockery of Statesville against C. R. Sharpe, registrar, of Ward 2, Statesville, and Hugh Mitchell, chairman of the board of elections of Iredell county.

The complaint alleges that both Allison and Dockery are graduates of "A" grade colleges and both have certificates to teach in the shools of North Carolina. They complain that they presented themselves to the registrar on different dates in May, 1934, asked to be registered.

The registrar required the applicants to read a section of the Constitution and then refused to register them.

The plaintiffs appeal from the decision of the defendans, asking that three eminently qualified negro citizens were denied registration in the recent school supplement election here, the Winston-Salem Post, a negro newspaper, called upon the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to "act or disband."

The newspaper said it had been assured by officials of the organization that some action would be taken in protest of the alleged disfranchisement, but that "as yet nothing has occurred." Declaring the N. A. A. C. P. was formed for this kind of reform, the editorial contends that "they should either take some action in the matter or immediately disband nad let some one form an organization that will really act."

Charlotte, N. C., News
July 15, 1934

Claim Negroes Barred From School Tax Vote

Winston-Salem, July 14.—Charging that three eminently qualified negro citizens were denied registration in the recent school supplement election here, the Winston-Salem Post, a negro newspaper, called upon the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to "act or disband."

The newspaper said it had been assured by officials of the organization that some action would be taken in protest of the alleged disfranchisement, but that "as yet nothing has occurred." Declaring the N. A. A. C. P. was formed for this kind of reform, the editorial contends that "they should either take some action in the matter or immediately disband nad let some one form an organization that will really act."

Statesville, July 23.—A test case has been filed in Iredell superior court by two local negroes who were refused the privilege of registering in the recent primary.

The action was brought by T. E. Allison, Jr., and Robert W. Dockery of Statesville against C. R. Sharpe, registrar, of Ward 2, Statesville, and Hugh Mitchell, chairman of the board of elections of Iredell county.

The complaint alleges that both Allison and Dockery are graduates of "A" grade colleges and both have certificates to teach in the schools of North Carolina. They complain that they presented themselves to the registrar on different dates in May, 1934, asked to be registered.

The registrar required the applicants to read a section of the Constitution and then refused to register them.

The plaintiffs appeal from the decision of the defendans, asking that three negroes were denied registration in the recent school supplement election here, the Winston-Salem Post, a negro newspaper, called upon the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to "act or disband."

The newspaper said it had been assured by officials of the organization that some action would be taken in protest of the alleged disfranchisement, but that "as yet nothing has occurred." Declaring the N. A. A. C. P. was formed for this kind of reform, the editorial contends that "they should either take some action in the matter or immediately disband nad let some one form an organization that will really act."

July 23, 1934

NEGROES CLAIM THEY WERE DENIED BALLOT

Statesville Men Bring Suit Against Ward Registrar, Charging He Refused to Register Them.

STATESVILLE, July 21.—A test case has been filed in Iredell superior court by two local negroes who were refused the privilege of registering in the recent primary.

The action was brought by T. E. Allison, Jr., and Robert W. Dockery of Statesville against C. R. Sharpe, registrar, of Ward 2, Statesville, and Hugh Mitchell, chairman of the board of elections of Iredell county.

The complaint alleges that both Allison and Dockery are graduates of "A" grade colleges and both have certificates to teach in the shools of North Carolina. They complain that they presented themselves to the registrar on different dates in May, 1934, asked to be registered.

The registrar required the applicants to read a section of the Constitution and then refused to register them.

The plaintiffs appeal from the decision of the defendans, ask-

Political - 1934

Suffrage.

Moving Forward In North Carolina

F. K. WATKINS, formerly operator of a chain of theatres, and L. E. AUSTIN, editor Carolina Times, are candidates on the Democratic ticket for justice of the peace in Durham, North Carolina. In a neighboring city, Raleigh, Dr. LEMUEL T. DEFANEY has been elected a member of the Democratic committee in his precinct, voters of his race combining their forces with quite a few white electors to insure his choice. Not so long ago a colored man made the race for city council in Greensboro, but was unsuccessful in his effort.

In a field of 44 candidates, out of which 40 were to be nominated in the recent Democratic primary in Wake County, North Carolina, were two Negro aspirants. They carried the three precincts in which members of the race held the balance of power, but lost in other precincts and failed of nomination.

A leading North Carolina Democrat said not so long ago that Negroes had no right to be active in politics except as Republicans, which meant in North Carolina to be active uselessly, since in the present state of affairs Republicans have practically no chance of emerging victorious at the polls in that state and other parts of the South. Negroes, and many white people, however, know that statement was merely a misleading smoke screen and that a citizen has the right to qualify and participate in politics under whatever party banner he chooses.

The movement in North Carolina is interesting. The candidacies of Negroes will have a tendency to arouse others of their race to actually vote, after qualifying of course. And whether that will mean the nomination and election to public office of more Negroes or not is not now so important.

The important thing at this stage is that a part of the population, which for a mixture of reasons has not been of much weight in North Carolina governmental affairs, is becoming a factor to be considered. In a democratic form of government every person has the right, and should exercise the right, to have a voice in how and by whom he shall be governed.

south have a way of saying, negro-Republican, etc., in order to hold their party together through prejudice. It would seem to me that the proper way to carry on political campaigns would be to eliminate intimidating remarks.

This Raleigh faction of Mr. Pou's has not helped their party by making this statement. Johnston Republicans, as well as elsewhere will continue to do their own voting.

A. E. C.

Salisbury.

GREENSBORO, N. C.
NEWS

JUN

GENERAL ELECTION VOTING.

Editor of The Daily News:

In a news item carried in Tuesday's issue of my favorite morning paper, I read the statement of a leader of a faction of the powers that be, in which she (Mrs. Iseley, of Raleigh) says the Republicans of Johnston county entered the Democratic primary at the expense of "would-have-been" congressman Pou. It further stated that it is the intentions of this same faction to "see to it" that those Republicans vote the Democratic ticket this November.

I also read a letter in Tuesday's issue of the Daily News, written by Mr. Maxwell, of the state board of elections, explaining our election laws, regarding electors of one political faith voting in the primary of another, in which Mr. Maxwell gave a comprehensive interpretation of this part of our election law.

It would seem to me that some one has "the cart before the horse." The time to have taken action to "prevent" was on challenge day before the primary. To make a public statement that it is the aim to see that any elector cast his or her vote for any certain party at our general election is to assume that we are already living under those conditions of Dr. Wirt fame, one faction giving out a statement of this kind is only stating in this way the kind of government they would like for the people to endure, so long as this faction was in power, and what a dictatorial form of government it would be.

Congressman-Nominee Cooley acted before the primary. He challenged the negro Republicans? They could just as easily have been negro Democrats who were in his line? Who said they were negro Republicans? Who challenge the supporters who were voted by Democrats in 1927 city elections. Some election it was too, mud-slinging. Ha.

And too, this writer has no quarrel to make about the negro voting. If he complies with the law, he is entitled to it, but why say he is Republican because he is a negro? He can just as easily be a Democrat.

The Democratic politicians of the

Nov. 4th Carolina

MAY 28 1934

NEGROES AND THE PRIMARY.
(Greenville News.)

Oscar DePriest, negro congressman from Illinois, advises South Carolina negroes that the "lily white" Republican party in this state is "not worth a tinker's dam," and that they would promote their own welfare by "lining up with the party which owns the state."

"The laws keeping you out of the Democratic primaries are not worth the paper they're written on," he asserted.

It is quite true that the Republican party can do little or nothing for the negroes in South Carolina. They must look to the Democratic party for what-ever they get from government in this state.

The advice may prove somewhat embarrassing to the South Carolina Democratic party, however, which has existed as a "white man's party" and inclined to the admission of the negroes of the state to its membership, thus giving them an effective vote in the selection of legislative and other officers.

Probably the South Carolina negroes will not be in any big hurry to attempt to follow DePriest's advice. But if and when they should decide to endeavor to do so, one wonders what will be the result. There are no "laws," as we understand it in this state barring negroes from the primaries. Such laws in other states have been declared unconstitutional. The party organization, however, has its rules and regulations or customs concerning qualifications for membership and under these few negroes have been permitted to participate. Politics is supposed to know no color lines under the federal constitution, however, and there is growing question as to whether the existing party system in South Carolina would stand if vigorous court contests were carried through. Negroes vote in Democratic primaries in some other southern states, one understands. With the continued diminution of the percentage of negroes in the state's population, the opposition to negro voting may be somewhat tempered.

Charlotte, N. C. Observer
July 22, 1934

Negroes Claim They Were Denied Ballot

Statesville Men Bring Suit Against Ward Registrar, Charging He Refused to Register Them.

Special to The Observer.

STATESVILLE, July 21.—A test case has been filed in Iredell superior court by two local negroes who were refused the privilege of registering in the recent primary.

The action was brought by T. E. Allison, Jr., and Robert W. Dockery of Statesville against C. R. Sharpe, registrar, of Ward 2, Statesville, and Hugh Mitchell, chairman of the board of elections of Iredell county.

The complaint alleges that both Allison and Dockery are graduates of "A" grade colleges and both have certificates to teach in the shools of North Carolina. They complain that they presented themselves to the registrar on different dates in May, 1934, asked to be registered.

The registrar required the applicants to read a section of the Constitution and then refused to register them.

The plaintiffs appeal from the decision of the defendans, asking that the section of the consolidated statutes be declared unconstitutional which provides that "Every person presenting himself for registration shall be able to read and write any section of the Constitution in the English language and shall show to the satisfaction of the registrar his ability to read and write any such section when he applies for registration, and before he is registered."

Charlotte, N. C., News
July 23, 1934

NEGROES CLAIM THEY WERE DENIED BALLOT

Statesville Men Bring Suit Against Ward Registrar, Charging He Refused to Register Them.

The action was brought by T. E. Allison, Jr., and Robert W. Dockery of Statesville against C. R. Sharpe, registrar, of Ward 2, Statesville, and Hugh Mitchell, chairman of the board of elections of Iredell county.

The complaint alleges that both Allison and Dockery are grad-

GASTONIA, N. C.
GAZETTE

Charlotte, N. C., News
July 15, 1934

Claim Negroes Barred From School Tax Vote

Winston-Salem, July 14.—Charging that three "eminently qualified negro citizens were denied registration in the recent school supplement election here, the Winston-Salem Post, a negro newspaper, called upon the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to "act or disband."

The newspaper said it had been assured by officials of the organization that some action would be taken in protest of the alleged disfranchisement, but that "as yet nothing has occurred." Declaring the N. A. A. C. P. was formed for this kind of reform, the editorial contends that "they should either take some action in the matter or immediately disband nad let some one form an organization that will really act."

Greensboro, N. C., News
July 27, 1934

Court Is Asked to Declare Election Statute Invalid

Two Negro Teachers In Iredell County Ask Court to Hold Literacy Qualification Clause Unconstitutional—McLendon Refers Case to Brummitt's Office.

Two Iredell county negro teachers, who charge a registrar of that county with illegally refusing to register them for the June primary, are plaintiffs in an action in which the state court is asked to declare the literacy qualification clause in a section of the state election laws unconstitutional.

The action was instituted in Superior court of Iredell county by T. E. Allison and Robert W. Dockery on behalf of themselves "and all other persons similarly situated," and Maj. L. P. McLendon, of this city, chairman of the state board of elections, co-defendant in the suit, stated Wednesday that the office of Attorney General Dennis G. Brummitt will defend the case for the board.

Defendants named in the action are C. R. Sharpe, registrar of ward 2, Iredell county, who is alleged to have wrongfully refused to register the plaintiffs; Hugh G. Mitchell, chairman of the Iredell county board of elections, the Iredell board of elections, and Major McLendon and the state board of elections.

Certified Teachers.

Plaintiffs' complaint alleges that Allison, a resident of ward 2, Statesville, for many years prior to May 5, 1934, when it is contended he was refused permission to register, is a graduate of a college approved by the state of North Carolina with an "A" rating and holds a teacher's certificate "authorizing him to teach the children of North Carolina to read and write and constitution of this state." Similar allegation is made as to Dockery's educational training and qualification.

When the plaintiffs presented themselves to the registrar, C. R. Sharpe, it is averred, they were requested by the official to read and write certain sections of the state constitution. Although the plaintiffs alleged that they complied by writing the excerpts from the constitution "in a plain, legible and readable manner," it is charged that the registrar refused to permit them to register, remarking that "you don't satisfy me."

The complaint alleges that the registrar derived or acquired his authority to disfranchise the plaintiffs from article 6, section 5993, of the state election laws. This provides that "Every person presenting himself for registration shall be able to read and write any section of the constitution in the English language and shall show to the satisfaction of the registrar his ability to read and write any such section when he appliies for registration and before he is registered."

Alleges Denial of Rights.

That portion of the clause which specifies that a portion "shall be able to show to the satisfaction of the registrar his ability to read and write any such section when he applies for registration and before he is registered," it is contended, "is in dereliction, contravenes and denies to the plaintiffs and all other citizens of North Carolina their rights of suffrage guaranteed them by the constitution of North Carolina and the constitution of the United States."

The plaintiffs ask that the educational qualification clause referred to in their complaint be declared unconstitutional on the ground that (a) it enlarges upon section 4, article 6, of the state constitution; (b) it provides no method of appeal from the decisions of the registrar; and (c) it permits registrars arbitrarily to disfranchise any citizen of North Carolina without due process of law.

For secondary relief the plaintiffs petition that the remainder of section 5993 of the election laws, beginning with the word "provided," be declared unconstitutional for that it violates the 15th amendment to the constitution of the United States by discriminating against the negro citizens of North Carolina and denies them the right to vote "because of their race and color."

Summons in the unusual litigation was issued by John L. Milholland, clerk of Superior court of Iredell county, on July 19.

Raleigh, N. C., News & Observer
July 27, 1934

NEGRO TEACHERS FILE COMPLAINT

Claim They Were Not Allowed to Vote; Attack Election Law

Greensboro, July 26.—(AP)—Two Iredell county Negro teachers, who charge a registrar of that county with illegally refusing to register them for the June primary, are plaintiffs in an action in which the state court is asked to declare the literacy qualification clause in a section of the state election laws unconstitutional.

The action was instituted in Superior court in Iredell county by T. E. Allison and Robert W. Dockery on behalf of themselves "and all other persons similarly situated," and Major L. P. McLendon, of Greensboro, chairman of the state board of elections, defendant today stated that the office of Attorney General Dennis G. Brummitt will defend the case for the board.

Defendants named in the complaint are C. R. Sharpe, registrar of Ward 2, Iredell county, who is alleged to have wrongfully refused to register the plaintiffs; Hugh G. Mitchell, chairman of the Iredell county board of elections; the Iredell board of elections, and Major McLendon, chairman of the State board of elections.

Plaintiffs complaint alleges that Allison, a resident of Ward 2, Statesville, many years prior to May 5, 1934, when it is contended he was refused permission to register, is a graduate of a college approved by the State of North Carolina with an "A" rating and holds a teachers' certificate "authorizing him to teach the children of North Carolina to read and write." Similar allegations are made as to Dockery's educational training and qualification.

When the plaintiffs presented themselves to the registrar, C. R. Sharpe, it is averred, they complied fully with his request that they read and write excerpts from the State constitution. "You don't satisfy," they quote the registrar as saying in refusing to permit them to register.

The plaintiffs then refer to Article 6, Section 5993, of the State election laws: "Every person presenting himself for registration shall be able to read and write any section of the constitution in the English language.

Salisbury, N. C., Post
July 27, 1934

Negro Teachers Bring Suit On Discrimination

Greensboro, July 27 (AP)—Suit has been brought in Iredell county superior court by two negro school teachers seeking to declare the literacy qualification in a section of the state election laws unconstitutional, it was announced here.

The negroes charge A. T. R. Sharpe, registrar of Ward 2, Iredell county, with illegally refusing to register them for the recent June Democratic primary. The plaintiffs are T. E. Allison and Robert W. Dockery, who brought the suit in behalf of themselves and "all other persons similarly situated."

The defendants include Sharpe, Hugh G. Mitchell, chairman of the Iredell board of commissioners, and Major L. P. McLendon, of Greensboro, chairman of the state board of elections. McLendon said the office of the state attorney general would defend the case for the board.

The plaintiffs claimed they are graduates of colleges approved by the state.

Greensboro, N. C., News
November 1, 1934

RACE ISSUE BROUGHT INTO PRESENT FIGHT

Hastings Asks Rankin to Speak On Negro Voters' Rights In Mississippi.

NEGRO IS NOMINATED

623 Albee Building (By Leased Wire)
Daily News Bureau and Telegraph Office

Washington, Oct. 31.—The negro issue has been introduced into the 1934 congressional campaign by new deal candidates in some of the eastern states.

Senator Hastings, of Delaware, co-chairman of the Republican congressional committee, has attacked Representative John E. Rankin, of Mississippi, who is speaking for the Democratic ticket in Delaware, addressing a series of questions to Mr. Rankin, with the request that he answer them in Delaware. One question, which may prove difficult for Mr. Rankin to answer, is:

"And finally, may I inquire whether distinguished new dealers like yourself advocate that we disfranchise the negro in this state by following the course that has been effectively pursued for this purpose in the state of Mississippi?"

Chairman Farley is seeking to keep eastern negroes under the Democratic banner. He had the President appoint a negro by the name of Vann to the highest position ever held by a member of that race in the department of justice during a Democratic administration.

The latest Democratic move along this line is the nomination of a negro, Arthur W. Mitchell, by the Democrats of Illinois, to succeed Representative Oscar De Priest, Republican, who now represents the first district in the lower house of Congress. The first district is composed almost entirely of negroes, and the state Democratic leaders decided it would be well to nominate a negro in order to attract a large number of votes for the state ticket.

According to reports, Mitchell has made an aggressive campaign and has a good chance of winning. He has the indorsement of Farley, and he has been working day and night, convincing the negroes of the first district that if they send him to Washington he will do more for the race than De Priest can, because he will have more friends at court.

Much interest is felt in the Illinois campaign. If Mitchell is elected it will be the first Democratic negro to sit in the house.

Political - 1934

Suffrage.

North Carolina

RALEIGH, N. C.
TIMES

JUL 27 1934

NEGROES ATTACK ELECTION LAWS

Suit Brought In Iredell County Against Literacy Section

GREENSBORO, July 27.—(AP)—Suit has been brought in Iredell county Superior Court by two Negro school teachers seeking to declare the literacy qualification in a section of the State election laws unconstitutional it was announced here.

The Negroes charge A. T. R. Sharpe, registrar of ward 2, Iredell county, with illegally refusing to register them for the recent June Democratic primary. The plaintiffs are T. E. Allison and Robert W. Dockery, who brought the suit in behalf of themselves and "all other persons similarly situated."

The defendants include Sharpe, Hugh G. Mitchell, chairman of the Iredell board of commissioners, and Major L. P. McLendon, of Greensboro, chairman of the State Board of Elections. McLendon said the office of the State attorney general would defend the case for the board.

The plaintiffs claimed they are graduates of colleges approved by the State.

DURHAM, N. C.
HERALD

NOV 28 1934

Why Consider The Negro Vote "A Dangerous Political Football"?

(By A Durham Citizen)

To The Editor:

In a recent issue of the Durham Messenger there appeared an editorial entitled "Negro Vote Dangerous Political Football." In this editorial exception seemed to have been taken to and alarm caused by the recent election of two Negro justices of the peace in Durham, and to what it calls "demands for political representation in white groups."

I have been wondering if either of these matters should cause any one to become alarmed; also, what the editor means by referring to the Negro vote as a "dangerous political football." If he means there is "danger" of its being used in a way so as to mitigate certain injustices and ameliorate certain conditions affecting the Negro, and may be, even to the extent of upsetting certain traditions and customs, and if this contention should be granted, would this be any reason for a great deal of excitement? Would it be any different from the activity of any other political bloc whether it be of a capitalistic, labor, industrial, farm, or Negroid nature? I doubt, however, that there will be in the near future a substantial and well integrated Negro bloc voting en masse generally, but should there be, why would it be any more dangerous than any other political bloc?

Aren't Negroes required to pass just as rigid tests in qualifying to vote as the masses of the whites and is it not quite probable that the voting Negroes are about as intelligent on the men and measures being voted for as the voting mass of whites? If by putting aside prejudice, this be granted, what if the Negro should vote en masse for a particular man or measure? Would not this be all right? Aren't "blocs" formed for the purpose of seeking some advantage for the particular group which feels that it is not getting the consideration justly due it?

Furthermore, is what the Negro wants really and truly any different from what any other American citizen wants, and would granting the Negro the full rights and privileges of citizenship deny any one else those things to which he is entitled, for what more does the Negro seek than life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness? Would any Christian American consciously and deliberately attempt to deprive another American of an opportunity for well rounded growth and development? Would not America and peoples generally be better off if the citizenry were more interested in one another than in trying to perpetuate certain prejudices, customs, and traditions which of their very nature give rise to division, strife, and tension rather than tending to unify efforts and bring about the realization of peace and happiness for all? Can a community, city, state, or nation make rapid progress toward accomplishing the worth while things in life, also toward its full development, by spending much of its time, thought, and energy in trying to keep a part of its population down? It seems to me that it would go forward much faster by making it possible for and encouraging all of its citizenry to go forward and help carry the burdens of society. Is not the common good of the community economically, socially, politically, spiritually, and otherwise the important consideration?

The editor says, "We have always believed in helping to improve conditions among Negroes but we do not believe Negro leaders are acting wisely in pushing members of their race into places where they are not wanted."

It is not altogether clear to me in what way the "we" referred to think that the conditions among Negroes should be improved; whether they think he should be made or kept a "good darkey" or made or kept a good loyal American citizen with all of the rights, privileges, and responsibilities thereof. If the Negro enjoyed the full rights of citizenship and had equal opportunities with others otherwise, many of his undesirable conditions would be remedied in the natural course of things.

I could not agree with the editor in questioning the wisdom of Negro leaders pushing members of their race "into places where they are not wanted," without knowing the "places" referred to and, maybe, why Negroes are not wanted there. Is it not possible and probable that many of the leaders of the white race who are now doing otherwise would be acting wisely if they should encourage members of their race to be more tolerant and Christianlike in their attitude toward the Negro, and realize that traditions just for traditions' sake will not go far toward promoting peace and good will in the future?

As to the Negro justices of the peace, I think the editor will find, if he will look it up, that about as many whites voted for at least one of the Negro justices of the peace as did Negroes.

As to "demands for political representation in white groups," is this unnatural or unusual and not to be expected? Is not the Negro a part of the population and does he not have to live? Do not problems come up in these groups affecting him? Then, should he not have representation? If so, should not one of his group who lives with him and is affected in the same way as the group, be a better representative for him than one not so sympathetic and understanding as to his needs, hopes, aims, and aspirations?

If the white man really understood the Negro and wanted to be fair, I wonder if he would look upon the Negro as he does? I think not. I have lived amongst, attended school with, worked with and been otherwise associated with both races, and have noted very little difference between those of the same level. Abuse of privilege does not seem to be peculiar to either race, nor does either race impress me as having a monopoly on either intelligence or ignorance, or virtues or vices. There is, however a marked difference between the advantages, opportunities, and incentives of the two races.

Without explanation by the editor of what he means by "dangerous" or in what way he means it, I am unable to agree with him that the Negro vote is a dangerous political football.

A. T. S.

Ohio.

Political - 1934
Suffrage

SIX NEGROES IN PRIMARY FIGHT IN CLEVELAND

Atlanta
8-11-34
Washington, D.C.

Battle Looms Over State and County Offices in Ohio Tuesday

CLEVELAND, Ohio.—Significant political history is predicted to be made in Cleveland, in the forthcoming Republican primaries August 14 as result of a declaration this week by Councilman LeRoy H Bundy, regarded as the most astute Negro political leader in Ohio.

Despite a raging battle over state and local county offices, Councilman Bundy is urging race voters that the most important duty they are called upon to perform is first to vote for Negro candidates for the Ohio General Assembly. "We are creditedfi" he stated "with 30,000 odd votes in Cuyahoga County and our candidates deserve to receive every one of them."

Thus pledging himself, and the powerful, militant political organization he has built up over a period of years, and supported by his councilmanic colleagues Laurence C. Payne and John E. Hubbard and their political organizations, nomination of all race candidates seems certain.

Prominent among race candidates backed by Councilman Bundy and his colleagues Councilmen Payne and Hubbard are Frank C. Lyons, State Senate; Harold L. McGhee, Chester K. Gillespie, Harold T. Garraway, Edward A. Bailey and James F. Summerville, State Representatives.

DEMOCRAT
Bryan, O.
AUG 20 1934

INTELLIGENT VOTING

After all, there is no such animal. The primary last week was an illustration of this. Electors had a long list of names presented to them, for various state offices, judicial places, national and state representatives as well as county offices—more than fifty names in all. Weeks or months of study would be necessary to gain a knowledge of all the candidates sufficient to discriminate. The result is that the average voter must enter the booth with only a sketchy knowledge of a few of the candidates, depending on advice from some person or group interested, or merely voting for a name that sounds good.

One of the candidates for Congressman-at-Large on the Republican ticket goes by the name of M. Herbert Hoover and he received the largest vote of any of these candidates in Williams county. We suspect, without being unduly suspicious, that the voters made their mark for a name rather than that they had studied the list of Congressional candidates and concluded that M. Herbert Hoover was the best qualified.

There have been times when unscrupulous persons have taken advantage of the carelessness of voters, placing a ~~Negro of~~ a popular name, such as Smith, on the ballot and only a few years ago a colored gentleman received many votes for a high office in Ohio.

Voting is one place where there are no experts. That is, those who come the nearest to being experts, the politicians, disqualify themselves as experts because they are always gentlemen with axes to grind, and so they are intent on exercising cunning, rather than intelligence.

The vagaries of voters are notable. They will mourn about high taxes, and then deliberately nominate a man who is not fit for the job and reject one who is fairly well qualified, or at other times they will continue a man in office who is notoriously expensive, and continue another because they are pleased with his petty economies.

Considering all these things one might expect the worst officials possible, but strangely a pretty fair choice is made generally; a choice which probably is a little better than if all officials were drawn on a wheel, as jurors are.

CLEVELAND, O.
PLAIN DEALER
SEP 20 1934

PROTEST MAYOR'S CAMPAIGN CREW

Colored Voters Omitted in County Committee; Also Rees H. Davis.

BY RALPH J. DONALDSON.

Mayor Harry L. Davis yesterday appointed a Republican campaign committee more notable for its omissions than its membership.

Failure of the mayor to appoint anyone from the colored group of voters, who comprise the backbone of the Republican organization in Cuyahoga County, brought immediate protests.

State Representative Chester K. Gillespie said last night that he had heard considerable criticism from among his group because no colored person was named to the committee and that he considered the omission a serious blunder.

The omission of Rees H. Davis, chairman of the Republican county executive committee, also evoked widespread comment. It was also noted that there were no members of the committee who could be considered as representatives of Clarence J. Brown, the Republican candidate for governor, or the ward leaders, the precinct committeemen, the women's Republican organization or any of the nationality groups.

The committee consists of Mayor Davis as chairman and nine other members. One of the members, E. J. Kulas, president of the Otis Steel Co., is a personal friend of Davis, and four others are members of the mayor's cabinet. They are Safety Director Martin I. Lavelle, Welfare Director David S. Ingalls, Utilities Director William J. Rogers and Law Director Ezra Z. Shapiro.

Only two members of the committee, other than Davis, could be considered to be practical politicians. One is Maurice Maschke, former Republican county chairman; the other is George H. Bender, president of the League of Republican Clubs and candidate for congressman-at-large.

The other two members are Daniel E. Morgan, unsuccessful Republican candidate for governor at the recent primary, and John A. Hadden, attorney.

The campaign committee, appointment of which was authorized by the Republican county central committee, has full authority to conduct campaigns, leaving little for the executive committee to do.

Political—1934

Suffrage.

Oklahoma

Oklahoma City, Okla.
TIMES

JUN 28 1934

Racial Group Hears Negro Votes Barred

Convention Here Discusses Problem of Colored Race Advancement.

An appeal to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People for aid in getting the franchise for Negroes in Wagoner county was made here Thursday morning by Rev. John Whitmore, Wagoner.

Whitmore asked advice of the executive council of the association in his discussion of the situation in Wagoner county before the twenty-fifth annual conference of the association which convened Wednesday.

There is a general feeling in the county that Negroes shouldn't vote Whitemore said. Registration officials, acting on this principle, have not permitted them to register.

Negroes in Wagoner county have not voted since statehood, Whitmore said. "A test case brought recently failed to get results and today only a handful of the 4,300 Negroes in the county are allowed to vote."

Whites Need Educating

Solution of the race problem lies largely in education of the white worker that he must work with the Negro worker if he expects permanent benefits, Oscar Ameringer, editor of the American Guardian and prominent state Socialist, told the morning session.

"The whole race problem is essentially economic," Ameringer said. "We feel no prejudice in eating the food a Negro cook prepares. Children learn to look down on Negroes only after they are taught prejudice."

Ameringer cited the New Orleans dock workers strike in 1904 in which Negro and white workers pulled together for common good and urged that the Negro be given equal opportunity in all unions with white workers.

Problem Is Economical

"No white man will pay a white worker more for a job than he will have to pay a Negro worker for the same job," Ameringer said.

His discussion backed up the argument made by Charles H. Houston, prominent Negro lawyer, Wednesday night that Negroes were brought to this country for labor purposes, and are being kept for that purpose.

L. W. Washington, El Paso, Texas reviewed the fight that has been made in Texas against "white" primaries.

Two supreme court decisions and a state court decision have been necessary to break down the blanket discrimination against Negroes, Washington pointed out.

NRA Hurts Colored Race

O. B. Cobb, Bryn Mawr, Pa., discussed the fight Negroes staged for the right to send their children to the new school built in 1932. Negro parents kept their children out of school two years in protest before they finally won.

"The NRA has left the Negro with less real wages than it found him," Houston charged.

Houston made a strong appeal to his 500 Negro hearers to "unite with the 'poor white' laborer in common cause." Only when the poor whites and the Negroes cease fighting each other will they start getting what they want, he added.

Miss Mary White Ovington, New York City, one of the founders, outlined history of the movement and urged Negroes to give white a better understanding of their problems.

Roosevelt Sends Greetings

Greetings from President Roosevelt and other prominent leaders were read at the opening session Thursday night.

Roosevelt said "No one can glance even casually at the progress Negroes have made in the last 60 years, particularly the last 15, without finding hope and inspiration for the future."

Miss White urged more white people to participate in interracial work. "If the Negro is to advance its people must enlist the aid of white people," she said.

More than 400 delegates are attending the twenty-fifth annual conference of the association this week.

Walter White, secretary, will discuss the Costigan-Wagner anti-lynching bill and Charles H. Houston, Washington, will talk on Negroes on juries.

Thursday night's session will deal with the New Deal as its affects the Negro, by Oscar L. Chapman, assistant secretary in the department of interior, and John P. Davis, executive secretary of the joint committee on national recovery.

Assistant Interior Secretary at Parley

The Negro can expect broader economic recognition under the new deal program, believes Oscar J. Chapman, assistant secretary of the interior, who arrived Thursday for the national conference of the Association for Advancement of Colored People.

"Both material benefits to the Negro and general recognition have improved since inception of the recovery program," Chapman said. "Although he isn't getting recognition equal to that of the white worker."

Chapman was forced to change his schedule to permit him to leave Friday for Chicago and may not be able to speak to the Chamber of Commerce luncheon as scheduled.

The assistant secretary will talk at Thursday night's session of the conference.

Vote For La Verne Carleton

As we go to press for the last time before the runoff primary we want to warn every one of our readers in the Oklahoma City area that Bob Graham, legislative candidate, should be defeated. Although Graham is a young man, he by no means represents the type of young white southerner who believes in giving the Negro a square deal. The Black Dispatch has dedicated itself to the purpose of promoting the interests of liberal, progressive candidates for office, and we shall work just as hard to throw into the discard that type of reactionary demagogue who still believes that the way to rise in public life depends upon ability to shout "Nigger" loudly.

Bob Graham as a member of the Oklahoma legislature, some time ago sought to antagonize black folk and create race friction by the introduction of an unseemly and crazy bill which would make it a felony for a Negro to be caught in a room with a white woman. While we hold no brief for illicit sex relationship between people of any race, we at the same time know, and Bob Graham knows that legitimate contacts can occur between women of his race and Negro men. The truth is, that far more illicit contacts occur, and have occurred through three centuries between white men and Negro women than as implied in Bob Graham's proposed law. It was a condition of slavery that first brought about the orgy of black concubinage and millions of white mothers in the South have suffered because of the hangover of this condition since Lincoln's freedom.

The proposed law of Bob Graham ought to be an insult to every clean white woman, and it ought to be a fighting piece, and a red rag in the face of every Negro man who is striving to advance his race.

It is said that members of the James Europe Post of the American Legion will vote for Bob Graham because Graham is an overseas man. We do not believe this. The war was fought to end war; it was fought for the right of the voice of men to be heard in their own government; it was fought for equality of opportunity.

So long as in the South we have white men in public office who sponsor legislation seething in race hate, the war is not over. Bob Graham's ilk prolongs war—race war and race hate. The way to vote against this type of demagogue is to vote next Tuesday for La Verne Carleton, democratic candidate for the legislature.

The New Deal

With agitation on for a "New Deal" in Oklahoma politics the Black Dispatch is inclined to go a step further and ask for a "New Deck." All the old cards used in state politics are marked, torn and known before anyone uses them. Truly, black and white, rich and poor, need a new deck of cards with which to operate and play the game of state government.

In a recent issue of the Veterans Journal, official organ of the Veterans Voters League, the argument is made that a new deal cannot be perfected under the old charter of state. A new constitution for Oklahoma is demanded. In all probability there may be called a constitutional convention during the next four years to re-write a new state instrument to take the place of our archaic constitution.

Of course the majority of white citizens are interested in a new type of state taxation; the women of the state are interested in further political emancipation, and there are other vital issues which would come before a group delegated with the power and responsibility to write a new constitution. Forces would be at work in such a convention to revolt against the entire present order. Democratic candidate for governor (and not Tom Anglin) would be made perhaps for the elimination of parcess or failure of Roosevelt's NRA. At least one staid democratic candidate for governor (and not Tom Anglin) writer during the recent campaign, if Roosevelt's program fails, it is his opinion that the Democratic and Republican party, as such, will cease to exist.

Such a psychology would be bound to reflect itself in state government. State party governments are like rivers, great tributaries to national party government. That happens to the nation will happen to the state. The cumulative—heaped up and piled together.

Governor Murray called a constitutional convention during his administration to prepare amendments to our state constitution. At that time the Black Dispatch sponsored a call for a group of Negro leaders to meet for the purpose of offering suggestions to Governor Murray's constitutional convention. The governor took umbrage at this and refused to allow any consideration of the suggestions made. He made many unkind utterances regarding the very constructive suggestions made by the Negro group.

Black Dispatch

Black Dispatch

Black Dispatch

Political — 1934

Suffrage

Oklahoma

Oklahoma City, Okla.
TIMES

JUN 28 1934

Racial Group Hears Negro Votes Barred

Convention Here Discusses Problem of Colored Race Advancement.

An appeal to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People for aid in getting the franchise for Negroes in Wagoner county was made here Thursday morning by Rev. John Whitmore, Wagoner.

Whitmore asked advice of the executive council of the association in his discussion before the twenty-fifth annual conference of the association which convened Wednesday.

There is a general feeling in the county that Negroes shouldn't vote Whitemore said. Registration officials, acting on this principle, not permitted them to register.

Negroes in Wagoner county have not voted since statehood, Whitmore said. "A test case brought recently failed to get results and today only a handful of the 4,300 Negroes in the county are allowed to vote."

Whites Need Educating

Solution of the race problem lies largely in education of the white worker that he must work with the Negro worker if he expects permanent benefits, Oscar Ameringer, editor of the American Guardian and prominent state Socialist, told the morning session.

"The whole race problem is essentially economic," Ameringer said. "We feel no prejudice in eating the food a Negro cook prepares. Children learn to look down on Negroes only after they are taught prejudice."

Ameringer cited the New Orleans dock workers strike in 1904 in which Negro and white workers pulled together for common good and urged that the Negro be given equal opportunity in all unions with white workers.

Problem Is Economical

"No white man will pay a white man more for a job than he will have to pay a Negro worker for the same job," Ameringer said.

His discussion backed up the argument made by Charles H. Houston, prominent Negro lawyer, Wednesday night that Negroes were brought to this country for labor purposes, and are being kept for that purpose.

L. W. Washington, El Paso, Texas, reviewed the fight against "white" primaries.

Two supreme court decisions have been made in Texas against Negroes, Washington pointed out.

NRA Hurts Colored Race

O. B. Cobb, Bryn Mawr, Pa., discussed the fight Negroes staged for the right to send their children to the new school built in 1932. Negro parents kept their children out of school two years in protest before they finally won.

"The NRA has left the Negro with less real wages than it found him," Houston charged.

Houston made a strong appeal to his 500 Negro hearers to "unite with the 'poor white' laborer in common cause." Only when the poor whites and the Negroes cease fighting each other will they start getting what they have been casually at the progress Negroes have made in the last 60 years, particularly the last 15, without finding hope and inspiration for the future.

Miss Mary White Ovington, one of the founders, and Miss White urged more white people in interracial work in the department of interior, and John P. Davis, executive secretary of the joint committee on Negro affairs.

Thursday night's session will deal with the New Deal as its affects the Negro, by Oscar L. Chapman, assistant secretary in the department of interior, who spoke on "Negroes in the Social Security Program."

Wednesday and general recognition have improved since inception of the program," Chapman said. "Although he isn't getting recognition equal to the white worker."

Chapman was forced to change his schedule to permit him to leave Friday for Chicago and may not be able to speak to the Chamber of Commerce luncheon as scheduled.

The assistant secretary will talk at Thursday night's session of the conference.

Vote For La Verne Carleton

As we go to press for the last time before the runoff primary we want to warn every one of our readers in the Oklahoma City area that Bob Graham, legislative candidate, Bob Graham is a young man, he should be defeated. Although Graham is a young white southern-type of young white southern-type of reactionary demagogue who still believes that the way to rise in public life depends upon ability to

Oklahoma legislature, of black folk and create gonize black folk and crazy card that type of an unseemly and crazy card that type of reactionary demagogue who still believes that the way to rise in public life depends upon ability to

Black Dispatch has dedicated itself to the purpose of promoting the interests of liberal, progressive candidates for office, and we shall work just as hard to throw into the discard that type of reactionary demagogue who still believes that the way to rise in public life depends upon ability to

Negro a square deal. The Negro who believes in giving the Negro a square deal. The Negro who believes in giving the Negro a square deal. The Negro men. The truth is, that Negro men, and Negro women than as implied in Bob Graham's proposed law. It was a condition of slavery that ham's proposed law. It was a condition of slavery that ham's proposed law. It was a condition of slavery that

Bob Graham as a member of the Oklahoma legislature, shout "Nigger" loudly. Bob Graham as a member of the Oklahoma legislature, shout "Nigger" loudly. Bob Graham as a member of the Oklahoma legislature,

Bob Graham sought to antagonize black folk and create Bob Graham sought to antagonize black folk and create Bob Graham sought to antagonize black folk and create some time ago sought to antagonize black folk and create some time ago sought to antagonize black folk and create some time ago sought to antagonize black folk and create race friction by the introduction of an unseemly and crazy race friction by the introduction of an unseemly and crazy race friction by the introduction of an unseemly and crazy

bill which would make it a felony for a Negro to be caught bill which would make it a felony for a Negro to be caught bill which would make it a felony for a Negro to be caught with a white woman. (While we hold no brief with a white woman. (While we hold no brief with a white woman. (While we hold no brief race, we race, we race, we race and race and race and

race and race and race and

race and race and race and

The New Deal, however, calls for the right of the voice of men to be heard in their own government. We believe Marland or Pine, if elected governor, will be willing to lend a willing ear to the sincere honest vewpoint of Negro leaders. A new liberalism regarding black citizens has had its growth in Oklahoma in the past fifteen years and Negroes should do everything in their power to nourish and cultivate the flowering of this new psychology. The recent questionnaire sent out by the Alumni Association of Langston university, and another sent out by this publication to candidates for governor, attest this fact. The younger white men of this state believe that the Negro is entitled to a new deal. What part will Negro leadership take in defining and illuminating their notions regarding same?

In the New Deal coming to Oklahoma the present separate school law ought to be re-written so that Negroes can participate in the general school fund. The Black Dispatch does not believe in separate schools or separate anything, but that policy has been fixed, and perhaps will continue across another period. What we do insist, and what we believe is possible just now, is the abolition of the old separate two-mill levy and the participation of the Negro school child in the administration of a common reservoir with the white child, of school tax funds. This is the only method by which the Negro school child can get his just deserts. It is the only fair path to pursue by those who insist that they want the black boy and girl to share equally with the whites.

The election laws should be changed materially. Thousands of whites are disgusted with the present methods of qualifying for voting. Under a system adopted during the regime of Governor Bob Williams, and immediately follow the voidance of the Grandfather Law, a registration law was adopted by the legislature, calculated to keep in effect the intent and purpose of that invalid disfranchisement statute.

While the law was passed for Negroes, in the past fifteen years white folk have learned methods to enforce this statute on white folk. In a recent editorial in the Oklahoman much exposition was given to this fact. Thousands of white people now see that Haman is being hanged on his own gallows. What part will Negro leadership have in scrapheaping this type of law? Will we stand idly by and allow another new deal to be consummated without giving expression to our viewpoint? Qualifications for voting could more safely be lodged in the constitution than in the legislative branch of government, but in such qualifications are nominated, they should be fair and just. What is your definition of a fair law under which citizens should qualify for suffrage?

Life and limb are not safe in Oklahoma. The mob occasionally takes its toll in blood of human beings. Practically all of the Oklahoma delegation in congress voted against the Costigan-Wagner anti-lynching bill. They hid behind the state rights issue which has always been a red rag in the face of the South.

The federal constitution discusses the question of life, liberty and property. Why not the state instrument? If there is integrity and sincerity in the attitude of our state leaders, why make the attitude of state government vague and indefinite on this, or these, subjects? If we re-write the constitution of Oklahoma, why not speak out on these questions in such a way that those who form the constitutional body will at least be informed as to our views?

The same is true regarding separate coaches and waiting rooms. Everyone knows that this law has been violated since statehood. The law says, "There shall be equal but separate" accommodations. We get separate accommodations, but an insane Negro will tell you they are not equal.

What Negroes should fight for most in the re-writing of a new state constitution is a strong bill of rights, with teeth in it. If those charged with redrafting can be lifted to a plane of high ideals on the question of human rights, the rest will be easy. No state legislature can go beyond the constitutional grant of power given to it.

We said when Murray was elected to office that the Negro's cause had been set back twenty-five years, and events since that date prove this fact. With his entire elimination from public life of this state the Negro should approach the new leadership with diplomacy and vision. The entrance of thousands of Negroes into the democratic column should convince the most rabid southerner that the Young Negro is willing at last to join hands with him in building Dixieland into what it ought to be. The rebuffs of the Murray regime must immediately be forgotten and we should with faith and courage approach our new responsibilities. What part will Negroes play in re-writing the new constitution? Will we be a part of the New Deal?

FOURTEENTH AMENDMENT BINDS STATES—NOT CITIES, RULES JUDGE VAUGHT ON ZONE LAW

U. S. MARSHAL JIM CROWS NEGRO SPECTATORS IN FEDERAL COURTROOM

Herbert K. Hyde Cites Bill of Rights; N. A. A. C. P. To Appeal Surprise Decision

Taking exactly the opposite view of the late Judge John H. Cottrell, who in 1923 took federal jurisdiction of a suit in equity, involving Oklahoma City's segregation ordinances, Judge Edgar S. Vaught this morning dismissed the suit brought in his court by four Negro renters and one white property owner.

The courtroom was filled by 9:3 this morning with both white an Negro spectators. A slight furo developed when an officer from th marshal's office suddenly cam n to the courtroom and established segregated zone in which he sai Negroes might sit.

"All you colored people get u and get over in that east section It's orders," he alleged, and Mrs Lura McMurray, seated over in th banned section demurred. Ne groes who came later sat indiscrim itely over the courtroom. A cour attendant stated that the marsha was a deputy by the name of Fitz gerald.

While some discussion developed Tuesday morning regarding the lack of jurisdiction on the ground that diversity of citizenship was not apparent, Judge Vaught wher he came on the bench Wednesday morning wholly ignored this posi tion of the city and launched int a discussion of the 14th Amend ment, which he stated denied th right to states to deprive citizen of life, liberty or property.

"The question here is," sai Judge Vaught, "whether this cour has the power under the 14t amendment to restrain the city."

Reading at length from page 1 of the petition, Judge Vaught stat ed that the petitioners themselves admitted they had sufficient relief in state courts. "You state that the state constitution prohibits the city from committing the act complained of, and if the state constitution prohibits such ordinances, your relief is in the state court."

Judge Vaught entirely relieved the city from agency for the state or in any way coming under the meaning of the 14th Amendment, which prohibited states from depriving citizens of life, liberty or property without due process of law. He entered his order of dismissal without allowing a statement either by the city or by counsel representing the petitioners.

Herbert K. Hyde, representing the petitioners, demurred to the court's ruling. "I feel that you have other ground to take jurisdiction aside from the 14th Amendment per se," said Hyde.

"Your honor's attention is called to section 41 of the Bill of Rights, passed by congress for the purpose of vitalizing the 14th Amendment."

Hyde read the following:

"Section 41. Equal Rights Under the Law. All persons within the jurisdiction of the United States shall have the same right in every State and Territory to make and enforce contracts, to sue, be parties, give evidence, and to the full and equal benefit of all laws and proceedings for the security of persons and property as is enjoyed by white citizens, and shall be subject to like punishment, pains, penalties, taxes, licenses, and exactions of every kind, and to no other.

'Section 42. Property Rights of Citizens. All citizens of the United States shall have the same right, in every State and Territory as is enjoyed by white citizens thereof to inherit, purchase, lease, sell, hold, and convey real and personal property.

Section 43. Civil Action For Deprivation of Rights. Every person who, under color of any statute, ordinance, regulation, custom, or usage, of any State or Territory, subjects, or causes to be subjected, any citizen of the United States or other person within the jurisdiction thereof to the deprivation of any rights, privileges, or immunities secured by the Constitution and laws, shall be liable to the party injured in an action at law, suit in equity, or other proper proceedings for redress."

Notice of appeal was immediately given by Barbour and Hyde and they later in their law offices called attention to N. A. A. C. P. officials who are prosecuting the case for the petitioners, that the Supreme Court of the United States, had, in the case of Cuyahoga River Power Co. vs. Akron, Ohio, 1916, in which the Supreme Court held that city government is the agent of the state.

Here is what the Supreme Court held:

"Where a bill in equity alleged that a municipality intends to take the plaintiff's property without compensation, in pursuance of a municipal ordinance and that in so doing it violates the 14th Amendment of the federal Constitution, such action is to be regarded as the action of the state, and whether in such a case the plaintiff has any rights that the city is bound to respect can be decided only by a federal court taking jurisdiction and dealing with the merits. Cuyahoga River Power Co. v. Akron (Ohio 1916) 240 U. S. 462, 36 S. Ct. 402, 60 L. Ed 743, reversing (D. C. Ohio, 1913) 210 F. 524."

The New Deal, however, calls for the right of the voice of men to be heard in their own government. We believe Marland or Pine, if elected governor, will be willing to lend a willing ear to the sincere honest vewpoint of Negro leaders. A new liberalism regarding black citizens has had its growth in Oklahoma in the past fifteen years and Negroes should do everything in their power to nourish and cultivate the flowering of this new psychology. The recent questionnaire sent out by the Alumni Association of Langston university, and another sent out by this publication to candidates for governor, attest this fact. The younger white men of this state believe that the Negro is entitled to a new deal. What part will Negro leadership take in defining and illuminating their notions regarding same?

In the New Deal coming to Oklahoma the present separate school law ought to be re-written so that Negroes can participate in the general school fund. The Black Dispatch does not believe in separate schools or separate anything, but that policy has been fixed, and perhaps will continue across another period. What we do insist, and what we believe is possible just now, is the abolition of the old separate two-mill levy and the participation of the Negro school child in the administration of a common reservoir with the white child, of school tax funds. This is the only method by which the Negro school child can get his just deserts. It is the only fair path to pursue by those who insist that they want the black boy and girl to share equally with the whites.

The election laws should be changed materially. Thousands of whites are disgusted with the present methods of qualifying for voting. Under a system adopted during the regime of Governor Bob Williams, and immediately follow the voidance of the Grandfather Law, a registration law was adopted by the legislature, calculated to keep in effect the intent and purpose of that invalid disfranchisement statute.

While the law was passed for Negroes, in the past fifteen years white folk have learned methods to enforce this statute on white folk. In a recent editorial in the Oklahoman much exposition was given to this fact. Thousands of white people now see that Haman is being hanged on his own gallows. What part will Negro leadership have in scrapheaping this type of law? Will we stand idly by and allow another new deal to be consummated without giving expression to our viewpoint? Qualifications for voting could more safely be lodged in the constitution than in the legislative branch of government, but in such qualifications are nominated, they should be fair and just. What is your definition of a fair law under which citizens should qualify for suffrage?

Life and limb are not safe in Oklahoma. The mob occasionally takes its toll in blood of human beings. Practically all of the Oklahoma delegation in congress voted against the Costigan-Wagner anti-lynching bill. They hid behind the state rights issue which has always been a red rag in the face of the South.

The federal constitution discusses the question of life, liberty and property. Why not the state instrument? If there is integrity and sincerity in the attitude of our state leaders, why make the attitude of state government vague and indefinite on this, or these, subjects? If we re-write the constitution of Oklahoma, why not speak out on these questions in such a way that those who form the constitutional body will at least be informed as to our views?

The same is true regarding separate coaches and waiting rooms. Everyone knows that this law has been violated since statehood. The law says, "There shall be equal but separate" accommodations. We get separate accommodations, but an insane Negro will tell you they are not equal.

What Negroes should fight for most in the re-writing of a new state constitution is a strong bill of rights, with teeth in it. If those charged with redrafting can be lifted to a plane of high ideals on the question of human rights, the rest will be easy. No state legislature can go beyond the constitutional grant of power given to it.

We said when Murray was elected to office that the Negro's cause had been set back twenty-five years, and events since that date prove this fact. With his entire elimination from public life of this state the Negro should approach the new leadership with diplomacy and vision. The entrance of thousands of Negroes into the democratic column should convince the most rabid southerner that the Young Negro is willing at last to join hands with him in building Dixieland into what it ought to be. The rebuffs of the Murray regime must immediately be forgotten and we should with faith and courage approach our new responsibilities. What part will Negroes play in re-writing the new constitution? Will we be a part of the New Deal?

FOURTEENTH AMENDMENT BINDS STATES—NOT CITIES, RULES JUDGE VAUGHT ON ZONE LAW

U. S. MARSHAL JIM CROWS NEGRO SPECTATORS IN FEDERAL COURTROOM

Herbert K. Hyde Cites Bill of Rights; N. A. A. C. P. To Appeal Surprise Decision

Taking exactly the opposite view of the late Judge John H. Cottrell, who in 1923 took federal jurisdiction of a suit in equity, involving Oklahoma City's segregation ordinances, Judge Edgar S. Vaught this morning dismissed the suit brought in his court by four Negro renters and one white property owner.

The courtroom was filled by 9:3 this morning with both white an Negro spectators. A slight furo developed when an officer from th marshal's office suddenly cam n to the courtroom and established segregated zone in which he sai Negroes might sit.

"All you colored people get u and get over in that east section It's orders," he alleged, and Mrs Lura McMurray, seated over in th banned section demurred. Ne groes who came later sat indiscrim itely over the courtroom. A cour attendant stated that the marsha was a deputy by the name of Fitz gerald.

While some discussion developed Tuesday morning regarding the lack of jurisdiction on the ground that diversity of citizenship was not apparent, Judge Vaught wher he came on the bench Wednesday morning wholly ignored this posi tion of the city and launched int a discussion of the 14th Amend ment, which he stated denied th right to states to deprive citizen of life, liberty or property.

"The question here is," sai Judge Vaught, "whether this cour has the power under the 14t amendment to restrain the city."

Reading at length from page 1 of the petition, Judge Vaught stat ed that the petitioners themselves admitted they had sufficient relief in state courts. "You state that the state constitution prohibits the city from committing the act complained of, and if the state constitution prohibits such ordinances, your relief is in the state court."

Judge Vaught entirely relieved the city from agency for the state or in any way coming under the meaning of the 14th Amendment, which prohibited states from depriving citizens of life, liberty or property without due process of law. He entered his order of dismissal without allowing a statement either by the city or by counsel representing the petitioners.

Herbert K. Hyde, representing the petitioners, demurred to the court's ruling. "I feel that you have other ground to take jurisdiction aside from the 14th Amendment per se," said Hyde.

"Your honor's attention is called to section 41 of the Bill of Rights, passed by congress for the purpose of vitalizing the 14th Amendment."

Hyde read the following:

"Section 41. Equal Rights Under the Law. All persons within the jurisdiction of the United States shall have the same right in every State and Territory to make and enforce contracts, to sue, be parties, give evidence, and to the full and equal benefit of all laws and proceedings for the security of persons and property as is enjoyed by white citizens, and shall be subject to like punishment, pains, penalties, taxes, licenses, and exactions of every kind, and to no other.

'Section 42. Property Rights of Citizens. All citizens of the United States shall have the same right, in every State and Territory as is enjoyed by white citizens thereof to inherit, purchase, lease, sell, hold, and convey real and personal property.

Section 43. Civil Action For Deprivation of Rights. Every person who, under color of any statute, ordinance, regulation, custom, or usage, of any State or Territory, subjects, or causes to be subjected, any citizen of the United States or other person within the jurisdiction thereof, to the deprivation of any rights, privileges, or immunities secured by the Constitution and laws, shall be liable to the party injured in an action at law, suit in equity, or other proper proceedings for redress."

Notice of appeal was immediately given by Barbour and Hyde and they later in their law offices called attention to N. A. A. C. P. officials who are prosecuting the case for the petitioners, that the Supreme Court of the United States, had, in the case of Cuyahoga River Power Co. vs. Akron, Ohio, 1916, in which the Supreme Court held that city government is the agent of the state.

Here is what the Supreme Court held:

"Where a bill in equity alleged that a municipality intends to take the plaintiff's property and right without compensation, in pursuance of a municipal ordinance and that in so doing it violates the 14th Amendment of the federal Constitution, such action is to be regarded as the action of the state, and whether in such a case the plaintiff has any rights that the city is bound to respect can be decided only by a federal court taking jurisdiction and dealing with the merits. Cuyahoga River Power Co. v. Akron (Ohio 1916) 240 U. S. 462, 36 S. Ct. 402, 60 L. Ed 743, reversing (D. C. Ohio, 1913) 210 F. 524."

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Oklahoma

URGENT NEED FOR TRAINING CITIZENS IN USES OF BALLOT REVEALED IN VOTING SCHOOL

Black Dispatch 2-18-34 Oklahoma City Okla.

GREAT INTEREST DEVELOPS IN PROGRESSIVE VOTER'S LEAGUE VENTURE

Mutilated Ballots Plentiful In First Mock Election

Thirteen mutilated ballots were found by the counters in the election held by the Women's Auxiliary of the Progressive Voter's League, in its first Voting School, held Monday evening in the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Ellis, 823 East Second street. One of the mutilated ballots was cast by a member of the Central Committee of the Progressive Voter's League.

Rev. Ellis Leads in Mayor's Race

The primary election showed Rev. J. H. Ellis leading for mayor over his nearest opponent, Rev. L. C. Cleaves, while in the 1st ward, A. L. McKay led for councilman over Cornelius Scales. The race in the 2nd ward was headed by G. L. Scales, Rev. W. P. Pipkins leading second; 3rd ward, Mrs. J. V. Holmes had a safe lead over Rev. F. K. Leath, while in the 4th ward Mrs. A. E. Harris swamped Dr. W. L. Vaughn, who trailed.

What Precinct?

Seven of the voters when questioned did not know the precinct in which they resided in the city and two had never registered or had ever voted in a regular election.

School a Success

The first school was a howling success from the standpoint of attendance and the interest shown, according to Mrs. A. E. Harris, chairman of the Women's Auxiliary. "I had no idea that so many would attend our first school, and the positive lack of information about the use of the ballot as developed in the meeting, shows the urgent need of the schools we plan to hold in every block in the city," she said.

Officials

Mrs. W. J. Edwards acted as clerk during the election, Cornelius Scales judge, and H. McKinley Rowan, chairman of the registration bureau of the Progressive Voter's League, inspector. Counters were Mrs. A. L. McKay, Mrs. R. F. North and Mr. A. E. Jackson.

Rowan Instructs

A school of instruction, under the supervision of Attorney H. McKinley Rowan, followed the school election, and short talks were made by Mrs. E. A. Harris, Editor Roscoe Dunjee, Rev. J. H. Ellis and E. A. Jackson. Refreshments were served.

Next School

The next school will be held on Monday evening, Feb. 12, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Holmes, 14 North Douglas. Everybody is invited.

Are You Going To Jump the Fence?

Negroes desirous of changing their politics this year from Republican to Democrat, or visa versa, should do so before the 4th of April. Under state laws, changes from one party affiliation to another must be made 90 days before an election.

Black Dispatch 3-30-34

Section 5,658, Oklahoma statutes 1931 provides: "That no change in registration shall be granted on the ground of change of politics unless application therefore be made at least 90 days before the next succeeding general primary election."

Oklahoma City, Okla.

Date of the first primary election this year is July 3. Therefore, application to reregister on ground of change in politics must be made to the precinct registrar on or before April 4.

At the time of making application to reregister the voter should present his registration certificate to the precinct registrar of the precinct named in the certificate, who should write across its face "cancelled," signing his name thereto. Upon the surrender of such cancelled registration certificate the elector should be entitled at any time to a new certificate.

Disfranchisement In Oklahoma

While we are asking democratic candidates what they are going to do when they land in office, it would not be out of place this year to inquire of them when the Negroes of Wagoner county will be given their franchise. This writer has just returned from that benigned section, where since statehood Negroes have been denied ballot rights.

Negroes vote today in almost every section of Oklahoma. In Okmulkee county there is a condition similar to what is going on in Wagoner county, but in the practice of total and complete disfranchisement the ribbon must be handed to the governing agencies in Wagoner county.

One almost sheds tears when he travels up that fertile Choskie valley, on the banks of the Arkansas, from Muskogee to Haskell, and sees the thousands of acres of land once belonging to Negroes, but which has now passed from their hands. The story of the county courts in Oklahoma, where through white guardians this valuable land was wrested from their grasp, is one of the darkest and most shameful blots upon the records of this state.

It is easy to realize that if the defenseless Negroes who do not vote, in this county, could have had their suffrage in one election, they could have rid themselves of this terrible penalty they pay for being black. They do not have that vote and we who live in more liberal sections should demand from those who ask for our support that something be done for these, our sable-hued brethren.

Without the ballot, how can the Negroes of Wagoner county protect themselves against the tax assessor? How can they come to an equitable understanding with those who name the "tribute" exacted by the state? It is safe to say that hundreds of Negroes have lost their rich fertile valley farms through the confiscatory manipulation of taxes.

To those of us who vote, it seems almost unbelievable that in a section of Oklahoma, Negroes are still required to read and explain with satisfaction to some illiterate individual the constitution of the state. This is going on in Wagoner today. The injustice is exposed when we state that a poor white, with a friendly spirit and conscience, told us last Saturday in Wagoner that he cannot read, but has never been denied the right to vote in the city of Wagoner.

We understand full well and know the reason why the Negroes are not permitted to vote in Wagoner county. The reason lies in the fact that their numerical strength is sufficient to elect Negroes to office in that county. This forms the basis of their disfranchisement. It's the same reason why Negroes are disfranchised in Mississippi.

Such is the awful penalty visited upon black men because they have obeyed the admonition of God, who says that men should be fruitful and multiply." In Wagoner we have the real test of the white man's moral fiber. We vote in Oklahoma county today, but would we vote in Oklahoma county if the Negro vote were numerically stronger than that of the whites? You, in all sections of Oklahoma, ask yourself this question?

The democratic party in Oklahoma ought to commit itself to the proposition that the county clerk in every county should be the county registrar. The law should provide that he should register citizens and taxpayers every day in the year. The recent exposures as disclosed in recent daily papers regarding elections, and the administration of election laws in Oklahoma, are the direct result of the present laws of Wagoner county have their ballots.

The democrats are believers in democratic rule—the rule of the majority—they ought to be good sports and let the Negroes in this state have cut their political eyeteeth. They are no longer Abraham Lincoln republicans. We make a solemn bet here and now that if Wagoner county will release the Negro to his ballot, there will not be a stronger or more solidly democratic stronghold in Oklahoma.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Oklahoma

URGENT NEED FOR TRAINING CITIZENS IN USES OF BALLOT REVEALED IN VOTING SCHOOL

Black Dispatch 2-10-34 Oklahoma City Okla.

GREAT INTEREST DEVELOPS IN PROGRESSIVE VOTER'S LEAGUE VENTURE

Mutilated Ballots Plentiful In First Mock Election

Thirteen mutilated ballots were found by the counters in the election held by the Women's Auxiliary of the Progressive Voter's League, in its first Voting School, held Monday evening in the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Ellis, 823 East Second street. One of the mutilated ballots was cast by a member of the Central Committee of the Progressive Voter's League.

Rev. Ellis Leads in Mayor's Race

The primary election showed Rev. J. H. Ellis leading for mayor over his nearest opponent, Rev. L. C. Cleaves, while in the 1st ward, A. L. McKay led for councilman over Cornelius Scales. The race in the 2nd ward was headed by G. L. Scales, Rev. W. P. Pipkins leading second; 3rd ward, Mrs. J. V. Holmes had a safe lead over Rev. F. K. Leath, while in the 4th ward Mrs. A. E. Harris swamped Dr. W. L. Vaughn, who trailed.

What Precinct?

Seven of the voters when questioned did not know the precinct in which they resided in the city and two had never registered or had ever voted in a regular election.

School a Success

The first school was a howling success from the standpoint of attendance and the interest shown, according to Mrs. A. E. Harris, chairman of the Women's Auxiliary. "I had no idea that so many would attend our first school, and the positive lack of information about the use of the ballot as developed in the meeting, shows the urgent need of the schools we plan to hold in every block in the city," she said.

Officials

Mrs. W. J. Edwards acted as clerk during the election, Cornelius Scales judge, and H. McKinley Rowan, chairman of the registration bureau of the Progressive Voter's League, inspector. Counters were Mrs. A. L. McKay, Mrs. R. F. North and Mr. A. E. Jackson.

Rowan Instructs

A school of instruction, under the supervision of Attorney H. McKinley Rowan, followed the school election, and short talks were made by Mrs. E. A. Harris, Editor Roscoe Dunjee, Rev. J. H. Ellis and E. A. Jackson. Refreshments were served.

Next School

The next school will be held on Monday evening, Feb. 12, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Holmes, 14 North Douglas. Everybody is invited.

Are You Going To Jump the Fence?

Negroes desirous of changing their politics this year from Republican to Democrat, or visa versa, should do so before the 4th of April. Under state laws, changes from one party affiliation to another must be made 90 days before an election.

Black Dispatch 3-30-34

Section 5,658, Oklahoma statutes 1931 provides: "That no change in registration shall be granted on the ground of change of politics unless application therefore be made at least 90 days before the next succeeding general primary election."

Oklahoma City, Okla.

Date of the first primary election this year is July 3. Therefore, application to reregister on ground of change in politics must be made to the precinct registrar on or before April 4.

At the time of making application to reregister the voter should present his registration certificate to the precinct registrar of the precinct named in the certificate, who should write across its face "cancelled," signing his name thereto. Upon the surrender of such cancelled registration certificate the elector should be entitled at any time to a new certificate.

Disfranchisement In Oklahoma

While we are asking democratic candidates what they are going to do when they land in office, it would not be out of place this year to inquire of them when the Negroes of Wagoner county will be given their franchise. This writer has just returned from that benigned section, where since statehood Negroes have been denied ballot rights.

Negroes vote today in almost every section of Oklahoma. In Okfuskee county there is a condition similar to what is going on in Wagoner county, but in the practice of total and complete disfranchisement the ribbon must be handed to the governing agencies in Wagoner county.

One almost sheds tears when he travels up that fertile Choskie valley, on the banks of the Arkansas, from Muskogee to Haskell, and sees the thousands of acres of land once belonging to Negroes, but which has now passed from their hands. The story of the county courts in Oklahoma, where through white guardians this valuable land was wrested from their grasp, is one of the darkest and most shameful blots upon the records of this state.

It is easy to realize that if the defenseless Negroes who do not vote, in this county, could have had their suffrage in one election, they could have rid themselves of this terrible penalty they pay for being black. They do not have that vote and we who live in more liberal sections should demand from those who ask for our support that something be done for these, our sable-hued brethren.

Without the ballot, how can the Negroes of Wagoner county protect themselves against the tax assessor? How can they come to an equitable understanding with those who name the "tribute" exacted by the state? It is safe to say that hundreds of Negroes have lost their rich fertile valley farms through the confiscatory manipulation of taxes.

To those of us who vote, it seems almost unbelievable that in a section of Oklahoma, Negroes are still required to read and explain with satisfaction to some illiterate individual the constitution of the state. This is going on in Wagoner today. The injustice is exposed when we state that a poor white, with a friendly spirit and conscience, told us last Saturday in Wagoner that he cannot read, but has never been denied the right to vote in the city of Wagoner.

We understand full well and know the reason why the Negroes are not permitted to vote in Wagoner county. The reason lies in the fact that their numerical strength is sufficient to elect Negroes to office in that county. This forms the basis of their disfranchisement. It's the same reason why Negroes are disfranchised in Mississippi.

Such is the awful penalty visited upon black men because they have obeyed the admonition of God, who says that men should be fruitful and multiply." In Wagoner we have the real test of the white man's moral fiber. We vote in Oklahoma county today, but would we vote in Oklahoma county if the Negro vote were numerically stronger than that of the whites? You, in all sections of Oklahoma, ask yourself this question?

The democratic party in Oklahoma ought to commit itself to the proposition that the county clerk in every county should be the county registrar. The law should provide that he should register citizens and taxpayers every day in the year. The recent exposures as disclosed in recent daily papers regarding elections, and the administration of election laws in Oklahoma, are the direct result of the present registration law, designed to disfranchise Negroes. If democrats are believers in democratic rule—the rule of the majority—they ought to be good sports and let the Negroes of Wagoner county have their ballots.

The Negroes in this state have cut their political eyeteeth. They are no longer Abraham Lincoln republicans. We make a solemn bet here and now that if Wagoner county will release the Negro to his ballot, there will not be a stronger or more solidly democratic stronghold in Oklahoma.

NEGRO TO RUN FOR $6000 JOB IN OKLAHOMA

Frank Anderson Republican Candidate for Corporation Commissioner

MUSKOGEE — (ANP) — Negro voters are becoming an important factor in the general and local elections throughout the state. Jacob Simmons Jr. ran as a candidate for the state legislature from Muskogee county. He was beaten, but polled a heavy vote, winning some votes in every precinct. The local daily paper stated: "Surprisingly, several whites voted for the Negro."

One Negro, E. D. Howard, ran for congressman-at-lage and another, Andrew Jackson Jordan, for congress from a district.

The race which has excited the most comment, however, is that of Frank Anderson, Okmulgee school teacher, for corporation commissioner against E. R. Hughes, white Republican member of the corporation commission.

White Man Withdraws

There were four Republican candidates and Anderson received the next highest number of votes to Hughes, the incumbent.

After it became known that Anderson was still in the race, Hughes withdrew from the race, saying that he refused to run against a Negro.

Hughes' withdrawal makes Anderson the uncontested Republican candidate for the office which pays $6,000 a year. It will not be necessary for him to run in the run-off on July 24 as he already has the nomination by default.

Many Anticipate 'Plums'

Negroes constitute a voting force of 50,000 in this state. In Tulsa and Oklahoma City, the two largest cities, they have charge of some of the election booths.

Many Negroes ran for such jobs as justice of the peace. In the recent election there were five candidates in the township in which Muskogee is located.

After the primary, Ton Anglin, slated for the July 24 run-off against E. W. Marland, in the race for governor, announced that he would not enter the run-off. Negroes who followed Marland's fortune are apt to win some fine plums in such places as the state school at Langston, the Boy's training school, the State Hospital for the Insane, the Deaf, Blind and Orphans' home and the Home for Negro girls. Two of the foremost leaders for Marland were J. W. Sanford and W. E. Mitchell.

Oklahoma City, Okla.
OKLAHOMAN
JUL 29 1934

What Difference?

IN commenting upon the presence of a Negro's name on the state primary ballot the Henryetta Free Lance declares that the law should be so amended that voters in primary contests will know whether the candidate is a Negro or otherwise. The Free Lance would have the ballot state that the Negro candidate is a Negro.

Why the primary? If the Negro candidate should be so designated in a primary contest, why should he not be so designated in the general election? Is it because that voters should vote their party ticket in the November contest regardless of race, color and previous condition of servitude?

Political - 1934
Suffrage

Oklahoma

Changing Election Laws

All kinds of foolish tommyrot is being indulged in by Republican orators, speaking to Negro audiences, regarding the candidacy of Senator Pine. While in Tulsa recently we heard an expression like this: "If Pine is elected governor we have our first chance to change the election laws since statehood." Black Dispatch

We immediately asked the enthusiastic Pine adherent for information regarding the duties, responsibilities and authority of a governor. "Does he," we asked, "have the authority to pass laws, or is law making the constitutional province of the legislature?" 10-13-34

He stammered a while but finally admitted that the governor of a state did not have power to legislate, and that he could not translate into statutory law any principle in government without the official assistance of the legislature. Oklahoma City Okla.

"All the governor can do is to suggest, recommend and advise regarding questions of legislation, is it not?" we urged. The supposed-to-be knowing one admitted grudgingly that this was also true, while his auditors gapped at his exposed ignorance or obvious hypocrisy.

Think of a man attempting to tell voters that if Pine (a Republican) were elected governor, an Oklahoma legislature (Democratic) would be forced to change the election laws. Pine, himself, would consider such a suggestion coming from him as a "political blunder." Pine has already said that he believes in the "will of the majority." With Oklahoma normally Democratic by 100,000, it can be easy to assume that whatever we have in the way of election laws is today the "will of the majority" and we have it from the lips of the Okmulgee statesman that he never monkeys with the "will of the majority."

We want every Negro who reads this article to know that the election laws of this state in no wise suit the Black Dispatch. We want them changed and we want Negroes to vote in all elections and everywhere. Shameful conditions exist in many counties which we desire corrected, but they will not be corrected by Oklahoma Republicans. The change will come through the will of Democrats.

Republicans several years ago elected a majority of the lower branch of the legislature. The leadership of that branch was so imbued with the philosophy of Mr. Pine they refused to pass a fair election law and passed it up to the Democratic senate. We lobbied personally around the capital for the passage of such a bill, only to discover that our erst-while Republican friends were afraid of making a "political blunder."

The truth is, and sensible Negroes ought to see it, a change in the administration of the election laws has been gradually creeping over Oklahoma for the past ten years. More and more, as the Negro vote has seeped over into the Democratic column, liberality and fairness has exhibited itself in the various counties.

Only a few years ago the Negroes right here in Oklahoma City and county were disfranchised. This writer knows the time when truck loads of Negro men and women futilly sought to register. On one occasion we stormed the old Threadgill hotel by hundreds, only to be denied.

Is such a condition existing in Oklahoma City today? Have you ever attempted to determine the reason why? The reason for liberality here, in Tulsa and in Muskogee, rests in the fact that Negro voters have helped in several elections to make Democratic victory effective and certain. The deep-seated belief that the mass of Negroes will vote nothing but the Republican ticket has been completely exploded, and Democrats in Oklahoma know now that the Negro vote is a flexible thing, instead of being an ignorant piece of Republican granite.

The replies made last spring to the Black Dispatch questionnaire show that from candidates for governor down to constable, the Democratic party in Oklahoma openly bids for Negro votes. It would be foolish to assume that a candidate or a party would refuse to allow a vote to be cast ,if they were definitely certain that vote was for, instead of against. It is because the Negro vote has at last become flexible that Mr. Marland stated recently that he hoped to see the Negro vote become an integral part of the Democratic party.

Even though there is a normal Democratic majority of 100,000 in Oklahoma, the Negro vote in many counties is the deciding factor. Logan, Lincoln, Washington, Tulsa, Oklahoma and Creek are counties we think of off-hand, where the Negro vote can determine any election and where if the Negro would join with the Democrats it would go far towards placing statewide emphasis on the value of the Negro vote. Negroes in these counties, by voting intelligently, have a chance to work for the liberation of Negroes in other counties.

The thing we want to emphasize is, that Pine, as governor, will not have the power, authority or inclination to change the election laws of this state. Public sentiment writes every law and enforces it. In Oklahoma, public sentiment is gradually accepting the view that the Negro should vote. Public sentiment in this commonwealth is Democratic. Shall we court majority rule, or shall we turn to a pillar of salt looking backward towards Fort Sumpter and Appomattox?

Bartlesville, Okla.
MORNING EXAMINER

OCT 4 1934

It does seem the democrats who have grabbed off most of the Negro votes in Oklahoma would be satisfied with their taking over this Negro vote, formerly considered as safe for the republicans and whose republicanism had as much to do with the difficulties they met in trying to vote as did their race, without trying to use the accident of a Negro being on the republican state ticket to scare every voter with a trace of racial prejudice away from the republican state ticket. It is just too much like getting 'em going and coming to look like good cricket. Neither party is frankly meeting the racial issue, but the republicans are definitely getting the worst of it.

ARDMORE. OKLA.
DAILY ARDMOREITE

SEP 30 1934

NEGRO VOTERS FAVOR MARLAND

W. E. Mitchell, Chairman of Democratic League, Finds Enthusiasm.

W. E. Mitchell, Ardmore, chairman of the Democratic League of Southern Oklahoma, Negro party organization with 20,000 members, has just completed an extensive trip through the southern area on behalf of the league. He visited in Ada, Durant, Antlers, McAlester Checotah and many other communities.

Assurance that the colored voters are rallying to the cause of E. W. Marland was sounded by Mitchell on his return.

He arranged a series of speaking dates for the colored people of the district. These speakers are to orate in behalf of Mr. Marland's candidacy, the new deal and the state democratic ticket, he said.

"We are determined," he said, "to let W. B. Pine, republican candidate for governor, know that the Negro vote can't be bought even if he does spend a million dollars on the campaign."

Mitchell also expressed the opinion that Frank A. Anderson, colored nominee for the corporation commission on the republican ticket would have absolutely no influence in swaying the Negro vote from the democratic ranks.

At The Cross-Roads

We voted for Franklin D. Roosevelt to be president of the United States, and at the same time announced political independence. We shall always occupy such a position, insofar as we believe that the best man should be voted for, regardless of party, and we shall couple that election to our general notion of what is politically expedient to do at that time.

Since the vote we cast for Roosevelt, and one we have never regretted, we have been preaching a new political gospel. We have argued that Negroes should tie closer to state government, and that in Oklahoma the only way to effectively do this is to get into the Democratic primary and in a large measure become a part of the Democratic party.

In the election last Tuesday, November 6, the returns, as tabulated by the election board, show that thousands of Negroes have heeded the suggestion of the Black Dispatch. It is safe to estimate that fully 25,000 Negroes voted for E. W. Marland. Previous figures compiled by the election board showed that there were 44,000 Negroes registered in Oklahoma. We believe the increased interest this year advanced the Negro's voting strength beyond the 50,000 mark.

While we have been registering independent and asking Negroes to qualify and vote Democratic, there has been cricicism heaped upon our notion of things because of the charge that the editor of the Black Dispatch is not willing to do what he asks others to do. Futile attempts have been made by local and state Negro Democrats, whose records show they are Democrats for revenue only, seeking to prevent any recognition being given this writer, with no charge other than "He's not a Democrat."

To give you an idea of how far this sort of thing has gone, we recall that in the recent race for county commissioner in the first district, one political adventuress, a woman, went down to the headquarters of one of the candidates and advised him that all of the Negro Democrats on the East Side of town were going to oppose him because he was accepting support from this writer. The fact that this candidate was elected in the primary by a huge majority and the additional fact that this woman opposed him, is sufficient evidence for one to know that this political terrorist had no influence, or if she did have, failed to exercise it.

STATE MAJORITY GROUP BIDS FOR EDITOR DUNJEE'S MEMBERSHIP IN DEMOCRATIC PARTY

BLACK DISPATCH SCRIBE SEEKS REACTION FROM STATE LEADERS ON REGISTRATION QUERY

Demo Correspondence Publicized For Benefit of Reading Public

Editor Roscoe Dunjee was this week debating with his friends the advisibility of registering as a Democrat. In a letter sent out to many of his associates he has called attention to letters from prominent Democrats of the state, and high in the official life of the party, who have in letters to the editor invited him to join the Democratic party.

Decision Not Reached

"I have not reached a decision on this point," declared Editor Dunjee, when approached on the subject, "but I am giving the matter serious consideration. One never knows his problem until he begins to manhandle it. One of the serious handicaps to 100% effectiveness of my publication in the last campaign resulted from the carping of a lot of inconsequential fellows who sought to stifle the influence of the publication by shouting, 'The Black Dispatch is on the fence.'

Should Be Negro Bloc

"While I still believe that the Negro vote should in more or less degree form a block, that bloc in the nature of things in this state would go to the Democratic party, because of the general control it would give in pivotal counties where the Negro vote would be the deciding factor. What I wish to do is the most eective thing pointing the way out politically for Negroes."

Many Invitations

Letters received from Eugene Maple, president of the State League of Young Democrats; Sam Battles, secretary-treasurer of the Democratic State Central Committee, and La Verne Carlton, state representative from the 5th legislative district, were exhibited by Editor Dunjee as requests coming direct to him asking that he actively join the Democratic party.

Withheld Requests

"These letters started coming to my office last August but I refrained from discussing this matter during the course of the campaign for the reason that I knew it might percipitate extraneous discussion ont necessary at that time," Editor Dunjee said. "I would like, however, my friends over the state to write me their reaction to this matter," he continued.

Render rGeater Service

Writing under date of October 26, the secretary-treasurer of the Democratic Central Committee said in his letter to Editor Dunjee:

"It seems to me that if you align yourself with the majority party in this state, by reason of such alignment, you would be in a position to render greater service to your people. I would be pleased to welcome you into the Democratic party; the party of the people. Such action I am sure, would meet the approval of the majority of your people."

Here Are Letters

There follows the correspondence:

STATE LEAGUE OF YOUNG DEMOCRATS OF OKLAHOMA

"Dear Mr. Dunjee:

"I have watched your activity in the city political affairs for the past few months with a great deal of interest. I know that you are not only interested in good government but that you also have a desire to be of service to your country and your race.

'I have noticed in past political campaigns that you have registered as an Independent but that you have supported in many instances Democrats for political offices. May I suggest, that one of your ability, could be of great service as an outspoken champion of the principles of the Democratic party? There is only one politictl party today which represents and fights for the best interest of the people. There can be no middle ground.

"I have talked with a great many members of your race and I know that they love and respect you for the manner in which you have unselfishly championed their every cause. I hope that in the near future you will not only support the nominees of our party but will register and become actively affiliated with the Demorati party of this state.

"Wishing you continued success, I remain

"Yours very truly,

EUGENE MAPLE, President
State League of Young Democrats."

Prejudiced Judge Sits in Muskogee Franchise Case

MUSKOGEE.—A judge's personal opinion on governmental questions does not disqualify him to rule on them, Federal Judge Robert L. Williams declared here Friday when he refused to leave the bench during the hearing of a suit in which Negroes are seeking the right to vote.

Attorney for I. W. Lane, 66-year-old Wagoner man, demanded that William withdraw on the grounds that he had expressed prejudice against Negroes voting and had sponsored legislation against them while governor.

Lane contended he had not been permitted to register in Wagoner county last election and has asked $5,000 damages of the county registrar, Jess Wilson.

Lane was the moving spirit in a similar suit for 100 Wagoner caunty Negroes in 1928, shortly before election day The case was called for trial four year later but was dropped by Lane before a decision was reached.

Suffrage

What The Record Shows

Still gambling on the theory that Negroes easily forget the low-browed, venal trading Negroes, who went out last fall to harvest the $10,000 posted by oil companies to prevent the recall of Mayor Blinn, arrived back on the streets this week to attempt ridicule of the Progressive Voter's League.

If one Negro has approached this writer, fifty have, to announce, "Did you see what YOUR MAYOR TOM McGEE had to say about Hassman park?" The most of this gang were the purchasable fellows who last October held a meeting and endorsed segregation in order to support their contention that Mayor Blinn should be retained in office.

On its face it would appear that there were merit in the argument now bubbling from the lips of these hypocrites. They seek to condemn the Progressive Voter's League because of its support of Mayor McGee. A survey of the record will of course, disclose the speciousness of their argument. In the position it took in the last mayoralty election there is nothing for which the Progressive Voter's League need apologize.

The Progressive Voter's League opposed Mayor Blinn because Mayor Blinn voted against the purchase of Hassman park. Shortly after its purchase Governor Murray issued an executive order in which he declared that Negroes of this city could not use said park on the 19th day of June, 1933. Negroes of the city vainly requested former Mayor Blinn to ignore the governor's order and let the governor understand and know that he, Mayor Blinn, was running Oklahoma City. No city mayor in America were ever so spineless as was Mayor Blinn in this instance.

On September 23, 1933, Mayor Blinn, along with other city councilmen, voted for an unconstitutional segregation ordinance, now in force in Oklahoma City. This ordinance was voted in face of the fact that this writer appeared twice before the council, and once before the planning board, in company with other organization heads, demanding that the unlawful ordinance now on the statute books be not enacted.

On October 5, 1933, the following editorial appeared in the columns of the Black Dispatch:

"MAYOR BLINN WANTS YOUR VOTE

"Mayor Blinn now wants the Negro vote. The Black Dispatch does not assume that Mayor Blinn is entitled to it. This publication supported Mayor Blinn when he ran for his present position, but we have had to apologize for that stand upon many occasions.

"Take, for instance, the mayor's spineless attitude in the Hassman park controversy. The park commission granted the Negroes the privilege to dedicate the Hassman park on the 19th day of June. Immediately following this Governor Murray issued one of his famous executive orders stating that the Negroes could not meet in the park on that date.

"Instead of addressing a communication to Governor Murray and informing him that he, Mayor Blinn, was the chief executive of Oklahoma City, and would call the governor if, and when he needed him, and that furthermore that governmental function would not be arbitrarily snatched from his grasp, Mayor Blinn meekly submitted to Governor Murray's doctrine of might, informing the Negroes they could not go in their own park.

"Yes, the man who now frantically asks for the Negro vote became afraid to allow us to go out and hold a peaceful ceremony at which time the Negroes expected to give the park a name. This was their sole and only purpose. The name is still in pot, and the Negroes of Oklahoma City barred from their park by grace of this untenable position assumed by his honor, the mayor. In this position the mayor was also joined by members of the city council now up for recall. Remember this also.

"The question of whether the mayor of Oklahoma City or the governor of the state is the real head of this municipal government is by no means a Negro question. We believe that in this abandonment of authority regarding Hassman park, Mayor Blinn has assumed a position which perils the sovereignty of the political unit which he heads. Looking at his action from this angle, every voter should be disturbed and characterize Mayor Blinn's conduct as incompetent."

We want now to quote from our news columns of October 21, 1933. While the Progressive Voter's League was attempting to get Mayor Blinn out of office because Blinn did not want us to have Hassman park, and for the further reason that he had voted for the segregation ordinance now in force, other Negroes were busy protecting the position of Mayor Blinn and their segregation policies.

Here is a very illuminating story regarding what the Progressive Voter's League was trying to do, wether it accomplished it or not, and keep in mind that the Mr. Jackson referred to in the news story was and is a member of the Progressive Voter's' League. It follows:

"Blinn Leaders

"J. J. Dawson and Mrs. Christine Williams led the Blinn forces. Dawson held a rally Monday night at Slaughter's hall which was attended by Councilmen Jacoby and Taylor. Dawson refused to allow Councilman Taylor to answer Ed Jackson, irate citizen, who asked Taylor during the course of his speech why he wanted Negroes to vote for him two weeks following his vote for a segregation ordinance. Taylor said he would not answer the question unless the chairman permitted him. He said he was guest of the meeting and could only act as directed by the chairman.

"Too Busy For Questioning

"Dawson told the audience that they were too busy for such questions and interruptions as Jackson interposed. Frank Reed also attempted to get the floor and ask some questions regarding segregation. Dawson informed him that he would not allow him to ask the speakers any questions.

"Councilman Jacoby fared slightly worse than Taylor for he attempted to answer when asked by Jackson what he thought of his vote two weeks ago which segregated Negroes.

"Here's Alibi

" 'I'm sorry you interrupted me,' said Jacoby after a momentary recoil from the sharp shafts of the crafty Jackson. 'I was making a good speech when you started that argument, but I'll say this, you know and I know that segregation has got to go to the Supreme Court for settlement.'

"Dawson informed Jacoby that he would not allow him to be razzed any more. 'I'm sorry and it won't happen again tonight.' "

In the light of all of the record recorded above, what do you, dear reader, assume the Progressive Voter's League should have done last fall? Blinn had a written record for segregation. His record showed he opposed the purchase and use of Hassman park for Negroes. On the other hand Mayor Tom McGee made liberal promises to Negroes. No member of the League mentioned Hassman park to him because all knew that the city by ordinance had designated it as a city park. Hassman park had ceased to be an issue. We cannot say that Mayor McGee violated a specific promise along this line, although we know that he as candidate, knew Negroes were making an issue of Blinn's record on this subject.

The Negro vote last October was more of a negative than a positive gesture. The Progressive Voter's League asked and secured the support of the Negro vote for Mayor Tom McGee. How otherwise were we to protest the anti-Negro position of Mayor Blinn?

DePriest Says Vote Democratic In Oklahoma

Says Marland Voted Against Costigan-Wagner Bill

"The name of the Republican party in Oklahoma is not worth the paper it is written on, and if I were in Oklahoma I'd join the Democratic party and help run this state," declared Congressman Oscar DePriest Sunday in an extended address before the closing session of the N. A. A. C. P.

The speech was broadcast over WKY, and more than 3,000 white and black citizens heard the fiery Chicago statesman. Mrs. Daisy Lampkin, regional field director of the Association, presided at the mass meeting held in the First Presbyterian church (white) 9th and Robinson.

"A voteless people is a defenseless people," declared DePriest, "and we must learn to vote for men and measures regardless of party label."

DePriest insisted that every Negro register and vote in elections, and he also stressed the fact that the N. A. A. C. P. was the greatest organization Negroes had which to fight for race rights.

Without comment, but reading from the record, DePriest said that E. W. Marland was absent from the House of Representatives when the vote was taken on the right of Negroes to eat in the house restaurant, and he also stated that Marland voted against the Costigan-Wagner Anti-Lynching Bill.

PROGRESSIVE VOTER'S LEAGUE REMINDS MAYOR McGEE OF 123 BLACK VOTES THAT ELECTED HIM

1,200 NEGROES WENT TO POLLS FOR MAN WHO PROMISED "A SQUARE DEAL"

Council Designated Hassman Lot as Negro Park, Cites Letter

Aroused because of the reported position of Mayor Tom McGee, regarding Hassman park, members of the central committee of the Progressive Voter's League forwarded to the mayor Wednesday a communication. In the letter the League members call attention to the fact that McGee, while a candidate for mayor, made favorable promises regarding "a square deal."

The letter goes on to point out that Negroes elected the mayor. In specific items as to ward it shows that in five Negro precincts the Negro vote showed a majority for him of 130, over all votes cast, and that fully 1,200 Negroes voted for him in Oklahoma City. McGee was elected by a majority of 123.

Attention is also called to the fact that the City Council on September 23, 1933, designated Hassman park as a Negro park. In paragraph seven of the segregation ordinance a rider is attached naming Hassman park as a city park.

Decision to write the leter to Mayor McGee was reached in a conference held at the McKay Funeral Home last Monday. Anther letter was also directed to J. T. Lucado, head of the Managerial League, supporting the candidacy of McGee last October.

The full text of the Progressive Voter's League leter follows:

"During the month of October, 1933, as members of the Central Committee of the Progressive Voter's League, a delegation from our organization held a conference with you and associates, running on a recall platform. Based upon the promises made by you at that time the Progressive Voter's League supported your candidacy for mayor of Oklahoma City.

"During the conference held, as before mentioned, you unreservedly promised the Progressive Voter's League that you would, as mayor, give the Negroes of this municipality a square deal. Our entire committee was led to assume, by reason of your liberal utterances that under your leadership all units of this fine citizenship would move forward.

"The records show, Your Honor, that following this conference, the Negro vote in Oklahoma City rolled up the small majority electing you the mayor. To be specific the records show that in Precincts 2, 6, 7, 8, of Ward 2, and in Precinct 2 of Ward 3, (all exclusively populated by Negroes) you received a majority of 130 votes. You were elected over former Mayor Clarence J. Blinn, by a majority of 123. These figures are taken from records in the county election board office.

"It is variously estimated from 1,000 to 1,200 Negroes voted to retire former Mayor Clarence J Blinn, and they openly stated in their meeting places during that campaign, and it was the full knowledge of the Managerial League committee that Negroes so voted because of the former mayor's record in the matter of segregation and with regard to Hassman Park.

"Last week, Your Honor, you were quoted in the daily press as having told a Negro delegation that Negroes would never get Hassman park so long as you are mayor. It is this reported attitude of yours which forms the basis of this communication.

"At the present time, Your Honor, Hassman park belongs to the Negroes of Oklahoma City by reason of an emergency city ordinance passed by the city council (not by Negroes) September 23, 1933.

"Your attention is hereby called to section seven of this ordinance, commonly designated as a "segregation ordinance." It reads as follows:

" 'That all parks now designated for the exclusive use of Negroes shall be used exclusively by Negroes for recreation and celebration purpose, and it shall be unlawful for any white person to use said parks for such purposes, to include especially Booker T. Washington, Hassman and Riverside parks.'

"Negroes of the city vigorously fought the passage of this ordinance, not because they did not want Hassman park, but rather because it was attached as a rider to an unlawful and unconstitutional segregation ordinance. In the light of this record we are at a loss to understand some of your reported statements regarding 'selfish Negroes,' etc.

"For your information we feel that you should know that under a gentleman's agreement with former Mayor Blinn and the then city council several years ago, it was decided that out of the funds derived from an oil lease on Booker Washington playground, Hassman park would be purchased. Councilman Taylor, one of your present conferees, made this statement in open council meeting at the time he and a majority of the council voted to buy this park. We do not believe you would or could have made the reported statements, had this information been before you. We are asking you to vacate your position as soon as you have digested the information contained in this letter.

"It is a misstatement of fact, on the part of those who have reported to you on this matter, that Hassman park is in a wholly white residential section. The property adjoining this park on the south has been owned for a quarter of a century by a Negro. The property on the east, owned by Mr. John Noble, has been rented for many years to Negroes. Just west of the property, for many years, a Negro park has been conducted. There are but three isolated homes occupied by whites on the northern edge of Hassman park.

"Your Honor, last October the members of the Progressive Voter's League went out and in good faith asked the Negroes to vote for you. We accepted your statement made to us that you were an apostle of the "Square Deal." We had secured Hassman park by city ordinance before you went into office and under a gentleman's agreement which we do not see in conscience you may ruthlessly violate. Will you be kind enough to give us your reactions following the perusal of this communication?"

"Respectfully yours,

"Roscoe Dunjee, president; Dr. W. L. Vaughn, vice president; S. R. Youngblood, Jr., secretary; G. L. Scales, treasurer; A. L. McKay, Rev. J. H. Ellis, William Fant, Mrs. M. J. Brockway, Atty. H. McKinley Rowan, A. E. Jackson, Thomas Edwards, Mrs. J. B. Holmes, Dr. Maurice B. Moore, C. E. Scales, Rev. W. P. Pipkins, Rev. E. W. Perry, Mrs. A. E. Harris, Rev. J. W. Johnson."

Are You Registered

A ten day registration period started Wednesday, during which time new and old voters may qualify to vote. If you comtemplate voting in the June primaries it is important that you be sure your old registration certificate has not become void.

Failure to vote in three successive elections would void your old certificate. If you have moved out of the precinct where you lived when the certificate was issued, or if your precinct boundary lines have been changed, your certificate is invalid.

The safe think to do is to locate your precinct registrar during the registration period now on and have the precinct official inform you whether your certificate is still in force and effect.

The Service Of Voting Schools

Oklahoma City witnessed more activity and voting in the Negro precincts of the city last Tuesday than has occurred since statehood. Long lines of citizens were noted at all of the polling places in the 2nd Ward, and they were men and women who came to the voting places and patiently stood for hours in line until they had cast their ballot. At all of them the polls closed with voters still in line, unable to vote.

The Black Dispatch wants to point out that the added interest exhibited in ballot rights is the direct result of the voting schools conducted by the Progressive Voters League last spring and summer. During the course of these schools hundreds of Negro men and women who had never cast a ballot, were carefully instructed in the art and mechanics of voting, and Tuesday the harvest was reaped from the effort.

Care was taken in all of these classes, conducted by the Progressive Voters League, not to inject partisan politics, and although many attributed ulterior motives to the group, the central idea of those who labored hard with the movement was to stimulate a larger interest on the part of Negroes in voting. For many years there has been an unseemly inertia on the part of Negroes in every section of the city. This is not a healthy sign of achieved citizenship.

During the period when disfranchisement was rampant in Oklahoma many Negroes lost interest in voting and, in fact, a large group of young people grew to manhood without any knowledge of the actual manner in which a ballot is cast. This was embarrassing to many of them, and as a result they went on from year to year dismissing the thought of voting.

The experiment of the Progressive Voter's League has proven a valuable one. It is a program that should be adopted everywhere in the state. There is no reason why the voting strength of the Negro in Oklahoma should not be 80,000 instead of 44,000. Teaching the youth of the race the art and mechanics of voting is going to lend power and effectiveness to our citizenship. Voting schools point the way out.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, PA.
TELEGRAPH

NOV 3 1934

VOTERS NORTH AND SOUTH

THIS evening the great battle of 1934 comes to an end with Governor Pinchot leading the forces in Harrisburg and Senator Reed and others closing the contest in York county. It is interesting that in these latter days greater conviction of Republican success signalizes these closing rallies.

Neighboring York county, where Secretary of Highways Lewis directs the forces, is said to have seen the light during the last ten days which means a Republican result that would not have been conceded a month ago.

As Negro voters look into the story of the persistent attitude of the Democratic party toward their race the effort to stampede them into the Farley camp is proving a real failure. Too many Negro voters are sufficiently intelligent not to recall what has happened to their people in the South and elsewhere where the Democratic party has actually refused them even the franchise or any consideration whatsoever.

If the Farleys and others want to show their interest in the Negro race, they have every opportunity of doing so in the South which that party controls. Tragedies of many kinds have characterized their control of the section south of the Mason and Dixon line and if anybody has raised the race question it is the party which is now endeavoring strenuously to fool the registered Negro voters into line for Democratic ascendancy. It remains to be seen, however, what value the Democratic arguments have where the Negro voter is watching his step.

BRISTOL, PA.
COURIER

OCT 24 1934

COLORED VOTERS IN ROUSING MEETING APPLAUD SPEAKERS

Issues Discussed at Big Rally Held In Trades Hall

DELEGATIONS PRESENT

Groups Come From Yardley, Newtown And Langhorne

"Talk is cheap. It is easy for the Democrats to talk about what they will do for the Negroes, but the facts show that under the Republican administration we had an assistant federal district attorney, E. Washington Rhodes, for nearly eight years * * *" stated Robert J. Nelson, member of the State Athletic Commission and State Chairman of the Colored Division of the Republican State Campaign Committee. Mr. Nelson addressed a rally of Republican colored voters in Trades Hall, here, last night. The rally was sponsored by the recently organized Bristol Colored Republican Club.

The seating capacity of the hall was taxed to the utmost. Delegations came from Yardley, Newtown and Langhorne.

In addition to Mr. Nelson the campaign issues were discussed by James E. Groome, Yardley, president of the Bucks County Firemen's Association; and Herbert E. Millen, colored attorney of Philadelphia.

Philip Jones, president of the Bristol group, called the meeting to order and presented Louis Willhite, as the chairman of the evening. Mr. Willhite in brief remarks welcomed the guests and introduced the speakers.

Mr. Nelson gave a most interesting discussion of the issues as they affect the colored people. He was frequently applauded.

Mr. Nelson said:

Talk is cheap. It is easy for the Democrats to talk about what they will do for the Negroes, but the facts show that under the Republican administration we had an Assistant Federal District Attorney, E. Washington Rhodes, for nearly eight years. This position carried with it power, prestige and a good salary. The Democrats displaced him and until this day they have refused to appoint a colored lawyer to that position. Myles Kelly was a Deputy United States Marshal when the Republicans were in power. Mr. Kelly, a colored man was removed and no colored man was put in his place.

The Democrats are saying more colored men should be given jobs, but two major positions held by Negroes under a Republican administration have been taken away from us by those who say we should have more jobs. It is one thing to advocate but another to perform. Why don't they give us more jobs!

If the colored voters desire proof of the insincerity of the Democrats let them remember the brutal lynching of George Armwood at Princess Anne, Maryland. This lynching occurred three days before the President was scheduled to speak at Chestertown, Maryland, only thirty miles from the place this dastardly crime was committed. The President refused to speak out against lynching when he had the greatest opportunity a man ever had to help curb the tremendous increase in mob violence immediately after the Democratic administration took over the reins of government at Washington.

In this connection may I call your attention to the Wagner-Costigan Anti-Lynching Bill which had the support of more people than any similar bill ever presented to Congress. This bill was presented at a time when President Roosevelt had absolute control of Congress. Every single piece of legislation advocated by the President was passed by both branches of Congress. The National Bar Association, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the National Urban League and many other organizations both white and colored, including many southern white women urged the passage of the above mentioned bill due to the increasingly large number of lynchings since the beginning of the Roosevelt administration. Did the President speak out against this dark blot on the fair name of the country? He did not. He remained mute while the greatest bill for human rights and respect for constitutional law and order was killed in committee by southern Democrats.

It is the opinion of those who think and understand that the reason the President did not advocate the passage of the Anti-Lynching Bill is that it was objectionable to the southern states which control the Democratic party and if he had advocated it he would have lost the votes of Texas, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, and some others of the Negro-hating states of the south. This failure to advocate humane legislation simply because it was contrary to a group of law breakers in the south shows that the President lacks courage or does not consider the colored people of this country worthy of his protection equal to that of the other people of the country.

Pennsylvania has ever had a friendly feeling for the colored people. In its laws there is nothing that savors of segregation or the lack of equal opportunity. Being an industrial state thousands of us fill positions in the industrial pursuits. If these industries are unable to make money and if they are taxed out of business colored men and women would lose thousands of jobs. It is, therefore necessary for us who live in Pennsylvania to think about Pennsylvania business. One of the chief reasons for the depression is lack of success in business. The Federal, State and City governments canot employ every one.

Aside from a racial angle, it is necessary for the Negro to think in terms of candidates who will protect the business interests of Pennsylvania because no first class citizen wants to live on charity. Every man and woman who is respectable prefers to have a job.

The Republican party in Pennsylvania has presented to the people of this State candidates for office of exceptionable ability and character. Headed by William A. Schnader this ticket appeals to the thoughtful citizenry of Pennsylvania regardless of party alignment. This is evidenced by the large number of real Democrats who are leaving their party and coming over to our party. Our candidate for Governor is the best qualified man in Pennsylvania now in the field for that high office. No other candidate who has ever aspired to this high office in the State has come to it with his intimate experience. All of the progressive laws on our statute books in the past ten years have emanated from him. All Pennsylvanians can poke out their chests with pride when they go to the polls on November the 6th, and cast their vote for William A. Schnader.

Senator Reed is admittedly the ablest man in the United States Senate and all Pennsylvanians should feel it their duty to keep him there for the next six years. Harvey Taylor for Secretary of Internal Affairs is another high type man and so is Harry B. Scott, candidate for Lieutenant Governor. Judge Trexler for the Superior Court will be supported by all the people who believe in retaining in the judiciary an able and incorruptable judge.

Keep Pennsylvania in line for the Republican ticket thus assuring that feeling of confidence not only here but throughout those places in the Union where Pennsylvania is considered the bulwark of industrial supremacy.

Herbert E. Millen, prominent colored attorney of Philadelphia, reviewed the record of William A. Schnader Republican candidate for governor and he charged that "George Earle is trying to ride into the governorship upon the Democratic donkey."

"He (Earle) never helped you or me or the things in which we are interested," said the speaker. "He is an adept polo player. He served seven months as minister to Austria and in addition to having one month's leave of absence. He made four ocean voyages."

Mr. Millen told of the work done by Senator Reed not only in the interest of the white man but the colored people as well.

"Pork chops are going up and so are all other commodities," he said, as he discussed the effects of the New Deal on the cost of living.

Pennsylvania

Political - 1934

Suffrage.

Five Race Candidates Win in Pennsylvania Primary

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 18.—Five Race candidates were nominated in the primary Tuesday on the two tickets for the state legislature. Rev. Marshall Shepherd and John Summers Smith were sponsored by the Democratic party, while Sa Hart, incumbent, and Walker Jackson, who defeated Harris, backed by John C. Asbury, was nominated on publican ticket.

Out in North Philadelphia, for the first time in history, Race leaders succeeded in putting over Hobson Reynolds on the Republican slute. He was backed by Sheriff Wagoln. Rev. Mr. Shepherd will oppose a white nominee on the Republican ticket in November. Senator David A. Reed was nominated for the third term for the United States senate, beating Governor Gifford Pinchot by nearly 200,000 votes. With Senator Reed on the Republcan ticket will be William A. Schnader for governor.

They will be opposed on the Democratic side by George H. Earle and Joseph F. Guffrey for the governorship and senate, respectively. The fall election will give the first test of the ability of the Democrats to hold the lines in the test of the NRA. It is believed and freely said among the Republicans here that the state of Pennsylvania will lead the way back to the Republican fold in the November election.

One thing is certain, the 200,000 Race voters of Pennsylvania will doubtless be the determining factor in the fall election.

STATE NEGROES LINE UP BEHIND DEM. CANDIDATES

Courier 9-22-34

Pittsburgh Pa.

Race People From Every Section of State Air Grievances Against Party In Power—Disclose Nothing Has Been Done to Instill Confidence.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20—Unkept promises on the part of the Republican party and a determination to gain their rightful patronage from the political party in power in this State promises to cost the Republican party in Chester and Delaware couunties many votes and place said votes into the column of the Democratic party, November 6.

Negro leaders in Delaware County have predicted a wholesale departure from the G. O. P. ranks. Mrs. Mamie Dickerson, a Republican Negro leader in Morton, Delaware County, for years, declared that Republicans have failed to reward the Negroes for their loyalty with anything except janitor jobs and promises.

She assailed the Republican Board of Education in Morton borough, where 450 of the 700 votes are Negroes, because a vacancy on the school board created by the recent resignaton of Charles Manley, a Negro, was filled with a white man. Although the majority of school children are Negroes in the borough, there are now four whites and one Negro on the board. Mrs. Dickerson went further and accused Bert Mayo, the present Negro member on the board of being a "handkerchief head" and a tool of the Republican organization. She declared that Mayo was greatly responsible for no Negro being chosen to replace Manley.

"We have had but two Negro Democrats in this borough, but we are preparing to give the Republican party here a shock by throwing our entire strength to the Democrats. Earle and Guffey stand for principles which we are sure will serve the interests of the Negro best," she declared.

In Media, Samuel Pinkerton, postmaster, accused the Republican assessors of registering Negro Democrats as Republicans and of registering dead Negroes as Republicans. He also asserted that Negroes who have moved are being registered by Republican assessors.

Pinkerton said he is going to have a house to house canvas made to check illegal registrations.

Arthur Rich, who is well known for his acting as Emperor Jones, in the play of the same name at the Hedgerow Theater, and who is a Democrat, declared that while all Media Negroes were Republicans two years ago, many of them have drifted into the Democratic ranks, and he promises the votes of more than 50 per cent of them for the Democratic ranks in November.

In Chester County the political situation has been intensified by the refusal of the Republican joint school board of Easttown and Tredyffrin townships to restore the mixed school system of 1932 after promising the same through Attorney General Wm. A. Schnader, last spring.

Italians and Negroes, both groups being segregated at present, are placing the blame for the present condition on Schnader, who is Republican candidate for Governor, and at a meeting held in Coatesville, last week, where leaders of the Negro and Italian groups gathered, they decided to campaign against Schnader and ask every Negro and Italian in Chester County to vote for Earle and Guffey.

This Easttown and Tredyffrin townships school question is going to prove a thorn in the side of the Republican party not only in Chester County, but throughout the State for plans are being made by leaders of the two groups to tour the State and advise Negroes and Italians to desert the Republican party and Schnader and vote the Democratic ticket.

In the meantime work on the part of ward leaders among Negroes in Philadelphia is swelling the number of Negro Democrats and not less than 60,000 are expected to register during the three registration days. A large turnout of Negroes visited the polls last Tuesday, the second registration day in Philadelphia. The last day is October 8th.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.
BULLETIN
SEP 22 1934

Men and Things

Two Days' Registration, Within 123,000 of the 1932 Figures, Shows a Tentative Party Lineup for Lively Speculation in Comparison With Hoover-Roosevelt Poll

REGISTRATION, in two days, has placed 523,739 names on the voting lists of the city, recorded as 336,904 Republicans and 186,835 Democrats.

The total registration in 1933 was 609,806, of whom 427,950 were enrolled as Republicans and 178,870 as Democrats.

Going back to 1932, in the Presidential election, there were 646,425 names on the voting lists, 553,434 as Republicans and 85,240 as Democrats.

But in the actual balloting of that year, the vote of Philadelphia was 331,092 for Mr. Hoover and 260,276 for Mr. Roosevelt, and these latter figures are, perhaps, the best to accept as the basis for comparison.

Registration and enrollment is not an absolutely reliable yardstick for the anticipation of the vote. Generally there can be at least a 5 per cent. allowance for non-voting by the registrants. The drop from the registration figures to the election count, was something over that in 1932, running nearly to 7 per cent. In the ordinary midway, Congressional, election, it usually is heavier. But in the present year, where the issues so closely approximate those of a Presidential election, and where the lines are as well organized and enthused as at present, the conditions of the Presidential campaign may be applied reasonably. Moreover those who vote do not regard their registration enrollment as binding. This has been a notorious condition in Philadelphia politics for many years. Some Democrats had been voting as Republicans in local primaries and elections so long and so consistently, except in Presidential elections, that they seemed to have forgotten they were Democrats, or at least, ignored any responsibility for confessing the fact. But this year the party leaders, on either side, are assuming that registration and enrollment, at least in their respective parties is "honest Injun" and implies a present purpose to vote according to enrollment. The Democratic leaders declare that there are a lot of people enrolled as Republicans who will vote for the New Deal candidates, because of their faith in President Roosevelt. But the Republicans cannot conjure up any hope that any considerable number of the voters who have enrolled as Democrats are likely to vote against the Administration and its ticket. They profess to believe that on their side the enrollment is almost as reliable. But that is a matter of speculation. Nobody knows.

Variants To Be Given Allowances

In 1932 the Hoover vote fell 66,000 short of the Republican enrollment and the Roosevelt vote went 175,000 above the Democratic registration, but the genesis of the Roosevelt Democracy had hardly begun in the registration period that year, although Smith Democracy had its show four years earlier, and it is not expected that there will be a similar ratio of discrepancy between the enrollment and the vote this time.

There is hope and more or less reasonable expectation that total registration figures this year will go beyond those of 1933, or even of the Presidential year. With the extraordinary registration of the first two days, there are only about 123,000 names needed to match the 1932 figures and it is entirely within the range of possibility that they will be secured and first day's registration. It is assumed, whatever may happen on the third registration day, of the ward and division organizations on either side in the first two October 6, two weeks from today, tions on either side in the first two October 6, two weeks from today, registration days has been more determined than usual and that the trend can be judged, reasonably well, from the registration to date.

Comparison of the respective party enrollments throughout the city and in the several wards, with the Coincidence of the Jewish anniversary and in the second week's Roosevelt vote of 1932, is interesting and calculated to provoke may have been anticipated in the

Pennsylvania

Political - 1934

Suffrage.

Five Race Candidates Win in Pennsylvania Primary

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 18.—Five Race candidates were nominated in the primary Tuesday on the two tickets for the state legislature. Rev. Marshall Shepherd and John Summers Smith were sponsored by the Democratic party, while Sa' Hart, incumbent, and Walker Jackson, who defeated Harris, backed by John C. Asbury, was nominated on publican ticket.

Out in North Philadelphia, for the first time in history, Race leaders succeeded in putting over Hobson Reynolds on the Republican slute. He was backed by Sheriff Wa[illegible]n. Rev. Mr. Shepherd will oppose a white nominee on the Republican ticket in November. Senator David A. Reed was nominated for the [illegible] term for the United States senate, beating Governor Gifford Pinchot by nearly 200,000 votes. With Senator Reed on the Republican ticket will be William A. Schnader for governor.

They will be opposed on the Democratic side by George H. Earle and Joseph F. Guffrey for the governorship and senate, respectively. The fall election will give the first test of the ability of the Democrats to hold the lines in the test of the NRA. It is believed and freely said among the Republicans here that the state of Pennsylvania will lead the way back to the Republican fold in the November election.

One thing is certain, the 200,000 Race voters of Pennsylvania will doubtless be the determining factor in the fall election.

Courier 9-22-34

STATE NEGROES LINE UP BEHIND DEM. CANDIDATES

Race People From Every Section of State Air Grievances Against Party In Power—Disclose Nothing Has Been Done to Instill Confidence.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20—Unkept promises on the part of the Republican party and a determination to gain their rightful patronage from the political party in power in this State promises to cost the Republican party in Chester and Delaware couunties many votes and place said votes into the column of the Democratic party, November 6.

Negro leaders in Delaware County have predicted a wholesale departure from the G. O. P. ranks. Mrs. Mamie Dickerson, a Republican Negro leader in Morton, Delaware County, for years, declared that Republicans have failed to reward the Negroes for their loyalty with anything except janitor jobs and promises.

She assailed the Republican Board of Education in Morton borough, where 450 of the 700 votes are Negroes, because a vacancy on the school board created by the recent resignaton of Charles Manley, a Negro, was filled with a white man. Although the majority of school children are Negroes in the borough, there are now four whites and one Negro on the board. Mrs. Dickerson went further and accused Bert Mayo, the present Negro member on the board of being a "handkerchief head" and a tool of the Republican organization. She declared that Mayo was greatly responsible for no Negro being chosen to replace Manley.

"We have had but two Negro Democrats in this borough, but we are preparing to give the Republican party here a shock by throwing our entire strength to the Democrats. Earle and Guffey stand for principles which we are sure will serve the interests of the Negro best," she declared.

In Media, Samuel Pinkerton, postmaster, accused the Republican assessors of registering Negro Democrats as Republicans and of registering dead Negroes as Republicans. He also asserted that Negroes who have moved are being registered by Republican assessors.

Pinkerton said he is going to have a house to house canvas made to check illegal registrations.

Arthur Rich, who is well known for his acting as Emperor Jones, in the play of the same name at the Hedgerow Theater, and who is a Democrat, declared that while all Media Negroes were Republicans two years ago, many of them have drifted into the Democratic ranks, and he promises the votes of more than 50 per cent of them for the Democratic ranks in November.

In Chester County the political situation has been intensified by the refusal of the Republican joint school board of Easttown and Tredyffrin townships to restore the mixed school system of 1932 after promising the same through Attorney General Wm. A. Schnader, last spring.

Italians and Negroes, both groups being segregated at present, are placing the blame for the present condition on Schnader, who is Republican candidate for Governor, and at a meeting held in Coatesville, last week, where leaders of the Negro and Italian groups gathered, they decided to campaign against Schnader and ask every Negro and Italian in Chester County to vote for Earle and Guffey.

This Easttown and Tredyffrin townships school question is going to prove a thorn in the side of the Republican party not only in Chester County, but throughout the State for plans are being made by leaders of the two groups to tour the State and advise Negroes and Italians to desert the Republican party and Schnader and vote the Democratic ticket.

In the meantime work on the part of ward leaders among Negroes in Philadelphia is swelling the number of Negro Democrats and not less than 60,000 are expected to register during the three registration days. A large turnout of Negroes visited the polls last Tuesday, the second registration day in Philadelphia. The last day is October 8th.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.
BULLETIN
SEP 22 1934

Men and Things

Two Days' Registration, Within 123,000 of the 1932 Figures, Shows a Tentative Party Lineup for Lively Speculation in Comparison With Hoover-Roosevelt Poll

REGISTRATION, in two days, has placed 523,739 names on the voting lists of the city, recorded as 336,904 Republicans and 186,835 Democrats.

The total registration in 1933 was 609,806, of whom 427,950 were enrolled as Republicans and 178,870 as Democrats.

Going back to 1932, in the Presidential election, there were 646,425 names on the voting lists, 553,434 as Republicans and 85,240 as Democrats.

But in the actual balloting of that year, the vote of Philadelphia was 331,092 for Mr. Hoover and 260,276 for Mr. Roosevelt, and these latter figures are, perhaps, the best to accept as the basis for comparison.

Registration and enrollment is not an absolutely reliable yardstick for the anticipation of the vote. Generally there can be at least a 5 per cent. allowance for non-voting by the registrants. The drop from the registration figures to the election count, was something over that in 1932, running nearly to 7 per cent. In the ordinary midway, Congressional, election, it usually is heavier. But in the present year, where the issues so closely approximate those of a Presidential election, and where the lines are as well organized and enthused as at present, the conditions of the Presidential campaign may be applied reasonably. Moreover those who vote do not regard their registration enrollment as binding. This has been a notorious condition in Philadelphia politics for many years. Some Democrats had been voting as Republicans in local primaries and elections so long and so consistently, except in Presidential elections, that they seemed to have forgotten they were Democrats, or at least, ignored any responsibility for confessing the fact. But this year the party leaders, on either side, are assuming that registration and enrollment, at least in their respective parties is "honest Injun" and implies a present purpose to vote according to enrollment. The Democratic leaders declare that there are a lot of people enrolled as Republicans who will vote for the New Deal candidates, because of their faith in President Roosevelt. But the Republicans cannot conjure up any hope that any considerable number of the voters who have enrolled as Democrats are likely to vote against the Administration and its ticket. They profess to believe that on their side the enrollment is almost as reliable. But that is a matter of speculation. Nobody knows.

Variants To Be Given Allowances

In 1932 the Hoover vote fell 66,000 short of the Republican enrollment and the Roosevelt vote went 175,000 above the Democratic registration, but the genesis of the Roosevelt Democracy had hardly begun in the registration period that year, although Smith Democracy had its show four years earlier, and it is not expected that there will be a similar ratio of discrepancy between the enrollment and the vote this time.

There is hope and more or less reasonable expectation that total registration days has been more decisive registration figures this year will termined than usual and that the trend can be judged, reasonably go beyond those of 1933, or even figures achieved are due to that well, from the registration to date. of the Presidential year. With work quite as much as to any especial interest on the part of the voters, the extraordinary registration of the first two days, there are Coincidence of the Jewish anniversary enrollment. Comparison of the respective parties only about 123,000 names needed sary day handicapped this week's and in the several wards, with the to match the 1932 figures and it is registration to some extent, but that Hoover-Roosevelt vote of 1932, is interesting and calculated to provoke entirely within the range of possibility may have been anticipated in the some speculation.

Wards	Enrollment 1934 Rep.	Dem.	1932 Vote Hoover	Roosevelt
1	6539	3444	5555	3677
2	5820	2032	4479	1989
3	3842	1515	3019	1303
4	3569	1287	3327	718
5	2495	781	2146	834
6	299	92	188	188
7	5502	1805	5527	1809
8	2160	785	2925	861
9	410	138	488	171
10	2273	626	2464	873
11	1408	190	1178	443
12	1911	717	2280	493
13	4037	941	3493	869
14	3155	1117	2616	1137
15	7943	3665	6562	5445
16	1623	1040	1416	1331
17	2031	1179	1670	1645
18	3767	2103	3400	3352
19	6503	5387	6912	6424
20	9486	4690	9331	4017
21	8348	2826	8993	5790
22	19529	9702	25319	11064
23	9165	4148	10181	6734
24	9317	5646	8922	6631
25	7267	4070	5902	7656
26	9003	7013	7281	10310
27	3863	1627	4450	2253
28	8936	5547	6648	8391
29	6611	2783	5753	4346
30	5381	2566	5035	3103
31	3938	2911	4967	4425
32	7814	4139	7456	5576
33	9530	6623	9771	9855
34	13434	8982	13491	13220
35	11359	4872	12007	7742
36	9135	5586	7064	7409
37	4438	2183	3954	3123
38	9587	9233	11265	11068
39	11584	6265	8488	10819
40	16331	10877	16486	15710
41	7032	3805	7718	4749
42	8312	5518	27137	20647
43	9417	5053	9308	9165
44	5806	4218	5151	5812
45	4908	3296	4930	9165
46	16755	8422	15259	13284
47	5521	3323	5020	3568
48	5163	2834	5160	4883
49	8130	5605	Included in 42d
50	7017	3888	ward 2 yrs. ago
Totals..	336904	186835	331092	260276

Seven of the city's wards were carried for Mr. Roosevelt, and there is no ward at present showing a Democratic majority in the enrollment figures. Whether or not the enrollment is to be accepted at face value, the fact is that whereas Mr. Hoover carried but 56 per cent. of the total vote in 1932, Republican enrollment in the first two days this year represents 64 per cent. of the total registration. In the majority of wards the Republican registration the first two days is ahead of the Hoover vote in 1932, which is encouraging to the Republican managers, even if allowance is made for some shifting in the vote, contrary to the enrollment.

There is, however, no belittling the fact that the Democracy, with the New Deal, is showing a fighting organization, with a substantial force and a different temper than has commonly been the experience in Philadelphia. The Democratic management find fairly good-sized chunks of comfort in the situation.

* * * * *

PLANS for a recreation center for the Negro youth of the 47th ward look to the use of the former 23d District Police Station at Twentieth and Jefferson streets. Abandoned by the police a few years ago, the old two-story brick building at that place was one of the properties which the city wanted to dispose of at one time and was leased to the North Philadelphia Welfare League on a nominal rental. It is well located for the purpose for which it is now intended to use it. Turning a former house of detention into a welfare headquarters for the betterment of the youth of the neighborhood, so as to afford them a wholesome place for recreation and entertainment, is a novelty in the use of municipal structures.

Community Center for Negro Youth

The building is in the center of one of the most rapidly growing districts of Negro population in Philadelphia. In the past ten years Philadelphia's Negro population, as a whole, has grown greatly, and it is believed now to equal, if not exceed, the count of 215,599 shown by the 1930 census.

In 1930 the largest number of Negro residents in any ward was credited to the 30th, which then had nearly 20,000 residing within its bounds. The second largest was the 36th, with the 34th, 20th, 32d, 47th and 7th following in the order named. Registration of the Negro voters since then indicates that the 20th ward leads, with the 30th in second place, the 36th next in rank and the 7th, 47th, 32d and 34th following in the order named. Today half the Negro ~~vote, now~~ amounting to nearly 70,000 in the entire city, is cast in these seven wards, nearly a fourth of it being cast in the three up-town wards, the 20th, 47th and 32d. The district west of Broad and between Poplar and Susquehanna avenue is now well ahead of the 20th ward in the combined Negro vote of the 32d and 47th wards with the 47th leading and apparently soon destined to top the list.

* * * *

FLOWERS for the Flowerless is a slogan that has attained permanence and steadily increasing significance in Philadelphia in the ten years or more since the idea of carrying something of the beauty of nature from the great out-doors to the shut-ins of the community was suggested by Mr. S. S. Fleisher. For several years Mrs. George Holt Strawbridge has been the directing head of the committee, which includes men and women of like interest in the welfare of people, the work being carried on under the auspices of the Philadelphia Art Alliance, with the co-operation of other organizations. With her leadership an increasing number have participated in the enterprise, there has been a continuing increase in the contribution of flowers and consequently in the spread of their blessing. During the past season there have been over 3,000 workers actually doing, each, their part in the enterprise, contributing flowers or caring for their proper distribution, and, besides a hundred or so institutions where shadows have been brightened by these flowers, over 1,700 individual shut-ins throughout the city have been cheered by these messages from

Flowers For the Flowerless

Nature.

The work goes on throughout the year, although naturally not in such dimensions in the winter months as in the time of spring and summer blooming, and the measure of its service is not easily to be estimated. Each year there is a meeting at the close of the summer season, stretching in to the fall months, this year to be held at the Graphic Arts Club, October 16, at which work is reviewed and usually some stories told illustrating its significance and its potential of good.

* * * *

NO boy has died at Girard College since the summer of 1932. With 1,730 boys in residence it is a record seldom duplicated. The president of the college, Dr. Cheesman A. Herrick, in announcing the retirement of Dr. Frank L. Greenewalt from the position of college physician which he has held for nearly 30 years, cites the fact as evidence of what he calls "the high level of efficiency" attained by the medical staff of the college. Dr. Greenewalt, whose place is to be taken by Dr. Edward L. Bauer, the professor of pediatrics at Jefferson Medical College, has been in intimate contact with the medical work at the college for most of his professional life and for many years in full charge thereof, serving first as resident physician for five years, then as visiting physician for twelve and one-half years and finally as the college physician for nearly eleven years.

Girard Boys Are a Healthy Lot

Like all institutions where a large number of children and youths are in residence the college has many cases of injuries and disease to handle in the course of a year. There are measles and mumps, bruises and bumps, illnesses of the respiratory tract and alimentary canal, eye, ear, nose and throat troubles, serious illnesses and light ones, major operations and minor ones, such as can be expected in a large and active population of this sort. But taken as a whole the boys are fine physical specimens and their showing on parade and in occasional outings has always drawn attention to their carriage and evidently strong physique. Regular hours, attention to diet, plenty of sleep and plenty of open air exercise and careful guardianship, of course, accounts for it. Except for the year of the influenza epidemic in 1918, one death in about every two years has been the record of the college which in all that time has been filled to capacity. To the maintenance of that record Dr. Greenewalt and his associates on the medical and surgical staff have contributed in no small degree.

ERIE, PA.
DISPATCH HERALD
SEP 29 1934

WILL ORGANIZE NEGRO VOTERS

The Negro Welfare Association of Erie and Crawford counties will be organized at a meeting at the Erie County Court House next Friday at 8 p. m., and all negroes of the 29th Congressional district are asked to be present. Earl Lawrence, temporary chairman, will open the meeting.

Paul and Louis Jones of Pittsburgh, who are touring the entire state in the interest of the candidates on the Democratic ticket, will be the principal speakers and will assist in organizing the Erie-Crawford counties group.

Both Parties in Pa. Fighting to Get Colored Vote

Afro-American 10-27-34

Stiffest Battle Ever Waged Now Going On on All Fronts in State.

Bulletin 10-27-34

PHILLY VOTERS MAY BE BALANCE OF POWER

Nobody Knows What May Happen Election Day.

PHILADELPHIA—Never in the history of Pennsylvania politics has the colored vote loomed with such importance to the Republican and Democratic parties as it has on the eve of this election, leaders conversant with the situation told the AFRO-AMERICAN this week.

Evidence that the colored vote may easily become the balance of power in the Philadelphia area was shown this week when both parties set into motion machinery to make more strenuous effort to capture this vote.

Many Rumors Afloat

A prominent leader told this paper Monday that so anxious about the vote were party chieftains, that a system of body guards and espionage has been instituted to keep some of the pledged leaders from breaking the traces.

Rumors that Magistrate Edward W. Henry was not yet certain that he might not change his mind before voting day went the rounds of political circles this week. The magistrate, however, himself at least temporarily tagged this rumor Sunday, when speaking in Pottsville, he stated that he was unqualifiedly supporting the entire Democratic ticket.

Those who profess to know the situation, however, say that what Magistrate Henry may do even between now and election day cannot be written down in the Bible.

Much Sniping

Party workers from both camps are busy in their efforts to snipe key leaders from both camps.

Among announcements last week were that of Edward (Eddie) Hill, independent Democratic leader of the 34th Ward, had announced his support of William Schnader for governor. Hill told the AFRO-AMERICAN that he would support other Democratic candidates and that he was opposed to the leadership of John B Kelly.

Herbert E. Millen, head of the City-Wide Republican Committee however, announced this week that both Samuel B. Hart, member of the state legislature, and Hill were lined up with the Republicans.

Support Board Member

Another indication of the importance of the colored vote in the state is the attention white candidates are giving to issues in which the independent voters are interested.

Jay Lit, Democratic candidate for the state legislature from the second senatorial district, told the AFRO-AMERICAN that he would not only support an equal rights bill if elected; but that he was in favor of a colored member on the Philadelphia Board of Education.

This candidate also stated that he would work for the appointment of colored men on the state police department.

As the campaign reached the home stretch this week, numerous meetings have been announced from both headquarters.

Other Parties

One of the noticeable things about this campaign is the complete submergence of minor parties. Nowhere do you hear much talk about Socialist and Communist candidates and campaign activities.

Pennsylvanians go in for practical politics and minor parties are given but little attention.

That the last campaign in which colored voters split their vote started a new political era in the state, is conceded by most party leaders.

Political - 1934

Suffrage.

Rhode Island

RECORD NUMBER OF COLORED VOTERS REGISTERED

Chronicle 7-7-34 Boston, Mass.

After one of the most intensive registration campaigns ever staged in this city, the Providence Colored Democratic Club through its chairman, Armando Perry, expressed keen satisfaction with the results received from the drive. With the closing of the books of the Board of Canvassers last Saturday evening, Providence went on record as having the largest number of colored registered voters ever qualified for an election.

Faced with a most crucial election in November at which time the state of Rhode Island will elect a Senator, two representatives to the United States Congress, state and city officers, the citizens of the state have shown a commendable interest in public affairs. The colored citizens have forseen the necessity and importance of their duty to vote and the response has in certain sections been 100 percent over the registration in 1932.

Here in Providence surprising results have been realized in the First, Third, Eighth, Tenth and Thirteenth Wards, especially in the large Negro wards of the 8th, 1st and 3rd, where many public-spirited citizens cast aside narrow partisanship and so generously give their time and energy to make the campaign a success.

The Women's Non Partisan League under the leadership of Mrs. Bertha G. Higgins and her staff of captains combed the various wards of the city and feel greatly satisfied with the turnout among the women voters. The campaigns were non-partisan, the only object being to see that all citizens were qualified to vote in the Fall, there being workers of both parties as well as independent voters, who worked in the registration drive.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

South Carolina

Columbia, S. C. Record
February 7, 1934

More Than 200 Negroes of Columbia Register to Vote

White citizens of Columbia and Richland county are registered almost 100 per cent, it was learned from members of the county registration board today, and within the last few weeks approximately 200 negro citizens have registered.

The large majority of the negroes seeking to register come from Ward 7. They are made up chiefly of doctors, dentists, pharmacists, barbers and preachers. It appears, from the reply to questions by some of them, that they are under impression that registration will allow them to participate in the city Democratic primary. This is in error. Registration is only for qualification to vote in a general election.

Faced with this information most of the negroes declare they are registering in support of the president. This morning one of them pointed out when he applied for registration that he wanted to be prepared to vote for Roosevelt when he runs again.

Registration certificates issued in 1929 or since that time are good for ten years and no further registration is required. Members of the board are faced with the problem of duplicate registration in many instances. They request that those who have registration certificates that are good now refrain from adding to the clerical work of the offices by registering again.

CITY ENROLMENT ALMOST PERFECT

Nearly All Citizens Eligible Have Their Names on Books in Wards—Deductions Show About 14,185 Were Possible

A chief topic of conversation yesterday among persons who keep a finger on the political pulse was the remarkably heavy enrolment of voters for the municipal primary to be held in Columbia April 24. At that time, a mayor and two members of the Columbia city council are to be nominated.

The total enrolment is 13,161.

The population of Columbia proper, according to the last census, was 51,581 persons.

Probably half of the 51,581 are under 21 years of age, leaving 25,790 above 21.

Of the 25,790, approximately 46 per cent. are Negros, leaving 14,185 white persons eligible to register.

Of the 14,185 eligible, 13,161 enrolled, leaving just 1,024 not enrolled.

This enrolment is regarded as about as nearly perfect as can be had. At any rate, it surpasses previous enrolments by a healthy figure and is interpreted as indicating a keen interest in city government.

Greenville, S. C. News
May 26, 1934

NEGROES AND THE PRIMARY

Oscar DePriest, negro Congressman from Illinois, advises South Carolina negroes that the "lily white" Republican party in this state is "not worth a tinker's dam," and that they would promote their own welfare by "lining up with the Democratic party which owns the state."

"The laws keeping you out of the Democratic primaries are not worth the paper they're written on," he asserted.

It is quite true that the Republican party can do little or nothing for the negroes in South Carolina. They must look to the Democratic party for whatever they get from government in this state.

The advice may prove somewhat embarrassing to the South Carolina Democratic party, however, which has existed as a "white man's party" and which is one dares say, not at this time favorably inclined to the admission of the negroes of the state to its membership, thus giving them an effective vote in the selection of legislative and other officers.

Probably the South Carolina negroes will not be in any big hurry to attempt to follow DePriest's advice. But if and when they should decide to endeavor to do so, one wonders what will be the result. There are no "laws," as we understand it in this state barring negroes from the primaries. Such laws in other states have been declared unconstitutional. The party organization, however, has its rules and regulations or customs concerning qualifications for membership and under these few negroes have been permitted to participate. Politics is supposed to know no color lines under the federal Constitution, however, and there is growing question as to whether the existing party system in South Carolina would stand if vigorous court contests were carried through. Negroes vote in Democratic primaries in some other southern states, one understands. With the continued diminution of the percentage of negroes in the state's population, the opposition to negro voting may be somewhat tempered.

GREENVILLE, S. C.
NEWS

MAY 26 1934

NEGROES AND THE PRIMARY

Oscar DePriest, negro Congressman from Illinois, advises South Carolina negroes that the "lily white" Republican party in this state is "not worth a tinker's dam," and that they would promote their own welfare by "lining up with the Democratic party which owns the state."

"The laws keeping you out of the Democratic primaries are not worth the paper they're written on," he asserted.

It is quite true that the Republican party can do little or nothing for the negroes in South Carolina. They must look to the Democratic party for whatever they get from government in this state.

The advice may prove somewhat embarrassing to the South Carolina Democratic party, however, which has existed as a "white man's party" and which is one dares say, not at this time favorably inclined to the admission of the negroes of the state to its membership, thus giving them an effective vote in the selection of legislative and other officers.

Probably the South Carolina negroes will not be in any big hurry to attempt to follow DePriest's advice. But if and when they should decide to endeavor to do so, one wonders what will be the result. There are no "laws," as we understand it in this state barring negroes from the primaries. Such laws in other states have been declared unconstitutional. The party organization, however, has its rules and regulations or customs concerning qualifications for membership and under these few negroes have been permitted to participate. Politics is supposed to know no color lines under the federal Constitution, however, and there is growing question as to whether the existing party system in South Carolina would stand if vigorous court contests were carried through. Negroes vote in Democratic primaries in some other southern states, one understands. With the continued diminution of the percentage of negroes in the state's population, the opposition to negro voting may be somewhat tempered.

CHARLESTON, S. C.
NEWS

JUN 12 1934

CLUB ENROLMENT WILL BEGIN TODAY

All Charleston Democrats Must Sign the Books to Vote This Summer

MANY OFFICES AT ISSUE

Location of City Rolls and Custodians for Six-Week Period Announced

In preparation for this summer's Democratic primaries, the new enrolment books of the Charleston county Democratic clubs will open this morning and will remain open for six weeks. Only persons who are enrolled properly during the period will be eligible to vote in the primaries for county and state offices this summer.

Offices which will come up in the primaries include governor, lieutenant governor and other state offices; representative in congress; circuit solicitor; county senator; seven Charleston county seats in the house of representatives; judge of probate court; county treasurer; county auditor; one master in equity; register of mesne conveyance, and city and rural magistrates.

Enrolment books in the city will be open daily except Sunday from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m., and from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m. The rural books will be taken around to residents by custodians. The enrolment should not be confused with registration for the general election. It is for a primary election and enrolment two years ago does not hold good now. Applicants for enrolment do not have to show poll tax receipts.

Voters' Requirements

They must be of age, or become twenty-one years old before November 6, when the general election is held. They must be citizens of the United States and must have been residents of the state for two years prior to November 6, of the county for six months prior to November 6, and of the ward or precinct for sixty days prior to August 28. School teachers and ministers are exempted from these residence provisions. A naturalized citizen must show his naturalization papers.

The applicant must write his full name on the roll; he cannot sign just initials, although he may spell out one name and use one initial. The age, occupation and address also must be furnished .

Negroes for all practical purposes are barred from enrolment, for they are required to present a certificate signed by ten white persons who say that of their own knowledge, they know that the negro voted for Wade Hampton in 1876.

The city clubs are not to be confused with the precincts of the general election. A voter in a ward may register in either club of that ward, as he choses.

Ward Boundaries

Boundaries of the twelve city wards, custodians of the enrolment books and places of enrolment follow:

Ward 1: South of Broad street, and east of King. Mrs. Coralie C. Grimke, southeast corner of Meeting and Tradd streets.

Ward 2: South of Broad street, and west of King. Mrs. Nancy Kinloch, southeast corner of Broad and Logan streets.

Ward 3: North of Broad street, south of Hasell, and east of King. John J. Farrell, Meeting street entrance of city market.

Ward 4: North of Broad street, south of Wentworth and west of King. Mrs. Annie E. Wulbern, northwest corner of Broad and King streets.

Ward 5: North of Hasell street, south of Calhoun and east of King. Joseph H. Shriver, No. 3 Engine house, northeast corner of Wentworth and Meeting streets.

Ward 6: North of Wentworth street, south of Calhoun and west of King. Frank E. Nolte and Adam W. Anderson, southeast corner of Rutledge avenue and Calhoun streets.

Upper Wards

Ward 7: North of Calhoun street, south of Mary and east of King. Mrs. Sarah Bagger and James J. Hynes, southeast corner of King and John streets.

Ward 8: North of Calhoun street, south of Radcliffe and Bee, and west of King. Sam Berkman, northwest corner of Coming and Warren streets.

Ward 9: North of Mary street, south of the city boundary; western boundary is Nassau as far north as its intersection with Amherst, thence east to Hanover, thence north to city boundary. R. C. Cox, Charleston Home, 63 Columbus street.

Ward 10: North of Mary street, east of King street; eastern boundary, Nassau street, as far north as its intersection with Amherst, then east to Hanover, thence north to city boundary. Lee Smith, northwest corner of Meeting and Columbus streets.

Ward 11: West of King street, east of Rutledge avenue and north of Radcliffe to the city boundary. Mrs. A. J. Moorer and Joseph W. Hunt, 224 Coming street.

Ward 12: West on Rutledge avenue and north of Bee street to the city boundary. Archibald B. Beckman, northeast corner of Spring street and Ashley avenue.

The ward boundaries run down the middle of the boundary street with those living on opposite sides of the streets residing in different wards.

Hartsville, S. C. Messenger
November 22, 1934

REGISTER NOW

The story is told of a negro woman applying to register, and being asked: "What party do you affiliate with?" She hesitated, and when pressed for an answer finally said: "If I has to tell dat, I won't vote, for he ain't got his divorce yet.' There must be a lot of Hartsville folks in this old Negro womans situation. The registration books are open at The Corner Drug Store, but registration is slow.

Political - 1934
Suffrage

South Carolina

NEW YORK AMERICAN

JUN 17 1934

Moonshining Third Major Industry in 'Dry' S. Carolina, Finds Novelist Ripley

New Prosperity Gripping That State as the Farmer Takes on New 'Part Time Job'

By CLEMENTS RIPLEY

Well-known Novelist and Short Story Writer, Who Wrote "Black Moon," "Devil Drums," "A Lady Comes to Town," and Other Noted Works.

"DO YOU suppose——" My wife hesitated, ignoring a well-placed kick on the ankle, "that we could get a photograph of some old disused still?"

The lean man in overalls balanced a six-gallon case of white corn liquor on the running board. He frowned. "No, ma'am!" he said positively. "I don't!"

Never, never ask a moonshiner about his still. He hasn't any still—never saw a still in his life. The whisky he's selling you is a pure Act of God. He happened to kick over a bit of brush and there it was.

"No, ma'am!" the man said. "I sure don't know about any disused still—though—I could let you take a picture of a still in operation."

One gathers that there are no disused stills in South Carolina. What has that got to do with the fact that in the recent vote on the Eighteenth Amendment South Carolina went dry?

In round numbers, the total vote cast in South Carolina in the recent upset was 69,500. Of these 36,500 were dry—33,000 wet, giving the drys a majority of 3,500.

The total potential white vote of the State is approximately 470,000. In other words, only 14½ per cent of the adult white population (the colored vote is negligible) care~~d enough to~~ turn out on Election Day.

The dry is prone to be a crusader. It is safe to say that a large proportion of the dry vote did turn out. The wet vote went hunting or played golf.

Lack of Interest Aided Dry Vote

Various reasons contributed to this lack of interest. One is that the party leaders, as dismal a bunch of political plugs as could be found anywhere, are constitutionally unable to lead anything but a retreat. This is borne out by the fact that in Charleston, where there is an honest, aggressive and courageous leader, the vote was wet twenty-two to one, making Charleston the wettest city in the United States. Another contributing cause may have been the efforts in the State of Postmaster General Farley. South Carolina Democrats are not enthusiastic about being instructed in their duty by a New York politician.

But the chief reason for the apathy of the voters is corn whisky—reasonably good corn whisky, cheap, plentiful.

INVESTIGATOR—Clements Ripley, author of the accompanying article on Southern moonshiners, provides an intimate description of the almost mythical lives of these secretive people.

There are two distinct racial strains in South Carolina. The early seacoast settlements were made by Englishmen, with an occasional leavening of French Huguenot. They built up a mellow, agreeable civilization based largely on the great rice plantings. At one time Charleston was the third city in the colonies, and possibly first in wealth per capita.

These coastal people made no attempt to push inland. They had no reason to, and in addition they were separated by nearly a hundred miles of swampy jungle from the pleasant, rolling lands of the Piedmont.

The Piedmont (or Upcountry) was settled by pioneers who trekked south from Virginia and Pennsylvania after Braddock's defeat near Ft. Duquesne left the frontier open to French and Indian attacks. These emigrants were looking for safety and tobacco lands.

Predominantly ~~these~~ pioneers were Scotch-Irish, the toughest, most unbeatable and unconvincible stock in the world. They were a hard crew—hard-drinking, hard-fighting men of the axe and long rifle. Their religion was a rather dour Presbyterianism. Their characteristics were a God-fearing ability to take care of themselves and the uncanny Scotch flair for picking the losing side in a fight. It was these men who made up the bulk of the armies of the Confederacy, and it is this strain that furnishes the Diehard Prohibitionists.

Gradually the more turbulent were forced back into the mountains. And it was in the mountains that the manufacture of corn whisky was born. The mountaineers made corn whisky, at first for their own consumption. They drank it, somberly and terrifically, and developed probably the hardest heads anywhere.

Then the Federal Government sent Revenue men into the mountains to collect the tax.

These mountaineers were men who had taken to the hills because they didn't fit into the social order. Also they were predominantly Scotch, with a cast iron, old-country tradition of resistance to excise laws. Read Robert Burns if you want to know what the Scotch thought of an exciseman (the British version of a revenuer). Their lives were a continual, primitive struggle for the barest existance. Whisky was the one commodity they could produce at a profit.

The mountain man's problem was one of transportation. He had no railroads, and practically no roads. Corn was his main crop, and by the time he had hauled a load of it over the rutted trails down to market in the lowlands, it would hardly pay for the trip. But convert that corn into whisky at fifty cents a gallon, and enough could be hauled to show a small profit.

Steady Trickle of Mountain Rum

It isn't hard to understand that the revenuer who came to break up his still and haul him off to jail had to come shooting.

And so, in spite of the revenuers, there was a steady trickle of mountain whisky into the Piedmont. Public sentiment was mildly with the mountaineer. Certainly it was not against buying his product, aging it in barrels, and having as fine a whisky as could be bought at about half the price. The julep-drinking colonel of southern fiction is a Piedmont figure. The seacoast cities continued to drink Madeira and sherry, and rather looked down on corn as a backwoods drink.

This held good during Dispensary days, and later, when the corruption of the Dispensary had swept it out of existence (the South Carolina State Dispensary deserves a chronicle of its own) and brought in State prohibition and a quart a month law, Charleston, mildly puzzled to hear that the Upcountry had gone dry, continued to have its open bar-rooms, which paid their Federal tax just as regularly as though they had been legal. A Charleston gentleman permit Upcountrymen to cut his ration to a quart a month? Don't be absurd!

Charleston then, scorned the Upcountry product. But with National Prohibition, how they came to it!

The old fashioned, mountain dew was made with a pure sour mash of corn. But mass production has brought in sugar to speed up fermentation. Sugarhead whisky is rawer in its raw state than sour-mash and takes longer to age. The old-school drinkers maintain that it is in no way comparable to the original product. However, it can be and is aged to make a better whisky than the cut rye and synthetic Scotch of Prohibition days.

The mass production came with Prohibition. What had been a trickle from the mountains became a flood. But it no longer came from the mountains. With amazing rapidity, rural South Carolina learned to make corn liquor. Corn is only one degree harder to make than coffee. Any branch bottom will do. And two men can set up a still in three days.

It became a swamp industry primarily, but in every community in South Carolina it is made and sold. The biggest commercial distilling is done now in the swampy Coastal counties. But even so, Greenville county, Upcountry, stronghold of the Drys, was a short time ago producing three thousand gallons a week, and in the city of Greenville alone, according to estimates of the Federal Prohibition Administrator, there were fifteen hundred people employed in transporting and distributing—quite a proportion for a city claiming 60,000 inhabitants.

Corn is made in every county in South Carolina in the dry Upcountry, in the wet Low-country. In 1921 it cost from eight to fourteen dollars a gallon. This year the price has been stabilized at a dollar a gallon at the still or ten dollars for six gallons laid down in your cellar.

South Carolina drinks it. But South Carolina couldn't begin to contain what is made. The cars and trucks roll North. Chicago, Detroit, New York. Some of it is redistilled into grain alcohol. A good part of the imported Scotch for which you have been paying five dollars a bottle is dollar a gallon corn with a little creosote added to give that smoky, imported taste.

It is no fly-by-night industry—it is definitely here to stay.

Berkeley County is a small sparsely settled section not far from Charleston. It consists largely of Hell-Hole Swamp. A few farmers raise little patches of corn. A number of wealthy men own or lease shooting rights over thousands of acres.

Berkeley County has suddenly developed a half million to a million dollar a year industry. It has begun to build roads, schools public buildings; to buy cars, to put in radios, and take newspapers. Berkeley County is very different now from what it was eight years ago.

Industry Helps Other Interests

The actual moonshiner in the swamp is only one of those who feel the prosperity. There is the retail distributor, with his line of trucks. There is the grocer who sells the sugar and cornmeal, the farmer who raises the corn. A still takes copper, sheet iron, piping; the hardware man comes in for his share. The whisky comes in half-gallon fruit jars (corn bottles is the local name) and at least one glass factory has made a profit in the last few years supplying them. The corn bottles are packed in pasteboard cartons. Cooperage firms have found a demand for five-gallon kegs. Automobile men supply trucks and fast cars. The country banks have found that moonshiner accounts haven't been so bad. There is a record of at least one of them holding a mortgage on a still. And every storekeeper has felt the increased buying power of that half million dollars poured into the community.

Now this is the kind of an industry for farmers. It is just what economists and farm relief people have been preaching for years. It is a farm by-product (probably there are not fifty whole-time distillers in the State). It takes no capital, it has no ground rents. It doesn't even need a building. And it has been developed by the farmer himself. All he needs is to be left alone.

I don't want to give the impression that all South Carolina farmers are moonshiners, or even any appreciable percentage of them. But enough are to make liquor making a major industry in the State, after agriculture and textiles.

New York may go mad over the prospect of legal whisky at three to four dollars a quart, but when, wet or dry, good corn whisky runs from one to two dollars a gallon, aged, you can't expect South Carolina to get excited.

Political - 1934

Tennessee

Suffrage

ALL EAST TENNESSEE COUNTIES TO HAVE REPRESENTATIVES AT SESSION OF VOTERS' LEAGUE

The call issued through the columns of the East Tennessee News, by Attorney W. L. Porter, chairman of the East Tennessee Colored Voters' League at Knoxville for Monday, February 12, at noon, has brought response from leaders in all sections, with assurance ample that they will attend. East Tennessee

Possibly the first word expressing gratification that the meeting will be held came from Walter C. Robinson, well known leader of Chattanooga, in which he pledged his support and gave ample assurance that Hamilton County will be represented by a large delegation. 1-19-34

"Dr. R. W. Allen, Dr. E. F McIntosh, and many others of the members of our local organization will join you in Knoxville on February 12, was the report of Mr. Robinson.

Blount To Send Large Delegation.

S. E. Leiper, chairman of the Blount County Colored Voters' League was the next leader to announce that he would attend the meeting and a large and representative group from Blount county will join him.

"Certainly you know you can depend upon my being there," were the words of S. S. Henry well known leader of Alcoa.

"I am interested in the fine program launched by the League and I fully expect to be present at the meeting on February 12 and will endeavor to bring along several of our citizens," was the report issued by Horace R. Ryans, prominent leader and well known business man of Johnson City.

.....Notify Secretary Of Plan To ....

Notify Secretary Of Plan To Attend Meeting

All who plan to attend the meeting are requested to forward immediate notice to the secretary of the League, Dr. W. S. E. Hardy, 201 1-2 West Vine Avenue, Knoxville, as to the time you will arrive. The local committee is desirous of knowing in advance the number who will be in attendance.

The place of meeting has not been definately decided upon, but as delegates arrived they are requested to register at office of the East Tenn. News, 202 East Vine Avenue, where all information will be furnished.

Many of the League's membership is made up of teachers who may be engaged until up in the day. If such a situation prevails, all of these are urged to leave their homes in time to attend the nammoth mass meeting to be held on Monday night at which time the most important matters of the organization will be discussed.

Knoxville, Tenn., Journal
February 7, 1934

NEGRO VOTERS TO MEET HERE

Will Convene at Market Hall Next Monday.

Delegates from every county in East Tennessee will attend a meeting of the East Tennessee Colored Voters league in Knoxville on Monday, February 12. An afternoon session beginning at 2 o'clock will be held in Jarnigan's hall, No. 401 Nelson street, and at night, beginning at 7:30 a session will be held in Market hall, at which time the visitors will be welcomed by Mayor John T. O'Connor.

The league, of which Webster L. Porter, Negro attorney of Knoxville, is president, was organized five years ago and has for its purpose stimulating interest among the members of the Negro racial group in the proper exercise of their franchise and the encouragement of better citizenship. The organization is non-partisan and no endorsements of candidates for public office will be voted.

"Several important elections will be held in Knox and adjacent counties during the next few months and all candidates, Democrats or Republicans, including incumbents, are invited to attend the meeting at Market hall on Monday night, at which time they will be requested to stand as they are introduced to the audience," Dr. W. S. E. Hardy, secretary of the league said.

Dr. O. B. Taylor, of Knoxville, will deliver the keynote address at the afternoon session and at night the purpose of the organization will be further outlined by Dr. H. M. Green as he introduces Mayor O'Connor.

Knoxville, Tenn., News-Sentinel
February 14, 1934

NEGROES FAVOR NON-PARTISAN VOTE

Praise Roosevelt, Pledge To Support Best Men.

East Tennessee Colored Voters' League was on record today as favoring non-partisanship in voting.

Meeting here Monday, the members passed resolutions praising President Roosevelt, and pledging themselves to cast the negro vote as much as possible for the man, and not for politics.

Webster Porter was re-elected president. W. S. Hardy was re-elected secretary.

Mayor O'Connor spoke to about 500 members of the league at Market Hall last night.

HOW ABOUT YOUR 1933 POLL TAXES?

How about paying those 1933 poll taxes NOW and save money? Poll taxes have been due since October. The first of March of this year the one-half of one per cent penalty will be added. The first of each month thereafter higher penalties will be added. Globe and Independent - 2-6-34

This is going to be one of those hectic election years, in which all thoughtful citizens will want to vote. County officers including members of the legislature are to be elected. A governor, members of congress and two United States Senators are to be elected. Now is the time to begin making preparations to qualify for these elections. Nashville, Tenn.

Citizens, both men and women, under fifty will have to pay their 1933 poll taxes to be qualified to vote. It is an act of nitted or excused the enslavement of human beings, was ever to do so when the cost is just $2.00. Between now and the first of March when the first penalty on these taxes will be assessed each and every man and woman who must pay the tax should go to the office of the County Trustee and perform this act of good citizenship.

"EVENTUALLY, WHY NOT NOW?"

Chattanooga, Tenn. Times
March 2, 1934

WANTS TO VOTE

Negro Objects to Being Barred From Democratic Race.

To The Chattanooga Times:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a word about the Negroes voting in the coming democratic primary of March 15.

I have inquired among several of the "old-time politicians" in Chattanooga and they claim that the only way that the democrats can stop a Negro from voting in the primary is to challenge him and have him make a sworn affidavit that he will support the democratic nominee in the general election. Now here is a question: Why is it that the democratic officeseekers have gone to some of the Negro ward heelers and asked for our support? And according to the returns in previous elections it can be seen where the democrats have carried the wards where Negro republican chairmen have been elected. If our support is good enough for them to ask of us in the general election, why shouldn't we vote in the primary?

I don't think that it is fair for the republicans to make us vote as they want us to, and since our beloved president, Mr. Roosevelt, has shown us the good work that the democratic party has done for us, the time has come that it is not the party we as a race are interested in—it's the man.

W. B. CULLOM.

1225 Cedar street.

Chattanooga, Tenn. Times
February 25, 1934

NEGRO BALLOTS MAY BE BARRED IN PARTY RACES

Democratic Board to Decide Wednesday on Status of 'Roosevelt Republicans.'

DEADLINE 18 DAYS AWAY

Chamlee and Cummings Hold Spotlight as Taylor and Burns Fight for Edge.

The question of Negroes voting in the March 15 primary is puzzling many of the democratic voters and the controversy is expected to be settled at a meeting of the Hamilton county democratic primary board Wednesday.

The inroads which the Roosevelt election made into the ranks of the republican party, and in many instances among the colored population has given rise to the consideration of the Roosevelt republican voters.

The general rule heretofore has been that only known democrats are permitted to participate in the primary. Another stipulation which has been affixed to the regulations is that those who participate in the primary are honor and duty bound to support the nominees, whoever they may be.

At least one member of the democratic primary board is opposed to throwing the doors of the primary open to the Negro voters. Unless the Negro voter is a confirmed democrat and is willing to support all nominees, this member, W. W. Hixson, said he would oppose their entering the primary.

Hixson Wants "Pure Primary."

"The coming primary is a democratic primary and so far as my vote on the board is concerned, all who participate will have to be democrats," the primary board member asserted. "Most Negroes are confessed republicans and should not, as a general rule, be permitted to vote in the primary. If, however, they are democrats, they should be permitted to participate upon the same general principles that all other democrats vote. Those principles are that all voters who participate are honor bound to support the democratic nominee in the August election regardless of whether or not the voter supported that nominee of one of his or her opponents."

There are but eighteen more days before the democratic primary and candidates will be busy the remainder of the time opening the various avenues to votes.

The races for attorney-general, county judge and sheriff still remained out in the forefront as the week of campaigning closed. Will F. Chamlee, candidate for county judge, has been busy campaigning for over a month. He has canvassed almost in every section of the county and those in his campaign headquarters are optimistic. Judge Will Cummings, candidate for re-election, entered the field late and from his headquarters come reports that during the short time he has been campaigning the effects are being felt throughout the county. Chamlee's campaign has been a mixed one of oratory and personal calls. Judge Cummings has spent more time on the personal call strategy than on speaking, although he has not overlooked his speaking invitations.

Camp Also Runs.

Squire Clifford E. Camp, also seeking the nomination for county judge, has been campaigning considerably, but a survey of the field shows quite clearly that the campaign is a race between Cummings and Chamlee.

In the race for attorney-general, the contestants are the incumbent, John J. Lively and Peabody Howard. His record as attorney-general for the past seven and a half years is being used as a basis for the Lively campaign. Howard has developed a few issues in his campaign, one being that if elected attorney-general he will not approve the hiring of special counsel in criminal prosecutions. While he did not specify the case to which he referred, it was readily apprehended by the Lively camp that Howard was discussing the courthouse scandals in which several officials were sent to the penitentiary six or seven years ago. Attorney T. Pope Shepherd, whom the county retained as special attorney in the case, met the Howard outcry with a charge of "petty politics." Howard once served as first assistant attorney-general. He resigned when Atty.-Gen. Lively proposed to demote him to the rank of second assistant and has been discussing the race for attorney-general since.

The sheriff's race has narrowed down to a struggle between ex-Sheriff Charlie Taylor, who is seeking a comeback, and Frank Burns, who resigned his place on the city detective force to make the race. The other contestants in the campaign are Squire Kelso Rice, Frank S. Shipp and Constable Bill Broxton.

Burns is in the race with almost the solid backing of the police and fire department, rated no small factor in a political campaign. Also Tax Assessor Scott Swafford is aiding the Burns campaign. On the other hand former Sheriff Taylor has a strong rural backing, coupled with the support of organized labor. The ranks of organized labor have been strengthened since the Roosevelt recovery program started and the Taylor group is placing much confidence in this support. Taylor is a member of organized labor.

Taylor has been in the field longer than Burns and has spent much time in the rural sections. Last week, however, the former sheriff moved his campaign activities into the city wards and will likely spend the remaining eighteen days campaigning here. Burns, for the most of his time, has been seeing the city voters and puts high hopes in his strength in the city wards.

Chattanooga, Tenn. News
March 1, 1934

Ban on Negro Vote Protested

Colored League Will File Contest.

The barring of Negroes from the Democratic primary by the county primary board will be contested, Walter B. Cullom, president of the Colored Improvement League, stated Thursday. Cullom said that an attorney, whom he declined to name at this time, has been employed to represent his group.

"Along with other members of the league I have been affiliated with the Democratic party and have supported the nominees," the Negro leader asserted. "I made speeches for President Roosevelt in the last election. If we vote the Democratic ticket, I don't see any reason why we should be barred from the primary because of race and color."

Cullom stated that the Improvement League contains about 600 members. The organization is fighting Walter Robinson's Colored Voters League of Greater Chattanooga, he said. He accused Robinson of using his influence to have Negroes prohibited from voting in the Democratic primary.

Chattanooga, Tenn.
TIMES
FEB 25 1934

NEGRO BALLOTS MAY BE BARRED IN PARTY RACES

Democratic Board to Decide Wednesday on Status of 'Roosevelt Republicans.'

DEADLINE 18 DAYS AWAY

Chamlee and Cummings Hold Spotlight as Taylor and Burns Fight for Edge.

The question of Negroes voting in the March 15 primary is puzzling many of the democratic voters and the controversy is expected to be settled at a meeting of the Hamilton county democratic primary board Wednesday.

The inroads which the Roosevelt election made into the ranks of the republican party, and in many instances among the colored population has given rise to the consideration of the Roosevelt republican voters.

The general rule heretofore has been that only known democrats are permitted to participate in the primary. Another stipulation which has been affixed to the regulations is that those who participate in the primary are honor and duty bound to support the nominees, whoever they may be.

At least one member of the democratic primary board is opposed to throwing the doors of the primary open to the Negro voters. Unless the Negro voter is a confirmed democrat and is willing to support all nominees, this member, W. W. Hixson, said he would oppose their entering the primary.

Hixson Wants "Pure Primary."

"The coming primary is a democratic primary and so far as my vote on the board is concerned, all who participate will have to be democrats," the primary board member asserted. "Most Negroes are confessed republicans and should not, as a general rule, be permitted to vote in the primary. If, however, they are democrats, they should be permitted to participate upon the same general principles that all other democrats vote. Those principles are that all voters who participate are honor bound to support the democratic nominee in the August election regardless of whether or not the voter supported that nominee of one of his or her opponents."

There are but eighteen more days before the democratic primary and candidates will be busy the remainder of the time opening the various avenues to votes.

The races for attorney-general, county judge and sheriff still remained out in the forefront as the week of campaigning closed. Will F. Chamlee, candidate for county judge, has been busy campaigning for over a month. He has canvassed almost in every section of the county and those in his campaign headquarters are optimistic. Judge Will Cummings, candidate for re-election, entered the field late and from his headquarters come reports that during the short time he has been campaigning the effects are being felt throughout the county. Chamlee's campaign has been a mixed one of oratory and personal calls. Judge Cummings has spent more time on the personal call strategy than on speaking, although he has not overlooked his speaking invitations.

Camp Also Runs.

Squire Clifford E. Camp, also seeking the nomination for county judge, has been campaigning considerably, but a survey of the field shows quite clearly that the campaign is a race between Cummings and Chamlee.

In the race for attorney-general, the contestants are the incumbent, John J. Lively and Peabody Howard. His record as attorney-general for the past seven and a half years is being used as a basis for the Lively campaign. Howard has developed a few issues in his campaign, one being that if elected attorney-general he will not approve the hiring of special counsel in criminal prosecutions. While he did not specify the case to which he referred, it was readily apprehended by the Lively camp that Howard was discussing the courthouse scandals in which several officials were sent to the penitentiary six or seven years ago. Attorney T. Pope Shepherd, whom the county retained as special attorney in the case, met the Howard outcry with a charge of "petty politics." Howard once served as first assistant attorney-general. He resigned when Atty.-Gen. Lively proposed to demote him to the rank of second assistant and has been discussing the race for attorney-general since.

The sheriff's race has narrowed down to a struggle between ex-Sheriff Charlie Taylor, who is seeking a comeback, and Frank Burns, who resigned his place on the city detective force to make the race. The other contestants in the campaign are Squire Kelso Rice, Frank S. Shipp and Constable Bill Broxton.

Burns is in the race with almost the solid backing of the police and fire department, rated no small factor in a political campaign. Also Tax Assessor Scott Swafford is aiding the Burns campaign. On the other hand former Sheriff Taylor has a strong rural backing, coupled with the support of organized labor. The ranks of organized labor have been strengthened since the Roosevelt recovery program started and the Taylor group is placing much confidence in this support. Taylor is a member of organized labor.

Taylor has been in the field longer than Burns and has spent much time in the rural sections. Last week, however, the former sheriff moved his campaign activities into the city wards and will likely spend the remaining eighteen days campaigning here. Burns, for the most of his time, has been seeing the city voters and puts high hopes in his strength in the city wards.

NASHVILLE, TENN.
BANNER
MAR 2 1934

League Plans To Contest Primary Barring Negroes

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 2—(Special)—The barring of Negroes from the Democratic primary by the county primary board will be contested, Walter B. Cullom, president of the Colored Improvement League, stated Thursday.

Cullom said an attorney had been named to represent the group.

Members of Colored League have been affiliated with the Democratic Party and have supported the nominees, Cullom declared. "If we vote the Democratic ticket I don't see any reason why we should be barred from the primary because of race or color."

NASHVILLE, TENN.
BANNER
MAR 1 1934

Negroes Barred From Democratic Primary

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 1—(Special)—Negroes will not be allowed to vote in the Democratic primary of March 15.

The question of Negroes participating in the primary was decided at an executive session of the Hamilton County Primary Board Wednesday. The barring of Negroes was by unanimous vote of the board, Ira Templeton, chairman stated.

Efforts will be made to prevent all Republicans, regardless of color, from casting ballots in the March primary and precautions will be taken to keep all but the ballots of Democrats from the boxes, Chairman Templeton said.

No pictures, cards or literature of candidates will be allowed in election booths, the board voted.

The question of workers at the pools was not taken up by the board. Several candidates, however, have already expressed their disapproval of the old practice of having supporters at the polls handing out cards.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Tennessee

Chattanooga, Tenn.
NEWS
MAR 6 1934

The News Open Forum

Readers Comment on Various Subjects, Especially of a Political Nature. Some Discuss Religion.

The Negro and the Primary.

Editor The News:

In looking over the Fifteenth Amendment of the United States in regard to equal rights for white and colored citizens Paragraph 1 reads as follows: "The right of the citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States, or by any State, on account of race, color, or previous conditions of servitude." This amendment was proposed to the legislatures of the several States by the Fortieth Congress on the 27th day of February, 1869, and was declared to have been ratified in a proclamation by the Secretary of State dated March 30, 1870. It was not acted on by the State of Tennessee. It was Gen. Jackson (Old Hickory) who helped to give free Negroes the right to vote in Tennessee under the Constitution of 1795. And, as you all know, Gen. Jackson was a good Democrat. The big political bosses and czars in this county ask my race to support the Democratic nominees for President and governor, which we all did.

I would like to know why they are complaining now and who it is that is complaining. If the Democrats do not want our votes now, then they sure won't get them in August. It seems to me as if some of the big bosses are getting scared. They overthrew the big bosses and czars in New York and it is about time to do the same thing in Hamilton County And we Negroes are going to help do this.

W. B. CULLOM.

Chattanooga, March 2.

Historic Documents

Editor The News:

Our people have taken too littl interest in our history. I recently had sent to me by one of my indian friends the Thomas roll of the Eastern Cheorkees, compiled for the Confederate Government by Maj. William H. Thomas at the beginning of the Civil War. Also letters from the Confederate authorities assuming the annual payments to the Cherokees formerly made by the United States. One letter contains the statement that the Cherokees, with their white brethren, have taken up arms against "the Lincoln Government," and that practically every able-bodied Cherokee is in the service of the Confederacy.

My Indian friend, the Rev. Sibbol Smith, was formerly secretary of the council of the Eastern Cherokees, the son of Nimrod J. Smith, who was chief for ten years, and the great grandson of Yona-Gunski, the old chief who said "The Bible seems good book—it is strange the white man is not better, having had it so long." (By the way, it is strange, isn't it?)

The Rev. Smith, like most of us, has felt the pinch of the depression. He feels it necessary to raise a small amount of money by disposing of some of his father's historic documents. I have been unable to interest anyone in Chattanooga in buying them. I don't mention this to try to sell you the documents—would buy them myself if I had the money—but just to illustrate that while our people will spend thousands of dollars to see a wrestling match, they put little value on thingsw orth more.

J. P. BROWN.

Chattanooga, March 3.

Chattanooga, Tenn. News
March 12, 1934

Primary Board Requires Oath Of Allegiance

Voters, if Challenged, Must Swear Membership in Democratic Party.

Negroes Are Barred

Only Bona Fide Democrats Will Be Permitted to Cast Ballot Thursday.

A strong oath of party allegiance will be required of all voters who participate in the Democratic primary next Thursday, if their "Democracy" is questioned.

The voter if challenged must swear that he is a member of the Democratic party, that he supported all Democratic nominees in the last general election and that he will support all Democratic candidates nominated as a result of the primary election in which he desires to vote.

The oath was prepared by the Democratic primary board. "I think this affidavit is strong enough to bar all but Democrats from the primary," Ira Templeton, chairman of the primary board, commented Saturday.

Officials Selected.

The Primary board had previously voted to bar Negroes from the Democratic election upon the theory that all Negroes are presumed to be Republicans.

The selection of election officials has been completed by the Primary board and notices have been mailed to the officers chosen. The board will meet Tuesday and prepare the ballot boxes for distribution. Officers of the election have been asked to call on Wednesday for the boxes at the office of the election commission in the basement of the Courthouse.

No election will be held at Flat Top, in the Third District, and in the Fourth Precinct of the Twelfth Ward because these two precincts are overwhelmingly Republican. Any one living in these precincts who desires to cast a ballot may go to the nearest precinct.

Fifty absentee ballots were sent out before the deadline for filing applications was reached. With a total registration of more than 31,000 a vote of from 18,000 to 20,000 is predicted for next Thursday by the forecasters.

Chattanooga Times
April 16, 1934

CHARGES NEGROES IMPORTED TO VOTE

Thornhill Says Robinson Clan Wielded "Big Stick."

Claims Tate's Men Abused Antileaguers—Sees Democratic Shadow on G.O.P.

Negroes were brought from various county communities and from north Georgia, taken from ward to ward and voted in the republican precinct primaries Friday, W. E. Thornhill, secretary of the Colored Citizens Civic league, charged in a statement yesterday to The Times.

In the convention Saturday, Thornhill continues, two members of the executive committee of the Voters' league, Walter Robinson's organization, were placed on the credentials committee and voted on contests involving their own members. "Are the republicans hopelessly in the clutches of the democrats?" Thornhill asks, commenting on Dock Harper, who, according to Thornhill, must support the democratic county judge who employs him. Thornhill's statement is in part as follows:

"Please allow me space to give some facts concerning the elections of chairmen in the Negro wards. We, as a group of republican voters, opposed the candidates that represented the Voters' league. We formed organizations in each ward and instructed our groups against boss rule. The election is over and in only one instance was one of our group privileged to a seat in the convention. We had known all along that the democrats were going to try to rule the republican convention and in many instances they succeeded.

"We make no apology for our fight and opposition to the principles and policies of the Voters' league and make no excuses for not winning, rather for not being privileged to a convention seat. There was no possible way for our candidates for chairmen, no matter how fairly elected or how unfairly treated, to be seated. When any organization or convention puts members of one opposing group on a credentials committee to try members of the other group that in itself says a fair deal is not to be expected. This happened in the convention Saturday, as two members of the executive committee of the Voters' league were put on the credentials committee to hear and decide cases involving Voters' league members against the opposing chairmen. The political machine picked the chairmen they preferred, giving no concern to the wishes of the voters in the wards. Some more of the boss rule!

"The Voters' league members seemed to know they would get this advantage as Dock Harper said weeks before the election that if he only received three votes he would be seated, and on the eve of the election published a notice to the republican party saying if all the Robinson-Byers-Harper delegates were not seated they would all walk out. Harper is a democratic supporter, he has to be, and down through the next months he will be along with the others supporting the democratic judge. They have done this before and will have to do it now to save their jobs. What is it the republicans hope for in such a deal? Are they helplessly in the clutches of the democrats? One thing we do know is that votes from all citizens, whether they are in a party or not, count and only through this avenue can one count his success in the coming election.

"In seven of the Negro wards deputy sheriffs from the county jail were sent out and took charge of the election favoring the Voters' league candidates and abusing the opposing candidates and their voters. One particular instance is the First precinct of the Seventh ward. There the six deputies allowed voters for the Voters' league candidate to vote three and four times, while the workers for the opposing group were refused admittance and many of their voters were denied a chance to vote for their candidate. School children were allowed to vote in all these wards for the Voters' league candidates, trucks and cars brought people from Ooltewah, Summit, Shepherd and other county precincts, from South Chattanooga, and even from Blowing Springs, Ga., into the wards, and voted these outsiders for the Voters' league candidates. These same trucks and cars carried these outsiders from ward to ward voting them several times for different ones of their candidates.

"Our candidates went to the convention to contest their right to be seated and lost every one of the seven wards through the credentials committee's political machine. In the ward where our candidate had over 300 voters present the Voters' league candidate won by saying there were only thirty present for this candidate.

"They knew they could not win fairly so fear made them resort to unfair tactics. Their actions say plainly they feared their opposition and laid plans to take what they knew they did not have. Opposition of an ant or midget causes the ordinary individual no apprehension, but let a lion or giant come on the scene the average individual becomes fearful and makes plans and preparations to try subdue or kill this kind of opposition. Giants and lions are not easily subdued.

"We are stronger today than we ever have been. When people know they are right and know so surely they did not get a fair deal, that a form of highway robbery was committed by the help of the law, they do not get discouraged, but get even more determined to win. Our forces are indignant and resentful to those who allowed such methods to be perpetrated."

Chattanooga, Tenn.
TIMES

FEB 22 1934

COLORED JUDGE TO TALK TO VOTERS' LEAGUE HERE

Judge E. W. Henry, colored, of Philadelphia, Pa., judge of the First district police court and presiding over the Second magisterial district, will address the Colored Voters' league, of Greater Chattanooga, at a special session at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the People's hotel on Carter street.

Judge Henry, a brother of the late Prof. J. A. Henry, principal of Howard High school, was appointed by Gov. Pinchot to serve out an unexpired term, was elected for a six-year term and recently re-elected.

Walter Robinson, president of the League, will preside at tonight's meeting.

VOTE FOR MEN!

Numerous complaints have been registered by Negro voters during the past few weeks in view of what appears to be a concerted effort on the part of Tennessee Republicans to deny the Negro racial group any representation in carrying on the affairs of the party. Reference is made to the attitude of the state convention at Chattanooga at which time Robert R. Church was thrown from his place on the group of delegates notwithstanding his having been regularly chosen by the county convention of his home. Then, written complaints are coming in from representative Negro leaders of other counties in East Tennessee, similar to that printed in this issue over the name of Horace R. Ryans, of Washington county, in which reference is made to the attitude of certain party leaders of the counties that borders on extreme hostility toward the Negro voter, even in face of an earnest desire of many to support and have a part in the affairs of the Grand Old Party.

The source of the greatest complaint seems to have originated right here in Knox county and centers over the apparent rank discrimination as employed by the leaders of the county executive committee as concerns their attitude toward the colored brother. Shortly after the committee was organized an important advisory committee was named and as the chairman announced plans for naming this committee, his attention was then and there directed to the fact that in view of the large number of Negro Republicans in the county, that racial group should have representation on the committee. Although some of the most important matters governing the affairs of the party in Knox county were adopted as a result of this committee's action, at no time has a single Negro been invited to even have a minor part in considering matters before they were adopted.

On last Saturday the most important county primary board was named and not for a single time was even the name of a Negro mentioned for membership thereon.

Such an indifferent and apparent discriminatory attitude toward the Negro is so thoroughly new and unusual, for Knox county especially, little surprise is occasioned in view of the registered complaints and it causes many to question, even some of the older white friends, as to what has come about that would cause such a change of heart.

There was a time, and that not so many years back, when Negro citizens were invited to take part in the affairs of the Republican party in Knox county. Hardly a convention was held and officers chosen, but that some representative Negro Republican was named as assistant secretary and others were appointed on the several committees and on the primary board.

It is not perfctly clear as to who is responsible for the situation nor why, but it should be plain to the most casual observer that such does not serve to produce party solidarity and harmony. There is no question but that men of the very highest calibre and of excellent qualifications are to be found in both the Democratic and Republican parties. True it is that Negroes are not going to have some inefficient and unfair candidate crammed down his throat simply because he is branded with the stamp of Republicanism. Then, because a few hostile and selfish leaders in charge of the party in our county are inclined to discriminate against us, will not offer sufficient cause for voters of the race turning against those candidates who are known to be advocates of justice toward all men regardless as to race or class.

The suggestion offerd those who have referred to the situation complained of is again offered here. There should be no effort on the part of any persons to force themselves into groups or organizations where it is plain they are not wanted. It is a downright certainty that the privilege of voting will be extended every man and woman, black or white who qualifies. Therefore, lose sight of the party affiliation of candidates for office and vote for the best men. It has been apparent for many months that a non-partisan attitude on the part of the Negro voter would serve to a better advantage as concerns his interests. Especially is this true in connection with the approaching elections, both in county and state. Get a list of the candidates for office out of both Democratic and Republican headquarters. Study the records of every one carefully and when the August election comes around, vote for the candidates who will serve the interests of all citizens, regardless as to race or class, in a fair and impartial manner, whether Democrats or Republicans.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Tennessee

Chattanooga, Tenn.
TIMES

FEB 28 1934

BOARD WILL DECIDE ON NEGROES TODAY

Democrats to Rule on Whether Color Line to Be Drawn.

General Exclusion Expected —Sheriff's Race Torrid as Candidates Hit Stretch.

The question of whether Negroes will be allowed to participate in the March 15 democratic primary is to be settled by the Hamilton county democratic board at a meeting this morning at 10 o'clock.

It was clearly evident yesterday that the primary board will vote to exclude Negroes as a general rule. In the resolution setting up the primary machinery it is provided that all known democrats may participate. There are a few Negroes in Chattanooga who are democrats and have been democrats all their lives. In these instances the Negroes will be allowed to participate, it is believed.

Candidates and democratic leaders have made it plain in discussing the Negro question that they do not favor exclusion just because of race, but on the grounds that the March primary is for democrats and republicans whether white or black, should not be permitted to help choose the party nominees.

Chairman Ira Templeton, of the primary board, said he would put the Negro question to the primary board at its meeting this morning.

In addition to settling the Negro question, the board will take up the question of appointing primary officials.

With but thirteen more days in which to make the campaign, the candidates are making a whirlwind effort to obtain votes. The republicans are watching the progress of the democratic primary campaign and will call their convention as soon after the primary is over as possible.

Already, the campaign cry for Sheriff John K. Tate to conduct a comeback campaign is underway in republican circles. His brother, Dave Tate, said yesterday the sheriff will be a candidate. Reached at his home where he has been ill for the past three weeks, Sheriff Tate, however, said that will be a matter to be decided later. Dave Tate observed that the recent assault upon his brother's official record is one thing that will help to put him back in office.

Several weeks ago Chief Deputy Sheriff W. G. ("Bill") Sears, who has been running the affairs of the county jail for several months, said he would be a candidate for the republican nomination in the event Sheriff Tate does not ask for the nomination.

For several weeks the democratic race for the county judge nomination was holding the center of the stage, but lately the interest has been shifted to the race for sheriff. The issues in this race have become more pronounced and the line-up more or less determined. Frank Burns, former city detective, has the backing of the city fire and police department and the influence and support of Tax Assessor Scott Swafford. Former Sheriff Charlie Taylor, on the other hand, has a strong personal following coupled with the support of organized labor, of which he is a member. It is not very often that these two strong political forces are found in opposing camps so completely and the results on March 15 will be more or less a test of the political efficiency of the two groups. Since the Roosevelt recovery program started the ranks of organized labor have grown and today this is one of the most influential groups in Chattanooga.

Nashville, Tenn. Banner
March 29, 1934

Voting Is Light In Fourteenth Ward

Three Candidates Seeking Councilman Lowery's Place

Voting in the triangular councilmanic race in the Fourteenth Ward was light at noon today, according to reports from Wharf Avenue fire station where the balloting was in progress.

A total of 150 votes had been cast at noon. Observers reported a heavy majority of Negroes among these early voters.

Of the three candidates in the contest, two are white and one is a Negro. They are: D. I. Barfield, a huckster; T. J. King, a druggist; and Dr. H. H. Walker, a Negro physician.

There are 1,195 registered voters in the Fourteenth Ward, of which number 688 are Negroes. All registered are not qualified to vote in the election. The special election was called to fill a vacancy created in the Council through the resignation of George W. (Hoots) Lowery, Jr., last month.

Chattanooga, Tenn. Times
March 31, 1934

Nashville Negro Wins Election, But Ballot Box "Fades" in Night

NASHVILLE, March 30 (AP).—Theft of a ballot box containing enough votes to elect a Negro to the city council appeared today to have been so much wasted effort, for the county election commission chairman reported none of the candidates was qualified and hence no certificate of election would be issued.

W. M. Carr said that neither Dr. Harry H. Walker, commander of the American Legion Negro post here, nor his two white opponents had filed expense reports required of candidates by the statutes. Another special election probably will be held in the Fourteenth ward to choose a successor to George W. Lowery, Jr., who resigned from the council last month.

The count of yesterday's balloting, showing Dr. Walker to have led the field, had just been completed last night when the lights in the fire hall, used as an election precinct, suddenly went out. Amid the tramp of many feet in the darkness the ballot box went out too, and has not been seen since.

"There were hundreds of people in the fire hall and they all started yelling," Branch McConnell, a deputy sheriff, said. "I reached for my flashlight and was going to turn it right on the box when the lights came on again. Somebody hollered, 'the box is gone.'" He did not notice the absence of any spectators who had been near it when the lights went out.

Dr. Walker said he was not familiar with the statute requiring the filing of expense reports and "don't know of anything I can do." However, he planned to confer with his attorney. The Fourteenth ward has a large Negro population.

Officers said today they had not started an investigation of the ballot box disappearance.

NASHVILLE, TENN.
BANNER

MAR 31 1934

No Provision For New Vote in 14th Ward

Officials See Vacancy Until the Next General City Election

It appeared probable today that the Fourteenth Ward, in which the ballot box was stolen after a special election Thursday, will go without representation in the City Concil until the next general city election more than a year hence.

City Attorney J. Washington Moore said this morning there was no provision in the city charter for a second election and that insofar as he knew no additional election could be held.

W. M. Carr, chairman of the Davidson County Election Commission, said: "If a qualified candidate duly elected appears before the commission we will be happy to issue him a certificate, but the three candidates who competed in Thursday's election are clearly unqualified to hold office."

Dr. H. H. Walker, Negro candidate who was declared elected unofficially in an announcement at the polls just after the count had been completed and before the ballot box was snatched, said that he is awaiting the action of the City Council.

Councilman John H. Lechleiter, member of the city's legislative body and attorney, said, "I do not see what the City Council can do about it. The Council has authority to pass on the conduct of a member after he is elected, but the election of a representative of the Fourteenth Ward is a matter for the voters of that ward to settle, it seems to me. The Election Commission, in my opinion, is the body before whom the winner should seek redress."

Meanwhile, Officers of Election W. C. (Polly) Woodfin has until Monday at noon to produce the ballot box that vanished as if by magic while the lights went out Thursday night in the polling place.

Where the ballot box went and who took it, insofar as Officer Woodfin is concerned, remained a mystery today, still he did not admit that he had given up hope of delivering it before the deadline.

Commissioner Carr, on the other hand, asserts, that while he will be glad to receive it, the appearance and delivery of the box will not enable the successful, or any one of the candidates to take office.

The commissioner explained: "The election was legally conducted insofar as I have official cognizance. I have had no report from the officer of the election. However, it seems to me that the failure of any of the candidates to qualify obviates the question of the election."

Dr. Walker, who in the unofficially announced vote received 214 votes, as compared with ninety-seven votes for the one and ninety-two votes for the other of his white opponents, said; "I have a great many friends among the white as well as my own race in the city. I think it is beyond question that I was elected. My friends all know that I play fair. I believe they wish to see me treated fairly. I am waiting to see what the City Council will do about the matter when it meets Tuesday night."

NASHVILLE, TENN
EVE. TENNESSEAN

MAR 30 1934

ANOTHER ELECTION MAY BE NECESSARY IN THE 14TH WARD

Ballot Box Stolen After Negro Wins Is Missing.

CASE IS STUDIED

The theft of the Fourteenth ward ballot box last night after Dr. Harry H. Walker, negro physician, had won the council election by an overwhelming majority, may result in another special election for the councilmanic post.

When the count was completed and Dr. Walker announced as the winner over the two white candidates, the lights in the fire hall were suddenly switched off, and in the confusion the box was whisked away.

Walker's vote was 214 against Dr. Thomas J. King, druggist, with 97, and D. I. Barfield, huckster, with 92, according to the announcement made first by police and later announced by Will Bearden and O. F. Young, two of the election judges. With the announcement of this result the ballot box was sealed and the tally sheets and poll books signed by the officers.

W. M. Carr, chairman of the Da-

NASHVILLE, TENN.
EVE. TENNESSEAN

MAR 31 1934

CANDIDATES FAILED TO FILE EXPENSES, STOLEN VOTE VOID

Negro Elected When Ballot Box Is Snatched.

3

The Fourteenth ward's stolen ballot box scandal was hushed suddenly Friday with W. M. Carr's announcement that "there was no legal election" in the ward in which Dr. H. H. Walker, negro physician, received an overwhelming majority Thursday over two white candidates in the voting for city councilman.

Mr. Carr, as chairman of the Davidson County election commission, threw out the "election" regardless of the stolen ballot box on an opinion by State Attorney-General Roy H. Beeler that the commission could not certify either of the three candidates because of failure to make the reports of campaign expenses as required in municipal elections by the state code.

Negro Leads.

The decision stopped the "hunt" for the stolen ballot box that mysteriously disappeared Thursday night when the lights in the Wharf Avenue fire hall were cut off immediately after the election officials had announced the following vote:

Dr. H. H. Walker, 214.
Dr. Thomas J. King, druggist, 97
D. I. Barfield, huckster, 92.

The election judges later certified the count as correct, but with the ballot box definitely missing the election commission faced the question of determining whether a certificate of election could be legally issued except by the official canvass of the returns as shown on the tally sheet and poll books properly signed by the election officers.

The opinion of the state's attorney-general offered a technical loophole whereby the three candidates are automatically eliminated from qualifying as members of the city counsel on that election and probably forcing another special election.

"I know that I was properly elected," Dr. Walker declared this morning. "I am just hoping that the good citizens of Nashville will step in and take care of this situation," he added. "I hope that the election officials will accept the word of the election officials and the certified copies of the returns as official and end the matter in view of my overwhelming majority," the negro physician said after spending the morning in clinic.

He had not heard of the decision of the election commission and didn't know what steps might be taken in view of such action, he said. Numerous calls from prominent white citizens had come to him during the morning, he said, assuring him of their support in view of the ballot box theft which deprived him of the election.

The call for another special election to select the successor of George W. (Hoots) Lowery, Jr., resigned, is up to the city council. Mr. Carr said Friday morning that his duties involved only the holding of the election and the official canvass of the returns for certification of the winner, which could not be made as the result of the election held Thursday whether the ballot box shows up or not.

Mayor Hilary E. Howse and other city officials were absent from the city hall Friday on Good Friday holiday.

Election officials were still "at sea" Friday as to what actually happened at the fire hall last night. Mr. Carr said that no official report had been made to him either by the election officials or either of the candidates.

Near trouble over the election was averted by Mr. Carr in the early afternoon when the polling place was roped off and spectators kept outside the ropes by police. When the count was completed and Dr. Walker announced as the winner a large crowd was present.

The box was turned over to W. C. (Polly) Woodfin, officer of election, for delivery to the city hall. As Woodfin walked to the wall to secure his coat and hat the lights were suddenly switched off and a rush took place around the ballot box.

Jim Tignor, a judge, was sitting with his feet on the box. He reported that he was shoved aside and the box snatched from under him and rushed out a rear door by a group of men who could not be identified in the darkness.

Will Bearden and O. F. Young, two of the election judges, certified the returns showing Walker the winner. Woodfin certified a copy of the returns to Dr. Walker.

Opinion Cited.

Mr. Carr's statement Friday morning said in effect that: "The situation presented by the election in the Fourteenth ward contains one feature which in and of itself seems determinative. None of the candidates filed any expense report as required by Section 2259 et sequi of the 1932 Code of Tennessee. The code specifically and explicitly requires a candidate for municipal office to file an expense report not more than ten days nor less than five days prior to the election. It also directly and specifically provides that the election commissioners cannot issue a certificate of election unless said report has been made.

"The attorney-general in this opinion also sets out the view that the fact that a candidate may not have spent anything does not excuse or relieve him from filing such said report."

vidson County election board, under whose supervision the election was held, said this morning that he was investigating the legal phases involved in the disappearance of the ballot box, which should have been delivered to him for certification of the election.

Doubts Legality.

Because of the requirement for the official canvass of the election from the tally sheets signed by the judges of the election, Mr. Carr expressed doubts this morning that the election could be declared legal, with the possibility of a special election necessary again to determine the outcome.

Weather the certified returns as given by the officer of election, the judges and others could be accepted as the official count without the ballot box, the poll books and tally sheets was a question that the courts may have to determine, Mr. Carr indicated. He was not willing to recognize the election without the proper credentials, he indicated.

Dr. Walker, engaged in clinic throughtout the morning today, was biding his time pending some settlement of the question. He indicated that he would start an immediate legal fight to take possession of the council seat to which his overwhelming majority entitled him.

He was in possession of a certified copy of the returns signed by W. C. (Polly) Woodfin, officer of election, and maintained belief that this signed copy and the testimony of other officers of the election would sustain his claims in any court before which the question may be carried.

The date for the official canvass of the returns, at which time the successful candidate would be certified, is Monday, but without the ballot box and necessary records, the question of whether there could be such a canvass and certification is raised.

No Trace Found.

No trace of the ballot box has been found, and no information leading to the identity of the "ballot box thieves" has been reported, so police reported this morning.

The prevalent belief among politicians is that the box was thrown into the floodwaters of the nearby Cumberland River because of inability to alter the returns after completion of the count and certification and announcement of the result by the election officials.

More than 1,000 negroes and whites were crowded in the fire hall and around the building when the count was completed and the results announced. Polly Woodfin walked to wall nearby to put on his coat preparatory to delivering the box to the city hall when the lights were suddenly switched off. A rush carried a part of the crowd through the ropes stretched around the tables. Several were heard to rush through the rear door of the fire hall after pushing their way through the crowd. When the lights were turned on a few mintues later, the ballot box had disappeared.

The election was for the selection of a successor to George W. (Hoots) Lowery, Jr., who recently removed from the ward.

NASHVILLE, TENN.
EVE. TENNESSEAN

APR 2 1934

Snatching Ballot Boxes.

Residents of the Fourteenth Ward will tell yo that its election history is one of strange and un usual happenings. The Fourteenth ran true to forn last week when, after an uneventful day in the elec tion for councilman, and after the votes had bee duly counted, the lights were suddenly turned of and the ballot boxes were "snatched." As yet th missing boxes have not been found.

Strangely enough, nobody has any idea of th identity of ringleaders in what apparently was a well-planned and perfectly executed plot.

The election of Dr. H. H. Walker, a negro wa veteran, as councilman, was by this means fore stalled, since without the official ballots the vot could not be certified.

But the strong-arm stuff seems to have been un necessary, for Election Commisisoner Carr has dis covered that none of the candidates filed a repor of campaign expenses, and has ruled that, accord ing to the letter of the law, the election is entirel null and void.

Dr. Walker has a right to feel disappointed, an to believe the ballot box raid was due to a determ ination to rob him of a victory which seems to hav been clearly earned. But he probably knows enoug about Nashville elections in the past to understan that it has been a common practice to defeat th will of the electorate, and that the vote often ha been tampered with, regardless of race, color o creed. Some of our "best citizens" are past ma ters in the art of hoodwinking the voters, and man of the great electorate are perfectly willing to len a hand, provided they are numbered among th "ins."

As long as it is a felony to steal dollars, but grand joke to steal votes, it does no good to deplor the situation.

5

Tennessee

Political - 1934

Suffrage

DOES THE NEGRO WANT TO VOTE?

In view of the little interest manifested by hundreds of Negroes throughout the South in exercising their franchise as important elections are staged, the question comes to mind—DOES THE NEGRO ACTUALLY WANT TO VOTE?

While members of the race in certain sections are continually waging just complaint in view of disfranchisement rules employed by white men in an effort to prevent the Negro citizens from voting, there are to be found thousands of eligible voters of the racial group in other sections, who are wholly indifferent as to whether they vote and not only is there a flagrant air of indifference, but hundreds there are who positively refuse to qualify and vote.

Leaders in the city offer an example of the situation here complained of when they issue the following report:

"Although a special campaign has been put on to increase the number of registered voters for the September 26 mayoralty primary, only 17,053 persons are on the book. There are 90,000 Negroes in Atlanta. Those of voting age are eligible to register if they wish."

The same unfortunate situation as concerns the race's political lethargy obtains in many sections. Tennessee offers no restrictions for Negroes voting, only requiring that those under fifty years of age hold a two dollar poll tax receipt, yet there are those who demand representation for the group and yet are so thoughtless as to refuse to pay the paltry sum of two dollars that will qualify them to exercise their franchise, to say nothing of hundreds fifty years and over, who are actually to downright lazy and thoughtless to register and vote, even without the requirement of two dollar payment. Certainly such downright indifference as concerns their own welfare on the part of the Negro herein referred to serves to impede the entire racial group's progress

Chattanooga, Tenn. Times
July 31, 1934

CANDIDATES PLEAD FOR NEGROES' VOTE

Republicans Offer Pledges at Rally for Colored.

Hospitilization Promised, and Burns Cummings Lambasted During Speeches.

Republican candidates wooed the colored vote at a rally at St. James Baptist church, colored, last night with mention of the need for Negro hospitalization, an invitation to call a candidate for circuit-criminal court judge by his first name and music from the Ttate quartet.

The Rev. E. Moore, veteran pastor of the Mabel street church, opened the meeting with an injunction to the candidates to "throw no mud." Then Dr. P. A. Stephens introduced James H. Anderson, candidate for county judge, who promised:

"If I am elected county judge I'll never carry on my payroll a man who has unnecessarily spilled the blood of any Negro in this county!"

Asked later if he was making this statement as a charge against Judge Will Cummings, his opponent, Anderson did not answer.

Anderson told the colored voters that the democratic party barred them from voting in the primary. "If they didn't want you then, you ought not to want them now," he said, drawing applause.

He said that the Taxpayers' league survey fixes the county deficit a year ago at $1,339,000, and charged that the deficit now is $2,500,000.

The republican candidate declared Negroes need better hospitalization and a home for old colored women, charging that his opponent ignored the colored race.

"If I am elected," he continued, "it will be a mandate from the people that the county judge and all his crowd will walk out." He attacked D. C. Harper, colored head janitor at the courthouse, charging that Harper, "like a rat deserting a sinking ship," has taken the civil service examination for a janitor's job at the new postoffice. The candidate then denied he will replace Negroe help with white janitors at the courthouse if elected.

Anderson also aired a hearsey charge that contracts for colored teachers in the county system have been delayed, although contracts to white teachers have been forwarded.

"I don't know whether it is true or not," he said, "but I heard from a responsible colored citizen this afternoon that not a single contract to a colored teacher in the county has been sent out."

Gene Jacobs, independent candidate for constable, followed Anderson with an indorsement of Sheriff John K. Tate for re-election. He told the Negroes that Frank Burns, democratic nominee, would "put a whipping post in front of the jail and whip every Negro that came in jail."

Sheriff Tate, sitting in the audience, was introduced by Dr. W. A. Thomuson as "a man who's had hardly a dog's chance to perform his duties." The sheriff said he was persecuted since assuming office, and asked for another chance.

Sheriff Tate's quartette of four Bushtown Negroes sang a song for Anderson, then their song about "Oh, Mr. Tate, don't you weep, don't you mourn." They substituted the former words, "Frank Burns got choked on a chicken bone," to "Burns and his army got drownded," however.

Harry Berke, young law student who is associated with Tom J. Davis, republican candidate against Judge L. D. Miller for the Second circuit-criminal court bench, said: "I wonder if it is a court of justice where it takes eight Negro witnesses to overcome one white witness. That's a court of injustice. * * * When Mr. Davis is judge, go up and see him and say 'Tommie, old boy, I want to talk to you,' and he will say 'Johnnie, old boy, I'm glad to see you.'"

Walter Robinson, "boss" politician of the large Fourth ward, appealed for his own candidacy as republican state committeeman for the Third congressional district, stating he was the first Negro ever to ask this honor.

"Lots of folks think politics is a dirty and dangerous thing," he adjured. "It's no more dirty and dangerous than the people running it.

"March to the polls Thursday as heroically as your ancestors did to battle and vote your choice. My choice, of course, is the republican party, but I don't get mad with any one who disagrees."

"The papers say some one went to Chicago and brought back bogus poll tax certificates," Robinson continued. "Well, if they did, it was some white man, no Negro."

Others who spoke were Attorney Henry Barger, for Criminal Judge C. W. Lusk; Burl Lowe, colored, for Tom Crutchfield; E. R. Sloan, for Ed Conner; Mrs. Sloan, for Frank Mosier and Pat Thach; Stuart Gill, independent candidate for circuit judge, and Ed Holland, independent candidate for constable. L. B. Brown was heard in a lengthy attack on County Judge Cummings' administration.

Carrie B. Tadley presided at the meeting.

Chattanooga, Tenn.
TIMES

JUL 13 1934

LAST DAY TO REGISTER; NEGRO LEADERS ACTIVE

Today being the last chance the voters of Hamilton county will have to obtain a registration certificate for the August election, the registrars throughout the county will likely be busy issuing certificates to those who waited until the last day.

The registration begins at 8 o'clock this morning and closes tonight at 9 o'clock.

There has been heavy registering of those who have become 21 years of age since Jan. 10, 1933. The 1933 poll tax receipt is required for voters who are liable for payment of poll taxes. But since the poll taxes are collected a year behind, the due date for the 1933 polls is until October, 1933. Voters who became 21 after Jan. 10, 1933, are entitled to vote without a poll tax receipt for the reason that they are not liable for 1933 poll taxes, but the law grants them suffrage upon reaching their majority. Quite a number have reached their twenty-first birthday since Jan. 10, 1933, and they are being sought out by both the democrats and republicans. Another class of voters who are being registered in numbers are those who have graduated from the poll tax age. In the Negro precincts the Negro leaders are working hard to get out the aged voters, as well as those who are not old enough to be liable for poll taxes. In the Fourth ward, where Walter Robinson is chairman, a total of 250 were registered the first day.

The law requires that all voters who have moved since the last time they were registered, must obtain a new registration certification showing the new address. The certificate must have been issued since August, 1933.

Voters may be able to tell whether or not the certificate they now have is proper by looking to the color. The certificates valid for elections now are printed in blue ink and have a blue background.

Nashville, Tenn. Banner
July 27, 1934

Colored Voters To Meet at Headquarters

All colored voters who are supporting the Davidson County Democratic nominees are requested to report today or tomorrow at headquarters of the Negro Democratic League, Napier Court, 411½ Fourth Avenue, North, Room 6-7, for instructions as to the general election and the Democratic primary of August 2.

The league has indorsed the candidacy of Gov. Hill McAllster for re-election. Charles W. McClain, local manager, and G. Willis Hill, secretary, are in charge of the league's headquarters.

Tennessee

Political – 1934

Suffrage

Chattanooga, Tenn.
TIMES

JUN 2 1934

POLL TAX RUSH INDICATES VOTE OF NEAR 16,000

Today and Monday Remain for Voters to Qualify for Ballot in August.

CAMPAIGN TO START SOON

Democrats Look for Bachman to Aid Ticket—Republican Rift in Prospect.

With the deadline for purchasing poll tax receipts usable in the August county election near at hand, both democratic and republican county organizations were making a final drive to get voters qualified and the result of the work was reflected sharply in the county trustee's office.

Within the past few weeks the total number of receipts issued has increased from the neighborhood of 6,000 to more than 13,000. The law requires that the poll tax receipts be purchased at least sixty days before the election. The deadline date is tomorrow, Sunday being sixty days prior to the county election. The state attorney-general's office, however, has ruled that inasmuch as the deadline date falls on Sunday, poll tax receipts issued Monday will be valid. The county attorney, Carter Lynch, however, disagrees with the attorney-general on this point, it was reported yesterday at the trustee's office.

The cost of poll taxes went up from $2.03 yesterday to $2.44. The mail was loaded with checks yesterday for both property and poll taxes. The trustee's office was not able to give any estimate on the property taxes collected before the penalties went on as time has not been sufficient to post the receipts. The penalty on property tax beginning yesterday is 9.5 per cent.

It was estimated yesterday that the poll tax receipts which will be finally issued will be in the neighborhood of 15,000. With 15,000 receipts out, the general election in August will prove interesting and indications are that the vote in August will be heavy. There are probably between 3,000 and 5,000 people over the poll tax age, 50, who will participate in the election in August. The indications now are that there will be 16,000 or 17,000 voting next August in the county election.

Campaign to Open Soon.

The county campaign will get under way within a few weeks in a heated fashion. Democratic nominees will likely set up campaign headquarters within a few weeks. A joint campaign is to be conducted by nominees of both parties.

Already several of the candidates have filled a considerable number of speaking engagements. The candidacy of United States Senator Nathan L. Bachman for re-election is expected in democratic circles to help the ticket. Senator Bachman, a native Chattanoogan who has spent his lifetime here and whose father before him was one of Chattanooga's most beloved citizens, will likely bring many democratic voters to the polls who might not otherwise take time off to vote.

The factional battle in the republican ranks resulting from three years of intense fighting between the Crutchfield and Springfield wings of the party may not have as much effect on the coming county election as the rift between the "lily white" faction and the "black and tan." At the recent state republican convention the "black and tans" were overwhelmed by John McCall's "lily whites" and the Negroes left the convention hall in protest. Not only did Bob Church's Memphis delegation withdraw from the state convention hall, but also did Walter Robinson's Chattanooga delegation and colored delegations from other sections. The Negro leaders claim to know who were ~~their friends~~ in the fight with the "lily whites" and who were noncommittal or against them.

Last Saturday Willard Springfield, republican nominee for county register, announced he has accepted the nomination and will work for the interest of the entire republican ticket. His candidacy prior to that date was in doubt. But have Springfield's or Crutchfield's followers buried the hatchet? This question can best be answered by a canvass of the lieutenants of the two groups. Roger Crox, chief jailer under Sheriff John K. Tate, is openly supporting W. Shep Shelton, the democratic nominee for register, against Springfield. He has been anti-Springfield for several years. His chief, Sheriff Tate, is a candidate for another term and has about purged the entire personnel of the jail force of Springfield-approved appointees. In their places went men who have the stamp of approval of the Crutchfield organization.

Chattanooga, Tenn.
NEWS

JUN 8 1934

Fewer Negroes Pay Poll Taxes, Check Reveals

Less Than Thousand Have Receipts—15,000 Slips Issued by Trustee.

Less than 1,000 Negroes have paid their poll taxes, according to a check made of the poll list by persons interested in the county election next August. After going over the list the investigators estimated that only slightly more than 800 colored citizens had acquired poll receipts in time to vote in the general election.

Approximately 15,000 poll tax receipts were issued by Trustee Wiley Couch's office before the deadline on June 4. This indicates that the balloting next August will be fairly heavy, but that the Negro vote will be comparatively light.

Politicians are speculating on the effect of the indicated small colored vote. While practically all of the Negroes in this county call themselves Republicans and none voted in the Democratic primary last March, the colored people do not vote a straight Republican ticket in county elections. This has been especially true during the past few years when some Democratic candidates have received as many or more Negro ballots as their Republican opponents.

Because of this fact it is reasoned by some observers that the chances of some Democratic nominees, as well as some Republicans, will be hurt if a large number of Negro citizens are not qualified to vote.

Chattanooga, Tenn. News
June 8, 1934

Fewer Negroes Pay Poll Taxes, Check Reveals

Less Than Thousand Have Receipts—15,000 Slips Issued by Trustee.

Less than 1,000 Negroes have paid their poll taxes, according to a check made of the poll list by persons interested in the county election next August. After going over the list the investigators estimated that only slightly more than 800 colored citizens had acquired poll receipts in time to vote in the general election.

Approximately 15,000 poll tax receipts were issued by Trustee Wiley Couch's office before the deadline on June 4. This indicates that the balloting next August will be fairly heavy, but that the Negro vote will be comparatively light.

Politicians are speculating on the effect of the indicated small colored vote. While practically all of the Negroes in this county call themselves Republicans and none voted in the Democratic primary last March, the colored people do not vote a straight Republican ticket in county elections. This has been especially true during the past few years when some Democratic candidates have received as many or more Negro ballots as their Republican opponents.

Because of this fact it is reasoned by some observers that the chances of some Democratic nominees, as well as some Republicans, will be hurt if a large number of Negro citizens are not qualified to vote.

THE REPUBLICAN PRIMARY

This is to remind those voters who are allied with the Republican party and believe in its principles, that on August 2, a Republican primary will be held at the same time the Democratic primary is held.

Globe and Independent

We remind Republicans, who expect to support Republican nominees at the general election to be held in November that they should help select their party nominees by voting in the Republican primary.

7-20-34

We remind Republicans that it is not expected of, and in truth is unlawful for, them to vote in both the Democratic and the Republican primaries. Any colored person who is a Democrat may vote in the Democratic primary, but it is expected that he or she thereby pledges to support the nominees of the Democratic primary in the November election, even if those nominees are not the particular candidates that the voter favored for the nomination. By no means should a colored man or woman enter the Democratic primary unless he or she is, or has decided to be, a Democrat. Honor and honesty demand that only the members of a particular party should participate in the selection of the nominee of that part.

Because of the unusual interest being manifested between the two well known candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor many Republicans are apt to lose sight of the fact that their own party is holding a primary, and it is expected of them that they help pick their party candidate for governor and other offices.

Republicans should remember that the Republican primary will not be held at the same booth where the Democratic primary is held. Find out where the Republican primary is being held and then go there and vote.

Chattanooga, Tenn.
NEWS

JUL 12 1934

Negroes Split Vote Between Two Parties

Both Democrats and Republicans Share in Colored Ballot in This County.

For a long time after the Civil war, Negroes went to the polls and voted the Republican ticket almost without exception. The Republicanism of the Negroes became a tradition and many of the Negroes felt that something would happen to them if they voted against the party whose leader removed them from slavery.

The tradition is broken now and with the possible exception of national elections, the number of Negroes who vote the Democratic ticket in the South equals or surpasses the number who mark a Republican ballot. The herding of Negroes to the polls in Democratic elections in Shelby County by Boss Ed Crump and his henchmen is an example of the manner in which Southern Negroes vote.

The situation in Hamilton County is not similar to the Shelby County conditions, but Democratic candidates here as a rule during the past several years have received about as many colored votes as Republican nominees.

In the coming August election the Negroes of the County are solidly behind only one Republican —Sheriff John K. Tate. They will vote for the trial-wracked sheriff almost to a man.

Tom Crutchfield, Republican candidate for attorney-general, will get most of the Negro vote and—strangely enough—W. J. Springfield, who has bested Crutchfield in many factional battles during the past three years, will also receive a big majority of ballots cast by colored people.

Cool Toward Anderson, Lusk.

But some of the other Republican candidates will not fare so well at the hands of the Negroes on August 2, unless there is a change before election day.

County Judge Will Cummings is expected to best his Republican opponent, James H. Anderson, in the fight for the Negro vote. D. C. Harper, courthouse janitor, and Sid Byers, City hall politician, are both supporting Cummings openly, although they hold Republican chairmanships in their respective wards. The big Negro boss, Walter Robinson, is supporting Anderson, but his support is said to be rather lukewarm and he will not bring the pressure to bear upon his organization unless it appears fairly certain that Anderson will be elected.

Judge Charles W. Lusk has also been experiencing some trouble with the Negro vote. Byers has stated that he wants a judge who can be "seen" more easily than Judge Lusk and has expressed opposition to the Republican incumbent. Harper is said to be more or less "on the fence" in this race, while Robinson is supporting Judge Lusk. The fact that two Negroes convicted of criminal assault in Judge Lusk's court went to the electric chair is said to have caused some dissatisfaction among certain elements of the Negroes, although the rank and file of the Negro voters favor the reelection of the Criminal Judge.

Tom Davis will get a large part of the colored vote in his race against Judge L. D. Miller, Democratic incumbent, according to the indications. With one or two possible exceptions, the Republican nominees for the minor offices will likely get more Negro votes than their Democratic opponents.

A Democrat who checked the records stated that less than 1,000 Negroes paid their poll taxes in time to vote, but Republicans state that more than this number have receipts. If only 1,000 paid their taxes, the Negro vote is not likely to exceed 2,000 in the County election next month.

URGE SUPPORT OF MEN RATHER THAN PARTY AT MEETING

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn.—The largest and most representative gathering of Negro leaders ever assembled in this section for the purpose of taking political stock held a meeting in the spacious auditorium of Ryan's Hotel, East Main Street, on Friday afternoon, under the auspices of the East Tennessee Colored Voters' League. Horace R. Ryans presided over the session and Dr. A. W. White, of Bristol, served as secretary.

The meeting was attended by delegates from practically every county in East Tennessee, and the speakers applauded the addresses delivered by the orators of the occasion, the tenor of all being an urge upon Negro voters to vote and work for those candidates in the election of August 2nd, who are known to be interested in the welfare of all citizens, regardless as to race or class.

Attorney Porter Delivers Keynote Address

Attorney Webster L. Porter, of Knoxville, delivered the keynote address in which he urged his hearers to lose sight of party lines as consideration is given candidates for office and march to the polls and vote for those men who are of sufficient calibre to represent the interests of black people as well as white people as they carry on the affairs of office.

"There is an element of office seeker known as the 'lily-whites' who are as poisonous toward the interests of the Negro race as the reptile of the cotton mouth variety and the Negro voter should shun him in a manner the same as he would that venomous reptile," Attorney Porter warned his audience.

Lay Aside Petty Jealousies

"Failure of the race to gain a greater amount of recognition along many lines is not due entirely to the opposition of other race folk," Attorney Porter further declared. The speaker then charged that the intra-racial friction caused by the jealousy, envy and petty bickerings of Negroes themselves, goes far toward impeding the race's progress, and warned that unless a stop was put to such practices, the race is certain to destruction.

Welcome addresses were delivered by Elder S. Kenney and W. H. Carriger and Dr. O. W. Sherrill introduced the principal speaker. Other addresses were delivered by Dr. Dennis Branch, of Newport; Rev. W. A. A. C. Breedlove, of Elizabethton; Rev. Morrison, of Mountain City; Dr. J. H. Johnson; Rev. M. P. Linder, of Maryville; Revs. Dobson, Keith, Womack and several others of the Johnson City leaders.

Support Voted Clark

Repeated reference was made by the speakers to the racial antagonism exhibited toward the Negro group by John E. McCall and his followers at the Chattanooga convention and when a letter was read from Robert R. Church, of Memphis, praising the fine qualities of Hon. Will H Clark, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, opponent of John E. McCall, of Memphis, a motion was offered that the body go on record as favoring the candidacy of Mr. Clark, and was carried with great applause.

The candidacies of Hon. E. E. Creswell, for attorney general of the second district; Judge Miller for re-election to the office of chancellor in Washington county, and General Ben Allen, for circuit judge, were also voted endorsement by the meeting.

Texas.

Political - 1934 I

Suffrage

ANOTHER WHITE PRIMARY BLOW

In accord with the two decisions rendered by the Supreme Court of the United States, colored voters are entitled to vote in the democratic or white primary. This was again substantiated by a decision rendered a few days ago by Judge Boynton of the Federal District Court of Texas in the case of Dr. L. A. Nixon who sued for damages on account of being denied the privilege to register and vote in the democratic primary of that state. Incidently, the doctor has been fighting along this line for the past seven years. In his first attempt to vote in the primary, he was turned down. A case was made in the local courts and carried to the highest tribunal where the decision was made in his favor. The democratic committee had the laws amended, feeling that it was air-tight against the colored voters, but they soon found out differently. In his attempt to vote again, the doctor was turned down. He made a case in the courts. He persued the same course as that of the first case, and it also ended in his favor. Again he attempted to register and vote for the democratic primary. He was refused. The doctor then sued for damages which were awarded him by the district court. In these contests, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was the sponsor and supplied the funds for expenses. It is a great victory and opens the way for all colored democrats of the south to vote in the so-call white primaries. Should this be done, then colored voters well have an opportunity of assisting in selecting those who govern.

Dr. Nixon's lawyer said the following concerning the decision:

Judge Boynton held Justice Cardozo's decision in Nixon vs. Condon binding and resolution of State Democratic Committee wrongfully deprived Doctor Nixon of his right to vote in primaries, so gave him judgment. Under this decision every election judge, county chairman, and member of state executive committee would be equally liable for refusing all Negroes the right to participate. Attorneys expect state democratic convention to pass resolutions barring Negro vote hoping to comply with the inference left by supreme court that the party itself could bar them, but I think any action under Texas comprehensive primary law would fall within the prohibition of the fifteenth amendment.

CAST BALLOT IN CITY ELECTION FOR FIRST TIME

Beaumont.—Negroes exercised their right of suffrage here March 3 for the first time in many years, hundreds of them voting in the election at which time a mayor and a board of commissioners were chosen.

Significant in the history of the day was the fact that the incumbent mayor was not re-elected. This defeat was undoubtedly due to the fact that it was generally known that he had said in one of his campaign addresses over the radio that he did not want Negroes to vote, and that he did not want a Negro vote. This remark had a telling effect in that the bloc of Negro votes polled in the election decided the balance of power. While it was reported that the new mayor also made a similar statement, this was not verified and was, therefore, not as widely circulated as in the former case.

According to a poll tax list compiled by the county tax collector, Dan Leak, the voting strength of Beaumont and Port Arthur is 33,947. Of this number, there are 3752 qualified Negroes in Beaumont as against 13,926 whites. In Port Arthur, there are 14,074 eligible whites and 2195 eligible Negroes. This is said to be the first time in many years that the voting strength of Beaumont has exceeded that of Port Arthur. It is expected that the Negro vote, which was publicly unsolicited on March 3rd will receive a hearty welcome in July and will positively be solicited for any bond issue.

The Negroes made a splendid impression because of the same manner in which they conducted themselves at all the voting places. Their conduct was at all times orderly and quiet and there was no trouble experienced anywhere. Although, there were several judges in charge of the precincts who refused to allow Negroes to vote, the order and quiet was not disturbed. It was said that at these few places, the judges took the names of the Negroes and the numbers of the poll tax receipts.

The large number of qualified voters and the order and precision with which they went about the business of voting caused special commendation to be given to the Poll Tax Drive during the days of registration, as much of Saturday's good could be traced directly back to the Poll Tax Drive.

Don't forget the First Annual Policemen's Ball, Pilgrim Auditorium, Saturday night, March 17. Tony Babin and his Original Imperial Orchestra. He is Louisiana's best.

CELEBRATE NIXON DAY

While Editor C. N. Love, Julius White, and a number of the rest of us have made contributions to the fight which has been waged upon the unconstitutional exclusion of Negroes from the statutory primary elections of Texas, to Dr. L. A. Nixon of El Paso and to the national office of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People goes the largest share of the credit. Dr. Nixon has stayed on the line year in and year out, and his strokes have always been telling. He has never permanently lost a battle winning two decisions in the United States Supreme Court, and a more recent victory in the United States District Court for the Western District of Texas, at El Paso.

In fitting tribute to Dr. Nixon's valiant and victorious fight The Informer makes the suggestion that the million Negroes of Texas set apart as Nixon Day the date upon which Negroes first cast their untrammelled ballot in the state-wide Democratic primary elections. Funds raised by appropriate methods on that day should be dedicated to the work of the national office of the N.A.A.C.P.

Wichita Falls, Tex.
TIMES

MAR 5 1934

THE NEGRO AND THE PRIMARY

If negroes want to enter the Democratic primary in Texas this year there is not, according to a writer for the United Press any legal way of preventing their participation. The present judicial status of Texas' laws intended to make the primary a white man's affair, says the United Press writer, leaves the way open to negro voting.

When the old primary law provision was held invalid by the United States supreme court, an effort was made to correct the defect by conferring authority on the state executive committees of parties to say who could vote in such parties' primaries. Under this law, the state Democratic executive committee could bar negroes from the primaries by adopting a rule to that effect.

That provision has also been invalidated by the federal courts, so that there is now no bar to negro participation.

There are just two paths open. One is to leave the primary open to negro voters. The other is to leave primary regulation entirely up to the parties to withdraw the state's sponsorship and protection from it. Probably if the former course is adopted, there will be very few negroes to avail themselves of the right to vote in the primary. The only alternative is to abandon the primary system.

BEAUMONT, TEX.
JOURNAL

MAR 2 1934

NEGRO VOTING UP TO JUDGES

Executive Committee Rescinds Action And Declines To Make Rule

Without authority, under several interpretations of the law, to prescribe any qualifications on the democratic primary ballot with reference to negro voters, the city executive committee Friday morning literally "washed its hands" of the question of negro voters in the Saturday primary and tossed the burden into the laps of the individual presiding judges.

A resolution, recounting the various steps taken to obtain a clear ruling on their authority and their inability to find any such authority, was passed by the committee Friday.

RESOLUTION

The resolution is as follows:

"A called meeting of the city democratic executive commtitee was held Friday, March 2, 1934, with the following members present: George W. Carroll, chairman; C. S. Shoolroy, Claude Graham and H. B. Funchess.

"The following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas, this committee has received further information from the office of the attorney general of Texas and from the secretary of the state democratic executive committee and others connected with present and former democratic administrations and also the opinions of several prominent attorneys and whereas, we are convinced that this local committee has no vested authority to prescribe qualifications of voters or to deny any negro qualified voter with a current poll tax receipt the privilege of participating in the selection of candidates for mayor and city councilmen in the coming city primary Saturday, March 3, we hereby rescind a former resolution adopted by this committee in which our chairman was instructed to notify all election judges to receive, count and duly record all ballots presented by colored voters with the required poll tax receipt and that we now instruct our chairman to ignore such resolution and furnish the several judges with only the information we have secured with the request that they examine same carefully and exercise their own judgment in passing upon the legality of any and all ballots whether cast by white or colored citizens.

The attorney general advises that the "power to prescribe qualifications of democratic voters must be exercised by the state democratic convention and that the revised statutes provide that every political party shall have the power to prescribe qualifications only through its state executive committee," and inasmuch as the state convention at Lubbock adopted no such qualifications for the democratic voters in primaries and the state executive committee likewise having failed or refused to prescribe any test or qualification we find ourselves without a leg to stand on or any authority whatsoever in this respect and we, as a committee, do not propose to assume the authority to prescribe any test nor undertake to instruct our judges to challenge the ballot of any colored citizen who presents his current poll tax receipt and asks the privilege of having a voice in the selection of candidates for mayor and city councilmen to be elected at the general election on April 3. We shall therefore place no test upon the official ballot.

ASK ATTORNEY GENERAL

"And be it further resolved that the telegraphic advice from the office of the attorney general nd the chairman of the state executive committee be spread upon the minutes of this meeting for the information of any citizen who may desire to further pursue the matter.

"The telegram from the attorney general's office is as follows:

"Respectively refer you to the case of Nixon vs. Condon 286 U. S. 73 holding that this power must be exercised by state convention. Article 3107, revised statutes provides that every political party shall have power to prescribe qualifications through its state executive committee. We do not know whether state convention or state executive committee has acted hereon since Nixon decision. You should take this matter up with chairman state executive committee." Signed Gaynor Kendall, assistant attorney general.

(The city committee wired Maury Hughes, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, as follows: "Did convention at Lubbock adopt resolution prescribing qualifications for voting in democratic primaries and excluding negroes? If convention did not adopt such resolution did the state executive committee adopt a resolution of this kind? The negro voting question has bobbed up here and we must decide at once in order to print test ballots for March 3 primary.")

The telegram from the office of the chairman of the state executive committee follows:

"Mr. Hughes in east Texas on political trip. Will read him your wire when he phones today. Advise that you get in touch with C. W. Howth, member state executive committee at Beaumont. Files reveal that no action was taken at Lubbock by executive committee in reference to negroes voting. (Signed) J. Freeman for Mr. Hughes."

"The information from Mr. E. J. Hussion, secretary of the state executive committee was over long distance telephone and substantiated that from the chairman's office, i. e., that no action touching on the matter in question had been taken by the committee.

"We are accordingly washing our hands of this question and leave it up to the future state administrations to determine whether we shall continue to have a 'white man's' democratic primary or otherwise."

The resolution will be signed by all members of the committee, according to H. B. Funchess.

HOUSTON, TEX.
CHRONICLE

MAR 2 1934

Negroes to Vote Saturday in Party Primary in Beaumont

By Associated Press.

Beaumont, March 2.—For the first time in the history of Beaumont, negroes will be allowed to vote Saturday in a city Democratic primary.

Both Mayor Emmett A. Fletcher and his opponent, P. D. Renfro, lawyer, protested the proposition. The city Democratic executive committee acceded to the negroes petition after advices from the attorney general's office said the state convention or the state party executive committee alone had the authority to prescribe qualifications in a primary.

The local committee then learned from the office of Maury Hughes, Dallas, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, and the secretary, E. J. Hussion of Houston, that no action on the matter had been taken by the convention or the committee. Gaynor Kendall, assistant attorney general, referred to the El Paso case of Nixon vs Condon, recently decided for plaintiff by Federal Judge Boynton, who ruled that the pledge as stated on the ballot did not preclude the negro's voting in the primary in point.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
MORNING STAR TELEGRAM

MAR 3 1934

Election Judges Balk at Negro Vote

BEAUMONT, March 2.—Two election judges tonight refused to serve in tomorrow's city primary because the city Democratic Executive Committee had issued advices that it had no authority to exclude negroes from voting.

The committee's information from several sources was that neither the state convention nor its executive committee had adopted a voters' qualification pledge. The judges refusing to serve under the circumstances are Mrs. Ben Pipkin and T. A. Allen.

BEAUMONT, TEX.
JOURNAL

MAR 2 1934

MAYOR URGES NEGROES TO CAST NO VOTE

Fletcher Confers With Elmo Willard To Use Influence With Race

A definite request Friday morning was made to Elmo Willard by Mayor Emmett A. Fletcher, asking Willard to use his influence in urging negroes of the city not to take part in the city democratic primary Saturday.

Willard was, at the time, in the city hall on other business, and his meeting with Fletcher was a chance one.

Hope that Willard, who has considerable standing among the negro population of the city, being a member of one of the families that first settled here, would take it upon himself to round up some of the leaders of the movement that are urging the negro vote Saturday and let the primary remain one for white voters, was also expressed by Fletcher.

In this connection, Fletcher expressed the belief that the negro population of the city, at the present time, was faring exceptionally well.

Fletcher's personal appeal to Willard to discourage the negro vote was a further substantiation of a public statement made Thursday night at the fairgrounds auditorium, when he declared that he had always run for office on a white democratic ticket and that he had hoped to continue to do so.

HOUSTON, TEX.

MAR 5 1934

PREDICTS VOTE FOR NEGROES

County Chairman Lubbock Says Seems to Be Change in Attitude

A prediction that negroes will be allowed to vote in this year's democratic primaries was made Monday by Chairman J. B. Lubbock of the Harris County democratic committee.

"There seems to have been a change in the attitude of party leaders about negroes voting in the primaries," Mr. Lubbock said. "This was largely brought about by higher court decisions indicating that the racial bar is likely to be knocked out in the near future.

"In several local elections the instructions of the state democratic executive committee against allowing negroes to vote have been ignored. In the Beaumont city primary held Saturday, for instance, negroes were allowed to vote.

"It's up to the state democratic executive committee to say whether negroes can vote. I believe they will."

Negroes have not been permitted to vote in democratic primaries since primaries were authorized in 1903 under the Terrell election law.

George O. Duncan, negro politician, says he believes 90 per cent of the negroes are democrats. Many negro republicans fell out with the party during the Hoover administration, he said. Others were republicans only because the door of the democratic party was closed to them, he said. He estimated that there are 11,000 negroes with poll taxes this year in the county.

PORT ARTHUR, TEX.
NEWS

MAR 2 1934

NEGROS TO VOTE AT BEAUMONT

To Be First Time In Modern County Dem Ranks

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, March 2.—Negros will vote tomorrow in Beaumont's city democratic primary.

It will be the first time in modern history of Jefferson county that a negro has scratched a ballot in a democratic election.

The city democratic executive committee, of which George W. Carroll Sr. is chairman, agreed to permit negro voters to participate

Political — 1934
Suffrage

Texas.

Brooklyn, N. Y. Citizen

in the primary after assertedly determining that neither the state democratic convention nor the state democratic executive committee had adopted, for 1934, regulations prescribing the qualifications of primary voters. The city committee ruled itself without power to deny negros participation in the democratic voting.

Headed by Pledge

Ballots headed by the customary pledge, "I am a white democrat and agree to support the nominees of this primary," already had been printed for use in the election before a delegation of negros called on the committee with a petition asking that members of their race be allowed to vote. It was necessary to print a new batch of ballots after the ruling in favor of the negros was handed down.

H. B. Funchess, member of the committee, wired Maury Hughes of Dallas, chairman of the state committee, and W. J. Hussion of Houston, secretary of the state group, and learned that state democratic authorities had failed to lay down qualifications for participants in democratic primaries this year.

Both candidates for mayor—E. A. Fletcher, asking re-election, and P. D. Renfro, attorney—protested the local committee's decision letting negros into the primary.

Heavy Negro Vote

The ruling upholding right of negros to vote in the primary was announced on the same day that it became known officially that negro voters in Beaumont outnumber those at Port Arthur 3752 to 2195, a margin of nearly 2 to 1. Port Arthur precincts have more white voters than Beaumont.

"I think this agitation by Beaumont negros for the right to vote in the primary is the direct result of promises made to them during the recent poll tax campaign," one city official said today. "The negros were assured by poll tax solicitors that they'd be allowed to vote if they paid their $1.75. Of course, the solicitors were talking about bond issue elections and not democratic primaries, but the negros naturally got the idea they would be permitted to vote in any election. The present complication thus ensued."

Reporters today queried P. A. Dowlen, secretary of the county democratic executive committee, in regard to that group's attitude toward participation by negros in next summer's county primary.

"Slept on Rights"

Dowlen avoided a direct answer. He said, though, that the state democratic convention and the state democratic committee apparently had "slept on their rights" in failing to adopt regulations restricting democratic voting to white citizens.

"Even though the state convention at Lubbock last year neglected to pass such a resolution, it has been held that the state committee has authority to adopt a measure of this kind," Dowlen, an attorney, said. "It's not too late yet for qualifications to be laid down by the state committee in time for the forthcoming democratic primary."

In 1932, a delegation of negros petitioned the county democratic committee for the privilege of voting in the county democratic primary. The county committee rejected the petition. The negros filed suit in federal court to enjoin democratic election authorities from keeping them from the polls. The suit failed. Voting was restricted to white persons.

"As things stand now a republican, a socialist, even an anarchist can vote in the Beaumont democratic primary," Dowlen said today.

In contrast to the balloting to be held at Port Arthur next week, the Beaumont voting is a democratic primary. Port Arthur holds only a general election, in which all qualified voters are permitted to cast ballots.

EL PASO TEX.
HERALD
MAR 2 1934

DEMOCRATS MAY ALLOW NEGROES PRIMARY VOTE

Member of State Committee Favors Letting Blacks Enter Elections

When the state Democratic executive committee meets this spring, it may recognize the right of negroes to vote in primary elections, United Press dispatches said today.

One member of the committee, John Davis, Dallas, has announced that he will vote in favor of inviting Texas negroes to cast their primary ballots.

"I believe other committee members are in accord with me," Mr Davis said recently.

Political leaders throughout the state believe that the long fight to keep negroes from the primaries has been lost as a result of the recent ruling handed down by Federal Judge Charles A. Boynton in the case of Dr. L. A. Nixon, El Paso negro, against election officials.

Awarded $5 Damages

Judge Boynton awarded Dr. Nixon a $5 judgment against election officials who had refused him a ballot on the grounds that a resolution adopted by the state Democratic committee in 1931 did not state specifically that negroes could not vote in the primaries.

As yet, Democratic leaders have not devised a legislative means of keeping negroes from the polls July 28.

Texas negroes have been kept from the polls by legal means since 1902 when the poll tax was adopted on the theory that few negroes would be able to pay $1.75.

In 1903 the original Terrell election law providing for primary elections was adopted.

Law Amended in 1925

In the early days of the Texas primary, the matter of qualifiation of voters was left to the county Democratic executive committees. The primaries remained overwhelmingly in the hands of white Democrats except in a few communities where the negro population was in the majority.

In 1925, the legislature amended the Terrell law by affixing a provision which read: "In no event shall a negro be eligible to participate in a Democratic party primary election held in the state of Texas, and should a negro vote in a Democratic primary election, such ballot shall be void and election officials shall not count the same."

Dr. Nixon started his crusade by carrying a test of the provision to the supreme court. The court held the amendment unconstitutional.

MAR 8 1934

COURT UPHOLDS TEXAS NEGROES VOTE PRIVILEGE

Federal Judge Says Negroes May Vote in Democratic Primary

DALLAS, Texas, March 8 (U.P.)—The last bar to free exercise of the franchise by Negro voters has been thrown down in Texas—at least in theory.

Negroes interested in public affairs claimed victory in a fight which had its inception in Abraham Lincoln's proclamation freeing the slaves.

A recent ruling by an El Paso judge following United States Supreme Court decisions on the same subject, gave Negroes the entree to Democratic primary elections. Concensus among political observers was that next July 28 will see unprecedented numbers of Negroe voters claiming their newly-declared right.

Unvoting Voters

Not since the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution has the Negro legally been kep from the polls. But the white majority, since "reconstruction" days after the Civil War when "carpet-baggers" were a menace to home rule, has found means to abridge the Negro's franchise to a considerable extent.

At first, sheeted members of the Ku Klux Klan used guns and clubs to keep the former slaves in the cotton patch on Election Day. Gradually, as the years went by, less direct action was taken and the bar to balloting by blacks was given the sanction of legislative acts.

The last of these Texas laws a year ago was declared unconstitutional, but not until Feb. 7 this year was the decision invoked in Texas.

Dr. L. A. Nixon, a negro crusader for negro rights, brought suit in Federal Court when he was barred from voting in the last Democratic primary.

Judge Charles A. Boynton ruled that negroes legally could vote in the primary and awarded Nixon a $5 judgment against the election officials who had refused him a ballot.

It was Nixon who carried to the U. S. Supreme Court rights against validity of Texas election laws enacted in 1925 and 1927. The first bluntly declared any ballot cast by a negro was void. The latter sought to accomplish the same purpose by authorizing the Democratic State Committee to prescribe qualifications for voters in primaries.

Both were declared unconstitutional by the highest tribunal.

As yet, no movement has been started to devise a new legislative means to keep negroes out of Texas government. But such a development was considered almost certain, in view of a significant statement by Judge Thomas Bell Love, co-author of the original Terrel election law.

"Sentiment in Texas still is strongly against negro participation in Democratic primaries," Love declared. "The Federal court rulings represent no liberalization of attitude within the State."

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS
APR 13 1934

All-Color Primary

In the opinion of John Davis, Dallas member of the State Democratic executive committee, the Federal Supreme Court's final decision in the Nixon case opens the way for negro participation in the Democratic primaries. The matter will not be decided by the committee itself until its regular meeting in June, but Senator Davis sees no grounds on which the vote of the negro could be rejected, under the opinion on the statute written by Associate Justice Cardozo.

As in most of the Solid South, the Texas Democratic organization has been a white man's party. The poll tax and other provisions of the Terrell election law were designed to keep it so, largely because the Texas under which this law was fashioned had grown up in or experienced "carpet bag government" days. There is no question that under the Federal Constitution, as amended after the War between the States, the negro is entitled to vote in general elections, is constitutionally eligible. There is still a question, in spite of the Cardozo opinion, whether in a purely party matter which affects no right of citizenship, any one not desired by the party has a right to vote. But Texas has made the mistake of legislating its party organization, the course which brought it up to the Nixon case and an adverse vote by the Federal Supreme Court.

The News has contended in the case of party holsters that it would be sound policy to accept them back in primaries because election strength depends on numbers. This seems to offer a good argument for the negro, too. In Texas the Democratic primary is tantamount to an election and it might as well be decided by the full electorate.

DOES HE CONTROL YOUR VOTE?

The self-appointed leaders are beginning to bestir themselves. When it becomes certain that Negroes will vote in the statutory Democratic primary elections, others will feel the sudden "call" to lead their people up to the slaughter, and it is important that the people in turn should understand some of the methods that will be employed.

Of course, this whole "plan of political salvation," which each one of the "leaders" feels himself divinely called to put into effect for Negroes, is always based upon an "inspired control of the people's votes." It works like this. The self-appointed leader wakes up one morning after he has found out that Negroes are going to vote, confident in the assurance that he controls each and every vote of the members of the Doolittle Club, that he has safely tucked away in his vest pocket all the ballots in the powerful U. C. Me Organization, and that the Negro Women's Voters League has voluntarily put him in complete and undisputed charge of their votes.

Having thus been made over night the unchallenged master of such a big block of Negro votes, this self-appointed leader at once gets the vision that the office seekers want to talk with him. So off he goes to Mr. John's office to tell Mr. John, who is the new candidate for the office of Dog-Catcher, how he, the self-appointed leader, has been "called" to be the political Moses of Negroes in the coming election. He then tells Mr. John that, in view of the "call," he just thought that he would drop by and see "what arrangements" could be made to have the spirit "move" this self-appointed leader to cast his big block of Negro votes for Mr. John.

It is at this point, Mr. and Miss and Mrs. Negro Voters, that the trading begins, with YOUR BALLOTS as the stakes.

The question is: Does this selp-appointed leader control your vote? If he does not, then he is a liar, who is dangerous to the franchise rights of free men and women. On the other hand, if he does control your vote, he merely proves to the world the truth of the charge, that Negro voters can be herded and driven and sold in the market like dumb brute cattle.

ARE YOU ON THE COMMITTEE?

Last week we mentioned the fact that "The Star" would in all probability set itself up as the self-appointed spokesman to guide the Negro voters, if and when they come into possession of their franchise rights again. It was pointed out how the real power behind the organization of "The Star" would be some white man who wants to control the Negro vote and make money on it; while the nominal editor and manager would be a self-styled and self appointed Negro leader, who has his own private ambitions as well.

Now these folks know that neither the white man nor the editor have any following or influence of their own among Negro voters; they also know that the Negro community already feels that it has more Negro newspapers than it can afford to adequately support. This of itself spells doom for "The Star," unless there can be created a show of artificial need and backing by the Negroes of Houston. A so-called sponsoring committee is the means chosen for this purpose.

Are you on the committee, Mr. and Miss and Mrs. Negro Voters? Of course no names will ever be given. It will merely be announced from time to time that "The Star" is sponsored and supervised by some of the leaders of the Negro community from all walks of life, including ministers, professional men, business men, educators, and labor leaders.

If you are on that committee, Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Negro Voters, you are merely lending your aid to a white man and a self-appointed Negro leader, whom you would not openly follow three steps down the street, in setting up a vehicle by which, without authority, to trade upon the ballots of Negroes, and also in putting a stumbling block in the way of breaking down the barriers to the exercise by the Negro of a free and untrammelled franchise right in this state.

HOUSTON, TEX.
CHRONICLE

MAY 6 1934

Overtaxing the Candidates

It appears that Harris County Democrats must soon give serious attention to the problems of their primary election system. Election problems face the state Democrats, too, of course, such as the possibility of permitting negroes to vote, and the admittedly unsatisfactory nature of the present system of selecting a long list of candidates for minor offices.

In Harris County, however, there is a more immediate and acute problem. It involves finances. As the county grows and more voting precincts are established the costs of elections increase. The problem seems likely to be intensified this year by the fact that there are comparatively few candidates for the principal, and best paying, offices. Since the party must pay the costs of its own primary, the custom has been in the past to assess the various candidates filing fees in proportion to the salaries paid by the offices which they seek. Thus candidates for sheriff, county clerk, tax assessor, collector and county judge have, generally, been assessed $750 for the mere privilege of getting their names on the ballot. That is pretty stiff, as everyone will admit, and is relatively a great deal stiffer now that salaries have been slashed.

But that is not all, due to the prospect that there will be few candidates this year it appears that even larger assessments will have to be made all down the line.

Clearly this system has two evils, it keeps many worthy men from aspiring to office, and it is a heavy tax on those elected.

We have placed the election costs on the party on the theory that the party is a private institution conducting its private affairs, but now we are being told by court decree that it isn't private, and that it can't conduct its affairs as it sees fit, that it must abide by the rules laid down by state and federal law.

If that be true there is no reason why private parties should foot the bill. It should be put on the public treasury, as is the case in most states.

In any case the financial problem of the county democracy must have some realistic attention very soon.

AUSTIN, TEX.
AMERICAN

JUN 14 19[illegible]

High Points in Proceedings Of State Committee

State Chmn. J. K. Brim and his 31 democratic committeemen (or proxy holders) held an interesting session in the Friendly City. They named Galveston as the state convention city in September. They chloroformed a proposal that the prohibition repeal issue should be placed on the official ballot in order that a showdown might take place in the July primary and the million or more democratic voters given an opportunity to declare once more that "the voice of the people is the voice of God." Roy Tennant, campaign manager for Maury Hughes, introduced the resolution for referendum. It was sent to an early grave by sub-committee on resolutions and the committee as a whole ratified the action of the sub-committee.

A petition of negro democrats asking for decisive action in order that they should be permitted to participate in the nominating primary elections was "pigeon-holed." That is, no action was taken. For that matter no action was necessary. The supreme court of the United States in a Virginia and again in a Texas case held that committees or political organizations could not bar from primaries persons who are otherwise qualified on account of color." That is the ruling of the court of last resort of this republic. Now qualified voters known politically as Afro-Americans are not officially barred by law or by committee action from participation in the primary elections of the commonwealth. There are thousands of negro landowners. There are thousands of negro home owners. They have their university and their public schools. They have their churches and their orphanages. They have their professional and business men. Now they are asking for the privilege of casting a democratic primary ballot and are ready to take the official pledge to vote the straight democratic ticket at the November election. If law is law, it must be admitted that the brother in black has the best of the argument. He has behind him as well as before him the last word of the highest judiciary tribunal in the land. It is well for the politicians, as well as the voters of all parties, to face the laws and the facts and the court decisions as they bob up in this history-making republic.

Political - 1934 I
Suffrage

Texas.

DALLAS, TEX.
TIMES HERALD

AUG 24 1934

The People's FORUM

"Your Voice Is as Loud as Ours"

This department is maintained as a clearing house for the people. Communications on any question are welcomed by The Times Herald. All such communications must be free from personal abuse. Brief ones will be given preference. If so requested The Times Herald will omit the names of writers, but all anonymous letters will be destroyed unread. No responsibility for the facts or opinions presented will be assumed. The Times Herald reserves the right to determine the suitability of any communication and to reject those deemed unsuitable.

WHY NEGROES ARE BARRED FROM PRIMARIES

To The Times Herald:

Just recently there was a letter from an Illinois citizen, Ada Mary Goetz, more or less trying to diagnose the political situation in Texas from a religious viewpoint. The trouble she finds with the political system of Texas is the prohibition by the Democratic party of the negro from voting in its primary which the Supreme court has said it has the right to do.

It is readily understood by some why the negro is prohibited from voting in the Democratic primary and that is to keep down the influence that the Republican party might garner in Texas, which is traditionally Democratic and while the negro is traditionally Republican probably because of being emancipated by Abraham Lincoln who was a member of that party.

The proper place for the negro was his native land to which he should have been deported immediately after the Civil war by the government at its expense. The negro is no more constitutionally a citizen of the United States than the Chinese or Japanese if they had been enslaved and emancipated similar to the negro.

The Illinois lady asks: "Indeed, we are expecting a new deal, but we are not ready for a new deal, and how can Southern women hope to abolish lynching so long as these barbarous processions are aided and abetted by the more influential, who use the ballot as their tacit aide de camp?"

There is no hope for the abolishment of lynchings as long as 99 per cent of the lynchings is the culmination of an attack on a white woman (mostly Southern). Public massmeetings, the instilling of reverence by the preacher, and the threat of the mob will not deter lynching so long as the black tries to appease his bestial desires by rape.

ANTHONEY VAN DER LANDON,
Dallas.

CORPUS CHRISTI, TEX.
TIMES

AUG 21 1934

ANTI-NEGRO VOTE CASE DISMISSED

Eligibility of Race To Be Left To Discretion of Election Judges

Nueces county negroes who hold poll tax receipts will be allowed to vote in the runoff primary Saturday if election judges at the various polling places will permit them to do so.

A petition filed Saturday in the twenty-eighth district court by Lewis Jones and D. H. Kirkham, attorneys for Homer Faver Jr., asking that Judge W. B. Hopkins grant a writ of injunction restraining the negroes from voting in the primary, was withdrawn this morning by the attorneys. The case had been set for hearing at 9 o'clock this morning, but in view of the plaintiff's petition, Judge Hopkins dismissed the case.

The petition withdrawing the original application stated that Faver "has ascertained that all candidates for public office in Nueces county, Tex., for the several offices for which they are campaigning, have no objection for the negroes voting in the said election since the democratic executive committee of Nueces county have taken no action therein to prevent their voting."

Judge Hopkins had instructed the members of the Nueces county executive committee, who were named in the original petition, to appear in his court at 9 o'clock this morning and show cause why a temporary injunction restraining the negroes from voting should not be granted.

In a statement issued yesterday Judge H. R. Sutherland, chairman of the county executive committee said that the committee would ask that the negroes be allowed to vote Saturday. Sutherland has never issued a direct ruling on the matter, since the state executive committee has not complied with his request to give its opinion. Sutherland's personal opinion is, he has said, that the United States Supreme court has ruled the negroes are entitled to vote and that its opinion is final.

There are approximately 400 negro voters in the county.

HOUSTON, TEX.
POST

AUG 23 1934

Allred Details Plan of Relief In Austin Talk

Attorney General Is Welcomed Back to Official Home.

By ED KILMAN,
Staff Correspondent.

AUSTIN, Aug. 23.—Jimmie Allred came back Wednesday night to his official home of the past three years, and the people of Austin gave him a royal welcome.

The greatest audience of the runoff campaign turned out to hear the attorney general's final Central Texas plea for the governorship. There must have been 10,000 people gathered in the huge amphitheater of Woolridge park for his address. Some Austin citizens said it was nearly twice the crowd that heard Tom Hunter, his opponent, the night before.

Like Conquering Hero.

They welcomed Allred home like a conquering hero, and comments shouted amid the continual cheering of his declarations of principles and his thrusts at his adversary indicated that they regarded him as just that.

"I'm glad to be back home," the fighting young candidate began, beaming over the multitude. "And I do feel that I am coming home to stay in Austin, Travis county."

Polk Shelton, young political leader and formerly an ardent Ferguson supporter, made a rousing preliminary speech for Allred, appealing especially to ex-service men.

Telegrams See Victory.

Amos Felts, presiding, read a few score of telegrams received from over the state, most of which he said expressed the opinion that Allred's campaign is sweeping Texas. One was from Mike Hogg of Houston. Sidney L. Staples, former secretary of state, presented the attorney general.

In refutation of Hunter's charge that Allred paid $8000 for a radio hook-up on the night preceding the first primary, the candidate read a statement by S. H. Bennett, commercial manager of the Southwest Broadcasting company of Fort Worth, the radio chain over which Allred spoke, branding Hunter's charge as false and misleading.

Tells of Radio Cost.

He said the hook-up used by Allred cost $1170 per hour, and was paid for by Allred's friends, just as he said Hunter's friends paid for the same hook-up for him last week, and will pay for it again Friday night.

Bennett said he had filed a complaint with Hunter's campaign headquarters, asking that Hunter retract his statement.

"I need no defense against such infamous charges as are being spewed out against me," said Allred. "My integrity will stand up against that of the man who consorted with Jim Ferguson Tuesday to find out what to say in his speech here Monday night."

Outlines Relief Plan.

Allred outlined his proposal to urge relief as the first and foremost problem for the next legislature.

"My opponent came out of his conference with Ferguson crying that 250,000 families will need relief this winter," he added. "But 'Two-Timing Tom' advanced no plan for providing food, clothing, fuel and jobs to those who actually need them.

'In Spite of Ferguson.'

"He left the manner of providing relief to Jim Ferguson, who would make patronage pie out of relief funds voted by Texas citizens to relieve the destitution of unfortunate families.

"There is much to be done to purge relief administration of corruption, graft and politics, but beware of the Hunter-Ferguson combine. The relief Texas' unemployed have obtained this year has been in spite of Ferguson, not because of him."

Upheld His Opinion.

Allred said that 12 negro women case workers were paid good salaries from state relief funds in Port Arthur to get negro votes for C. C. McDonald for governor during the first primary campaign.

"After the supreme court upheld my opinion that negroes could not vote in the Democratic primaries those negro women were fired," he added.

The audience cheered Allred's reply to Hunter's boast that he led in Wichita county in the first primary, pointing out that he beat Hunter two to one in Travis county, where he, Allred, has lived for three and a half years, in Montague county, where he was born and reared, and in Wise county, where Hunter was born and reared.

Refers to Home.

Allred left it to his Austin neighbors to determine the truth of the opposition charge that he moved out of a fine home in an exclusive residence district here into a modest rent house preparatory to running for governor.

"Many of you know that I moved from a four-room rent house into a five-room rent house a year and a half ago, to make room for an expected addition to the Allred family," he said. Cries from the audience attested the fact.

Hits Tax Plan.

He told of Hunter's handsome home in Wichita Falls, of which he had photographs, calling it "Uncle Tom's cabin." He also referred to Jim Ferguson's pretentious mansion in Austin, "built by toting wood and water."

Allred said that Hunter's proposal to abolish the ad valorem tax would relieve his own home of taxation, and also the 70 oil wells which he said are owned by Hunter and his oil corporation, and which, according to a certified statement by the state comptroller, produced over $600,000 worth of oil during the past three and a half years.

Draws 'Deadly Parallel.'

Allred drew his usual "deadly parallel" between his own platform and principles and those of his opponent. Referring to Hunter's slogan of a "Texas recovery," he said: "If this man should succeed in foisting his wild, revolutionary schemes upon us, instead of a Texas recovery we would have a Texas relapse."

LA GRANGE, Aug. 23.—Invading the traditionally pro-Ferguson counties of Washington and Fayette, Attorney General James V. Allred, candidate for governor, lashed the Ferguson-Hunter political alliance with redoubled vehemence in addresses Wednesday here and at Brenham.

Allred apparently is pitching his campaign during the few remaining days mainly upon the issue of Fergusonism, and reports coming thick and fast to him indicate its effectiveness. He is being assured on every hand that the victory tide has set in and is running strong.

Renews Trade Charge.

In addition to charging that Jim Ferguson and C. C. McDonald traded their support to Tom Hunter for promises of recognition in connection with Ferguson's ambition to serve as national committeeman and with appointments on the state highway commission, the state relief commission and other state departments, Allred blasted away at "pardon peddling and influence selling."

"The old gang of pardon peddlers are supporting my opponent, because they want the shameful practices of the present regime to continue," he declared. "Hunter says: 'Let's keep on doing business at the same old stand in the same old way.'."

Raps Pardon Plan.

The attorney general said that Hunter's platform advocates continuance of the pardon board, but that the law be changed so as to permit each governor to appoint and remove any and all members of the board at will, instead of permitting the appointment of only one member every two years.

"By this proposal," he continued, "Hunter would plunge the pardon system even deeper into politics than it is now. I advocate taking the pardon power out of the governor's hands and placing it in a board whose members would be appointed by different state authorities, such as the governor, the attorney general and the chief justice of the supreme court. I want to stop the shameful abuses of the pardon power which have made Texas a disgrace in the eyes of the nation."

Wins Loud Ovation.

A large audience on the court house lawn here Wednesday afternoon loudly applauded this declaration.

Knows Ferguson.

A. W. Kollat of La Grange, who has been a Ferguson campaign manager in this county for years, presided and introduced Allred.

"I've stood by the Ferguson regime and fought for them," he said. "But there comes a time when a man places his government above men, and that time has arrived in my life. Ferguson can not deliver my vote, and I believe the people of Fayette county should throw off the Ferguson yoke and no longer be in Jim's vest pocket.

"I've known Ferguson intimately, and he has never traded for support unless he got boot. When he and his henchmen traded with Hunter, they took a mortgage upon Hunter's power if he is elected governor, just as they took a mortgage upon all the property of old man Langhorne for commuting the sentence of his murderer-rapist son from death to life imprisonment."

Welcomed by Mayor.

Mayor C. G. Robson, welcomed the attorney general to La Grange and brief messages of support were brought by speakers from Gonzales, Smithville, Flatonia and Colorado and Lavaca counties.

At the outset of his address, Allred expressed regret for the conduct of Hunter supporters at a picnic near here last Sunday in refusing Jim Kilday of Houston permission to speak for Allred.

"Neither I nor any of my friends believe that occurrence represented the true spirit of La Grange citizenship," he said. "Numerous of your citizens have expressed their regret of it to me."

Human Life Cheap.

Repeating his specific charges of "pardon peddling," by Hunter supporters, particularly mentioning Joe Burkett, a member of the Ferguson highway commission, who resigned when the highway scandals were exposed in 1925-26, he added: "Human life is cheap in Texas. A man may commit a murder or a robbery and be convicted at great expense to the taxpayers, and then buy a pardon for $100. I have prooof of this in black and white. Under this system they go to the prison farms and make contracts with convicts to get them pardons for pay. If you want this sort of thing continued in Texas vote for my opponent."

Continuing his onslaught upon Fergusonism, Allred said he had proof that special Texas rangers distributed literature to people seeking relief at the Houston relief headquarters, and told them they would be stricken from the relief rolls if they did not vote for Hunter.

"I am for taking relief out of politics and it will be done when I am governor," he shouted, and the audience applauded.

Allred was presented at Brenham by Mayor Rees Lockett, known as the "cowboy mayor." He was highly lauded by W. J. Embry, Brenham attorney.

In the first primary Washington county gave McDonaud 1230 votes to Allred's 825 and Hunter's 507. Hunter is expected to get a majority of the McDonald vote in this largely Bohemian and German territory, especially in the country, while Allred will do better in the towns.

Fayette county also gave McDonald the lead, with 1501 votes, and Hunter second with 1446, while Allred received 818.

"The word has been passed out throughout this region that Allred is going to win," said John Walker, an Allred leader of nearby Weimar.

"Many of them are getting on the band wagon. The Ferguson issue also is helping Allred a lot hereabouts."

BROWNSVILLE, TEX.
HERALD

AUG 22 1934

Negro Voting Left To Precinct Judges

CORPUS CHRISTI, Aug. 22. (AP)—An application for a writ of injunction to prevent negroes from voting in Nueces county in Saturday's democratic primary election has been dismissed on motion of Henry Faver, Jr., who filed the application in district court.

The question of negro voting will be left to precinct election judges as has been the practice previously.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
PRESS

AUG 25 1934

APPEAL TO BALLOT EARLY BRINGS OUT THRONGS TO POLLS

Negroes Are Voting in Several Precincts; Early Indications Are That Major County Races Will Be Close

Pre-election predictions that major county races would be close were borne out in unofficial reports received from city boxes in today's run-off primary election.

The biggest surprise in today's election was the large increase in the balloting over the first primary a month ago. Starting early, voters swamped the polling places thruout the morning. In some precincts the counting fell far behind the balloting.

Reports received by The Press at noon from about half of the 106 precincts indicated that a total vote of 21,800 had been cast at that time. It appeared possible that the total of 36,700 cast last month would be exceeded.

The unofficial reports on how the vote as going indicated that James V. Allred and Tom Hunter were in a neck and neck battle for governor. William McCraw held an advantage over Walter Woodward for attorney general and Hal S. Lattimore was away out in front of John H. Sharp for the Supreme Court associate justiceship.

Races Are Nip and Tuck

In the county races, James C. Wilson Jr., and Will R. Parker were running nip and tuck in the district attorney's race. This situation was also true in the race between W. D. (Bill) Davis and Emmett Moore for county judge and C. D. (Buster) Little and Carl Smith for sheriff and Willis McGregor and George E. Hosey for criminal district judge.

Downtown boxes were reported favorable to Allred, Parker and Davis.

Hunter was running far ahead in the North and East sections of the city, with Allred making up the difference on the South Side.

North Side boxes gave Parker a lead over Wilson, Davis the advantage over Moore and McGregor a slight lead over Hosey.

Poly Precinct For Allred

Reports from some of the boxes showed the following vote:

Precinct 74, D. McRae School: Hunter, 73, Allred 103; McCraw 109, Woodward 68; Parker 93, Wilson 91; Davis 83, Moore 103; McGregor 102, Hosey 73; Smith 94, Little 94.

Precinct 49, 124 West Exchange Avenue: Hunter 103, Allred 56; McCraw 110, Woodward 54; McGregor 95, Hosey 66; Smith 106, Little 54; Parker 85, Wilson 60; Davis 115, Moore 65.

At Precinct 62, Daggett School, Wilson and Parker were running neck and neck, Emmett Moore was ahead of W. D. (Bill) Davis for county judge, James V. Allred had a wide lead over Tom Hunter for governor, and Senator Frank Rawlings was leading Frank Patterson Jr.

On the North Side, at Precinct 48, Twelfth and North Main Streets, Hunter had an almost two to one lead over Mr. Allred. Standings of other races at this box were:

Attorney General, McCraw 177, Woodward 87; Railroad Commissioner, Lon Smith 115, Pundt 151; Supreme Court, Lattimore 217, Sharp 45; Court of Civil Appeals, Brown 207, Martin 54; Flotoria Representative, Smith 99, Johnson 164; Senator, Patterson 88, Rawlings 171; Rep., Place 1, Youngblood 149, Hurley 107; Rep., Place 4, Houston 101, Farmer 156; Criminal District Judge, Hosey 130, McGregor 138; District Attorney, Parker 160, Wilson 110; County Judge, Moore 114, County Clerk, Shelton 117.

(Turn

Reports of negroes voting in several precincts were received. These reports were from Precinct 59, at 911 Evans Avenue, and Precinct 56, Chambers Hill Fire Hall. The negro vote question has been left to the discretion of precinct officials.

A few challenges had been issued on exemption certificates this morning, but County Chairman Small reported that a check showed each to be valid.

All banks were closed.

Supervisors were on duty at all polling places to assist officials in keeping illegal votes out of the ballot boxes.

"No beer" signs were hung out on establishments selling brew. The "lid" will be clamped on the sale of beer until 8 p. m., under the law.

Betting at Even Money.

Betting on the major races was on an even basis. Few odds were being offered, except in instances where "sentiment" prevailed over political judgment.

Because of the short ballot in this election, County Chairman Hugh Small is confident complete results will be made known by Sunday night. Officials have been told to speed up the counting of ballots, and to make reports as early as possible. The counting of ballots began an hour after the polls opened at 7 a. m. They will close at 7 p. m.

Mr. Small also is confident illegal voting will be prevented, because of warnings sent to election officials, and publicity incident to the Young Democrats' investigation of the alleged issuance of illegal exemption certificates.

To Make Hourly Reports.

Mr. Small for the second time will receive unofficial returns at the Courthouse tonight. Officials have been instructed to make hourly reports, in event they have not completed counting all ballots. In past years, the unofficial returns have been made to the county clerk.

Votes cast in today's primary will be canvassed by the county executive committee next Satur-

Number of Votes By Precincts

Below will be found the number of votes cast in about half of the precincts in the county at 11 a. m. The first figure is the precinct number, next is the location and the last figure is the vote cast:

Prec.	Where	No. Votes
19	Odd Fellows Hall, First and Sylvania	226
51	E. Diamond Hill School	19[illegible]
105	Meadowbrook Methodist Church	23[illegible]

Political - 1934 II Texas.

Suffrage.

90—1349 East Richmond ..209
62—Daggett School 215
77—2800 Lipscomb 238
78—3101 Hemphill 260
14—3900 Hemphill 307
10—Glenwood Fire Hall...194
58—1001 Bessie 134
59—911 Evans 82
80—Vickery School 178
1—Second and Commerce..129
57—Rotary Park 133
97—Scheumack Tabernacle.174
11—Fire Hall, Vaugh Blvd. 320
75—Wm. James Jr. High..264
49—124 West Exchange...211
16—Hi-Mount School 120
64—Store, 3204 Cp. Bowie 228
103—3128 Camp Bowie, Church 202
86—Fire Hall, Carleton and Bowie 244
94—Arlington Hts. School, 5100 Camp Bowie 186
8—Lipscomb and Magnolia 189
60—1608 Fairmount 233
92—906 West 25th St.....253
95—2200 Forest Park Blvd. 211
48—Fire Hall, 12th and North Main 300
82—Riverside High School 331
81—Carlson School, T.C.U. 304
76—Lily B. Clayton School 157
73—New York and Maddox 156
7—Jennings Jr. High 133
55—Fourth and Throck....142
74—D. McRae School 198
4—Central Fire Hall 175
3—1112 Commerce, Fire Hall 100
71—Allen and Alston Ave. 212
67—Denver School 221
87—N. Side High School...272
17—2803 Azle Avenue 209
68—Sam Rosen School 265
61—Peach Street, Fire Hall.109
101—1608 Sylvania 119
102—4107 Grapevine Road..129
103—Baptist Temple 226
57—Rotary Park 135
94—Arlington Hts. School..208
35—Grapevine 275
26—Arlington, North 410
33—Mansfield 145
46—Azle 52
41—Smithfield 90
29—Kennedale 54
23—Crowley 65
40—Keller 112
90—1349 East Richmond ..149

VERNON, TEX.
VERNON DAILY RECORI

AUG 22 1934

The Proposal To Abolish the Poll Tax.

During the present campaign much of the discussion involving the governorship and seats in the Legislature has to do with matters of taxation. There is one phase of the question, however, which seems to be receiving more consideration than is warranted by its importance. The poll tax is negligible as compared with other taxes and does not represent a very large item in the State's financial ledger. The reason, of course, that it is being given considerable attention is not its size. As a tax relief measure its repeal is of small consequence. It is interesting because poll taxes must be paid in order to qualify for voting.

Advocates of repeal base their contention upon the principle that the privilege of voting is an inherent right of the citizen and because of that it should not be made the object of taxation. This position is not altogether sound. Practically all states limit in some way the right to vote, basing such limitations upon the principle that the well being of the state is the paramount consideration in determining who shall be entitled to vote.

In some instances, literacy tests are imposed. In others ability to speak and understand the English language is a requirement. In a few states where there is a large element of population of alien origin citizenship in the United States is required. In the South, we have, in effect, limited participation in elections to white citizens. Various means have been employed to accomplish this result, but the general sentiment in the South where there is a large Negro population is that this limitation is essential to satisfactory functioning of government.

In Texas the limitation of the franchise has been sought through the poll tax. Perhaps some of those who are now advocating repeal of the poll tax have ignored some of the possibilities of poll tax repeal. At any rate it would be helpful if they should frankly state whether they favor removing limitations on the right to vote which were adopted as a means of safeguarding the ballot box.

The amount of the poll tax is so small that its removal will afford no relief for those who pay other taxes. Nor is it too much to ask citizens who pay no other taxes to make this small contribution to the support of their government. The only reasonable explanation of the demand for the repeal of the poll tax is that it is supposed to be popular.

TOWNSEND NAMED DEFENDANT AGAIN BY HOUSTON NEGRO

Grovey Seeks Damages In Justice of Peace Court For Deprivation of Right To Cast Absentee Ballot — Atkins, Wesley and Wells Legal Counsel.

Repercussions of the Democratic primary election of July 28, 1934, were heard in Houston Monday, when R. R. Grovey, well-known political leader and tonsorial artist, filed a civil suit against Albert Townsend, defeated clerk of Harris County, for $10 damages as a result of being denied the constitutional right to cast an absentee ballot in the first partisan primary election of the current summer.

Mr. Grovey is represented by Attorneys J. Alston Atkins and Carter W. Wesley of Houston and A. S. Wells of Dallas. The case is styled number 63,915 and was filed in justice court, precinct number one, position number two, presided over by Justice of Peace Campbell R. Overstreet, and will be set down for a hearing Monday, September 24, 1934.

The petition, much shorter than those heretofore filed here in the federal court, alleges that the plaintiff (Grovey) was legally qualified and entitled to vote under the statutes of Texas and the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments to the federal constitution; that the defendant (Townsend) is a duly elected state officer whose duties are ministerial and that in such capacity it was mandatory upon him to permit every qualified voter seeking to cast an absentee ballot, to do so; that having been refused such ballot plaintiff has been damaged to the amount of $10.

The petition contends that the Democratic State Convention, also a governmental instrumentality, was and is without authority to deprive any qualified voter of his franchise rights as a partisan elector, and it also attacks the decision of the Texas Supreme Court handed down July 20, 1934, in the case of Bell et al vs Hill et al from Jefferson County.

The petitioner asserts that the state supreme court reversed itself from the position taken in the case of Love vs Wilcox, when that august tribunal upheld the validity of article 3107, empowering state executive committees of political parties in Texas to prescribe qualifications for party membership.

Negroes Voted All Over Texas In The Primary

Houston Informer 8-11-34

Despite Allred, Supreme Court dicta, and democratic resolutions and Ku Klux Klan scares, investigation shows that Negroes voted right briskly in the first primary election.

In El Paso, Negro ballots were accepted, but marked "scorned." Dr. L. A. Nixon, the indomitable champion of Negroes' rights to vote, has filed suit to force election judges to count his ballot.

Phil Register, president of Eagle Eye Voters Club, furnishes us with evidence showing that Negroes not only voted in numbers, but that their votes were counted in Fort Worth.

In Waller County, Negroes were invited to the polls and voted by request.

Again, Waco Ngroes voted. Last, but not least, Negroes voted in Houston, where local papers had waved the flaming cross scare. It looks like while the reactionaries are settling quesitons with convenient opinions, Negroes are quietly slipping into the primary. Believe it or not, there was no report of any white person suffocating or dropping dead at the polls because Negroes had been in them! It is strange how simple and easy facts are as compared to fiction, scares and lies.

Addenda: Since we wrote the above Mr. Register has informed us that the democratic executive committee of Tarrant County (Fort Worth) formally and deliberately counted the Negro votes cast in the July primary.

New York Evening Post
AUG 13 1934

FARLEY CRITICIZED IN COLOR BAR ROW

Negroes Say Constitution Is Violated in Texas as Race Is Barred From Polls

Failure of James A. Farley, as chairman of the Democratic national committee, to act on the exclusion of qualified Negroes from the Democratic primaries in Texas, was denounced today by the National Association for the Advancement of the Colored People.

Walter White, secretary of the association, conveyed his protest in a letter to Emil Hurja, assistant to Farley.

May Be in Error

"It may be that I am in error," White declared, "but it does seem to me that the chairman of the Democratic national committee can point out to State Democratic committees which are violating the Federal Constitution and express decisions of the United States Supreme Court that they are permitting race prejudice to damage the party."

White announced today that evidence has been forwarded to the Department of Justice calling for Federal action against Texas election officials.

Protests against exclusion from the Democratic primaries have been received from Waco, Houston, El Paso, Austin and Beaumont, Tex.

Overrules United States Court

The Texas Supreme Court, on July 20, overruled a decision of the United States Supreme Court which stated that Negroes must be permitted to vote in the primaries.

White said today that the color bar in Texas Democratic primaries will constitute the major activity of his association henceforth and will be carried into States in which Negro Democrats form the balance of power in the coming elections, unless the Department of Justice and Farley act at once.

DALLAS, TEX.
TIMES HERALD

AUG 8 1934

VIEWPOINT OF AN ILLINOIS CITIZEN

To The Times Herald:

Having noticed recently, a statement to the effect that Texas is again prohibiting negroes from voting the primaries, I wish to quote from an article, entitled, "The Brightness of Black," by Rev. Edward F. Murphy S. S. J., Ph. D., in the August number of the national Catholic magazine, "The Sign."

"Negro scholars have been rightly indignant that recorded history has been in the nature of a conspiracy against African worth, and that a sin of silence has been generally committed against the more presentable Ethiopian facts. At the fair example of His Holiness, delving for the gold of truth, and so inspiring his sons and daughters to do the same, their feelings should be much relieved. What earnestly Catholic mind would blind itself to negro possibilities, in the light of the able African past, so freely accredited by the Father of Christendom? What true Catholic heart could close itself against a people tragically fallen from an olden splendor and made, through an interminable night. I tread the winepress? What Christian hand can refuse to lend itself to the ideal of ending this bitter exile from human appreciation and consideration?"

We are still holding the bushel over the candle, we still have not gone the two miles, we are still holding on to the cloak when it should have been given with the coat! Worthy! Indeed we are expecting a New Deal, but we are not ready for a New Deal, and how can Southern women hope to abolish lynching so long as these barbarous processions are aided and abetted by the more influential, who use the ballot as their tacit aide de camp?

ADA MARY GOETZ.
Lawrenceville, Ill.

WHY NOT CONTEST THE ELECTION?

The Defender 8-11-34 Houston Texas

Negroes in Texas have exhausted about every legal recourse and remedy in their efforts to exercise their elective franchise rights in all public elections, including the Democratic party primaries.

Despite the citizenship and suffrage amendments to the constitution of the United States, and the various federal civil and criminal codes dealing with the rights of citizens to vote and the penalties provided for those who interfere with qualified electors exercising these constitutional and inherent rights; notwithstanding two decisions on this question by the United States Supreme Court and a federal district court in this state, Texas Negroes seem as far from the ballot as when they first launched their court fight to outlaw and invalidate the vicious and discriminatory primary election laws of this state.

Futile attempts have been made repeatedly to obtain injunctions in both state and federal district courts of Texas, while even the higher and highest courts of the state have been petitioned for a mandatory writ to compel public officials to perform their ministerial duties under the revised civil statutes of this state in connection with such public elections.

BRECKENRIDGE, TEX.
AMERICAN

AUG 1 1934

A New Problem Bobs Up—When Is a Mexican a Spaniard?

There is another political puzzle in Travis county. Mexicans, native or adopted, were barred from the July primary unless they were able to show that they are of Spanish origin—or to be exact, of Caucasion origin. All the brothers in black have been barred on account of color.

In the sister state of Oklahoma there are thousands of full blood and half blood Indians who are democratic voters and many of their major and minor office holders are of Indian blood and ancestry. Alas. Poor Lo! First the white man grabbed all his land and destroyed all his game in what is known as the United States of America. Over in Mexico Poor Lo held his own and many of the most illustrious sons of Mexico have been of the Indian race.

Will Rogers has the floor. He is listed as the greatest of American humorists, among the greatest of American fliers and globe-trotters, one of the greatest drawing cards of the screen industry and is a daily contributor to the first pages of more than 700 newspapers. It is possible that if Will Rogers were a citizen of Texas he would be barred from the voting places unless he could show a large strain of Spanish blood—no, not of Spanish but of Celtic blood. This is a funny old world and there are many queer players in the arena of political battling and balloting.

White Daily Newspapers

Negroes of Texas have only praise for the stand in which the Dallas News and the Dallas Journal have taken in recent months on the question of the disfranchisement of the million Negroes of Texas, who constitute one-sixth of the population of the state. The News and the Journal have said boldly that this policy of depriving Negroes of their ballot was wrong, and they have pointed clearly to the fact that the Democratic primary elections in this state are wholly statutory, and not merely the expressions of opinion by a private organization.

White daily newspapers can do more than any other organ to promote justice and fair play to all citizens. Let us hope that others will follow the lead of the Dallas News and the Dallas Journal.

TEXAS NEGRO CIVIC LEAGUE

Defender 8-18-34 Houston

After much discussion and agitation of the question, a group of representative colored citizens of Texas, responding to a call previously issued by several Texans of color, assembled in Galveston Thanksgiving Day and launched a statewide organization to be known as Texas Negro Civic League.

Numbered among those present were several men prominent in the educational, fraternal, religious, business, professional and political life of the race in Texas, marking the first time that some of these men had ever attended any meeting of a similar or kindred nature.

It was the consensus of opinion that Texas Negroes can never hope to exercise and enjoy their constitutional rights as citizens by sporadic and intermittent actions; but this goal can only be attained by uninterrupted action stretching over the years, through proper leadership and the moral and material support of the people.

While some advocated making the proposed organization a sort of affiliate to some existing state or national organization, it was finally decided to project a separate and independent movement which, while working in cooperation with all organizations seeking to improve the Negro's status in this state, would have its own setup, program and objective.

The conference exercised great care to pick what those present considered the most available men for the various posts of responsibility, and the fact was emphasized that officers were not being elected merely for the honor of holding certain offices, but for the express purpose of outlining and executing a program that will prove helpful and beneficial to every Negro in the state.

To this end it was decided to establish local branches in the various communities of the state, having any appreciable Negro population, to the end that a robust, vigorous, far-flung and highly-functioning statewide organization not only would be projected, but maintained and kept alive.

Texas is known as the birthplace of more "Negro organizations and racial movements," most of which either die a-borning or expire prematurely, than any other sister state below the mythical Mason and Dixon line, and this, in a large measure, accounts for the present sad plight and dilemma of the race in Texas, both religiously, politically, educationally, commercially, economically, socially and otherwise.

If Texas Negroes are earnest and sincere about exercising and enjoying their full and free citizenship rights and warranties, they will throw the full measure of their strength and support behind this, their own racial movement.

Political - 1934 I. Texas

Suffrage

MEXIA, TEX.
NEWS

JUN 19 1934

LIMESTONE DEMOCRATS MAY BAR NEGRO PRIMARY VOTE

PETITION HAS OPPOSITION OF PARTY LEADERS

County Committee Meeting Monday Afternoon

ASSESS TICKET

Candidates Await News of Place on Ballot

With a fight over the right of negroes to vote on their hands members of Limestone County Democratic Executive Committee gathered Monday afternoon in Groesbeck, with Chairman George Stallworth scheduled to preside for the first time. A petition of nine negroes for the right to vote in the county was prsented but opposition developed and a movement was underway to adopt a resolution favoring a "white" Democratic primary, so far as lies in power of the committee.

There were possibilities that the personnel of the candidates for governor might be drawn into the discussion, one group favoring the negro vote while leaders for another candidate opposing. It was feared a decision to permit negro voters would result in a "white-man's" primary preceeding the Democratic primary.

A long list of candidates was on hand to draw for places on the ballot, and hear how much it will cost them to have their names printed on the election ballot.

BEAUMONT, TEX.
ENTERPRISE
JUN 19 1934

Negroes Banned in Lufkin Vote

LUFKIN, Texas, June 18.—The county executive committee today denied negroes the right to vote in the forthcoming primary election.

JEFFERSON COUNTY PARTY LEADERS TO REMOVE COLOR BAR

BEAUMONT, Texas—(DPS)—Meeting here June 18, the Democratic executive committee of Jefferson County, voted 18 to 10 to bar Negro Democrats from the primary elections of July 28 and August 25, 1934, and decided to insert on the back of the ballot the pledge, "I am a white Democrat," etc.

Undismayed be this illegal action, Negro Democrats of Beaumont and Port Arthur have planned legal action and have employed legal counsel to enjoin the party committeemen and election officials from excluding any qualified voters from the partisan primaries of July and August.

Now the local party leaders are doubtful if the ballot will be legal with the "white Democrat" pledge, and a call meeting of the committee will be held Saturday to take further action on this matter. It is predicted here that the committee will rescind its action of June 18 and throw open the primaries to all eligible voters.

J. R. Edmonds, county chairman and ex-officio member of the primary committe, said that his committee is doubtful of its legal ground in going ahead and having the "white Democrat" pledge printed on the ballot as ordered by the committee at its statutory meeting.

Jefferson County was the only county in Texas, with a large Negro population, whose Democratic executive committee voted to bar Negro Democrats from the primary elections of 1934; and as such action is illegal and has no legal status court action will be resorted to by Negro Democrats if the committee persists in trying to exclude Negroes from participating in its partisan elections.

PORT ARTHUR, TEX.
NEWS

JUN 25 1934

COUNTY BALLOT IS INCOMPLETE

Negro Seclusion Question Baffles Committee

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, June 25.—After three hours spent in disposing of routine matters incident to drafting the official ballot, the primary sub-committee of the county democratic executive committee recessed shortly before noon until 2 o'clock without having acted on the question of excluding negros from the July 28 polls.

After resuming its session this afternoon the committee was scheduled to take up that perplexing question. Indications were that committeemen, convinced that the county group "lacked authority" to order the white pledge put on the ballot, would leave it off, thereby throwing down the bars which since reconstruction days have restricted democratic elections to white citizens.

"Our hands are tied," Secretary P. A. Dowlen told reporters today. "I'll be John Browned if I'm willing to invite federal injunctions against this committee and prosecutions of it by going contrary to the law. I'm going to do my duty and abide by the law, no matter what anybody else does. I'll take my instructions from the U. S. supreme court rather than from a county committee that has no authority."

A majority of his colleagues on the sub-committee appear to concur in Dowlen's view.

Their opinion is that since the state democratic organization, vested with the power to order a "white man's election," deliberately refuse to exercise it, the county committee is helpless.

Cites State Ballot

"This official state ballot doesn' say anything about a white vote pledge, and we can't add anything to it," Dowlen said, exhibiting a copy of the list of state candidates whose names will appear on the county ballot.

The general county committee last week voted 18 to 10 to head the county ballot with the "white democrat" pledge.

The ballot handed Jefferson voters this year will be three feet long and eight inches wide. The 1932 ballot, although listing more names, was four inches shorter. Names of candidates will be printed in eight point capitals. The American Printing company of Beaumont will print the ballots numbering more than 60,000.

Two Candidates Out

Two candidates have withdrawn from their races, it was announced. One of these is A. J. Blanton of Port Neches, who was offering for the post of county school superintendent. The other is Allen Smith of Port Arthur, who was seeking election as county commissioner of precinct two.

Eighteen candidates have not paid their required ballot fee at noon today. Dowlen said they would be allowed until midnight to make their payments. Those who do not settle by that hour will be automatically stricken from the ballot.

MEXIA, TEX.
NEWS

JUN 23 1934

FREESTONE CO. TO DISCOURAGE VOTE OF NEGRO

Anderson Says His Party Always Was White Man's

TEAGUE — The vexing problem being faced by many county Democratic committees regarding the negro vote in the primary is causing no concern in Freestone county, accoring to J. G. Anderson, county chairman.

"Unless I am given definite instructions by the state committee, I will adhere to the precedent established in previous years," said Mr. Anderson. "The negroes never have voted in the primaries in the county, and I don't believe that they will care this year. They recognize that the Democratic party is a 'white man's party' and to date have shown no great desire to participate in our primary.

"Precinct chairmen in Freestone county will be instructed to use their own judgment in the matter. Discouragement rather than flat denial of voting privileges will be our plan."

Mr. Anderson revealed the noval plan followed in the Butler precinct, where the negro voters outnumber the whites.

"The candidates for justice of the peace and constable in that precinct do not file with the county Democratic committee. There are no Democratic nominees from that precinct, and in the general elections, in November, aspiring candidates are chosen by the mixed electorate. This plan has been working for a good number of years, and seems to be the best solution for that particular precinct."

BEAUMONT, TEX.
ENTERPRISE
JUN 19 1934

Democratic Committee Votes To Bar Negroes at Party Primary Election July 28

Order of Names on Ballot Decided and Cost Set at $7500; Assessments Range Up to $180

A white democratic primary election will be held in Jefferson county on July 28, the county democratic executive committee decided in adopting a resolution by a vote of 18 to 10 in the courthouse yesterday.

The resolution, which was offered by O. S. Hunter of Beaumont and given strong support by George W. Morgan of Beaumont and others, pledges the county democratic organization to hold "a strictly white primary" and specifies that the usual "I am a white democrat" pledge shall head the ballot.

Aside from the discussion preceding adoption of the resolution, the meeting was devoted wholly to the routine of deciding the cost of the July and August primaries and to arranging the order of candidates' names on the official ballot.

To Cost $7500

Krause Earhart, chairman of the finance committee, after being closeted with his committee, reported to the county committee that estimated expenses of the two primaries amounted to about $7500, which is the approximate cost two years ago.

Assessment for county judge candidates and seekers of other major county offices will be about $180, and $90 for county commissioner candidates, and from nothing up to about $82 for various precinct candidates.

The resolution to bar negroes from voting in the county primaries was adopted after P. A. Dowlen, secretary of the executive committee, warned the committeemen such action was illegal and that the county committee was without authority to restrict the voting to white citizens since the state committee failed to do so.

U. S. Action Feared

He declared the commitee would be stopped by federal injunction in prescribing voting requirements not authorized by the state executive committee. S. E. Bigham of Beaumont warned his colleagues that efforts to restrict voting might precipitate state and federal grand jury indictments.

Mr. Hunter, Mr. Morgan, Mr. Earhart and Oscar Cuniff, election judges, stated that since many of the judges declared they will bar negroes from their precinct polls on their own initiative, the committee should shoulder the responsibility of restricting the voting. Major Bell and others concurred in this stand.

Permanent committees were appointed by J. R. Edmonds, chairman of the executive committee, as follows:

Primary committee, Mark Majors, chairman; A. J. LeBlanc, F. B. Hammers, M. A. McCree and P. A. Dowlen.

Finance committee, Krause Earhart, chairman; M. G. McGee, F. B. Hammers, Roy H. Guess and J. H. Goodwin.

Some Yet To Be Drawn

With the exception of the races of county superintendent of schools county commissioner of precinct 2 and justice of the peace of precinct 7, in which new drawings will be made for the final lineup of names the July primary ballot will appear as follows:

The state, district, county and precinct candidates will appear on the official ballot in the following order:

State Ticket

For United States Senator: 1—Jos. W. Bailey, Jr., of Dallas; 2—Tom Connally of Falls county; 3—Guy B. Fisher of San Augustine county.

For governor: 1—Tom F. Hunter of Wichita county; 2—Edward K. Russell of Red River county; 3—Maury Hughes of Dallas county; 4—C. C. McDonald of Wichita county; 5—Edgar Witt of McLennan county; 6—James V. Allred of Wichita county; 7—Clint Small of Potter county.

For Lieutenant Governor: 1—Walter F. Woodul of Harris county; 2—J. P. Rogers of Harris county; 3—Ben F. Berkeley of Brewster county; 4—R. M. Johnson of Anderson county; 5—John Hornsby of Travis county; 6—Joe Moore of Hunt county.

For Attorney General: 1—Walter Woodward of Coleman county; 2—William McGraw of Dallas county; 3—Clyde E. Smith of Tyler county.

For State Comptroller of Public Accounts: 1—J. J. Jack Patterson of Dallas county; 2—Manley H. Clary of Tarrant county; 3—Dolph B. Tillison of Henderson county; 4—George H. Sheppard of Nolan county.

For State Treasurer: 1—Dennis B. Waller of Trinity county; 2—Kay Griffin of Tarrant county; 3—Charley Lockhart of Travis county; 4—George B. Terrell of Dallas county.

For State Superintendent of Public Instruction: 1—L. A. Woods of Travis county.

For Commissioner of Agriculture: 1—Fred W. Davis of Travis county; 2—K. Terrell of Floyd county; 3—J. E. McDonald of Ellis county; 4—C. C. Conley of Willacy county.

For Commissioner of the General Land Office: 1—Walter E. Jones of Gregg county; 2—J. H. Walker of Hill county.

For State Railroad Commissioner: 1—James L. McNees of Dallas county; 2—H. O. Johnson of Harris county; 3—John Pundt of Dallas county; 4—W. Gregory Hatcher of Dallas county; 5—Lon A. Smith of Travis county.

For Associate Justice of Supreme Court: 1—H. S. Lattimore of Tarrant county; 2—James W. McClendon of Travis county; 3—John H. Sharp of Ellis county.

For Judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals: W. C. Morrow of Hill county.

County Ticket

Representative, District No. 15, Flotorial: E. C. McGlaun, B. E. Quinn, A. E. Josephson, Lawson Wimberly.

Representative, District No. 16, Place 1: DeWitt Kinnard, H. L. McKee.

Representative, District No. 16, Place 2: Wilhelmine B. Sheffield, Nelson Carter, John K. Casey, C. [illegible] Nicholson.

Associate Justice, Ninth Court of Civil Appeals: J. M. Combs.

Judge, Fifty-Eighth District Court: H. C. Keen, George C. O'Brien.

Judge, Criminal District Court: R. L. Murray.

District Clerk: R. E. Cowan, E. Kirby Smith.

County Judge: B. B. Johnson, E. J. Diffenbacher, N. W. Oakley, J. M. Pickett, M. V. Proctor.

County Attorney

County Attorney: A. M. (Archie) Linscome, E. W. Easterling, John T. Kitching, O. I. Baker.

County Court-at-Law: Nola White, C. W. Weidemann, C. N. Ellis, E. B. (Tubby) Lamson.

Assessor and Collector of Taxes: Dan Leak, George T. McGee, Floyd Pipkin.

Sheriff: W. W. Richardson, O. Lee, Jr., M. B. Word, R. C. Shultz.

County Surveyor: Forrest Daniell.

County Clerk: Fred G. Hill.

County Treasurer: Horace C. Blades, W. W. (Pat) Kent, Levi Simmons, M. O. Skipwith.

County School Superintendent: Mrs. Lillian Planchard, C. E. Doyle, B. C. Howell, A. L. Blanton, Max Brau.

Commissioner, Precinct 1: Tom Shefried, Ben F. Shipley, J. Lee Turner, F. T. Seiler, I. A. Smith.

Commissioner, Precinct 2: Allan H. Smith, George L. Davis, John H. Currie, H. O. Mills, C. G. Parker, A. J. Loidold.

Commissioner, Precinct 3: L. Welch.

Commissioner, Precinct 4: Sam Hughes, John Hatley, Felix M. Hebert, W. A. Drake.

Justice of Peace

Justice of the Peace, Precinct 1, Place 1: Marcus Finegold, W. G. Turner, Ray V. Watson.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct 1, Place 2: R. A. McReynolds, T. A. Pressly, L. E. Ezell.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct 2, Place 1: L. S. McQuire.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct 2, Place 2: B. H. Wiley, R. G. Robertson.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct 3: Carlton Adamson.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct 4: H. E. Phend.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct 6: A. C. L. Weitzel, T. C. Kornegay.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct 7: E. B. Moye, R. L. McElvain, Jr.

Constanble, Precinct 1: C. O. Babin, C. D. Blanchette, L. Hudler, Iva Tevis, George Rainer, J. D. (Jack) Graham, A. L. Wells.

Constable, Precinct two: J. I. Hebert, B. P. Beard, Jake Berwick, J. W. (Country) Kelly, J. R. Simmons.

Constable, Precinct three: R. H. Yoakum.

Constable, Precinct four: O. H. Brendt.

Constable, Precinct five: Alonzo (Bo) Goings, Theophile E. Daigle, J. O. Dennison.

Constable, Precinct six: Joe R. Shelander, C. M. Caskey, F. R. (Jack) Buchholz.

Constable, Precinct seven: A. R. Felder, P. F. Sanderson, Luther Fore, Tom Wells, Gosper Virgilia.

Chairman, county democratic executive committee, J. R. Edmonds, Clem Wall.

PARIS, TEX.
PARIS MORNING NEWS
JUN 19 1934

Negro Vote Considered

Decision Will Be Left to Presiding Officers of Precincts

Whether negroes are to be allowed to vote in the Lamar county Democratic primaries was one of the matters presented to the county executive committee at its statutory session Monday afternoon. Sam Maxey appeared at the meeting and addressed the committee, saying that there was interest in the matter among his people, that they were living here, paying taxes and trying to make good citizens, and that the primary was the only place where they felt they could have a real voice in the choice of officials. The committee heard his request and decided it was not in its province to make a declaration either way, leaving the matter, in effect, to the discretion of the presiding officers at each voting precinct. No additional filings were received through the mail, the committee announced.

The matters required by the statutes were transacted by the committee. Vacancies were filled in the membership of the committee, coused by death or removal, including election of Hugh Jones at Medill, R. R. Crutchfield at Direct, J. H. Lynch at Chicota, W. Kemper at Emberson and Bedford Booth for Precinct 45.

The double primary was ordered on motion of J. W. Milligan, after some discussion, opposition being led by R. M. Robinson who has always been opposed to a primary, he said, for state nominees, and to anything but a single primary for others. The vote was 13 to 6 for the double primary.

Pat Warner, W. J. Morrow, F. B. Strother, J. V. Gose and Jesse Gunn were named as a committee to draw the names of candidates for position on the tickets and J. R. Hutcherson, Joe Pollard and Morgan Johnson to make the assessment for the cost of the election.

Presiding officers for each election precinct were appointed and the committee approved the schedule of assessments recommended by the state executive committee. These assessments must be paid by Saturday, June 23, Mr. Patterson announced.

AUSTIN, TEX.
AMERICAN
JUN 19 1934

Local Dem Board Awaits Action By State on Negroes

Black Voters Go Before Executive Group Of County

A committee of negroes who "desired to become democrats" went away from the Travis county party executive meeting Monday morning believing they had been promised the right to participate in the July 23 primary.

But Monday afternoon, J. M. Patterson, county chairman, said the matter of participation was up to the state executive committee and that until it makes a decision the local committee will do nothing.

Last week, the state committee met here and heard negro voters ask for permission to vote in the primaries. A sub-committee gave the negroes to understand they would be permitted to vote, but refused to recommend to the general meeting that such action be ordered. No further meetings of the state committee is expected until after the July primary.

Protests Sent to Committee

A supreme court decision, which held negroes were eligible to vote in Texas primaries is the force governing the situation.

Whether the names of H. C. Nelle for commissioner of Precinct 1 and George O. Menefee for justice of the peace of Precinct 3, Place No. 1, will be placed on the ballot was referred to the primary election committee, which will meet at 10 a. m. Wednesday. Members of the committee are: J. M. Patterson, ex-officio chairman; George W. Best, Hardy Hollers and J. M. Ramsey, all of Austin; R. L. Smith, Dessau and William Lychman, Lund.

Right of Nelle to run as a candidate for commissioner was challenged by O. A. Newberg of Govalle, who contends Nelle was not a resident of the precinct six months prior to the primary election. Nelle moved last week from 4512 Red River to 3061½ East 16th street, and is now a resident of Precinct 1. Prior to moving to Austin in 1923, Nelle had lived 42 years just north of Manor.

The commissioners court last August changed the boundary line between Precincts 1 and 2, moving it primaries was $1,823 which the committee said was about $150 less than cost two years ago. The committee aid was about $150 less than the cost two years ago. The candidates are required by law to pay the assessments by Saturday June 23.

the election expenses in proportion to the compensation of the offices which they aspire to. Candidates for county attorney, county judge, county school superintendent, district attorney, clerk, sheriff, and tax collector were assessed $50, and all other county and precinct candidates $5 each. These assessments must be paid by Saturday, June 23, Mr. Patterson announced.

George H. Nyegaard, candidate for the legislature, asked that the former assessment of $1 be made for the legislative candidates, explaining he is a disabled war veteran in need of a job and that he draws no

Candidates Assessed

Menefee filed his application in a letter which was postmarked at 10:30 p. m. Saturday, one and one-half hours before the deadline for filing. Chmn. Patterson received the letter Monday morning at 8:30 a. m., he said.

Candidates were assessed their $225 each. Candidates for the legislature were assessed $50, and all other county and precinct candidates $5 each. These assessments must be paid by Saturday, June 23, Mr. Patterson announced.

George H. Nyegaard, candidate for the legislature, asked that the former assessment of $1 be made for the legislative candidates, explaining he is a disabled war veteran in need of a job and that he draws no of Precinct 3, and for constable of Precinct 2, were assessed $65 each.

BEAUMONT, TEX.
ENTERPRISE

JUN 19 1934

Democratic Committee Votes To Bar Negroes at Party Primary Election July 28

Order of Names on Ballot Decided and Cost Set at $7500; Assessments Range Up to $180

A white democratic primary election will be held in Jefferson county on July 28, the county democratic executive committee decided in adopting a resolution by a vote of 18 to 10 in the courthouse yesterday.

The resolution, which was offered by O. S. Hunter of Beaumont and given strong support by George W. Morgan of Beaumont and others, pledges the county democratic organization to hold "a strictly white primary" and specifies that the usual "I am a white democrat" pledge shall head the ballot.

Aside from the discussion preceding adoption of the resolution, the meeting was devoted wholly to the routine of deciding the cost of the July and August primaries and to arranging the order of candidates' names on the official ballot.

To Cost $7500

Krause Earhart, chairman of the finance committee, after being closeted with his committee, reported to the county committee that estimated expenses of the two primaries amounted to about $7500, which is the approximate cost two years ago.

Assessment for county judge candidates and seekers of other major county offices will be about $180, and $90 for county commissioner candidates, and from nothing up to about $82 for various precinct candidates.

The resolution to bar negroes from voting in the county primaries was adopted after P. A. Dowlen, secretary of the executive committee, warned the committeemen such action was illegal and that the county committee was without authority to restrict the voting to white citizens since the state committee failed to do so.

U. S. Action Feared

He declared the commitee would be stopped by federal injunction in prescribing voting requirements not authorized by the state executive committee. S. E. Bigham of Beaumont warned his colleagues that efforts to restrict voting might precipitate state and federal grand jury indictments.

Mr. Hunter, Mr. Morgan, Mr. Earhart and Oscar Cuniff, election judges, stated that since many of the judges declared they will bar negroes from their precinct polls on their own initiative, the committee should shoulder the responsibility of restricting the voting. Major Bell and others concurred in this stand.

Permanent committees were appointed by J. R. Edmonds, chairman of the executive committee, as follows:

Primary committee, Mark Majors, chairman; A. J. LeBlanc, F. B. Hammers, M. A. McCree and P. A. Dowlen.

Finance committee, Krause Earhart, chairman; M. G. McGee, F. B. Hammers, Roy H. Guess and J. H. Goodwin.

Some Yet To Be Drawn

With the exception of the races of county superintendent of schools, county commissioner of precinct 2 and justice of the peace of precinct 7, in which new drawings will be made for the final lineup of names, the July primary ballot will appear as follows:

The state, district, county and precinct candidates will appear on the official ballot in the following order:

State Ticket

For United States Senator: 1—Jos. W. Bailey, Jr., of Dallas; 2—Tom Connally of Falls county; 3—Guy B. Fisher of San Augustine county.

For governor: 1—Tom F. Hunter of Wichita county; 2—Edward K. Russell of Red River county; 3—Maury Hughes of Dallas county; 4—C. C. McDonald of Wichita county; 5—Edgar Witt of McLennan county; 6—James V. Allred of Wichita county; 7—Clint Small of Potter county.

For Lieutenant Governor: 1—Walter F. Woodul of Harris county; 2—J. P. Rogers of Harris county; 3—Ben F. Berkeley of Brewster county; 4—R. M. Johnson of Anderson county; 5—John Hornsby of Travis county; 6—Joe Moore of Hunt county.

For Attorney General: 1—Walter Woodward of Coleman county; 2—William McGraw of Dallas county; 3—Clyde E. Smith of Tyler county.

For State Comptroller of Public Accounts: 1—J. J. Jack Patterson of Dallas county; 2—Manley H. Clary of Tarrant county; 3—Dolph B. Tillison of Henderson county; 4—George H. Sheppard of Nolan county.

For State Treasurer: 1—Dennis B. Waller of Trinity county; 2—Kay Griffin of Tarrant county; 3—Charley Lockhart of Travis county; 4—George B. Terrell of Dallas county.

For State Superintendent of Public Instruction: 1—L. A. Woods of Travis county.

For Commissioner of Agriculture: 1—Fred W. Davis of Travis county; 2—K. Terrell of Floyd county; 3—J. E. McDonald of Ellis county; 4—C. C. Conley of Willacy county.

For Commissioner of the General Land Office: 1—Walter E. Jones of Gregg county; 2—J. H. Walker of Hill county.

For State Railroad Commissioner: 1—James L. McNees of Dallas county; 2—H. O. Johnson of Harris county; 3—John Pundt of Dallas county; 4—W. Gregory Hatcher of Dallas county; 5—Lon A. Smith of Travis county.

For Associate Justice of Supreme Court: 1—H. S. Lattimore of Tarrant county; 2—James W. McClendon of Travis county; 3—John H. Sharp of Ellis county.

For Judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals: W. C. Morrow of Hill county.

County Ticket

Representative, District No. 15, Flotorial: E. C. McGlaun, B. E. Quinn, A. E. Josephson, Lawson Wimberly.

Representative, District No. 16, Place 1: DeWitt Kinnard, H. L. McKee.

Representative, District No. 16, Place 2: Wilhelmine B. Sheffield, Nelson Carter, John K. Casey, C. L. Nicholson.

Associate Justice, Ninth Court of Civil Appeals: J. M. Combs.

Judge, Fifty-Eighth District Court: H. C. Keen, George C. O'Brien.

Judge, Criminal District Court: R. L. Murray.

District Clerk: R. E. Cowan, E. Kirby Smith.

County Judge: B. B. Johnson, E. J. Diffenbacher, N. W. Oakley, J. M. Pickett, M. V. Proctor.

County Attorney

County Attorney: A. M. (Archie) Linscome, E. W. Easterling, John T. Kitching, O. I. Baker.

County Court-at-Law: Nola White, C. W. Weidemann, C. N. Ellis, E. B. (Tubby) Lamson.

Assessor and Collector of Taxes: Dan Leak, George T. McGee, Floyd Pipkin.

Sheriff: W. W. Richardson, O. Lee, Jr., M. B. Word, R. C. Shultz.

County Surveyor: Forrest Daniell.

County Clerk: Fred G. Hill.

County Treasurer: Horace C. Blades, W. W. (Pat) Kent, Levi Simmons, M. O. Skipwith.

County School Superintendent: Mrs. Lillian Planchard, C. E. Doyle, B. C. Howell, A. L. Blanton, Max Brau.

Commissioner, Precinct 1: Tom Shefried, Ben F. Shipley, J. Lee Turner, F. T. Seiler, I. A. Smith.

Commissioner, Precinct 2: Allan H. Smith, George L. Davis, John H. Currie, H. O. Mills, C. G. Parker, A. J. Loidold.

Commissioner, Precinct 3: L. Welch.

Commissioner, Precinct 4: Sam Hughes, John Hatley, Felix M. Hebert, W. A. Drake.

Justice of Peace

Justice of the Peace, Precinct 1, Place 1: Marcus Finegold, W. G. Turner, Ray V. Watson.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct 1, Place 2: R. A. McReynolds, T. A. Pressly, L. E. Ezell.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct 2, Place 1: L. S. McQuire.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct 2, Place 2: B. H. Wiley, R. G. Robertson.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct 3: Carlton Adamson.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct 4: H. E. Phend.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct 6: A. C. L. Weitzel, T. C. Kornegay.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct 7: E. B. Moye, R. L. McElvain, Jr.

Constable, Precinct 1: C. O. Babin, C. D. Blanchette, L. Hudler, Iva Tevis, George Rainer, J. D. (Jack) Graham, A. L. Wells.

Constable, Precinct two: J. I. Hebert, B. P. Beard, Jake Berwick, J. W. (Country) Kelly, J. R. Simmons.

Constable, Precinct three: R. H. Yoakum.

Constable, Precinct four: O. H. Brendt.

Constable, Precinct five: Alonzo (Bo) Goings, Theophile E. Daigle, J. O. Dennison.

Constable, Precinct six: Joe R. Shelander, C. M. Caskey, F. R. (Jack) Buchholz.

Constable, Precinct seven: A. R. Felder, P. F. Sanderson, Luther Fore, Tom Wells, Gosper Virgilia.

Chairman, county democratic executive committee, J. R. Edmonds, Clem Wall.

PARIS, TEX.
PARIS MORNING NEWS

JUN 19 1934

Negro Vote Considered

Decision Will Be Left to Presiding Officers of Precincts

Whether negroes are to be allowed to vote in the Lamar county Democratic primaries was one of the matters presented to the county executive committee at its statutory session Monday afternoon. Sam Maxey appeared at the meeting and addressed the committee, saying that there was interest in the matter among his people, that they were living here, paying taxes and trying to make good citizens, and that the primary was the only place where they felt they could have a real voice in the choice of officials. The committee heard his request and decided it was not in its province to make a declaration either way, leaving the matter, in effect, to the discretion of the presiding officers at each voting precinct. No additional filings were received through the mail, the committee announced.

The matters required by the statutes were transacted by the committee. Vacancies were filled in the membership of the committee, coused by death or removal, including election of Hugh Jones at Medill, R. R. Crutchfield at Direct, J. H. Lynch at Chicota, W. Kemper at Emberson and Bedford Booth for Precinct 45.

The double primary was ordered on motion of J. W. Milligan, after some discussion, opposition being led by R. M. Robinson who has always been opposed to a primary, he said, for state nominees, and to anything but a single primary for others. The vote was 13 to 6 for the double primary.

Pat Warner, W. J. Morrow, F. B. Strother, J. V. Gose and Jesse Gunn were named as a committee to draw the names of candidates for position on the tickets and J. R. Hutcherson, Joe Pollard and Morgan Johnson to make the assessment for the cost of the election.

Presiding officers for each election precinct were appointed and the committee approved the schedule of assessments recommended by the state executive committee, which will meet at 10 a. m. Wednesday. Members of the committee are: J. M. Patterson, ex-officio chairman; George W. Best, Hardy Hollers and J. M. Ramsey, all of Austin; R. L. Smith, Dessau and William Lychman, Lund.

Right of Nelle to run as a candidate for commissioner was challenged by O. A. Newberg of Go-primaries was $1,823 which the committee said was about $150 less than cost two years ago. The committee aid was about $150 less than the cost two years ago. The candidates are required by law to pay the assessments by Saturday June 23.

AUSTIN, TEX.
AMERICAN

JUN 19 1934

Local Dem Board Awaits Action By State on Negroes

Black Voters Go Before Executive Group Of County

A committee of negroes who "desired to become democrats" went away from the Travis county party executive meeting Monday morning believing they had been promised the right to participate in the July 23 primary.

But Monday afternoon, J. M. Patterson, county chairman, said the matter of participation was up to the state executive committee and that until it makes a decision the local committee will do nothing.

Last week, the state committee met here and heard negro voters ask for permission to vote in the primaries. A sub-committee gave the negroes to understand they would be permitted to vote, but refused to recommend to the general meeting that such action be ordered. No further meetings of the state committee is expected until after the July primary.

Protests Sent to Committee

A supreme court decision, which held negroes were eligible to vote in Texas primaries is the force governing the situation.

Whether the names of H. C. Nelle for commissioner of Precinct 1 and George O. Menefee for justice of the peace of Precinct 3, Place No. 1, will be placed on the ballot was referred to the primary election committee, which will meet at 10 a. m. Wednesday. Members of the committee are: J. M. Patterson, ex-officio chairman; George W. Best, Hardy Hollers and J. M. Ramsey, all of Austin; R. L. Smith, Dessau and William Lychman, Lund.

Right of Nelle to run as a candidate for commissioner was challenged by O. A. Newberg of Go-

Candidates for the legislature were assessed $50, and all other county and precinct candidates $5 each. These assessments must be paid by midnight Saturday, June 23, Mr. Patterson announced.

Candidates Assessed

Menefee filed his application in a letter which was postmarked at Austin, one and one-half hours before the deadline for filing. Chmn. Patterson received the $225 a. m. Monday morning at 8:30 a. m., he said.

Candidates were assessed their valle, who contends Nelle was not a resident of the precinct six months prior to the primary election. Nelle moved last week from 4512 Red River to 3061½ East 16th street, and is now a resident of Precinct 1. Prior to moving to Austin in 1923, Nelle had lived 42 years just north of Manor.

The commissioners court last August changed the boundary line between Precincts 1 and 2, moving it part of the street, portion to 38th office where street, a resident of Nelle dates for Precinct 2.

Candidates Assessed in a clerk, county superintendent, district attorney, George H. Nyegaard, candidate district clerk, sheriff, and tax collector and assessor were assessed for the legislature, asked that the former assessment of $1 be made each. Candidates for county for legislative candidates, explaining he is a disabled war veteran in need of a job and that he draws no of Precinct 3, and for constable of Precinct 2, were assessed $65 each.

Political-1934 II

Suffrage

Texas

compensation. Nyegaard said the $50 assessment would work a hardship on him. The committee permitted the $50 assessment to stand after several other legislative candidates said the assessment is fair.

GALVESTON, TEX.
NEWS
JUN 19 1934

Runoff Primary Ruled for This County; Negro Vote Is Not Discussed at Meeting

A runoff primary for county offices will be held in Galveston County, according to a decision reached by members of the county democratic executive committee in session last night, when positions for places on the official ballot were drawn and fees against candidates assessed by the finance committee.

The question of negroes voting in the democratic primaries failed to come before the meeting. A large delegation of negro citizens was present at the meeting, but no discussion on the question, which has been of citywide interest, materialized.

Ben Inselman, chairman of the committee, presided with George M. Abbott serving as secretary.

Precinct vacancies were filled as follows: Precinct 10a, Charles Skarke; Precinct 10½, Vincent Licata and Precinct 19½, Dan Buckley.

The resignation of T. A. Bynum of Precinct 32, Texas City, was accepted and W. B. Tarpey named to fill the vacancy.

Finance Committee.

The following finance committee was named to assess the various candidates: E. J. Russell, E. M. Ryan, Victor Frederickson, W. F. Reitmeyer and George M. Abbott. Total assessments aggregated $7256.

Members of the primary committee were named as follows: P. J. Vautrin, B. A. Cook, J. M. Criss, Joseph Byrnes and E. M. Ryan.

Motion for holding a runoff primary in Galveston County was made by E. R. Cheesborough, who urged that the primary be held. Opposition to holding the primary was voiced by Sam Licata, who urged that the meeting adjourn. Mr. Cheesborough's motion, however, took precedent, and the committee favored the run off primary by an affirmative vote of 19.

It was ruled that four judges and four clerks be appointed in city precincts and a proportionate number in the smaller precincts.

Delegates to the county and state conventions are to be selected by ballot in the primaries. A fee of 25c for each delegate is entailed. Galveston County is entitled to 325 delegates. Names of delegates are to be filed with the secretary by July 7. The county convention is set for Aug. 4 and the state convention for Sept. 11.

Places on Ballot.

Places were drawn on the official ballot by a committee of the executive committee as follows:

United States Senator: Guy B. Fisher, Tom Connally, Joe M. Bailey Jr.

Governor: Clint Small, C. C. McDonald, Maury Hughes, Edgar F. Witt, Tom R. Hunter, F. K. Russell, James V. Allred.

Lieutenant Governor: J. R. Rogers, Ben F. Berkeley, R. M. Johnson, Joe Moore, Walter F. Woodull, John Hornsby.

Attorney general: Walter Woodull, William E. McCraw, Clyde E. Smith.

State controller of public accounts: H. C. Cleary, D. B. Tillison, J. J. Patterson, George H. Sheppard.

State treasurer: Kay Griffin, Dennis B. Waller, Charles Lockhart, George B. Terrell.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction—L. A. Woods.

Commissioner of Agriculture—K. Terrell, J. E. McDonald, C. C. Conley, Fred W. Davis.

Commissioner of General Land Office—J. H. Walker, Walter E. Jones.

State Railroad Commissioner—W. Gregory Hatcher, John Pundt, H. O. Johnson, Lon A. Smith, James L. McNees.

Associate Justice of Supreme Court—John H. Sharpe, James W. McClendon, H. S. Lattimore.

Judge of Court of Criminal Appeals—W. E. Morrox.

Representative, 17th Legislative District—Mrs. Helen B. Moore, Will H. Ford, Henry Mackay.

County Judge—E. B. Holman, H. H. Treaccar.

County Attorney—Ralph Crawford, Charles H. Theobald.

Assessor and Collector—W. E. Lewis, Hoskins Foster.

County Superintendent Public Instruction—O. E. Kennedy, A. B. Phillips, Mrs. Kathleen B. Benson.

County Commissioner, Precinct 2—W. L. Farnsworth, Humphrey Boyd.

County Commissioner, Precinct 3—Gus A. Butterowe, A. J. Warren.

Justice of Peace, Precinct 1, Court A—Charles Lawson, R. M. Kupsa.

Justice of Peace, Precinct 1, Court B—J. Scott Scoggins, Randolph Pierson.

Justice of Peace, Precinct 4—Frank Mayfield, George Schmidt.

Justice of Peace, Precinct 6—Ed Salzmann, H. C. Hurt.

Justice of Peace, Precinct 8—Andrew Johnson, L. Ely.

Constable, Precinct 1—Ed Licata, Bryan E. Burleigh, L. S. Krausse.

Constable, Precinct 2—Tom Buckley, Al Martini, B. F. Warner.

Constable, Precinct 4—Herman Mentzel, E. D. Roberts.

Constable, Precinct 5—J. O. Derrick, Tom D. Moody.

Constable, Precinct 6—Guy B Hennison, C. M. Scholes.

Constable, Precinct 8—John Peyton, George Herrington.

Executive Committee, Precinct 10—Charles J. Skarke, N. P. Blakemore.

Precinct 10½—John M. Criss, W. J. Henderson.

Precinct 17—E. R. Cheesborough, Thompson Jones.

Precinct 18—J. L. Dunn Jr., B. A. Cook.

Precinct 21—George Harrison, Oscar Nelson.

Precinct 24—George B. Delaney, W. F. Reitmeyer.

Precinct 29—W. L. Metsger, O. W. Burt.

Precinct 30—A. J. Dues, F. G. Deats, J. H. Jones.

Assessments for candidates in the July primary were announced as follows: Representative, ninth congressional district, $100; chief justice, court of civil appeals, $100; representative, 17th legislative district, $300; representative, 18th legislative district, $100.

District clerk, $475; county judge (2 candidates), $850; county attorney (2), $900; sheriff, $500; assessor and collecton (2), $850; county treasurer, $65; county clerk, $475; county surveyer, $250; county superintendent of public instruction, $750.

County commissioner, Precinct 1, $175; county commissioner, Precinct 2 (2), $300; county commissioner, Precinct 3 (2), $300; county commissioner, Precinct 4, $175; justice of peace, Precinct 1, court A (2), $300; justice of peace, Precinct 1, court B (2), $300; justice of peace, Precinct 2, $25; justice of peace, Precinct 4 (2), $10; justice of peace, Precinct 5, $20; justice of peace, Precinct 6 (3), $15; justice of peace, Precinct 7, $5; justice of peace, Precinct 8 (2), $15; constable, Precinct 1 (4), $400; constable, Precinct 2 (3), $30; constable, Precinct 4 (2), $10; constable, Precinct 5 (3), $30; constable, Precinct 6 (2), $10; constable, Precinct 7, $5; constable, Precinct 8 (2), $10; total, $7256.

CISCO, TEX.
NEWS
JUN 18 1934

1ST CANDIDATE ANNOUNCES FOR PRIMARY IN '36

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN June 18 — Jefferson G. Smith, Austin, is the first candidate for the 1936 democratic primary election. His announcement breaks all early records.

Smith withdrew from the race for state school superintendent this year. His withdrawal left present State School Superintendent L. A. Woods without an opponent. A. M. Blackmon of McCamey, who contemplated the race, had previously withdrawn. Smith said he has not given up his candidacy but only postponed it two years.

Apathy of the governor's campaign promises to be broken soon. Taking a cue from Tom Hunter, who has forged to the front by sharp attacks on Attorney-general James V. Allred, other candidates may be expected to get less polite and more antagonistic.

A. W. Von Struve, managing the Hunter campaign, admits that Hunter's hammer and tongs discussion has been a factor in his success. He says that this candidate has just begun along the line of such an attack. Other candidates as well as Allred are to be "attended to" as the election nears.

"Unmade" Crowds

Whatever the reason, Hunter has the campaign record for "unmade" crowds. Exclusive of "openings" and addresses at places which had reunions, conventions or anniversaries to draw a crowd, few of the candidates' addresses have attracted many hearers. Some have frequently addressed less than 100. One is said to have eight by count.

Polls are being taken weekly to guide Hunter's campaign. These, Von Struve said, back up Hunter's claim that he now is out in front. Next week his campaign will take a turn. He will began a series of visits to 38 cities and towns, all with more than 10,000 population.

Sharp contrast is seen in the only two statewide judgeship races. W. C. Morrow, presiding judge of the court of criminal appeals, at no time had an announced opponent. This is the more remarkable in view of the popular clamor for speeding procedure to stop the crime wave.

Hot Court Race

The place on the state supreme court, vacated by Judge T. B. Greenwood, developed one of the hottest races. It is a three-cornered one. Judge Hal S. Lattimore of the Fort Worth court of civil appeals is on the ballot for the place as "H. S." Lattimore. That little touch in the listing mean votes. "H. S." is so similar to "O. S." in initials of his father who has been uniformly successful in races for the court of criminal appeals. Another judge of a court of appeals, James W. McClendon, Austin, seeks the place. Judge John Sharp, present member of the commission to assist the supreme court, seeks it too. The ballot, through a notary's error, lists him as a resident of Travis instead of Ellis county.

The effect of Jefferson T. Baker's changing his name to George B. Terrell before running for state treasurer is dubious. Congressman George B. Terrell has denounced it and his many friends may agree that such "legal legerdemain" ought to be stopped.

Nicknames Prohibited

Use of nicknames onthe ballot is prohibited. J. J. Jack Patterson, Dallas, is listed as a candidate for comptroller. It was ruled two years ago when he ran for railroad commissioner that he could not run as J. J. (Jack) Patterson but could use the full name without a parentesis on showing that it was his true name. J. P. (Jimmie) Rogers was trimmed to J. P. Rogers in listing one of Harris county's two candidates for lieutenant governor.

Dennis B. Waller, taking the place of his brother, Rex Waller, who was killed while he was a candidate for state treasurer, announces his campaign to vindicate the name.

Decision of the state democatic executive committee to take no action on negro participation in the primary probably means a large negro vote. Much of it is in counties friendly to C. C. McDonald's candidacy. The executive committee decision is in line with court decisions. How far individual counties will seek to discourage the negro vote is uncertain. Lily white ascendancy in the republican party in Texas in recent years has led to stronger efforts of negroes to get a vote in the democratic primaries.

DALLAS, TEX.
JOURNAL

JUN 20 1934

Let the Negroes Vote

THERE IS TALK about whether election judges will let Negroes vote in the Democratic primary where the Negroes claim to be Democrats and want to vote. Any election official who refuses to let a Negro vote on grounds of color is headed straight for trouble with the Federal Government. The decisions have been handed down. There is nothing to do but obey the law.

The Journal thinks the Democratic party ought to be free to say who shall vote and who shall not vote. But the State of Texas, in its anxiety to suppress the Republican party, has taken over the Democratic party and regulated it up and regulated it down until the Federal courts conclude that the party is the creature of the State in Texas at least

The State can not exclude Negroes from primaries itself. Of course no agent of the State can exclude them. The Constitution of the United States forbids. We can but choose among three courses of action: We can take party control out of the Legislature's hands; we can abolish the primary, or we can go ahead and let the Negroes vote where they seriously propose to vote and act as Democrats. For the current primary only the last line of conduct is open to the Democrats of Dallas County.

BEAUMONT, TEX.
ENTERPRISE

JUN 26 1934

Party Committee May Be Asked to Rescind 'White Primary' Order

Fear of Federal Indictment If Negro Voters Are Barred From Democratic Election Is Expressed

Still reluctant for technical legal reasons to proceed with having the white party pledge printed on the July primary ballot, the primary subcommittee of the county democratic executive committee yesterday left the question of a local ban on negro voting to mark time until 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning.

At that time the subcommittee will meet in the office of J. R. Edmonds, chairman of the executive committee and ex officio member of the subcommittee, to consider further action.

Members Hesitant

Members of the subcommittee are admittedly hesitant about following a resolution of the countywide executive committee ordering the white pledge on the ballot, for fear of possible legal consequences.

Saturday the subcommittee will attempt to determine if it will be necessary to call a meeting of the countywide executive committee to rescind the resolution, P. A. Dowlen, secretary of the executive committee and member of the subcommittee, said after yesterday's meeting.

Lawyers To Be Consulted

"We are anxious to keep within the law," Dowlen said, "and each member of the primary committee was asked to consult a reputable lawyer and get his opinion on whether the word "white" can go on the ballot as directed by the executive committee resolution." Attorneys are to be consulted before Saturday, he said.

The state democratic committee authorized the printing of the pledge "I am a democrat . . ." on the party ballot. The whole question before the local party leaders is whether the word "white" can be inserted to make the Jefferson county ballot pledge read: "I am a white democrat . . ."

Instructions Given

The county executive committee instructed the subcommittee to have the white pledge placed on the ballots. Secretary Dowlen contends that since the pledge would head both the federal and state tickets, as well as the county ticket, the white pledge is contrary to the state pledge and a violation of the law.

He declared he had rather violate the instructions of the executive committee than "make myself liable to indictment by a state or federal grand jury." It was mentioned that the white pledge might void the primary ballots.

Mr. Dowlen said if the primary subcommittee proceeded according to the resolution, a federal injunction "will be laid on my desk before Saturday night" to stop the executive committee from preventing negroes voting in the primaries.

Injunction Opposed

Rather than cause injunction proceedings to be brought, the secretary suggested that the subcommittee wait and invite a mandamus suit from the executive committee to compel the primary subcommittee to follow the resolution.

"I'd like to see them do it," he added.

Chairman Edmonds, Mark Majors and other members of the committee appeared more doubtful of the legal status of the question than Mr. Dowlen and another meeting was agreed on with the understanding the committeemen were to seek legal advice.

BEAUMONT, TEX.
ENTERPRISE

JUN 24 1934

Move for Repudiation Of 'White Democrat' Vote Pledge Rumored

County Primary Committee Hesitant to Carry Out Executive Committee's Orders for Ballot

While members of the primary committee appeared in a quandary on what to do about the "white democrat" voter pledge that the county democratic executive committee ordered placed on the primary ballot, a rumor persisted yesterday that a definite movement is on foot to repudiate the decision of the executive committee and let down the bars to negro voters for the first time in the history of a Jefferson county primary election.

J. R. Edmonds, chairman of the executive committee and an ex-officio member of the primary committee, admitted the question of printing the "white" voter pledge on the ballot is not settled to the satisfaction of the primary committee.

Legal Points in Doubt

"There are some legal points to be decided," Chairman Edmonds said. "According to P. A. Dowlen's interpretation of the law, the primary committee cannot follow the executive committee because it conflicts with the state committee's action. I'm no lawyer and can't say, but some lawyers say we can follow the executive committee. We are going to have some lawyers pass on the legal points.

"Personally, I want to keep the election all white, but we want to do it legally," he added.

P. A. Dowlen, who is secretary of the executive committee and a member of the primary committee reiterated his previous statement that the executive committee has no legal authority to head the ballot with the "white democrat" pledge, since the state committee ignored the matter.

Dowlen Noncommittal

Dowlen was noncommittal concerning what action the primary committee will take.

The primary committee will meet at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning in the secretary's office to arrange for the printing of 65,000 ballots, the largest number ever ordered struck for a Jefferson county election.

Members of the primary committee, which is a subcommittee of the county executive committee are Mark Majors, chairman and A. J. LeBlanc, both of Port Arthur; F. B. Hammers of Nome, P. A. Dowlen and M. A. McCree, both of Beaumont, with Chairman Edmonds as an ex officio member.

Outside Move Rumored

A majority of the members of the primary committee indicated in executive committee meeting last Monday that they are of the opinion the executive committee exceeded its authority in adopting a resolution restricting the primary to white voters.

Outside the primary committee there is known to be a move under way to thwart the aim of the executive committee, a movement believed to have originated in part fro the dissention which broke out in the meeting of last Monday.

Plans to block, if possible, the printing of the "white" pledge on the ballot, and further than that the holding of democratic primaries for white voters exclusively, as in the past, are definitely crystallized.

Injunction To Be Asked

A firm of Beaumont attorneys already has been approached with a request to sue out a federal injunction which would restrain the executive committee from carrying out any action to bar negroes from the primary polls.

Secretary Dowlen declared in the committee meeting of a week ago that he would refuse to appear in court in his official capacity as secretary of the committee to fight to have such an injunction lifted. He contended the whole responsibility rested with the state committee, which ignored it.

Two years ago the secretary appeared in federal court and helped secure the dissolution of an injunction to legally handcuff the executive committee on the pledge.

More than 95 per cent of the county candidates have expressed themselves as strongly favoring the restriction of voting to white citizens.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
LIGHT

JUL 1 1934

NEGROES TO GET VOTE

JUNE 30.—Negroes of Karnes county who are qualified to vote will be given the privilege in the July Democratic primary, according to a statement made by County Democratic Chairman Tom Gates.

Political - 1934

I.

Texas.

Suffrage

6

LEGAL STATUS OF TEXAS PRIMARIES

The 1934 Democratic primary elections in Texas have been and are still the chief topic of discussion, both orally and in many of the newspapers of the state, largely because of the fact that neither the Democratic State Convention, meeting at Lubbock during September, 1932, nor the Democratic state executive committee, holding forth in Austin June 11, 1934 passed any resolution or made any effort to bar Negro Democrats from the partisan primary elections in this state during the current year.

Defender 6-30-34

The United States Supreme Court has handed down two decisions touching upon and affecting the party primary elections in Texas, viz: First, that such primaries are public elections and as such are open to all qualified voters; second, that the executive committees of political parties in Texas, under article 3107 of the revised civil statutes of this state, the state agents and governmental instrumentalities and as such can not disqualify any eligible elector nor exclude him from participating in such partisan primary elections.

Texas.

In the face of these decisions by the highest legal tribunal in the country, partisan primary elections in Texas can not be manipulated and operated according to the whims and notions of certain party leaders and committeemen; and any effort organized or otherwise, to bar duly qualified voters from partisan primaries will render such election illegal and invalid.

It should be borne in mind by those who are advocating some devious method of procedure by which to circumvent these rulings of the supreme court that not only are county, district and state officers being balloted on in such primaries, but United States congressmen and senator to represent Texas in the highest legislative body in the republic.

That public elections, where the voters are to choose representatives for the United States congress, can not be manipulated and conducted fraudulently, was demonstrated in Louisiana recently when an effort was made to elect a United States congressman without giving all qualified voters a chance to ballot on the nominees.

When the two "successful candidates" presented their credentials for a seat in the lower house of the United States congress, both were turned down and thus that congressional district of the Pelican State was compelled to hold another election in keeping with the laws of that state and the United States.

If duly qualified voters are refused or denied their elective franchise rights in the July and August Democratic primaries in Texas, not only can suits be instituted against the election officials for damages, but the election can be contested in the federal courts and challenged on the grounds that is was fraudulently and illegally conducted, and that through conspiracy and manipulation eligible electors were excluded from the polls.

Even where the ballot contains the pledge, "I am a white Democrat and pledge to support the nominees of this primary," such ballots will have no legal standing in court, since the United States Supreme Court has held twice in recent years that public elections in this state can not be restricted and confined to one particular racial element, but are legally open to all duly qualified voters.

Should certain Democratic leaders attempt to execute their threat of barring Negro Democrats from their partisan primary elections in Texas during July and August. 1934, they are likely to make considerable trouble both for their party and candidates; for when such election is declared irregular and illegal by the federal courts (as they would have to do under the former decisions of the United States Supreme Court in this case), the candidates would have to put up additional assessments to finance the holding of another primary in keeping with the law.

Furthermore, if such action should terminate in an extended legal litigation and the successful candidates should be occupying their respective offices before the matter is finally adjudicated in the courts, in the event the court held said primary election irregular and illegal, such office holders would be compelled to refund all back salaries, fees and incidentals to the county, state and federal governments.

Moveover, an injunction could be sought (and more than likely obtained) in a federal district court in this state restraining the placing of the successful candidates' names on the official ballot for the general election next November; thus forcing the party either to hold another election or wage a long battle in the courts to determine the legality and regularity of such an election where the election officials and party committeemen were holding themselves in contempt of the highest legal tribunal in the United States, by barring certain qualified citizens from such elections merely on the ground of color.

The easiest way out is usually the best way, and The Defender, despite what has been said and printed about Texas Negro Democrats' participation in the partisan primaries this summer, can not believe that the fair-minded and law-respecting candidate, party leaders and committemen will jeopardize such elections by essaying to hold them contrary to law and in the face of the ruling by the United States Supreme Court on this very vital question.

Finally, the Democratic party primaries in Texas, under state statutes and decisions of the supreme court of the land, are public elections in every sense of the word, and can not be manipulated and conducted contrary to law, despite certain notions and deep-seated prejudices of a minority of Democratic party leaders and members in this state.

LOSING CANDIDATES PLAN TO CONTEST DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY ELECTION SHOULD NEGROES BE EXCLUDED FROM BALLOTING

Defender 6-30-34

Report Gains Circulation In Galveston and Houston That Some Aspirants For Party Nominations Will Resort To Court Actions

Texas

If Blacks Are Barred and They Are Defeated —Beaumont Expected To Rescind Anti-Negro Action.

Houston

They lose in court action and contest the party primary election should they lose in their quest for nomination in the event Negro Democrats are barred from said primaries.

The Defender has heard similar rumblings in Houston and Harris County, as some of the candidates insist that no executive committee, committeeman, candidate, election judge or party member has any legal or constitutional ground on which to exclude any qualified voter from voting in such public elections.

One candidate, who does not care to divulge his name just stated to a Defender representative last week after the appearance of a very pernicious and incendiary article in one of daily papers of Houston anent the action contemplated in county to bar Negro Democrats from hee primary elections July and August:

One of the daily newspapers of Galveston carried a local news item several days ago to the effect that some of the candidates for county, state and district offices who are now running on the Democratic ticket and subject to the partisan primaries this county in July and August, had informed some of their close political backers and friends in the Island City that they would resort

Political - 1934

I.

Texas.

Suffrage

LEGAL STATUS OF TEXAS PRIMARIES

The 1934 Democratic primary elections in Texas have been and are still the chief topic of discussion, both orally and in many of the newspapers of the state, largely because of the fact that neither the Democratic State Convention, meeting at Lubbock during September, 1932, nor the Democratic state executive committee, holding forth in Austin June 11, 1934 passed any resolution or made any effort to bar Negro Democrats from the partisan primary elections in this state during the current year.

Defender 6-30-34

The United States Supreme Court has handed down two decisions touching upon and affecting the party primary elections in Texas, viz: First, that such primaries are public elections and as such are open to all qualified voters; second, that the executive committees of political parties in Texas, under article 3107 of the revised civil statutes of this state, the state agents and governmental instrumentalities and as such can not disqualify any eligible elector nor exclude him from participating in such partisan primary elections.

In the face of these decisions by the highest legal tribunal in the country, partisan primary elections in Texas can not be manipulated and operated according to the whims and notions of certain party leaders and committeemen; and any effort organized or otherwise, to bar duly qualified voters from partisan primaries will render such election illegal and invalid.

It should be borne in mind by those who are advocating some devious method of procedure by which to circumvent these rulings of the supreme court that not only are county, district and state officers being balloted on in such primaries, but United States congressmen and senator to represent Texas in the highest legislative body in the republic.

That public elections, where the voters are to choose representatives for the United States congress, can not be manipulated and conducted fraudulently, was demonstrated in Louisiana recently when an effort was made to elect a United States congressman without giving all qualified voters a chance to ballot on the nominees.

When the two "successful candidates" presented their credentials for a seat in the lower house of the United States congress, both were turned down and thus that congressional district of the Pelican State was compelled to hold another election in keeping with the laws of that state and the United States.

If duly qualified voters are refused or denied their elective franchise rights in the July and August Democratic primaries in Texas, not only can suits be instituted against the election officials for damages, but the election can be contested in the federal courts and challenged on the grounds that is was fraudulently and illegally conducted, and that through conspiracy and manipulation eligible electors were excluded from the polls.

Even where the ballot contains the pledge, "I am a white Democrat and pledge to support the nominees of this primary," such ballots will have no legal standing in court, since the United States Supreme Court has held twice in recent years that public elections in this state can not be restricted and confined to one particular racial element, but are legally open to all duly qualified voters.

Should certain Democratic leaders attempt to execute their threat of barring Negro Democrats from their partisan primary elections in Texas during July and August. 1934, they are likely to make considerable trouble both for their party and candidates; for when such election is declared irregular and illegal by the federal courts (as they would have to do under the former decisions of the United States Supreme Court in this case), the candidates would have to put up additional assessments to finance the holding of another primary in keeping with the law.

Furthermore, if such action should terminate in an extended legal litigation and the successful candidates should be occupying their respective offices before the matter is finally adjudicated in the courts, in the event the court held said primary election irregular and illegal, such office holders would be compelled to refund all back salaries, fees and incidentals to the county, state and federal governments.

Moveover, an injunction could be sought (and more than likely obtained) in a federal district court in this state restraining the placing of the successful candidates' names on the official ballot for the general election next November; thus forcing the party either to hold another election or wage a long battle in the courts to determine the legality and regularity of such an election where the election officials and party committeemen were holding themselves in contempt of the highest legal tribunal in the United States, by barring certain qualified citizens from such elections merely on the ground of color.

The easiest way out is usually the best way, and The Defender, despite what has been said and printed about Texas Negro Democrats' participation in the partisan primaries this summer, can not believe that the fair-minded and law-respecting candidate, party leaders and committemen will jeopardize such elections by essaying to hold them contrary to law and in the face of the ruling by the United States Supreme Court on this very vital question.

Finally, the Democratic party primaries in Texas, under state statutes and decisions of the supreme court of the land, are public elections in every sense of the word, and can not be manipulated and conducted contrary to law, despite certain notions and deep-seated prejudices of a minority of Democratic party leaders and members in this state.

LOSING CANDIDATES PLAN TO CONTEST DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY ELECTION SHOULD NEGROES BE EXCLUDED FROM BALLOTING

Defender 6-30-34

Report Gains Circulation In Galveston and Houston That Some Aspirants For Party Nominations Will Resort To Court Action If Blacks Are Barred and They Are Defeated —Beaumont Expected To Rescind Anti-Negro Action.

Houston, Texas

to court action and contest the party primary election should they lose in their quest for nomination in the event Negro Democrats are barred from said primaries.

The Defender has heard similar rumblings in Houston and Harris County, as some of the candidates insist that no executive committee, committeeman, candidate, election judge or party member has any legal or constitutional ground on which to exclude any qualified voter from voting in such public elections.

One candidate, who does not care to divulge his name just now, stated to a Defender representative last week after the appearance of a very pernicious and incendiary article in one of daily papers of Houston anent the action contemplated in county to bar Negro Democrats from hee primary elections July and August:

One of the daily newspapers of Galveston carried a local news item several days ago to the effect that some of the candidates for county, state and district offices who are now running on the Democratic ticket and subject to the partisan primaries this coming July and August, had informed some of their close political backers and friends in the Island City that they would resort

"Just let them go ahead and run themselves into trouble with the federal courts and destroy the Democratic party; then may be they will be satisfied. If they attempt to intimidate and browbeat any group of qualified voters and I should lose in my race for office. I shall institute immediate court actions in the federal court, and tie up the entire election. This is a popular election and all the people have the legal and constitutional right to cast a ballot therein, provided they are otherwise qualified as electors."

Thus it appears that the Democratic party, should certain functionaries and manipulators in this country endeavor to disfranchise Negro Democrats, instead of singing the theme song of Sing Sing prison, "Time On My Hand," will be chirping "Trouble On Our Hands!"

TEXAS PRIMARY ISSUE COMES TO A SHOWDOWN

Long Fight Against Exclusion of Negroes Receives Test

MATTER LEFT TO GROUP

Voting This Week To Reveal Results Of Latest Action

DALLAS, Tex., June 21 —"The question whether Negroes shall be permitted to vote in Texas Democratic primaries seems to be approaching a showdown" states an article released this week by Peter Molyneaux, nationally known newspaper correspondent. "The Democratic State Committee and the various county committees have dodged the issue by failing to rule on the question," says the account, which continues as follows :

Must Take Action

"With respect to the State primary to be held on July 28, the matter has been left to the discretion of the election judges in each case, and it is expected that many of them will permit qualified Negro voters to particpiate. It is certain, however, that many others will not, but it is predicted that more Negroes will vote in the primary this year than ever before. The Federal courts have held that election judges who prevent citizens from exercising their right of suffrage are personally liable for damages.

"The whole situation grows out of a decision of the United States Supreme Court in cases that went up from El Paso that primary elections in Texas are State functions and that all citizens have the same rights in such elections. A provision of the Texas Election Law specifically excluding Negroes from Democratic primaries had previously been held unconstitutional.

Committee Has Power

"The present State law contains a provision that "every political party in this State through its State executive committee, shall have the power to prescribe the qualifications of its members and shall in its own way determine who shall be qualified to vote or otherwise participate in such political party; provided that no persons shall ever be denied the right to participate in a primary in this State because of former political views of affiliations or because of membership or non-membership in organizations other than the politcal party.

"Delegations of Negroes have appeared before the Democratic State Committee several times since that law was enacted and asked that specific action be taken admitting Negroes to the primary but without success.

"Two years ago the Democratic candidate for governor, Mrs. Ferguson, had strong Republican opposition and the question of the Negro vote in the general election became important. The State Democratic Committee, dominated by the Fergusons, was very active in the campaign, and the secretary of the committee encouraged the organization of Ferguson clubs among the Negroes. A majority of the Negro newspapers of the State urged all Negroes to vote the straight Democratic ticket.

Matter Still in Doubt

"In response to such appeals the Negroes generally voted the straight Democratic ticket and thus qualified as Democrats. As such, they appeared before the Ferguson-dominated State committee two weeks ago and requested that instructions to election judges admitting Negroes to the primary be adopted, but the committee failed to act.

"Last Monday the various county committees met, but they also failed to take action on this question. The meeting of the Dallas County committee may be taken as typical. When one member raised the question, some one shouted: "We all ought to follow the same rule." "You are right about that," said the chairman "and I think we will. I think we are all agreed on the matter."

"This reply is being variously interrupted. Two years ago some judges in Dallas County permitted such Negroes as presented themselves to vote; other judges refused. In a few counties Negroes were permitted to vote in large numbers.

"There is considerable sentiment among the white people in favor of permitting Negroes to vote in Democratic primaries, but the predominating sentiment is against it."

HOUSTON, TEX
CHRONICLE

JUN 17 1934

122 FILE FOR POSITIONS ON COUNTY TICKET

Executive Committee to Rule Monday on Voting by Negroes; Little Interest Shown in Races.

One hundred and twenty-two candidates for county and precinct offices had filed for places on the ticket in the Democratic primary election, July 28, when the time limit for filing ended at midnight, Saturday.

Filings for state offices and district offices of more than one county jurisdiction ended June 4.

Additional filings by mail, which are postmarked before midnight of June 16, will be accepted. Few, if any, are expected.

Drawings for places on the ticket will take place at a meeting Monday of the county Democratic executive committee. The meeting will be at 9:30 a.m. in District Judge Allen Hannay's court room. A subcommittee will determine the amount of assessment to be made against each candidate. The total cost of the primary will be approximately $23,000.

The second or run-off primary will be held about one month after the primary, on Saturday, August 25.

All day Saturday, Secretary Jo E. Shaw of the county executive committee remained at his office, 417 First National Bank Building. He announced during the day that he would be available at his residence, 1910 Baldwin, until midnight.

Among other things, the executive committee will decide Monday whether negroes will be permitted to vote in the primary election and run-off. Having won recent victories in the courts, negro leaders are fighting for the privilege of voting in the primary. The state Democratic executive committee meeting at Austin recently, left the proposition up to the county committees.

In the event the negroes are turned down by the county executive committee, they still will have a chance with individual precinct chairmen. One or more chairmen refused to bar the negroes at the last primary.

Chairman J. B. (Shorty) Lubbock of the county executive committee, who has refused to take a stand on the negro vote question, said he has in his posession a petition against permitting negroes to vote. The petition was circulated by members of the so-called White Man's League.

o o o

Interest Lags.

Interest in the present pre-election campaign has been unusually lukewarm. There are no spirited contests for the major offices and no significant issues.

County Judge Ward, District Clerk Mills and District Attorney Barkley are each without opposition. The criminal district clerk's office will be abolished January 1, 1935, and candidates for this office eliminated. The county tax assessor and county tax collector will be combined January 1, and there will be only two candidates for the combined office of assessor-collector.

District Judges Allen Hannay and Ewing Boyd, the only two district judges who have to make a race for re-election at this time, are without opposition. Both judges of county court at law, Judge Nat Davis and Ray Scruggs, have opponents.

Perhaps the most interest thus far is in the races for county commissioner of the four precincts. The only free for all contests are those for state senator and state representative in the five positions.

In the precinct races, the keenest interest, perhaps, is in the two justice of the peace races of precinct 1. Justice Ray of position 1 is opposed by Ned L. Jacobs, and Justice Overstreet is opposed by Tom M. Maes.

o o o

The Candidates.

Except for the precinct chairman candidates, numbering about 200 for the 142 precincts, the filings are:

For congressman, eighth district: Joe H. Eagle, incumbent, W. Everett Dupuy, La Porte; Frank Putnam, Houston, and J. B. Simons, Katy.

For state senator: John M. Mathis, Sr., Weaver Moore, John J. Sargent, Ed. Arnold, Franklin P. Davis.

For state representative, position 1; James P. Markham, Jr., George F. Howard, Charles E. Pritchard Jr., L. M. Williamson, W. H. (Bill) Sigel, A. M. Tripp, Quinton Wright Fred R. Elridge, A. S. Sundemeyer, George L. McGhee.

For representative, position 2: Roy M. Hofheinz, Pat Henderson, Harvey W. Dreaper, J. G. Wells, Mrs. Ira D. Sykes, T. K. McElroy, E. J. (Ed) Welch, C. F. Stevens, Wm. W. Dies.

For representative, position 3: R. H. Holland, incumbent, Ralph R. Wallace, T. H. (Hagan) Allin, J. W. Milam.

For representative, position 4: R. Emmett Morse, incumbent, Frank E. Mann, C. A. Mitchner, R. E. (Bob) Henderson, Murl Riedel, Neal Arnold.

For representative, position 5: C. L. Wetzler, M. M. Burke, Allie Anderson, Jr., J. M. Heflin, Virgil E. Arnold, W. D. Avra, Joe Harris Will G. Schroth, Kenneth McCalla. W. L. Evans, Nancy Pence Painter, Mrs. C. C. Hebert.

o o o

Judgeships.

For district judge, fifty-fifth district: Ewing Boyd.

For district judge, 113th district: Allen B. Hannay.

For associate justice, Court of Civil Appeals, First Supreme Judicial District: George W. Graves, unopposed.

For judge of County Court at Law: Nat H. Davis, incumbent, Phil D. Woodruff.

For judge, county court at law No. 2: Ray Scruggs, incumbent, Frank Williford, Jr.

For district attorney: K. C. Barkley, unopposed.

For county judge: W. H. Ward, unopposed.

For district clerk: J. W. Mills, unopposed.

For sheriff: T. A. Binford, incumbent, J. S. Webster.

For county clerk: Albert Townsend, incumbent, Henry M. Dudley.

For county tax assessor-collector: J. W. Hall, Fred W. Witt.

For county treasurer: James L. Charlton, incumbent, Louis Eckert.

For county surveyor: J. Stuart Boyles, unopposed.

o o o

Political - 1934 II Texas.

Suffrage.

County Commissioners.

For county commissioner, precinct No. 1: J. A. Walling, incumbent, R. H. Spencer and T. L Walker.

For county commissioner, precinct No. 2: C. D. Massey, Cedar Bayou, incumbent: C. R. Myers Goose Creek, and Claude W. Smith, Goose Creek.

For county commissioner, precinct No. 3: William P. Tautehahn, Westfield, incumbent; Will G Sharman.

For county commissioner, precinct No. 4: Ben Reinicke, incumbent; Tom A. Graham and Lewis Smith. Houston Tex

For justice of the peace, precinct No. 1, position No. 1: J. M. Ray, incumbent; Ned E. Jacobs, Sr.; Elmer E. Webb; position No. 2, C. R. Overstreet, incumbent; Tom M. Maes, W. J. (Big Bill) Settegast.

For justice of the peace, precinct No. 2, Harrisburg: George L. Ricker, incumbent; F. C. Barfield, Thomas I. Decker. 6-17-34

For justice of the peace, precinct No. 3, Tri-Cities: R. R. Zierlein, Goose Creek; C. C. Fogarty, Highlands; C. (Dutch) Ptacek, Baytown.

For justice of the peace, precinct No. 4, Humble: F. K. Wise, incumbent, E. W. Corley.

For justice of the peace, precinct No. 5, Tomball: William Martens, E. B. Bell, J. C. Browder, Volney Hutchins. 6-17-34

For justice of the peace, precinct No. 6, Waller: W. T. Stokes.

For justice of the peace, precinct No. 7, Spring: Ed Bliss.

For justice of the peace, precinct No. 8, La Porte: A. Muldoon, incumbent; George L. Holton.

o o o

Constables.

For constable, precinct No. 1: R. J. (Bob) Martin, incumbent; Neal Polk, H. J. (Big Mike) Meinke.

For constable, precinct No. 2, Harrisburg: Walter L. Williams, Mellen (Smitty) Smith, Tobe Williams, Frank Thamas.

For constable, precinct No. 3: J. C. Shoemaker, Pelly, V. C. Porter, Pelly, and R. H. Epperson, Cedar Bayou.

For constable, precinct No. 4: M. A. Winter, J. H. Field.

For constable, precinct No. 5: H. A. Kolb, Tomball; F. J. (Julius) Kuehn, Hufsmith, and H. M. Metzler, Hufsmith.

For constable, precinct No. 6: T. E. Hillegeist, Cypress.

For constable, precinct 7: L. E. Burroughs.

For constable, precinct No. 8: Tom De Walt, Jesse L. Burch.

For chairman of the Harris County Democratic executive committee: J. B. (Shorty) Lubbock, John N. Snell.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
EVENING STAR TELEGRAM

JUN 21 1934

ACTIONS VARIED ON NEGRO VOTE IN PRIMARY

By Associated Press.

A survey of several major Texas counties Thursday revealed a diversity of action on the right of negroes to vote in the Democratic primary on July 28, some counties allowing their votes, others barring them and still others leaving the question to election judges.

The State Democratic Executive Committee did not take action on the matter. A delegation of negroes appeared before a subcommittee asking for an order to county committeemen opening the balloting privileges to them, but the matter never was submitted to the committee as a whole.

Barred at Beaumont.

It was recalled that in the Nixon case, the Supreme Court held that a political party had a right to fix qualifications of its members, but when a State recognized a primary election as part of its governmental function, a presiding officer who denied a voter participation because of racial reasons violated the United States Constitution and was liable for damages should the offended one sue.

At Austin the question was left open without action. Fort Worth decided to leave the question to individual election judges after the county committee declined to act on the matter.

At Beaumont the Jefferson County executive committee voted 18-11 to bar negroes from voting in the primary. The Harris County Negro Democratic Club tonight voted to send voters to the primary and attempt to vote. Where precinct chairmen refuse them a balolt, it was intimated by speakers that civil suits will be filed by negroes.

No Action in Bexar.

Bexar County executive committeemen took no action on the matter at San Antonio. The Galveston County committee ignored the question, although a number of negroes attended the meeting to discuss their right to vote.

From Abilene came the report that Taylor County negroes "never offer to vote." Lubbock County committeemen decided to leave the question with election judges.

The Bell County committee, at a Temple meeting, voted unanimously against negro voting.

L. D. Gayer, chairman of the Tom Green County committee, said on Thursday at San Angelo that "we will proceed as usual." Negroes never have voted in Tom Green County.

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS

JUN 21 1934

Right of Negroes To Primary Vote Remains Big Issue

Most Counties Refuse to Act, While Few Hold to Former Ban

(By the Associated Press.)

A survey of several major Texas counties Wednesday revealed a diversity of action on the right of Negroes to vote in the Democratic primary on July 28, some counties allowing their votes, others barring them and still others leaving the question to election judges.

The State Democratic executive committee did not take action on the matter. A delegation of Negroes appeared before a subcommittee asking for an order to county committeemen opening the balloting privilege to them, but the matter was never submitted to the committee as a whole.

Denial Unconstitutional.

It was recalled that in the Nixon case the Supreme Court held that a political party had a right to fix qualifications of its members, but that when a State recognized a primary election as part of its governmental function a presiding officer who denied a voter participation because of racial reasons violated the United States Constitution and was liable for damages should the offended one sue.

At Austin the question was left open without action. Fort Worth decided to leave the question to individual election judges after the county committee declined to act on the matter.

At Beaumont the Jefferson County executive committee voted 18 to 11 to bar Negroes from voting in the primary. Negro voters were scheduled to meet at Houston to discuss their plans after the Harris County executive committee took no action relative to the question.

Bexar County executive committeemen took no action on the matter at San Antonio. The Galveston County committee ignored the question although a number of Negroes attended the meeting to discuss their right to vote.

Some Counties Opposed.

From Abilene came the report that Taylor County Negroes "never offer to vote." Lubbock County committeemen decided to leave the question with election judges.

The Bell County committee, at a Temple meeting, voted unanimously against Negro voting.

L. D. Gayer, chairman of the Tom Green County committee, said at San Angelo that "we will proceed as usual." Negroes have never voted in Tom Green County.

AMARILLO, TEX
DAILY NEWS

JUN 15 1934

NEGROES' VOTE STILL PROBLEM

CONVENTION SMOTHERS RESOLUTION ON LEGALITY IN PRIMARIES

Special to The News

AUSTIN, June 14.—There was a darker background to the question of negro voting in the democratic primaries than indicated by the the smothering of a resolution recognizing its legality by the state executive committee here.

The action was a more definite tacit acknowledgment that negroes will be in the primaries than could have been given by resolution.

Open controversy or discussion on this troublesome question was avoided because it was believed by most of those present that there will be something of a scramble for the black vote, and that, without too much agitation, the present beneficiaries of this vote is rather definitely known.

Appeal for Vote

Negroes voted in the primaries two years ago. Nearly all their votes went to the Ferguson ticket. Direct appeal was made by black leaders for negro participation in the August run-off primary, and numbers of rallies and picnics for the colored citizens were held.

It was seen at the Austin meeting of the executive committee that any public action dealing with negro votes would arouse a controversy and perhaps would intensify the competition for these votes.

Even though the vote two years ago was perhaps less than 10,000 leaders of the negro suffrage movement claimed a potential 70,000 or 80,000 votes. The intimation was left rather deftly and gently that this vote is one that usually sticks together, and can be swayed by its leaders.

Under the U. S. Supreme Court decision in the Dixon case, negroes have the present legal right to vote in Democratic primaries. That is because the state has legislation dealing with suffrage in the primaries, thus giving it a legal and official status. The supreme court decision clearly pointed out the way to keep negroes out of the primaries if it was desired.

The decision said that without any sanctioning legislation, the party would have full power to prescribe qualifications of members. Thus, it said if the laws on the subject were repealed, the party then could set up its own qualifications and the courts would not interfere; but if law on the subject existed, then the functioning of the commtitee was controlled by law.

The legislature last year failed to repeal the law. Fault, if it is termed a fault, of permitting negroes in the Democratic primaries, rests with the legislature, and not with the party organization.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
EVENING STAR TELEGRAM

JUN 15 1934

The Wrong Object.

THOSE citizens who presented to the County Democratic Executive Committee a petition asking that negroes be excluded from voting in the Democratic primaries would better have taken repeal of the Terrell election law as the object of their petition. For it is this law that created the circumstances under which the United States Supreme Court was forced to rule that negroes might not be legally prevented from voting in the primaries in this State.

The Terrell law removed from party primaries in Texas their private character and made them governmental activities. Instead of being bodies created by the party to manage its own affairs, the state and county committees under the Terrell law are agencies of the state government. This being true, as the Supreme Court has held, these committees must not take any action in contravention of the Fourteenth Amendment. The view of Chairman Small of the Tarrant County committee that under recent court decisions it is "almost mandatory" to permit negroes to vote in the Democratic primary appears the correct one.

Making it impossible to exclude negroes from the Democratic party obviously was not a part of the intention of the mistaken reformers who sought to cure the evils of the convention system of party nominations. They sought to minimize "influence" in filling the party ticket, with the idea that political office would be made more accessible to the citizen who did not possess wealth. The result has been of a manifestly opposite nature. Under the convention system a poor man of recognized worth might obtain the nomination without expense to himself. Under the primary system the cost of a campaign is such that no poor man may run with any hope of success, and as for the factor of influence, too often candidates in the primary owe obligations for favors received to individuals which certainly form a greater menace to "pure" politics than did an obligation owed to a whole party as under the convention system.

Yet in their zeal to accomplish their reforms by law, the primary advocates led the Democratic party into a situation in which it can no longer exercise the right of selection of its own members. By making the Democratic party in Texas an agent and adjunct to the state government, they have rendered it legally impossible for the party to maintain its tradition of "white man's party."

In addition, the primary has destroyed party discipline and party responsibility has brought about a steady deterioration in politics and in the caliber of those in public office. It will be somewhat ironical but none the less welcome to thoughtful citizens, if after all these evils of the primary have been endured complacently for a generation Texans should be aroused by the negro issue to return to the system of their fathers.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
MORNING STAR TELEGRAM

JUN 23 1934

The Negro Primary Vote.

THE arrival of the privilege for negroes to vote in Texas primaries is the simple law of cause and effect. When the primaries departed from the convention system and entered the election field they laid themselves open to eventual translation as read by the United States Supreme Court. The fact still remains that political parties have the right to make rules for their membership requirements, but there must be very much distinction between a primary and an election. The Terrell election law covers so much territory as to include race, sex and two constitutional amendments.

But there seems to be nothing of protest that is sufficiently worth while. Poll tax business should pick up. Negroes have been conservative with their $1.75 donations to the franchise privilege in Texas. They were compelled to vote for the leavings—in a manner of speaking—and that isn't worth much money—in Texas. The Texas Legislature can, if it will, construct party statutes which will take the State's Democracy back to the club prerogative of black-balling candidates for membership. If the mixed primary condition becomes too much a scramble for the negro vote and the news at the polls takes on too exciting tendencies, it may be that some legislature will draw the teeth of the Terrell law and reinstate party organization as an entity capable of making its own rules of conduct.

In the meantime, the first primary in July will be news.

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS

JUN 22 1934

Black Ballots

Apparently the attitude of the Democratic party in Texas toward the United States Supreme Court decision in the Nixon case is one of laissez faire. Whether that aloof position can be maintained in the face of a growing desire of the negro voter in Texas to participate in the primaries in this State remains to be seen.

The Terrell election law of Texas practically incorporated party machinery in the mechanics of government, a situation which has brought about the ruling of the Supreme Court that the Negro's constitutional rights are denied to him, if he is refused a vote in the primary. Texas could meet the situation by legislation which would take hands off the control of parties but this is unlikely to occur.

So far as the negro voter is concerned, there is no reason for keeping him out of the Democratic party. He is part of Texas and his political strength may grow to such proportions as would make him a welcome participant in party effort. The intelligent and capable Negro should vote and in Texas his ballot is wasted unless it is cast in a Democratic primary.

The party should be the judge of its own membership qualifications. It would be, but for the peculiar political structure in Texas under the Terrell election law. But common sense should tell the Democratic party that it is no longer necessary, as it was in the '70's, to maintain a strictly white man's party. It is no longer dealing with the dense ignorance of the freed slave of that day. Where black ignorance remains, it is chargeable to the failure of the white dominated school system. It would be a splendid deed for the Democratic party itself to assume responsibility for curing that condition wherever it is found.

HOUSTON, TEX.
PRESS

JUN 21 1934

NEGROES PLAN VOTE ATTEMPT

Will Go to Polls and Ask for Ballot in Democratic Primary

Negroes who hold poll tax receipts will go to the polls on July 28 and ask a vote in the democratic primary, Harris County Negro Democratic Club members decided Wednesday night at a meeting in Emancipation Park.

If refused a vote steps will be taken to force the issue through civil suits, filed against the judges speakers at the meeting said.

Campaign Plans

The club decided to carry on a campaign to get all negro voters to the polls. Several thousand were said to have paid their poll taxes.

President Julius White said nothing disorderly was planned.

"What we want," he said, "is for all eligible voters to try and vote. We want them to present their credentials and ask for a ballot. If refused other legal steps will be taken."

At the Monday meeting of the Harris County Democratic Executive Committee the matter of negro voting was not brought up. Neither was anything decided upon at the state committee meeting in Austin.

Up to Officials

County Secretary Jo E. Shaw said it would be up to presiding judges to decide if negroes could vote in the various boxes.

The negro club will not back any candidate in a body, officers said.

Candidates will be invited to address the membership from time to time, it was decided.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
EVENING STAR TELEGRAM

JUN 21 1934

BELL COUNTY NEGROES BARRED AT PRIMARY

TEMPLE, June 21.—By unanimous vote the Bell County Democratic executive committee adopted a resolution barring negro voters from participation in the July primaries.

The cost of conducting the primary was estimated at $3,200 and assessments were levied against the candidates for county and precinct offices to defray the expense.

Election judges and clerks will be paid $3 a day this year for their services. In the 1932 primaries the pay was cut to $2.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
LIGHT

JUN 21 1934

Del Rio Negroes Get Primary Vote

DEL RIO, June 21.—Del Rio negroes will vote in the Democratic primaries in Val Verde county July 28 for the first time in the history of the county. This decision was reached at a meeting of the executive committee with Chairman Grady Lowrey.

Political - 1934 I Texas.

Suffrage.

Laboring Men's Protective Ass'n Decide To Push Primary Fight

Houston Informer 7-28-34

BEAUMONT.—The Catholic Hall, Pecan and Porter streets, carried a capacity audience Sunday afternoon, when for the first time the Laboring Men's Protective Association held their meeting here. The opinion of the Supreme Court of Texas upholding the validity of the Texas election laws had just been handed down and many were present to find out what the next step would be. This group of Negroes seemed to be in fine spirit and no sign of discouragement, but all seemed to be determined to push their cause on to the court of last resort. Many expressed a willingness to contribute their time, money and talent in whatever way it could be used for the benefit of the issue at stake. President W. G. Bell expressed himself as being somewhat disappointed at the decision but had no intention of giving up the fight. This statement met the hearty approval of the audience and they gave vent to their feelings.

A committee was appointed to work out the next step in the fight for the Negroes' enfranchisement in Texas. The primary voting has been the big issue, but the organization has been making some progress along other lines of endeavor.

Some checking on the ill manner in which Negroes have been served and paid on the CWA works and the facts reported to the district auditor. Communications from Mr. Kelly stating he would be here in the very near future and also thanking those who submitted the report for their spirit of co-operation in such a splendid way were read. The organization has been instrumental in getting several of the Negro grocerymen to furnish many of these persons with food supplies. One of the most nauseating matters to come before the meeting was a letter in response to one sent to the National Office of the NAACP by local officers to the effect that the local branch had paid $200 to an attorney to represent the Nroges of Jefferson County in their fight to vote in the July primary, which was wholly without foundation. The organization has not contributed one penny as an organization. The audience expressed their disapproval of such low-down methods in unmistakable terms.

Many inspiring talks were made and received with applause. Among the speakers was one visitor from Tyler who in his argument gave much food for thought. Next Sunday a meeting will be held on Gladys street.

BEAUMONT, TEX.
ENTERPRISE

JUL 13 1934

NEGRO VOTE BAN ORDER AWAITED

County Democratic Chairman Wires Allred for Specific Details

No reply to the wire for detailed information as to what Jefferson county precinct election officals should do in the light of the negro-vote-ban opinion issued yesterday by James V. Allred, attorney general, had been received last night by J. R. Edmonds, chairman of the county democratic executive committee. A response is expected from Austin this orning.

Chairman Edmonds said it probably will not be necessary to call a special meeting of the county executive committee to determine further action.

Copy of Opinion Asked

"If a cpy of the opinion is sent us by Allred and he advises us to be governed accordingly, that is what we will do," Chairman Edmonds said.

Explaining what he meant, the executive committee chairman said, if the attorney general's advice is to do so, he will instruct precinct election judges to bar negroes from the democratic primary polls as they did in 1932.

The chairman's telegram to the attorney general read:

Dowlen Skeptical

"Afternoon paper here carries report that you have given an opinion that negroes are not entitled to vote in primary of July 28. May I instruct election judges in this county to be governed accordingly?"

The Allred opinion was viewed as meaningless by P. A. Dowlen, secretary of the democratic executive committee, who fought vigorously against the "white" pledge on the grounds it was illegal. He anticipated no changes in present election plans which will permit negroes to vote July 28.

AUSTIN, TEX.
AMERICAN

JUL 13 1934

County Board To Pass Upon Negro Voting Saturday

Demo Call Follows Allred's Decision Against Blacks' Balloting

The Travis county democratic executive committee will meet Saturday, to pass on the question whether negroes will be permitted to vote in the July primary.

The committee previously had declined to take action on this proposition, asking for a decision by the state executive committee. The state committee did nothing. But Thursday Atty. Gen. James V. Allred ruled that negroes are not entitled to vote. So Chmn. J. M. Patterson issued a call for the county committee to meet again.

About 20 negroes are among the 200 who have marked absentee ballots for Travis county. All of these are in the county clerk's office, each in a sealed envelope but identified by the voter's poll tax receipt. Each is subject to challenge, Mr. Patterson said, any time before it is delivered to the election judge on primary day. The county clerk's office will continue to issue ballots to negroes until the county committee instructs otherwise, Marion Fowler said Thursday.

Negroes Ruled Out, Says Allred in Ruling

DALLAS, July 12.—(AP)—Negroes are not entitled to vote in coming democratic primaries, according to an opinion handed down by Atty. Gen. James V. Allred here Thursday.

Allred said the opinion was addressed to D. B. Wood, county attorney of Williamson county, but also answered queries on this issue from numerous election officials and others over the state.

The attorney general's decision was based upon a resolution adopted at the state convention of the democratic party in Houston May 24, 1932, reading as follows:

"Be it resolved that all white citizens of the state of Texas who are qualified to vote under the constitution and laws of the state shall be eligible to membership in the democratic party and as such be entitled to participate in its deliberations."

Cites Supreme Court Ruling

This resolution in effect limited the right to participate in democratic party primaries to whites, and consequently excluded negroes.

The attorney general's opinion reviewed various decisions of the United States supreme court, including the five to four decision in the case of Nixon vs. Condon, written by Justice Cardoza in May, 1932, just before passage of the resolution by the party in state convention.

In the Nixon case the supreme court held that the democratic state executive committee was without authority to bar negroes but said:

"Whether a political party in Texas has inherent power today without restraint by any law to determine its own membership, we are not required at this time to affirm or to deny."

Allred ruled that "the validity of the action taken by the state convention in adopting the resolution was challenged in the case of the Bexar county executive committee vs. Booker.

"The court of civil appeals at San Antonio by a two to one decision upheld the validity of the resolution. Certified questions to the supreme court of Texas were dismissed on the ground that there was an absence of necessary parties to the suit.

"I think this opinion by the court of civil appeals was correct, and election officials throughout the state should follow it. The democratic party has always been a white man's party in Texas and the attorney general's department will do everything in its power to keep it such.

"Practically every court decision recognizes the inherent right of a political party to determine the content of its membership. Certainly when the party spoke through its state convention, it was the voice of the party itself. I think this resolution of the state convention was valid and stand ready to defend it should it be attacked."

Brackins Chosen To Head State Fund For Fighting Negroes Franchise Right

Houston Informer 7-28-34

DALLAS.—Charlie Brackins, at the insistence of state leaders who believe it time to unify the Negroes' fight for their right to enter Democratic primaries, has accepted the chairmanship of a foundation to be known as The State Franchise Fund, to be used for the right to vote, there and all places in Texas.

Mr. Brackins says he will regularly send to the papers the contributions made to The State Franchise Fund. Every organization and every Negro in Texas will be glad to put its name on this roll of honor. Mr. Brackins says that if anyone contributes and requests that his or her name not be published, the amount will published and the date, with a symbol so that the donor can know that it has been added to the fund, but the name and identity will be withheld as per request.

The State Franchise Fund fills a real need. There are many Negroes who want to contribute to the fight for their right, but heretofore all effort has been local, and they not only haven't been asked to contribute, but haven't known to whom to contribute. Also Negroes learned last week that where there is no unifying agency, with best intentions in the world, Negroes in various sections file suits that work against each other.

As his first act, Mr. Brackins has appointed Judge A. S. Wells as state attorney for the State Franchise Fund. It is intended that Judge Wells will head up all legal actions to get the Negroes the right to vote. Negro lawyers of Texas like and respect Attorney Wells and they rejoice at Mr. Brackins' selection. Attorney R. J. Durham of Sherman, Attorneys R. Q. and Duane Mason and R. L. H. Rice of Dallas. and Attorneys J. Alston Atkins and Carter Wesley of Houston have already volunteered to serve under Lawyer Wells. It is certain that as soon as other lawyers interested in this fight hear of the plan. they will co-operate wholeheartedly for we are in a [illegible] and each legal battle must aim at the same purpose. It is likely that Judge Wells will call a meeting soon of all lawyers.

Mr. Brackins indicated that he would probably open the books for contributions to the State Franchise Fund sometime after Friday. There will be a grand rush to be the first to make a contribution. Whoever is first will probably get a place in history when this war is won. Mr. Charlie Brackins, 215 Pythian Temple, Dallas, Texas, is the name and address. Send your check today.

DALLAS TAKES THE LEAD

Houston Informer 7-28-34

There is only one way to build an effective political organization, and that is to build it solidly on down through every precinct or other smallest voting subdivision in the political area which the organization essays to cover. Dallas has taken the lead over all Texas in this particular, and it is important that other cities and counties will follow suit, if the Negro vote is ever to amount to anything in this state.

The first thing to be done in Dallas was to find out just how many qualified Negro voters there are in the county. The only way this can be done is to get an official list from the county tax collecter. This was done in Dallas. The next thing was to select some energetic and interested man or woman in each precinct to contact the voters in that precinct and to carry to them the message and program of the general organization.

When this procedure has been carried out it is then time enough to have mass meetings and to make speeches. But mass meetings and speeches without this kind of detailed organization are a hopeless waste of time. On the other hand a detailed organization of this kind can be brought about only by men and women who don't mind doing some hard work and making some sacrifices for the masses of Negroes; and this is never done by people who seek only their own selfish advantage and to feather their own political nests.

It is high time that the rest of Texas follows the lead which has been so well begun in Dallas.

BEAUMONT, TEX.
ENTERPRISE

JUL 13 1934

Mysterious 'Ku Klux Klan Voice' Issues Warning Over Telephone That 'The Negro Shall Not Vote'

HELLO, Enterprise editorial department? I have a statement to make—the negro is not going to vote," were the arresting words spoken in a firm, masculine voice through the telephone receiver at the city editor's desk at 7:10 o'clock last night.

"Who is speaking, please?" the man was asked.

Spokesman for Klan

"I am the spokesman of the Ku Klux Klan," was the sepulchral response. "Never mind who I am personally. I am the voice of the Ku Klux Klan. The negro is not going to vote," came the measured words.

"You say you are the spokesman for the Ku Klux Klan—well who—where are you?"

"I won't tell you that," the voice on the wire continued. "You can try to trace this call if you want to; you can print this if you want to, or you can leave it out if you want to, but the nigger will not vote in the primaries.

"7000 Strong, as of Old"

"We met this afternoon," the spokesman went on before he was interrupted again, "and the Ku Klux Klan has reorganized. We are 7000 strong as of old, and the knights will return. We will be just as strong as we ever were. Once we formed to protect our rights against the negro. Ten years ago we organized for a purpose. The negro will not vote.

"We have always worked mysteriously." The voice drummed out the words, stressing their ominous import. "We will work mysteriously now. The negro shall not vote."

And the receiver clicked on the hook—somewhere.

Texas Negroes Down But Not Out, Are Going To The Highest Court Of The Land

Houston Informer 7-28-34

HOUSTON.—Riding over the plains of Texas in its war chariot, equipped with poisoned judicial daggers, the god of reaction and hatred rode down and chopped to threads Negroes' ambition to vote in the Democratic primaries! The job done, Jimmie Allred, mocking and taunting his victims, drove the chariot, bloody with murdered faith and trust that Negroes had placed in Texas higher courts, back to the capital and parked it for future use. Negroes were stunned and amazed, but their ambitions, like the famous jointed snake, sprang together again and began to marshall forces even as they were still being wounded. They are now rallied and resolved to go to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Attorney Balwin (white) of Beaumont took an application to the Supreme Court of Texas to get permission to file a petition for a writ of mandamus against the election judges and the Jefferson County Democratic Executive Committee of Beaumont. Friday, the Supreme Court denied the application but wrote an opinion holding that the Democratic party had the inherent right to bar Negroes, saying the right was given by the BILL OF RIGHTS and could not be invaded. It especially commended the opinion of Jimmie Allred, which many fair lawyers in the state had said was pure political claptrap to keep McDonald from getting Negro votes.

Houston Informer 7-28-34

The State Supreme Court said it did not agree with the United States Supreme Court in its holding in the Nixon case. Legal authorities point out that it is very unusual for lower courts to defy the United States Supreme Court. As to the BILL OF RIGHTS giving the Democratic party

Texas.

Political - 1934

II

Suffrage

rights that the legislature can not in-settled by the decision of the San An-ment—instead of as an act of an invade, many are saying the questiontonio Court of Civil Appeals in thedependent political society over which is whether the BILL OF RIGHTScase of Booker vs Bexar County Dem-the State has no control? could prevent the Democratic pdocratic Executive Committee two If the bill of rights leaves to the from yielding its inherent power vol-years ago and by the State Supremeparty, as the State Supreme Court untarily. Court decision July 20. says, free of State interference, "the

Until the Texas Supreme Court ad- It seems obvious that no stateright to organize and maintain a po-vanced the novel idea, it had beencourt will recognize Negroes' rightlitical party," and if every privilege thought by men learned in law thatto vote in Democratic Primaries. At-essential or reasonably appropriate the BILL OF RIGHTS would shieldtorney Wells, who is leading in theto the exercise of that right is like-a right from invasion but would putDallas fight, is planning to take anwise guaranteed, including, of course, no restraints on a man's doing withappeal to the Supreme Court of thethe privileges of determining the pol-rights, what he chose, as long as heUnited States, and hopes to get aicies of the party and its member-did it himself. Nobody made the Dem-decision before the August primaries.ship"—if all this is guaranteed beocratic party adopt those statutes; itHe has wired Attorney Spingarn ofyond the power of the State to dic-did it voluntarily and for its greaterthe NAACP to locate Justice Cardo-tate, where does it get us?
convenience and everything wassar, who is assigned to this judicial Suppose three citizens—or 300,000 peaches until the United States Su-district. citizens, for that matter—decide to preme Court said Negroes could not Many Negroes, who might have vot-organize a party of persons too poor be barred. The Texas Supreme Courted for McDonald are disgusted and areto pay poll taxes and, in order to in-has time after time upheld statuessaying he and his crowd deserve toterest the youth of the State in pol-which "invade" this inherent right. lose the Negro vote for being soitics, determine that all persons over

Well, just after our Supreme Courtchicken-hearted. They say if the State15 shall be eligible to become mem-got through scoring the United StatesExecutive Committee had voted tosi-bers and vote in its primaries. Can Supreme Court and commending Jim-tively to let Negroes vote neitherthe State intervene and enforce its mie Allred, who had just a fewAllred nor the State Supreme Courtpresent primary regulations? Again, months ago rendered an opinion thatcould have robbed him of these votewhat right has Texas to force the Re-
Negroes could vote, Saturday, Ne-now. But being afraid they wouldpublican party, when it has over 100,- groes turned with hope to the Unitedlose white votes if they seemed fair000 votes cast at a general election,
States District Court for the Southernto Negroes, they left themselves vul-to hold a primary instead of a con-
District of Texas, where C. F. Rich-neralne? Now their opponents arevention? Indeed, if you follow that ardson was being represented by At-stabbing them for being friendly toline of thought very far, you will see torney J. M. Nabrit. But to their dis-Negroes and have cut them off from that the Supreme Court of Texas will may, Judge T. M. Kinnerly, sitting Negro votes be under heavy pressure to declare as an equity judge showed no interest void the Terrell primary election law, at all in the fact that a legal right except such portions as can be sus-was allegedly about to be destroyed. tained on the theory that the State
To observers, Judge Kennerly seemed has the right and duty to preserve to be impatient with complaintaint's State cannot continue to dominate the petition and anxious to dispose of it. the peace and maintain order. The Without denying that complaintant's party and at the same time deny the right was about to be destroyed, the plain and legal consequence of that court granted the respondents a stay domination. We must cease to domiof the case and denied complaintant's nate or cease to deny."
petition for a restraining order. Thus complaintant seems to have a right which equity would not protect.

Negroes were disappointed with the decision. They left the courtroom saying they thought when a man had a right, a court of equity would shun technicalities to protect it.

That was two up and two down, in baseball parlance. Seeing that his client was sure to be denied redress in Harris County District Court after the State Supreme Court decision, Attorney Nabrit dismissed his case in that court early Saturday morning to avoid having another adverse decision rendered against Negroes' rights.

In Dallas, Attorney Roger Mason had filed suit in the Court of Civil Appeals for the Fifth Judicial District. That case argued Friday by Attorney A. S. Wells and J. Alston Atkins, and taken under advisement. Monday that court handed down a decision holding that the Democratic party's right to bar Negroes was

There are many white people who feel that personal wishes have colored much of the recently made Texas law on the rights of Negroes to vote. This sentiment is indicated by an editorial in the Dallas Journal July 23 in which is says:

"The Journal has already expressed the vie wthat Attorney General Allred's ruling on Negro voting in the Democratic primary can not be the law because it would overrule the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States on a case in point. But now comes the State Supreme Court and holds that the Attorney General's ruling is the law because "we can not agree" with the United States Supreme Court. The chaos of the situation will be complete if some inferior State court will kindly step up and overrule the State Supreme Court.

The issue still is whether the State has made the party an agent of the State. Washington says it has; Austin says it can't. If it has, all hands agree that the party can't exclude Negroes because the State can't. * * *

Where does all this get us in regard to the mass of regulatory statutes which still order the parties of Texas to do this and that upon pains and penalties set forth for disobedience? What becomes of the Terrell election law which treats the primary as an election—as an act of govern-

INJUNCTION SUIT STAYED AS JURIST DENIES WRIT PLEA

The injunction suit set down for hearing here last Saturday morning in the United States District Court, presided over by Judge T. M. Kennerly, in which C. F. Richardson was seeking an injunction to restrain the Harris County Democratic executive committee from interfering with him and ofthers similiarly situated voting in the party primary election Saturday, July 28, 1934, sustained a rude and unexpected jolt when the court refused to grant the injunction writ and stayed the cause of action.

This, in effect, dismisses the case, as the apparent purpose of the court was to stay further action on the injunction plea until a damage suit which Mr. Richardson had filed against County Clerk Albert Townsend for denying him absentee ballot on July 9, 1934, is disposed of in a state court. The damage suit will not be set down for a hearing until the September term of court, and then must take its regular place on the court docket.

In 1932, a similar application was filed with the same court or Julius White and Judge Kennerly held then that the action of the Democratic State Convention, which met May 24, 1932, and passed a resolution providing for a "white man's primary," was illegal; in fact, the court held with Mr. White in every contention except that the petitioner sought a mandamus when he should have asked for an injunction.

The defendants (Harris County Democratic executive committee) moved to stay and dismiss Richardson's petition on the grounds that all the proper election officials were not made parties to the original suit, although the amended petition, filed before counsel for defendants answered, covered this as provided in federal court equity rules, and the judge approved the amended petition several days prior to the hearing.

The action of Judge Kennerly means that no injunctive relief can be obtained here in federal court for the first primary election Saturday, July 28.

PORT ARTHUR, TEX.
NEWS
JUL 11 1934

DOWLEN STATES 'NO NEED' FOR PARTY MEETING

Advises Edmonds Against Special Session To Bar Negros

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, July 11.—P. A. Dowlen, secretary of the county democratic executive committee, said today he had advised J. R. Edmonds, chairman of the committee, that there was "no need" of calling that group into special session, as requested yesterday at a mass meeting of women voters.

The women asked that the committeemen be called together immediately to discuss "ways and means" of excluding negros from the July 28 democratic primary. Edmonds agreed to call the meeting but delayed fixing a date, pending consultation with various members of the committee.

Sees No Need

"I told Mr. Edmonds that there was absolutely no use of holding another meeting—that there was nothing for the committee to discuss or act upon," Dowlen said. "When the subcommittee ordered the ballots printed, the dispute about the pledge was settled, finally. The committee can't legally meet again until August 4, when the first primary vote will be canvassed."

At Edmonds' office, it was said he was in Port Arthur and would not return to Beaumont until 3 p. m.

"Anybody is entitled to hold a mass meeting, but the democratic committee certainly isn't bound by any action that is taken at such a meeting," Dowlen said. "The committee is not obligated to the public in any manner except to carry out its duties as prescribed by law—and that's what we have done."

Opposed Pledge

Dowlen, an attorney, was leader of the committee faction which opposed putting the "white democrat" pledge on the county ballot, on the grounds that since the state democratic organization refused to adopt the pledge, the county group was legally powerless. Dowlen relentlessly protested all efforts to amend the state pledge, which omits the word "white."

The secretary said that numerous Beaumont citizens have told him that they were "disgusted" at criticism aimed at him at the meeting of the women.

Meanwhile, the campaign to supplant Dowlen with another committeemen in precinct 9 was proceeding. Arthur Cunningham, it was said, is the nominee of the anti-Dowlen voters of the precinct, and Cunningham's name will be written in on the ballot. Petitions pledging signers to support precinct committee candidates definitely committed to an "exclusively white primary" are in circulation in Beaumont.

ATTORNEY DURHAM FILES APPLICATION FOR WRIT AND ALSO BIG DAMAGE SUIT· KENNERLY REFERS HEARING TO BRYANT

Defender 7-28-34

Johnson, Aged Grayson County Citizen, Asks For Injunctive Relief—Claims He Has Voted Democratic Ticket Since Election of Grover Cleveland—Alleges County Democratic Executive Committee and Attorney General Depriving Him of Legal Rights Illegally and Capriciously—Case Set For August 13 at Sherman

Houston, Texas

SHERMEN, Texas.—(DPS)—Another legal barrage has been directed at the illegal effort to bar qualified Negroes from the Democratic primary elections in Texas, when John Johnson, aged Denison Negro, filed application here Wednesday in the federal court for a writ of injunction to restrain the Grayson County Democratic executive committee and election judges from interfering with him and others similarly situated voting in the run-off primary election of August 25, 1934.

The suit in equity also asks for $10,000 damages against Charles M. Cole, county clerk of Grayson County, for his alleged refusal to permit Johnson to cast an absentee ballot, although the aged Negro clams to have voted the Democratic ticket since the first election of Grover Cleveland as president of the United States.

As Judge Randolph Bryant, who presides over the United States District Court for Eastern Texas, is out of the state, the application for injunctive writ was dispatched to Judge T. M. Kennerly at Houston, who set the case down for hearing at Sherman August 13, with Judge Bryant, who is expected back in the state by that time, presiding. In theevent Judge Bryant is not back, then some other available federal judge will be assigned the case.

W. J. Durham, prominent Negro attorney of Sherman, is legal counsel for Johnson. It is expected that an intervention suit will be filed in the same court for hearing in the same cause.

TEN CENTS A MONTH

Defender 7-14-34

There are practically one million Negroes in Texas. Five per cent of this one million is fifty thousand. It ought to be possible to get fifty thousand Negroes in the State of Texas to take an active financial interest in winning the right to vote. No more important right exists in American life. From the time we wake up in the morning, till the time we go to bed at night; from the time we are born until the time we die, the most important thing in our lives is government; and the basis of government in America is the ballot.

TEN CENTS A MONTH! Sounds like a mere trifle, and it certainly ought to be possible to get fifty thousand Negroes in Texas to give an average of this amount for the protection and well being of their own lives and futures and those of their wives, children, and other loved ones.

Houston, Texas

TEN CENTS A MONTH! If fifty thousand Negroes in Texas would join in a holy crusade of honor like this, five thousand dollars a month would be raised, which would amount to sixty thousand dollars a year. With this amount at its disposal, the State Franchise Fund could make quick and effective headway.

TEN CENTS A MONTH! Is your voting franchise worth it to you? Do you think this much of your wives, children and other relatives? Some can and will give considerably more than this. But every Negro can give TEN CENTS A MONTH. Write Charlie Brackins, 215 Pythian Temple, Dallas, today, pledging your co-operation.

HOPE ON THE HORIZON

Defender 8-4-34

With discouragements afloat all over Texas, due to the lynching of the franchise rights of Negroes by Jimmie Allred, let us not fail to see the forest for looking at the trees. There is still some hope on the horizon. Democratic-Candidate-for-Governor Marland of Oklahoma has recently assured the Negroes of that state that they will be given a new deal under his administration. He has promised to give a square deal to Negro schools, a square deal to Negro labor on the state highways and other public works, and a square deal to Negro state institutions, both in seeing to it that they are manned by competent Negroes, and otherwise.

Houston, Texas

Square deals for minority groups and underprivileged people are "catching." It is not at all improbable that what is happening in Oklahoma will have some influence in inducing a square deal for Negroes in Texas. Behind the dark cloud the sun may be still shining, and the cloud itself may even have a silver lining. In the very disadvantage which we face may lie a greater advantage which may yet appear.

FEDERAL ELECTION LAWS MADE PUBLIC BY NOTED LAWYER

Defender

Negroes are entitled to vote under the federal election law, according to R. D. Evans, of Waco, who quotes the following codes: 8-4-34

Chapter 2, section 31, United States civil code: Elective franchise. Right to vote.

Houston.

Section 31, title 8 of the United States statutes annotated.

Tex

"All citizens of the United States who are otherwise qualified by law to vote at any election by the people in any state, territory, district, county, city parish township, school district, municipality, or other territory subdivision, shall be entitled and allowed to vote at all such elections, without distinction of race, color, or previous condition of servitude; any constitution, law, custom, usage, or regulation of any state or territorial, or by or under its authority, to the contrary notwithstanding."

Chapter 3—Offenses against the elective franchise and civil rights of citizens:

Title 18, section 52, (Criminal Code 20) depriving citizens of civil rights because of color under state laws.

"Whoever, under color of any law, statute, ordinance, regulation, or custom, willfully subjects, or causes to be subjected, any inhabitant of any state, territory or district to the deprivation of any rights, privileges, or immunities secured or protected by the constitution and laws of the United States, or to different punishments, pains or penalities, on account of such inhabitant being an alien, or by reason of his color, or race, than are prescribed for the punishment of citizens, shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars or imprisoned not more than one year, or both."

Section 58 (Criminal Code 26)—Additional punishment for violation of preceeding sections:

"Every person convicted of any offense defined in the four preceeding sections, in addition to the punishment therein prescribed, shall be disqualified from holding any office of honor, profit, or trust under the United States."

Political-1934

Suffrage

Texas.

Keep Going Back

Negroes in Texas have been told in substance, if not in words, that wherever they bob up seeking the right to vote, whether in the Federal or the State Courts, they must try their case in an unfriendly forum. This puts us on notice that we must geep going back to the Supreme Court of the United States if we expect our case to be heard by a court with an open mind.

Nor should we feel, as some people seem to want to feel, that there is no benefit in these decisions of the highest court of the land. There is great benefit. Most of the liberality being expressed by newspapers and white individuals toward the right of Negroes to vote in Texas is traceable directly or indirectly to the two Nixon cases decided by the Federal Supreme Court.

The Texas State and Federal Courts to the contrary notwithstanding, there is a growing sentiment among many white people of Texas that the Constitution of the United States should be respected as well when the rights of Negroes are involved as when the rights of Mexicans and white people are involved. Another decision from the Supreme Court of the United States will increase that sentiment. So let us keep on going back there for justice.

Grovey Is Right Again

Some day Negroes as a people must begin to put first things first. R. R. Grovey has clearly called our attention to one important phase of this principle. He tells us in graphic language about how we find Negro school teachers absolutely indifferent to the efforts to win the right to vote for ourselves and the parents of school children, while at the same time supporting every movement which white people put on to saddle these same parents with more taxes. When it comes to bringing a second emancipation to the school children and to themselves Negro teachers, with a few notable exceptions, say they can't take part because that would be engaging in "politics." But it's not "politics" when Negroes are asked to vote more taxes upon their shoulders.

For instance, the white man who called the meeting to form a Negro committee to get Negroes to vote the Centennial Bonds in Houston went to the microphone when he ran for Congress a while back and heaped abuse upon the Negro voters of Harris County. If this man has only abuse for us when we seek the right to vote, Negroes should refuse to follow him in voting more taxes upon themselves.

AUSTIN, TEX.
AMERICAN
JUL 14 1934

Allred Rules Against Negroes Voting In Democratic Primary

Atty. Gen. James V. Allred has made a ruling that negroes are barred from the democratic primary under the resolution adopted in the Houston convention in May, 1932, which named Texas delegates to the democratic national convention. The opinion was addressed to D. B. Wood, county attorney of Williamson county, but the attorney general also answered queries on this subject from numerous election officials and others over the state. This is the full text of the Houston convention resolution: "Be it resolved that all white citizens of the state of Texas who are qualified to vote under the constitution and laws of the state shall be eligible to membership in the democratic party and as such be entitled to participate in its deliberations."

Well, the supreme court of the United States, in a five to four opinion, ruled just the reverse of the resolution. Now the buck has been passed to the court of last resort and the hoary age-old issue in certain Southern commonwealths is a burning issue in the year of our Lord 1934. Yes—where do we go from here?

Weatherford, Tex.
HERALD

AUG 14 1934

Federal Judge Upholds Barring Negro Voters

Sherman, Texas, Aug. 14.—Grayson County negroes who seek to vote in the Democratic primaries received a setback Monday when Judge Randolph Bryant, Federal Judge, sustained a defense motion to dismiss the application which John Johnson, Denison negro, had filed for an injunction to restrain the county Democratic executive committee from interfering with him and others similarly situated, in casting ballots.

Judge Bryant did not hear the case on its merits, as the motion to dismiss came before him first. At the conclusion of arguments from attorneys for both sides he declared that in his opinion the State Democratic Executive Committee had the right to pass the resolution confining voting in the primaries to those of the white race. He granted the motion to dismiss and five negro attorneys of Sherman, Dallas and Houston were scheduled to go into conference to decide if and when an appeal would be taken.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
PRESS
JUL 27 1934

INJUNCTION SUIT IN NEGRO VOTING AIRED AT RALLY

A. E. Harding and Republican Lawyer Filed Action, Says Greathouse

By CULLUM E. GREENE

The injunction suit filed yesterday, seeking to bar negroes from voting in tomorrow's primary election, was aired last night when Group Two of county candidates spoke at Capps Park.

Joe Greathouse, seeking re-election as Representative, Place 3, asserted that A. E. Harding, one of his opponents, "joined with a Republican lawyer, Dexter Scurlock, to bar negroes from voting," and in doing so had charged "the county chairman, Hugh Small, and others with entering into a conspiracy."

Mr. Harding, who spoke last, continued to rap Mr. Greathouse's record in the Legislature.

H. C. Allison, third in this race, read a "threat" letter he claimed to have received yesterday signed "Better Business Builders' League," in which was stated "Get out of our way and save your hide, withdraw or you won't reach your goal alive."

A lesson in arithmetic featured the announcements of candidates for criminal district judge.

Judge George E. Hosey, seeking re-election, said that since graduating in 1909 he had practiced law two years, served as assistant district attorney eight years, one year as county judge and 17 years on the bench.

Otis Rogers, speaking next, added up the figures and said "If they are correct, it would now be 1937."

Mr. Rogers referred to Judge Hosey's statement that 65 per cent of the criminal cases appealed in the state as a whole are reversed while only 15 per cent of those here are sent back, and added: "As a matter of fact, 30 per cent of his cases are reversed."

He named several important reversals, and a boy in the crowd shouted, "How about the Alsup case?" to which Mr. Rogers replied:

"Yes, I defended him, but only after Hosey had called me into his office and told me that unless I did, I would have to go to jail."

Corpus Christi, Tex.
CALLER
AUG 16 1934

No Ruling on Negro Voting Yet Received

Question Will Be Left to County Precinct Judges To Decide

Unless the state democratic executive committee rules on the matter before Aug. 25, the question of allowing Nueces county negroes to cast ballots in the run-off primary will be left for the various precinct judges to decide, Judge H. R. Sutherland, chairman of the county democratic executive committee, said yesterday.

"However, if they ask my advice on the matter, I will tell them I would allow the negroes to vote," Judge Sutherland declared. "The supreme court of the United States handed down an opinion that they should vote, and its decision is final, no matter what the Texas supreme court has ruled."

In the July primary the question was left to the precinct judges to decide, and some accepted ballots from negroes while others refused. Prior to that time Judge Sutherland applied to the state executive committee for a ruling on which he could hand down a decision, but county chairman took the position that they had a right to vote, but left the matter up to the election judges to decide.

"In some of the precincts negroes were refused the right. "Under the absentee voting law the matter of deciding whether negro lives on election day and will be open to the inspection of any citizen.

Clift also said the ballots cast by negroes would be so designated to enable the election judges to determine what disposition will be made of them.

"My understanding of the absentee voting law is that any person who is entitled to vote an absentee ballot, which is left with the county clerk to be delivered to the election judge be-within the time specified by law and makes the statement to me that he is going to be out of town on election day and who is a legally qualified voter, is entitled to vote an absentee ballot.

"All absentee voting in this office is handled in strict conformity with the law and will be open to the inspection of any citizen.

Clift also said the ballots cast by negroes would be so designated to enable the election judges to determine what disposition will be made of them.

"There seems to be a difference in opinion as to whether or not negroes have a legal right to vote. In the recent primary election the hours of 2 and 3 o'clock day.

D. Clift, county clerk, in the matter of negroes voting absentee ballots was made clear yesterday when the first negro to attempt to vote absentee was permitted to do so.

Mr. Clift, in explaining his attitude, made the following statement:

"There seems to be a difference in opinion as to whether or not negroes have a legal right to vote. In the recent primary election the Texas.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Keep Going Back

Negroes in Texas have been told in substance, if not in words, that wherever they bob up seeking the right to vote, whether in the Federal or the State Courts, they must try their case in an unfriendly forum. This puts us on notice that we must geep going back to the Supreme Court of the United States if we expect our case to be heard by a court with an open mind.

Nor should we feel, as some people seem to want to feel, that there is no benefit in these decisions of the highest court of the land. There is great benefit. Most of the liberality being expressed by newspapers and white individuals toward the right of Negroes to vote in Texas is traceable directly or indirectly to the two Nixon cases decided by the Federal Supreme Court.

The Texas State and Federal Courts to the contrary notwithstanding, there is a growing sentiment among many white people of Texas that the Constitution of the United States should be respected as well when the rights of Negroes are involved as when the rights of Mexicans and white people are involved. Another decision from the Supreme Court of the United States will increase that sentiment. So let us keep on going back there for justice.

Grovey Is Right Again

Some day Negroes as a people must begin to put first things first. R. R. Grovey has clearly called our attention to one important phase of this principle. He tells us in graphic language about how we find Negro school teachers absolutely indifferent to the efforts to win the right to vote for ourselves and the parents of school children, while at the same time supporting every movement which white people put on to saddle these same parents with more taxes. When it comes to bringing a second emancipation to the school children and to themselves Negro teachers, with a few notable exceptions, say they can't take part because that would be engaging in "politics." But it's not "politics" when Negroes are asked to vote more taxes upon their shoulders.

For instance, the white man who called the meeting to form a Negro committee to get Negroes to vote the Centennial Bonds in Houston went to the microphone when he ran for Congress a while back and heaped abuse upon the Negro voters of Harris County. If this man has only abuse for us when we seek the right to vote, Negroes should refuse to follow him in voting more taxes upon themselves.

AUSTIN, TEX.
AMERICAN

JUL 14 1934

Allred Rules Against Negroes Voting In Democratic Primary

Atty. Gen. James V. Allred has made a ruling that negroes are barred from the democratic primary under the resolution adopted in the Houston convention in May, 1932, which named Texas delegates to the democratic national convention. The opinion was addressed to D. B. Wood, county attorney of Williamson county, but the attorney general also answered queries on this subject from numerous election officials and others over the state. This is the full text of the Houston convention resolution: "Be it resolved that all white citizens of the state of Texas who are qualified to vote under the constitution and laws of the state shall be eligible to membership in the democratic party and as such be entitled to participate in its deliberations."

Well, the supreme court of the United States, in a five to four opinion, ruled just the reverse of the resolution. Now the buck has been passed to the court of last resort and the hoary age-old issue in certain Southern commonwealths is a burning issue in the year of our Lord 1934. Yes—where do we go from here?

Weatherford, Tex.
HERALD

AUG 14 1934

Federal Judge Upholds Barring Negro Voters

Sherman, Texas, Aug. 14.—Grayson County negroes who seek to vote in the Democratic primaries received a setback Monday when Judge Randolph Bryant, Federal Judge, sustained a defense motion to dismiss the application which John Johnson, Denison negro, had filed for an injunction to restrain the county Democratic executive committee from interfering with him and others similarly situated, in casting ballots.

Judge Bryant did not hear the case on its merits, as the motion to dismiss came before him first. At the conclusion of arguments from attorneys for both sides he declared that in his opinion the State Democratic Executive Committee had the right to pass the resolution confining voting in the primaries to those of the white race. He granted the motion to dismiss and five negro attorneys of Sherman, Dallas and Houston were scheduled to go into conference to decide if and when an appeal would be taken.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
PRESS

JUL 27 1934

INJUNCTION SUIT IN NEGRO VOTING AIRED AT RALLY

A. E. Harding and Republican Lawyer Filed Action, Says Greathouse

By CULLUM E. GREENE

The injunction suit filed yesterday, seeking to bar negroes from voting in tomorrow's primary election, was aired last night when Group Two of county candidates spoke at Capps Park.

Joe Greathouse, seeking re-election as Representative, Place 3, asserted that A. E. Harding, one of his opponents, "joined with a Republican lawyer, Dexter Scurlock, to bar negroes from voting," and in doing so had charged "the county chairman, Hugh Small, and others with entering into a conspiracy."

Mr. Harding, who spoke last, continued to rap Mr. Greathouse's record in the Legislature.

H. C. Allison, third in this race, read a "threat" letter he claimed to have received yesterday signed "Better Business Builders' League," in which was stated "Get out of our way and save your hide, withdraw or you won't reach your goal alive."

A lesson in arithmetic featured the announcements of candidates for criminal district judge.

Judge George E. Hosey, seeking re-election, said that since graduating in 1909 he had practiced law two years, served as assistant district attorney eight years, one year as county judge and 17 years on the bench.

Otis Rogers, speaking next, added up the figures and said "If they are correct, it would now be 1937."

Mr. Rogers referred to Judge Hosey's statement that 65 per cent of the criminal cases appealed in the state as a whole are reversed while only 15 per cent of those here are sent back, and added: "As a matter of fact, 30 per cent of his cases are reversed."

He named several important reversals, and a boy in the crowd shouted, "How about the Alsup case?" to which Mr. Rogers replied:

"Yes, I defended him, but only after Hosey had called me into his office and told me that unless I did, I would have to go to jail."

Corpus Christi, Tex.
CALLER

AUG 16 1934

No Ruling on Negro Voting Yet Received

Question Will Be Left to County Precinct Judges To Decide

Unless the state democratic executive committee rules on the matter before Aug. 25, the question of allowing Nueces county negroes to cast ballots in the run-off primary will be left for the various precinct judges to decide, Judge H. R. Sutherland, chairman of the county democratic executive committee, said yesterday.

"However, if they ask my advice on the matter, I will tell them I would allow the negroes to vote," Judge Sutherland declared. "The supreme court of the United States handed down an opinion that they should vote, and its decision is final, no matter what the Texas supreme court has ruled."

In the July primary the question was left to the precinct judges to decide, and some accepted ballots from negroes while others refused. Prior to that time Judge Sutherland applied to the state executive committee for a ruling on which he took the position that they had a right to vote, but county chairman Roy left the matter up to the election judges to decide.

"In some of the precincts negroes were allowed to vote by the judges, but in other voting precincts they were refused the right.

"Under the absentee voting law the matter of deciding whether or not negroes would be so designated to enable the election judges to determine what disposition will be made of them.

"My understanding of the absentee law is that any person who presents himself to this office at the time specified by law to come to the county clerk's office and make out his ballot, which is left with the county clerk to be delivered to the election judge within the hours of 2 and 3 o'clock, and makes the statement to me that he is going to be out of town on election day and who is a legally qualified voter, is entitled to vote an absentee ballot.

"All absentee voting in this office is handled in strict conformity with the law and will be open to the inspection of any citizen.

Clift also said the ballots cast by negroes would be so designated to enable the election judges to determine what disposition will be made of them.

D. Clift, county clerk, in the matter of negroes voting absentee ballots, I will submit them to the election judge.

Mr. Clift, in explaining his attitude, made the following statement:

"There seems to be a difference of opinion as to whether or not negroes have a legal right to vote. In the recent primary election

DEL 17

BEAUMONT, TEX.
ENTERPRISE

JUL 14 1934

NEGRO VOTE CASE MAY GO TO COURT

Injunction Suit Expected As Next Move in Primary Dispute

An injunction stopping precinct election judges from excluding negro voters from the July 28 primary polls is a thwarting move expected in a few days in the "white voter" controversy, as a result of a statement from the attorney general's office advising election officials to bar negroes from voting in the primaries.

It was understood that a local law firm will file an injunction suit, probably in federal district court, following word from the office of James V. Allred, attorney general, strengthening the wing of the county democratic executive committee which has held out for a white election.

J. R. Edmonds, chairman of the executive committee, received a message from Allred's office advising that the attorney general's opinion of Thursday holds valid the resolution of the democratic state convention barring negroes from the primaries. The message, which was from Gaynor Kendall, an Allred aide, said a copy of the opinion follows. Chairman Edmonds expects to receive it today.

When the opinion of the attorney general is received, copies will be distributed among the precinct election judges and they will be instructed to be governed accordingly, the county chairman said.

PORT ARTHUR, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 13 1934

'VOICE' WARNS NEGRO VOTERS

Mystery Veils 'White Supremacy League'

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, July 13.—An unidentified voice, deep, resonant and mysterious, called the courthouse pressroom over the telephone today to tell reporters of the organization of the Jefferson County White Supremacy league.

"We met in the woods near Amelia last night, 3000 of us," said the Voice.

"Yes, yes," said the reporter. "Who is this?"

"Never mind," replied the Voice. I am the spokesman for the league. We are going to have a white man's election in this county on July 28. Do you hear?"

The reporter heard.

The Voice went on to say that the stand of all political candidates and election judges on the issue of negro voting is being closely checked up on by leaguers.

Last, night, another voice—or it may have been the same one—called a newspaper office here to announce "in the name of the Ku Klux Klan" that negros shall not vote in the primary. The Voice added that the Klan, newly re-organized, boasts 7000 members in the county.

BEAUMONT, TEX.
JOURNAL

JUL 13 1934

NEGRO VOTES BARRED HERE

Confirmation Of Allred Opinion Is Received By County Leaders

With telegraphic confirmation of the opinion of Attorney General James V. Allred, barring negroes from the primary, already received and a full copy of the opinion in the mail, Chairman J. R. Edmonds of the county democratic committee Friday morning said that it was practically certain that the July 28 voting would be entirely for white voters.

The telegram received Friday morning by Edmonds read as follows:

"Opinion released yesterday holds valid resolution of democratic state convention barring negroes from the primaries. Copy of opinion follows."

(Signed) Gaynor Jendall, assistant attorney general.

Edmonds said that each election judge would be furnished a copy of the opinion and would be instructed to allow no negro votes.

AUSTIN, TEX.
AMERICAN

JUL 14 1934

Verdict Expected For Negro Voting

Committee Will Decide On Question Saturday

Final decision as to whether negroes will be allowed to vote in the primary election July 28 is expected Saturday morning when the Travis county executive committee meets at 10 a. m. at the courthouse.

A quorum for the meeting will be available, it was announced Friday afternoon after committeemen had been called by telephone. Election judges, most of whom are members of the committee, will hold an instruction school Saturday morning, Chmn. J. M. Patterson announced.

Pending the decision on the negro voting, ballots cast by negroes continued to be received at the office of County Clerk Marion W. Fowler. Should the negroes be denied the right to vote, absentee ballots already cast by negroes will be challenged, Patterson said.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
NEWS

AUG 14 1934

U. Court Upholds Ban on Negro Vote

SHERMAN, Tex., Aug. 14 (AP).—Right of the democratic party of Texas to exclude negroes from voting in its primaries has been upheld by Federal Judge Randolph Bryant.

Judge Bryant's decision was handed down in a case brought by John Johnson, Denison negro, who sought to restrain the county democratic executive commitee from interfering with negroes voting in primaries.

The case never came to trial on its merits, as Judge Bryant sustained a defense motion to dismiss.

Judge Bryant held that the state democratic executive committee had the right to prescribe qualifications of its members and that its action last year in passing resolution to limit its membership to the white race was valid.

IN THE Deep South, as everyone knows, Negroes are rarely allowed to vote, and certainly not in the Democratic primaries, which are usually the real elections. Plain extra-legal coercion is the device used: any Negro rash enough to consider appearing at a polling place knows he would be sure to get into serious trouble, and almost always he refrains. In the border states, however, the solution is not quite so simple. When the Texas state legislature passed a law whose effect was to bar Negroes from party primaries, the United States Supreme Court rebuked the legislators. The Democratic Party in Texas has now declared that it is a private club, in which Negroes are ineligible for membership. This view has been sustained in the local courts, although attorneys argued that the Democratic primary is in fact the election, and that the action of the party constituted disfranchisement. Now the matter will again have to go to the United States Supreme Court. In view of past precedents, it is reasonable to hope for a decision favorable to the Negroes; but in view of past history, it still seems likely that very few, if any, members of that race will be permitted in the visible future to vote in Texas no matter what the Court says.

Won By Disfranchisement

James V. Allred is the new governor of Texas. About that there can be no doubt. But his election was won by disfranchisement of one-sixth of the population of the state. So, while Mr. Allred possesses a legal title to the highest office within the gift of the people of Texas, his right to that office is equitably tainted with the constitutional blood of a million black folks.

Mr. Allred, therefore, has won the governorship through a great political wrong upon a helpless people. All great wrongs have a way of righting themselves; and in the process the balances of justice hold appropriate penalties for those who have inflicted these wrongs.

From the penalties which are due him for his wrongs to the Negro electorate of Texas, fate will not let James V. Allred escape.

SHERMAN, TEX.
DEMOCRAT

AUG 24 1934

No Definite Plans on Negro Voting Question

W. J. Durham, negro attorney, has said that he and other attorneys interested in federal court proceedings regarding negroes voting in democratic primaries in the future, had not mapped out definite plans regarding proceeding with litigation.

A suit for an injunction to restrain Grayson county election judges from interfering with negroes voting was dismissed by Randolph Bryant, federal judge.

Durham said in all probability he would have something definite on impending litigation by Monday. He did not indicate whether he would file another suit and seek a three judge hearing.

Political-1934

Suffrage

Texas.

CISCO, TEX.
NEWS

AUG 18 1934

Negroes Barred From Demo Primaries in Texas

Federal Judge Randolph Bryant, a native Texan, is a republican. He was appointed by a republican president. His father before him was a republican and a noted lawyer and jurist. He has okehed the negro voting ban placed on the blacks by the state democratic committee. He held in his ruling that the committee had the right to prescribe qualificaions for it smembers and that its action in passing a resolution confining voters in the democratic primaries to those of the white race was valid. He rendered the decision in the case of John Johnson, a Denison negro, who sought an injunction against the Grayson county executive committee to restrain its members from interfering with negro voting in the democratic party primaries. The case never came to trial on its merits, as the federal judge sustained a defense motion to dismiss.

There is a five-to-four decision by the supreme court of the United States which held in a Virginia case that negroes could not be barred from voting in democratic primaries if they were qualified to cast ballots—if they had registered or paid their poll tax. It appears what is constitutional in Texas is not legal in old Virginia—the so-called mother of presidents.

HOUSTON, TEX.
PRESS

AUG 20 1934

THE POLL TAX

Editor The Press:

It is a fine talking point to a number of candidates when running for office to point to the injustice of the poll tax and want its repeal. Of course, it is easy to enlist the voters in any scheme to get rid of taxes, as we would all be glad to live in some Utopia where there were no taxes.

Now repeal the poll tax and you would have a voting strength of 1,656,675 males and 1,564,765 females. Of these you would have 251,349 negro males and 258,279 negro ~~females~~.

On election years you have about 1,200,000 qualified voters and on off years you have around 800,000 voters. Now here you are going to add 2,000,000 new voters, or add two new voters to each qualified voter we now have.

I would like to ask are we not opening up a Pandora's box of trouble, and the "evils that we would fly from" would be greatly intensified. DUNCAN CARRICK, 111 Preston avenue.

TEXAS BARS NEGROES ANYWAY

Despite the fact that the United States Supreme Court has more than once decided that Negroes qualified could not be barred from voting in the Texas Democratic primary elections, Texas has done just that in its recent primary election. In other words decisions of the United States Supreme Court don't mean a thing to Texas. Seventy-three years ago Texas, along with ten other states, tried to get from under anything smacking of United States, but after four long years suffering and blood spilling, she was shown the error of her ways. But Texas seems unregenerated. The United States Supreme Court may speak but Texas doesn't heed. The colored voters of Texas however are not willing to let their voting rights be disregraded in such a manner, backed as they are by specific decisions of the highest court of the land.

They have taken up the matter directly with the department of Justice in Washington with a view of having the officers responsible for the violation of the law punished. The department has called for direct evidence of violations and this has been furnished in the form of affidavits. It now remains to be seen just what will be done. Certainly the matter cannot be allowed to go unnoticed. It is a direct challenge of the power and authority of the Government. It has passed beyond just the rights of colored voters to participate in any and all elections, as important as that may be.

CORPUS CHRISTI, TEX.
TIMES

AUG 19 1934

County Negro Vote Dispute Before Court

Henry Favor Seeks Application To Bar Negro Vote in Runoff

Set for Tuesday

Case Will Be Considered In 28th District Court By Judge Hopkins

Application for a writ of injunction restraining negroes from voting in the Aug. 25 runoff primary has been filed in Judge W. B. Hopkins' twenty-eighth judicial district court by Henry Favor, complaining of the democratic executive committee of Nueces county, and Thomas B. Southgate, Tom Whelan, D. S. Elliott and Ben Mew Sr., as defendants.

Judge Hopkins has set the case for hearing at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning in his court.

The plaintiff sets out in his petition that he is a democrat in good standing and eligible to vote in the election Saturday, and brings the suit for himself and all other white democrats and citizens of Nueces county in a like situation with himself.

He defines the democratic party as a "voluntary political association operating for private purposes and in no sense a governmental agency," and states that such democratic party has the power and right by a voluntary political organization to fix, regulate and determine the content of its membership, and has the power to prescribe such qualifications, rules and regulations as it desires or believes necessary as conditions precedent to membership, subject only to the limitations fixed by law.

He further sets out that the democratic party of Texas at its convention on May 24, 1932, at Houston, adopted the following resolution:

"Be it resolved, that all white citizens of the state of Texas, who are qualified to vote under the constitution and laws of the state shall be eligible to membership in the democratic party and as such entitled to participate in its deliberations," and points out that by virtue of this resolution, the members of the negro race were excluded and precluded from voting in a white man's primary, and that the resolution is still in force and effect and binding upon the democratic party and its members.

The plaintiff charges the fact to be that the Nueces county democratic executive committee has failed and refused to issue any order or resolution or direction to the election judges throughout Nueces county to refuse to permit members of the negro race, even though otherwise qualified by law, to participate in the primary election, and that they will permit negroes to participate in the coming runoff primary in the nomination of state, district, county and precinct officers.

The petition further sets out that there are approximately 400 negroes otherwise qualified to vote, and who vote in the county precincts and that "unless restrained great and irreparable injury will result to said plaintiff . . . in that it will disrupt and interfere with the management and control of the party, in that it will permit others than members thereof to join therein in selecting nominee for said party."

The petitions names the officers and members of the executive committee, who are as follows: H. R. Sutherland, chairman; Joe Downey, secretary, and J. A. Downey, D. C. Wolcott, John S. Kearney, Edward R. Kleberg, H. D. C. Gussett, I. M. Singer, S. Maston Nixon, J. H. Page, Charles E. Reynolds, A. G. Sutherland, H. G. Yakey, J. G. Elliff, J. P. Sands, Ernest Barkley, C. M. Allen, L. P. Cooke, T. A. Woolridge, Hugo Ritter, J. E. Cotter, F. F. Brandesky, J. W. Moseley, W. P. Helscher, Pat McDonough, Emil Hinze, W. Dunlap, B. B. Gabbert, John Rektorik, J. F. Ordner, E. G. Castleberry, Jim R. Steele, Frank Bluntzer, Ben G. Mew Sr., Hugo T. Isensee, W. H. Dunlap, W. T. Davis, W. A. Wakefield, Frank Sparks, Meredith Queen, A. Trevithick.

Corpus Christi, Tex.
CALLER

AUG 21 1934

Asks Negroes Be Allowed To Vote

County Democratic Chairman Opposes Move for County Injunction

H. R. Sutherland, Nueces county democratic chairman, and attorney for the executive committee and election judges, requested yesterday that a petition for an injunction prohibiting negroes from voting in the runoff election filed by Henry Favor, represented by Attorneys Jones and Kirkham, be not granted.

"Since the supreme court has issued an opinion that negroes have a right to vote in the democratic primary," Sutherland said, "we have permitted them to vote, as we desire to keep our anatomy out of a federal prison."

Hearing on the requested injunction will be held this morning at 9 o'clock.

Do You Want To Vote?

Negroes of Texas are now face to face with the question os to whether we really do want to vote or whether our interest in the franchise is chiefly vocal talk. For the first time in the history of our disfranchisement in Texas we have in process of development a state-wide organization which will put up an all-year, permanent fight along all fronts to break down the barriers of race and color for which stand in the way of our using the poll tax receipts which the State of Texas makes us pay our hard-earned money.

In the past a small group in several different sections of the state have carried on purely local fights. Under the leadership of Charlie Brackins as state chairman and A. S. Wells as chief counsel we shall conduct an integrated fight in which Negroes all over Texas will join.

Houston Informer 8-11-34 Texas

If fifty thousand Negroes out of the million Negroes in the state will give an average of TEN CENTS A MONTH to the State Franchise Fund, this fight can and will be won. The question is: Do you want to vote bad enough to spend TEN CENTS A MONTH to win back your right? If so write to the state chairman, Charlie Brackins, 215, Pythian Temple, Dallas, Texas, pledging your full co-operation. Do this today!

A POLITICAL BANQUO'S GHOST

Politics not only makes strange bedfellows, but it causes some persons to stage strange stunts and cut curious capers!

Back in the early spring of 1934, the attorney general's office of Texas, presided over by James V. Allred of Wichita Falls, ruled that Negro Democrats could not be barred from partisan primary elections in this state, the opinion being given in response to inquiries from the city Democratic executive committee of Beaumont.

Consequently, Negroes voted in the municipal Democratic primary election in Beaumont during the spring, and it seemed to be the consensus of opinion at that time that Negro Democrats would vote in all partisan elections held in Texas during 1934.

However, something rather strange and unusual happened between the spring and summer rulings of the attorney general's office: the former in the Beaumont city primary election, where the attorney general's office held that neither by state convention act nor state executive committee resolution were Negroes barred from the Democratic primary elections, and the latter handed down during last month which held that Negroes of Texas were not eligible to participate in the Democratic primary elections of 1934.

What transpired in the interim to cause the attorney general's department and even the attorney general, himself, to change fronts and reverse themselves?

When the opinion was given by the attorney general's department in the Beaumont case, according to some political wiseacres, the attorney general and his departmental attaches considered it a master political stroke to make an inroad upon the large Negro vote in Texas, and on the heels of the spring ruling and subsequent launching of Attorney General Allred's candidacy for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination of Texas, several of his regional or district campaign managers made an undercover and even open effort to corral Negro votes.

Everything went along smoothly until one of the Negro weekly newspapers came out with an editorial endorsing another gubernatorial candidate, and calling upon all Negroes in Texas to support and vote en masse for said candidate.

While it is not The Defender's intention here to engage in what might aptly be styled a post-mortem lamentation, the fact remains that this journalistic suggestion of a bloc vote for one candidate (one of the political evils which many persons had predicted would result if Negroes were permitted to vote in the Democratic primary elections) threw consternation into the ranks of the Allred forces, and finally led to the "political opinion" of the attorney general which barred Negroes, in the main, from the partisan primary elections, basing his action upon the resolution passed at the Democratic State Convention held at Houston, May 24, 1932.

It appears that Attorney General and Candidate Allred held to the view, political though it was (and yet they say that everything is fair in war, love and politics), that if Negroes were going to vote en bloc for some other gubernatorial candidate and not show their appreciation to the attorney general for his department's ruling in the Beaumont primary ballot issue, then he would throw the entire colored citizenry of the state "in the wagon," politically ruminating.

Not only were the vast majority of Texas Negroes barred from the first Democratic primary election on July 28, 1934, as a result of the opinion handed down by the attorney general, but even the candidate, whose gubernatorial cause was espoused and advocated by the colored newspaper in question, finished a poor third in the race and thus was eliminated from the run-off primary election scheduled for Saturday, August 25, 1934, when the next governor of Texas will be chosen—since nomination in the final Democratic primary election in this state is tantamount to election.

If it had been apparent that Negroes of Texas would have divided their votes among the formidable candidates in quest of the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, and if some of our over-zealous and enthusiastic leaders of color had possessed a little more political wisdom and had demonstrated a bit of practical politics, a different story might have been written in connection with the entire campaign.

Whether it was done with Attorney General Allred's consent or not, the fact remains that efforts were made by some of his campaign aides and lieutenants in Waco, Austin, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio and other Texas centers with large colored population, to enlist the support and solicit the ballots of Negroes during the early stages of the July campaign; but because the majority of colored voters did not indicate their preference for governor and would not commit themselves either for or against any of the aspirants (except the editorial to which reference has been made hereinbefore), it seems that the Allred forces decided not to take any chances and hence the exclusion of Negro Democrats from the primaries through the medium of the Allred-supreme court "political opinion."

Like Banquo's ghost, the "Negro question" will not down in the Democratic circles of Texas; and, like the proverbial and traditional apparition, this issue bobs up recurrently, and there is grave danger that even yet it might react against the attorney general and cause both his political defeat and downfall sooner than he and his advisers expect; for he that soweth to the wind is sure to reap the whirlwind, and even in politics the law of retribution prevails, as shown by the luckless fate which overtook that demagogic and anti-Negro quartet composed of James K. Vardaman, Ben Tillman, Hoke Smith and Cole Blease.

Texas.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

NEGROES URGED TO TAKE BURDEN OF CITIZENSHIP

Informer

By PICCOLA WADE

As the final dead line for paying the poll tax and getting exemption certificates draws nigh, it is important to try to find out what Negroes are thinking about this fundamental badge of citizenship. In a check by The Informer this week not a single person interviewed was opposed to paying or even indifferent to meeting this sacred obligation. They all emphatically urged Negroes to qualify as full citizens of city, state and county, as the following will indicate:

Editor C. N. Love—"Poll tax is something, by-the-by, that every man and woman of voting age should pay, especially this year, when the future looks so bright for Negroes' active participation in all political affairs in Texas."

Dr. J. L. Peacock—"Pay your poll tax to prove that you are a real American citizen."

Rev. A. W. Carr—"Even though he is denied many of the rights the poll tax record guarantees, the Negro should pay it for it is the only medium through which he can prove himself a citizen."

Mrs. Pauline Lewis Lubin—"I believe in the ballot, with it streets are paved, sewers are laid, dark corners are lighted. Pay your poll tax!"

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
LIGHT

FEB 1 1934

NEGRO VOTERS RENEW FIGHT

Negro voters in Bexar county, said to be 7000 strong, again will renew their legal fight to go to the polls in this year's Democratic primaries.

Announcement was made Thursday by C. A. Booker, president of the Bexar County Colored Voters' league and chairman of the state committee of negro voters.

The fight will be started earlier this year, Booker said, in an effort to get the question threshed out in the higher state courts before election day. Two years ago, victory was snatched from their grasp, Booker said, when the Democratic party made a last minute appeal to the Fourth Court of Civil appeals.

Judge S. G. Tayloe of Forty-fifth District court had issued an injunction restraining the Democratic party from barring the negroes from the polls.

The state Democratic executive committee must pass a resolution barring the negroes before court action can be taken, Booker said, and Maury Hughes, chairman of the committee at Dallas, will be asked to call the committee and take this customary step as soon as possible.

POLL TAX EXEMPTION

2-3-34

It is true that the constitution of Texas provides "that any voter who is subject to pay a poll tax under the laws of the State of Texas shall have paid said tax before offering to vote at any election in this State and hold a receipt showing that said poll tax was paid before the first day of February next preceding such election;" yet there is nothing in the constitution which says what voters shall be subject to the payment of the poll tax. 2-3-34 Houston Informer 2-4-34

Under these circumstances it seems to The Informer that it is well within the constitutional power of the legislature, as a matter of necessity to relieve the present economic emergency, to pass a law which provides that people who have no jobs and no means of paying the poll tax shall not be subject to the payment of that tax. Since the constitution did not say what voters should be subject to the tax it seems at least within the emergency powers of the legislature to grant relief from a tax which has never been wholly in line with free suffrage anyway.

POLL TAX DRIVE HAS POOR CLOSE

Houston Informer

2-4-34

Beaumont.—The closing rally of the intensive poll tax drive conducted in Beaumont and sponsored by the Y. M.B.L. was held at Jerusalem Baptist Church, Grant and Poplar streets, Sunday, January 28, where 500 Negroes congregated. This meeting was under the auspices of the Laboring Man's Protective Association. It was a fine meeting with all exemplifing a fine spirit of cooperation. Many impromptu speeches were delivered by persons called on by the audience.

2-3-34

It was amazing to see and to hear persons from all walks of life to readily respond to the wishes of their constituency and the able speeches, oratory and eloquence, portrayed. As the speakers swayed their audience and at times had them spell bound with the logic and common reasoning one would be compelled to ackonwledge the wonderful gift of the Negro.

The speaker (white) on this occasion was Attorney J. B. Morris who was nearly two hours late, but with not even standing room the audience waited patiently, being entertained by their own speakers. Attorney Morris said some good things, made a very good speech, but was not as effective as he may have been if he would have had the proper approach.

There have been more than a dozen meetings held where they were addressed by white speakers; many who had visited most of them stated that while this was the largest gathering the speaker, Attorney Morris, made the least impression. The audience was all in an enthusiastic state for the reception of his speech being already electrified by their own speakers. After he had gone into his discourse he, time after time, referred to these 500 men and women who had taken time out to pay their respect and appreciation to a worthy cause, as "boys." Every person in the audience was of voting age and to their surprise and amazement, many had been receiving exemption certificates for years. The judge may have said some good things and made a pretty good speech but it was not accepted, only as tinkling symbols and sounding brass.

WHEN THE BALLOT COMES

Informer

Nothing has been more encouraging to the million Negroes of Texas in a generation than the bright possibility of participation in the statutory Democratic primary elections of Texas, which looms by reason of the recent decision of Federal Judge Charles A. Boynton at El Paso, and the statement by Attorney John Davis of Dallas, member of the State Democratic Executive Committee, who said: "I am going to vote in favor of openly inviting the Negro to cast his primary ballot. * * * I already have expressed my view to other members of the committee and it is my understanding that other committeemen are in accord with me."

Houston Texas 2-17-34.

The big question is this: When the ballot comes, what shall we do with it? Shall we use it to help elect to office men and women who believe as a principle of life, and not merely for stump speech purposes, in the Jeffersonian principle of "equal rights to all, special privileges to none?" Shall we by our actions repudiate once and for all the unjust propaganda that the Negro does not know what to do with the ballot when he gets it and that the Negro's vote is exclusively the subject of barter and sale in the hands of unscrupulous politicians?

We must not wait until we get the ballot to begin to answer these questions; for at least some of the opposition to our right to exercise the franchise rights guaranteed to us by the Constitution of the United States is the unfounded argument that the ballot in the hand of the Negro is not a free man's vote, but a hireling's pawn.

It will do no good, ostrich-like, to say that we shall do nothing about it since we know that the contention is untrue. It is more than foolish to do no more than to sit by and advance the other truth that historically white politicians have been just as corrupt (perhaps, more so, since their opportunities were greater and they should have known better) as Negroes, and that the cases of manipulation of Negro politicians by whites have been twisted in the attempt to discredit the entire Negro electorate.

We must be realistic about this matter; we must recognize the fact these arguments are advanced against us, and that they have their weight; and we must set about to get across the present truth that, whatever may have been true in the past, our present conduct demonstrates that through seventy years of education and religion and home life and cultural associations and watching others, the Negro, who out of his meagre earnings, is willing to pay his poll tax, is just as upright a citizen, with just as high sense of civic duty and responsibility, as any other man of any other race.

NIXON WINS THIRD TEXAS PRIMARY CASE

Call

Election Officials Must Pay Damages to El Paso Physician

2-16-34

Kansas City

EL PASO, Texas.—For the third time in the last seven years the efforts to bar Negroes from the Texas Democratic primaries were defeated when Judge Boynton of the federal district court here handed down a decision Wednesday, February 7, awarding damages to Dr. L. A. Nixon for his having been denied the right to register and vote in the spring primary of 1933.

This is the first time such a victory has been won in a Texas case in a court lower than the United States supreme court. The first two cases, in which Dr. Nixon was also the plaintiff, were won in the highest court in 1927 and 1932. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored people has financed and handled all three cases.

Fred C. Knollenberg, Dr. Nixon's El Paso attorney, who was assisted and advised by Arthur D. Spingarn and James Marshall of the New York legal staff of the association, has telegraphed the New York office as follows:

Judge Boynton held Justice Cardozo's decision in Nixon vs. Condon binding and resolution of State Democratic Committee wrongfully deprived Doctor Nixon of his right to vote in primaries, so gave him judgment. Under this decision every election judge, county chairman, and member of state executive committee would be equally liable for refusing all Negroes the right to participate. Attorneys expect state Democratic convention to pass resolutions barring Negro vote hoping to comply with the inference left by supreme court that the party itself could bar them, but I think any action under Texas comprehensive primary law would fall within the prohibition of fifteenth amendment."

The last decision of the highest legal tribunal held that the state executive committee was a state instrumentality and could not bar legally any qualified voter from participating in any partisan election, whether primary, general or special.

While the damages amounted to only $5, the purpose of the suit was to test the authority of election officials to bar a qualified voter, and by the court decision and judgment awarded Dr. Nixon any attempt to deny qualified voters a right to participate in such elections in Texas is illegal, and such person can recover damages against the election officials or party officers thus depriving him of such constitutional rights.

U.S. COURT DECIDES AGAINST VOTE BAN

Courier

2-17-34

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 15—For the third time in the last seven years, the efforts to bar Negroes from the Texas Democratic primaries were defeated when Judge Boynton of the Federal District Court here handed down a decision Wednesday, February 7, awarding damages to Dr. L. A. Nixon for his having been denied the right to register and vote in the spring primary of 1933.

This is the first time such a victory has been won in a Texas case in a court lower than the United States Supreme Court. The first two cases, in which Dr. Nixon was also the plaintiff, were won in the highest court in 1927 and 1932. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has financed and handled all three cases.

Fred C. Knollenberg, Dr. Nixon's El Paso attorney, who was assisted and advised by Arthur B. Spingarn and James Marshall of the New York legal staff of the association, has telegraphed the New York office as follows:

"Judge Boynton held Justice Cardozo's decision in Nixon vs. Condon binding and resolution of State Democratic Committee wrongfully deprived Doctor Nixon of his right to vote in primaries, so gave him judgment. Under this decision every election judge, county chairman, and member of State executive committee would be equally liable for refusing all Negroes the right to participate. Attorneys expect State Democratic convention to pass resolutions barring Negro vote, hoping to comply with the inference left by Supreme Court that the party itself could bar them, but I think any action under Texas comprehensive primary law would fall within the prohibition of Fifteenth Amendment."

N.A.A.C.P. AGAIN WINS TEXAS PRIMARY CASE

Democrats of State Must Admit Negroes, Federal Court Rules

Amsterdam

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 12.—For the third time in the last seven years the efforts to bar Negroes from Texas Democratic primaries were defeated when Judge Boynton of the Federal District Court here handed down a decision Wednesday awarding damages to Dr. L. A. Nixon for his having been denied the right to register and vote in the spring primary of 1933.

2-14-34

This is the first time such a victory has been won in a Texas case in a court lower than the United States Supreme Court. The first two cases, in which Dr. Nixon was also the plaintiff, were won in the highest court in 1927 and 1932. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has financed and handled all three cases. Fred C. Knollenberg, Dr. Nixon's El Paso attorney, was assisted and advised by Arthur D. Spingarn and James Marshall of the New York legal staff of the association.

EL PASO TEX.
HERALD

FEB 8 1934

EL PASO NEGRO WINS SUIT FOR VOTING RIGHTS

Federal Judge Decides Dr. Nixon Was Denied Ballot Unlawfully

AWARDED $5 DAMAGES

Court Rules That Resolution Of Democratic Party Wasn't Specific

Dr. L. A. Nixon, El Paso negro, today won his first victory in a lower court in his long fight for the right for himself and other negroes to vote in Texas Democratic primaries when Federal Judge C. A. Boynton awarded him $5 damages and the costs of his suit against El Paso election officials for $5000 damages.

Dr. Nixon charged that George L. McNann and Frank Brenk, precinct No. 6 voting officials, refused to let him cast a ballot in the Democratic primary and run-off elections July 23 and Aug. 27, 1932, on the grounds that the state convention adopted a resolution barring negroes from voting.

Judge Boynton held that the resolution does not in itself exclude negroes from voting in primaries.

Mentions Only Whites

"The resolution merely sets forth that white persons who are qualified voters should participate in primaries," Judge Boynton said.

"Therefore, when the executive committee instructed the El Paso county chairman to exclude negroes, it was an action by the executive committee and not the convention."

Dr. Nixon has fought for voting privileges in the El Paso federal court and the supreme court for six years.

Twice before the district court has ruled against him. Both times the supreme court ruled in his favor and held that Texas laws which barred negroes from voting were unconstitutional.

Will Try to Vote

Dr. Nixon today said he will attempt to vote in the July primaries.

Ben R. Howell, attorney for the election officials, said the Democratic committee will not appeal the decision handed down today.

"The ruling was inevitable in face of the way the resolution was written," Mr. Howell said.

"We haven't given up the fight. The next convention probably will adopt another resolution specifically barring negroes from voting in primaries."

EL PASO, TEX.
TIMES

FEB 8 1934

Negro Voter Wins Decision

Federal Judge Rules Texas Democratic Ruling Was Not Specific.

Failure of the Texas state Democratic convention of 1932, meeting June 24, in Houston, specifically to disbar negroes from voting in Democratic primaries, resulted in a victory of Dr. L. A. Nixon, El Paso negro, in the federal district court yesterday, in his fight for the right to vote in primary elections.

Judge C. A. Boynton, handing down his decision awarding Nixon $5 damages, ruled that the resolution, merely stating that "white persons, who are qualified voters, should participate in primaries," was not sufficient to disqualify negroes, and so ruled in favor of the plaintiff.

This is the first victory for Nixon in the lower court. Twice he has precipitated court fights for the right to cast his ballot in Democratic primaries, and twice the decisions have been against him, but in each former instance, appeals to the United States supreme court resulted in verdicts in his favor.

In the present case, Nixon charged in his complaint that on July 23, and August 27, dates respectively of the Democratic general and run-off primaries, he attempted to cast his ballot in precinct six, but was denied the right by George L. McCann and Frank Breck, election officials.

He asked $5000 damages in his suit in the federal court.

NEW YORK
[redacted] WORLD

Telegram

FEB 8 1934

VOTE LOST, NEGRO WINS $5.

By the Associated Press.

EL PASO, Feb. 8.—Because election officials prevented him from voting in the 1932 Democratic primaries, Dr. L. A. Nixon, Negro physician, today was the winner of a $5 damage award.

Texas,

Political - 1934

Suffrage

STATE LEADER COLORED DEMOCRATIC FORCES DURING 1932 FILES $10,000 SUIT HERE AGAINST COUNTY CLERK TOWNSEND

Defender

Political Chieftain and Editor Refused Absentee Ballot Monday Despite His Past Party Connections and Activities—Petition Alleges Such Action Deprived Him of Legal and Property Rights Contrary to State Statutes—Contends Public Official Exceeded His Statutory Power and Functions.

The second shot was fired in Houston Thursday morning in the legal battle to determine the franchise rights of Negroes as Democratic party electors, when C. F. Richardson, editor of The Houston Defender and state director of the colored Democratic forces in 1932, filed a damage suit in the civil district court of Harris County against Albert Townsend, Harris County clerk, for $10,000 alleging that he suffered injury and sustained financial loss as a result of the county functionary refusing to tender him an absentee ballot Monday morning, July 9.

Along with Julius White, R. R. Grovey, John Weathersby and J. H. Harris, Richardson states that he presented himself and his poll tax receipt to the county clerk, himself, Monday, July 9, 1934, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 5 p. m. and asked for an absentee ballot; that he was a Democrat and stood ready to take the party ballot pledge; that he was otherwise qualified to vote since he expected to be out of the city and county on primary election day, Saturday, July 28, 1934.

That despite his eligibility and qualifications and willingness to subscribe to the party pledge, Townsend refused him (Richardson) an absentee ballot when Richardson informed the county clerk, upon inquiry, that he (Richardson) had not voted the Democratic ticket three times during the last six years as required by the "grandfather resolution" adopted by the Harris County Democratic executive committee Saturday, July 7, 1934.

Setting forth the fact that he has built up goodwill throughout Harris County and state of Texas for himself and his newspaper, The Houston Defender, as a result of his past political activities in connection with and contributions to the Democratic party in this county and the state, and that the denial of the right to vote not only disfranchised him illegally and wrongfully, but that it made it impossible for him to procure political advertisements which have been assured his paper and also affected his paper's circulation due to the absence of political matter, Richardson prays the court, upon hearing of the cause, to award him damages amounting to $10,000, and that all court costs, etc., be held against the defendant (Townsend).

Date for the trial of the case, which is being handled by Attorney James M. Nabrit, Jr., will probably be set during the September term of court.

It is understood that every Negro who is refused an absentee ballot by Townsend and his attaches will file a damage suit against the Harris County clerk, who is reputed to be above want and penury.

NEGROES ARE BARRED FROM TEXAS PRIMARY

DALLAS, Texas, July 12.—(AP)—Attorney-General James V. Allred today handed down an opinion holding that negroes are not entitled to vote in the coming democratic primaries.

The attorney-general's decision was based upon a resolution adopted at the state convention of the democratic party in Houston May 24, 1932.

HOUSTON ATTORNEY FIGHTS DEMO RULE

JAMES M. NABRIT, JR., grandson attorney for the U. B. F. & S. M. T. of Texas and prominent Houston lawyer, is counsel in the suits filed in Houston to test the validity of the efforts to bar Negro Democrats from the partisan primary elections July 28 and August 25, 1934.

In view of the ruling Thursday, July 12, of Attorney General James V. Allred, who is a candidate for governor of Texas in said primaries, the Houston case bids likely to determine the Negroes' constitutional rights as Democratic electors.

DALLAS COUNTY NEGROES START A VOTING FUND

DALLAS.—Sunday afternoon at St Paul M. E. Church, two hundred Negroes from throughout the county met in regular convention and completed the organization of the Progressive Voters League, established a defense fund to vouchsafe their franchise rights, effected precinct organizations in each of the 121 precincts of the county and adopted the following platform:

Be it resolved by the Progressive Citizens League in regular convention assembled, that we do not look with favor upon any person or persons who undertake to extract money from candidates for public office account services rendered them in their canvas for such offices, and that we condemn that character of procedure on the part of any person or persons who may be guilty of the same.

Be it further resolved that the Progressive Citizens League makes known and gives wide publicity to the fact that it does not stand for monied consideration for their franchise in any election that may be held in the city and county of Dallas.

Be it further resolved that in keeping with the high purposes of this organization, that no endorsement be given any candidate for a public office, but that the membership of this organization shall be free to exercise their own discretion and judgment as to whom they will support for the various offices within the gift of the people.

The Progresive Voters League will hold another convention Friday night, July 13, in the Pythian Temple to study the ballot and to conduct a voting school. Meetings will be held in the precincts throughout the week. A. S. Wells is president, and A. Maceo Smith, secretary.

Other officers are: Dr. W. K. Flowers, first vice president; S. C. Black, second vice president; Rev. R. T. Andrews, third vice president; Mrs. R. A. Winn, treasurer.

EL PASO TEX.
HERALD

JUN 9 1934

NEGROES ASK RIGHT TO VOTE

Threaten Damage Suit If They Are Barred From Demo Primaries

If negroes are refused the right to vote in the July 28 Democratic primary, Dr. L. A. Nixon, negro physician, will file another damage suit against election officials, Atty. Fred Knollenberg said today.

The negro physician won three similar suits, two of which went to the U. S. supreme court.

Mr. Knollenberg said Frank McCann and other election officials have not paid the $5 and costs judgment against them in the third case decided by Federal Judge Charles A. Boynton more than four months ago.

Mr. Knollenberg said he does not believe negroes can be excluded legally.

"Of course, county Democratic officials can do as they have in the past — just refuse to let negroes vote," he said. "In that case, we will have another suit."

Atty. Ben Howell, who represented Mr. McCann and others, said he believes negroes may be excluded legally.

"According to the court decisions, the state executive committee cannot do it, but if the state convention passes the proper resolution, negroes can be barred from the primary," he said.

County Democratic Chairman Ernest Guinn said he will wait until after the state committee makes some decision Monday before presenting the question to the county committee.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX
LIGHT

JUN 8 1934

Negro Association Denies Intent to Ask Primary Vote

Denial that the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People would participate in a fight for the right of negroes to vote in Democratic primaries next month was made Friday.

Oliver W. Johnson, negro attorney, describing himself as chairman of the legal redress committee of the association, asid the organization would take no part in moves toward this end, as announced Thursday by C. A. Booker, negro, who said he was president of the Bexar county Colored Voters' league.

Booker had announced delegates from both groups would ask the state Democratic executive committee to rule in favor of negro voting. If that was not given, he said, the fight would be carried to the courts.

WICHITA FALLS, TEX.
RECORD NEWS
JUN 26 1934

Negro Vote Problem Left Open in Jefferson County

BEAUMONT, Texas, June 25. (AP)—Hesitant to invite a legal fight on the question of placing the "white Democrat" pledge on the Jefferson county primary ticket, the primary sub-committee of the county executive committee today declined to settle the matter.

The sub-committee will meet again Saturday. Meanwhile, J. R. Edmonds, county chairman, P. A. Dowlen, secretary of the executive committee, and other members of the primary sub-committee will seek advice on the inclusion of the word "white" in the state pledge.

Chairman Edmonds said it may be necessary to call a special meeting of the county executive committee to consider rescinding the resolution calling for the white pledge.

PUTNUM SCORES ACTION BARRING NEGRO AT POLE

Chronicle

HOUSTON.—Decision of the Harris County democratic committee Saturday to bar out of the primaries July 28 and August 25 all citizens who cannot prove to election officials that they or their parents have voted in three democratic primaries during the past sixe years was sharply attacked in a statement issued Sunday by Frank Putnam, candidate for congress from the Harris county district.

"The committee's action," said Putnam, "is intended to bar out not only qualified colored voters, but all independent voters. If it could be enforced, it would bar out five white voters for every colored voter. Less than 40,000 of Harris county's 103,000 lawfully qualified voters would be eligible to vote this year under the committee's plan.

7-14-34

"It is an impudent, lawless attempt to take control of the people's elections away from the people, and to vest that control in a little clique of perpetual political jobholders and their paid retainers. Every Harris county official found to be in any way responsible for the committee's action should be kicked out of office by Harris county voters at the earliest opportunity. Every state and district official or candidate who had any part in it should be defeated July 28.

"A certain few great corporate interests—not all of them by any means—have always wanted to keep the popular vote as small as possible, so that elections could be more easily controlled for their benefit. Job-holding political rings have worked with them to this end. As one result, over 2,000,000 Texas men and women are this year disfranchised by inability to pay the poll tax.

"The Harris county committee now proposes to disfranchise tens of thousans more, both white and colored, by its amazing assumption that it is the owner of the democratic party and can rob those voters of their rights with impunity. The committee is the servant of the party, not its owner, and needs to be reminded of that fact.

"The United States supreme court has decided that Texas party primaries are part of the state's election system, and that no qualified voter, pledging support to primary nominees, can be barred out of the primaries. That pledge is printed on the ballot. Every voter gives the pledge when he casts his ballot. A United States district judge has punished an El Paso county election official for violating that supreme court decision.

"Any Harris County election official who bars any qualified voter out of the primaries will be in contempt of the United States courts. Any such election official will be liable not only to a civil suit for damages, but to fine and imprisonment for conspiring to violate the criminal code of the United States.

"The Texas Democratic State Committee, bowing to the law of the land, this year took no action to bar any qualified voter out of the primaries. County committees in all of the larger counties except Harris have done likewise. Only the Harris County committee, among all of the larger counties, has presumed to defy the law.

"Election officials in Harris County should ignore the committee's lawless action and obey the law. To do otherwise is to imperil their own safety and the legality of the primary.

"I call upon Congressman Eagle and all of the other candidates for congress from this district to join me in this demand, so that whoever is nominated and elected will be the choice of all of the qualified voters, and not a small minority."

FRANK PUTNAM.

HUNDREDS ATTEND DEMOCRATIC CLUB PARLEY AT WESLEY

That Negroes of Houston and Harris County are determined to exercise their constitutional rights as electors and break down the barrier which was raised against them by the county Democratic executive committee, was demonstrated at Wesley Chapel A. M. E. Church Wednesday night, when hundreds of citizens responded to the call of R. R. Grovey, member of the executive committee of Harris County Negro Democratic Clug, who presided at the meeting and sounded the keynote.

Defender 7-14-34

He was followed by C. F. Richardson, Defender editor and chairman of finance committee, who told why funds were needed at the present time to make a legal test of the committee's power and county clerk's authority to bar qualified voters from the primary elections.

Hon. James M. Nabrit, Jr., legal counsel for the organization, who has filed a mandamus suit in behalf of Julius White against Albert Townsend, and who has also filed a damage suit for $10,000 against Townsend for C. F. Richardson, who was likewise refused an absentee ballot Monday, explained in detail the legal procedure to date and just what was contemplated. His statement that an injunction suit against Chairman J. B. Lubbock and his entire executive committee whould be filed at once in the federal court, was the occasion for thunderous applause.

Following Attorney Nabrit's talk a neat sum of money was raised for the legal defense fund, bringing the total above the $100 mark.

Others making short, but very appropriate talks were J. L. Blount, Joe Moore, Duke Crawford, W. L. Davis, J. E. Robinson, Sr., Pastor E. J. Howard and Dr. A. S. Jackson of Waco, president of Paul Quinn College, who was in the city pushing the gubernatorial campaign of Lieutenant Governor Edgar Witt of McLennan County.

Music for the occasion was furnished by the U. B. F. and S. M. T. band, whose members donated their services to the cause.

SAN ANGELO, TEX
STANDARD
JUN 17 1934

WRITES VOTE SUGGESTIONS

Senator Hornsby Writes All 254 County Chairmen

AUSTIN, June 16.—Senator John W. Hornsby of Austin, candidate for lieutenant governor, has written suggestions to the 254 Democratic county chairmen, dealing with the question of negro voting in the primaries.

He said he will sponsor the necessary simple legislative act turning all political party matters over to the party, under terms of court decisions which held that necessary before the party could assume such control.

Senator Hornsby, if elected lieutenant governor, would remain in the Senate the first week of the new term. Under a law passed for John N. Garner's successor, he could resign in advance the day he would take the new office, and his senatorial successor could be elected in advance, so that whether or not he should be elected, he still will have the opportunity to introduce the bill in the Senate.

Senator Hornsby became the first candidate definitely to sponsor legislation permitting the Democratic party to prescribe qualifications of its members and the participants of its primaries.

ELECTIONS AND "SOCIAL EQUALITY"

It is amusing to note some of the puerile and infantile arguments being advanced in certain circles by those who oppose Negroes participating in the Texas Democratic party primaries, as if such public elections were private social functions.

Houston Defender

If a general election is not an instance of or occasion for "social equality," how can a partisan primary election promote and be conducive to "social equality?"

7-7-34

The United States Supreme Court has held that partisan primaries in Texas, under civil statutes of the state, are public elections and open to all qualified voters; and, since this is true, there is no more danger of "white supremacy" being menaced and imperiled by all eligible electors participating in such primaries than there is when a general or special election is held.

All polling booths are located in public buildings or places in primary elections just as they are in special and general elections, and there is not one recorded instance where any member of the dominant race has ever been contaminated or defiled by coming in too close contact with some member of another race at such polls.

Houston, Texas

Members of all races mix, mingle and literally rub elbows at other public places, such as markets, stores, baseball parks, on street cars and busses, and yet the cry of "social equality" is never raised because of such mixing and mingling; in fact, no sensible and rationally-minded person ever gives it a thought.

The constant injection of the "race issue" and "social equality" bugbear into the Democratic primary elections is being done for the express and specific purpose of appealing to the baser passions of race prejudice, rancor, intolerance and bigotry, with the hope that Negroes will be frightened away from the polls on election days.

It is a futile and forlorn effort to incite whites againse the blacks, for nothing is said or written about Mexicans and other racial elements participating in such partisan primaries.

Many of those who contend that Negroes should not vote in the Democratic primaries in Texas hark back to the days of reconstruction, when, it is alleged, black voters were the pliable tools of designing and scheming white politicans and office-seekers; but nothing is said about members of the dominant race who "bought" such votes, and no effort has ever been made to disfranchise the "buyer" along with the alleged "sellers" of votes.

Political-1934

Suffrage.

Texas.

TIMPSON, TEX.
TIMES

JUL 27 1934

COURT'S OPINION BARS NEGROES FROM VOTING IN PARTY PRIMARIES

Austin, Texas, July 28.—(UP)—"Although voluntary associations arising from the exercise of the free will and liberty of the citizens, political parties are the effective instrumentalities by which the will of the people may be made vocal, and the enactment of laws in accordance therewith made possible."

No candidate, but the Supreme Court of the State of Texas, spoke thus one hot summer afternoon last week to any who chose to listen.

The words were those of Chief Justice C. M. Cureton, writing the court's opinion that the democratic party of Texas may and has legally barred negroes from voting in party primaries.

The opinion was counter to a five to four decision by the Supreme Court of the United States that there could be no discrimination between the white and negro races in fixing the membership of the democratic party in Texas.

The 40th Texas legislature, anxious to make doubly sure there would be no black ballots in Democratic election boxes, enacted a law reading in part: "Every political party in this state, through its state executive committee, shall have the power to prescribe the qualifications of its own members . . ."

That enactment, Justice Cardozo of the U. S. Supreme Court held, made the state executive committee an agency of the state government, and as such it could not discriminate between whites and blacks.

"With this construction of this Texas statute we cannot agree," wrote Justice Cureton. He held, first, the act did not mean to pre-empty the party's power to limit its membership; second, "if it be said that the purpose of the legislature was to take from the party and its state convention the power of determining who should be members of the party, the act is plainly void."

Approximately 800,000 negroes, otherwise qualified to vote, were barred from today's election by the court's opinion.

AMARILLO, TEX.
DAILY GLOBE

JUL 31 1934

NEGRO BALLOT ROW SETTLED

STATE SUPREME COURT HAS RULED 'NO' DESPITE U. S. OPINION

By CHARLES E. SIMONS

AUSTIN, July 30 (AP)—The Texas Supreme Court appears to have definitely settled for the time being the question of the right of negroes to participate in the voting as members of the Democratic party.

In an opinion contrary to one handed down two years ago by the United States Supreme Court, the Texas Supreme Court ruled there was no power, statutory or otherwise, that could compel the Texas Democratic party to admit negroes to its primary elections.

Texas' highest tribunal asserted that an interpretation of the Texas primary election statutes by the United States Supreme Court was wholly in error. The United States Supreme Court declared the legislature through statutory enactment had made the state Democratic executive committee a branch of the state government and that it was perforce, without power to discriminate between the white and negro races in primary elections.

In vigorous language the Texas court stated the legislation had done no such a thing and, apparently to clinch its argument, stated that if the legislature had attempted to make the Democratic executive committee an arm of the state government such an act would be unconstitutional because it would invade the guarantees set out in the Texas bill of rights.

It has been indicated an attempt will be made to appeal from the state court decision to the United States Supreme Court. Such action had been thought unlikely because the Texas court held that even if the committee should be precluded from excluding negroes—a condition it took pains to emphatically deny—the adoption by the state convention at Houston in May, 1932, of a resolution opening the primaries only to white persons still was an effective bar to negro participation.

As a force in the primary election the strength of the negro bloc has been overrated in the opinion of most observers. No accurate figures are available but it was estimated that a maximum of 45,000 negroes held poll tax receipts. It is doubtful that this bloc could be swung in a body to one candidate. It also is doubtful whether any appreciable number would go to the polls and attempt to vote since many of them apparently are not interested in the state political situation and many others doubtless would be apprehensive of reprisals.

WHEELING, W. VA.
INTELLIGENCER

AUG 3 1934

THE NEGRO VOTE

Although the Texas Supreme Court has ruled that the Democratic Party legally may bar Negroes from its primaries, The Texas Weekly is not satisfied that this decision settles the franchise issue permanently.

Continuing its campaign for recognition of the Negro voter, this influential journal suggests that the Federal Courts "will have something further to say on the matter," declares that "sooner or later Texas must settle this question right," and adds:

The Negro population of Texas is an integral part of the whole population of the State. Specifically it is an integral part of the economic life of the State. This is being more and more recognized by white leaders of Texas communities, as is evidenced by the employment of some thirty Negro farm demonstration agents and a like number of Negro home demonstration agents to work among Negro farm families in Texas. It is evidenced also by the circumstance that the percentage of Negro farm boys and girls in the State who are members of 4-H clubs is larger than the percentage of white farm boys and girls holding such membership. The economic welfare of the entire farm population is intertwined with the economic welfare of the Negro farm population. If we ever are to raise the economic level of life of the mass of the white population of the State, we shall have to concern ourselves about raising the level among the Negro population as well. To do this we are going to need general cooperation, and to a considerable degree we are going to need trained Negro leadership among the Negroes. Now, we cannot do anything of this kind successfully if we continue to treat all Negroes as though they were not citizens. We want the Negroes to be good citizens, we say. Everybody agrees on that. But the franchise has become the symbol of citizenship in this country, and if we expect the Negroes to be good citizens, and want to help them to be, we can not continue to deny them the franchise.

It is encouraging to find this enlightened opinion in a section which has persistently denied the right of a large body of citizenship to vote, and in which the ancient prejudice still colors the findings of the Courts, as witness the recent decision of the Texas Supreme Court above referred to.

RUSH AFFIDAVITS TO WASHINGTON ON TEXAS PRIMARY

NEW YORK CITY—(Sp.)—The first group of affidavits from qualified Negro Democrats barred from the July 28 Texas Democratic primary have been received at the headquarters of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People here and promptly forwarded to Attorney General Cummings as basis for action against Texas officials. These documents, all signed by reputable citizens of Austin, Travis County, Texas, many of them property oweners and all holding poll tax receipts, testify that upon presenting themselves to vote in the Democratic primary on July 28, they were turned down by ballot officials because they were Negroes.

The affidavits were secured by the Colored Voters League of Travis County, Texas, upon the urgent request of Walter White, N.A.A.C.P. secretary. Mr. White stated that following failure to get any action from James A. Farley, Chairman of the Democratic committee or his assistant Emil Hurja after numerous communications addressed to them, he telegraphed Attorney General Cummings at Washington, D. C. to make immediate investigation and notify all Texas election officials that they would be prosecuted to the full extent of the law if they excluded qualified Negro and Mexican voters from the primary elections.

Joseph B. Keenan, assistant United States attorney general, promptly replied asking Mr. White to furnish him detailed information of such exclusion. The affidavits sent are the first of a large number the association will send to Washington as they arrive from Texas. The association is insisting that prompt action be taken by the department of justice to enforce the decisions of the United States Supreme Court outlawing the white primary.

WACO, TEX.
TRIBUNE

JUL 29 1934

Negroes Allowed Votes on Pledge Of Demo Support

Several Who Would Not Make the Affiliation Denied; One Aged Black Forgets Glasses

Negroes were allowed to vote in Waco Saturday if they pledged themselves to support the democratic nominees in the general election.

White voters were not queried as to their party affiliations, but in most cases the negroes were.

50 Vote in Third Ward

More than 50 voted in the third ward, where L. L. Sams is judge.

In the fourth ward Prof. W. H. Pool would not at first allow negroes to vote, but during the afternoon relaxed the rule and a number of them voted.

In East Waco, the 10th ward, 60 negroes had voted by mid-afternoon. A half dozen had been refused permission to vote because they would not subscribe to the party oath to support the nominees.

In the "silk stocking" wards no negroes appeared to vote.

He Forgot His Glasses

An old negro got his ballot at the third ward and then discovered he had forgotten his glasses.

"Kin I go home now and get my glasses?" he queried. "This here print is too fine."

No, he was told, he couldn't go home now, but a judge would help him vote. And so a judge did help him.

Approximately 50 per cent of the voters at East Waco poll were negroes, according to authorities in charge of the election. They showed marked enthusiasm over filling out the ballot and did it with surprising intelligence.

Negro voters were much in evidence at the city hall poll, according to those who were in charge. How many we don't know, but one was Nelson Van Hook, 67, who said he had voted since "a young man of 21."

When asked about the negro voters at this poll one woman almost shouted a count of 500 blacks. This was lowered by a man sitting nearby who avers that there had been more than ever at this ward. No fights were reported by L. L. Sams.

AUSTIN, TEX.
AMERICAN

JUL 29 1934

Negroes Refused

Right To Vote At Polling Place Here

Blacks Make No Trouble When Officials Keep Them Out

Five negroes appeared at the Ward 5-A polling place at Wellmer's store and asked but were denied the privilege of voting in the Saturday democratic primary election here, Leo Mueller, election judge, said.

Mr. Mueller said the negroes were courteous in their request, merely stating that they were democrats and wanted the privilege of voting.

A similar group appeared at the same voting box two years ago.

El Paso Lets Negroes Vote in Election

EL PASO, July 28.—(AP)—Precinct election officials Saturday permitted negroes to vote in the democratic primary.

Dr. L. A. Nixon, negro physician said that election officials marked "colored" on the face of his ballot, and expressed the belief that it will not be counted.

The negro physician has won three court suits to test the right of democratic officials to bar negroes from the polls. He plans another suit to force a count of his ballot in Saturday's election, he said.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
PRESS

JUL 30 1934

NEGROES' VOTES TO BE COUNTED

Executive Committee Will Decide If Ballots To Be Contested

County Democratic Chairman Hugh Small today said a large number of negro votes cast in one precinct last Saturday will be counted in with the white votes, and the question of contesting them left to the executive committee which meets at 10 a. m. Saturday, to canvass returns.

Approximately 200 negro votes were cast in Precinct 59, 1001 Missouri Avenue. Mr. Small had not received word of any other negro votes being cast.

"Unless the vote in Precinct 59 affects any of the races, it might be that the executive committee will not take any action," Mr. Small said.

So far as Mr. Small had been able to learn today, delegates to the county convention, which meets at 2 p. m. Saturday, will be uninstructed for either of the two leading candidates for governor.

The delegates were selected at precinct conventions Saturday, on the basis of one delegate for each 25 votes cast for governor in the last general election. A delegate to the state convention for each 200 votes cast two years ago will be selected Saturday afternoon. The state convention meets in Galveston Sept. 11.

Several of the precinct conventions went on record as favoring "a white man's primary," while in a large number resolutions lauding the Roosevelt administration were adopted.

HOUSTON, TEX.
PRESS

AUG 4 1934

NEGROES AND VOTING

Editor The Press:

The democratic primaries are over and the candidates have been selected for the run-off. Over 100,000 qualified negro voters were denied the right to cast their ballots because of the "over night" ruling of our attorney general.

It has been said, and probably with an essence of truth that the attorney general handed down the ruling because of an editorial which appeared on the front page of a negro weekly publication which claimed a "statewide circulation" to the effect that the negroes of Texas would vote "en bloc" for a certain candidate. The truth is that no negro publication has so much influence with negroes of the state that all will vote blindly for any candidate that the publication might advise.

It is well known among negroes that the several candidates in the race for governor, including even the attorney general himself, would have so divided the negro vote that no one candidate would be able to say he received the negro vote "en bloc."

As a consequence of all this dickering and childish representation the negro must stand back while Mexicans and other naturalized Americans from the various countries on the globe are allowed to march to the polls unchallenged to vote their choice. This it seems to the writer, a negro, is poor Americanism which boast of justice and has long since prided itself as the refuge of the downcast and the champion of human rights.

The negro has paid his poll tax in Texas for years without the right to exercise the privilege of a holder of poll tax receipt.

Surely if the negro has enough intelligence to shoulder a rifle, march off to the front, leaving his loved ones behind while he helps defend his country when the dark clouds of adversity are hanging low over this country, he is good enough to show his choice at the ballot box to help select men who will rule Texas and make laws under which he must live.

GEORGE O. DUNCAN.
3507 Farmer street.

WACO, TEX.
TIMES HERALD

JUL 28 1934

VOTE HERE LIKELY TO BE RECORD

Over Four Thousand Had Cast Their Ballots in This City Before Noon Rush Started, Survey Shows

Four thousand votes had been cast in Waco before the noon rush got well under way Saturday. This is nearly a third of the total potential vote of the city, which is 13,000.

Negroes were voting.

At 11:30 a. m. the fifth ward had tallied 326 votes. Ten minutes later the fourth ward clocked at 320, and the third at 334, the first at 321, and the tenth at 334.

It was noon when 551 votes had been tallied in the ninth ward, but the noon crowd had not started to arrive. The first arrivals of the lunch hour rush were coming in when the seventh ward had reached 472 votes, the eighth ward 331, the sixth ward 568, and the second ward 423.

This made a total of 3980 votes.

The election forces were airtight on information.

Conspicuous by their absence were the usual crowds of workers for candidates. Nobody was standing around outside the poll limits handing out cards and soliciting votes.

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS

AUG 1 1934

NEGROES AND THE PRIMARY.

To The News:

Frankly, I must confess that your editorials on the negro vote question and franchise in the State of Texas are a fair and open view of the entire matter. Having read for the last few years your editorials, convinces me of this fact and I assure that such convictions are the only justifiable instruments of solution to such problems.

I am convinced that new negro citizen of your State is demanding a voice as such in the affairs of State of which he is a part. His civic progress has made him more intensely interested in wholesome State and city Government, as well as National Government. The political growth of the Negro in the United States has broadened his vision and enhanced his political view, both State and national, to the extent that he has outgrown the ark of safety in any one party.

This is a free country, so ordained by the founders, because they, too, were the victims of cruel dictatorship and the sufferers of political and religious insinuations of a mother country. The Negro knows no mother country but America and that in the particular States where he resides. He owns property, possesses business pursuits, engages in the education of his children and loves the maintenance of home life, the upkeep of a family tie that binds. He loves religion and knows God in his life and teaches such to his posterity. Then, ought not the State of Texas protect him in such lofty pursuits and allow him to protect himself? He is not responsible for his slavery nor is he responsible for his color, but he is responsible to God and man for his life here on earth.

DALLAS, TEX.
JOURNAL

AUG 2 1934

NEGRO VOTERS.

Sir: I was delighted to read your splendid editorial in your recent issue, headed "Overruled From Below." Negroes in general appreciate the position you have taken in the matter of their voting in the Democratic primaries in this State. Negroes vote in the Democratic primaries of other States of the Union and no harm to the State has followed as a result, so what possible harm could result in Texas by their voting in the primaries of the party in this State?

It appears to me that this decision of the Texas Supreme Court is more far reaching in its implications and in its effects than the mere detail of the right of the Negro to vote in the Democratic primaries.

If the Democratic party in Texas does not want the Negro to vote in its primary elections, would it not be better for all concerned, and especially for duly constituted authority and government, that it accomplish this end in a legal manner, which, it appears, it can do by simply repealing the primary election laws now on the statute books of the State, and reverting to the convention system of party nominations for public office. Would not this be a much better way to accomplish this end than to do such rash violence to a plain decision of the United States Supreme Court and to organize laws of the land?

It may matter little whether the Negro votes in Democratic primaries of this State or not, but it is highly important and necessary to the stability and perpetuity of the Government that its laws be obeyed and respected.

R. T. HAMILTON.
215 Pythian Temple, Dallas.

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS

AUG 11 1934

Negro Withdraws Vote Damage Suit

SHERMAN, Texas, Aug. 10.—Special to The News.—John Johnson, 74-year-old Denison Negro, filed an application in which he seeks a Federal Court injunctive amended petition to his injunctive application in which he seeks a Federal writ to restrain the county Democratic committee and its chairman, Cole Jr., County Clerk, who refuseding in the Democratic primaries. The Friday dropped his $10,000 Federal Ben F. Gafford, from interfering with allow Johnson and four other Negroes from voting in the Democratic primary. Court damage suit against Charles M. Johnson and other Negroes from voting in the first Democratic primary. The action developed when W. J. Durham, negro attorney, filed an amended petition in the damage action against the Clerk.

WACO, TEX.
TRIBUNE

JUL 29 1934

Negroes Allowed Votes on Pledge Of Demo Support

Several Who Would Not Make the Affiliation Denied; One Aged Black Forgets Glasses

Negroes were allowed to vote in Waco Saturday if they pledged themselves to support the democratic nominees in the general election.

White voters were not queried as to their party affiliations, but in most cases the negroes were.

50 Vote in Third Ward

More than 50 voted in the third ward, where L. L. Sams is judge.

In the fourth ward Prof. W. H. Pool would not at first allow negroes to vote, but during the afternoon relaxed the rule and a number of them voted.

In East Waco, the 10th ward, 60 negroes had voted by mid-afternoon. A half dozen had been refused permission to vote because they would not subscribe to the party oath to support the nominees.

In the "silk stocking" wards no negroes appeared to vote.

He Forgot His Glasses

An old negro got his ballot at the third ward and then discovered he had forgotten his glasses.

"Kin I go home now and get my glasses?" he queried. "This here print is too fine."

No, he was told, he couldn't go home now, but a judge would help him vote. And so a judge did help him.

Approximately 50 per cent of the voters at East Waco poll were negroes, according to authorities in charge of the election. They showed marked enthusiasm over filling out the ballot and did it with surprising intelligence.

Negro voters were much in evidence at the city hall poll, according to those who were in charge. How many we don't know, but one was Nelson Van Hook, 67, who said he had voted since "a young man of 21."

When asked about the negro voters at this poll one woman almost shouted a count of 500 blacks. This was lowered by a man sitting nearby who avers that there had been more than ever at this ward. No fights were reported by L. L. Sams.

AUSTIN, TEX.
AMERICAN

JUL 29 1934

Negroes Refused

Right To Vote At Polling Place Here

Blacks Make No Trouble When Officials Keep Them Out

Five negroes appeared at the Ward 5-A polling place at Wellmer's store and asked but were denied the privilege of voting in the Saturday democratic primary election here, Leo Mueller, election judge, said.

Mr. Mueller said the negroes were courteous in their request, merely stating that they were democrats and wanted the privilege of voting.

A similar group appeared at the same voting box two years ago.

El Paso Lets Negroes Vote in Election

EL PASO, July 28.—(AP)—Precinct election officials Saturday permitted negroes to vote in the democratic primary.

Dr. L. A. Nixon, negro physician said that election officials marked "colored" on the face of his ballot, and expressed the belief that it will not be counted.

The negro physician has won three court suits to test the right of democratic officials to bar negroes from the polls. He plans another suit to force a count of his ballot in Saturday's election, he said.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
PRESS

JUL 30 1934

NEGROES' VOTES TO BE COUNTED

Executive Committee Will Decide If Ballots To Be Contested

County Democratic Chairman Hugh Small today said a large number of negro votes cast in one precinct last Saturday will be counted in with the white votes, and the question of contesting them left to the executive committee which meets at 10 a. m. Saturday, to canvass returns.

Approximately 200 negro votes were cast in Precinct 59, 1001 Missouri Avenue. Mr. Small had not received word of any other negro votes being cast.

"Unless the vote in Precinct 59 affects any of the races, it might be that the executive committee will not take any action," Mr. Small said.

So far as Mr. Small had been able to learn today, delegates to the county convention, which meets at 2 p. m. Saturday, will be uninstructed for either of the two leading candidates for governor.

The delegates were selected at precinct conventions Saturday, on the basis of one delegate for each 25 votes cast for governor in the last general election. A delegate to the state convention for each 200 votes cast two years ago will be selected Saturday afternoon. The state convention meets in Galveston Sept. 11.

Several of the precinct conventions went on record as favoring "a white man's primary," while in a large number resolutions lauding the Roosevelt administration were adopted.

HOUSTON, TEX.
PRESS

AUG 4 1934

NEGROES AND VOTING

Editor The Press:

The democratic primaries are over and the candidates have been selected for the run-off. Over 100,000 qualified negro voters were denied the right to cast their ballots because of the "over night" ruling of our attorney general.

It has been said, and probably with an essence of truth that the attorney general handed down the ruling because of an editorial which appeared on the front page of a negro weekly publication which claimed a "statewide circulation" to the effect that the negroes of Texas would vote "en bloc" for a certain candidate. The truth is that no negro publication has so much influence with negroes of the state that all will vote blindly for any candidate that the publication might advise.

It is well known among negroes that the several candidates in the race for governor, including even the attorney general himself, would have so divided the negro vote that no one candidate would be able to say he received the negro vote "en bloc."

As a consequence of all this dickering and childish representation the negro must stand back while Mexicans and other naturalized Americans from the various countries on the globe are allowed to march to the polls unchallenged to vote their choice. This it seems to the writer, a negro, is poor Americanism which boast of justice and has long since prided itself as the refuge of the downcast and the champion of human rights.

The negro has paid his poll tax in Texas for years without the right to exercise the privilege of a holder of poll tax receipt.

Surely if the negro has enough intelligence to shoulder a rifle, march off to the front, leaving his loved ones behind while he helps defend his country when the dark clouds of adversity are hanging low over this country, he is good enough to show his choice at the ballot box to help select men who will rule Texas and make laws under which he must live.

GEORGE O. DUNCAN.
3507 Farmer street.

WACO, TEX.
TIMES HERALD

JUL 28 1934

VOTE HERE LIKELY TO BE RECORD

Over Four Thousand Had Cast Their Ballots in This City Before Noon Rush Started, Survey Shows

Four thousand votes had been cast in Waco before the noon rush got well under way Saturday. This is nearly a third of the total potential vote of the city, which is 13,000. Negroes were voting.

At 11:30 a. m. the fifth ward had tallied 326 votes. Ten minutes later the fourth ward clocked at 320, and the third at 334, the first at 321, and the tenth at 334.

It was noon when 551 votes had been tallied in the ninth ward, but the noon crowd had not started to arrive. The first arrivals of the lunch hour rush were coming in when the seventh ward had reached 472 votes, the eighth ward 331, the sixth ward 568, and the second ward 423.

This made a total of 3980 votes.

The election forces were airtight on information.

Conspicuous by their absence were the usual crowds of workers for candidates. Nobody was standing around outside the poll limits handing out cards and soliciting votes.

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS

AUG 1 1934

NEGROES AND THE PRIMARY.

To The News:

Frankly, I must confess that your editorials on the negro vote question and franchise in the State of Texas are a fair and open view of the entire matter. Having read for the last few years your editorials, convinces me of this fact and I assure that such convictions are the only justifiable instruments of solution to such problems.

I am convinced that new negro citizen of your State is demanding a voice as such in the affairs of State of which he is a part. His civic progress has made him more intensely interested in wholesome State and city Government, as well as National Government. The political growth of the Negro in the United States has broadened his vision and enhanced his political view, both State and national, to the extent that he has outgrown the ark of safety in any one party.

This is a free country, so ordained by the founders, because they, too, were the victims of cruel dictatorship and the sufferers of political and religious insinuations of a mother country. The Negro knows no mother country but America and that in the particular States where he resides. He owns property, possesses business pursuits, engages in the education of his children and loves the maintenance of home life, the upkeep of a family tie that binds. He loves religion and knows God in his life and teaches such to his posterity. Then, ought not the State of Texas protect him in such lofty pursuits and allow him to protect himself? He is not responsible for his slavery nor is he responsible for his color, but he is responsible to God and man for his life here on earth.

DALLAS, TEX.
JOURNAL

AUG 2 1934

NEGRO VOTERS.

Sir: I was delighted to read your splendid editorial in your recent issue, headed "Overruled From Below." Negroes in general appreciate the position you have taken in the matter of their voting in the Democratic primaries in this State. Negroes vote in the Democratic primaries of other States of the Union and no harm to the State has followed as a result, so what possible harm could result in Texas by their voting in the primaries of the party in this State?

It appears to me that this decision of the Texas Supreme Court is more far reaching in its implications and in its effects than the mere detail of the right of the Negro to vote in the Democratic primaries.

If the Democratic party in Texas does not want the Negro to vote in its primary elections, would it not be better for all concerned, and especially for duly constituted authority and government, that it accomplish this end in a legal manner, which, it appears, it can do by simply repealing the primary election laws now on the statute books of the State, and reverting to the convention system of party nominations for public office. Would not this be a much better way to accomplish this end than to do such rash violence to a plain decision of the United States Supreme Court and to organize laws of the land?

It may matter little whether the Negro votes in Democratic primaries of this State or not, but it is highly important and necessary to the stability and perpetuity of the Government that its laws be obeyed and respected.

R. T. HAMILTON.
215 Pythian Temple, Dallas.

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS

AUG 11 1934

Negro Withdraws Vote Damage Suit

SHERMAN, Texas, Aug. 10.—John Special to The News. Johnson, 74-year-old Denison Negro, Friday dropped his $10,000 Federal Court damage suit against Charles M. Cole Jr., County Clerk, who refused to allow Johnson and four other Negroes from voting in the Democratic primaries. The first Democratic primary. The action developed when W. J. Durham, negro attorney, filed an amended petition to his injunctive application in which he seeks a Federal writ to restrain the county Democratic committee and its chairman, Ben F. Gafford, from interfering with Negroes from voting in the Democratic primaries. The action did not contain the damage action against the Clerk.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Texas.

AUSTIN, TEX.
STATESMAN

AUG 21 1934

ALLRED SPEECHES FOR ROOSEVELT RECALLED

BEAUMONT, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Atty. Gen. James V. Allred, accused by his gubernatorial foe, Tom F. Hunter, of being out of step with the national democratic administration, said here last night that the charges were "a silly and inane effort to divert the spotlight from Hunter's platform."

Allred said he made speeches for Pres. Roosevelt and Vice Pres. Garner and was one of the first Texans to contribute to the national campaign which elected Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The overflowing crowd was highly demoustrative as Allred attacked Hunter's platform planks and demanded that his opponent take an unequivocal stand on the controversial issues of prohibition and horse race betting.

◆ ◆ ◆

Vote Ruling Cheered

Allred said "everyone knows how I stand on prohibition, but I challenge anyone who is authorized to speak for Hunter to say whether he is wet or dry. I am for repeal of the statute legalizing race track gambling. Desperate Tom Hunter won't tell his stand on that."

Wide applause greeted his statement that he had ruled that negroes were not entitled to vote in democratic primaries. The possible voting of negroes was a live issue here several weeks ago.

Allred, referring to Hunter's announced intention of vetoing a sales tax if the legislature enacted one while he was in the governor's chair said there was a "joker" in the statement.

◆ ◆ ◆

Relief In Politics Hit

"Hunter says he will veto a general sales tax for state revenues," Allred said, "but he doesn't say he will veto one for the school fund or for local purposes. The sales tax takes money from the pockets of the poor, regardless of where the revenue goes. I challenge Tom Hunter to say whether he will veto a sales tax for any purpose."

Allred said he would "take the administration of unemployment relief out of politics." He reviewed his stand on organized labor, stating that he fought to uphold the full crew law and was opposed to convict labor competing with outside labor.

WASHINGTON, D. C.
TIMES

AUG 22 1934

TEXAS PRIMARY VIOLATION HIT

Presentation of suitable resolutions and a brief to Attorney General Cummings concerning the flagrant violation of the Constitution in the recent Texas primary election will feature the opening of the National Negro Bar Association convention in Baltimore tomorrow.

The decision of the United States Supreme Court in the case of Nixon vs. Condon pointed out that a primary election was the same as a general election and under the Constitution there could be no discrimination on account of race or color. R. D. Evans, of Waco, Texas, vice president of the association, will head the committee to visit Attorney General Cummings.

Among the speakers at the meeting will be Thomas E. Miller, one of the oldest colored lawyers in America and a former Congressman from South Carolina; Dean Charles Houston, of the Howard Law School, and John H. Wilson, member of the local bar association.

E. Washington Rhodes, of Philadelphia, is president of the bar group, and the sessions will continue through Saturday.

EL PASO TEX.
HERALD

AUG 25 1934

RUN-OFF VOTE HERE IS LIGHT

Judges Sit Around Tapping Pencils Waiting for Voters To Appear

With approximately 4000 votes cast in the run-off primary election at 4 p. m. today, all candidates claimed early victories in the two major county races.

Voting continued light with approximately 5000 expected to go to the polls this afternoon.

Supporters of W. W. (Bill) Hawkins for first precinct commissioner, reported their favorite breaking even with Leonard Butchofsky in the southside bxoes and gaining a lead in the North El Paso precincts. Voters in precinct No. 6 reported Mr. Butchofsky two to one ahead. A similar report from box No. 18 gave Mr. Butchofsky a 20-vote lead.

Vote Light Everywhere

With only 25 votes counted in one large south side box, Tom Hunter was 20 to 5 ahead of James V. Allred in the governor's race, and R. T. (Dick) Wilson had six votes more than Constable Dan B. Brungardt.

A light vote in the north side boxes was giving Mr. Allred a lead with the outcome of the gubernatorial race in the county expected to be in doubt until the polls close at 7 p. m.

Constable Brungardt had a lead in East El Paso and some north side boxes that on the basis of the early count was expected to return him to office for a second term.

In Lower Valley

Commissioner C. J. Milner reported voting light in the lower valley with only 25 ballots cast in the large Fabens precinct, where no local candidates are running.

In one Ysleta box at 11 a. m. only seven votes had been received, and five of them were cast by election officials.

County Chairman Ernest Guinn reported that no negroes have attempted to vote in the run-off, and that election officials have instructions to bar them if they appear.

The only complaint to election headquarters this morning was a call for pencils in box No. 40, Santa Fe and Missouri Sts.

Police Traffic Capt. Joe Stowe announced that eight officers will be kept at South El Paso boxes until the polls close, although no disturbances were reported.

Beer parlors remained closed today on Sheriff Chris P .Fox's orders. Cafes discontinued beer sales but remained open for other business.

Bank employes took a holiday today.

WACO, TEX.
TRIBUNE

AUG 22 1934

Alexander Files Answer to Gayle In Vote Contest

Denies Charges Made by Opponent and Alleges His Actual Majority Is 1200

8 City Boxes, 13 In Country Questioned

Alexander Adds Names of Over Hundred Negroes He Claims Voted in City Wards

Filing formal answer to Gibson Gayle's contest of Joe Alexander's nomination as assessor-collector of taxes, which will be tried in Fifty-fourth district court Wednesday before Judge Bates Cross, Alexander not content with denying the allegations Gayle made, makes a long list of allegations on his own part which, he avers, prove that his actual majority was not 166, as the official canvass shows, but "exceeds 1200".

Along the same lines as Gayle's petition, Alexander alleges disqualification of election officials in eight city wards and ten rural boxes carried by Gayle, and claims these boxes should be thrown out.

Similarly, Gayle had alleged disqualification of judges in three rural boxes, LaVega, Eddy and Concord, carried by Alexander, and claimed these boxes should be thrown out.

21 Boxes Contested

In all the two litigants ask that eight city boxes and 13 rural boxes, containing well over half the votes of the county, be thrown out because of disqualification of judges and election officials.

Alexander prefaces his allegations as to illegal election officials by specific denials of most of Gayle's petition, declaring that Gayle's assertion that votes had been miscalled in many boxes is too vague and indefinite to constitute reason for opening the boxes; declaring further that Gayle's allegations of disqualification of election officials at La Vega, Eddy and Concord would not constitute sufficient reason for throwing out these boxes, because it is not shown that the allegedly disqualified officers interfered in any way with a free and fair vote; and asserting that Gayle's allegation of illegally cast absentee votes at Mart is too vague and indefinite.

Boxes Listed

The boxes in which Alexander alleges disqualification, all of which were carried by Gayle are: ward one, where he said Judge George Morse had paid no poll tax, and several of his helpers were disqualified for that or similar reasons; ward two, where he said Judge J. A. Nichols had not paid his poll tax, and others he named were also disqualified; ward three, where he alleged Judge L. L. Sams had not paid his poll tax; ward four, where he alleged Judge W. H. Pool had not paid his poll tax; ward six, where he alleged George Earle, clerk, had not paid his poll tax; ward seven, where he alleged that Phil Teeling was not properly appointed to serve in place of John Sheehy as presiding judge when Sheehy refused to serve because he is a city commisioner; ward eight, where he said a clerk was disqualified; ward ten, where he said Judge William Wade paid no poll tax; and these rural boxes, for similar reasons: Downsville, MacArthur, McGregor, Prairie Chapel, Robinson, Ross, Bosqueville, Elk, Coke, Crawford.

Negroes Voted?

In addition, Alexander gives the names of 35 negroes he said voted in the fourth ward, 86 in the third ward, of whom he said voted for Gayle, and all of whom he said were not entitled to vote in a democratic primary.

BEAUMONT, TEX.
JOURNAL

AUG 22 1934

Plea For Negro Vote Ban Dropped

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Aug. 22.—(AP).—An application for a writ of injunction to prevent negroes from voting in Nueces county in Saturday's democratic primary election has been dismissed on motion of Henry Faver, Jr., who filed the application in district court.

The question of negro voting will be left to precinct election judges, as has been the practice previously.

AMARILLO, TEX.
DAILY GLOBE

AUG 21 1934

CHEERS GIVEN CANDIDATE AS DATE NEARING

ATTORNEY GENERAL DENIES GOP SYMPATHIES; STOPS HECKLERS

BEAUMONT, August 21 (AP)—James V. Allred, nearing the completion of his campaign for governor, last night voiced anew the demand that his opponent, Tom F. Hunter, take an unequivocal stand on the controversial issues of prohibition and horse race betting.

"Every one knows how I stand on prohibition," Allred said. "But I challenge anyone who is authorized to speak for Hunter to say whether he is wet or dry. The truth is he runs dry in English and wet in Bohemian.

"I am for repeal of the statute legalizing race track gambling. Desperate Tom Hunter won't tell his position on that."

Strikes at Charge

Allred struck back vigorously at Hunter's charges that he had Republican sympathies.

Asserting that the accusations were a "silly and inane" effort to divert the spotlight from Hunter's platform, Allred nevertheless replied that he made speeches for President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner and was among the original Texas contributors to the "national campaign which elected Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Allred spoke in Wiess Park, the site of Hunter's address two nights ago. All of the seats were filled and many persons were content to stand and listen to the fiery young attorney general. The crowd was highly demonstrative, alternately laughing and cheering in conformity with the trend of the address.

Stands Pat on Vote

Possible voting of negroes was a live issue in this country several weeks ago and Allred was generously applauded when he reminded his listeners that he ruled that negroes were not entitled to vote in Democratic primaries.

Allred promised to take the administration of unemployment relief out of politics if and when he is elected governor. "There certainly won't be any more negro case workers like there were at Port Arthur," he said.

The speaker charged that there was a "joker" in Hunter's promise to veto the sales tax.

"He says he will veto a general sales tax for state revenue," Allred explained. "But he doesn't say he will veto one for the school fund or for local purposes. The sales tax takes money from the pockets of the poor regardless of where the revenue goes. I challenge Tom Hunter to say whether he will veto a sales tax for any purpose."

Allred charged his opponent with "demagoguery, deception and double-dealing."

Heckling Stopped

He stated Hunter had "put on the front of a poor man but nevertheless is worth three or four hundred thousand dollars by his own admission."

The candidate reviewed his efforts in behalf of organized labor. He stated that he fought to uphold the full crew law and that he was opposed to convict labor competing with labor outside the prison.

Allred was introduced by Clyde E. Smith, who polled a heavy vote through this section in his race for attorney general.

The rally was enlivened near its end by heckling. Allred quickly quieted the two interrupters and the crowd roared its approval.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
EVENING STAR TELEGRAM

AUG 25 1934

NEGROES ARE BALLOTING IN AT LEAST ONE PRECINCT

Tarrant County citizens were filing to the polls in a continuous stream Saturday to cast their votes in the runoff Democratic primary.

Election judges said the morning vote was heavier than that of the first primary last month, indicating that an even greater total would be cast. The first primary vote was about 36,700.

The election officials were busily counting the ballots throughout the day. It was hoped that complete returns would be available tonight.

Negroes were voting in at least one precinct. At Precinct No. 56, Third Ward East, situated in the Chambers Hill fire hall at 1401 Kennedy Street, seven of the first 22 votes cast were by negroes. Hugh L. Small, county Democratic chairman, previously had said he would leave the matter to the discretion of individual election judges, although the Supreme Court recently held negro votes to be invalid in a Democratic election.

Vote Trends Revealed.

While election judges are prohibited by law from announcing the standing of candidates while the polls are open, some voters were interviewed as they left the polling places and the following results were ascertained:

In Precinct 4, Fourth Ward East, James V. Allred held a slight lead over Tom Hunter for Governor; Walter Woodward led William McCraw for Attorney General; Judge H. S. Lattimore held a 7 to 1 lead over Judge John H. Sharp for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court; Judge Marvin H. Brown Sr. led Judge P. A. Martin for the Second Court of Civil Appeals; Lonnie Smith held a slight lead over H. S. Johnson for Flotorial Representative; Frank Rawlings and Frank Patterson were tied for State Senator; Clarence F. Farmer led W. J. Houston by two votes for Representative, Place 4; George Hosey and Willis McGregor were tied for criminal district judge, as were W. R. Parker and James C. Wilson Jr. for district attorney; Emmet Moore held a slight lead over W. D. Davis for county judge; J. W. Shelton led W. W. Miller for county clerk, and Carl Smith and Clarence Little were tied for sheriff. Forty-two votes had been cast in that box by 8 a. m.

ELECTION NEWS ONLY AVAILABLE IN EXTRAS.

All election news is copyrighted by The Star-Telegram and Texas Election Bureau and its broadcasting and bulletining are prohibited by the bureau.

Election information therefore can be distributed only by publication in newspapers.

In order to get this information to the public quickly, however, The Star-Telegram will issue extra editions tonight.

All Star-Telegram extras will be GREEN.

Close in Two Other Precincts.

At Precinct 53, Sixth Ward Central, where 94 votes had been cast up to 8:40 a. m., the questioning of voters revealed that Allred led Hunter by a slight margin, Woodward held a similar lead over McCraw, Lattimore and Brown were well ahead for the judicial positions, Lonnie Smith held a slight lead over Johnson, Rawlings lead Patterson by two votes; Houston, Hosey, Parker, Davis, Miller and Little held slight leads in their various races.

Precinct 54, Sixth Ward West, had given Allred a narrow lead up to 8:20 a. m.; Woodward and McCraw were tied, Lattimore and Brown led in the judicial races, Lonnie Smith held a slight margin over Johnson, and Rawlings had the same lead over his opponent; Farmer and Houston were tied, Hosey had a two-vote lead over McGregor and Wilson held the same margin over Parker; Smith and Little were tied while Moore led Davis and Shelton had a slight lead over Miller.

At Precinct 14, Prairie Chapel, Allred was estimated to have a substantial lead over Hunter, Hosey was leading McGregor by a safe margin, Wilson was leading Parker, Davis was leading Moore and Miller was leading Shelton by about 10 votes each, while Smith took a good early lead over Little.

Hunter Lead in Five Boxes.

The count seemed to be closer in all races in Precinct 60, Eighth Ward Southwest.

In Precinct 17, Rosen Heights, 235 out of a possible 900 votes had been cast up to 11 a. m., and Hunter had been given a substantial lead over Allred. The unofficial interviews indicated that Hosey and McGregor were very close, that Parker had about a three-to-one lead over Wilson and that Smith was not quite two-to-one over Little.

Four other North Side boxes indicated a slight lead for Hunter, a close race in the criminal district judge's race with Hosey slightly in the lead, a two-to-one margin for Parker, a very slight lead for Davis and a good lead for Smith. These boxes were Precinct 92, Twelfth Ward Central, where 198 votes had been cast out of a strength of 740; Precinct 68, Twelfth Ward West where 206 votes had been cast out of 800 and where 650 were cast in the first primary; Precinct 87, Eleventh Ward Northwest, where 189 votes had been cast out of a possible 980, and Precinct 49, Twelfth Ward East, where 175 votes out of 715 had been cast.

Voting at Hearn's Well.

At Precinct 106, Hearn's Well, Allred was 16 and Hunter 12 in unofficials reports on the Governor's race. Walter Woodward was reported leading William McCraw better than two to one for Attorney General. Lon A. Smith was slightly ahead of John Pundt for Railroad Commissioner. Frank Patterson Jr., Joe Youngblood and W. J. Houston were reported leading in the legislative races. McGregor was leading Hosey about two to one, and Parker was ahead of Wilson. Davis was leading Moore for county judge and Smith was ahead of Little for sheriff. For county clerk, Shelton was 15 and Miller 14. Mrs. Johnnie (Mitt) House was five votes ahead of County Treasurer John M. Moore, in reports from 32 voters at Hearn's Well. Hal P. Hughes and Justice of the Peace Faulkner were running close with the latter having a one-vote margin.

One hundred and ninety-two votes had been cast in Precinct 95, Forest Park, up to 11 a. m. In this box Allred appeared to have a slight lead, Parker was 20 votes ahead of Wilson, Moore led Davis by a close margin as did Shelton over Miller, while Little had a 20-vote lead over Smith.

Close Races Reported.

Allred also was leading in Precinct 8, Eighth Ward Northeast, where 130 votes had been cast. Hosey was slightly in the lead over McGregor, Parker and Wilson were tied, Little led Smith while Moore and Shelton were reported to have good margins.

The Governor's race seemed to be a nip and tuck in Precinct 76, Mistletoe Heights. Parker was slightly ahead of Wilson at 11 a. m., according to the unofficial reports, with Moore leading with a safe margin in his race over Davis. McGregor led Hosey.

Allred held the lead in Precinct 70, Eighth Ward Northwest, at 1560 Magnolia Avenue. McGregor had a slight lead, Parker was only a few votes ahead of his opponent while the races for county judge, county clerk and sheriff were very close.

Two Riverside boxes — Precincts Nos. 19 and 82—were reported to have given leads to Allred, McCraw, Lattimore, Brown, J. J. Hurley (for Representative, Place 1), Houston, Wilson, Davis, Shelton and Carl Smith. Precinct 19 had recorded 326 votes up to noon and Precinct 82 had 221 votes.

McGregor, Parker Ahead.

In Precinct 81, T. C. U., McGregor was leading Hosey by about two to one, Parker had a good lead over Wilson, Moore was not quite two to one over Davis, Shelton held a similar margin over Miller, and Little was leading Smith by about 10 votes. This box had recorded 289 votes at noon.

The standing was similar in Precinct 97, Tenth Ward Southwest, except that Smith was slightly in the lead of Little.

In Precinct 67, Eleventh Ward Southwest, 210 out of a possible 700 votes had been cast at noon; in Precinct 94, Arlington Heights West, 216 votes had been cast; Precinct 103, Hi-Mount, 186 votes; Precinct 2, 252, and Precinct 9, 200.

In Precinct 78, Tenth Ward Southwest, Allred was given a substantial lead; Hosey was leading McGregor, Parker had a safe margin over Wilson and Davis held a similar lead over Moore, Shelton and Smith were tied, Little led Smith while Moore and Shelton were reported to have had 35 votes in the first 30 minutes and most of them were cast in the women.

Precinct 79 had recorded 58 votes by 8:30 a. m.; at the same hour the judge of Precinct 90 reported 47 votes had been cast.

The county candidates made their final appeal to the voters Friday night in a huge rally at the courthouse.

No Early Challenges.

He asked especially that wives and husbands finish voting today to work that complete returns could be made tonight.

"It is a nice sentiment," he said, "for husbands and wives to go to the polls together, but for the sake of speed I hope they vote separately."

Casting Vote a Minute.

In his final appeal to the voters last Friday, Small urged an early vote in order that the election could be made tonight.

At Precinct 77, Tenth Ward Central, the votes were being dropped into the ballot box at the rate of one a minute during the first half hour.

Precinct 97, Tenth Ward South-

BEAUMONT, TEX.
JOURNAL

AUG 22 1934

Plea For Negro Vote Ban Dropped

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Aug. 22.—(AP).—An application for a writ of injunction to prevent negroes from voting in Nueces county in Saturday's democratic primary election has been dismissed on motion of Henry Faver, Jr., who filed the application in district court.

The question of negro voting will be left to precinct election judges, as has been the practice previously.

AMARILLO, TEX.
DAILY GLOBE

AUG 21 1934

CHEERS GIVEN CANDIDATE AS DATE NEARING

ATTORNEY GENERAL DENIES GOP SYMPATHIES; STOPS HECKLERS

BEAUMONT, August 21 (AP)—James V. Allred, nearing the completion of his campaign for governor, last night voiced anew the demand that his opponent, Tom F. Hunter, take an unequivocal stand on the controversial issues of prohibition and horse race betting.

"Every one knows how I stand on prohibition," Allred said. "But I challenge anyone who is authorized to speak for Hunter to say whether he is wet or dry. The truth is he runs dry in English and wet in Bohemian.

"I am for repeal of the statute legalizing race track gambling. Desperate Tom Hunter won't tell his position on that."

Strikes at Charge

Allred struck back vigorously at Hunter's charges that he had Republican sympathies.

Asserting that the accusations were a "silly and inane" effort to divert the spotlight from Hunter's platform, Allred nevertheless replied that he made speeches for President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner and was among the original Texas contributors to the "national campaign which elected Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Allred spoke in Wiess Park, the site of Hunter's address two nights ago. All of the seats were filled and many persons were content to stand and listen to the fiery young attorney general. The crowd was highly demonstrative, alternately laughing and cheering in conformity with the trend of the address.

Stands Pat on Vote

Possible voting of negroes was a live issue in this country several weeks ago and Allred was generously applauded when he reminded his listeners that he ruled that negroes were not entitled to vote in Democratic primaries.

Allred promised to take the administration of unemployment relief out of politics if and when he is elected governor. "There certainly won't be any more negro case workers like there were at Port Arthur," he said.

The speaker charged that there was a "joker" in Hunter's promise to veto the sales tax.

"He says he will veto a general sales tax for state revenue," Allred explained. "But he doesn't say he will veto one for the school fund or for local purposes. The sales tax takes money from the pockets of the poor regardless of where the revenue goes. I challenge Tom Hunter to say whether he will veto a sales tax for any purpose."

Allred charged his opponent with "demagoguery, deception and double-dealing."

Heckling Stopped

He stated Hunter had "put on the front of a poor man but nevertheless is worth three or four hundred thousand dollars by his own admission."

The candidate reviewed his efforts in behalf of organized labor. He stated that he fought to uphold the full crew law and that he was opposed to convict labor competing with labor outside the prison.

Allred was introduced by Clyde E. Smith, who polled a heavy vote through this section in his race for attorney general.

The rally was enlivened near its end by heckling. Allred quickly quieted the two interrupters and the crowd roared its approval.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
EVENING STAR TELEGRAM

AUG 25 1934

NEGROES ARE BALLOTING IN AT LEAST ONE PRECINCT

Tarrant County citizens were filing to the polls in a continuous stream Saturday to cast their votes in the runoff Democratic primary.

Election judges said the morning vote was heavier than that of the first primary last month, indicating that an even greater total would be cast. The first primary vote was about 36,700.

The election officials were busily counting the ballots throughout the day. It was hoped that complete returns would be available tonight.

Negroes were voting in at least one precinct. At Precinct No. 56, Third Ward East, situated in the Chambers Hill fire hall at 1401 Kennedy Street, seven of the first 22 votes cast were by negroes. Hugh L. Small, county Democratic chairman, previously had said he would leave the matter to the discretion of individual election judges, although the Supreme Court recently held negro votes to be invalid in a Democratic election.

Vote Trends Revealed.

While election judges are prohibited by law from announcing the standing of candidates while the polls are open, some voters were interviewed as they left the polling places and the following results were ascertained:

In Precinct 4, Fourth Ward East, James V. Allred held a slight lead over Tom Hunter for Governor; Walter Woodward led William McCraw for Attorney General; Judge H. S. Lattimore held a 7 to 1 lead over Judge John H. Sharp for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court; Judge Marvin H. Brown Sr. led Judge P. A. Martin for the Second Court of Civil Appeals; Lonnie Smith held a slight lead over H. S. Johnson for Flotorial Representative; Frank Rawlings and Frank Patterson were tied for State Senator; Clarence F. Farmer led W. J. Houston by two votes for Representative, Place 4; George Hosey and Willis McGregor were tied for criminal district judge, as were W. R. Parker and James C. Wilson Jr. for district attorney; Emmet Moore held a slight lead over W. D. Davis for county judge; J. W. Shelton led W. W. Miller for county clerk, and Carl Smith and Clarence Little were tied for sheriff. Forty-two votes had been cast in that box by 8 a. m.

ELECTION NEWS ONLY AVAILABLE IN EXTRAS.

All election news is copyrighted by The Star-Telegram and Texas Election Bureau and its broadcasting and bulletining are prohibited by the bureau.

Election information therefore can be distributed only by publication in newspapers.

In order to get this information to the public quickly, however, The Star-Telegram will issue extra editions tonight.

All Star-Telegram extras will be GREEN.

Close in Two Other Precincts.

At Precinct 53, Sixth Ward Central, where 94 votes had been cast up to 8:40 a. m., the questioning of voters revealed that Allred led Hunter by a slight margin, Woodward held a similar lead over McCraw, Lattimore and Brown were well ahead for the judicial positions, Lonnie Smith held a slight lead over Johnson, Rawlings lead Patterson by two votes; Houston, Hosey, Parker, Davis, Miller and Little held slight leads in their various races.

Precinct 54, Sixth Ward West, had given Allred a narrow lead up to 8:20 a. m.; Woodward and McCraw were tied, Lattimore and Brown led in the judicial races, Lonnie Smith held a slight margin over Johnson, and Rawlings had the same lead over his opponent; Farmer and Houston were tied, Hosey had a two-vote lead over McGregor and Wilson held the same margin over Parker; Smith and Little were tied while Moore led Davis and Shelton had a slight lead over Miller.

At Precinct 14, Prairie Chapel Allred was estimated to have a substantial lead over Hunter, Hosey was leading McGregor by a safe margin, Wilson was leading Parker, Davis was leading Moore and Miller was leading Shelton by about 10 votes each, while Smith took a good early lead over Little.

Hunter Lead in Five Boxes.

The count seemed to be closer in all races in Precinct 60, Eighth Ward Southwest.

In Precinct 17, Rosen Heights, 235 out of a possible 900 votes had been cast up to 11 a. m., and Hunter had been given a substantial lead over Allred. The unofficial interviews indicated that Hosey and McGregor were very close, that Parker had about a three-to-one lead over Wilson and that Smith was not quite two-to-one over Little.

Four other North Side boxes indicated a slight lead for Hunter, a close race in the criminal district judge's race with Hosey slightly in the lead, a two-to-one margin for Parker, a very slight lead for Davis and a good lead for Smith. These boxes were Precinct 92, Twelfth Ward Central, where 198 votes had been cast out of a strength of 740; Precinct 68, Twelfth Ward West where 206 votes had been cast out of 800 and where 650 were cast in the first primary; Precinct 87, Eleventh Ward Northwest, where 189 votes had been cast out of a possible 980, and Precinct 49, Twelfth Ward East, where 175 votes out of 715 had been cast.

Voting at Hearn's Well.

At Precinct 106, Hearn's Well, Allred was 16 and Hunter 12 in unofficials reports on the Governor's race. Walter Woodward was reported leading William McCraw better than two to one for Attorney General. Lon A. Smith was slightly ahead of John Pundt for Railroad Commissioner. Frank Patterson Jr., Joe Youngblood and W. J. Houston were reported leading in the legislative races. McGregor was leading Hosey about two to one, and Parker was ahead of Wilson. Davis was leading Moore for county judge and Smith was ahead of Little for sheriff. For county clerk, Shelton was 15 and Miller 14. Mrs. Johnnie (Mitt) House was five votes ahead of County Treasurer John M. Moore, in reports from 32 voters at Hearn's Well. Hal P. Hughes and Justice of the Peace Faulkner were running close with the latter having a one-vote margin.

One hundred and ninety-two votes had been cast in Precinct 95, Forest Park, up to 11 a. m. In this box Allred appeared to have a slight lead. Parker was 20 votes ahead of Wilson, Moore led Davis by a close margin as did Shelton over Miller while Little had a 20-vote lead over Smith.

Close Races Reported.

Allred also was leading in Precinct 8, Eighth Ward Northeast where 130 votes had been cast. Hosey was slightly in the lead over McGregor, Parker and Wilson were tied, Little led Smith while Moore and Shelton were reported to have good margins.

The Governor's race seemed to be nip and tuck in Precinct 76, Mistletoe Heights. Parker was slightly ahead of Wilson at 11 a. m., according to the unofficial reports, with Moore leading with a safe margin in his race over Davis. McGregor led Hosey.

Allred held the lead in Precinct 70, Eighth Ward Northwest, at 1560 Magnolia Avenue. McGregor had a slight lead, Parker was only a few votes ahead of his opponent while the races for county judge, county clerk and sheriff were very close.

Two Riverside boxes — Precincts Nos. 19 and 82—were reported to have given leads to Allred, McCraw, Lattimore, Brown, J. J. Hurley (for Representative, Place 1), Houston, Wilson, Davis, Shelton and Carl Smith. Precinct 19 had recorded 326 votes up to noon and Precinct 82 had 221 votes.

McGregor, Parker Ahead.

In Precinct 81, T. C. U., McGregor was leading Hosey by about two to one, Parker had a good lead over Wilson, Moore was not quite two to one over Davis, Shelton held a similar margin over Miller, and Little was leading Smith by about 10 votes. This box had recorded 289 votes at noon.

The standing was similar in Precinct 97, Tenth Ward Southwest, except that Smith was slightly in the lead of Little.

In Precinct 67, Eleventh Ward South, 210 out of a possible 700 votes had been cast at noon; in Precinct 216 began at 8 o'clock—the time allowed by law.

Casting Vote a Minute.

At Precinct 77, Tenth Ward Central, the votes were being dropped in the ballot box at the rate of one a minute during the first half hour.

Precinct 97, Tenth Ward South-

Patterson were tied for State Senator; Clarence F. Farmer led W. J. Houston by two votes for Representative, Place 4; George Hosey and Willis McGregor were tied for criminal district judge, as were W. R. Parker and James C. Wilson Jr. for district attorney; Emmet Moore held a slight lead over W. D. Davis for county judge; J. W. Shelton led W. W. Miller for county clerk, and Carl Smith and Clarence Little were tied for sheriff. Forty-two votes had been cast in that box by 8 a. m.

Close in Two Other Precincts.

At Precinct 53, Sixth Ward Central, where 94 votes had been cast up to 8:40 a. m., the questioning of voters revealed that Allred led Hunter by a slight margin, Woodward held a similar lead over McCraw, Lattimore and Brown were well ahead for the judicial positions, Lonnie Smith held a slight lead over Johnson, Rawlings lead Patterson by two votes; Houston, Hosey, Parker, Davis, Miller and Little held slight leads in their various races.

Precinct 54, Sixth Ward West, had given Allred a narrow lead up to 8:20 a. m.; Woodward and McCraw were tied, Lattimore and Brown led in the judicial races, Lonnie Smith held a slight margin over Johnson, and Rawlings had the same lead over his opponent; Farmer and Houston were tied, Hosey had a two-vote lead over McGregor and Wilson held the same margin over Parker; Smith and Little were tied while Moore led Davis and Shelton had a slight lead over Miller.

At Precinct 14, Prairie Chapel Allred was estimated to have a substantial lead over Hunter, Hosey was leading McGregor by a safe margin, Wilson was leading Parker, Davis was leading Moore and Miller was leading Shelton by about 10 votes each, while Smith took a good early lead over Little.

Hunter Lead in Five Boxes.

The count seemed to be closer in all races in Precinct 60, Eighth Ward Southwest.

In Precinct 17, Rosen Heights, 235 out of a possible 900 votes had been cast up to 11 a. m., and Hunter had been given a substantial lead over Allred. The unofficial interviews indicated that Hosey and McGregor were very close, that Parker had about a three-to-one lead over Wilson and that Smith was not quite two-to-one over Little.

Four other North Side boxes indicated a slight lead for Hunter, a close race in the criminal district judge's race with Hosey slightly in the lead, a two-to-one margin for Parker, a very slight lead for Davis and a good lead for Smith. These boxes were Precinct 92, Twelfth Ward Central, where 198 votes had been cast out of a strength of 740; Precinct 68, Twelfth Ward West where 206 votes had been cast out of 800 and where 650 were cast in the first primary; Precinct 87, Eleventh Ward Northwest, where 189 votes had been cast out of a possible 980, and Precinct 49, Twelfth Ward

East, where 175 votes out of 715 had been cast.

Voting at Hearn's Well.

At Precinct 106, Hearn's Well, Allred was 16 and Hunter 12 in unofficials reports on the Governor's race. Walter Woodward was reported leading William McCraw better than two to one for Attorney General. Lon A. Smith was slightly ahead of John Pundt for Railroad Commissioner. Frank Patterson Jr., Joe Youngblood and W. J. Houston were reported leading in the legislative races. McGregor was leading Hosey about two to one, and Parker was ahead of Wilson. Davis was leading Moore for county judge and Smith was ahead of Little for sheriff. For county clerk, Shelton was 15 and Miller 14. Mrs. Johnnie (Mitt) House was five votes ahead of County Treasurer John M. Moore, in reports from 32 voters at Hearn's Well. Hal P. Hughes and Justice of the Peace Faulkner were running close with the latter having a one-vote margin.

One hundred and ninety-two votes had been cast in Precinct 95, Forest Park, up to 11 a. m. In this box Allred appeared to have a slight lead. Parker was 20 votes ahead of Wilson, Moore led Davis by a close margin as did Shelton over Miller while Little had a 20-vote lead over Smith.

Close Races Reported.

Allred also was leading in Precinct 8, Eighth Ward Northeast where 130 votes had been cast. Hosey was slightly in the lead over McGregor, Parker and Wilson were tied, Little led Smith while Moore and Shelton were reported to have good margins.

The Governor's race seemed to be nip and tuck in Precinct 76, Mistletoe Heights. Parker was slightly ahead of Wilson at 11 a. m., according to the unofficial reports, with Moore leading with a safe margin in his race over Davis. McGregor led Hosey.

Allred held the lead in Precinct 70, Eighth Ward Northwest, at 1560 Magnolia Avenue. McGregor had a slight lead, Parker was only a few votes ahead of his opponent while the races for county judge, county clerk and sheriff were very close.

Two Riverside boxes — Precincts Nos. 19 and 82—were reported to have given leads to Allred, McCraw, Lattimore, Brown, J. J. Hurley (for Representative, Place 1), Houston, Wilson, Davis, Shelton and Carl Smith. Precinct 19 had recorded 326 votes up to noon and Precinct 82 had 221 votes.

McGregor, Parker Ahead.

In Precinct 81, T. C. U., McGregor was leading Hosey by about two to one, Parker had a good lead over Wilson, Moore was not quite two to one over Davis, Shelton held a similar margin over Miller, and Little was leading Smith by about 10 votes. This box had recorded 289 votes at noon.

The standing was similar in Precinct 97, Tenth Ward Southwest, except that Smith was slightly in the lead of Little.

In Precinct 67, Eleventh Ward South, 210 out of a possible 700 votes had been cast at noon; in Precinct 216 began at 8 o'clock—the time allowed by law.

Casting Vote a Minute.

At Precinct 77, Tenth Ward Central, the votes were being dropped in the ballot box at the rate of one a minute during the first half hour.

Precinct 97, Tenth Ward South-

minutes and most of them were cast by women.

Precinct 79 had recorded 58 votes in the first 30 minutes; at the same hour the polls were reported 47 votes.

Precinct 90 reported speed I hope they vote separately."

The county candidates made their last appeal to the voters Friday in a huge rally at the courthouse.

Second Appeal to the Voters.

Small urged an early vote night in order to go to the election could be made tonight.

No Early Challenges.

He asked especially that wives and husbands finish their husbands finish

Political- 1934
Suffrage.

Texas

PORT ARTHUR, TEX.
NEWS
JUL 8 1934

Demos Held To Have Right To Restrict Primary To Whites

SUPREME COURT RULES PLEDGE IS CONSTITUTIONAL

Majority Opinion Holds The Color Line To Be Invalid

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, July 7.—The negro voting question, which has upset Jefferson county democracy for three weeks, involves complicated but interesting points of law, attorneys agreed Saturday.

The preponderance of legal belief is that, in line with its policy of 50 years, the democratic party, to white citizens,

SAN ANTONIO, July 7 (UP).—Will A. Morris, chairman of the Bexar county democratic committee, announced today that negros would be permitted to vote in the July primary.

The decision affects 500 negro votes.

through its proper state organization, has ample authority to restrict participation in its primaries.

The U. S. supreme court ,in a case appealed by a Texas negro in 1932, ruled, by a five to four decision, that the state democratic committee lacked the power to prescribe a "white voter" pledge, but the opinion laid particular stress on the fact that the court was not holding that the state convention of the party lacked that authority to specify the pledge.

"A reading of the court's opinion in the case leads to the conclusion that the state democratic cnovention, which met at Lubbock in 1932, legally could have ordered the white pledge put on 1934 ballots," one attorney said.

Distinction Drawn

The appellate opinions draw a sharp distinction between the right of the state and the right of a political party to prescribe the qualifications of party membership. The state itself, it is generally held, cannot decree who can and who cannot join a party, but the party can.

In 1923, the Texas legislature, undertaking to settle the negro voting question once and for all, adopted a law excluding negros from democratic primaries. L. A. Nixon, an El Paso negro, assailed the law as unconstitutional in 1927, and the U. S. supreme court sustained him, on the theory that the state can't fix requirements for party membership.

To meet the objections raised against the 1923 act, the legislature in 1927 passed another, which empowered the state executive committee of any party to determine the qualifications of its electors.

The same neegro, Nixon, filed another suit attacking the constitutionality of the new law.

Act Held Invalid

The U. S. district court ruled against the negro's contention, and so did the U. S. circuit court of appeals at New Orleans, La.

However, the supreme court, to which the suit was taken on further appeal, decided by the bare margin of five to four, as reported above, that the new act was invalid. The majority opinion of the court was written by Justice Cordoza, who ruled that the act makes the party executive committee an "agency of the state" in empowering it to adopt regulations excluding negros.

It was Justice Cordoza who emphasized that the court was not deciding that the party convention couldn't exclude whom it pleased from the party. The opinion said:

"The pith of the matter is simply this, that when those agencies (such as the state committee) are invested with an authority independent of the will of the association (the democratic party) in whose name they undertake to speak, they become to that extent the organs of the state itself, the repositories of official power.

Minority Opinion Dissents

"They are then the governmental instruments whereby parties are organized and regulated to the end that government itself may be established or continued."

Representing the views of himself and three colleagues on the court, a vigorous dissenting opinion was handed down by Justice McReynolds.

The dissenting opinion, in strong terms, upheld the authority of the state democratic committee to exclude negros from the party's primaries.

"A political party is a voluntary association and, as such, has the inherent power to prescribe the qualifications of its members," the circuit court had said, and Justice McReynolds heartily approved this reasoning.

His opinion said:

"Political parties are the fruits of voluntary action. Where there is no unlawful purpose, citizens may create them at will and limit their membership as seems wise. The state may not interfere. White men may organize. Blacks may do likewise. A woman's party may exclude males. This much is essential to free government."

PORT ARTHUR, TEX.
NEWS
JUL 1 1934

NEGRO MAY BE ALLOWED VOTE

Meeting Thursday To Decide Ballot Question

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, June 30.—Negro voting in the Jefferson county democratic primary moved a step nearer Saturday when the party's primary committee, after conferring at length with several attorneys, ruled itself without legal authority to heed instructions of the county democratic organization and head the official ballot with a pledge restricting participation in the election to white democrats.

After declining to adopt the form of pledge ordered two weeks ago by the county committee, the primary group, in session at the office of County Chairman J. R. Edmonds here, recommended to him that a special meeting of the general county organization be called for next Thursday to "reconsider" its resolution calling for a "strictly white" primary.

Edmonds immediately called the county committee to convene at the courthouse Thursday at 4 p. m.

Meanwhile, printing of the 36,000 ballots for use in the July 28 voting, will be held up.

Although asserting that they "heartily favor a white man's election," primary committeemen, who debated the pledge question for more than two hours, explained that "since the state democratic organization deliberately failed to adopt the white voter restriction, our hands here in the county apparently are tied and we can't validly put the white pledge on the ballot."

P. A. Dowlen, secretary of the county committee and a member of the primary group, today kept urging his colleagues to "follow the law and go ahead and print the ballots without any 'white' pledge."

Others Demurr

Other members of the committee demurred to the secretary's suggestion and insisted that the legal situation be outlined to the county committee before the ballots are printed.

"Even though the law is evidently against us, the county commitee instructed us to put the 'white' pledge on the ballot, and if we are going to disregard the instruction, I think we ought to notify the committee," one member of the primary group urged, and the others agreed.

What further course, if any, is open to the county organization in its effort to conduct an exclusively "white" election remains to be determined. A big majority of the county body are known to be militantly supporting the move to confine voting to white citizens, and it is possible that, even in the face of the primary committeemen's refusal to adopt the pledge, the county organization may persist in its demand that negros be barred from the polls.

Fight For Bar

County committeemen leading the fight for a "white man's" election include O. S. Hunter and Geo. W. Morgan of Beaumont and K. Earhart of Port Arthur.

The primary group was assisted in its deliberations today by three attorneys, whose counsel had been invited. Attorneys present were Fred A. White of Port Arthur and J. Austin Barnes and Archie Shaw of Beaumont. They discussed legal aspects of the pledge question, acknowledging that the issues involved are troublesome.

Members of the primary committee pleaded that they are "between the devil and the deep blue sea" in a determination of the pledge quandary.

"On one side we are confronted with the county committee's resolution demanding the 'white' restriction, and on the other side, we have the court decisions facing us," said Chairman Emonds. "It's a ticklish situation."

Secretary Dowlen argued strenuously that "there is no use delaying this thing any longer."

Urges Printing.

"If you'll order the bollots printed today, I'll accept full responsibility for ignoring the resolution of the county committee," Dowlen promised. He referred repeatedly to "supreme court decisions," "the constitution," and "federal injunctions."

Dowlen came to the committee meeting armed with a thick brief supporting his contention that the county democratic organization lacks authority to amend the pledge prescribed by the state convention. The state pledge merely restricts voters to "democrats" and says nothing about "whites."

Edmonds said Dowlen's brief came from the law office of C. W. Howth, member of the state committee which refused to adopt the white restriction. Howth did not show up at the meeting.

Attorney Shaw made one suggestion which was not acted upon. "We might go ahead and print the ballot job, has the white man's election," Shaw observed. "Later, a suit could be brought by any defeated candidate of all candidates set up in the form of pledge to be used is finally adopted, the ballots will go with little enough pride to claim proof-read. As soon as the press.

Absentee ballots will go on the press.

"Members of the primary committee ballots opens Monday week.

Members of the primary committee are: Mark Majors, Port Arthur, chairman; Richard Young and M. A. McCree, Dowlen and Griffing; F. B. Hammers, Nome; Edmonds, all of Beaumont.

One Way Out.

Political- 1934
Suffrage.

Texas

PORT ARTHUR, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 8 1934

Demos Held To Have Right To Restrict Primary To Whites

SUPREME COURT RULES PLEDGE IS CONSTITUTIONAL

Majority Opinion Holds The Color Line To Be Invalid

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, July 7.—The negro voting question, which has upset Jefferson county democracy for three weeks, involves complicated but interesting points of law, attorneys agreed Saturday.

The preponderance of legal belief is that, in line with its policy of 50 years, the democratic party, to white citizens.

SAN ANTONIO, July 7 (UP).—Will A. Morris, chairman of the Bexar county democratic committee, announced today that negros would be permitted to vote in the July primary.

The decision affects 500 negro votes.

through its proper state organization, has ample authority to restrict participation in its primaries.

The U. S. supreme court, in a case appealed by a Texas negro in 1932, ruled, by a five to four decision, that the state democratic committee lacked the power to prescribe a "white voter" pledge, but the opinion laid particular stress on the fact that the court was not holding that the state convention of the party lacked that authority to specify the pledge.

"A reading of the court's opinion in the case leads to the conclusion that the state democratic cnovention, which met at Lubbock in 1932, legally could have ordered the white pledge put on 1934 ballots," one attorney said.

Distinction Drawn

The appellate opinions draw a sharp distinction between the right of the state and the right of a political party to prescribe the qualifications of party membership. The state itself, it is generally held, cannot decree who can and who cannot join a party, but the party can.

In 1923, the Texas legislature, undertaking to settle the negro voting question once and for all, adopted a law excluding negros from democratic primaries. L. A. Nixon, an El Paso negro, assailed the law as unconstitutional in 1927, and the U. S. supreme court sustained him, on the theory that the state can't fix requirements for party membership.

To meet the objections raised against the 1923 act, the legislature in 1927 passed another, which empowered the state executive committee of any party to determine the qualifications of its electors.

The same neegro, Nixon, filed another suit attacking the constitutionality of the new law.

Act Held Invalid

The U. S. district court ruled against the negro's contention, and so did the U. S. circuit court of appeals at New Orleans, La.

However, the supreme court, to which the suit was taken on further appeal, decided by the bare margin of five to four, as reported above, that the new act was invalid. The majority opinion of the court was written by Justice Cordoza, who ruled that the act makes the party executive committee an "agency of the state" in empowering it to adopt regulations excluding negros.

It was Justice Cordoza who emphasized that the court was not deciding that the party convention couldn't exclude whom it pleased from the party. The opinion said:

"The pith of the matter is simply this, that when those agencies (such as the state committee) are invested with an authority independent of the will of the association (the democratic party) in whose name they undertake to speak, they become to that extent the organs of the state itself, the repositories of official power.

Minority Opinion Dissents

"They are then the governmental instruments whereby parties are organized and regulated to the end that government itself may be established or continued."

Representing the views of himself and three colleagues on the court, a vigorous dissenting opinion was handed down by Justice McReynolds.

The dissenting opinion, in strong terms, upheld the authority of the state democratic committee to exclude negros from the party's primaries.

"A political party is a voluntary association and, as such, has the inherent power to prescribe the qualifications of its members," the circuit court had said, and Justice McReynolds heartily approved this reasoning.

His opinion said:

"Political parties are the fruits of voluntary action. Where there is no unlawful purpose, citizens may create them at will and limit their membership as seems wise. The state may not interfere. White men may organize. Blacks may do likewise. A woman's party may exclude males. This much is essential to free government."

PORT ARTHUR, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 1 1934

NEGRO MAY BE ALLOWED VOTE

Meeting Thursday To Decide Ballot Question

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, June 30.—Negro voting in the Jefferson county democratic primary moved a step nearer Saturday when the party's primary committee, after conferring at length with several attorneys, ruled itself without legal authority to heed instructions of the county democratic organization and head the official ballot with a pledge restricting participation in the election to white democrats.

After declining to adopt the form of pledge ordered two weeks ago by the county committee, the primary group, in session at the office of County Chairman J. R. Edmonds here, recommended to him that a special meeting of the general county organization be called for next Thursday to "reconsider" its resolution calling for a "strictly white" primary.

Edmonds immediately called the county committee to convene at the courthouse Thursday at 4 p. m.

Meanwhile, printing of the 36,000 ballots for use in the July 28 voting, will be held up.

Although asserting that they "heartily favor a white man's election," primary committeemen, who debated the pledge question for more than two hours, explained that "since the state democratic organization deliberately failed to adopt the white voter restriction, our hands here in the county apparently are tied and we can't validly put the white pledge on the ballot."

P. A. Dowlen, secretary of the county committee and a member of the primary group, today kept urging his colleagues to "follow the law and go ahead and print the ballots without any 'white' pledge."

Others Demurr

Other members of the committee demurred to the secretary's suggestion and insisted that the legal situation be outlined to the county committee before the ballots are printed.

"Even though the law is evidently against us, the county commitee instructed us to put the 'white' pledge on the ballot, and if we are going to disregard the instruction, I think we ought to notify the committee," one member of the primary group urged, and the others agreed.

What further course, if any, is open to the county organization in its effort to conduct an exclusively "white" election remains to be determined. A big majority of the county body are known to be militantly supporting the move to confine voting to white citizens, and it is possible that, even in the face of the primary committeemen's refusal to adopt the pledge, the county organization may persist in its demand that negros be barred from the polls.

Fight For Bar

County committeemen leading the fight for a "white man's" election include O. S. Hunter and Geo. W. Morgan of Beaumont and K. Earhart of Port Arthur.

The primary group was assisted in its deliberations today by three attorneys, whose counsel had been invited. Attorneys present were Fred A. White of Port Arthur and J. Austin Barnes and Archie Shaw of Beaumont. They discussed legal aspects of the pledge question, acknowledging that the issues involved are troublesome.

Members of the primary committee pleaded that they are "between the devil and the deep blue sea" in a determination of the pledge quandary.

"On one side we are confronted with the county committee's resolution demanding the 'white' restriction, and on the other side, we have the court decisions facing us," said Chairman Emonds. "It's a ticklish situation."

Secretary Dowlen argued strenuously that "there is no use delaying this thing any longer."

Urges Printing.

"If you'll order the bollots printed today, I'll accept full responsibility for ignoring the resolution of the county committee," Dowlen promised. He referred repeatedly to "supreme court decisions," "the constitution," and "federal injunctions."

Dowlen came to the committee meeting armed with a thick brief supporting his contention that the democratic organization lacks authority to amend the pledge prescribed by the convention. The state merely restricts voters to "democrats" and says nothing about "whites."

Edmonds said Dowlen's brief came from the law office of C. W. Howth, member of the state committee which refused to adopt the white restriction. Howth did not show up at the meeting.

One Way Out.

Attorney Shaw made one suggestion which was not acted upon. "We might go ahead and hold a white pledge "demo-served. "Later, a suit could be brought by any defeated candidate with little enough pride to claim that he would have won if the petition asking that members of their race be permitted to vote in the primary.

The American Printing company, the ballot job, has the all candidates set up in proof-read. As soon as of pledge to be used is opted, the ballots will go press.

balloting opens Mon-

of the primary com-
Mark Majors, Port
irman; Richard Young and M. A. McCree, Dowlen and
F. B. Hammers, Nome; Edmonds, all of Beaumont.

DALLAS, TEX.
TIMES HERALD

JUL 13 1934

Dallas Negroes To Be Barred at Demo Elections

Dallas county negroes will not be permitted to vote i this summer's Democratic primaries.

This became a certainty Friday morning when Murrel Buckner, chairman of the Dallas county Democratic executive committee, issued a statement in which he concur in the opinion issued Thursday by Attorney General James V. Allred which held that the Democratic party has the right to determine its own membership.

"As far as I am concerned, as chairman of the Dallas county Democratic executive committee, the opinion of the attorney general will be followed to the letter," Buckner said.

* * *

Committee May Act.

At a recent meeting the county committee voted to take no action, leaving the matter of negro participation in the primaries to the precinct election officers. His statement Friday, however, coupled with Allred's official opinion was taken to mean that the committee will be asked to bar negroes at its meeting three days before the election on July 28.

The negro voting question was revived by a recent court decision upholding their right to participate in Democratic elections.

Mr. Buckner's statement follows:

* * *

Agrees With Allred.

"I have very carefully read the attorney general's opinion and agree with same in every particular. I call your special attention to that part of the opinion of the Supreme court, to which the attorney general refers, namely Nickson vs. Condon, which opinion was written by Mr. Justice Cardoza, and which said, 'Whether a political party in Texas has inherent power today without restraint by any law to determine its own membership, we are not required at this time to affirm or to deny,' and after this opinion was rendered, the state convention adopted the resolution making the democratic primaries a white man's primary.

"I agree with the attorney general that the Democratic party has the right to select its own members, and I am constrained to believe the right thinking negro has no desire to force himself into the Democratic primaries.

"As far as I am concerned, as chairman of the Dallas county Democratic executive committee, the opinion of the attorney general will be followed to the letter."

Clerk Sued Twice.

Houston, July 13 (INS).—A $10,000 damage suit was on file here today against County Clerk Albert Townsend by C. F. Richardson, editor of the negro weekly paper, "The Houston Defender," alleging Richardson had not been allowed to cast an absentee ballot.

It was the second similar suit to be filed against Townsend within three days in connection with his alleged refusal to permit negro voting. A suit of mandamus was brought against Townsend on Tuesday by Julius White, president of the Harris County Negro Democratic club to compel the clerk to permit White to cast an absentee ballot in the July 28 Democratic primaries.

Townsend acted under a resolution adopted Saturday by the Harris county Democratic executive committee which excluded voters from the primary who cannot show that they have voted the Democratic ticket at least three times in the last six years.

The White case will be tried July 23 before District Judge Roy Campbell.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 12 1934

BEXAR DECISION FOR NEGRO VOTE STILL STANDS

Unchanged for Time Being as Allred Ruling Muddled Situation.

WHETHER negroes will vote in the democratic primary July 28 in Bexar County was a matter of doubt today as Atty. Gen. Allred, a candidate for governor, issued an opinion holding that negroes are without the right to vote in the primary.

One thing appeared certain, and this was that the attorney general's ruling will result in another legal tangle in Bexar County, regardless of whether Will A. Morriss Jr., county democratic chairman, changes his ruling that negroes can vote in Bexar County.

Despite the Allred ruling, the order of the county chairman permitting negroes to vote still stands, for the time being at least, in Bexar County.

"Negroes will be allowed to cast absentee ballots until I see something to change my mind," the county chairman said.

Thus far, only one negro has cast an absentee ballot since absentee voting opened Monday at the courthouse.

Political observers agreed that if Morriss changes his ruling to conform with the attorney general's opinion, that negroes will, as they have done before, file suit to restrain election officials from refusing them the right to vote. On the other hand, they also agreed that if Morriss refuses to abide by the attorney general's ruling that there will be a suit filed to restrain election officials from permitting negroes to cast their ballots. It is known that one candidate is now contemplating such a suit.

"I am going to send for a copy of the attorney general's opinion," Morriss said today. "I am still of the opinion that the negroes have a right to vote in the democratic primary, but I in no way want to comment on Allred's opinion because I am unaware of its content."

The attorney general's opinion is based on an opinion of the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals written two years ago by the late Judge W. S. Fly. Judge Fly held, and Judge Edward Smith with him, that the resolution of the democratic convention in Houston May 24, 1932, barring negroes from participation in the democratic party was valid, and excluded negroes from voting.

Judge T. D. Cobbs Sr., then a member of the court but now retired, wrote a dissenting opinion holding that the convention was without power to exclude the negroes.

The opinion of the fourth court was given in the case of a San Antonio negro who attacked the validity of the exclusion of negroes, in a suit in Dist. Judge Tayloe's court. Judge Tayloe held that the exclusion was illegal.

The case was decided on election day two years ago, several hundred negroes voting early before Judge Tayloe's injunction was nullified by an order from the pen of Judge Fly.

Later the question of the negro's right to vote was sent to the Texas supreme court on certified questions. The court sidestepped the issue and upset a precedent by going outside of the record before it to hold that the proper parties had not been named in the suit.

Thus the supreme court never ruled on the actual question involved, and it has come back to again plague politicians and voters.

Morriss, as chairman of the Bexar County democratic executive committee, several days ago issued an opinion holding that negroes could vote.

The chairman based his opinion on the fact that the state convention at Lubbock two years ago failed to act on the question, and the fact that the state executive committee his year has taken no acion on the question.

Morriss held that the power to exclude, if any, rested with the state convention or the state executive committee, and that in their failure to act, the local committee was without power to exclude the negroes.

The main difference between the Houston convention in May and the Lubbock convention in September was the fact that the Houston convention was one called for the selection of delegates to the national democratic convention, while the other convention was the regular state meeting convened after every gubernatorial primary.

HOUSTON, TEX.
PRESS

JUL 11 1934

WILL AIR NEGRO VOTE QUESTION BEFORE JUDGE

Suit Seeking to Force County Clerk to Issue Ballot Set for July 23

The frequently-occurring question of the right of negroes to vote in the democratic primaries will be argued here again July 23 when District Judge Campbell will hear the plea of Julius White, 46-year-old negro, that he be allowed to cast his ballot.

White filed suit late Tuesday for a writ of mandamus to force County Clerk Townsend to allow him to cast an absentee vote in the July 28 primary.

Refused Ballot

The negro claimed that he and six others had appeared in Mr. Townsend's office and had been refused a ballot on the ground that he was not qualified to vote under the regulations set out by the Harris County Democratic Executive Committee.

This committee last Saturday decided that no person who had not voted, or whose parents had not voted, in at least three democratic primaries in the past six years could vote.

This excludes negroes and the ruling obviously was aimed at them, although they were not mentioned.

White claimed he was entitled to a vote under the law and he had "arbitrarily and without legal cause or reason" been deprived of his vote.

Willing to Take Pledge

He said he was a believer in the tenets of the democratic party and was willing to take the pledge to support the nominees of the party.

Officials pointed out that the hearing, set two days before absentee voting ends, would be on only the absentee vote phase of the primary.

However, the judge will have to rule on the validity of the committee's ruling and this would affect voting at the polls on election day.

Officials said if the judge rules the committee without power to halt absentee voting, then negroes refused ballots July 28 would have basis for a suit.

In Keeping With Ruling

Mr. Townsend said the fact that White is a negro had nothing to do with the refusal. He said it was in keeping with the ruling of the committee and he thought "the democratic party had the legal right to prescribe the qualifications of its members."

He said he merely followed the instructions that were given him by the committee.

Committee Chairman J. B. Lub-

lock said he did not think "all this agitation would do any good" or clear up the issue.

"If nothing had been said," Mr. Lubbock said, "you wouldn't have heard much about negroes voting in the primaries. But the more you agitate, the worse it gets."

Court Holds Color No Bar

White is basing his plea on the decision at El Paso where a negro received damages from an election judge who refused him a ballot. The case was fought through the United States Supreme Court, which held color was no bar to the ballot.

White said he intended to use all legal methods to obtain the ballot if his first move fails. He is represented by J. M. Nabrit, negro attorney.

Two mass meetings for negro voters have been called, White said. The first will be held Wednesday night at Dowling street and Webster avenue and the second Thursday night at Clark and Burnet streets.

The county executive committee adopted a resolution to bar negroes from the party primaries without a dissenting vote at the meeting held at the courthouse Monday afternoon.

The motion was made by P. B. Cox and 17 of the 31 present voted for the resolution. The others did not vote either for or against the measure.

Routine business matters were scheduled to occupy the remainder of the meeting.

Wichita Falls, Tex.
TIMES

JUL 9 1934

Negroes Will Be Barred in Demo Primary County

DALLAS, TEX.
TIMES HERALD

JUL 13 1934

Dallas Negroes To Be Barred at Demo Elections

Dallas county negroes will not be permitted to vote i this summer's Democratic primaries.

This became a certainty Friday morning when Murrel Buckner, chairman of the Dallas county Democratic executive committee, issued a statement in which he concur in the opinion issued Thursday by Attorney General James V. Allred which held that the Democratic party has the right to determine its own membership.

"As far as I am concerned, as chairman of the Dallas county Democratic executive committee, the opinion of the attorney general will be followed to the letter," Buckner said.

* * *

Committee May Act.

At a recent meeting the county committee voted to take no action, leaving the matter of negro participation in the primaries to the precinct election officers. His statement Friday, however, coupled with Allred's official opinion was taken to mean that the committee will be asked to bar negroes at its meeting three days before the election on July 28.

The negro voting question was revived by a recent court decision upholding their right to participate in Democratic elections.

Mr. Buckner's statement follows:

* * *

Agrees With Allred.

"I have very carefully read the attorney general's opinion and agree with same in every particular. I call your special attention to that part of the opinion of the Supreme court, to which the attorney general refers, namely Nickson vs. Condon, which opinion was written by Mr. Justice Cardoza, and which said, 'Whether a political party in Texas has inherent power today without restraint by any law to determine its own membership, we are not required at this time to affirm or to deny,' and after this opinion was rendered, the state convention adopted the resolution making the democratic primaries a white man's primary.

"I agree with the attorney general that the Democratic party has the right to select its own members, and I am constrained to believe the right thinking negro has no desire to force himself into the Democratic primaries.

"As far as I am concerned, as chairman of the Dallas county Democratic executive committee, the opinion of the attorney general will be followed to the letter."

Clerk Sued Twice.

Houston, July 13 (INS).—A $10,000 damage suit was on file here today against County Clerk Albert Townsend by C. F. Richardson, editor of the negro weekly paper, "The Houston Defender," alleging Richardson had not been allowed to cast an absentee ballot.

It was the second similar suit to be filed against Townsend within three days in connection with his alleged refusal to permit negro voting. A suit of mandamus was brought against Townsend on Tuesday by Julius White, president of the Harris County Negro Democratic club to compel the clerk to permit White to cast an absentee ballot in the July 28 Democratic primaries.

Townsend acted under a resolution adopted Saturday by the Harris county Democratic executive committee which excluded voters from the primary who cannot show that they have voted the Democratic ticket at least three times in the last six years.

The White case will be tried July 23 before District Judge Roy Campbell.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 12 1934

BEXAR DECISION FOR NEGRO VOTE STILL STANDS

Unchanged for Time Being as Allred Ruling Muddled Situation.

WHETHER negroes will vote in the democratic primary July 28 in Bexar County was a matter of doubt today as Atty. Gen. Allred, a candidate for governor, issued an opinion holding that negroes are without the right to vote in the primary.

One thing appeared certain, and this was that the attorney general's ruling will result in another legal tangle in Bexar County, regardless of whether Will A. Morriss Jr., county democratic chairman, changes his ruling that negroes can vote in Bexar County.

Despite the Allred ruling, the order of the county chairman permitting negroes to vote still stands, for the time being at least, in Bexar County.

"Negroes will be allowed to cast absentee ballots until I see something to change my mind," the county chairman said.

Thus far, only one negro has cast an absentee ballot since absentee voting opened Monday at the courthouse.

Political observers agreed that if Morriss changes his ruling to conform with the attorney general's opinion, that negroes will, as they have done before, file suit to restrain election officials from refusing them the right to vote. On the other hand, they also agreed that if Morriss refuses to abide by the attorney general's ruling that there will be a suit filed to restrain election officials from permitting negroes to cast their ballots. It is known that one candidate is now contemplating such a suit.

"I am going to send for a copy of the attorney general's opinion," Morriss said today. "I am still of the opinion that the negroes have a right to vote in the democratic primary, but I in no way want to comment on Allred's opinion because I am unaware of its content."

The attorney general's opinion is based on an opinion of the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals written two years ago by the late Judge W. S. Fly. Judge Fly held, and Judge Edward Smith with him, that the resolution of the democratic convention in Houston May 24, 1932, barring negroes from participation in the democratic party was valid, and excluded negroes from voting.

Judge T. D. Cobbs Sr., then a member of the court but now retired, wrote a dissenting opinion holding that the convention was without power to exclude the negroes.

The opinion of the fourth court was given in the case of a San Antonio negro who attacked the validity of the exclusion of negroes, in a suit in Dist. Judge Tayloe's court. Judge Tayloe held that the exclusion was illegal.

The case was decided on election day two years ago, several hundred negroes voting early before Judge Tayloe's injunction was nullified by an order from the pen of Judge Fly.

Later the question of the negro's right to vote was sent to the Texas supreme court on certified questions. The court sidestepped the issue and upset a precedent by going outside of the record before it to hold that the proper parties had not been named in the suit.

Thus the supreme court never ruled on the actual question involved, and it has come back to again plague politicians and voters.

Morriss, as chairman of the Bexar County democratic executive committee, several days ago issued an opinion holding that negroes could vote.

The chairman based his opinion on the fact that the state convention at Lubbock two years ago failed to act on the question, and the fact that the state executive committee his year has taken no acion on the question.

Morriss held that the power to exclude, if any, rested with the state convention or the state executive committee, and that in their failure to act, the local committee was without power to exclude the negroes.

The main difference between the Houston convention in May and the Lubbock convention in September was the fact that the Houston convention was one called for the selection of delegates to the national democratic convention, while the other convention was the regular state meeting convened after every gubernatorial primary.

HOUSTON, TEX.
PRESS

JUL 11 1934

WILL AIR NEGRO VOTE QUESTION BEFORE JUDGE

Suit Seeking to Force County Clerk to Issue Ballot Set for July 23

The frequently-occurring question of the right of negroes to vote in the democratic primaries will be argued here again July 23 when District Judge Campbell will hear the plea of Julius White, 46-year-old negro, that he be allowed to cast his ballot.

White filed suit late Tuesday for a writ of mandamus to force County Clerk Townsend to allow him to cast an absentee vote in the July 28 primary.

Refused Ballot

The negro claimed that he and six others had appeared in Mr. Townsend's office and had been refused a ballot on the ground that he was not qualified to vote under the regulations set out by the Harris County Democratic Executive Committee.

This committee last Saturday decided that no person who had not voted, or whose parents had not voted, in at least three democratic primaries in the past six years could vote.

This excludes negroes and the ruling obviously was aimed at them, although they were not mentioned.

White claimed he was entitled to a vote under the law and he had "arbitrarily and without legal cause or reason" been deprived of his vote.

Willing to Take Pledge

He said he was a believer in the tenets of the democratic party and was willing to take the pledge to support the nominees of the party.

Officials pointed out that the hearing, set two days before absentee voting ends, would be on only the absentee vote phase of the primary.

However, the judge will have to rule on the validity of the committee's ruling and this would affect voting at the polls on election day.

Officials said if the judge rules the committee without power to halt absentee voting, then negroes refused ballots July 28 would have basis for a suit.

In Keeping With Ruling

Mr. Townsend said the fact that White is a negro had nothing to do with the refusal. He said it was in keeping with the ruling of the committee and he thought "the democratic party had the legal right to prescribe the qualifications of its members."

He said he merely followed the instructions that were given him by the committee.

Committee Chairman J. B. Lub-

The county Democratic executive committee adopted a resolution to bar negroes from the party primaries without a dissenting vote at the meeting held at the courthouse Monday afternoon.

The motion was made by P. B. Cox and 17 of the 31 present voted for the resolution. The others did not vote either for or against the measure.

Routine business matters were scheduled to occupy the remainder of the meeting.

Wichita Falls, Tex.
TIMES

JUL 9 1934

Negroes Will Be Barred in Demo Primary County

lock said he did not think "all this agitation would do any good" or clear up the issue.

"If nothing had been said," Mr. Lubbock said, "you wouldn't have heard much about negroes voting in the primaries. But the more you agitate, the worse it gets."

Court Holds Color No Bar

White is basing his plea on the decision at El Paso where a negro received damages from an election judge who refused him a ballot. The case was fought through the United States Supreme Court, which held "all color was no bar to the ballot.

White said he intended to use all legal methods to obtain the ballot if his first move fails. He is represented by J. M. Nabrit, negro attorney.

Two mass meetings for negro voters have been called, White said. The first will be held Wednesday night at Dowling street and Webster avenue and the second Thursday night at Clark and Burnett streets.

Political- 1934
Suffrage

Texas.

Negro Votes May Make Coming Elections Void

Every Negro who holds a poll tax receipt or exemption certificate, or who is entitled to exemption under the laws of Texas, should go to the polls on July 28th, take at least one witness, and if denied the right to vote, should then and there mark a sample ballot as he or she would have marked the official ballot had the election judges followed the law, and then each such Negro voter should execute an affidavit setting forth all the facts and attach the marked sample ballot to the affidavit.

Informer 7-14-34

Several thousand of such affidavits may change the complexion of the election under the following Texas statute and the decision quoted in the attached column.

Houston Texas

(The Statute)

ARTICLE 3054 (Revised Civil Statutes of Texas—1925)
ELECTION DECLARED VOID

'If it appears on the trial of any contest provided for in article 3045 that it is impossible to ascertain the true result of the election as to the office about which the contest is made, either from the returns of the election or from any evidence within reach, or from the returns considered in connection with other evidence, or should it appear from the evidence that such a number of legal voters were, by the officers or managers of the election, denied the privilege of voting as, had they been allowed to vote, would have materially changed the result, the court shall adjudge such election void, and direct the proper officers to order another election to fill said office; which election shall be ordered and held and returns thereof made in all respects as required by the general election laws of the State."

TEXANS LEARN PROPER USE OF BALLOT; SET UP PROGRESSIVE VOTER'S LEAGUE IN DALLAS

ENTIRE COUNTY OF 121 PRECINCTS ORGANIZED

A. Maceo Smith Aids In Developing Political Strength of "Elmites'

DALLAS, Texas, July 12.—Sunday afternoon, July 8, at St. Paul M. E. church, two hundred Negroes from throughout the county met in regular convention and completed the organization of the Progressive Voter's League, established a defense fund to vouchsafe their franchise rights, affected precinct organizations in each of the 121 precincts of the county and adopted the following platform:

Be it resolved by the Progressive Citizens League in regular convention assembled, that we do not look with favor upon any person or persons who undertake to extract money from candidates for public office on account of services rendered them in their canvass for such offices, and that we condemn that character of procedure on the part of any person or persons who may be guilty of the same.

Be it further resolved that the Progressive Citizens League makes known and gives wide publicity to the fact that it does not stand for moneyed consideration for their franchise in any election that may be held in the city and county of Dallas.

Be it further resolved that in keeping with the high purposes of this organization, that no endorsement be given any candidate for a public office, but that the membership of this organization shall be free to exercise their own discretion and judgment as to whom they will support for the various offices within the gift of the people.

The Progressive Voter's League will hold another convention Friday night, July 13, in the Pythian Temple to study the ballot and to conduct a voting school. Meetings will be held in the precincts thruout the week. A. S. Wells is president and A. Maceo Smith, secretary. Other officers: Dr. W. K. Flowers, 1st vice president; S. C. Black, 2nd vice president; Rev. R. T. Andrews, 3rd vice president; Mrs. H. D. Winn, treasurer.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
MORNING STAR TELEGRAM

JUN 21 1934

Star Spot at Political Rallies to Be Rotated

Audiences who hear Tarrant political candidates repeatedly in their swing about the county which begins tonight will not have to listen to the same "finale" every night.

The committee in charge of the itinerary decided yesterday upon a rotation system which will give candidates in four of the main races in each of the two groups an opportunity to appear last on the program in turn.

In Group 1, which will open at Handley tonight, the races to be rotated for last place on the program are county clerk, county tax assessor-collector, county judge and district attorney. In previous years the district attorney's race has been spotlighted for last place on the program in this group.

The climax for Group 2 "speakings" will be rotated among candidates for district clerk, State Senator, criminal district judge and sheriff. The opening program for this group will be held tonight at Grapevine, where candidates will speak in a roped-off area of the main street.

Announcements of the candidates at Handley will follow a barbecue at 6 p. m. a terrapin race and other entertainment features. The barbecue will be sponsored by the Handley Lions Club and the Presbyterian, Baptist and Christian Churches.

The plan to place candidates for a different race last on the program each night was decided upon by the committee because of the unusual interest attached to some of the campaigns involved in the rotation.

Colored People Plan Citywide Rally.

With Fort Worth colored people planning to vote in the Democratic primaries this Summer, Phil R. Register announced last night that a citywide rally of members of his race will be arranged during the campaign.

All county candidates will be invited to speak, Register said.

Register pointed out that the action of the County Democratic Executive Committee Monday assured colored people the privilege of voting. The committee took no formal action—thus passing the issue on to election judges—after Hugh Small, county chairman, explained that under a Supreme Court decision the judges have no authority to deny colored folks the right of voting.

DALLAS, TEX.
TIMES HERALD

JUL 12 1934

ALLRED POINTS TO RESOLUTION OF CONVENTION

SAYS PROVIDES FOR QUALIFIED WHITE VOTERS, AND NO OTHERS

LOCAL LEADERS SILENT

holding that negroes are not entitled to vote in the coming Democratic primaries.

The opinion prepared by the attorney general's department was based upon a resolution adopted at the state convention of the right to participate in Democratic party in Houston, and consequently excluded negroes, reading as follows: "Be it resolved that all white citizens of the state of Texas who are qualified to vote under the constitution and laws of the state. The attorney general's opinion

Buckner Declines to Make Statement Until Opinion Studied; Committee Meets July 25

Attorney General James V. Allred said his department has received numerous inquiries from officials of the election judges, officials of the party and as such participate in its deliberations."

sent here for Allred's approval, due to its importance. It was addressed May 24, 1932, reading as follows: to D. R. Wood, county attorney of Williamson county.

"Be it resolved that all white citizens of the state of Texas who are qualified to vote under the con Decision Reviewed.

* * *

Political- 1934
Suffrage

Texas.

Negro Votes May Make Coming Elections Void

Every Negro who holds a poll tax receipt or exemption certificate, or who is entitled to exemption under the laws of Texas, should go to the polls on July 28th, take at least one witness, and if denied the right to vote, should then and there mark a sample ballot as he or she would have marked the official ballot had the election judges followed the law, and then each such Negro voter should execute an affidavit setting forth all the facts and attach the marked sample ballot to the affidavit.

Informer 7-14-34

Several thousand of such affidavits may change the complexion of the election under the following Texas statute and the decision quoted in the attached column.

Houston Texas

(The Statute)

ARTICLE 3054 (Revised Civil Statutes of Texas—1925)
ELECTION DECLARED VOID

'If it appears on the trial of any contest provided for in article 3045 that it is impossible to ascertain the true result of the election as to the office about which the contest is made, either from the returns of the election or from any evidence within reach, or from the returns considered in connection with other evidence, or should it appear from the evidence that such a number of legal voters were, by the officers or managers of the election, denied the privilege of voting as, had they been allowed to vote, would have materially changed the result, the court shall adjudge such election void, and direct the proper officers to order another election to fill said office; which election shall be ordered and held and returns thereof made in all respects as required by the general election laws of the State."

TEXANS LEARN PROPER USE OF BALLOT; SET UP PROGRESSIVE VOTER'S LEAGUE IN DALLAS

ENTIRE COUNTY OF 121 PRECINCTS ORGANIZED

A. Maceo Smith Aids In Developing Political Strength of "Elmites'

DALLAS, Texas, July 12.—Sunday afternoon, July 8, at St. Paul M. E. church, two hundred Negroes from throughout the county met in regular convention and completed the organization of the Progressive Voter's League, established a defense fund to vouchsafe their franchise rights, affected precinct organizations in each of the 121 precincts of the county and adopted the following platform:

Be it resolved by the Progressive Citizens League in regular convention assembled, that we do not look with favor upon any person or persons who undertake to extract money from candidates for public office on account of services rendered them in their canvass for such offices, and that we condemn that character of procedure on the part of any person or persons who may be guilty of the same.

Be it further resolved that the Progressive Citizens League makes known and gives wide publicity to the fact that it does not stand for moneyed consideration for their franchise in any election that may be held in the city and county of Dallas.

Be it further resolved that in keeping with the high purposes of this organization, that no endorsement be given any candidate for a public office, but that the membership of this organization shall be free to exercise their own discretion and judgment as to whom they will support for the various offices within the gift of the people.

The Progressive Voter's League will hold another convention Friday night, July 13, in the Pythian Temple to study the ballot and to conduct a voting school. Meetings will be held in the precincts thruout the week. A. S. Wells is president and A. Maceo Smith, secretary. Other officers: Dr. W. K. Flowers, 1st vice president; S. C. Black, 2nd vice president; Rev. R. T. Andrews, 3rd vice president; Mrs. H. D. Winn, treasurer.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
MORNING STAR TELEGRAM

JUN 21 1934

Star Spot at Political Rallies to Be Rotated

Audiences who hear Tarrant political candidates repeatedly in their swing about the county which begins tonight will not have to listen to the same "finale" every night.

The committee in charge of the itinerary decided yesterday upon a rotation system which will give candidates in four of the main races in each of the two groups an opportunity to appear last on the program in turn.

In Group 1, which will open at Handley tonight, the races to be rotated for last place on the program are county clerk, county tax assessor-collector, county judge and district attorney. In previous years the district attorney's race has been spotlighted for last place on the program in this group.

The climax for Group 2 "speakings" will be rotated among candidates for district clerk, State Senator, criminal district judge and sheriff. The opening program for this group will be held tonight at Grapevine, where candidates will speak in a roped-off area of the main street.

Announcements of the candidates at Handley will follow a barbecue at 6 p. m. a terrapin race and other entertainment features. The barbecue will be sponsored by the Handley Lions Club and the Presbyterian, Baptist and Christian Churches.

The plan to place candidates for a different race last on the program each night was decided upon by the committee because of the unusual interest attached to some of the campaigns involved in the rotation.

Colored People Plan Citywide Rally.

With Fort Worth colored people planning to vote in the Democratic primaries this Summer, Phil R. Register announced last night that a citywide rally of members of his race will be arranged during the campaign.

All county candidates will be invited to speak, Register said.

Register pointed out that the action of the County Democratic Executive Committee Monday assured colored people the privilege of voting. The committee took no formal action—thus passing the issue on to election judges—after Hugh Small, county chairman, explained that under a Supreme Court decision the judges have no authority to deny colored folks the right of voting.

DALLAS, TEX.
TIMES HERALD

JUL 12 1934

ALLRED POINTS TO RESOLUTION OF CONVENTION

SAYS PROVIDES FOR QUALIFIED WHITE VOTERS, AND NO OTHERS

LOCAL LEADERS SILENT

holding that negroes are not entitled to vote in the coming Democratic primaries.

The opinion prepared by the attorney general's department was sent here for Allred's approval, due to its importance. It was addressed to D. R. Wood, county attorney of Williamson county.

Allred said his department has received numerous inquiries from citizens of the state of Texas who are qualified to vote under the constitution and laws of the state. The attorney general's opinion

Buckner Declines to Make State ment Until Opinion Studied; Committee Meets July 25

Attorney General James V. Allred handed down an opinion today

Decision Reviewed.

election judges, officials of th

reviewed the various decisions of the United States Supreme court, including the five to four decision in Nixon vs. Condon, written by Justice Cardoza in May, 1932, just before the passage of the resolution by the party in state convention.

In the Nixon case the Supreme court of the United States held that the Democratic state executive committee was without authority to bar negroes, but said:

"Whether a political party in Texas has inherent power today without restraint by any law to determine its own membership, we are not required at this time to affirm or to deny."

The adoption of the resolution by the party in convention followed immediately after the Nixon vs. Condon decision.

* * *

White Man's Party.

"The Court of Civil Appeals at San Antonio by a two to one decision upheld the validity of the resolution, certified questions to the Supreme Court of Texas were dismissed on the ground that there was an absence of necessary parties to the suit," Allred said.

"I think this opinion of the Court of Civil Appeals was correct. And election officials throughout the state should follow it. The Democratic party has always been a white man's party in Texas and the attorney general's department will do everything in its power to keep it such.

"Practically every court decision recognizes the inherent right of a political party to determine the content of its membership. Certainly when the party spoke through its state convention it was the voice of the party itself. I think this resolution of the state convention was valid and stand ready to defend it should it be attacked."

Attorney General Allred was in Dallas a short time conferring with one of his assistants with reference to the opinion handed down. He will leave late in the day for Greenville, where he plans to speak tonight in behalf of his candidacy for governor.

* * *

Must Read Statement First.

Murrell Buckner, chairman of the Dallas county Democratic executive committee, Thursday refused to commit that governing body of Democrats in this county on the question of whether negroes will be permitted to vote in the July 28 primary until he has had time to carefully read Attorney General James V. Allred's opinion.

Attorney General Allred ruled Thursday that the primary is for white Democrats, under terms of a resolution passed at the state Democratic convention in Houston, May 24, 1932, and that negroes cannot participate.

"I prefer to wait and carefully read Mr. Allred's opinion before I make any statement," Mr. Buckner said.

* * *

To Meet July 25.

The county chairman explained that the executive committee will meet at the courthouse here July 25 at which time all election judges will be given complete instructions about conducting the election.

At a meeting of the county executive committee held here June 18 the question of whether negroes should vote came up. The members voted to permit each precinct committeeman handle the matter as he saw fit.

* * *

Negroes to Seek Vote.

Existence of an alleged plan by Dallas county negroes to force their way into the Democratic primary was reported Thursday morning almost simultaneously with the announcement of Attorney General Allred's ruling barring the negroes from the July 28 primaries

The plan of the negroes was reported to have been discussed at a "secret meeting" Wednesday night of the executive committee of the United American Actives.

The so-called plan of the negroes vote on July 28 included the visitation of the negroes to the polls in groups of 25 to 100 and demand of the box chairman permission to cast their ballots.

ALLRED'S OPINION WILL BE ATTACKED IN FEDERAL COURT

An injunction suit was filed Friday in the United States district court at Houston by C. F. Richardson against John E. Lubbock, Jo Ed Shaw and members of Harris County Democratic executive committee, in which he seeks to have the federal court set aside the resolution adopted by the Harris County Democratic executive committee of July 7, 1934, and the legal opinion handed down July 12, 1934, by Attorney General James V. Allred of Texas, who held that Negroes cannot vote in the Democratic primary elections under a resolution adopted at the partisan state convention in Houston May 24, 1932.

Richardson attacks the legality and constitutionality of the local committee's exclusion action and bares the inconsistency of the attorney general, whose office held during the 1934 spring Democratic primary election at Beaumont that the state convention, meeting at Lubbock in September, 1932, had prescribed no qualifications for voters, and that since neither the convention nor state Democratic executive committee had acted on this question, qualified Negro voters could not be barred from the municipal Democratic primary election in Beaumont. As a result of this opinion from the attorney general's office, Beaumont Negroes voted in said election for the first time.

Now, some three months thereafter, despite the fact that no convention has been held and despite the fact that the state Democratic executive committee, meeting at Austin June 11, 1934, failed to prescribe electors' qualifications or set up any bar, the attorney general, in the race for governor and apparently fearful that one of his gubernatorial opponents will corral a large Negro vote, reverses his department's opinion in the Beaumont case and holds that Negroes cannot vote in the 1934 Democratic primary elections.

Thus the right of Texas Negroes to vote in the Democratic primary elections on July 28 and August 25, 1934, hinges and hangs on the outcome of this injunction suit filed by Richardson in Houston Friday. James M. Nabrit, Jr., is attorney in the case.

DEMOCRATIC STATE COMMITTEE NAMED IN AMENDED CAUSE

Richardson Files Suit Against Party Leaders of Texas In Injunction Plea—U. S. District Court To Hear Case Saturday, July 21, 9:30 A. M.

7-21-34

An amended petition was filed Tuesday afternoon by C. F. Richardson, Defender editor and prominent figure in Democratic circles of Houston and Texas, in the United States District Court for Southern Texas, in which the officers and members of the state Democratic executive committee are named defendants in an injunction suit to restrain them from barring Richardson and other qualified Negroes from participating in the Democratic primary election on Saturday, July 28, 1934.

As in the two other suits filed in Houston by Richardson and another by Julius White, James M. Nabrit, Jr., is the legal counsel.

Friday, July 13, Richardson filed a petition in the federal court here seeking an injunction to restrain the officers and members of the Harris County Democratic executive committee from interferring with him voting in the Democratic primary election July 28.

Judge T. M. Kennerly, who presides over the federal district court of Southern Texas, has ordered all the defendants, both county and state Democratic executive committeemen, to appear in court at Houston Saturday morning, July 21, 9:30 a. m.; and show cause why they should not be restrained permanently from interferring with Richardson and others similarly situated from voting in the Democratic primary elections in keeping with the statutes of Texas and the amendments to the constitution of the United States.

Since several Democratic county chairmen and committees have announced that, since Attorney General James V. Allred's illegal and illogical opinion that Negroes of Texas can not vote in the primary elections, colored voters will be denied their suffrage rights in the partisan elections July 28 and August 25, 1934, the Richardson suit will determine the issue of Negroes voting in such primary elections throughout Texas this year, except in a few counties where no bar will be placed in the way of Negro Democratic electors.

Neither Attorney Nabrit nor Editor Richardson would express an opinion on the outcome of the injunction suit, but Negroes of Houston are very optimistic and confidently expect a legal victory.

It is expected that a capacity crowd will be present Saturday morning at the hearing in federal court here.

Legal Defense Fund Boosted

Through a series of citywide rallies and solicitations by members of the finance committee, money is being raised by the Harris County Negro Democratic Club for the legal defense fund.

Among the organizations making donations to this fund this week were, the Nu Phi chapter of Omega Psi Phi fraternity, $25; Lawmen League of Bethel Baptist Church, $5; I. L. A. No. 872, $55.

ST. LOUIS, MO.
GLOBE DEMOCRAT
JUL 13 1934

G. O. P. Speakers Here Capitalize Barring of Negro Vote in Texas

Primary Campaigners Address Several Meetings on Topic.

Republican primary speakers at several Negro meetings last night capitalized the news from Texas that Negroes probably would be barred from voting in the Democratic primary in that state.

Fred Weissmann, Republican Committeeman of the Fifth Ward, read a copy of a dispatch from Dallas quoting James V. Allred, Attorney General of Texas, to the effect that the power to determine the membership of a political party is inherent.

"The Democratic party doesn't need your votes in Texas, they have an overwhelming majority without you, so they take it upon themselves to eliminate you from the polls," said Weissmann.

"Here in St. Louis that same Democratic party solicits your votes; promise you jobs and then hand you taffy on a stick, after the election.

"In the last municipal election the Democrats promised the Negroes everything under the sun and succeeded in gaining enough Negro votes to elect Barney Dickmann Mayor.

"When Dickman was inaugurated there were approximately 850 Negroes on the city pay roll. Now there are only 350 Negroes employed by the city, so I am reliably informed.

"I belong to a race of people that was all but crucified in Russia. I know what it is to be denied the right of citizenship. That is one reason why I joined the party of Abraham Lincoln, Charles Sumner and Theodore Roosevelt."

Bates Is Speaker.

State Senator William Maffitt Bates followed Weissmann and said:

"The Democrats are giving you folks a New Deal, which carries with it in the great State of Texas, the banner Democratic state of the Union, exclusion from the polling booth."

William L. Tamme, Recorder of Deeds, explained to a meeting in Baden, First Ward, how economically and efficiently he had conducted the office, putting it on a paying basis for the first time.

Fred Gehner, also a candidate for Recorder of Deeds, and a resident of the First Ward, stressed the fact he was particularly qualified to manage this office, having served 17 years as a title investigator for various private individuals.

Never an Employe.

"I was never an employe of the office, but worked in there for title companies, also as a title investigator for special tax department of the City of St. Louis."

Fred W. Evers, also a Republican candidate for Recorder of Deeds, said: "I have been running my own business for many years and I believe they are always made it pay. I believe the Republican party needs some new blood. A majority of the new faces in public office are openly urging the re-

Calhoun for a change in nomination of Judges Pearcy, Hoffmeister and Ossing; also recommending Killoren for another term.

candidates for the the Republican pri-

reviewed the various decisions of the United States Supreme court, including the five to four decision in Nixon vs. Condon, written by Justice Cardoza in May, 1932, just before the passage of the resolution by the party in state convention.

In the Nixon case the Supreme court of the United States held that the Democratic state executive committee was without authority to bar negroes, but said:

"Whether a political party in Texas has inherent power today without restraint by any law to determine its own membership, we are not required at this time to affirm or to deny."

The adoption of the resolution by the party in convention followed immediately after the Nixon vs. Condon decision.

◆ ◆ ◆

White Man's Party.

"The Court of Civil Appeals at San Antonio by a two to one decision upheld the validity of the resolution, certified questions to the Supreme Court of Texas were dismissed on the ground that there was an absence of necessary parties to the suit," Allred said.

"I think this opinion of the Court of Civil Appeals was correct. And election officials throughout the state should follow it. The Democratic party has always been a white man's party in Texas and the attorney general's department will do everything in its power to keep it such.

"Practically every court decision recognizes the inherent right of a political party to determine the content of its membership. Certainly when the party spoke through its state convention it was the voice of the party itself. I think this resolution of the state convention was valid and stand ready to defend it should it be attacked."

Attorney General Allred was in Dallas a short time conferring with one of his assistants with reference to the opinion handed down. He will leave late in the day for Greenville, where he plans to speak tonight in behalf of his candidacy for governor.

◆ ◆ ◆

Must Read Statement First.

Murrell Buckner, chairman of the Dallas county Democratic executive committee, Thursday refused to commit that governing body of Democrats in this county on the question of whether negroes will be permitted to vote in the July 28 primary until he has had time to carefully read Attorney General James V. Allred's opinion.

Attorney General Allred ruled Thursday that the primary is for white Democrats, under terms of a resolution passed at the state Democratic convention in Houston, May 24, 1932, and that negroes cannot participate.

"I prefer to wait and carefully read Mr. Allred's opinion before I make any statement," Mr. Buckner said.

◆ ◆ ◆

To Meet July 25.

The county chairman explained that the executive committee will meet at the courthouse here July 25 at which time all election judges will be given complete instructions about conducting the election.

At a meeting of the county executive committee held here June 18 the question of whether negroes should vote came up. The members voted to permit each precinct committeeman handle the matter as he saw fit.

◆ ◆ ◆

Negroes to Seek Vote.

Existence of an alleged plan by Dallas county negroes to force their way into the Democratic primary was reported Thursday morning almost simultaneously with the announcement of Attorney General Allred's ruling barring the negroes from the July 28 primaries

The plan of the negroes was reported to have been discussed at a "secret meeting" Wednesday night of the executive committee of the United American Actives.

The so-called plan of the negroes vote on July 28 included the visitation of the negroes to the polls in groups of 25 to 100 and demand of the box chairman permission to cast their ballots.

ALLRED'S OPINION WILL BE ATTACKED IN FEDERAL COURT

An injunction suit was filed Friday in the United States district court at Houston by C. F. Richardson against John E. Lubbock, Jo Ed Shaw and members of Harris County Democratic executive committee, in which he seeks to have the federal court set aside the resolution adopted by the Harris County Democratic executive committee on July 7, 1934, and the legal opinion handed down July 12, 1934, by Attorney General James V. Allred of Texas, who held that Negroes cannot vote in the Democratic primary elections under a resolution adopted at the partisan state convention in Houston May 24, 1932.

Richardson attacks the legality and constitutionality of the local committee's exclusion action and bares the inconsistency of the attorney general, whose office held during the 1934 spring Democratic primary election at Beaumont that the state convention, meeting at Lubbock in September, 1932, had prescribed no qualifications for voters, and that since neither the convention nor state Democratic executive committee had acted on this question, qualified Negro voters could not be barred from the municipal Democratic primary election in Beaumont. As a result of this opinion from the attorney general's office, Beaumont Negroes voted in said election for the first time.

Now, some three months thereafter, despite the fact that no convention has been held and despite the fact that the state Democratic executive committee, meeting at Austin June 11, 1934, failed to prescribe electors' qualifications or set up any bar, the attorney general, in the race for governor and apparently fearful that one of his gubernatorial opponents will corral a large Negro vote, reverses his department's opinion in the Beaumont case and holds that Negroes cannot vote in the 1934 Democratic primary elections.

Thus the right of Texas Negroes to vote in the Democratic primary elections on July 28 and August 25, 1934, hinges and hangs on the outcome of this injunction suit filed by Richardson in Houston Friday. James M. Nabrit, Jr., is attorney in the case.

DEMOCRATIC STATE COMMITTEE NAMED IN AMENDED CAUSE

Richardson Files Suit Against Party Leaders of Texas In Injunction Plea—U. S. District Court To Hear Case Saturday, July 21, 9:30 A. M.

An amended petition was filed Tuesday afternoon by C. F. Richardson, Defender editor and prominent figure in Democratic circles of Houston and Texas, in the United States District Court for Southern Texas, in which the officers and members of the state Democratic executive committee are named defendants in an injunction suit to restrain them from barring Richardson and other qualified Negroes from participating in the Democratic primary election on Saturday, July 28, 1934.

As in the two other suits filed in Houston by Richardson and another by Julius White, James M. Nabrit, Jr., is the legal counsel.

Friday, July 13, Richardson filed a petition in the federal court here seeking an injunction to restrain the officers and members of the Harris County Democratic executive committee from interferring with him voting in the Democratic primary election July 28.

Judge T. M. Kennerly, who presides over the federal district court of Southern Texas, has ordered all the defendants, both county and state Democratic executive committeemen, to appear in court at Houston Saturday morning, July 21, 9:30 a. m.; and show cause why they should not be restrained permanently from interferring with Richardson and others similarly situated from voting in the Democratic primary elections in keeping with the statutes of Texas and the amendments to the constitution of the United States.

Since several Democratic county chairmen and committees have announced that, since Attorney General James V. Allred's illegal and illogical opinion that Negroes of Texas can not vote in the primary elections, colored voters will be denied their suffrage rights in the partisan elections July 28 and August 25, 1934, the Richardson suit will determine the issue of Negroes voting in such primary elections throughout Texas this year, except in a few counties where no bar will be placed in the way of Negro Democratic electors.

Neither Attorney Nabrit nor Editor Richardson would express an opinion on the outcome of the injunction suit, but Negroes of Houston are very optimistic and confidently expect a legal victory.

It is expected that a capacity crowd will be present Saturday morning at the hearing in federal court here.

Legal Defense Fund Boosted

Through a series of citywide rallies and solicitations by members of the finance committee, money is being raised by the Harris County Negro Democratic Club for the legal defense fund.

Among the organizations making donations to this fund this week were, the Nu Phi chapter of Omega Psi Phi fraternity, $25; Lawmen League of Bethel Baptist Church, $5; I. L. A. No. 872, $55.

ST. LOUIS, MO.
GLOBE DEMOCRAT
JUL 13 1934

G. O. P. Speakers Here Capitalize Barring of Negro Vote in Texas

Primary Campaigners Address Several Meetings on Topic.

Republican primary speakers at several Negro meetings last night capitalized the news from Texas that Negroes probably would be barred from voting in the Democratic primary in that state.

Fred Weissmann, Republican Committeeman of the Fifth Ward, read a copy of a dispatch from Dallas quoting James V. Allred, Attorney General of Texas, to the effect that the power to determine the membership of a political party is inherent.

"The Democratic party doesn't need your votes in Texas, they have an overwhelming majority without you, so they take it upon themselves to eliminate you from the polls," said Weissmann.

"Here in St. Louis that same Democratic party solicits your votes; promise you jobs and then hand you taffy on a stick, after the election.

"In the last municipal election the Democrats promised the Negroes everything under the sun and succeeded in gaining enough Negro votes to elect Barney Dickmann Mayor.

"When Dickman was inaugurated there were approximately 850 Negroes on the city pay roll. Now there are only 350 Negroes employed by the city, so I am reliably informed.

"I belong to a race of people that was all but crucified in Russia. I know what it is to be denied the right of citizenship. That is one reason why I joined the party of Abraham Lincoln, Charles Sumner and Theodore Roosevelt."

Bates Is Speaker.

State Senator William Maffitt Bates followed Weissmann and said:

"The Democrats are giving you folks a New Deal, which carries with it in the great State of Texas, the banner Democratic state of the Union, exclusion from the polling booth."

William L. Tamme, Recorder of Deeds, explained to a meeting in Baden, First Ward, how economically and efficiently he had conducted the office, putting it on a paying basis for the first time.

Fred Gehner, also a candidate for Recorder of Deeds, and a resident of the First Ward, stressed the fact he was particularly qualified to manage this office, having served 17 years as a title investigator for various private individuals.

Fred W. Evers, also a Republican candidate for Recorder of Deeds, registered voters 1932 and 1933 and I believe they are innomination of Judges Pearcy, Hoffmeister and Calhoun, also recommending Killoren and Ossing; for another term.

Never an Employe.

"I was never an employe of the office, but worked in there for title companies, also as a title investigator for special tax department of the City of St. Louis."

"I have been running my own business for many years and have always made it pay. I believe the Republican party needs some new blood. A majority of the young candidates for the circuit bench in the Republican primary are openly urging the retention of Judge Ossing for another term.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Texas

DALLAS, TEX.
JOURNAL

JUL 13 1934

Dallas County to Follow Allred's Ruling and Bar Negroes on July 28

Negroes will be barred from the Democratic primary election July 28 in Dallas County, in view of the Attorney General's ruling holding that the party has the power to chose its own members, Murrell L. Buckner, county Democratic chairman, announced Friday.

Util Attorney General James V. Allred, who is a candidate for Governor, had announced his ruling here Thursday, Mr. Buckner had declined to take a stand on the question of Negroes participating in the primary. The State Democratic Executive Committee recently refused to pass on the question, leaving the matter up to each county party organization.

Despite this decision lawyers point to a Federal court decision made at Houston after the action of the Democratic convention which held that the convention was an agency of the State and its action limiting the party to Whites was invalid.

"I have very carefully read the Attorney General's opinion and agree with same in every particular. I call special attention to that part of the opinion of the Supreme Court, to which the Attorney General refers namely, Nickson versus Condon, which opinion was written by Justice Cardoza, and which said, "Whether a political party in Texas has inherent power today without restraint by any law to determine its own membership, we are not required at this time to affirm or to deny," and after this opinion was rendered, the State convention adopted the resolution making the Democratic primaries a white man's primary," Mr. Buckner said.

"I agree with the Attorney General that the Democratic party has the right to select its own members, and I am constrained to believe the right thinking Negro has no desire to force himself into the Democratic primaries.

"As far as I am concerned, as chairman of the Dallas County Democratic Executive Committee, the opinion of the Attorney General will be be followed to the letter."

Campaign managers for State candidates and attaches in headquarters were silent on the negro ruling Friday, fearing that comment one way or the other would adversely affect their candidates. The sentiment was expressed privately by some, however, that Allred's ruling was of a political nature and that it would tend to gain him votes among those bitterly opposed to Negroes entering the primaries. Whether true or not, the general belief has been that C. C. McDonald's candidacy for Governor would be aided more than any other by Negroes voting.

Interesting possibilities were seen by lawyers well versed in the law if Negroes go to the courts to force their way into the primary.

The legal profession generally has believed that the Supreme Court decision in the Nixon case left the way wide open for Negro participation and many of them were inclined Friday to continue to believe this way, in spite of the new ruling, which has no official standing in the courts.

A Dallas attorney who has been prominent in State politics commented Friday that the point upon which Allred based his ruling was knocked out by Federal Judge T. M. Kennerely of Houston in July, 1934.

"The Houston Federal Court ruling, in the case of White versus the Harris County Democratic Executive Committee, held that the State Democratic convention was an agency of the State and that therefore its resolution limiting the party to whites was invalid," this lawyer said. "Mr. Allred appears to have overlooked this ruling. As a lawyer, I don't see how he can get by with his ruling."

There are about 2,500 qualified negro voters in Dallas County, according to the Progressive Citizens' League, a negro political organization.

The Attorney General's ruling will have no effect in Tarrant County, in the opinion of County Chairman Hugh S. Small, who at the same time declared that "Allred's opinion can not usurp the opinion of the United States Supreme Court, which held in the Nixon case that Negroes could not be barred." Mr. Small said that Tarrant County has only 793 qualified negro voters, and that not more than 20 per cent were expected to vote.

In Harris County, County Clerk Albert Townsend faced a $10,000 damage suit which grew out of his refusal to give a Negro an absentee ballot. The suit was filed by C. F. Richardson, editor of the negro weekly paper the Houston Defender. Richardson alleged that he was damaged to that extent because he was not allowed to cast an absentee ballot.

The suit was the second filed against Townsend in three days in connection with his alleged refusal to allow Negroes to vote. Julius White president of the Harris County Democratic Club, Tuesday filed a mandamus to compel Townsend to permite White to vote an absentee ballot in the July 28 Democratic primary.

A resolution recently adopted by the County Democratic Executive Committee permitted none to vote in the primary who can not show that he has voted the Democratic ticket at least three times during the last six years.

DALLAS, TEX.
TIMES HERALD

JUL 13 1934

OLD PROBLEM REVIVED FOR PARTY HEADS

CANDIDATES FOR GOVERNOR CONTINUE DRIVE IN SEVEN CORNERED RACE

Where the candidates speak today:

For Governor.—C. C. Small, morning Mineola, Afternoon Quitman, night Marshall; Edgar E. Witt Houston; Edward K. Russell morning Goldthwaite, afternoon Lampasas and Georgetown, night Austin; C. C. McDonald, Sonora; James V. Allred, morning Commerce, afternoon Cooper, night Paris; Tom F. Hunter, San Antonio; Maury Hughes, morning Rockwall, afternoon Sulphur Springs, night Tyler.

For United States Senator.—Joseph W. Bailey, morning Nacogdoches, afternoon Crockett, night Palestine; Tom Connally, afternoon Vernon, night Wichita Falls.

For Attorney General.—William McCraw, Brenham; Clyde E. Smith, Waco; Walter Woodward, Luling, Lockhart and Bastrop.

Negro Vote Problem.

Austin, July 13 (AP).—County Democratic executive committees pondered today over a highly perplexing question—that of the right of negroes to vote in the July and August primaries of the Democratic party.

The problem, which had smoldered for weeks, was revived yesterday when Attorney General James V. Allred approved a departmental opinion holding negroes ineligible to vote in the party's primary elections. In certain counties it had been announced negroes would be permitted to vote.

Two negroes cast absentee ballots in Travis county and a special meeting of the executive committee has been called to pass on whether they will be accepted. In Harris county a suit is pending to force the county clerk to accept an absentee ballot presented by a negro.

Decision on the question was passed to the county committees when the state executive committee, in session a month ago, refused to act on a resolution that would have barred negroes from participation.

Party Rights Upheld.

The attorney general's decision upheld the right of the party to prescribe the qualifications of its members. It stated the negroes were barred through a resolution adopted in 1932 at the state Democratic convention and contended this action did not contravene a United States Supreme court decision holding the state executive committee could not bar negroes.

Complete co-operation between the state and federal governments was urged by Maury Hughes, gubernatorial candidate, in a speech last night at Denison.

"We simply cannot dump all our problems in the lap of the president and expect them to be solved overnight," Hughes said. "This state needs a governor who has the confidence of the president and who has demonstrated confidence and faith in his recovery program.

"I have given ample evidence of that faith," Hughes said, adding that he made 125 speeches as chairman of the NRA advisory board for Texas and worked for party support of the national program when he was chairman of the state Democratic executive committee.

Edward K. Russell, only candidate in the seven-cornered race who is against any tampering with the prohibition laws, levelled a blast at one of his opponents, C. C. Small, in a speech at Brownwood.

Small, according to Russell, is trying to "blow hot and blow cold" on the proposed repeal of the law permitting wagering on horse races.

"In the regular session of the forty-third legislature he voted for the bill legalizing gambling on horse races," Russell said. "Now he is trying to climb on Hunter's band wagon and says he is in favor of repealing this law."

Small, addressing an East Texas rally of his supporters at Tyler, criticized the record of Allred in enforcing oil proration orders of the Texas railroad commission. He recommended establishment of a natural resources commission whose sole duty would be supervision of the oil industry.

Small blamed conditions in the East Texas field on failure to enforce the proration laws. "Oil is the state's major industry and it couldn't be in a more chaotic condition," he said.

Poll Tax Abolition.

Witt proposed abolition of the poll tax in a talk at Liberty, saying there was no justification for charging a citizen for the privilege of franchise. He suggested that the poll tax be removed from the masses with the revenue thus lost to be replaced by taxes on sources and resources able to bear it. He also said he would, if elected, seek to readjust taxes so that home owners would be relieved.

C. C. McDonald, at San Saba, spoke in favor of a sensible educational system that would not be subject to change annually. He recommended a per capita apportionment of $16 annually.

"Let us see that there are funds to meet it," he said. "And let our school boards see that no census rolls are padded, I do not want to see any of our schools junked or abandoned. I want to see every teacher paid a living salary at all times in cash."

Allred, terming McDonald the "Crown Prince" of former Governor James E. Ferguson, thrust sharply at Ferguson's support of McDonald, who is being backed by the administration. Ferguson is stumping the state for McDonald, his political lieutenant for years, and will speak tonight at Brenham.

Political Dynasty.

Allred said Ferguson was using his newspaper to perpetuate his "political dynasty" and to tell the voters how to vote.

"He is likely to find that the people of Texas are going to do the same thing that voters of Oklahoma did to Bill Murray's choice as his successor," Allred said. "There is a growing resentment against the scheme of wood and water toter to stay at the helm of state government through the elec-

HOUSTON, TEX.
POST

JUL 12 1934

NEGRO VOTING STRENGTH IN PORT NECHES AREA 13

PORT NECHES, July 12.—(Sp)—The mid-county area of Jefferson, composed of The Groves, Nederland and Port Neches, has a total vote of 2035, and only 13 of the votes out of the three boxes are negro votes.

Jefferson county political circles are aroused over negroes going to the polls on July 28, but negroes never have voted in the three boxes in this area.

Crown Prince." of his oil trust combination and the chain store cancer" Hunter spoke at Fort Worth.

Asserting that he was fighting the cause of the plain people, Hunter said it would be impossible for him to contact each voter in the state and urged his partisans to "carry "Old Beck" and "carry the message to the neighbors."

He promised his best efforts to cure the evils of the "utility monopoly,

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Texas

DALLAS, TEX.
JOURNAL

JUL 13 1934

Dallas County to Follow Allred's Ruling and Bar Negroes on July 28

Negroes will be barred from the Democratic primary election July 28 in Dallas County, in view of the Attorney General's ruling holding that the party has the power to chose its own members, Murrell L. Buckner, county Democratic chairman, announced Friday.

Util Attorney General James V. Allred, who is a candidate for Governor, had announced his ruling here Thursday, Mr. Buckner had declined to take a stand on the question of Negroes participating in the primary. The State Democratic Executive Committee recently refused to pass on the question, leaving the matter up to each county party organization.

Despite this decision lawyers point to a Federal court decision made at Houston after the action of the Democratic convention which held that the convention was an agency of the State and its action limiting the party to Whites was invalid.

"I have very carefully read the Attorney General's opinion and agree with same in every particular. I call special attention to that part of the opinion of the Supreme Court, to which the Attorney General refers namely, Nickson versus Condon, which opinion was written by Justice Cardoza, and which said, "Whether a political party in Texas has inherent power today without restraint by any law to determine its own membership, we are not required at this time to affirm or to deny," and after this opinion was rendered, the State convention adopted the resolution making the Democratic primaries a white man's primary," Mr. Buckner said.

"I agree with the Attorney General that the Democratic party has the right to select its own members, and I am constrained to believe the right thinking Negro has no desire to force himself into the Democratic primaries.

"As far as I am concerned, as chairman of the Dallas County Democratic Executive Committee, the opinion of the Attorney General will be be followed to the letter."

Campaign managers for State candidates and attaches in headquarters were silent on the negro ruling Friday, fearing that comment one way or the other would adversely affect their candidates. The sentiment was expressed privately by some, however, that Allred's ruling was of a political nature and that it would tend to gain votes among those bitterly opposed to Negroes entering the primaries. Whether true or not, the general belief has been that C. C. McDonald's candidacy for Governor would be aided more than any other by Negroes voting.

Interesting possibilities were seen by lawyers well versed in the law if Negroes go to the courts to force their way into the primary.

The legal profession generally has believed that the Supreme Court decision in the Nixon case left the way wide open for Negro participation and many of them were inclined Friday to continue to believe this way, in spite of the new ruling, which has no official standing in the courts.

A Dallas attorney who has been prominent in State politics commented Friday that the point upon which Allred based his ruling was knocked out by Federal Judge T. M. Kennerely of Houston in July, 1934.

"The Houston Federal Court ruling, in the case of White versus the Harris County Democratic Executive Committee, held that the State Democratic convention was an agency of the State and that therefore its resolution limiting the party to whites was invalid," this lawyer said. "Mr. Allred appears to have overlooked this ruling. As a lawyer, I don't see how he can get by with his ruling."

There are about 2,500 qualified negro voters in Dallas County, according to the Progressive Citizens' League, a negro political organization.

The Attorney General's ruling will have no effect in Tarrant County, in the opinion of County Chairman Hugh S. Small, who at the same time declared that "Allred's opinion can not usurp the opinion of the United States Supreme Court, which held in the Nixon case that Negroes could not be barred." Mr. Small said that Tarrant County has only 793 qualified negro voters, and that not more than 20 per cent were expected to vote.

In Harris County, County Clerk Albert Townsend faced a $10,000 damage suit which grew out of his refusal to give a Negro an absentee ballot. The suit was filed by C. F. Richardson, editor of the negro weekly paper, the Houston Defender. Richardson alleged that he was damaged to that extent because he was not allowed to cast an absentee ballot.

The suit was the second filed against Townsend in three days in connection with his alleged refusal to allow Negroes to vote. Julius White, president of the Harris County Democratic Club, Tuesday filed a mandamus to compel Townsend to permit White to vote an absentee ballot in the July 28 Democratic primary.

A resolution recently adopted by the County Democratic Executive Committee permitted none to vote in the primary who can not show that he has voted the Democratic ticket at least three times during the last six years.

DALLAS, TEX.
TIMES HERALD

JUL 13 1934

OLD PROBLEM REVIVED FOR PARTY HEADS

CANDIDATES FOR GOVERNOR CONTINUE DRIVE IN SEVEN CORNERED RACE

Where the candidates speak today:

For Governor.—C. C. Small, morning Mineola, Afternoon Quitman, night Marshall; Edgar E. Witt, Houston; Edward K. Russell, morning Goldthwaite, afternoon Lampasas and Georgetown, night Austin; C. C. McDonald, Sonora; James V. Allred, morning Commerce, afternoon Cooper, night Paris; Tom F. Hunter, San Antonio; Maury Hughes, morning Rockwall, afternoon Sulphur Springs, night Tyler.

For United States Senator.—Joseph W. Bailey, morning Nacogdoches, afternoon Crockett, night Palestine; Tom Connally, afternoon Vernon, night Wichita Falls.

For Attorney General.—William McCraw, Brenham; Clyde E. Smith, Waco; Walter Woodward, Luling, Lockhart and Bastrop.

Negro Vote Problem.

Austin, July 13 (AP).—County Democratic executive committees pondered today over a highly perplexing question—that of the right of negroes to vote in the July and August primaries of the Democratic party.

The problem, which had smoldered for weeks, was revived yesterday when Attorney General James V. Allred approved a departmental opinion holding negroes ineligible to vote in the party's primary elections. In certain counties it had been announced negroes would be permitted to vote.

Two negroes cast absentee ballots in Travis county and a special meeting of the executive committee has been called to pass on whether they will be accepted. In Harris county a suit is pending to force the county clerk to accept an absentee ballot presented by a negro.

Decision on the question was passed to the county committees when the state executive committee, in session a month ago, refused to act on a resolution that would have barred negroes from participation.

* * *

Party Rights Upheld.

The attorney general's decision upheld the right of the party to prescribe the qualifications of its members. It stated the negroes were barred through a resolution adopted in 1932 at the state Democratic convention and contended this action did not contravene a United States Supreme court decision holding the state executive committee could not bar negroes.

Complete co-operation between the state and federal governments was urged by Maury Hughes, gubernatorial candidate, in a speech last night at Denison.

"We simply cannot dump all our problems in the lap of the president and expect them to be solved overnight," Hughes said. "This state needs a governor who has the confidence of the president and who has demonstrated confidence and faith in his recovery program.

"I have given ample evidence of that faith," Hughes said, adding that he made 125 speeches as chairman of the NRA advisory board for Texas and worked for party support of the national program when he was chairman of the state Democratic executive committee.

Edward K. Russell, only candidate in the seven-cornered race who is against any tampering with the prohibition laws, levelled a blast at one of his opponents, C. C. Small, in a speech at Brownwood.

Small, according to Russell, is trying to "blow hot and blow cold" on the proposed repeal of the law permitting wagering on horse races.

"In the regular session of the forty-third legislature he voted for the bill legalizing gambling on horse races," Russell said. "Now he is trying to climb on Hunter's bandwagon and says he is in favor of repealing this law."

Small, addressing an East Texas rally of his supporters at Tyler, criticized the record of Allred in enforcing oil proration orders of the Texas railroad commission. He recommended establishment of a natural resources commission whose sole duty would be supervision of the oil industry.

Small blamed conditions in the East Texas field on failure to enforce the proration laws. "Oil is the state's major industry and it couldn't be in a more chaotic condition," he said.

* * *

Poll Tax Abolition.

Witt proposed abolition of the poll tax in a talk at Liberty, saying there was no justification for charging a citizen for the privilege of franchise. He suggested that the poll tax be removed from the masses with the revenue thus lost to be replaced by taxes on sources and resources able to bear it. He also said he would, if elected, seek to readjust taxes so that home owners would be relieved.

C. C. McDonald, at San Saba, spoke in favor of a sensible educational system that would not be subject to change annually. He recommended a per capita apportionment of $16 annually.

"Let us see that there are funds to meet it," he said. "And let our school boards see that no census rolls are padded, I do not want to see any of our schools junked or abandoned. I want to see every teacher paid a living salary at all times in cash."

Allred, terming McDonald the "Crown Prince" of former Governor James E. Ferguson, thrust sharply at Ferguson's support of McDonald, who is being backed by the administration. Ferguson is stumping the state for McDonald, his political lieutenant for years, and will speak tonight at Brenham.

* * *

Political Dynasty.

Allred said Ferguson was using his newspaper to perpetuate his "political dynasty" and to tell the voters how to vote.

"He is likely to find that the people of Texas are going to do the same thing that voters of Oklahoma did to Bill Murray's choice as his successor," Allred said.

"There is a growing resentment against the scheme of wood and water toter to stay at the helm of state government through the elec-

Tom F. Hunter spoke at Fort Worth.

Asserting that he was fighting the cause of the plain people, Hunter said it would be impossible for him to contact each voter in the state and urged his partisans to saddle "Old Beck" and "carry the message to the neighbors."

He promised his best efforts to cure the evils of the "utility monopoly, the oil trust and the chain store cancer."

HOUSTON, TEX.
POST

JUL 12 1934

NEGRO VOTING STRENGTH IN PORT NECHES AREA 13

PORT NECHES, July 12.—(Sp)—The mid-county area of Jefferson, composed of The Groves, Nederland and Port Neches, has a total vote of 2035, and only 13 of the votes out of the three boxes are negro votes.

Jefferson county political circles are aroused over negroes going to the polls on July 28, but negroes never have voted in the three boxes in this area.

THE FIGHT MUST GO ON

It makes no difference what kind of political opinions a prejudiced, office-seeking Attorney General may render, in a desperate effort to prevent Negroes from exercising their constitutional right to vote in the statutory Democratic Primary elections of Texas, the fight to vindicate and substantiate that right, guaranteed to us by the Constitution of the United States and the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States, must go on.

We must not be frightened; we must not be intimidated; we must not be bluffed into quitting the fight. Whether we win the immediate fight or not is to some extent unimportant; but to let Dan Moody, Jimmie Allred, the Ku Klux Klan, and the rest of that ilk know that we are in this fight to win, if it takes a hundred years, is all important.

THE FIGHT MUST GO ON, and it should go on upon every front, in every court, and in both civil and criminal actions, wherever the courts of the land are open to us to help stop this attempt to circumvent the Constitution and the Supreme Court of the United States.

DISFRANCHISEMENT FLARES ANEW IN TEXAS; ATTY. GEN. SAYS NEGRO IS INELIGIBLE TO VOTE

STATE RULING EVEN STUNS WHITE DEMOCRATS

Supreme Court Decisions Overruled

DALLAS, Texas, July 19.—(ANP)—After nearly everybody else in the state had "kicked in" on the issue of Negroes voting in the Democratic primary July 28, Attorney General James V. Allred delivered himself of a ruling Thursday to the effect that Negroes are not entitled to vote in the primary.

Allred's ruling even astonished the white Democratic leaders in many parts of the state who, in the light of decisions of the United States Eupreme Court, had decided that it was useless to further deny Negroes the privileges of the Democratic primary.

When the meeting of the Democratic state committee was held last month in Austin, the leaders quietly decided to remove the word "white" from the Democratic party pledge. Passively, they agreed that the United States Supreme court was right. The Austin American, daily newspaper, commented on the fact that no action was taken on the petition of colored leaders for a decision as to the eligibility of colored voters in the primary. The editor wrote:

"For that matter, no action was necessary. The supreme court of the United States in a Virginia and again in a Texas case held that committees or political organizations could not bar from primaries persons who are otherwise qualified on account of color. That is the ruling of the court of last resort of this republic.

"If law is law, it must be admitted that the brother in black has the best of the argument. He has behind him as well as before him the last word of the highest judicial tribunal in the land. It is well for the politicians, as well as the voters of all parties, to face the laws and the facts and the court decisions as they bob up in this history-making republic."

County committees began to fall in line with the action of the state committee. The Travis county Democratic committee, meeting a week after the state committee, ruled that Negroes would be allowed to vote in the July and August primaries.

"When the supreme court makes a decision, it becomes law and I feel it my duty to follow the law, regardless of what I think of it," stated J. M. Patterson, chairman of the county committee. "I am going to obey the edict of those higher up and follow the ruling of the state executive committee."

As a result of this action, Negroes throughout the state have been preparing to vote July 28. A meeting was held in this city Sunday, July 8, by the Progressive Voter's League, the object of which was to prepare Negroes to exercise the franchise rights in the 121 precincts of the county. Friday a meeting was scheduled to study the ballot and conduct a voting school.

While the state was thus preparing itself, Attorney General Allred upset the apple cart.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 13 1934

DEMS PONDER ALLRED'S BAN OF NEGRO VOTE

Harris County Suit Filed to Force Acceptance of Black's Ballot

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Tex., July 13 (AP). — County democratic executive committees pondered today over a highly perplexing question — that of the right of negroes to vote in the July and August primaries of the democratic party.

The problem, which had smoldered for weeks, was revived yesterday when Attorney General James V. Allred approved a departmental opinion holding negroes were ineligible to vote in the party's primary elections. In certain counties it had been announced negroes would be permitted to vote.

Two negroes cast absentee ballots in Travis County and a special meeting of the executive committee has been called to pass on whether they will be accepted. In Harris County a suit is pending to force the county clerk to accept an absentee ballot presented by a negro.

Decision on the question was passed to the county committees when the state executive committee, in session a month ago, refused to act on a resolution that would have barred negroes from participation.

The attorney general's decision upheld the right of the party to prescribe the qualifications of its members. It stated the negroes were barred through a resolution adopted in 1932 at the state democratic convention and contended this action did not contravene a United States Supreme Court decision holding the state executive committee could not bar negroes.

HUGHES PLEDGES CO-OPERATION.

Complete co-operation between the state and Federal governments was urged by Maury Hughes, gubernatorial candidate in a speech last night at Denison.

"We simply can not dump all our problems in the lap of the President and expect them to be solved overnight," Hughes said "This state needs a governor who has the confidence of the President and who has demonstrated confidence in faith in his recovery program.

"I have given ample evidence of that faith," Hughes said, adding that he made 125 speeches as chairman of the NRA advisory board for Texas and worked for party support of the national program when he was chairman of the state democratic executive committee.

Edward K. Russell, only candidate in the seven-cornered race who is against any tampering with the prohibition laws, levelled a blast at one of his opponents, C. C. Small, in a speech at Brownwood.

Small, according to Russell, is trying to "blow hot and blow cold" on the proposed repeal of the law permitting wagering on horse races.

"In the regular session of the 43d legislature he voted for the bill legalizing gambling on horse races," Russell said. "Now he is trying to climb on Hunter's band wagon and says he is in favor of repealing this law."

Small, addressing an East Texas rally of his supporters at Tyler, criticized the record of Allred in enforcing oil proration orders of the Texas railroad commission. He recommended establishment of a natural resources commission whose sole duty would be supervision of the oil industry.

Small blamed conditions in the East Texas field on failure to enforce the proration laws.

"Oil is the state's major industry and it couldn't be in a more chaotic condition," he said.

WITT WOULD WIPE OUT POLL TAX.

Witt proposed abolition of the poll tax in a talk at Liberty, saying there was no justification for charging a citizen for the privilege of franchise. He suggested that the poll tax be removed from the masses with the revenue thus lost to be replaced by taxes on sources and resources able to bear it. He also said he would, if elected, seek to readjust taxes so that home owners would be relieved.

C. C. McDonald, at San Saba, spoke in favor of a sensible educational system that would not be subject to change annually. He recommended a per capita apportionment of $16 annually.

"Let us see that there are funds to meet it," he said. "And let our school boards see that no census rolls are padded. I do not want to see any of our schools junked or abandoned. I want to see every teacher paid a living salary at all times in cash."

Allred, terming McDonald the "crown prince" of former Gov. James E. Ferguson, thrust sharply at Ferguson's support of McDonald, who is being backed by the administration. Ferguson is stumping the state for McDonald, his political lieutenant for years, and will speak tonight at Brenham.

Allred said Ferguson was using his newspaper to perpetuate his "political dynasty" and to tell the voters how to vote.

"He is likely to find that the people of Texas are going to do the same thing that voters of Oklahoma did to Bill Murray's choice as his successor," Allred said. "There is a growing resentment against the scheme of a wood and water toter to stay at the helm of state government through the election of his crown prince."

Tom F. Hunter spoke at Fort Worth.

Asserting that he was fighting the cause of the plain people, Hunter said it would be impossible for him to contact each voter in the state and urged his partisans to saddle "old Beck" and "carry the message to the neighbors."

He promised his best efforts to relieve real estate of taxes and to cure the evils of the "utility monopoly, the oil trust combination and the chain store cancer."

HOUSTON, TEX.
CHRONICLE

JUL 7 1934

NEGROES BARRED FROM PRIMARY BY "LOYALTY" RULE

Members of the Harris County Democratic executive committee, meeting in the court house Saturday afternoon, passed a resolution which does not mention negroes, but has the effect of keeping negroes from taking part in the Democratic primary.

The resolution was offered by Allen S. Shepherd and seconded by the shouts of five or six members.

Reading of the resolution brought an immediate protest from Morris Rosenthal, of precinct 35. His protest was drowned out by the pounding of the gavel of Joe E. Shaw, secretary of the committee, and chairman of the meeting.

The resolution provided that precinct judges require "everyone connected with the election to permit all persons to vote who may and shall identify themselves to the complete satisfaction of the officers of the election as to their legal residence in the state, county and precinct, and loyalty to the Democratic party, showing that they voted the Democratic ticket at least three times in the last six years; and to show that their parents voted the Democratic ticket at least three times in the last six years; and election judges shall make oath that they complied with this reso-

Negro Vote Ruling

By United Press.

AUSTIN, July 12. — Former Gov. James E. Ferguson today de-[illegible] question on to the various county [illegible] comment upon Attorney [illegible] executive committees. [illegible] General James V. Allred's ruling [illegible] that negroes may not vote in the [illegible] Democratic primary. In the Forum today Mr. Ferguson challenged a prediction that Ferguson was chairman of the [illegible] Texas, like Oklahoma, will reject [illegible] committee of the State Dem[illegible] the governor's candidate. He said [illegible] Executive Committee [illegible] Governor Murray's candidate suf[illegible] be [illegible] fered because Murray [illegible] disagreed with the [illegible] national administration.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
PRESS

JUL 12 1934

Ferguson Silent On

THE FIGHT MUST GO ON

It makes no difference what kind of political opinions a prejudiced, office-seeking Attorney General may render, in a desperate effort to prevent Negroes from exercising their constitutional right to vote in the statutory Democratic Primary elections of Texas, the fight to vindicate and substantiate that right, guaranteed to us by the Constitution of the United States and the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States, must go on.

We must not be frightened; we must not be intimidated; we must not be bluffed into quitting the fight. Whether we win the immediate fight or not is to some extent unimportant; but to let Dan Moody, Jimmie Allred, the Ku Klux Klan, and the rest of that ilk know that we are in this fight to win, if it takes a hundred years, is all important.

THE FIGHT MUST GO ON, and it should go on upon every front, in every court, and in both civil and criminal actions, wherever the courts of the land are open to us to help stop this attempt to circumvent the Constitution and the Supreme Court of the United States.

DISFRANCHISEMENT FLARES ANEW IN TEXAS; ATTY. GEN. SAYS NEGRO IS INELIGIBLE TO VOTE

STATE RULING EVEN STUNS WHITE DEMOCRATS

Supreme Court Decisions Overruled

DALLAS, Texas, July 19.—(ANP)—After nearly everybody else in the state had "kicked in" on the issue of Negroes voting in the Democratic primary July 28, Attorney General James V. Allred delivered himself of a ruling Thursday to the effect that Negroes are not entitled to vote in the primary.

Allred's ruling even astonished the white Democratic leaders in many parts of the state who, in the light of decisions of the United States Eupreme Court, had decided that it was useless to further deny Negroes the privileges of the Democratic primary.

When the meeting of the Democratic state committee was held last month in Austin, the leaders quietly decided to remove the word "white" from the Democratic party pledge. Passively, they agreed that the United States Supreme court was right. The Austin American, daily newspaper, commented on the fact that no action was taken on the petition of colored leaders for a decision as to the eligibility of colored voters in the primary. The editor wrote:

"For that matter, no action was necessary. The supreme court of the United States in a Virginia and again in a Texas case held that committees or political organizations could not bar from primaries persons who are otherwise qualified on account of color. That is the ruling of the court of last resort of this republic.

"If law is law, it must be admitted that the brother in black has the best of the argument. He has behind him as well as before him the last word of the highest judicial tribunal in the land. It is well for the politicians, as well as the voters of all parties, to face the laws and the facts and the court decisions as they bob up in this history-making republic."

County committees began to fall in line with the action of the state committee. The Travis county Democratic committee, meeting a week after the state committee, ruled that Negroes would be allowed to vote in the July and August primaries.

"When the supreme court makes a decision, it becomes law and I feel it my duty to follow the law, regardless of what I think of it," stated J. M. Patterson, chairman of the county committee. "I am going to obey the edict of those higher up and follow the ruling of the state executive committee."

As a result of this action, Negroes throughout the state have been preparing to vote July 28. A meeting was held in this city Sunday, July 8, by the Progressive Voter's League, the object of which was to prepare Negroes to exercise the franchise rights in the 121 precincts of the county. Friday a meeting was scheduled to study the ballot and conduct a voting school.

While the state was thus preparing itself, Attorney General Allred upset the apple cart.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
NEWS
JUL 13 1934

DEMS PONDER ALLRED'S BAN OF NEGRO VOTE

Harris County Suit Filed to Force Acceptance of Black's Ballot

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Tex., July 13 (AP). — County democratic executive committees pondered today over a highly perplexing question — that of the right of negroes to vote in the July and August primaries of the democratic party.

The problem, which had smoldered for weeks, was revived yesterday when Attorney General James V. Allred approved a departmental opinion holding negroes were ineligible to vote in the party's primary elections. In certain counties it had been announced negroes would be permitted to vote.

Two negroes cast absentee ballots in Travis County and a special meeting of the executive committee has been called to pass on whether they will be accepted. In Harris County a suit is pending to force the county clerk to accept an absentee ballot presented by a negro.

Decision on the question was passed to the county committees when the state executive committee, in session a month ago, refused to act on a resolution that would have barred negroes from participation.

The attorney general's decision upheld the right of the party to prescribe the qualifications of its members. It stated the negroes were barred through a resolution adopted in 1932 at the state democratic convention and contended this action did not contravene a United States Supreme Court decision holding the state executive committee could not bar negroes.

HUGHES PLEDGES CO-OPERATION.

Complete co-operation between the state and Federal governments was urged by Maury Hughes, gubernatorial candidate in a speech last night at Denison.

"We simply can not dump all our problems in the lap of the President and expect them to be solved overnight," Hughes said. "This state needs a governor who has the confidence of the President and who has demonstrated confidence in faith in his recovery program.

"I have given ample evidence of that faith," Hughes said, adding that he made 125 speeches as chairman of the NRA advisory board for Texas and worked for party support of the national program when he was chairman of the state democratic executive committee.

Edward K. Russell, only candidate in the seven-cornered race who is against any tampering with the prohibition laws, levelled a blast at one of his opponents, C. C. Small, in a speech at Brownwood.

Small, according to Russell, is trying to "blow hot and blow cold" on the proposed repeal of the law permitting wagering on horse races.

"In the regular session of the 43d legislature he voted for the bill legalizing gambling on horse races," Russell said. "Now he is trying to climb on Hunter's band wagon and says he is in favor of repealing this law."

Small, addressing an East Texas rally of his supporters at Tyler, criticized the record of Allred in enforcing oil proration orders of the Texas railroad commission. He recommended establishment of a natural resources commission whose sole duty would be supervision of the oil industry.

Small blamed conditions in the East Texas field on failure to enforce the proration laws.

"Oil is the state's major industry and it couldn't be in a more chaotic condition," he said.

WITT WOULD WIPE OUT POLL TAX.

Witt proposed abolition of the poll tax in a talk at Liberty, saying there was no justification for charging a citizen for the privilege of franchise. He suggested that the poll tax be removed from the masses with the revenue thus lost to be replaced by taxes on sources and resources able to bear it. He also said he would, if elected, seek to readjust taxes so that home owners would be relieved.

C. C. McDonald, at San Saba, spoke in favor of a sensible educational system that would not be subject to change annually. He recommended a per capita apportionment of $16 annually.

"Let us see that there are funds to meet it," he said. "And let our school boards see that no census rolls are padded. I do not want to see any of our schools junked or abandoned. I want to see every teacher paid a living salary at all times in cash."

Allred, terming McDonald the "crown prince" of former Gov. James E. Ferguson, thrust sharply at Ferguson's support of McDonald, who is being backed by the administration. Ferguson is stumping the state for McDonald, his political lieutenant for years, and will speak tonight at Brenham.

Allred said Ferguson was using his newspaper to perpetuate his "political dynasty" and to tell the voters how to vote.

"He is likely to find that the people of Texas are going to do the same thing that voters of Oklahoma did to Bill Murray's choice as his successor," Allred said. "There is a growing resentment against the scheme of a wood and water toter to stay at the helm of state government through the election of his crown prince."

Tom F. Hunter spoke at Fort Worth.

Asserting that he was fighting the cause of the plain people, Hunter said it would be impossible for him to contact each voter in the state and urged his partisans to saddle "old Beck" and "carry the message to the neighbors."

He promised his best efforts to relieve real estate of taxes and to cure the evils of the "utility monopoly, the oil trust combination and the chain store cancer."

HOUSTON, TEX.
CHRONICLE
JUL 7 1934

NEGROES BARRED FROM PRIMARY BY "LOYALTY" RULE

Members of the Harris County Democratic executive committee, meeting in the court house Saturday afternoon, passed a resolution which does not mention negroes, but has the effect of keeping negroes from taking part in the Democratic primary.

The resolution was offered by Allen S. Shepherd and seconded by the shouts of five or six members.

Reading of the resolution brought an immediate protest from Morris Rosenthal, of precinct 35. His protest was drowned out by the pounding of the gavel of Joe E. Shaw, secretary of the committee, and chairman of the meeting.

The resolution provided that precinct judges require "everyone connected with the election to permit all persons to vote who may and shall identify themselves to the complete satisfaction of the officers of the election as to their legal residence in the state, county and precinct, and loyalty to the Democratic party, showing that they have made they voted the Democratic ticket at least three times in the last six years; first voters required to show that their parents voted the Democratic ticket at least three times in the last six years; and election judges shall make oath that they complied with this reso-tion and that they have made of the other vote than that returns on no other vote than that coming under the provisions of the resolution.

The resolution was passed by a vote of 46 to 24.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
PRESS
JUL 12 1934

Negro Vote Ruling

By United Press.

AUSTIN, July 12. — Former Gov. James E. Ferguson today declined comment upon Attorney General James V. Allred's ruling that negroes may not vote in the Democratic primary.

Ferguson was chairman of the sub-committee of the State Democratic Executive Committee

Ferguson Silent On

Governor Murray's candidate because Murray disagreed with the national administration.

Political-1934

Suffrage

Texas.

DALLAS, TEX.
TIMES HERALD

JUN 18 1934

'PASSING BUCK' SCORED DURING SESSION HERE

TWO-PRIMARY SYSTEM TO BE CONTINUED, OFFICIALS DECIDE

ASSESSMENTS FIXED

Chairman Buckner Deplores Fact Negro Voting Spat Brought Up Again; Not Important

Election judges of Dallas county were told Monday, in effect, to let their conscience guide them about what action to take if negroes to present themselves at the polling places on the last Saturday next month and seek to vote.

At a noisy but harmonious session, an assembly of Democrats which overflowed Judge N. G. Williams' courtroom passed up the negro voting question, and decided to continue the dual primary system.

Chairman Murrell L. Buckner roundly criticized the state Democraic executive committee, which met in Austin last Monday, for failing to take action on the question of the "white man's primary."

He contended two years ago, following decision by the United States Supreme court on a case appealed from El Paso, that the highest court in the land had held that an election judge had no right to refuse to let a negro vote. Since the state committee took no action two years ago, nor again Monday, he said he didn't feel that the "buck should be passed" along to the county committees.

Won't Let Negroes Vote.

In the face of a motion to adjourn, with the committee still silent on the question, F. M. Ragsdale, veteran precinct committeeman and judge in precinct 19, the O. M. Roberts school neighborhood, arose and demanded to know if negroes are going to be allowed to vote.

"If they are, then they will send a negro up here the next time as precinct committeeman," he said.

Ragsdale revealed that two years ago a number of negroes presented themselves at his box and that he told them to get out. They threatened to send for their lawyer.

"Go get him and bring him here and I'll throw him out, too," he said he told them.

"I've never let negroes vote yet and I never will," he said.

Buckner deplored the fact that the question has been given such airing. Nobody would think anything about it if it wasn't discussed so much, he said. Only eleven negroes attempted to vote in 1932, according to his reports, Mr. Buckner said, and only two succeeded.

Mr. Buckner said it was entirely the committee's business to conduct the primary election, and not within the jurisdiction of the Commissioners' court. County Judge Robert Ogden agreed with him.

A large number of candidates were present at the session to observe the workings of the committee putting the election machinery in motion and to see the drawing for places on the ballot.

Charles A. Moore, for many years a precinct committeeman, made a plea for continuation of the dual primary system.

"It often happens that a man might have been nominated with only 22 per cent of the votes cast," Mr. Moore said. "If that happens, then we have no assurance that he will be elected in the fall. It is important to our party to have a run-off in order that we may be sure of nominating a man who will be satisfactory to a majority. "Other committeemen applauded his remarks and voted to continue the present system.

Worth S. Ray, candidate for the legislature, attempted twice before he succeeded in making a speech. He urged that candidates for the legislature be assessed $25 instead of the $1 levied at present to make it easier on other candidates.

To Change Law?

"The candidates for the legislature are only assessed $1 because the law provides it," Mr. Buckner replied. "But if I had anything to do with it, I'd assess them $100. We are preparing a bill to change that law."

Mr. Buckner reiterated his criticism of the state law which requires local candidates to pay for the expense of a run-off between state candidates.

"The attorney general's office has informed me, though," he said, "that under the present law there is nothing we can do about it. But I am having a bill drawn on that, too, which I hope will be passed by the next legislature. It isn't fair for local candidates to have to pay for the candidacies of others."

The report of Charles A. Moore, vice chairman of the finance committee, revealed that larger assessments were necessary this year because of the reduced number of candidates. Against 184 who paid their filing fees in 1932, it appears there will only be about 135 this year, he said.

Assessments in some cases were cut, but others increased. The candidates for congressman must pay $1,000 this year, against $1 per county in the district henceforward.

To Curb Expenses.

Mr. Moore and Mr. Buckner recited that 50 per cent of the assessments were returned in 1932, and said that diligence would be used again to keep expenses down.

"A man who was running for office and put up $1,000 and got beat sure had a grand and glorious feeling when he got half of it back," Mr. Buckner said.

Mr. Moore offered a resolution praising the service of Mr. Buckner as county chairman, and urging his re-election, and it was adopted.

The ballot committee was called to meet with the secretary, Robert S. Quillen, on June 25, to prepare the ballot and make other necessary arrangements for the election.

Candidates were told to have their certified checks on file with the secretary by next Saturday if they wanted their names on the ballot.

New Committeemen.

Vacancies created by deaths, resignations and removals from precincts were filled by the chairman and ratified by the committee. The following new committeemen were named:

A. J. Smith, 1024 Elm street, precinct 1.

L. E. Ashner, 1408 Pocahontas, precinct 2.

W. S. Bramlett, 4007 Bryan street, precinct 7.

Mrs. J. E. Jameson, 5520 Junius street, precinct 14.

W. W. Adair, 3606 Swiss avenue, precinct 15.

J. W. Sparkman, 3003 Cole avenue, precinct 24.

Spence Hardie, 418 West Twelfth street, precinct 29.

Mrs. King S. Williamson, 922 North Clinton, precinct 36.

W. S. Horton, 2304 Meadow street, precinct 47.

Floyd G. Smith, 5635 Oleander, precinct 49.

Mrs. Rachael Childers, route 1, precinct 65.

W. A. Brundage, Grand Prairie, precinct 82.

E. C. Tillman, 1608 South Polk street, precinct 88.

J. L. Crosthwait, 3709 Amherst avenue, precinct 121.

Assessments Fixed.

Assessments of the candidates, fixed by the finance committee, and approved by the committee, follow:

Congress, Fifth district	$1,000
Judge Criminal District court	790
Judge 44th District court	790
Judge 68th District court	750
Judge 101st District court	790
Judge 116th District court	750
District attorney	780
District clerk	780
Sheriff	780
County judge	830
County clerk	780
Tax assessor and collector	780
Judge County court at law No. 1	600
Judge County court at law No. 2	600
Judge County Criminal court	640
County treasurer	525
County school superintendent	575
County surveyor	50
County commissioners	500
Justice of the peace, Precinct No. 1, Place No. 1	480
Justice of the peace, Precinct No. 1, Place No. 2	505
Justice of the Peace, Precinct No. 2, Carrollton	18
Justice of the Peace, Precinct No. 3, Garland	30
Justice of the Peace, Precinct No. 4, Mesquite	30
Justice of the Peace, Precint No. 5, Lancaster	12
Justice of the Peace, Precinct No. 6, Cedar Hill	12
Justice of the Peace, Precinct No. 1, Place No. 1	180
Justice of the Peace, Precinct No. 1, Place No. 2	400
Justice of the Peace, Precinct No. 8, Irving	12
Constable, Precinct No. 1 (Dallas)	480
Constable, Precinct No, 2 (Carrollton)	30
Constable, Precinct No. 3 (Garland)	30
Constable, Precinct No. 4 (Mesquite)	30
Constable, Precinct No. 5 (Lancaster)	12
Constable, Precinct No. 6 (Cedar Hill)	12
Constable, Precinct No. 7 (Oak Cliff)	200
Constable, Precinct No. 8 (Irving)	12
Public weigher, Precinct No. 1 (Dallas)	30
Public weigher, Precinct No. 2 (Carrollton, Richardson)	18
Public weigher, Precinct No. 3 (Garland)	30
Public weigher, Precinct No. 4 (Mesquite)	30
Public weigher, Precinct No. 5 (Lancaster)	12
Public weigher, Precinct No. 6 (Cedar Hill)	12
Public weigher, Precinct No. 7 (Grand Prairie)	30
Public weigher, Precinct No. 8 (Irving)	12
County chairman	1
Precinct committeemen	1

Wichita Falls, Tex.
TIMES

JUN 13 1934

THE NEGRO AND THE PRIMARY

The state Democratic executive committee announced at Monday's meeting that negroes would not be officially barred from participating in the primary this year. The announcement implies that the committee could bar the negroes if it wanted to, which isn't the case; unless the committee were to disregard the mandate of the United States supreme court, it couldn't do otherwise than leave the bars down.

There is only one way, if we correctly understand the supreme court's position in the matter, in which the Democratic primary can be made a white man's primary. That is for the legislature to repeal all laws governing the primaries and to leave the method of making party nominations entirely up to the parties themselves. So long as primaries are under the regulation and protection of the state, as they now are, the negro cannot be barred. On the other hand, it is very difficult to see how a primary could be held without state laws to regulate it.

Another way to keep the negro from having a voice in Democratic nominations would be to abandon the primary system altogether and return to the old convention system. There are some impressive arguments in favor of such a step, entirely aside from the question of negro participation, but the public would not be willing to give up the primary system.

Whatever the final action, negroes can vote in the primary this year. It remains to be seen to what extent they will avail themselves of this right. Our guess is that in the larger cities where negroes are numerous but where they constitute a relatively small part of the electorate, the negro vote will be considerable. In the dozen or so rural counties, mostly in the region between Waco and Houston, where the negro population is about equal to the white, and where general participation in the primary by the negroes would make them a very potent political factor, there probably will not be many negroes to vote.

We shall have a clearer picture of what negro participation means, after the primaries are held. We may see that it means too little to cause further concern to the legislature.

HOUSTON, TEX.
POST

JUN 19 1934

County Group Fails to Act on Negro Voting

Highest Assessments in Years Imposed Upon Candidates.

By ED KILMAN.

At a meeting marked by the absence of the usual fireworks, the

FORT WORTH, TEX.
PRESS
JUN 18 1934

ALLOW NEGROES PRIMARY VOTE

County Demo Executive Committee Halts Move To Ban Race

The Tarrant County Democratic Executive Committee today halted efforts to ban negro votes in the July 28 primary, and assessed county candidates a total of $17,500 for primary election costs.

Chairman Hugh L. Small of the committee also appointed precinct chairman for precincts in which no chairman was elected by voters and in which chairmen have moved away, resigned or died.

The only discord broke over the negro vote question. Judge Small cited a U. S. Supreme Court opinion holding that county committees were without authority to prescribe qualifications for voters.

When W. C. Wehrs offered a resolution to put the committee on record as favoring a "white man's primary," Tom Shankle pleaded a point of order, contending that the July 28 primary is a Democratic affair and, resultantly, negro Democrats are entitled to vote.

The committee sustained Mr Shankle.

H. R. Johnson, negro leader, declared that "there is not a more loyal set of Democratic votes in this county than those of the negroes."

Another negro speaker, Phil Register, assured the committee there would be no disturbance at the polls.

An assessment committee, headed by Joe Steadham, assessed candidates as follows:

District judge, district attorney, district clerk, county judge, county assessor and collector, and sheriff, $500; county court-at-law judge, $350; county commissioners, $260; superintendent of county schools, $200; county treasurer, $125; justice of the peace, precinct 1, $275; justice, precinct 2, $40; justice, precinct 3, $10; justice precinct 8, $15; other justice precincts $5; constable, precinct 1, $275; constable, precinct 2, $20; constable, precinct 8, $10, and other constable candidates $5; public weigher, precinct 8, $15, and other weigher candidates $5 (except precinct 1, in which there is no fee).

Harris county Democratic executive committee Monday determined the order of candidates' names on the July 28 primary ballot, fixed the assessments to be charged the district, county and precinct candidates, decided to have a county runoff election and filled numerous vacancies on the committee.

The meeting was held in the district courtroom of Judge Allen B. Hannay. It was attended by most of the Harris county candidates affected, political observers, and a sprinkling of negroes.

The issue which had been anticipated with the most widespread interest — whether or not negroes should be permitted to vote in the Democratic primaries—was saved until last and then was avoided by adoption of an abrupt motion to adjourn.

This was so unexpected as to have somewhat the effect of a bombshell for John B. (Shorty) Lubbock, chairman of the committee, had announced last week that he would submit the question for a majority vote, and the crowd was primed for an earful of pithy debate and no telling what results.

"I changed my mind about submitting it," Mr. Lubbock told The Post after the meeting.

Two years ago the committee vigorously refused to admit negroes to the primaries. This year the state Democratic executive committee, acting upon recommendations of a subcommittee, headed by James E. Ferguson, proxy committeeman, and others favoring the candidacy of C. C. McDonald of Wichita Falls or governor, passed the question of negro voting up to the individual county committees. This action was generally hailed as favorable to the negroes and the Harris county committee's silence, in view of its emphatic attitude in the past, was still more pleasing to negroes here, according to comment of their leaders who attended the meeting.

The committee imposed the highest assessments in years upon district, county and precinct candidates, ranging from $800 for offices paying the highest remuneration down to $10 for the lowest. It was explained that the increase was due to the fact that fewer candidates than usual had filed for the higher-bracket offices, necessitating higher fees for them all in order to raise the amount of money necessary to hold the first and second primary elections.

Vacancies Filled.

Probably the most noteworthy feature of the meeting, aside from its avoidance of the negro question, was the unusual number of committee vacancies, especially those that had to be filled by reason of members having been disqualified by entering the employ of the city and county governments. Eight places were re-filled because of these disqualifications, and two or three others were unsuccessfully attempted. In addition, 21 regular vacancies were filled by elections.

A small quorum answered the opening roll call, but in most of the ballots taken on election of members and other questions, less than a quorum voted. In some instances less than 50 of the 140 members of the full committee voted.

Chairman Lubbock called the meeting to order shortly after 9:30 a. m., expressing pride in the fact that Harris county has the largest number of poll taxes and exemptions in its history, and the largest of any county in the state.

He stressed the importance of the powers of precinct judges in elections, urging them to use common sense and politeness "to see that every candidate gets every vote cast for him."

"All my life," he continued, "I have heard talk of crooked voting, and I have served in elections for 20 years myself, but I have yet to see any dishonest conduct in a voting box."

The chairman presented Charles Kamp, former secretary of the committee, now assistant district attorney, extolling his work for the committee and calling upon him for a greeting. Mr. Kamp rose from the audience, smiling, and spoke briefly.

Then Lubbock turned the gavel over to Jo E. Shaw, the new secretary, with a tribute to his service.

Mr. Shaw quickly got down to business, first reading the statute prescribing the qualifications of committeemen, which prohibits anyone holding paying public office or position except notary public from serving on a committee. Then he asked if any members present were disqualified by this statute. Members from precincts 20, 92, 49 and 113 responded and were declared non-members without a voice in the meeting.

Ballots Taken.

Nominations were received and ballots taken, resulting in the filling of vacancies as follows:

Precinct 15, J. A. Reed; precinct 20, Dan C. Smith Jr.; precinct 22, E. R. Coffey; precinct 25, Van Curtis; precinct 29, D. B. Jarvis; precinct 32, R. E. Patterson; precinct 37, Alex Illig; precinct 45, A. J. Maxey; precinct 49, G. H. Clede; precinct 56, Dr. A. L. Miller; precinct 69, W. S. Murdock; precinct 92, Hurman Tullis; precinct 95, Dick Hausendenfel; precinct 102, W. J. (Josh) Wells; precinct 113, H. C. Bammel; precinct 123, Sam P. Swinford; precinct 127, W. W. Baker; precinct 134, W. E. Trautwein; precinct 142, Mrs. J. H. Gatton; precinct 75, Mrs. H. L. Schooley; precinct 141, Roy Thayer; precinct 137, Archie Damon; precinct 62, Mrs. L. P. Tuttle; precinct 42, Robert Swilley; precinct 28, T. Bob.

Committeeman Allen S. Shepherd moved that the chairman of precinct 76 be declared disqualified and replaced. He asserted that the chairman had never actively served.

Protests against the replacement were raised and Shaw ruled that, since the people had elected the chairman, the committee had not the power to remove him except for disqualifications prescribed by the law.

After filling all the known vacancies the committee voted to authorize the chairman to fill any others that may develop.

Assessments Adopted.

Next the matter of assessments was brought up, and Committeeman M. L. O. Andrews submitted a report and recommendations made by a subcommittee of which he was chairman, after investigating the situation. The subcommittee's report contained estimates of the assessments which it thought necessary to finance the elections, explaining why the amounts were higher than they have been in the past.

The assessments recommended by the subcommittee were adopted without debate, as follows:

Criminal district attorney, $800; sheriff, $800; tax assessor and collector, $800; civil district clerk, $800; county clerk, $800; county judge, $800; judge of the Fifty-fifth judicial district court, $750; judge of the One Hundred and Thirteenth judicial district court, $750; county commissioners, $600; judge, county court at law No. 1, $650; judge, county court at law No. 2, $650; justice of the peace, precinct 1, position 1, $600; justice of the peace, precinct 1, position 2, $600; county treasurer, $200; county surveyor, $150; constable, precinct 1, $450; justice of the peace, precinct 2, $175; constable, precinct 2, $150; justice of the peace, precinct 3, $50; constable, precinct 3, $50; justice of the peace and constable, all other precincts, $10 each.

Committeeman Morris Rosenthal raised an objection to the amount assessed against candidates for county commissioner, declaring that $600 was out of proportion to the commissioner's salary.

"We thought so, too," replied Andrews, "but the candidates said they were willing to pay it."

Members of the assessments committee, besides Mr. Andrews, were John B. Lubbock, Carlton Moore, C. L. Darden, Allen S. Shepherd and H. L. Mitchell.

Pay Plan Adopted.

Mr. Shepherd pointed out that there were approximately 35 candidates for state offices whose names must go on the county ticket without charge, they paying a $100 fee to the state committee, and that about 40 were running for the state legislature here and contributing only $1 each toward the cost of the election, leaving only about 20 candidates who will contribute $10 or more. This state of affairs, he said, accounts for the increase in assessments.

He suggested a plan of fixing the pay of election clerks according to the number of poll taxes and exemptions in their respective precincts. The set-up provided for the payment of $4 to clerks of boxes with 100 or less qualified voters, and 50 cents for each 100 qualified voters over 100, up to 1800, which was fixed as the top limit at 12.50. The plan also called for three clerks in each box having 100 or less qualified voters, and one additional clerk for each additional 100 votes, up to the limit of 11 clerks.

This plan was adopted by vote, although some members protested that there were some exemptions outside the city not recorded in the tax collector's records.

Dudley Asks Supervisors.

A communication from Henry M. Dudley, candidate for county clerk, was read, submitting a petition asking that a supervisor for Dudley and another for his opponent, County Clerk Albert Townsend, be appointed to check absentee ballots received by the county clerk. Dudley said he had suggested to Townsend that each designate such a supervisor at his own expense, and that Townsend had said he had no objection to the supervisors, but that he did not wish to pay for one, inasmuch as there were deputies in his office who could perform the service.

Carlton Moore moved that Townsend and Dudley be permitted to address the committee, but before action could be taken on this the committee adopted another motion to table Dudley's petition.

Committeeman M. M. Middleton of Galena Park moved that the committee table the petition without consuming any further time, and go on with the business at hand.

Moore urged that the committee reconsider its action in tabling the petition until the two candidates could be heard. His demand was overruled, and the group was about to take up the question of a runoff primary, when Mr. Townsend, standing near the chairman, raised his voice.

"I don't want the impression to be gained that I am standing in the way of any supervisions of ballots," he said, "but we have an important matter to discuss before this committee, and I think it is only fair that we be given a hearing.

Townsend Ends Wrangle.

The committee plunged into another wrangle, but Townsend ended it by withdrawing his request.

Shaw invited motions to have a runoff primary or not, and H. W. Miller of precinct 82 moved that a runoff election be held.

"We've got to have a runoff, whether we want it or not," observed Mr. Shepherd. "The law specifically requires it."

This ended the discussion. A vote was taken ordering the runoff election without dissent.

This brought the committee to its final regular business—determining the order in which candidates' names will be printed on the ballot.

Shaw read the list of state candidates as certified by J. K. Brim of Sulphur Springs, chairman of the state committee.

"I move that we adopt the state ticket in order given the candidates names by the state committee," said Mr. Rosenthal.

Names Drawn.

He had a written statement of his motion ready to offer when the question came up, but Rosenthal's motion died when a substtiute, offered by Mr. Andrews was adopted, calling for the drawing of lots for places.

The names of all candidates were placed in a straw hat held aloft by Committeeman Middleton, and the drawing was done by Mrs. N. B. Moses, 606 West Gray avenue, and Mrs. S. E. Ricker, 1719 Maury street.

It took nearly an hour to draw the names of the 156 state, district, county and precinct candidates to appear on the ballot (provided all pay their assessments). Some of the audience applauded when the name of Joe Bailey was drawn and announced as the candidate winning top place in the list of candidates for United States senator. Senator Tom Connally drew bottom position, which is regarded as about as good as the top. Lieutenant Governor Edgar Witt's name was the first drawn for governor; Senator Walter Woodward's for attorney general, and Senator Joe Moore for lieutenant governor.

Following the drawing of all names for the primary ticket, the committee drew for places of opposed candidates for precinct committeemen in the primary.

This out of the way, it was thought that the question of negro voting had finally been reached. But almost before those interested in the controversy were aware what had happened Mr. Middleton made a motion to adjourn and it was promptly adopted.

Political — 1934

Suffrage.

Texas.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
EVENING STAR TELEGRAM

JUN 18 1934

ELECTION JUDGES TO PASS ON NEGRO VOTE

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE REFUSES TO RULE

Opening the meeting with a prayer for better government, the Tarrant County Democratic Executive Committee Monday began preparing the July 28 ballot but declined to act on the question of permitting negroes to vote.

Thus the negro vote question will be left up to individual election judges, who will face legal entanglements if they refuse negroes admittance to the polls.

Hugh L. Small, chairman, explained that recent Supreme Court rulings have held that a party committee has no authority to pass on the qualification of voters and that to deny negroes a vote in the primary would be a violation of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution.

The committee assessed election fees sufficient to raise $17,000 for covering the cost of the primary in this county, and elected precinct chairmen to fill vacancies on the committee.

All but Five Present.

One hundred and one of the 106 committeemen were present when the meeting opened in Ninety-sixth District Court room.

There was considerable debate, pro and con, on the negro vote question and two negro speakers pleaded for the right to vote.

Chairman Small raised the question when he reported that he had received court rulings. He explained that several Texas counties permitted negroes to vote in the Democratic primaries two years ago, but few took advantage of it. In Dallas, for instance, only 26 negroes voted in the first primary.

W. C. Wehres moved that the committee vote in favor of a "white man's primary." This motion later was lost when a point of order was raised stating the motion was "in conflict with the Constitution."

"This election is not a fight between the white man and the negro," Tom Shankle declared. "The Supreme Court ruling is final. No one can fear negro dominance at the polls. There are not more than 16 negro voters in each precinct.

Would Work in Harmony.

H. R. Johnson, negro, assistant principal of the Terrell High School, told the committee that "the negroes only want the right to work in harmony with white people."

"We have lived among white people all of our lives," he said. "We don't want to live anywhere except in the South. We gave heavily for the Roosevelt Ball. We support the party and only ask the right to vote. We are not coming with the law or legal aspects—but only a plea for the right to vote."

Small interrupted at this point to remark: "I have done all I could the last 10 years to keep negroes out of the primary, but this decision has convinced me personally."

Phil R. Register, negro, promised that "we won't disturb the peace."

"What could we do?" he asked. "We could only vote peacefully."

Assessments Are Made.

Explaining that the 1932 primaries cost $16,780.64, the committee on assessments submitted its list which was adopted without change. It assesses $500 for each candidate for Criminal District Judge, District Attorney, District and County Clerk, Sheriff, Assessor and Collector, and the County Judge.

Other assessments follow:

Judges of the County Courts at Law, 1 and 2, $350 each; Treasurer $125; County Superintendent, $200; County Commissioners, $260; Justice of the Peace, Precinct 1, Places 1 and 2, $275; Constable, Precinct 1, $275; Justices of the Peace, Precinct 2, $40; Precinct 3, $10; Precincts 4, 5, 6 and 7, $5, and Precinct 8, $15; Constables, Precinct 2, $20; Precinct 3, $10; Precincts 4, 5, 6 and 7, $5; Precinct 8, $10.

Candidates for Public Weigher will pay $5 each except in Precinct 8, which is $15.

Chairmen Are Elected.

The assessment for justices of the Court of Civil Appeals, Congressmen, State Senator and State Representatives is fixed by law at $1 each.

At the outset the committeemen elected precinct chairmen to fill vacancies left from the 1932 campaign. The following were elected to places not previously filled: Precinct No. 1, T. J. Shankle; No. 15, J. O. Hildreth; No. 17, Emmett Curran; No. 37, T. J. Mumford; No. 44, G. W. Duke; No. 45, Joe Penington; No. 56, S. J. Miller; No. 58, Mrs. A. D. Rickard; No. 62, W. M. Short; No. 69, J. A. Francisco; No. 80, Frank J. Evans; No. 98, J. M. Hard; No. 102, J. H. Wheeler.

The following were elected to places left vacant by the death or resignation of chairmen elected two years ago: No. 3, R. S. Awalt; No 20, J. L. Farmer; No. 10, W. E. Rickard; No. 25, J. E. Dickinson; No. 26 W. B. Collins; No. 66, C. E. Rutledge No. 74; H. L. Collins; No. 84, Will L Sargent; No. 86, J. C. Steele; No. 87 J. P. Elder; No. 90, Tommy Forbes No. 101, Cliff Magers; No. 104, Ed Cathey; No. 75, S. N. Lanham, and No. 6, Marvin C. Coffey.

AUSTIN, TEX.
STATESMAN

JUN 13 1934

NEGRO VOTES IN DEM PRIMARY QUESTIONED

By MORRIS MIDKIFF
The Austin Statesman Staff

What will Travis county's democratic executive committee, when it meets here next Monday, June 18, do about the negro voters?

That is a question political aspirants and many ordinary voters, as well, were puzzling this week, since the state executive committee took no action on the matter.

Failure Monday of the state committee to act put the matter of admitting the negro to or barring him from the 1934 democratic primary elections up to executive committees in the various counties of the state. Heretofore negroes have been barred, except in a few Texas counties, from participation in democratic party doings.

✦ ✦ ✦

Refused Here

Two years ago a few negroes presented themselves at several Austin election boxes, showed their polltax receipts, cleamed they were democrats and insisted on being allowed to vote. All were refused, however.

This year there are approximately 3500 negroes qualified to vote in Travis county according to Tax Collector Karl H. Schmidt. This number is greatly in excess of that of any previous year and represents about one-eighth of the country's voting strength.

If the negroes are to be permitted the right to vote in the county's democratic primaries, that number of voters is to be reckoned with. Hence the watchful waiting on the part of political aspirants.

✦ ✦ ✦

Can't Prophesy Action

J. M. Patterson, democratic executive committee chairman, Wednesday refused to comment on the matter except to say that it would no doubt be one of the important questions before the county committee next Monday.

"I cannot prophesy what action the committee will take," Mr. Patterson said. "I have not talked to any of the precinct chairmen and would not venture a guess as to what will be done about the matter."

The county executive committee at its meeting Monday also will determine the order of names on the primary ballot, estimate the cost of the election and apportion the costs name a primary committee of five members, name the election judges and fix the time and place for holding precinct conventions. Mr Patterson announced.

Aspirants to state offices are assessed a $100 filing fee, but the filing fee for county candidates will be determined by the executive committee.

Costs About Same

Due to the increased number of candidates for some of the county offices the assessment likely will be about the same as that two years ago, despite the fact that none of judgeships are held this year, Mr Patterson said.

Also if the committee upholds its chairman's recommendation to assess each candidate for the legislature $50 instead of the usual $1, the election cost will be more equally distributed among the candidatees. Chmn. Patterson said he would strongly urge the committee to assess each legislative candidate $50.

Appointment of the powerful primary committee is another matter of importance particularly as concerns one race. This committee which passes on the qualifications of the candidates probably will be called upon to pass upon the eligibility of H. C. Nelle to run for county commissioner of Precinct 1

✦ ✦ ✦

Nelle Question Up

Mr. Nelle until recently was a resident of commissioner's Precinct 2, and a question exists as to whether he will be permitted to place his name on the Precinct 1 ballots.

Other routine matters to be decided next Monday by the county executive committee are those of fixing the precinct convention time and places and filling any vacancies that exist in the county committee

It has been customary in the past to hold the precinct conventions at 2 p. m. at the rural voting boxes on primary election day, and at 8 p. m. in the urban election precincts.

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS

JUN 17 1934

Right of Negroes To Primary Vote Again Live Issue

State Democratic Committee Leaves Question Up to County Rulings

BY WILLIAM M. THORNTON,
Staff Correspondent of The News.

AUSTIN, Texas, June 16.—Whether Negroes are to vote at the Democratic primaries this summer will be a live and possibly bitter question in several counties, the United States Supreme Court in the Dixon case from El Paso having held that they were entitled to participate. The decision was based on the fact that Texas makes primary elections governmental functions since it enacted laws governing them and all citizens stand alike before the law.

In Austin Monday, the State Democratic Committee refused to say yea or nay to the pleas of a Negro delegation which asked for a declaration admitting the race to the primaries. This puts the matter up to the several counties. Elections judges refusing admission to a qualified voter subject themselves to damages and they were claimed in the first test cases brought by Negroes to vote in El Paso. This makes it dangerous in some of the counties and that liability may cause judges to open the polls to the Negroes to avoid suits.

According to common report, Negroes have voted in Bexar, Galveston and other counties, once 5,000 in Bexar, and they want the privilege in all other counties. However, there are a number of counties where the Negroes will not offer to vote for fear of results. In the larger counties such a fear does not exist.

Aid to One Candidate.

As was to be expected, rumors already have started that the admission of Negroes will aid one gubernatorial candidate more than all the others and that this explained, in part the passive attitude of the State committee in not declaring itself one way or the other. On the other side, however, is the statement that the committee pursued the right course, as it could not go counter to the high court's decision by barring Negroes and that it discreetly did not admit them by affirmative action.

This summer's election will determine whether the house of Lattimore is to have a lead in Texas politics, the same as that of Mayfield and of Terrell a few years ago. The Mayfields and the Terrells pre-empted ordinary departmental jobs but the Lattimores confine their aspirations to the higher courts.

Judge Offa Shivers Lattimore of the Court of Criminal Appeals, with many years service on that bench, now has a son who is a candidate for a place on the Supreme Court. He is Associate Justice Hal Lattimore of the Fort Worth Court of Civil Appeals, who would succeed to the place to be vacated by Associate Justice T. B. Greenwood, not a candidate for re-election. He filed as H. S. Lattimore. His father is O. S. Lattimore.

If Judge Hal Lattimore succeeds, he and his father will be members of the courts of last resort in Texas, of civil and criminal jurisdiction, respectively, a situation never before had in this State. Furthermore, the two courts hold their weekly sessions on the same day and at the same hour and the court chambers are opposite each other, across a corridor on the third floor of the Capitol. Thus father and son would be on the bench at the same time a few feet distant and as members of the highest tribunals.

Mayfields and Terrells.

At one time Allison Mayfield and his cousin Earle Mayfield were members of the Railroad Commission. Allison Mayfield had been a member for years and Earle was elected to that body while serving in the Texas Senate and later to the United States Senate. The name Mayfield was one to conjure with in Texas politics. Allison Mayfield is dead and Earle Mayfield is in retirement.

H. B. Terrell was at one time State Comptroller and later his son, S. H. Terrell, was elected to the same place while C. V. Terrell served as Senator, Treasurer and now Railroad Commissioner, with George B. Terrell a State legislator, Commissioner of Agriculture and at present Congressman at Large. The Terrell name also had heavy drawing power at the polls. It remains to be seen whether the Lattimore name will have the same effect and a Judge's son be elected Judge.

Opposing Judge Hal Lattimore are James W. McClendon, Chief Justice of the Austin Court of Civil Appeals, and Judge John H. Sharp of the Commission of Appeals to the Supreme Court.

Judge O. S. Lattimore's term on the Court of Criminal Appeals expires Jan. 1, 1937, and to continue in office he will have to be a successful candidate in the primaries of 1936.

Of the original house of Terrell only C. V. Terrell on the Railroad Commission will continue in office after the current elections as Congressman George B. Terrell is voluntarily retiring. H. B. Terrell has been dead a number of years and S. H. Terrell is engaged in private business having resigned as Comptroller some time ago. All the Terrells were closely related.

Assumes Terrell Name.

Last week in Dallas, Jefferson T. Baker had his name changed by court orders to George B. Terrell and under it filed as a candidate for State Treasurer. He evidently thinks the name Terrell is still one of preferment in Texas politics. He adopted the same name as that of the retiring Congressman at Large, and the State committee Monday voted him a place on the ticket in the July 28 primary.

Still another Terrell goes on the primary ballot, the committee having certified K. Terrell of Floyd County as a candidate for Commissioner of Agriculture.

Six candidates for Congress have announced in the newly created Seventh District in East Texas and a lively campaign is under way. Most of the counties formerly were in the Galveston shoestring district.

The candidates are W. D. Justice of Athens, District Attorney whose judicial district embraces three counties in the congressional district; Senator Nat Patton of Crockett, who has eight of his senatorial counties in the new district; Bonner Frizzell, Superintendent of Schools at Palestine; Roger Davis of Nacogdoches, Col. J. Lewis Thompson of Woodlake and Ivy Fulgham of Brownsboro, Henderson County.

Justice and Patton are battling hard with Frizzell, regarded as a dangerous dark horse. Davis is comparatively new to the district while Thompson is making no campaign thus far.

Counties composing the Seventh District are Houston, Montgomery, San Jacinto, Polk, Henderson, Anderson, Trinity, Walker, Grimes, Madison, Cherokee and Nacogdoches.

Ninth District Situation.

Only in the Ninth or revised Galveston district are two present Congressmen placed together, being J. J. Mansfield of Columbus, Colorado County, a veteran member, and Major Clark Thompson of Galveston, newly elected to succeed the late Clay S. Briggs. Mansfield is chairman of the Rivers and Harbors Committee, to which Galveston looks for large and continued appropriations for deep water and harbor protection and improvements. As a result, Mansfield will have the field to himself, Thompson not seeking re-election.

Ninth District counties are Colorado, Matagorda, Goliad, Brazoria, Fort Bend, Wharton, Jackson, Victoria, Austin, Waller, Calhoun, Galveston, Lavaca, Chambers and Fayette.

A warm contest for Congress has developed in the newly created Nineteenth District, which does not have a member resident in any of its counties and therefore the candidates are all new to the congressional field.

Candidates are State Senator Arthur P. Duggan of Littlefield, District Judge Clark Mullican of Lubbock, District Attorney George Mahon of Colorado City and Fred Hale of Spur. This district comprises the counties of Bailey, Lamb, Hale, Cochran, Hockley, Floyd, Lubbock, Crosby, Dickens, King, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Garza, Kent, Stonewall, Haskell, Gaines, Dawson, Borden, Scurry, Mitchell, Andrews, Martin and Howard.

Bexar County constitutes the only other district which does not now have a Congressman. There are four candidates, all from San Antonio, seeking the place there, being Maury Maverick, County Tax Collector; C. Q. Quin, Mayor of San Antonio; John K. Weber, for many years county Democratic chairman and prominent attorney, and Thurman Barrett, realtor.

Four Candidates Running.

There are four candidates in the only other new district without a resident Congressman, being the Thirty-First in the Middle West and including the counties of Sterling, Coke, Runnels, Coleman, Irion, Tom Green, Concho, San Saba, McCulloch, Mills, Lampasas, Schleicher, Menard, Mason, Llano, Kimble, Gillespie, Real, Kendall, Kerr, Bandera, Sutton, Edwards, Kinney, Uvalde, Brown and Val Verde.

Aspirants for Congress in this newly carved district are C. L. South of Coleman, District Attorney in the Thirty-Fifth Judicial District; Culberson Deal of San Angelo, former City Commissioner and now business man; E. E. (Pat) Murphy, San Angelo attorney and one-time candidate for Congress in the old Sixteenth District, and Carl Runge of Mason, former District Judge who retired two years ago to look after his business interests. All are actively campaigning.

It was thought that Representative Penrose B. Metcalfe of San Angelo would be a congressional candidate, but he chose to run for the Senate. He was chairman of the House Committee on Congressional Redistricting and some who did not like his apportionment plan accused him of trying to make a district to elect himself to Congress. He fooled them by not being a candidate but is running for the Senate and is opposed by E. M. Davis of Brownwood, a member of the House of the Forty-Second Legislature. Metcalfe originated much important legislation. His senatorial district contains many of the counties of his new congressional district where he might have stood a good chance of going to Congress.

DALLAS, TEX.
TIMES HERALD

JUN 19 1934

COURT RULINGS WON'T CHANGE OLD PRACTICES

LACK OF ENFORCEMENT CLAUSE IN NEW ELECTION LAW IS CITED

Although the fifteenth amendment has been a part of the United States constitution for nearly three-quarters of a century, it has failed to change sectional election practices, and there is no indication that it will be done this year.

..lection udges in Dallas county were told Monday at the Dallas Democratic eecutive committee meeting that it is entirely up to them whether they recognie negro voters. They were told the same thing two years ago, and most of them refused to let the negroes vote.

A review of civil and criminal statutes Tuesday indicated that election judges will not have much to worry about by following their practices of other years.

The old Texas law which said that "under no circumstances shall a negro be permitted to participate in a Democratic primary" was held unconstitutional by the United States Supreme court. The highest tribunal invoked the fourteenth, rather than the fifteenth amendment, in nullifying the law. The former reads that "no state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States."

State Primary Law.

With the old law useless, the Texas legislature passed another which also had the effect of excluding negroes. It reads as follows:

"Every political party in this state, through its state executive committee, shall have the power to prescribe the qualifications of its members and shall in its own way determine who shall be qualified to vote or otherwise participate in such political party; provided that no person shall ever be denied the right to participate in a primary in this state because of former political views or affiliations or because of memebrship or non-membership in organizations other than the political party."

Only July 24, 1930, the new law was upheld by a Court of Civil Appeals, and no appeal was taken from that decision, and there the matter rests. The United States Supreme Court has not passed on the new law.

In the second place, a search of the criminal statutes of the state fails to reveal that there is any enforcement act of any kind applying in such cases. Even if an election judge were violating the letter or spirit of the constitution, there could be no criminal action against him in a state court.

White Junics Divide.

Still another reason why there probably will be little concern over the efforts of negroes to vote is that any action brought, civil or criminal, would be tried before a jury of men. The long-standing custom in Texas has been for the names of negro poll taxpayers to be put into the jury wheel without discrimination, but when they report for service they are excused by agreement between attorneys for both sides. It is considered highly unlikely there could be effective prosecution, even if enabled by an enforcement statute, where a white man's jury is used.

County Chairman Murrell L. Buckner criticized the state executive committee Monday for failing to give instructions on the question, and refused to take the lead in having the county committee act on it. He said each judge could do as he pleased, and there was no dissent from precinct committeemen present.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Texas.

Are You Qualified To Vote In July?

Registration for voters opens June 13 and continues through June 23. All persons who expect to vote in the July primaries, who are not registered, should avail themselves of the ten-day period.

If you have been registered and subsequently allowed three elections to pass without voting, your old certificate is void and must be renewed. The fact that there were four elections in Oklahoma City last year invalidates the certificate of every elector who failed to vote in at least three of these elections. The same situation applies over the state under the identical setup of facts. 6-7-3

The Black Dispatch is interested in the Negro vote qualifying for suffrage. The man who is looking for citizenship rights, and who does not register and vote, is in the dilemma of a man who would go out hunting for lions without a gun. Security in citizenship rests in the bowels of the ballot.

Houston, Texas.

The Black Dispatch is also interested in shifting the Negro vote over into a position where it can become effective. In Oklahoma, where the democratic party always controls, state elections are settled in the democratic primary. It therefore follows that if the Negro votes, and votes effectively, he must cast that vote in the democratic primary.

The suggestion is offered that you look up your precinct registrar and have him tell you whether your old certificate is good. It is void if your precinct lines have been changed, even though you live at the same address where you resided when the certificate was delivered to you. The best plan is to have the election official decide that question for you.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
EVENING STAR TELEGRAM

MAY 25 1934

NEGROES MAY CAST VOTES IN PRIMARIES

Negroes may be permitted to vote in the Democratic primaries in Tarrant County this Summer for the first time, County Democratic Chairman Hugh L. Small said Friday.

The petition of a group of negroes headed by Phil Register will be presented by Small to the county Democratic executive committee on June 18. The negro group, presenting its petition to Small Thursday, pointed to a United States Supreme Court decision two years ago holding members of their race could not be denied the voting privilege.

Small's recommendation to the committee, in view of the court decision, will be that no effort be made to prevent negroes from voting.

"I don't see how the committee legally can refuse them the right to vote," he said.

Small also has asked Dr. J. H. McLean, member of the state Democratic executive committee, to bring the question before that body at its meeting on June 4, with the request that it state its attitude definitely. Regardless of the state committee's decision, however, Small said the question still would be one for the local committee to decide in this county.

Petition of the negroes two years ago to be allowed to vote in the primaries was rejected. A mandamus action to compel the petition to be granted was filed in Federal Court, but no hearing could be obtained before the election date.

Small said the indiscriminate issuance of exemption certificates likewise will be brought to the attention of the executive committee. He criticized the former practice of tax collectors in issuing exemption certificates in quantities to persons who present a list of names of persons they asserted were eligible to receive them. The practice has resulted in permitting persons in some instances to vote who were below the legal voting age, Small said.

He said he had conferred with County Tax Collector John Bourland in regard to a proposal for issuing exemptions only to persons who apply for them in person. He said Bourland had agreed to co-operate.

Small said he would issue instructions to primary election judges to prevent fraudulent voting by persons with spurious exemption certificates.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
PRESS

MAY 25 1934

NEGROES HERE MAY GET VOTE THIS ELECTION

County Democratic Chief Considering Question; No Protests Made

Negroes may be allowed to vote in a Tarrant County Democratic primary for the first time in history on July 28—and without a contest from white voters.

County Democratic Chairman Hugh Small is considering the question, after a delegation of negroes headed by Phil Register called on him yesterday.

Mr. Small has asked Dr. J. H. McLean, Tarrant County member of the state Democratic executive committee, to bring the matter before the committee when it meets June 4, with the request that the state group authorize county committees to use their discretion in handling the negro vote question.

Regardless of the attitude of the state committee, Mr. Small said he would have the matter placed before the county committee when it meets for the first time, June 18. Several other matters, including discussion on exemption certificates, are to come before the committee.

"Personally, I do not see how we can exclude negroes any longer, in face of the United States Supreme Court decision holding that negroes have a right to vote in a primary." He referred to the Nix case which went to the higher court from El Paso.

Petitions Ignored

In 1932, the first election year after the higher court decision was handed down, the local committee stepped around the right of negroes to vote by ignoring petitions. Sentiment on the committee at the time was against allowing the negroes the ballot privilege.

Candidates have opposed the negro vote in the past. Many candidates feared that negroes would vote in blocks instead of expressing individual choices. This, Mr. Small doubts.

Mr. Small estimates that the negro vote would be negligible, that out of about 1500 qualified to cast ballots, only a third would do so.

One of the other two major problems Mr. Small will bring before the committee concerns the issuance of large numbers of exemption certificates on election day and immediately prior thereto.

"Several months after the last primary, I learned that 200 exemption certificates were voted in one precinct. All of them, so far as I could learn, were cast for one candidate," he said.

Situation Watched

"It appears very clearly that the law regarding issuance of exemption certificates was violated, and the committee no doubt will order election officials to be on the alert this year to see that a similar attempt is not made.'

The other matter to come before the committee will be a resolution pledging the group's co-operation to candidates in stamping out "chiselers"—persons with various schemes of advertising which, tho having little or no value to the candidates, are pushed on the candidates in a manner nothing short of blackmail, Mr. Small said.

Vote Schemes Cited

"You can't go to your office to work without having a line form at the door, the callers offering everything imaginable in the way of schemes to get votes," one candidate who happened to be in Mr. Small's office said.

Among the late filings received by Mr. Small was that of Congressman Fritz Lanham, seeking re-election. Mr. Lanham sent his application by mail from Washington. Theo Koenig, who will oppose Mr. Lanham, has already filed.

Two of the three candidates for State Senate have filed, Frank Ogilvie and Frank Patterson. Frank Rawlings, incumbent, will be the other candidate.

W. P. McLean Jr. was the first and so far is the only candidate for district attorney to file.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
PRESS

JUN 12 1934

ASK DEMOCRATS TO BAN NEGROES

500 Sign Petition Saying Party Has Been A "White Man's Party"

The question of negro voting in the July 28 Democratic Primary confronted the Tarrant Democratic Exicutive Committee today with the filing of a petition with Chairman Hugh L. Small asking a ban on negroes' votes.

The committee probably will thresh out the problem Monday when it meets to assess candidates for election costs.

W. C. (Bill) Wehres, 970 East Allen Avenue, filed the petition, with 500 signers, this morning. It contends the Democratic party has been traditionally a "white man's party and no good can come of negroes' voting," and predicted racial disturbances.

Chairman Small pointed out that the State Supreme Court's recent ruling in an El Paso case would force election officers to permit negroes to vote. He said he did not believe negro voting would result in any disturbance. He thinks the negro vote would be small.

Mr. Wehres' petition, with 500 signers, is a duplicate of that filed yesterday with the State Democratic Executive Committee. The state group held the question of negro voting is up to county committees.

The question arose two weeks ago when Phil Register, negro leader here, headed a group of negro citizens in requesting permission to vote in the primary.

THE LOT OF THE VOTELESS

We often hear a lot of thoughtless white people ask Negroes why they want to vote in the statutory primary elections of Texas. "We don't try to force ourselves into your lodges," they say, "and we don't see why you want to insist on voting in these primaries." Well, read these two paragraphs from an editorial in the Austin Statesman of May 8, 1934:

"Historic old Main Building of the University of Texas will be razed next month, to make way for the great Main-Library building that will complete the reconstructed campus."

"And who knows but that the $2,000,000 structure with its 14-story tower that will replace the old Main will have served its purpose in 50 years, and in turn will be razed to make way for some other greater and nobler house of learning."

There you have a picture of the lot of the voteless. One building at the University of Texas worth more than the whole of Prairie View and the whole of public higher educational facilities for the Negro youth of the state! In addition to the University of Texas the state has provided for white and Mexican children twelve or fifteen other higher educational institutions, all of whose appropriations exceed the one of Prairie View.

This condition exists simply because, and only because, Negroes are excluded from the statutory Democratic primary elections of Texas. And that is why we want to vote in them.

THE POLL TAX AND SUFFRAGE

Everybody in Texas who is acquainted with its history knows that one of the chief reasons for imposing a poll tax as a condition precedent to the right to vote was the desire on the part of selfish politicians to disfranchise Negroes, and to place a barrier in the way of their casting their ballots which they could not meet. There is much agitation to eliminate the poll tax as a condition of voting. One of the provisions of the proposed new constitution which the voters of North Carolina will adopt or reject next November is one calling for the elimination of the poll tax.

This question will also be a lively issue in the race for governor in the Democratic primary elections next month and the month after. Negroes should watch with interest and use their every influence to help destroy this undemocratic appendage to the laws of the state, the chief purpose of which is to make of Negroes a voteless people.

HOUSTON, TEX.
POST

JUN 13 1934

Democrats To Decide on Negro Voting

County Committee Will Be Polled Monday by Lubbock.

Whether or not negroes are permitted to vote in Harris county in the July 28 Democratic primary will be put to a vote of the county Democratic executive committee at its meeting Monday morning, Chairman John B. (Shorty) Lubbock said Tuesday.

The state Democratic executive committee decided at its Austin meeting Monday to leave the question up to the county committees, and Mr. Lubbock said he will submit it to the 142 members of the Harris county group at its regular meeting which will begin at 9:30 a. m. Monday in the district courtroom of Judge Allen Hannay.

"If a majority of the committee votes to permit the negroes to participate in our primary, that means the negroes will vote," he said. "If the majority votes against their participation, the negroes still will have the chance to vote in certain precincts. If any individual precinct chairman desires to permit negro voting in the primary, there is nothing to stop it.

"This fact was illustrated two years ago in one or more precincts, where precinct chairmen allowed negro voting. It seems to have been fairly well established in other sections of the state that there is some liability attached to refusing permission to vote to any negro. If a precinct chairman owns property, he might be liable.

Committee to Decide.

"Personally, I am not taking a stand one way or another on the proposition of negroes voting in the primary. I am chairman of the executive committee, and the committee must decide. I am not going to suggest either way. While I have not tested out members of the executive committee, I have heard the opinions of many people on the streets. The opinion is pretty well divided."

The claim of negroes to a right to vote in Democratic primaries is based upon a decision of the United States supreme court, handed down two or three years ago in the Nixon case. Under this decision an El Paso negro was awarded nominal damages by the federal judge of the El Paso district a few months ago, because he had been barred from the Democratic primaries there.

It is widely believed that the supreme court decision in the Nixon case settles the question of the negro's right to vote in Democratic primaries, although the white Democrats might force him to obtain a separate judgment or injunction in any federal court district other than the El Paso district before they let him vote.

During recent months negroes have voted in city elections at Beaumont, Waco and San Antonio; and they have been voting in Galveston primaries for several years.

Petition Received.

Chairman Lubbock said he had received a petition opposing negro participation in the Harris county primary, circulated by the White Man's league and bearing several hundred signatures.

Regular business of the meeting of the county executive committee Monday will include the filling of 16 vacancies on the committee, deciding the amount of assessment against each candidate whose name is to go on the ticket, and determining the order of names on the ballot.

"I am particularly anxious to see all, or most, of the members on hand for the meeting," said Mr. Lubbock. "No proxy votes will be accepted. Every precinct committeeman who wishes to have a voice in the meeting must attend, and a quorum must be present in order to transact business."

100 File.

An even 100 candidates for district, county and precinct offices had filed applications Tuesday for places on the ticket.

"That is about the crop," said Jo Ed Shaw, secretary of the county executive committee. "I don't suppose there will be many more filings."

Midnight Saturday will be the deadline for filing, and Mr. Shaw expects to remain at his office in the First National Bank building until that time to receive any applications that may be made. June 4 was the last day for filing for state offices and district offices serving more than one county.

District and county candidates thus far unopposed, as far as Mr. Shaw's records of filings show, are District Attorney K. C. Barkley, County Judge W. H. Ward, District Clerk J. W. Mills, Ewing Boyd, judge of the 55th judicial district court, and Allen B. Hannay, judge of the 113th judicial district court.

NEGROES' RIGHT TO VOTE SETTLED

AUSTIN. A committee composed of Austin's leading Negro citizens went before the Travis County Democratic Primary Committee in a final plea asked for an opportunity to vote in the Democratic primary in this election. In a stirring appeal Col. Lyons said, "We are not ambitious for political jobs—we are just asking for equity." W. H. Fuller, undertaker, stated that this is a new day and a new deal said, "We have been Republicans for fifty years—it will feel a whole lots better to be a Democrat." The State Democratic Executive committee last week pigeon-holed a resolution from our citizens saying that the highest court had already ruled on the issue and there was nothing more for them to do. The admitting of Negroes to the Democratic primaries is now left up to each county. Our Austin leaders should be congratulated on this dual victory.

HOUSTON.—Monday Negroes interested in their right to vote were angry and apprehensive. John B. (Shorty) Lubbock, chairman of the Harris County Oemocratic Executive Committee, had publicly announced that his committee would vote on excluding Negroes in its meeting Monday.

Some Negroes went to the court house where the committee was meeting. To their pleasant surprise, the committee adjourned without taking any action. There is now no bar to Negroes voting in the Democratic Primaries of Harris County.

BEAUMONT.—Wednesday, as we went presward, word came that the Jefferson County Democratic Committee had voted to exclude Negroes by printing the word "White" before democrat on the ticket. We have not been able to verify the story, but if it is true, Negroes believe it is an idle gesture.

All of the leaders in Democratic circles are admitting that the bars are down. Experienced Democrats say that the Republicans hoped the Democrats would bar Negroes, so they would be driven back to help the Republicans build up their machine.

The best answer to the aleged act of the Jefferson County Democrats is the editorial in The Austin American of June 14:

". . . The supreme court of the United States in a Virginia and again in a Texas case held that committees or political organizations could not bar from primaries persons who are otherwise qualified, on account of color. That is the ruling of the court of last resort of this republic. Now qualified voters known politically as Afro-Americans are not officially barred by law or by committee action from participation in the primary elections of the commonwealth. There are thousands of Negro landowners. There are thousands of Negro home owners. They have their university and their public schools. They have their churches and their orphanages. They have their professional and business men. Now they are asking for the privilege of casting a democratic primary ballot and are ready to take the official pltdge to vote the straight democratic ticket at the November election. If law is law, it must be admitted that the brother in black has the best of the argument. He has behind him as well as before him the last word of the highest judiciary tribunal in the land. It is well for the politicians, as well as the voters of all parties, to face the laws and the facts and the court decisions as they bob up in this history making republic.

Texas.

Political - 1934

Suffrage.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
PRESS

JUL 14 1934

First Negro Ballot in Democratic Primary in Tarrant County Is Cast

The first negro to vote here in a Democratic primary cast an absentee ballot in County Clerk W. W. Miller's office today.

He was W. B. Lacy, 46, 1164 New York Avenue.

The vote will not be tabulated however, unless accepted on election day, July 28, by the judge of the precinct in which Lacy resides.

Henry Reaves, deputy in Mr. Miller's office, called on the district attorney's office for a ruling when the negro asked for a ballot. Assistant District Attorney Dawson Davis telephoned County Democratic Executive Committee Chairman Hugh Small.

Mr. Small explained the committee had adopted no policy on negro votes, and will let each precinct judge act as he pleases. The Supreme Court recently ruled negroes have the right to vote in primary elections, he added.

Mr. Davis then advised the county clerk's office to accept Lacy's ballot, mark it "negro" and hold it for the precinct judge.

Negroes long have voted in general elections. The negro voting strength in the county is 793.

GALVESTON, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 6 1934

BAN ON NEGRO VOTING LIFTED

Beaumont, Tex., July 5.—AP—Jefferson County's democratic executive committee late today rescinded a resolution previously passed restricting voting in the primaries to white citizens. Effect of the action was to lift the ban on negro voting.

The vote on rescension of the resolution was 14 to 14, and it was necessary for J. R. Edmonds, county democratic chairman, to break the deadlock. He voted to rescind the resolution, explained he believed the county executive committee had no right to include the word "white" in the pledge set up by the state executive committee for state candidates.

EL PASO TEX.
HERALD

JUL 14 1934

JUDGES TOLD NOT TO PERMIT NEGRO VOTING

Attorney General's Rule Will Hold Here, Says County Chairman

Election judges in the county's 54 voting precincts will be instructed to bar negroes from the polls July 2, County Democratic Chairman Ernest Guinn said today.

"That's the way I feel about the negro voting question, and I'm sure the other committeemen feel the same way," Mr. Guinn said.

"The judges will receive their instructions to follow the state committee resolution and Atty.-Gen. James V. Allred's opinion. I do not believe a local resolution will be necessary."

Atty. Fred Knollenberg, who represented Dr. L. A. Nixon, negro physician, in federal court negro voting suits, said court action will be taken against the election officials.

Mr. Guinn said he expects to call a county executive committee meeting for Friday, July 20, to appoint more than 300 election officials.

Judges will receive $7, and others will receive $5. Officials at city boxes will receive two free meals. Valley election officials will receive an extra $1 each for their meals.

Mr. Guinn said the commitee will pass a resolution ordering a run-off election.

WE MUST PAY THE PRICE

Negroes of Texas must realize that we must pay the price of winning our fight to see to it that our franchise rights are protected and enforced. The selfish politicians who have been able to benefit by our disfranchisement will not give up voluntarily. They will yield only as the result of an enlightened public opinion, backed by a never-ending line of decisions by the Supreme Court of the United States and the lower Federal courts.

Informer 7-21-34

To carry this fight on requires money, and the money needed must be raised by Negroes. And The Informer is glad to note that Negroes in Texas are constantly realizing this fact more keenly than ever before. This was demonstrated last week in Dallas when Chas. T. Bracklins gave $100, H. Strickland $100, and Dr. R. T. Hamilton $50 to the cause of conducting a real court battle to protect the voting rights of Negroes in Dallas.

When Negroes all over Texas will take this attitude, we shall be on our way; for when we pay the price, the victory is bound to be ours.

HOUSTON, TEX.
POST

JUL 14 1934

Allred to Fight Negro Vote Suit

Department Is Ready to Defend Clerk in Action Here.

Assurance that the attorney general's office in Austin will aid County Clerk Albert Townsend fight suits filed against him in connection with the latter's refusal to allow negroes to cast absentee ballots in the July 28 Democratic primary election was contained in a telegram received here Friday.

The telegram, received by Mr. Townsend in answer to one he and County Judge W. H. Ward sent the attorney general asking advice, read as follows:

"This department will co-operate with your attorneys in your defense of the petition to require you to accept negro votes in the Democratic primary.

"We understand Attorneys George D. Searsand Fred Moore have offered you their services.

"There is a possibility that Attorney General Allred will personally participate in the hearing. This department will prepare a trial brief to assist your attorneys. Please notify the county judge and the election board of our decision in this matter."

The telegram was signed by Elbert Hooper, first assistant attorney general.

Two Suits Filed.

Mr. Townsend has refused negroes to cast absentee ballots as a result of a resolution adopted last Saturday by the county Democratic executive committee and which permits none to vote in the primary who can not show that he has voted the Democratic ticket at least three times during th last six years.

Two suits have been filed in distric courts against Mr. Townsend since h began refusing to allow negroes to cas absentee ballots. Julius White, presi lent of the Harris county negro Demo ratic club, Tuesday filed suit for man lamus to compel Mr. Townsend to permit White to vote an absentee ballot in the July 28 Democratic primary.

Case Set July 23.

The case will be heard in District udge Roy Campbell's court at 9 a. m. Monday, July 23.

In the event Judge Campbell decides n favor of White on that date the egroes would have only two days to ote absentee ballots. Nor would it pecifically authorize them to vote personally in the primary, but it would etermine that the county committee vas without power to bar them by this ethod, it was said. Thus the case romises an important test and perhaps a determination of the question whether negroes are to gain admitance to the Democratic primaries.

Damages Asked.

The second suit aaginst Mr. Townend was filed by C. F. Richardson, ditor of the negro weekly paper, "The Houston Defender." Richardson asked 10,000 damages, declaring that he ad been damaged to that extent by Townsend's refusal to allow him to ote an absentee ballot.

The Richardson suit has not yet een set down for trial.

WRIT ASKED TO PREVENT BARRING OF NEGRO VOTERS.

New action to break down the racial bars that heretofore have prevented negroes from voting in the Democratic primaries was instituted in federal court Friday by J. M. Nabrit Jr., negro attorney, representing C. F. Richardson, negro editor of the Houston Defender, complainant.

John B. "Shorty" Lubbock and Jo E. Shaw, chairman and secretary, respectively, of the Harris county Democratic executive committee, and committeemen were named defendants in the action.

In his bill of complaint, Richardson asked a temporary injunction to restrain defendants from enforcing or attempting to enforce the resolution passed by the state Democratic executive committee on May 24, 1932, barring negroes from the Democratic polls.

Richardson further asked that the county executive committee be enjoined from enforcing the order passed last Saturday requiring each voter to "satisfy" election officials that he has voted the Democratic ticket at least three times in the last six years.

The complainant asked that the injunction apply not only to his own right to vote, but to that of all negroes who seek to vote in the July 28 primary.

BEAUMONT, TEX.
ENTERPRISE

JUL 7 1934

THE WHITE PLEDGE FOR VOTERS

In opening Jefferson county's primary election to negro voters, the county's democratic executive committee did not confess a change of heart with respect to the negro in politics, or depart in principle from the traditional stand taken by democratic organizations in Texas and all parts of the south since the troubled days of Reconstruction. The committee was not sure that it had any legal right to bar negroes.

The committee had no wish to hold a primary election and then be informed that it was all a waste of time and money, without force or effect. It was this constitutional rock on which the committee split, as it were, and, confronted by the two horns of a dilemma, did not know at first what to do.

The solution finally arrived at by breaking a tie vote was perhaps the wisest in the circumstances. According to one point of view, the choice was the lesser of two evils. It was better to play safe, to hold an election which could not be contested on any legal grounds, than to become involved in legal complications such as would have followed, in all probability, if the committee had included the word "white" in the party pledge.

A good deal of legal authority supports the opinion that "all-white" primaries are unconstitutional. The state democratic executive committee evidently did not want to get its fingers burned, or to precipitate a controversy, when it avoided any reference to the white pledge.

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 14 1934

White Man's Party

The Attorney General decides that the resolution adopted by the last State convention, declaring the Democratic party a white man's party, is sufficient to bar the Negro voter from the primary. As The News recalls the United States Supreme Court's decision, there was a holding that the State Executive Committee acted for the State under the Terrell election law and that the State could not set aside the Fourteenth Amendment. As the convention, too, represents delegated authority, it is possible that the reasoning might apply to its action, although at least one State appellate court shares the view taken by Mr. Allred.

In finality, it may be necessary to have a vote on the matter taken by the party itself or more sensibly and effectively the primary law repealed. There is no reason why a given political party should not be entitled to decide the merits of its own members. But as long as the State intervenes to prescribe how parties shall act and in effect makes the party its agent in elections, there will be difficulty in this determination.

In finality, too, the Democratic party needs the competent Negro vote. It should not be alienated while it is weak but encouraged against the day when it will be strong.

DALLAS, TEX.
JOURNAL

JUL 13 1934

Allred's Opinion

THE ANNOUNCEMENT by Candidate Allred, in the middle of his stump campaign for Governor, that, as Attorney General of the State of Texas, he holds it unlawful for Negroes to vote in the Democratic primary is mighty good political thunder. But, in the opinion of The Journal, it is mighty poor law.

The reason why the party lost its inherent right to say who should and who should not be members of its organization and vote in its party councils is, according to the Supreme Court of the United States, that the party has been so dominated by the statutes of the State as to become the creature of the State, so that it is not possible to differentiate between the authority of the party and that of the State. Since Texas can not bar Negroes from voting, the party can not, as the creature of the State, do what the State itself can not do.

It is manifestly absurd for the Attorney General to argue both (a) that the party is not the creature of the State and (b) that the Attorney General as the servant of the State has the right to tell the party who may and who may not vote at the primary. If the party is sovereign, the "opinion" of the Attorney General has no more weight than if it were addressed to the Dallas Lawn Tennis Association. If the party is not sovereign, all the opinions Mr. Allred can write will make no difference.

DALLAS, TEX.
TIMES HERALD

JUL 14 1934

PARTY FREEDOM AND THE PRIMARIES

THE RULING of Attorney General Allred that negroes are not entitled to vote in the Democratic primary elections is based primarily on the theory that a political party is an unofficial organization that has the right to fix qualifications for its own members.

This theory has long been accepted throughout the world. It is taken for granted in European countries where party government really prevails. The Communists and Fascists expel and elect members as do ordinary fraternal groups.

In this country, however, party government is nominal rather than real. Democrats and Republicans by the thousand do not feel obligated by party platforms and pledges. There is hardly such thing as actual party membership.

In Texas, where one party is completely and firmly in control of state affairs, there is no two-party system. The Democratic primary elections are, for practical purposes, final elections. Therefore, those who are not allowed to take part in those primaries are, in effect, disfranchised.

But even in a one-party state, the theory of party freedom is not illogical as long as party control is not exercised by the government itself. It so happens, though, that the primary elections in Texas are so hedged about by laws that they are virtually official elections rather than mere processes of party nomination of candidates.

The plain truth is that any party in Texas that records a certain number of votes loses its traditional freedom and becomes a semiofficial organization subject to control by law. It is forced to hold a primary election rather than a convention whether it desires to do so or not.

If political parties in this country expect to exercise the freedom that they should enjoy as parties, they cannot afford to surrender control of their affairs to the legislature. To the extent that an election becomes official the difficulty of prohibiting certain groups of citizens from participating in it is increased.

The primary system is destroying party politics in the United States. Some citizens may feel that this is desirable, but whether they are correct or not remains to be seen. It is certainly causing our political campaigns to assume the character of mere personal contests for office.

EL PASO TEX.
HERALD

JUL 14 1934

Allred's Negro Vote Ruling

WHILE being quite willing to admit that Atty. Gen. Allred knows more about the law than we do, the Herald-Post doesn't agree with the attorney general's ruling barring negroes from voting in the Democratic primary—at least those negroes who profess to be Democrats.

But the fact that we disagree with our own choice for governor doesn't mean that we've weakened any in the support of his candidacy. There are other things, also, in which the Herald-Post and Mr. Allred disagree.

The selection of any candidate for office—at least insofar as we are concerned—always is a comparative thing—one candidate balanced against another.

Seldom, if ever, does the Herald-Post agree with every idea a candidate expresses. And it has never been of the "brass collar" variety newspaper, which sees nothing but good in its own candidate selections and nothing but bad in those whom it opposes.

There is basis of fact, as well as law, of course, for Mr. Allred's ruling. Even the supreme court, which ruled in favor of negro voters in Texas, indicated that a political party has a right to restrict its own membership. The high court's ruling was based upon an act of the Texas legislature, not a decision of the Democratic party in Texas; Mr. Allred's ruling is based upon a decision of the party itself—a decision reached, through formal resolution, in state convention.

Furthermore, it has always been the practice of the Democratic party in the South to bar negroes from polling places—whether their votes were offered in Democratic party or general election. So, the attorney general's decision is in harmony with party policy.

But it has always been our feeling that negroes who are intelligent enough to vote ought to have as much right to enter the voting booth as ignorant-type naturalized immigrants, or even native-born citizens who are too illiterate to read or to form independent judgments.

The logical test for voting qualification, in our opinion, should be a reasonably strict literacy test.

WACO, TEX.
TIMES HERALD

JUL 6 1934

NEGRO VOTING BAN IS LIFTED BY JEFFERSON

That County Decides Democratic Committee Has No Such Right

BEAUMONT, July 6.—(AP)—Jefferson county's democratic executive committee rescinded a resolution previously passed restricting voting in the primaries to white citizens. Effect of the action was to lift the ban on negro voting.

The vote on recission of the resolution was 14 to 14, and it was necessary for J. R. Edmonds, county democratic chairman, to break the deadlock. He voted to rescind the resolution, explaining he believed the county executive committee had no right to include the word "white" in the pledge set up by the state executive committee for state candidates.

Immediately after the "white primary" resolution was rescinded a motion was made to place the white pledge on a ballot for Jefferson county candidates only. The motion was carried by an overwhelming majority, but the chairman ruled it out of order when members of the committee protested the executive committee had no right to take up the matter in the special meeting called for another purpose.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
EVENING STAR TELEGRAM

JUL 14 1934

NEGRO CASTS VOTE AS ABSENTEE HERE

For the first time in Tarrant County's history, a negro scratched a ballot in a Democratic primary election Saturday.

It was an absentee vote and was cast by W. B. Lacy, 46, of 1164 New York Avenue, in Precinct No. 59. Whether the vote will be counted will remain with the precinct election judge to decide.

The county Democratic executive committee, meeting on June 18, refused to act on the question of negroes voting and it was the opinion of Hugh L. Small, county Democratic chairman, that negroes could not be refused a vote.

When Lacy applied for an absentee ballot Saturday Deputy County Clerk Henry Reaves asked Assistant District Attorney Davis for a ruling and he, in turn, recommended that Lacy be allowed to scratch the ballot but that the notation "negro vote" be marked on it.

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 14 1934

White Man's Party

The Attorney General decides that the resolution adopted by the last State convention, declaring the Democratic party a white man's party, is sufficient to bar the Negro voter from the primary. As The News recalls the United States Supreme Court's decision, there was a holding that the State Executive Committee acted for the State under the Terrell election law and that the State could not set aside the Fourteenth Amendment. As the convention, too, represents delegated authority, it is possible that the reasoning might apply to its action, although at least one State appellate court shares the view taken by Mr. Allred.

In finality, it may be necessary to have a vote on the matter taken by the party itself or more sensibly and effectively the primary law repealed. There is no reason why a given political party should not be entitled to decide the merits of its own members. But as long as the State intervenes to prescribe how parties shall act and in effect makes the party its agent in elections, there will be difficulty in this determination.

In finality, too, the Democratic party needs the competent Negro vote. It should not be alienated while it is weak but encouraged against the day when it will be strong.

DALLAS, TEX.
JOURNAL

JUL 13 1934

Allred's Opinion

THE ANNOUNCEMENT by Candidate Allred, in the middle of his stump campaign for Governor, that, as Attorney General of the State of Texas, he holds it unlawful for Negroes to vote in the Democratic primary is mighty good political thunder. But, in the opinion of The Journal, it is mighty poor law.

The reason why the party lost its inherent right to say who should and who should not be members of its organization and vote in its party councils is, according to the Supreme Court of the United States, that the party has been so dominated by the statutes of the State as to become the creature of the State, so that it is not possible to differentiate between the authority of the party and that of the State. Since Texas can not bar Negroes from voting, the party can not, as the creature of the State, do what the State itself can not do.

It is manifestly absurd for the Attorney General to argue both (a) that the party is not the creature of the State and (b) that the Attorney General as the servant of the State has the right to tell the party who may and who may not vote at the primary. If the party is sovereign, the "opinion" of the Attorney General has no more weight than if it were addressed to the Dallas Lawn Tennis Association. If the party is not sovereign, all the opinions Mr. Allred can write will make no difference.

DALLAS, TEX.
TIMES HERALD

JUL 14 1934

PARTY FREEDOM AND THE PRIMARIES

THE RULING of Attorney General Allred that negroes are not entitled to vote in the Democratic primary elections is based primarily on the theory that a political party is an unofficial organization that has the right to fix qualifications for its own members.

This theory has long been accepted throughout the world. It is taken for granted in European countries where party government really prevails. The Communists and Fascists expel and elect members as do ordinary fraternal groups.

In this country, however, party government is nominal rather than real. Democrats and Republicans by the thousand do not feel obligated by party platforms and pledges. There is hardly such thing as actual party membership.

In Texas, where one party is completely and firmly in control of state affairs, there is no two-party system. The Democratic primary elections are, for practical purposes, final elections. Therefore, those who are not allowed to take part in those primaries are, in effect, disfranchised.

But even in a one-party state, the theory of party freedom is not illogical as long as party control is not exercised by the government itself. It so happens, though, that the primary elections in Texas are so hedged about by laws that they are virtually official elections rather than mere processes of party nomination of candidates.

The plain truth is that any party in Texas that records a certain number of votes loses its traditional freedom and becomes a semiofficial organization subject to control by law. It is forced to hold a primary election rather than a convention whether it desires to do so or not.

If political parties in this country expect to exercise the freedom that they should enjoy as parties, they cannot afford to surrender control of their affairs to the legislature. To the extent that an election becomes official the difficulty of prohibiting certain groups of citizens from participating in it is increased.

The primary system is destroying party politics in the United States. Some citizens may feel that this is desirable, but whether they are correct or not remains to be seen. It is certainly causing our political campaigns to assume the character of mere personal contests for office.

EL PASO TEX.
HERALD

JUL 14 1934

Allred's Negro Vote Ruling

WHILE being quite willing to admit that Atty. Gen. Allred knows more about the law than we do, the Herald-Post doesn't agree with the attorney general's ruling barring negroes from voting in the Democratic primary—at least those negroes who profess to be Democrats.

But the fact that we disagree with our own choice for governor doesn't mean that we've weakened any in the support of his candidacy. There are other things, also, in which the Herald-Post and Mr. Allred disagree.

The selection of any candidate for office—at least insofar as we are concerned—always is a comparative thing—one candidate balanced against another.

Seldom, if ever, does the Herald-Post agree with every idea a candidate expresses. And it has never been of the "brass collar" variety newspaper, which sees nothing but good in its own candidate selections and nothing but bad in those whom it opposes.

There is basis of fact, as well as law, of course, for Mr. Allred's ruling. Even the supreme court, which ruled in favor of negro voters in Texas, indicated that a political party has a right to restrict its own membership. The high court's ruling was based upon an act of the Texas legislature, not a decision of the Democratic party in Texas; Mr. Allred's ruling is based upon a decision of the party itself—a decision reached, through formal resolution, in state convention.

Furthermore, it has always been the practice of the Democratic party in the South to bar negroes from polling places—whether their votes were offered in Democratic party or general election. So, the attorney general's decision is in harmony with party policy.

But it has always been our feeling that negroes who are intelligent enough to vote ought to have as much right to enter the voting booth as ignorant-type naturalized immigrants, or even native-born citizens who are too illiterate to read or to form independent judgments.

The logical test for voting qualification, in our opinion, should be a reasonably strict literacy test.

WACO, TEX.
TIMES HERALD

JUL 6 1934

NEGRO VOTING BAN IS LIFTED BY JEFFERSON

That County Decides Democratic Committee Has No Such Right

BEAUMONT, July 6.—(AP)—Jefferson county's democratic executive committee rescinded a resolution previously passed restricting voting in the primaries to white citizens. Effect of the action was to lift the ban on negro voting.

The vote on recission of the resolution was 14 to 14, and it was necessary for J. R. Edmonds, county democratic chairman, to break the deadlock. He voted to rescind the resolution, explaining he believed the county executive committee had no right to include the word "white" in the pledge set up by the state executive committee for state candidates.

Immediately after the "white primary" resolution was rescinded a motion was made to place the white pledge on a ballot for Jefferson county candidates only. The motion was carried by an overwhelming majority, but the chairman ruled it out of order when members of the committee protested the executive committee had no right to take up the matter in the special meeting called for another purpose.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
EVENING STAR TELEGRAM

JUL 14 1934

NEGRO CASTS VOTE AS ABSENTEE HERE

For the first time in Tarrant County's history, a negro scratched a ballot in a Democratic primary election Saturday.

It was an absentee vote and was cast by W. B. Lacy, 46, of 1164 New York Avenue, in Precinct No. 59. Whether the vote will be counted will remain with the precinct election judge to decide.

The county Democratic executive committee, meeting on June 18, refused to act on the question of negroes voting and it was the opinion of Hugh L. Small, county Democratic chairman, that negroes could not be refused a vote.

When Lacy applied for an absentee ballot Saturday Deputy County Clerk Henry Reaves asked Assistant District Attorney Davis for a ruling and he, in turn, recommended that Lacy be allowed to scratch the ballot but that the notation "negro vote" be marked on it.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Texas

EMO CHIEF SEEKS COURT ACTION TO FORCE ALBERT TOWNSEND TO GIVE HIM OFFICIAL BALLOT FOR ABSENTEE VOTE

Defender 7-14-34

Suit Filed Tuesday Afternoon in Civil District Court of Harris County—Head Negro Democratic Club and Four Other Colored Democrats Denied Right to Vote Monday Morning—Several Damage Suits Planned Against Townsend and His Bondsmen—Solicitors Seek Defense Fund.

Houston, Texas

When the Harris County Democratic executive committee passed its illegal "grandfather resolution" last Saturday afternoon and cheered wildly while some of its members denounced and attacked colored citizens without cause, little did the party chiefs realize that they were placing in motion a movement, illegal and unconstitutional, which may terminate in their primary election being invalidated in the United States courts.

The first shot was fired in this impending legal conflict in Houston Tuesday, when Julius White, chairman of the Harris County Negro Democratic Club, resorted to court action to obtain a mandamus against Albert Townsend, county clerk, to compel him (Townsend) to permit White to cast an absentee ballot in keeping with the revised civil statutes of Texas.

Setting forth that he was and is a qualified voter and eligible to cast a ballot in any public election held in Houston and Harris County, and in view of the statutory provisions touching upon and regulating all political elections in Texas, plus the fact that he was denied his suffrage rights as provided under title 50, chapter 5, article 2955 of the revised civil statutes of Texas, Mr. White seeks to have the court pass upon the authority of the county clerk to refuse official ballots to qualified voters under the cloak of the "resolution" adopted Saturday and certified to Townsend Monday morning before 8 o'clock.

Refused Absentee Ballot

In his petition the plaintiff (White) avers "that on the 9th day of July, A. D. 1934, he made his personal appearance before the defendant (Townsend), who is the clerk of Harris County, Texas, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 5 p. m. and tendered to said clerk his poll tax receipt entitling him to vote at said Democratic primary election on July 28, 1934, and requested defendant to deliver to him one ballot which had been prepared in accordance with the law for use in such election but that the said defendant arbitrarily and without legal cause or reason absolutely refused to issue plaintiff a ballot and absolutely refused to permit plaintiff to cast an absentee vote.

Defender 7-14-34

Houston, Texas

Townsend Violates Statutes

"That defendant, Albert Townsend, is the duly elected and qualified county clerg of Harris County, Texas, and is the same clerk charged with th eduty of conducting absentee voting under and by virtue of title 50, chapter 5, article 2956 of the revised civil statutes of Texas.

"That plaintiff on July 9, 1934, expected and still expects to be absent from Harris County, Texas, on July 28, 1934, and that by reason of that fact and the matters set forth in the above and foregoing petition plaintiff has a legal right to cast an absentee ballot in the Democratic primary election to be held on July 28, 1934; and defendant has a legal statutory duty and had such legal statutory duty on July 9, 1934, to furnish plaintiff a ballot for use in said absentee voting and to permit plaintiff to cast an absentee vote with same and that plaintiff has no other remedy to protect and secure his said rights, except by a writ of mandamus from this honorable court compelling defendant to carry out his statutory duties as above set forth.

Plaintiff Seeks Mandamus

"Wherefore, plaintiff prays his above petition be set for hearing at an early date, that the clerk of this coure be required to give defendant notice of such hearing and that upon such hearing this court grant a writ of mandamus compelling and ordering the defendant to deliver to said plaintiff one official absentee ballot to be used in said election and to permit plaintiff to cast that absentee vote in and for said Democratic primary election to be held on July 28, 1934; and that your petitioner recover all costs in this behalf expended and such other relief as to the court shall seem just and proper."

Hearing Set for July 23

The case was set tentatively for a hearing in the Eightieth Judicial District Court of Harris County, presided over by Judge Roy Campbell, at 9 a. m., Monday, July 23, 1934, but will likely be advanced on the docket since legal counsel for the plaintiff will be out of the city during the week of July 23-28.

This suit and others that will be filed both in the district and federal courts are being financed by the Harris County Negro Democratic Club through popular subscriptions and donations, and all Negroes in Houston are asked and urged to contribute to this legal defense fund at once, as the time is short for action and money is needed for court costs and legal services. James M. Nabrit, Jr., prominent Houston lawyer, has been retained as legal counsel.

EL PASO, TEX.
TIMES

JUL 11 1934

NEGROES MAY VOTE.

Laredo, Tex., July 10 (AP).—Negroes qualified to vote will be allowed to cast ballots in the Democratic primaries here July 28.

VICTORY NOT WON OVERNIGHT

(Editorial)

The battle is not always to the strong, nor the race to the swift, but he who conquers and emerges triumphant in any endeavor is the one who endures to the end, for the prize is awarded at the end of the goal only.

In the game of baseball, it does not matter how superbly and masterly the pitcher may hurl the spheroid at and by opposing batters in the early frames of the game, for if he can not hold the lead his teammates establish for him and permits the opposition to begin to unlimber their heavy artillery, he is derricked by a wise manager and sent to the showers.

Defender

In reporting the game, unless his hurling successor can stave off defeat, the sports scribes relate what a fine game the first slabman pitched until a certain inning, when he lost control of the ball and had to be retired from the contest.

7-21-34

Thus, it is not how well he performed in the early innings of the game, nor how he started, but rather how he finished and the score at the termination of the contest, or when he surrendered hurling duties to his successor.

Some horses jump into the lead as soon as the race is launched, only to end in the "also ran" class, while other equines get off to a slow start and demonstrate their endurance and racing ability by finishing "in the money."

Houston Texas

Every two years Negroes of Houston and Texas are forced to resort to court action in an effort to exercise their elective franchise rights as partisan voters; and yet in the face of two favorable decisions by the United States Supreme Court and two United States district courts in Texas, the colored citizens of Texas, in the main, are facing the same situation again this year.

It is not sufficient to beg the question by relating what was done or what was not done in former years, nor to engage in the fanciful and specious argument about former court decisions; for if the United States District Court at Houston does not enjoin the Harris County Democratic executive committee from barring qualified Negro electors from the partisan primary elections of July 28 and August 25, 1934; and the "legalistic opinion" of Attorney General Allred is not invalidated once more by federal court decree, except in isolated instances, Negroes of Texas will be barred very effectively from such public elections this and subsequent years.

Thus the political freedom of Texas Negroes and their constitutional and franchise rights as American citizens all hinge on the outcome of the case which will be heard here in federal court Saturday, July 21, 9:30 a.m., before Federal Judge T. M. Kennerly in the federal (post-office) building.

This is not the time nor place to differ over trivial and inconsequential issues, such as the "keynoter" and "collection lifters" at rallies held here by the Harris County Negro Democratic Club, nor the custodian of the "temporary funds," nor even legal counsel; for if the cause of the race had to depend upon raising sufficient money before filing these cases, the general election would likely be over ere the necessary fund was realized.

We should be concerned only about court victory and our elective franchise and constitutional rights, and nothing else should matter just now.

Our voting strength and the most available candidates are secondary in importance to our procuring and exercising our suffrage rights, and toward the latter objective let us lend our ever effort and exert all our energy until victory perches upon our racial standards.

The men in charge of and directing this court action have made certain financial obligations which they are depending upon the colored citizens of Houston and Texas to raise, and even after the court or courts have passed upon the issues involved in these cases there will be certain debts which must be paid in full through popular subscription.

Remember, friends, that no legal battle or cause was ever won either in the first attempt or by mere curbstone and street talk, but by persistent, consistent and united effort and enough coin of the realm to finance the cause to its successful culmination; for talk is cheap, but it requires money not only to buy land, but to wage legal fights for the constitutional and inherent rights of a minority and disadvantaged race like the Negro.

This is our cause and our fight and unless we rally to it with everything at our command, we shall be of all men, in this democratic republic and state, the most miserable.

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 13 1934

Negroes Not Entitled To Vote in Democratic Primary, Allred Rules

Passed in 1932

Bases Opinion on State Convention Resolution

A reiteration of the principle that the Democratic party has always been a white man's party followed by a declaration that the Attorney General's Department of Texas will do everything in its power to keep it so was made in Dallas Thursday by Attorney General James V. Allred who released a ruling from his department holding that Negroes are not entitled to vote in Democratic primary elections.

Allred's ruling was released through North Texas headquarters of his campaign for Governor, the document having been forwarded here for Allred's approval. It is addressed to D. B. Wood, County Attorney of Williamson County, who, with many other officials, had asked for an opinion.

Announcement explaining the ruling made here by the Attorney General said:

Based on Resolution.

"The Attorney General's decision was based upon a resolution adopted at the State convention of the Democratic party in Houston on May 24, 1932, reading as follows: 'Be it resolved that all white citizens of the State of Texas who are qualified to vote under the Constitution and laws of the State shall be eligible to membership in the Democratic party and as such entitled to participate in its deliberations.' This resolution in effect limited the right to participate in Democratic party primaries to Whites and consequently excluded Negroes.

"The Attorney General's opinion reviewed the various decisions of the United States Supreme Court, including the five-to-four decision in Nixon versus Condon, written by Mr. Justice Cardoza in May, 1932, just before the passage of the resolution by the party in State convention. In the Nixon case the Supreme Court of the United States held that the Democratic State Executive Committee was without authority to bar Negroes, but said:

Think Resolution Valid.

"'Whether a political party in Texas has inherent power today without restraint by any law to determine its own membership, we are not required at this time to affirm or to deny.'

"The adoption of the resolution by the party in convention (set out above) followed immeditely after the Nixon vs. Condon decision.

"The validity of the action taken by the State convention in adopting the foregoing resolution was challenged in the case of Bexar County Executive Committee v Booker. The Court of Civil Appeals at San Antonio by a two-to-one decision upheld the validity of the resolution. Certified questions to the Supreme Court of Texas were dismissed on the ground that there was an absence of necessary parties to the suit."

"I think this opinion by the Court of Civil Appeals was correct," Allred said, "and election officials throughout the State should follow it. Certainly when the party spoke through its State convention it was the voice of the party itself. I think this resolution of the State convention was valid and stand ready to defend it should it be attacked."

Murrell L. Buckner, county Democratic chairman, who recently refused to make a decision when it was announced negro voting would be left up to the local committees, refused again Thursday night to announce what stand he would take in the matter.

He indicated that he would make a serious study of the opinion rendered by the Attorney General, would take the matter under advisement and announce his decision at the meeting of election judges on July 25.

In the previous case Mr. Buckner said that it would be up to the election judges as to whether they would permit Negroes to vote, that he would not make the decision for them.

"Friday night at the Pythian Temple on Elm," an item received by The News says, "Negroes of Dallas County will hold a political rally to decide on their plan of action for the coming Democratic primary election. A committeeman and a committeewoman have been named from each of the 121 precincts of Dallas County under the leadership of the Progressive Citizens' League. Organizations have been set up in each precinct and delegates will represent them at the convention Friday night. Official poll tax list shows more than 2,500 qualified voters in Dallas County. Chairman Wells promises to explain the ballot and the qualifications of each candidate Friday night."

Negro Seeks Damages.

HOUSTON, Texas, July 12 (AP).—A suit for $10,000 damages was filed Thursday in State District Court here against County Clerk Albert Townsend by C. F. Richardson, Negro publisher of the Houston Defender. Damages were incurred, Richardson alleged, through Townsend's refusal to allow him to cast an absentee vote in the July 28 Democratic primary.

Townsend said he merely had followed out the instructions of the County Democratic Executive Committee, which ruled that voters to participate in the Democratic primary must have voted the Democratic ticket three times in the last six years.

DALLAS, TEX.
JOURNAL

JUL 10 1934

Progressive Voters to Convene Friday Night

The Progressive Voters' League, organized among negro voters Sunday, will meet Friday night in the Pythian Temple to hold a voting school and study the ballot in the coming party primaries.

A. S. Wells, president, announced that meetings will be held in the precincts during the week.

The league, at its meeting Sunday, established a defense fund to vouchsafe their franchise rights.

PORT ARTHUR, TEX.
NEWS

JUN 29 1934

DEMS MAY LIFT BAN ON VOTING

Party Pledge Issue Due To Be Settled

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, June 29.—All signs Friday pointed to the probable lifting by democratic committeemen tomorrow of the ban against negro voting in the July 28 primary in Jefferson county.

The primary sub-committee of the county democratic executive committee will meet at 9:30 a. m. Saturday in the office of County Chairman J. R. Edmonds to act finally on a proposal to ignore a resolution by the county group to restrict balloting to white democrats.

County Secretary P. A. Dowlen, a member of the primary committee, told his colleagues at a meeting last Monday that the county democratic organization is without legal authority to put the "white democrat" pledge on the official ballot. He urged that the county committee's prescription of such a pledge be disregarded. After lengthy discussion, members of the primary group decided to seek legal counsel, meanwhile delaying action until Saturday.

"I will attend the committee conference tomorrow well prepared to prove to the committee that we have absolutely no business putting the 'white' voter pledge on the ballot," Dowlen announced today. "I have drafted an exhaustive brief in support of my contention, and I know it represents the law in the matter. When the state democratic organization declined to prescribe the 'white' pledge, our county body was left powerless to impose it, and that's all there is to it."

Members of the committee have consulted various attorneys in regard to the legal status of the "white democrat" restriction voted by the county group, 18 to 10.

"I haven't found a lawyer but what agrees with my views on the question," Dowlen said.

The secretary insists that he personally favors a "white man's election" but explains that "the county has no authority to order one."

C. W. Howth, member of the state democratic executive committee which failed to adopt the traditional "white democrat" pledge for 1934 primaries, has been invited to attend Saturday's session of the primary group, Dowlen said.

"I told him we would be glad to have him come up and sit in with us," the secretary stated.

Dowlen declared that "if the committee will go ahead and follow the state democratic executive committee's lead in instead of the invalid resolution, we can order the ballots printed immediately—without the 'white' pledge." He added that "if the county organization wants to hire a lawyer and try to mandamus us into putting the pledge on the ballot, it can do so."

Edmonds' office is in the Wiess buildings, across Pearl street from the Edson hotel.

Leaders among negroes here said Friday there have been no expressed the belief negroes will applications by negroes here for attempt to vote here. Whether absentee votes. Asked what his negroes will be permitted to vote attitude would be he said: is to be left to local election "I will have to think about that."

DALLAS, TEX.
DISPATCH

JUL 13 1934

NO NEGRO ABSENTEE VOTES ASKED IN DALLAS

Robin Adair, Dallas-co clerk, judges.

here in federal court Saturday, July 21, 9:30 a.m., before Federal Judge T. M. Kennerly in the federal (post-office) building.

This is not the time nor place to differ over trivial and inconsequential issues, such as the "keynoter" and "collection lifters" at rallies held here by the Harris County Negro Democratic Club, nor the custodian of the "temporary funds," nor even legal counsel; for if the cause of the race had to depend upon raising sufficient money before filing these cases, the general election would likely be over ere the necessary fund was realized.

We should be concerned only about court victory and our elective franchise and constitutional rights, and nothing else should matter just now.

Our voting strength and the most available candidates are secondary in importance to our procuring and exercising our suffrage rights, and toward the latter objective let us lend our ever effort and exert all our energy until victory perches upon our racial standards.

The men in charge of and directing this court action have made certain financial obligations which they are depending upon the colored citizens of Houston and Texas to raise, and even after the court or courts have passed upon the issues involved in these cases there will be certain debts which must be paid in full through popular subscription.

Remember, friends, that no legal battle or cause was ever won either in the first attempt or by mere curbstone and street talk, but by persistent, consistent and united effort and enough coin of the realm to finance the cause to its successful culmination; for talk is cheap, but it requires money not only to buy land, but to wage legal fights for the constitutional and inherent rights of a minority and disadvantaged race like the Negro.

This is our cause and our fight and unless we rally to it with everything at our command, we shall be of all men. in this democratic republic and state, the most miserable.

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 13 1934

Negroes Not Entitled To Vote in Democratic Primary, Allred Rules

Passed in 1932

Bases Opinion on State Convention Resolution

A reiteration of the principle that the Democratic party has always been a white man's party followed by a declaration that the Attorney General's Department of Texas will do everything in its power to keep it so was made in Dallas Thursday by Attorney General James V. Allred who released a ruling from his department holding that Negroes are not entitled to vote in Democratic primary elections.

Allred's ruling was released through North Texas headquarters of his campaign for Governor, the document having been forwarded here for Allred's approval. It is addressed to D. B. Wood, County Attorney of Williamson County, who, with many other officials, had asked for an opinion.

Announcement explaining the ruling made here by the Attorney General said:

Based on Resolution.

"The Attorney General's decision was based upon a resolution adopted at the State convention of the Democratic party in Houston on May 24, 1932, reading as follows: 'Be it resolved that all white citizens of the State of Texas who are qualified to vote under the Constitution and laws of the State shall be eligible to membership in the Democratic party and as such entitled to participate in its deliberations.' This resolution in effect limited the right to participate in Democratic party primaries to Whites and consequently excluded Negroes.

"The Attorney General's opinion reviewed the various decisions of the United States Supreme Court, including the five-to-four decision in Nixon versus Condon, written by Mr. Justice Cardoza in May, 1932, just before the passage of the resolution by the party in State convention. In the Nixon case the Supreme Court of the United States held that the Democratic State Executive Committee was without authority to bar Negroes, but said:

Think Resolution Valid.

"'Whether a political party in Texas has inherent power today without restraint by any law to determine its own membership, we are not required at this time to affirm or to deny.'

"The adoption of the resolution by the party in convention (set out above) followed immeditely after the Nixon vs. Condon decision.

"The validity of the action taken by the State convention in adopting the foregoing resolution was challenged in the case of Bexar County Executive Committee v Booker. The Court of Civil Appeals at San Antonio by a two-to-one decision upheld the validity of the resolution. Certified questions to the Supreme Court of Texas were dismissed on the ground that there was an absence of necessary parties to the suit."

"I think this opinion by the Court of Civil Appeals was correct," Allred said, "and election officials throughout the State should follow it. Certainly when the party spoke through its State convention it was the voice of the party itself. I think this resolution of the State convention was valid and stand ready to defend it should it be attacked."

Murrell L. Buckner, county Democratic chairman, who recently refused to make a decision when it was announced negro voting would be left up to the local committees, refused again Thursday night to announce what stand he would take in the matter.

He indicated that he would make a serious study of the opinion rendered by the Attorney General, would take the matter under advisement and announce his decision at the meeting of election judges on July 25.

In the previous case Mr. Buckner said that it would be up to the election judges as to whether they would permit Negroes to vote, that he would not make the decision for them.

"Friday night at the Pythian Temple on Elm," an item received by The News says, "Negroes of Dallas County will hold a political rally to decide on their plan of action for the coming Democratic primary election. A committeeman and a committeewoman have been named from each of the 121 precincts of Dallas County under the leadership of the Progressive Citizens' League. Organizations have been set up in each precinct and delegates will represent them at the convention Friday night. Official poll tax list shows more than 2,500 qualified voters in Dallas County. Chairman Wells promises to explain the ballot and the qualifications of each candidate Friday night."

Negro Seeks Damages.

HOUSTON, Texas, July 12 (AP).—A suit for $10,000 damages was filed Thursday in State District Court here against County Clerk Albert Townsend by C. F. Richardson, Negro publisher of the Houston Defender. Damages were incurred, Richardson alleged, through Townsend's refusal to allow him to cast an absentee vote in the July 28 Democratic primary.

Townsend said he merely had followed out the instructions of the County Democratic Executive Committee, which ruled that voters to participate in the Democratic primary must have voted the Democratic ticket three times in the last six years.

DALLAS, TEX.
JOURNAL

JUL 10 1934

Progressive Voters to Convene Friday Night

The Progressive Voters' League, organized among negro voters Sunday, will meet Friday night in the Pythian Temple to hold a voting school and study the ballot in the coming party primaries.

A. S. Wells, president, announced that meetings will be held in the precincts during the week.

The league, at its meeting Sunday, established a defense fund to vouchsafe their franchise rights.

PORT ARTHUR, TEX.
NEWS

JUN 29 1934

DEMS MAY LIFT BAN ON VOTING

Party Pledge Issue Due To Be Settled

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, June 29.—All signs Friday pointed to the probable lifting by democratic committeemen tomorrow of the ban against negro voting in the July 28 primary in Jefferson county.

The primary sub-committee of the county democratic executive committee will meet at 9:30 a. m. Saturday in the office of County Chairman J. R. Edmonds to act finally on a proposal to ignore a resolution by the county group to restrict balloting to white democrats.

County Secretary P. A. Dowlen, a member of the primary committee, told his colleagues at a meeting last Monday that the county democratic organization is without legal authority to put the "white democrat" pledge on the official ballot. He urged that the county committee's prescription of such a pledge be disregarded.

After lengthy discussion, members of the primary group decided to seek legal counsel, meanwhile delaying action until Saturday.

"I will attend the committee conference tomorrow well prepared to prove to the committee that we have absolutely no business putting the 'white' voter pledge on the ballot," Dowlen announced today. "I have drafted an exhaustive brief in support of my contention, and I know it represents the law in the matter. When the state democratic organization declined to prescribe the 'white' pledge, our county body was left powerless to impose it, and that's all there is to it."

Members of the committee have consulted various attorneys in regard to the legal status of the "white democrat" restriction voted by the county group, 18 to 10.

"I haven't found a lawyer but what agrees with my views on the question," Dowlen said.

The secretary insists that he personally favors a "white man's election" but explains that "the county has no authority to order one."

C. W. Howth, member of the state democratic executive committee which failed to adopt the traditional "white democrat" pledge for 1934 primaries, has been invited to attend Saturday's session of the primary group, Dowlen said.

"I told him we would be glad to have him come up and sit in with us," the secretary stated.

Dowlen declared that "if the committee will go ahead and follow the law instead of that little resolution, we can order the invalid ballots printed without the 'white' pledge." He added that "if the county organization wants to hire a lawyer and try to mandamus us into putting the pledge on the ballot, it can do so."

Edmonds' office is in the Wiess buildings, across Pearl street from the Edson hotel.

The ballot has been set up in type and names of candidates have been proof-read and will go to press as soon as the pledge issue is settled.

Leaders among negroes here said Friday there have been no expressed the belief negroes will applications by negroes here for attempt to vote here. Whether absentee votes. Asked what his negroes will be permitted to vote attitude would be he said: is to be left to local election "I will have to think about that."

DALLAS, TEX
DISPATCH
JUL 13 1934

NO NEGRO ABSENTEE VOTES ASKED IN DALLAS

Robin Adair, Dallas-co clerk, judges.

Texas

Political - 1934
Suffrage

LUBBOCK, TEX.
AVALANCHE

JUL 8 1934

Candidates Boost Campaigning Pace

Hard Week Of Work Looming

Jefferson And Bexar Counties Announce That Negroes Will Be Allowed To Vote; Concern Over Issue Felt

By CHARLES E. SIMONS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, July 7.—Candidates for major state offices today completed a week of gruelling stump speaking and rests over the week end while plotting final details of their campaigns.

All of the candidates had outlined strenuous itineraries for next week, several of them scheduling between 15 and 20 speeches.

Negroes May Vote

Among the important political developments of the week were announcments by Democratic party officials in Jefferson and Bexar counties that negroes would be permitted to participte in the primary elections in those counties. The question of negro voting in the primaries, also is causing executive committees of other counties considerable concern.

The state Democratic executive committee refused to pass on the proposition and left it up to the respective county committees.

Speaking at Mineral Wells, James V. Allred, attorney general and candidate for governor, stressed necessity for rehabilitation of criminals.

Drift Back To Prison

"Our responsibility does not end when we send a man to the penitentiary," Allred, a former district attorney, said.

"It is small wonder that many of these men who come out of prison with a high resolve to lead better lives drift back behind the bars because of a career of crime resumed when the mere pittance given them at the prison gates is exhausted. The state should make every humanitarian effort to place these men in gainful employment, keep track of them after released and help them toward becoming useful citizens."

C. C. Small invited the voters to Lampasas, Georgetown and Taylor to investigate his record as state senator.

Runs On Record

"If you find as a result of your inquiry that I am qualified to be your governor, I want your vote. It is on that basis I am endeavoring to be elected, not upon the platform of a fire-eater. "These fiery reformers sizzle in July heat but burn themselves out before the legislative sessions in January."

Lieutenant Governor Edgar E. Witt bid for support of the East Texas oil area in a speech at Mineola, in which he promised if elected governor, to stop illicit oil running, or give the office back to the people.

Winking At Law

"So much time is being devoted to politics that there has been a deplorable lot of winking at the law," Witt said. "As governor I can and will stop this bootlegging. Orderly produced, the oil underneath Texas land will go far toward re-establishing Texas as a prosperous state, not one carrying a million people on relief rolls."

Tom F. Hunter took his campaign to Midland, espousing the cause of the independent oil man and attacking public and large business enterprises controlled in the east that take profits out of Texas Hunter proposes to keep the profits within the state to reestablish purchasing power.

Repeal Is Stressed

Maury Hughes, speaking at Hubbard, Kaufman, Ennis and Greenville, stressed the importance of repeal of state prohibition as an aid to increasing treasury receipts. Hughes also emphasized the necessity for a system of state aid to persons of advanced age unable to care for themselves.

C. C. McDonald, in talks at Wortham and Kaufman, advocated a plan of state financial aid to increase home ownership. He also proposes old age pensions, strict enforcement of the anti-nepotism law and the final repeal of all advalorem taxes on real estate and personal property, leaving such property to be taxed for county and local purposes only.

Former Governor James E. Ferguson continued his speaking for McDonald at Lufkin.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
EXPRESS

JUL 13 1934

For Attorney General.

Clyde E. Smith: Waco.

Walter Woodward: Luling, Lockhart and Bastrop.

William McCraw: Brenham.

AUSTIN, Tex., July 12.—Edgar E. Witt, gubernatorial candidate, speaking at Liberty tonight, urged repeal of the poll tax.

"There never was any justification for charging a man money for the right to vote," Witt said. "There is some argument for some other qualifications of voters, but not for the poll tax. The only reason it was ever put in our Constitution was because it was thought it would keen negroes from voting and would get money from persons who do not contribute any taxes otherwise."

Witt said repeal of the poll tax requirement and substitution of a form of registration would make "for purity of the ballot."

Espousal of the candidacy of C. C. McDonald by former Gov. James E. Ferguson was critiziced by Allred, also a candidate for governor, in an address at Greenville.

Ferguson has made three addresses in McDonald's behalf and planned to resume the stump tomorrow night at Brenham.

"Every candidate with one exception, has seen fit to launch a bitter attack on me," Allred stated. "The one candidate who says he's going to be a nice boy and not talk about anybody has a friend, however, who is doing the attacking for him."

Allred referred to McDonald as Ferguson's "crown prince" and predicted Texas voters would follow Oklahoma's example and reject the administration candidate.

McDonald, at Hamilton and San Saba stressed the economic recovery planks in his platform. He pointed out the Federal Government was going to great lengths to increase home-ownership and discussed his plan whereby the State would guarantee one-half the cost of modest homesteads and charge the purchaser a low rate of interest.

McDonald also explained his plan for maintenance of an adequate school system and announced his support of the right of labor to bargain collectively.

C. C. Small, State Senator, asserted in a speech at Tyler that Allred had failed to enforce the oil conservation laws.

"This deplorable East Texas oil situation is the result of but one thing and that is the failure to enforce the laws of the State," Small said. "The railroad commission and the attorney general's department told us that all they needed to stop hot oil were the laws we passed at the special legislative session. We gave them the laws. Why doesn't the attorney general quit talking about lobbyists, monopolists and utilities and do something about the oil situation down here."

Small advocates replacement of the railroad commission as the oil-production regulatory agency with a separate oil and gas board.

Tom F. Hunter spoke tonight at Fort Worth. Estimating that he had spoken to nearly 250,000 voters since the campaign started, Hunter exhorted his partisans "to saddle 'old Beck' and carry the message to the neighbors."

"The four major ills in Texas for which I propose a cure are: Excessive tax burdens on real estate while large corporations evade their just share; the utility monopoly; the oil trust combination and the chain-store cancer," Hunter said. "Those avenues of independent competition which have been closed through monopolistic mergers must be reopened."

Maury Hughes carried his campaign for governor into North Texas with appearances at Wylie, Bonham, Honey Grove and Denison.

Edward K. Russell spoke at Ballinger, Coleman and Brownwood.

BROWNSVILLE, TEX.
HERALD

JUL 8 1934

CANDIDATES STUDY FINAL RACE DRIVES

AUSTIN, July 7. (AP)—Candidates for major state offices Saturday completed a week of gruelling stump speaking and rests over the week end while plotting final details of their campaigns.

All of the candidates had outlined strenuous itineraries for next week, several of them scheduling between 15 and 20 speeches.

Negroes to Vote

Among the important political developments of the week were announcements by democratic party officials in Jefferson and Bexar counties that negroes would be permitted to participate in the primary elections in those counties. The question of negro voting in the primaries, also is causing executive committees of other counties considerable concern.

The state democratic executive committee refused to pass on the proposition and left it up to the respective county committees.

Speaking at Mineral Wells, James V. Allred, attorney general and candidate for governor stressed necessity for rehabilitation of criminals.

"Our responsibility does not end when we send a man to the penitentiary," Allred, a former district attorney, said.

"It is small wonder that many of these men who come out of prison with a high resolve to lead better lives drift back behind the bars because of a career of crime resumed when the mere pittance given them at the prison gates is exhausted. The state should make every humanitarian effort to place these men in gainful employment, keep track of them after released and help them toward becoming useful citizens."

Points to Record

C. C. Small invited the voters to Lampasas, Georgetown and Taylor to investigate his record as state senator.

Tom F. Hunter took his campaign to Midland, espousing the cause of the independent oil man and attacking public utilities and large business enterprises controlled in the east that take profits out of Texas. Hunter proposes to keep the profits within the state to reestablish purchasing power.

C. C. McDonald, in talks at Wortham and Kaufman, advocated a plan of state financial aid to increase home ownership. He also proposes old age pensions, strict enforcement of the anti-nepotism law

Maury Hughes, speaking at Hubbard, Kaufman, Ennis and Greenville, stressed the importance of repeal of state prohibition as an aid to increasing treasury receipts. Hughes also emphasized the necessity for a system of state aid to persons of advanced age unable to care for themselves.

"If you find as a result of your inquiry that I am qualified to be your governor, I want your vote. It is on that basis I am endeavoring to be elected, not upon the platform of a fireater. "These fiery reformers sizzle in July heat but burn themselves out before the legislature sessions in January."

Lieut. Gov. Edgar E. Witt bid for support of the east Texas oil area in a speech at Mineola, in which he promised if elected gov-

Texas

Political - 1934
Suffrage

LUBBOCK, TEX.
AVALANCHE

JUL 8 1934

Candidates Boost Campaigning Pace

Hard Week Of Work Looming

Jefferson And Bexar Counties Announce That Negroes Will Be Allowed To Vote; Concern Over Issue Felt

By CHARLES E. SIMONS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, July 7.—Candidates for major state offices today completed a week of gruelling stump speaking and rests over the week end while plotting final details of their campaigns.

All of the candidates had outlined strenuous itineraries for next week, several of them scheduling between 15 and 20 speeches.

Negroes May Vote

Among the important political developments of the week were announcments by Democratic party officials in Jefferson and Bexar counties that negroes would be permitted to participte in the primary elections in those counties. The question of negro voting in the primaries, also is causing executive committees of other counties considerable concern.

The state Democratic executive committee refused to pass on the proposition and left it up to the respective county committees.

Speaking at Mineral Wells, James V. Allred, attorney general and candidate for governor, stressed necessity for rehabilitation of criminals.

Drift Back To Prison

"Our responsibility does not end when we send a man to the penitentiary," Allred, a former district attorney, said.

"It is small wonder that many of these men who come out of prison with a high resolve to lead better lives drift back behind the bars because of a career of crime resumed when the mere pittance given them at the prison gates is exhausted. The state should make every humanitarian effort to place these men in gainful employment, keep track of them after released and help them toward becoming useful citizens."

C. C. Small invited the voters to Lampasas, Georgetown and Taylor to investigate his record as state senator.

Runs On Record

"If you find as a result of your inquiry that I am qualified to be your governor, I want your vote. It is on that basis I am endeavoring to be elected, not upon the platform of a fire-eater. "These fiery reformers sizzle in July heat but burn themselves out before the legislative sessions in January."

Lieutenant Governor Edgar E. Witt bid for support of the East Texas oil area in a speech at Mineola, in which he promised if elected governor, to stop illicit oil running, or give the office back to the people.

Winking At Law

"So much time is being devoted to politics that there has been a deplorable lot of winking at the law," Witt said. "As governor I can and will stop this bootlegging. Orderly produced, the oil underneath Texas land will go far toward re-establishing Texas as a prosperous state, not one carrying a million people on relief rolls."

Tom F. Hunter took his campaign to Midland, espousing the cause of the independent oil man and attacking public and large business enterprises controlled in the east that take profits out of Texas Hunter proposes to keep the profits within the state to reestablish purchasing power.

Repeal Is Stressed

Maury Hughes, speaking at Hubbard, Kaufman, Ennis and Greenville, stressed the importance of repeal of state prohibition as an aid to increasing treasury receipts. Hughes also emphasized the necessity for a system of state aid to persons of advanced age unable to care for themselves.

C. C. McDonald, in talks at Wortham and Kaufman, advocated a plan of state financial aid to increase home ownership. He also proposes old age pensions, strict enforcement of the anti-nepotism law and the final repeal of all advalorem taxes on real estate and personal property, leaving such property to be taxed for county and local purposes only.

Former Governor James E. Ferguson continued his speaking for McDonald at Lufkin.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
EXPRESS

JUL 13 1934

For Attorney General.

Clyde E. Smith: Waco.

Walter Woodward: Luling, Lockhart and Bastrop.

William McCraw: Brenham.

AUSTIN, Tex., July 12.—Edgar E. Witt, gubernatorial candidate, speaking at Liberty tonight, urged repeal of the poll tax.

"There never was any justification for charging a man money for the right to vote," Witt said. "There is some argument for some other qualifications of voters, but not for the poll tax. The only reason it was ever put in our Constitution was because it was thought it would keen negroes from voting and would get money from persons who do not contribute any taxes otherwise."

Witt said repeal of the poll tax requirement and substitution of a form of registration would make "for purity of the ballot."

Espousal of the candidacy of C. C. McDonald by former Gov. James E. Ferguson was critiziced by Allred, also a candidate for governor, in an address at Greenville.

Ferguson has made three addresses in McDonald's behalf and planned to resume the stump tomorrow night at Brenham.

"Every candidate with one exception, has seen fit to launch a bitter attack on me," Allred stated. "The one candidate who says he's going to be a nice boy and not talk about anybody has a friend, however, who is doing the attacking for him."

Allred referred to McDonald as Ferguson's "crown prince" and predicted Texas voters would follow Oklahoma's example and reject the administration candidate.

McDonald, at Hamilton and San Saba stressed the economic recovery planks in his platform. He pointed out the Federal Government was going to great lengths to increase home-ownership and discussed his plan whereby the State would guarantee one-half the cost of modest homesteads and charge the purchaser a low rate of interest.

McDonald also explained his plan for maintenance of an adequate school system and announced his support of the right of labor to bargain collectively.

C. C. Small, State Senator, asserted in a speech at Tyler that Allred had failed to enforce the oil conservation laws.

"This deplorable East Texas oil situation is the result of but one thing and that is the failure to enforce the laws of the State," Small said. "The railroad commission and the attorney general's department told us that all they needed to stop hot oil were the laws we passed at the special legislative session. We gave them the laws. Why doesn't the attorney general quit talking about lobbyists, monopolists and utilities and do something about the oil situation down here."

Small advocates replacement of the railroad commission as the oil-production regulatory agency with a separate oil and gas board.

Tom F. Hunter spoke tonight at Fort Worth. Estimating that he had spoken to nearly 250,000 voters since the campaign started, Hunter exhorted his partisans "to saddle 'old Beck' and carry the message to the neighbors."

"The four major ills in Texas for which I propose a cure are: Excessive tax burdens on real estate while large corporations evade their just share; the utility monopoly; the oil trust combination and the chain-store cancer," Hunter said. "Those avenues of independent competition which have been closed through monopolistic mergers must be reopened."

Maury Hughes carried his campaign for governor into North Texas with appearances at Wylie, Bonham, Honey Grove and Denison.

Edward K. Russell spoke at Ballinger, Coleman and Brownwood.

BROWNSVILLE, TEX.
HERALD

JUL 8 1934

CANDIDATES STUDY FINAL RACE DRIVES

AUSTIN, July 7. (AP)—Candidates for major state offices Saturday completed a week of gruelling stump speaking and rests over the week end while plotting final details of their campaigns.

All of the candidates had outlined strenuous itineraries for next week, several of them scheduling between 15 and 20 speeches.

Negroes to Vote

Among the important political developments of the week were announcements by democratic party officials in Jefferson and Bexar counties that negroes would be permitted to participate in the primary elections in those counties. The question of negro voting in the primaries, also is causing executive committees of other counties considerable concern.

The state democratic executive committee refused to pass on the proposition and left it up to the respective county committees.

Speaking at Mineral Wells, James V. Allred, attorney general and candidate for governor, stressed necessity for rehabilitation of criminals.

"Our responsibility does not end when we send a man to the penitentiary," Allred, a former district attorney, said.

"It is small wonder that many of these men who come out of prison with a high resolve to lead better lives drift back behind the bars because of a career of crime resumed when the mere pittance given them at the prison gates is exhausted. The state should make every humanitarian effort to place these men in gainful employment, keep track of them after released and help them toward becoming useful citizens."

Points to Record

C. C. Small invited the voters to Lampasas, Georgetown and Taylor to investigate his record as state senator.

Tom F. Hunter took his campaign to Midland, espousing the cause of the independent oil man and attacking public and large business enterprises controll- ed in the east that take profits out of Texas. Hunter proposes to keep the profits within the state to re- establish purchasing power.

Maury Hughes, speaking at Hubbard, Kaufman, Ennis and Green- ville, stressed the importance of repeal of state prohibition as an aid to increasing treasury receipts. Hughes also emphasized the necessity for a system of state aid to persons of advanced age unable to care for themselves.

C. C. McDonald, in talks at Wortham and Kaufman, advocated a plan of state financial aid to increase home ownership. He also proposes old age pensions, strict enforcement of the anti-nepotism law and the final repeal of all advalorem taxes on real estate and personal property, leaving such property to be taxed for county and local purposes only.

Former Governor James E. Ferguson continued his speaking for McDonald at Lufkin.

If you find as a result of your inquiry that I am qualified to be your governor, I want your vote. It is on that basis I am endeavoring to be elected, not upon the platform of a fireater. "These fiery reformers sizzle in July heat but burn themselves out before the legislature sessions in January."

Lieut. Gov. Edgar E. Witt bid for support of the east Texas oil area in a speech at Mineola, in which he promised if elected gov-and the final repeal of all ad valorem taxes on real estate and personal property, leaving such property to be taxed for county and local purposes only.

Former Gov. James E. Ferguson continued his speaking for McDonald at Lufkin.

DALLAS, TEX.
JOURNAL
JUL 5 1934

NEGRO'S PLACE.

Sir: Frankness is a virtue for everyone to strive for in questions of public policy. The negro question has never been dealt with in an open manner. Churches, newspapers, organizations and many individuals have stood forth for years as champions of the Negro, contending he should be educated and allowed to vote in the Democratic party's primary.

I should like to ask some White champion of the Negro to say what he conceives to be the end of this policy. Every road leads to some place, and so does the one having as its aim the education, and giving to the Negro an effective vote. Any man with one iota of reasoning power should know that raising the Negro to an educated level would leave him far from satisfied with the political condition imposed by the South at the conclusion of reconstruction days.

The News says the intelligent and capable Negro should vote. This is one of the many deceiving statements we have heard for years. Who is to say, and by what standard are we to arrive at a decision as to whom among the Negroes are intelligent and capable. A moment's thought should convince that there is no way to do this, and that if we allow the Negro to participate in the Government of the South the right must be extended to all Negroes, not to just a few.

Capability and intelligence is no criterion by which to pass on the admission of a colored race to a plane of equality with that of the white. If it be so why do the people of the States of Washington, Oregon and California object to the Japanese?

As I see it the Negro has no real grievance. His condition in this country is better than in any other country on the globe, and that will include the few which are governed exclusively by the Negro. The negro countries, the Dominican Republic, Haiti and Liberia, have never been successes by any standard whatsoever. For over 100 years the so-called Governments of these republics have murdered, fought, sold their people into slavery and misruled as in no other country.

There is a great gulf fixed between the black and the white races. H. G. Wells in his Outline of History says there is in so far as evolution is concerned a greater distance between the white man and the black than there is between the black and the anthropoid.

It should be apparent to all that the educated Negro is growing more and more dissatisfied with political equality de jure, and that political equality de facto is the only goal that will appease him, and this only for a short time. The Negro equipped with education and political equality in fact will not be satisfied. The Jim Crow law will go, not only for the railroads and other public places, but also for our schools and churches.

When mamma's little Harold at school sits next to little Rastus, and on Sunday we go to hear the Rev. Moses Johnson expound the Scriptures, we shall be at the end of the road.

J. L. POPE.

Denton, Texas.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
EXPRESS
JUL 13 1934

NEGRO VOTE RULE REMAINS IN FORCE

Morriss Will Study Allred Opinion Barring Race Before Deciding

His ruling that negroes may vote in Bexar County will remain in effect for the time being, Will A. Morriss Jr., chairman of the Bexar County Democratic executive committee said Thursday.

The statement was made after press reports quoted James V. Allred, attorney general, as ruling that negro voters would be excluded in the July 28 primary. Morriss said he would have to study the ruling before making a definite decision on what would be done in Bexar County.

Up to late Thursday 138 absentee ballots had been cast, including two balolts by negroes. Poll tax receipts and exemption certificates indicate the race of the holder and if the attorney general's ruling becomes effective here the ballots cast by negroes can be eliminated at the polling places on election day.

Morriss had held that the power to exclude negroes rested with the State convention or the State Democratic committee. In the absence of action by those groups, the county committee was powerless to exclude negroes, in his opnion. The State convention at Lubbock two years ago failed to act on the question and the State committee this year has announced no decision.

The question of the negro's right to vote has been sidestepped by the Texas Supreme Court and the lower courts have handled the problem variously. Several decisions have held that the Democratic party has the right to regulate its internal affairs and may exclude whomsoever it sees fit.

SAN ANGELO, TEX.
TIMES
JUL 8 1934

Candidates Complete Hard Week Of Speaking, Plot Final Drives

Announcement Made That Negroes To Vote In Bexar And Jefferson—Other Officials Worried

AUSTIN, July 7. (AP)—Candidates for major state offices today completed a week of gruelling stump speaking and rests over the week-end while plotting final details of their campaigns.

All of the candidates had outlined strenuous itineraries for next week several of them scheduling between 15 and 20 speeches.

Among the important political developments of the week were announcements by Democratic party officials in Jefferson and Bexar Counties that negroes would be permitted to participate in the primary elections in those counties. The question of negro voting in the primaries, also is causing executive committees of other counties considerable concern.

The state Democratic executive committee refused to pass on the proposition and left it up to the respective county committees.

Speaking at Mineral Wells, James V. Allred, attorney general and candidate for governor, stressed necessity for rehabilitation of criminals.

"Our responsibility does not end when we send a man to the penitentiary," Allred, a former district attorney, said.

"It is small wonder that many of these men who come out of prison with a high resolve to lead better lives drift back behind the bars because of a career of crime resumed when the mere pittance given them at the prison gates is exhausted. The state should make every humanitarian effort to place these men in gainful employment, keep track of them after released and help them toward becoming useful citizens."

Small Points To Record

C. C. Small invited the voters of Lampasas, Georgetown and Taylor to investigate his record as state senator.

"If you find as a result of your inquiry that I am qualified to be your governor, I want your vote. It is on that basis I am endeavoring to be elected, not upon the platform of a fireeater. "These fiery reformers sizzle in July heat but burn themselves out before the legislative sessions in January."

Lieutenant Governor Edgar E. Witt bid for support of the East Texas oil area in a speech at Mineola, in which he promised if elected governor, to stop illicit oil running, or give the office back to the people.

"So much time is being devoted to politics that there has been a deplorable lot of winking at the law," Witt said. "As governor I can and will stop this bootlegging. Orderly produced, the oil underneath Texas land will go far toward re-establishing Texas as a prosperous state, not one carrying a million people on relief rolls."

Hunter Talks To Oil Men

Tom F. Hunter took his campaign to Midland, espousing the cause of the independent oil man and attacking public utilities and large business enterprises controlled in the east that take profits out of Texas. Hunter proposes to keep the profits within the state to re-establish purchasing power.

Maury Hughes, speaking at Hubbard, Kaufman, Ennis and Greenville, stressed the importance of repeal of state prohibition as an aid to increasing treasury receipts. Hughes also emphasized the necessity for a system of state aid to persons of advanced age unable to care for themselves.

C. C. McDonald, in talks at Wortham and Kaufman, advocated a plan of state financial aid to increase home ownership. He also proposes old age pensions, strict enforcement of the anti-nepotism law and the final repeal of all advalorem taxes on real estate and personal property, leaving such property to be taxed for county and local purposes only.

Former governor James E. Ferguson continued his speaking for McDonald at Lufkin.

Where Candidates To Speak Monday

FOR GOVERNOR:
C. C. Small, afternoon, Temple; night, Austin.
Edgar E. Witt, afternoon, Buffalo; night, Franklin.
Edward K. Russell, Fort Worth.
C. C. McDonald, afternoon, Decatur; night, Sherman.
James V. Allred, afternoon, Vernon; night, Wichita Falls.
Tom F. Hunter, El Paso.
Maury Hughes, Houston.
FOR UNITED STATES SENATOR:
Tom Connally, Brownwood.
Joseph W. Bailey, afternoon, Orange and Liberty; night, Beaumont.
FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL:
Clyde E. Smith, afternoon, Bowie; night, Wichita Falls.
William McCraw, Henderson.
Walter Woodward, Bellville, Brenham, LaGrange.

RATHVEN v. FRENCH
55 S. W. 578
OPINION BY JUDGE J. STEPHENS

This is a contested election case, involving the right of appellant to hold the office of treasurer of Hemphill County. The court found that appellant received 74 legal votes, and appellee, who was the contestant, 73, but that H. D. Moore, who would have voted for appellee, was not allowed to vote, although he was a legal voter. The election was consequently declared void, and a new one ordered, from which judgment this appeal is prosecuted.

We find no merit in any of appellant's assignments of error, but adopt the court's findings of fact upon all the disputed issues of fact raised by him, since the evidence was sufficient to warrant these findings. Of the issues so raised, whether Charles Fuller, who voted for appellee, was still a resident citizen of Hemphill County at the time of the election, was the most difficult one; but his intention, though a single man, entering into business and eating and sleeping elsewhere, to hold his residence in Hemphill county, where his trunk and clothes were still kept 'till he was ready to move, warranted the court clerk to refuse on party grounds.

The mandamus suit is set down for in determining this issue against appellant. But, if mistaken in this, the result would be the same, as we shall presently see; for we are constrained to sustain the cross assignment of appellee, to the effect that Charlie Ford, who voted for appellant, did not reside in Hemphill county at the date of the election. The statement in appellee's brief in support of this cross assignment is borne out by the record, and fully sustains it. Rejecting this vote and that of Fuller, and counting that of Moore, we would still have a tie; but, if we should not count the vote of Moore for appellee, the election would have to be declared void because the officers of the election rejected his vote. It seems to be the prevailing rule, in the absence of statutory regulations, to count such vote, when improperly rejected, for the candidate for whom it would have been the cast, and this rule was once followed by this court; but the statute now in force seems to provide otherwise, the last clause of article 1804f, Rev. St., reading: "Should it appear from the evidence that such a number of legal voters were by the officers or managers of the election denied the privilege of voting as, had they been allowed to vote, would have materially changed the result, the court shall adjudge such election void, and direct the proper officers to order another election to fill said office, which election shall be ordered and held and returns thereof made in all respects as required by the general election laws of the state." On the other hand, as we approve the finding that Fuller was a legal voter, and hold that Ford was not, the denial by the managers of the election of Moore's right to vote materially affected the result of the election, and rendered it void under the statute above quoted, which it is our duty to follow. The judgment is therefore affirmed.

AUSTIN, TEX.
AMERICAN
1934

Negro Voting Question Remains Uncertain Here

Whether negroes will be permitted to vote in Travis county at the coming election.

The state executive committee in a meeting held here a few weeks ago took no action in the matter but referred the question to a subcommittee.

Although Bexar county will permit the negroes to vote, Chmn. J. M. Patterson here Saturday said he had received no official information from the state executive committee with reference to negro voting in and the final repeal of all ad valorem taxes on real estate and personal property, leaving such property to be taxed for county and local purposes only.

Former Gov. James E. Ferguson continued his speaking for McDonald at Lufkin.

DALLAS, TEX.
JOURNAL
JUL 5 1934

NEGRO'S PLACE.

Sir: Frankness is a virtue for everyone to strive for in questions of public policy. The negro question has never been dealt with in an open manner. Churches, newspapers, organizations and many individuals have stood forth for years as champions of the Negro, contending he should be educated and allowed to vote in the Democratic party's primary.

I should like to ask some White champion of the Negro to say what he conceives to be the end of this policy. Every road leads to some place, and so does the one having as its aim the education, and giving to the Negro an effective vote. Any man with one iota of reasoning power should know that raising the Negro to an educated level would leave him far from satisfied with the political condition imposed by the South at the conclusion of reconstruction days.

The News says the intelligent and capable Negro should vote. This is one of the many deceiving statements we have heard for years. Who is to say, and by what standard are we to arrive at a decision as to whom among the Negroes are intelligent and capable. A moment's thought should convince that there is no way to do this, and that if we allow the Negro to participate in the Government of the South the right must be extended to all Negroes, not to just a few.

Capability and intelligence is no criterion by which to pass on the admission of a colored race to a plane of equality with that of the white. If it be so why do the people of the States of Washington, Oregon and California object to the Japanese?

As I see it the Negro has no real grievance. His condition in this country is better than in any other country on the globe, and that will include the few which are governed exclusively by the Negro. The negro countries, the Dominican Republic, Haiti and Liberia, have never been successes by any standard whatsoever. For over 100 years the so-called Governments of our republics have murdered, fought, sold their people into slavery and misruled as in no other country.

There is a great gulf fixed between the black and the white races. H. G. Wells in his Outline of History says there is in so far as evolution is concerned a greater distance between the white man and the black than there is between the black and the anthropoid.

It should be apparent to all that the educated Negro is growing more and more dissatisfied with political equality de jure, and that political equality de facto is the only goal that will appease him, and this only for a short time. The Negro equipped with education and political equality in fact will not be satisfied. The Jim Crow law will go, not only for the railroads and other public places, but also for our schools and churches.

When mamma's little Harold at school sits next to little Rastus, and on Sunday we go to hear the Rev. Moses Johnson expound the Scriptures, we shall be at the end of the road.

J. L. POPE.

Denton, Texas.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
EXPRESS
JUL 13 1934

NEGRO VOTE RULE REMAINS IN FORCE

Morriss Will Study Allred Opinion Barring Race Before Deciding

His ruling that negroes may vote in Bexar County will remain in effect for the time being, Will A. Morriss Jr., chairman of the Bexar County Democratic executive committee said Thursday.

The statement was made after press reports quoted James V. Allred, attorney general, as ruling that negro voters would be excluded in the July 28 primary. Morriss said he would have to study the ruling before making a definite decision on what would be done in Bexar County.

Up to late Thursday 138 absentee ballots had been cast, including two balolts by negroes. Poll tax receipts and exemption certificates indicate the race of the holder and if the attorney general's ruling becomes effective here the ballots cast by negroes can be eliminated at the polling places on election day.

Morriss had held that the power to exclude negroes rested with the State convention or the State Democratic committee. In the absence of action by those groups, the county committee was powerless to exclude negroes, in his opnion. The State convention at Lubbock two years ago failed to act on the question and the State committee this year has announced no decision.

The question of the negro's right to vote has been sidestepped by the Texas Supreme Court and the lower courts have handled the problem variously. Several decisions have held that the Democratic party has the right to regulate its internal affairs and may exclude whomsoever it sees fit.

SAN ANGELO, TEX.
TIMES
JUL 8 1934

Candidates Complete Hard Week Of Speaking, Plot Final Drives

Announcement Made That Negroes To Vote In Bexar And Jefferson—Other Officials Worried

AUSTIN, July 7. (AP)—Candidates for major state offices today completed a week of gruelling stump speaking and rests over the week-end while plotting final details of their campaigns.

All of the candidates had outlined strenuous itineraries for next week several of them scheduling between 15 and 20 speeches.

Among the important political developments of the week were announcements by Democratic party officials in Jefferson and Bexar Counties that negroes would be permitted to participate in the primary elections in those counties. The question of negro voting in the primaries, also is causing executive committees of other counties considerable concern.

The state Democratic executive committee refused to pass on the proposition and left it up to the respective county committees.

Speaking at Mineral Wells, James V. Allred, attorney general and candidate for governor, stressed necessity for rehabilitation of criminals.

"Our responsibility does not end when we send a man to the penitentiary," Allred, a former district attorney, said.

"It is small wonder that many of these men who come out of prison with a high resolve to lead better lives drift back behind the bars because of a career of crime resumed when the mere pittance given them at the prison gates is exhausted. The state should make every humanitarian effort to place these men in gainful employment, keep track of them after released and help them toward becoming useful citizens."

Small Points To Record

C. C. Small invited the voters of Lampasas, Georgetown and Taylor to investigate his record as state senator.

"If you find as a result of your inquiry that I am qualified to be your governor, I want your vote. It is on that basis I am endeavoring to be elected, not upon the platform of a fireeater. "These fiery reformers sizzle in July heat but burn themselves out before the legislative sessions in January."

Lieutenant Governor Edgar E. Witt bid for support of the East Texas oil area in a speech at Mineola, in which he promised if elected governor, to stop illicit oil running, or give the office back to the people.

"So much time is being devoted to politics that there has been a deplorable lot of winking at the law," Witt said. "As governor I can and will stop this bootlegging. Orderly

AUSTIN, July 7. (AP)—Candidates for major state offices today completed a week of gruelling stump speaking and rests over the week-end while plotting final details of their campaigns.

All of the candidates had outlined strenuous itineraries for next week several of them scheduling between 15 and 20 speeches.

Among the important political developments of the week were announcements by Democratic party officials in Jefferson and Bexar Counties that negroes would be permitted to participate in the primary elections in those counties. The question of negro voting in the primaries, also is causing executive committees of other counties considerable concern.

The state Democratic executive committee refused to pass on the proposition and left it up to the respective county committees.

Speaking at Mineral Wells, James V. Allred, attorney general and candidate for governor, stressed necessity for rehabilitation of criminals.

"Our responsibility does not end when we send a man to the penitentiary," Allred, a former district attorney, said.

"It is small wonder that many of these men who come out of prison with a high resolve to lead better lives drift back behind the bars because of a career of crime resumed when the mere pittance given them at the prison gates is exhausted. The state should make every humanitarian effort to place these men in gainful employment, keep track of them after released and help them toward becoming useful citizens."

Small Points To Record

C. C. Small invited the voters of Lampasas, Georgetown and Taylor to investigate his record as state senator.

"If you find as a result of your inquiry that I am qualified to be your governor, I want your vote. It is on that basis I am endeavoring to be elected, not upon the platform of a fireeater. "These fiery reformers sizzle in July heat but burn themselves out before the legislative sessions in January."

Lieutenant Governor Edgar E. Witt bid for support of the East Texas oil area in a speech at Mineola, in which he promised if elected governor, to stop illicit oil running, or give the office back to the people.

"So much time is being devoted to politics that there has been a deplorable lot of winking at the law," Witt said. "As governor I can and will stop this bootlegging. Orderly

Boom Bexar 34

Democrat 14 34

Boom Bexar

Democrat 14 34

Boom Bexar

Democrat 14 34

Boom Bexar

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Texas

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
LIGHT

JUL 8 1934

CITY MACHINE TICKET HAILS NEGRO VOTES

Observers Claim Decision Adds More Strength to Voters' Candidates.

Candidates on the city machine's Voters' ticket Saturday privately hailed jubilantly the decision to permit negroes to vote in the Bexar county Democratic primary election July 28.

Political observers confidently predicted the negro vote would add strength to the chances of candidates seeking election on that ticket.

Particularly affected by the ruling of the county Democratic executive committee, it was thought, will be Mayor C. K. Quin's race for congress. Observers believed Quin will receive an easy majority of the approximately 3500 votes which negroes probably will cast.

LEGAL RULING.

Will A. Morriss Jr., chairman of the committee, announced the negro-vote decision Saturday. Morriss declared his ruling was based purely on legal considerations and that "neither personal preferences nor opinion" were determining factors.

Observers said the coming election would be the first primary in this county in which negroes have been allowed to cast ballots along with white citizens.

No candidate save Sheriff Albert Hausser would bluntly predict the effect of the ruling. Hausser, elected four years and two years ago under the banner of the citizens' league, is now candidate for re-election on the Voters' ticket.

Smiling broadly, Hausser said: "I'll get about 99 per cent of the negro vote."

PREDICTS SPLIT.

He added it looked to him "like Tynan and Shook will split the vote about 50-50."

District Attorney Walter Tynan and Justice of the Peace John R. Shook are fighting for election as criminal district attorney.

Louis W. Schlesinger, prominent criminal attorney, is in the race with Tynan and Shook. Observers did not forecast the effect of the negro vote on Schlesinger's chances.

A San Antonio betting commissioner declared he was offering odds of two to one on Tynan's victory over Shook and Schlesinger. His offer meant he would pay $2 on a $1 bet if Tynan lost.

The commissioner was not offering odds on the congressional race but confidently predicted the negro vote would enhance the chances of Mayor Quin for election. He did not indicate what odds he might offer.

ODDS ON HAUSSER.

Odds favored Hausser to win handily against Albert West Jr., and Tex Alsbury, the latter being former relief administrator here. The betting commissioner said he would bet four to one Hausser beats Alsbury, and two to one Hausser defeats West.

He did not offer odds on Hausser's chances of winning.

Little betting has been done thus far, however, it was said. "Smart money," the commissioner said, is waiting until the campaigns have nearly run their courses.

Maury Maverick, tax collector in the race for congress against Quin, Thurman Barrett, and John K. Weber, will not be greatly aided by the negro vote, observers said.

It was pointed out Maverick two years ago vigorously opposed the negro vote. His standing with that group consequently is not particularly favorable, observers declared.

IN TWO GROUPS

The tax collector had no comment to make on the new element in the campaign. It was known Maverick believes he can win enough of the total of near 50,000 votes to dispense with the negro vote.

That the county's negroes would vote in unanimity seemed improbable to political forecasters. The negro voting population reputedly is divided sharply into two groups: the church-going class and the sporting element. The largest bloc of organized votes is under the control of Charles Bellinger, negro.

There are 4820 negro votes in the county. Of this number 4604 live in the city limits.

HOUSTON, July 7.—(INS)—Negroes were excluded from the Democratic primaries in Harris county today by meandering resolutions adopted by the county Democratic executive committee.

The resolutions banned all voters who were unable to show that they had voted Democratic three times within the past six years. Where the voter has just attained his majority the resolution provided that his parents must have voted Democratic three times within the past six years.

The resolutions did not mention negroes directly but it was an unconcealed fact that they were aimed at them.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
LIGHT

JUL 12 1934

Morriss to Permit Negro Primary Vote.

In the face of a ruling from the attorney general's office holding negroes cannot vote in Democratic primaries this year, Chairman Will A. Morriss Jr. fo the Bexar county Democratic executive committee, Thursday reaffirmed his decision to permit the negro vote in this county.

Morriss asserted he believed Attorney General James V. Allred had acted "without full knowledge."

Until he is proved wrong, Morriss said, his decision to permit Bexar county's approximately 3500 negro voters to cast ballots will stand.

Political observers declared the question of the negro vote in Bexar county is important this year because of the close races expected between congressional and criminal district attorney candidates.

NO ACTION TAKEN.

Morriss openly declared Allred's decision apparently was not based on the full record.

At the party's last convention held in Lubbock in September, 1932 no resolution to bar negroes from primaries was adopted. Such a measure, he said, was offered, but was tabled in committee.

At the previous meeting, however such a resolution was adopted, but each party convention must decide the question, Morriss said.

A LEGAL QUESTION.

Morriss said he based his decision on a thorough study of the last convention's record.

Last week in announcing his decision, Morriss said: "As I regard the question, it is exclusively a legal question. Neither personal opinion or preference may be considered." He pointed out that the courts were divided on the question of the negroes' right to a primary vote.

Observers were not certain whether the ruling of Morriss or of Allred would apply here.

SAN ANGELO, TEX.
STANDARD

JUL 6 1934

Lifts Ban On Negro Voting

Jefferson County to Leave "White" Off Pledge

BEAUMONT, Texas, July 6. (AP)—Jefferson county's Democratic executive committee has rescinded a resolution previously passed restricting voting in the primaries to white citizens. Effect of the action was to lift the ban on negro voting.

The vote on rescinding of the resolution was 14 to 14, and it was necessary for J. R. Edmonds, county Democratic chairman, to break the deadlock. He voted to rescind the resolution, explaining he believed the county executive committee had no right to include the word "white" in the pledge set up by the state executive committee for state candidates.

Immediately after the "white primary" resolution was rescinded a motion was made to place the white pledge on a ballot for Jefferson county candidates only. The motion was carried by an overwhelming majority, but the chairman ruled it out of order when members of the committee protested the executive committee had no right to take up the matter in the special meeting called for another purpose.

However, Chairman Edmonds advised the executive committee that he would use his influence as an ex-officio member of the primary sub-committee to see that two ballots, a state ballot and a county ballot, were printed, the latter to carry the white pledge, but the move failed in sub-committee and only one ballot will be printed for the county.

PORT ARTHUR, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 1 1934

OFFICE SEEKERS READY FOR 4TH

No Formal Rallies Scheduled For Independence Day

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, June 30.—Office-seekers are spending the week-end "oiling" their talking apparatus for arduous, overtime appearances on the Independence holiday, Wednesday.

No formal rallies are scheduled for that day, but there'll be huge crowds in Beaumont and Port Arthur, and the candidates won't miss the opportunity to meet as many voters as possible. It will be hot and dusty chasing back and forth between the two cities, but what is heat and dust when you are running for office?

Endorsement Question

The Non-Partisan league is coming in for lots of mention, pro and con, as the campaign goes into high gear. Many candidates selected by the league aren't hesitating to announce that they are "proud" of the endorsement. Aspirants not listed on the league ticket are emphasizing that they are "not being run by any clique, clan, league or machine."

In a speech Thursday in behalf of his candidacy for county judge, Dr. E. J. Diffenbacher, who was not endorsed by the league, leveled some hot fire at the Non-Partisan organization. He called it "undemocratic' and "un-American" and applied other unflattering adjectives.

League Cracks Back

Today, the Beaumont league cracked back at the doctor.

"All I want to say is that Doctor Diffenbacher like to have run us crazy for three months begging for the league's endorsement," said John Galiano, publicity chairman for the local league unit. "He didn't get it. Now listen to him."

Nola White and C. N. Ellis, two of the four rivals for the county court at law judgeship, pepped up a slow neighborhood rally at South Park last night.

White had made some remark about one of his opponents being too old to render fulltime, efficient service on the bench. Ellis, whose hair is snow white, referred White as a "young squirt." Ellis added that he knew law before White was born. E. B. Lamson of Port Arthur and C. W. Wiedemann of Beaumont are the others in the county court free-for-all.

"If they let the negros vote, it may go hard with me," County Commissioner Sam Hughes said to-day, "but I'm still letting 'em know tion, waiting to see which way the county committee is going to jump.

Beaumont's biggest negro neighborhood—Pear Orchard—is in Sam's Precinct, No. 4. It boasts hundreds of negro voters.

Most candidates here are keeping mum on the negro vote ques-

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Texas

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
LIGHT

JUL 8 1934

CITY MACHINE TICKET HAILS NEGRO VOTES

Observers Claim Decision Adds More Strength to Voters' Candidates.

Candidates on the city machine's Voters' ticket Saturday privately hailed jubilantly the decision to permit negroes to vote in the Bexar county Democratic primary election July 28.

Political observers confidently predicted the negro vote would add strength to the chances of candidates seeking election on that ticket.

Particularly affected by the ruling of the county Democratic executive committee, it was thought, will be Mayor C. K. Quin's race for congress. Observers believed Quin will receive an easy majority of the approximately 3500 votes which negroes probably will cast.

LEGAL RULING.

Will A. Morriss Jr., chairman of the committee, announced the negro-vote decision Saturday. Morriss declared his ruling was based purely on legal considerations and that "neither personal preferences nor opinion" were determining factors.

Observers said the coming election would be the first primary in this county in which negroes have been allowed to cast ballots along with white citizens.

No candidate save Sheriff Albert Hausser would bluntly predict the effect of the ruling. Hausser, elected four years and two years ago under the banner of the citizens' league, is now candidate for re-election on the Voters' ticket.

Smiling broadly, Hausser said: "I'll get about 99 per cent of the negro vote."

PREDICTS SPLIT.

He added it looked to him "like Tynan and Shook will split the vote about 50-50."

District Attorney Walter Tynan and Justice of the Peace John R. Shook are fighting for election as criminal district attorney.

Louis W. Schlesinger, prominent criminal attorney, is in the race with Tynan and Shook. Observers did not forecast the effect of the negro vote on Schlesinger's chances.

A San Antonio betting commissioner declared he was offering odds of two to one on Tynan's victory over Shook and Schlesinger. His offer meant he would pay $2 on a $1 bet if Tynan lost.

The commissioner was not offering odds on the congressional race but confidently predicted the negro vote would enhance the chances of Mayor Quin for election. He did not indicate what odds he might offer.

ODDS ON HAUSSER.

Odds favored Hausser to win handily against Albert West Jr., and Tex Alsbury, the latter being former relief administrator here. The betting commissioner said he would bet four to one Hausser beats Alsbury, and two to one Hausser defeats West.

He did not offer odds on Hausser's chances of winning.

Little betting has been done thus far, however, it was said. "Smart money," the commissioner said, is waiting until the campaigns have nearly run their courses.

Maury Maverick, tax collector in the race for congress against Quin, Thurman Barrett, and John K. Weber, will not be greatly aided by the negro vote, observers said.

It was pointed out Maverick two years ago vigorously opposed the negro vote. His standing with that group consequently is not particularly favorable, observers declared.

IN TWO GROUPS

The tax collector had no comment to make on the new element in the campaign. It was known Maverick believes he can win enough of the total of near 50,000 votes to dispense with the negro vote.

That the county's negroes would vote in unanimity seemed improbable to political forecasters. The negro voting population reputedly is divided sharply into two groups: the church-going class and the sporting element. The largest bloc of organized votes is under the control of Charles Bellinger, negro.

There are 4820 negro votes in the county. Of this number 4604 live in the city limits.

HOUSTON, July 7.—(INS)—Negroes were excluded from the Democratic primaries in Harris county today by meandering resolutions adopted by the county Democratic executive committee.

The resolutions banned all voters who were unable to show that they had voted Democratic three times within the past six years. Where the voter has just attained his majority the resolution provided that his parents must have voted Democratic three times within the past six years.

The resolutions did not mention negroes directly but it was an unconcealed fact that they were aimed at them.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
LIGHT

JUL 12 1934

Morriss to Permit Negro Primary Vote.

In the face of a ruling from the attorney general's office holding negroes cannot vote in Democratic primaries this year, Chairman Will A. Morriss Jr. fo the Bexar county Democratic executive committee, Thursday reaffirmed his decision to permit the negro vote in this county.

Morriss asserted he believed Attorney General James V. Allred had acted "without full knowledge."

Until he is proved wrong, Morriss said, his decision to permit Bexar county's approximately 3500 negro voters to cast ballots will stand.

Political observers declared the question of the negro vote in Bexar county is important this year because of the close races expected between congressional and criminal district attorney candidates.

NO ACTION TAKEN.

Morriss openly declared Allred's decision apparently was not based on the full record.

At the party's last convention held in Lubbock in September, 1932 no resolution to bar negroes from primaries was adopted. Such a measure, he said, was offered, but was tabled in committee.

At the previous meeting, however such a resolution was adopted, but each party convention must decide the question, Morriss said.

A LEGAL QUESTION.

Morriss said he based his decision on a thorough study of the last convention's record.

Last week in announcing his decision, Morriss said: "As I regard the question, it is exclusively a legal question. Neither personal opinion or preference may be considered." He pointed out that the courts were divided on the question of the negroes' right to a primary vote.

Observers were not certain whether the ruling of Morriss or of Allred would apply here.

SAN ANGELO, TEX.
STANDARD

JUL 6 1934

Lifts Ban On Negro Voting

Jefferson County to Leave "White" Off Pledge

BEAUMONT, Texas, July 6. (AP)—Jefferson county's Democratic executive committee has rescinded a resolution previously passed restricting voting in the primaries to white citizens. Effect of the action was to lift the ban on negro voting.

The vote on rescinding of the resolution was 14 to 14, and it was necessary for J. R. Edmonds, county Democratic chairman, to break the deadlock. He voted to rescind the resolution, explaining he believed the county executive committee had no right to include the word "white" in the pledge set up by the state executive committee for state candidates.

Immediately after the "white primary" resolution was rescinded a motion was made to place the white pledge on a ballot for Jefferson county candidates only. The motion was carried by an overwhelming majority, but the chairman ruled it out of order when members of the committee protested the executive committee had no right to take up the matter in the special meeting called for another purpose.

However, Chairman Edmonds advised the executive committee that he would use his influence as an ex-officio member of the primary sub-committee to see that two ballots, a state ballot and a county ballot, were printed, the latter to carry the white pledge, but the move failed in sub-committee and only one ballot will be printed for the county.

PORT ARTHUR, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 1 1934

OFFICE SEEKERS READY FOR 4TH

No Formal Rallies Scheduled For Independence Day

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, June 30.—Office-seekers are spending the week-end "oiling" their talking apparatus for arduous, overtime appearances on the Independence holiday, Wednesday.

No formal rallies are scheduled for that day, but there'll be huge crowds in Beaumont and Port Arthur, and the candidates won't miss the opportunity to meet as many voters as possible. It will be hot and dusty chasing back and forth between the two cities, but what is heat and dust when you are running for office?

Endorsement Question

The Non-Partisan league is coming in for lots of mention, pro and con, as the campaign goes into high gear. Many candidates selected by the league aren't hesitating to announce that they are "proud" of the endorsement. Aspirants not listed on the league ticket are emphasizing that they are "not being run by any clique, clan, league or machine."

In a speech Thursday in behalf of his candidacy for county judge, Dr. E. J. Diffenbacher, who was not endorsed by the league, leveled some hot fire at the Non-Partisan organization. He called it "undemocratic' and "un-American" and applied other unflattering adjectives.

League Cracks Back

Today, the Beaumont league cracked back at the doctor.

"All I want to say is that Doctor Diffenbacher like to have run us crazy for three months begging for the league's endorsement," said John Galiano, publicity chairman for the local league unit. "He didn't get it. Now listen to him."

Nola White and C. N. Ellis, two of the four rivals for the county court at law judgeship, pepped up a slow neighborhood rally at South Park last night.

"If they let the negros vote, it may go hard with me," County Commissioner Sam Hughes said to-day. White had made some remark about one of his opponents being too old to render fulltime, efficient service on the bench. Ellis, whose hair is snow white, referred to White as a "young squirt." Ellis added that he knew before he was born. E. B. Lamson of precinct, No. 4. It boasts hundreds of Beaumont are the others in the county court free-for-all. Beaumont's biggest negro neighborhood—Pear Orchard—is in Sam's Port Arthur and C. W. Wiedemann of negro voters. Most candidates here are keeping mum on the negro vote question, waiting to see which way the county committee is going to jump.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
EXPRESS

JUL 11 1934

WEBB COUNTY NEGROES ALLOWED TO VOTE

(Special Telegram)

LAREDO, Tex., July 10.—Peter P. Leyendecker, chairman of the Webb County Democratic executive committee. Tuesday mailed instructions to all presiding judges of the 14 voting precincts of Webb County to allow negroes to cast their votes in the Democratic primaries July 28. Chairman Leyendecker took similar action during the Democratic primaries of 1932, with the result that some negro votes were cast in those primaries.

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 13 1934

Decision Raises First Stir of Campaign Among Politicians

BY WILLIAM M. THORNTON,
Staff Correspondent of The News.

AUSTIN, Texas, July 12.—A real political stir, the first of the campaign, was created Thursday over the ruling at Dallas by Attorney General James V. Allred that Negroes are barred from the Democratic primaries under a resolution adopted at the Houston convention of May, 1932, which named the Texas delegates to the Chicago National Democratic convention.

State house politicians had settled down to the belief that Negroes, for the first time in the history of Texas, generally would vote at the primaries and had begun to speculate as to what effect it would have on the various contests.

Some of them still think the issue will be settled in the counties and that Allred's opinion may not be followed generally. They base this belief on the danger of election officials who refuse Negroes the right to vote being liable for damages under the opinion of the United States Supreme Court in the Dixon case. A judgment was sought against El Paso election officials when Negroes were refused the ballot and for a time it appeared as though the officials would have to pay damages.

Ferguson Silent.

Comment on Allred's opinion was refused by ex-Gov. James E. Ferguson who, as a proxy, was chairman of a subcommittee of the State Democratic Executive Committee in its Austin session June 11, when no action was taken either to admit or bar Negroes from the primaries. A delegation of Negroes, men and women asked the subcommittee for the right to vote. The subcommittee made no recommendation to the main committee and the latter took no action, refusing even to mention the matter. That left it to the individual counties and many of them already had indicated that Negroes, for the first time, would be given the vote.

Most of these counties now are expected to change their attitude and refuse to accept Negro votes. This may cause mandatory injunctions to be sought by Negroes in the larger counties that put up the bars.

Absentee Votes Cast.

A number of Negroes already have cast absentee ballots. Under Allred's ruling these ballots will not be accepted by election officials unless a mandamus compels them to do so.

Allred's opinion is expected to be of much help to him in his race for Governor, as the old white guard of Democracy was indignant at the thought of Negroes voting with white men and women.

BEAUMONT, TEX.
JOURNAL

JUL 8 1934

WHITE PLEDGE ELIMINATED FROM BALLOT

Negroes May Vote In Primary According To Ruling Of Committee

By a vote of 15 to 14, the Jefferson county democratic executive committee Thursday afternoon decided to leave the word "white" from the party pledge that will be read at the various elections this year.

DRASTIC CHANGE

This means that negroes will be permitted to vote in the July primaries.

This issue, generally conceded to be a major one, was decided by a comparatively few members of the county committee. There are 45, but only 26 attended the meeting. Chairman J. R. Edmonds was forced to break the tie vote. He declared that he was in favor of a white election but that he was afraid that if it was held, the entire balloting might be invalidated.

The discussion at times became particularly heated, with Marshall Jennings, one committee member, declaring "I'm for a whtie man's election if I have to go to the penitentiary for it."

It was O. S. Hunter, however, who fought for the negro ban test from the start. "Let's," he demanded at one time, "don't let our wives, daughters and sweethearts be humiliated by having to go to the same polls with negroes."

LAWYERS DIFFER

Attention of the committee was called to the fact by George W. Morgan, a member, that there was considerable difference of opinion among the legal profession as to whether or not the ban against negroes would invalidate the other ballots cast. "I've advocated the pledge from the beginning," Morgan said. "Not all the lawyers I have talked with about the law on the matter believe alike. There is a difference of opinion, and I believe that if we go ahead with the white pledge, we can get plenty of good lawyers to fight the case free."

The contention was made that if Jefferson county decided not to let the negroes vote, it would be going against the wishes of the state committee.

First of the new ballots came from the presses Friday morning. They are being printed by the American Printing company.

CLEVELAND, O.
PRESS

JUL 14 1934

HINTS SWING OF COLORED VOTES

Alexander Martin Writes to Roosevelt Aid; Split With G. O. P. Seen

Possibility of a break between the colored race in America and its ancient political ally, the Republican Party, was hinted in a letter enroute today from Alexander H. Martin, Cleveland attorney, to Daniel C. Roper, secretary of commerce in Washington.

Asking that President Roosevelt's "New Deal" be extended into a new deal for the colored race as well, the letter from Mr. Martin, a judicial candidate, called for a concrete interpretation of the present administration's policies in their relation to the colored race.

Mr. Martin, a Republican who voted for Roosevelt, indirectly suggested that there might be an exodus of colored people from the Republican Party into the Democratic fold if they had pointed out to them a more definite position in the New Deal.

"Our people must be assured of full benefits of President Roosevelt's New Deal without that adverse discrimination which has heretofore largely marred its administration to our serious advantage," the letter said.

"While we have made very good progress in routing the depression and in building anew upon a renaissance of those fundamental ideals which have been permitted to fall into the discard, I believe we are now heading into a new contest in which it will be necessary to summon the fullest support possible for the successful vindication of the position and leadership of our great president.

"Accordingly, earnestly desiring that present and future success not be prevented by a hurtful devotion to the superstitions and prejudices of the past, I am writing to urge upon you and the powers that be, this necessary policy.

"This must be done in order to secure that full response which comes from understanding, a response which is needed in order to bring into line that enthusiastic, fighting support of 12,000,000 black Americans."

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 4 1934

ABOUT "BLACK BALLOTS."

To The News:

Your editorial of June 22 on "Black Ballots" is very commendable for its timely and fair-minded speech touching the openness of the Democratic primary. There does not appear any grounds for an unfavorable criticism.

It does seem to me, however, that the accompanying caricature distracts from a worthy consideration of its meritorious cause. The picture in question can not do otherwise than make a bad impression and further crystallize prejudice in the minds of many against allowing the Negro to exercise his right of suffrage in the affairs of a Commonwealth wherein he is a component and constituent in its state of weal or woe.

The persistent appeal for civic justice and equality is not made by the type of Negroes pictured, but by the most intelligent, level-headed and sober-minded members of the race. These are they—and not the shiftless, ragamuffin element—who own respectable homes, pay taxes upon desirable property and contribute largely to social uplift in State and country. These are they who are pleading for an active, representative voice, through right use of the ballot, in the conduct of a true democracy. A caricature of this type would have, without doubt, given more power and influence to your splendid editorial.

C. H. UGGAMS.
Box 226, Hawkins, Texas.

NEGRO'S RIGHT.

To The News:

The cartoon article, "Black Ballots," appearing in June 22 issue, can but help draw favorable comment from the Negro population of Texas. It is a step that is certain to solicit utmost confidence and respect from the Negroes of Texas, while at the same time will destroy among them suspicion and political indifference. Such a step can not fail to attract attention and favorable comment from the better element of a body politic.

The thought has often occurred to the writer: What does the white man have to lose by extending to the Negro his rightful right to the ballot, or, what does he have to gain by denying him his constitutional guarantee? The fact is the white man gains nothing and the Negro loses everything. Moreover, recall the old adage: "A chain is no stronger than its weakest link."

The writer's belief is, whenever and wherever a people advance politically and ethically to the point such that they respect the highest law of the land they have achieved a distinguishable mark of intelligence and advancement.

E. RANDALL.
Texas College, Tyler, Texas.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
LIGHT

JUL 7 1934

BEXAR NEGROES GIVEN VOTE IN PRIMARY

Negroes will be permitted to vote in the Democratic primary election this year, Will A. Morriss Jr., Bexar county Democratic executive committee chairman, announced Saturday.

This decision will add approximately 3500 votes to the possible maximum.

Morriss issued a statement, giving the history of the fight of Texas negroes to win the right to vote in primary elections and explaining his reason for deciding they should be allowed to vote this year.

Morriss said:

"As I regard the right or not of negroes to vote in the forthcoming primary, it is exclusively a legal question to be determined on purely legal grounds. Neither personal preference nor opinion, therefore, may be considered."

He then pointed out that neither the last state convention nor the state Democratic executive committee had taken action on proposals to bar negroes from the polls during the primaries. A motion to take any action, it is manifestly beyond the power of our county executive committee or of myself as chairman of that committee to assume to take such action."

"Under these circumstances, where the power of exclusion, if such power exists, rests with the state convention or the state executive committee," he concluded, "and both of these have declined to take

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
EXPRESS

JUL 11 1934

WEBB COUNTY NEGROES ALLOWED TO VOTE

(Special Telegram)

LAREDO, Tex., July 10.—Peter P. Leyendecker, chairman of the Webb County Democratic executive committee. Tuesday mailed instructions to all presiding judges of the 14 voting precincts of Webb County to allow negroes to cast their votes in the Democratic primaries July 28. Chairman Leyendecker took similar action during the Democratic primaries of 1932, with the result that some negro votes were cast in those primaries.

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 13 1934

Decision Raises First Stir of Campaign Among Politicians

BY WILLIAM M. THORNTON,
Staff Correspondent of The News.

AUSTIN, Texas, July 12.—A real political stir, the first of the campaign, was created Thursday over the ruling at Dallas by Attorney General James V. Allred that Negroes are barred from the Democratic primaries under a resolution adopted at the Houston convention of May, 1932, which named the Texas delegates to the Chicago National Democratic convention.

State house politicians had settled down to the belief that Negroes, for the first time in the history of Texas, generally would vote at the primaries and had begun to speculate as to what effect it would have on the various contests.

Some of them still think the issue will be settled in the counties and that Allred's opinion may not be followed generally. They base this belief on the danger of election officials who refuse Negroes the right to vote being liable for damages under the opinion of the United States Supreme Court in the Dixon case. A judgment was sought against El Paso election officials when Negroes were refused the ballot and for a time it appeared as though the officials would have to pay damages.

Ferguson Silent.

Comment on Allred's opinion was refused by ex-Gov. James E. Ferguson who, as a proxy, was chairman of a subcommittee of the State Democratic Executive Committee in its Austin session June 11, when no action was taken either to admit or bar Negroes from the primaries. A delegation of Negroes, men and women asked the subcommittee for the right to vote. The subcommittee made no recommendation to the main committee and the latter took no action, refusing even to mention the matter. That left it to the individual counties and many of them already had indicated that Negroes, for the first time, would be given the vote.

Most of these counties now are expected to change their attitude and refuse to accept Negro votes. This may cause mandatory injunctions to be sought by Negroes in the larger counties that put up the bars.

Absentee Votes Cast.

A number of Negroes already have cast absentee ballots. Under Allred's ruling these ballots will not be accepted by election officials unless a mandamus compels them to do so.

Allred's opinion is expected to be of much help to him in his race for Governor, as the old white guard of Democracy was indignant at the thought of Negroes voting with white men and women.

BEAUMONT, TEX.
JOURNAL

JUL 6 1934

WHITE PLEDGE ELIMINATED FROM BALLOT

Negroes May Vote In Primary According To Ruling Of Committee

By a vote of 15 to 14, the Jefferson county democratic executive committee Thursday afternoon decided to leave the word "white" from the party pledge that will be read at the various elections this year.

DRASTIC CHANGE

This means that negroes will be permitted to vote in the July primaries.

This issue, generally conceded to be a major one, was decided by a comparatively few members of the county committee. There are 45, but only 26 attended the meeting. Chairman J. R. Edmonds was forced to break the tie vote. He declared that he was in favor of a white election but that he was afraid that if it was held, the entire balloting might be invalidated.

The discussion at times became particularly heated, with Marshall Jennings, one committee member, declaring "I'm for a whtie man's election if I have to go to the penitentiary for it."

It was O. S. Hunter, however, who fought for the negro ban test from the start. "Let's," he demanded at one time, "don't let our wives, daughters and sweethearts be humiliated by having to go to the same polls with negroes."

LAWYERS DIFFER

Attention of the committee was called to the fact by George W. Morgan, a member, that there was considerable difference of opinion among the legal profession as to whether or not the ban against negroes would invalidate the other ballots cast. "I've advocated the pledge from the beginning," Morgan said. "Not all the lawyers I have talked with about the law on the matter believe alike. There is a difference of opinion, and I believe that if we go ahead with the white pledge, we can get plenty of good lawyers to fight the case free."

The contention was made that if Jefferson county decided not to let the negroes vote, it would be going against the wishes of the state committee.

First of the new ballots came from the presses Friday morning. They are being printed by the American Printing company.

CLEVELAND, O.
PRESS

JUL 14 1934

HINTS SWING OF COLORED VOTES

Alexander Martin Writes to Roosevelt Aid; Split With G. O. P. Seen

Possibility of a break between the colored race in America and its ancient political ally, the Republican Party, was hinted in a letter enroute today from Alexander H. Martin, Cleveland attorney, to Daniel C. Roper, secretary of commerce in Washington.

Asking that President Roosevelt's "New Deal" be extended into a new deal for the colored race as well, the letter from Mr. Martin, a judicial candidate, called for a concrete interpretation of the present administration's policies in their relation to the colored race.

Mr. Martin, a Republican who voted for Roosevelt, indirectly suggested that there might be an exodus of colored people from the Republican Party into the Democratic fold if they had pointed out to them a more definite position in the New Deal.

"Our people must be assured of full benefits of President Roosevelt's New Deal without that adverse discrimination which has heretofore largely marred its administration to our serious advantage," the letter said.

"While we have made very good progress in routing the depression and in building anew upon a renaissance of those fundamental ideals which have been permitted to fall into the discard. I believe we are now heading into a new contest in which it will be necessary to summon the fullest support possible for the successful vindication of the position and leadership of our great president.

"Accordingly, earnestly desiring that present and future success not be prevented by a hurtful devotion to the superstitions and prejudices of the past, I am writing to urge upon you and the powers that be this necessary policy.

"This must be done in order to secure that full response which comes from understanding, a response which is needed in order to bring into line that enthusiastic fighting support of 12,000,000 black Americans."

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 4 1934

ABOUT "BLACK BALLOTS."

To The News:

Your editorial of June 22 on "Black Ballots" is very commendable for its timely and fair-minded speech touching the openness of the Democratic primary. There does not appear any grounds for an unfavorable criticism.

It does seem to me, however, that the accompanying caricature distracts from a worthy consideration of its meritorious cause. The picture in question can not do otherwise than make a bad impression and further crystallize prejudice in the minds of many against allowing the Negro to exercise his right of suffrage in the affairs of a Commonwealth wherein he is a component and constituent in its state of weal or woe.

The persistent appeal for civic justice and equality is not made by the type of Negroes pictured, but by the most intelligent, level-headed and sober-minded members of the race. These are they—and not the shiftless, ragamuffin element—who own respectable homes, pay taxes upon desirable property and contribute largely to social uplift in State and country. These are they who are pleading for an active, representative voice, through right use of the ballot, in the conduct of a true democracy. A caricature of this type would have, without doubt, given more power and influence to your splendid editorial.

C. H. UGGAMS.
Box 226, Hawkins, Texas.

NEGRO'S RIGHT.

To The News:

The cartoon article, "Black Ballots," appearing in June 22 issue, can but help draw favorable comment from the Negro population of Texas. It is a step that is certain to solicit utmost confidence and respect from the Negroes of Texas, while at the same time will destroy among them suspicion and political indifference. Such a step can not fail to attract attention and favorable comment from the better element of a body politic.

The thought has often occurred to the writer: What does the white man have to lose by extending to the Negro his rightful right to the ballot, or, what does he have to gain by denying him his constitutional guarantee? The fact is the white man gains nothing and the Negro loses everything.

Moreover, recall the old adage: "A chain is no stronger than its weakest link."

The writer's belief is, whenever and wherever a people advance politically and ethically to the point such that they respect the highest law of the land they have achieved a distinguishable mark of intelligence and advancement.

E. RANDALL.
Texas College, Tyler, Texas.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
LIGHT

JUL 7 1934

BEXAR NEGROES GIVEN VOTE IN PRIMARY

Negroes will be permitted to vote in the Democratic primary election this year, Will A. Morriss Jr., Bexar county Democratic executive committee chairman, announced Saturday.

This decision will add approximately 3500 votes to the possible maximum.

Morriss issued a statement, giving the history of the fight of Texas negroes to win the right to vote in primary elections and explaining his reason for deciding they should be allowed to vote this year.

Morriss said:

"As I regard the right or not of negroes to vote in the forthcoming primary, it is exclusively a legal question to be determined on purely legal grounds. Neither personal preference nor opinion, therefore, may be considered."

He then pointed out that neither the state convention nor the state executive committee had taken action on proposals to bar negroes from the polls during the primaries. A motion to that effect was tabled at the state convention at Lubbock in 1932 and the state executive committee took no action, it is manifestly beyond the power of our county executive committee or of myself as chairman of that committee to assume to take such action."

"Under these circumstances, I am of the opinion, that the power of exclusion, if any action, he said. "Under where the power exists, rests with the such power exists, rests with the state convention or the state executive committee," he concluded, "and both of these have declined to take action on proposals

Political - 1934

Suffrage.

Texas.

Wichita Falls, Tex.
TIMES

JUL 12 1934

ALLRED HOLDS NEGRO BARRED BY CONVENTION

Attorney General Bases Decision on Action Taken in 1932

U. S. COURT DECISIONS REVIEWED IN OPINION

Believes Resolution Valid And Promises Defense In Case of Attack

DALLAS, July 12. (AP)—Atty. Gen. James V. Allred today handed down an opinion holding that negroes are not entitled to vote in the coming Democratic primaries.

The opinion prepared by the attorney general's department was sent here for Allred's approval due to its importance. It was addressed to D. B. Wood, county attorney of Williamson county.

Allred said his department had received numerous inquiries from election judges, officials of the party and from officers and candidates for office, as well as from negroes themselves wishing to vote.

The attorney general's decision was based upon a resolution adopted at the state convention of the Democratic party in Houston May 24, 1932, reading as follows:

"Be it resolved that all white citizens of the state of Texas who are qualified to vote under the constitution and laws of the state shall be eligible to membership in the Democratic party and as such entitled to participate in its deliberations."

This resolution, in effect, limited the right to participate in Democratic party primaries to whites and consequently excluded negroes, Allred ruled.

The attorney general's opinion reviewed the various decisions of the United States supreme court, including the five to four decision in Nixon vs. Condon, written by Justice Cardoza in May, 1932, just before the passage of the resolution by the party in state convention.

In the Nixon case the supreme court of the United States held that the Democratic state executive committee was without authority to bar negroes, but said:

"Whether a political party in Texas has inherent power today without restraint by any law to determine its own membership, we are not required at this time to affirm or to deny."

The adoption of the resolution by the party in convention followed immediately after the Nixon vs. Condon decision.

"The court of civil appeals at San Antonio by a two to one decision upheld the validity of the resolution. Certified questions to the supreme court of Texas were dismissed on the ground that there was an absence of necessary parties to the suit," Allred said.

"I think this opinion of the court of civil appeals was correct. And election officials throughout the state should follow it. The Democratic party has always been a white man's party in Texas and the attorney general's department will do everything in its power to keep it such.

"Practically every court decision recognizes the inherent right of a political party to determine the content of its membership. Certainly when the party spoke through its state convention it was the voice of the party itself. I think this resolution of the state convention was valid and stand ready to defend it should it be attacked."

Attorney General Allred was in Dallas a short time conferring with one of his assistants with reference to the opinion handed down. He will leave late in the day for Greenville, where he plans to speak tonight in behalf of his candidacy for governor.

DALLAS, TEX.
JOURNAL

JUL 12 1934

Allred Rules Negroes Out Of Primaries

Attorney General James V. Allred held that Negroes are not entitled to vote in the Democratic primaries in an opinion announced Thursday from his North Texas campaign for Governor headquarters here.

Mr. Allred explained that the opinion was prepared in his office by his assistants and sent to Dallas for his approval while he stopped on his way to Greenville, where he speaks Thursday night. The ruling was addressed to D. B. Wood, County Attorney of Williamson County, who, with many other officials, Election Judges and party officials, had asked for an opinion.

"The Democratic party has always been a white man's party in Texas," Mr. Allred commented here. "The Attorney General's Department will do everything in its power to keep it such. Practically every court decision recognizes the inherent right of a political party to determine the content of its membership."

The announcement explaining the ruling made here by the Attorney General, said:

"The Attorney General's decision was based upon a resolution adopted at the State convention of the Democratic party in Houston on May 24, 1932, reading as follows: 'Be it resolved that all white citizens of the State of Texas who are qualified to vote under the Constitution and laws of the State shall be eligible to membership in the Democratic party and as such entitled to participate in its deliberations.' This resolution in effect limited the right to participate in Democratic party primaries to whites, and consequently excluded Negroes.

"The Attorney General's opinion reviewed the various decisions of the United States Supreme Court, including the five-to-four decision in Nixon versus Condon, written by Mr. Justice Cardoza in May, 1932, just before the passage of the resolution by the party in State convention. In the Nixon case the Supreme Court of the United States held that the Democratic State executive committee was without authority to bar Negroes, but said:

"'Whether a political party in Texas has inherent power today without restraint by any law to determine its own membership, we are not required at this time to affirm or to deny.'

"The adoption of the resolution by the party in convention (set out above) followed immediately after the Nixon vs. Condon decision.

"The validity of the action taken by the State convention in adopting the foregoing resolution was challenged in the case of Bexar County Executive Committee vs. Booker. The Court of Civil Appeals at San Antonio, by a two-to-one decision upheld the validity of the resolution. Certified questions to the Supreme Court of Texas were dismissed on the ground that there was an absence of necessary parties to the suit."

"I think this opinion by the Court of Civil Appeals was correct," Allred said, "and election officials throughout the State should follow it. Certainly when the party spoke through its State convention it was the voice of the party itself. I think this resolution of the State convention was valid and stand ready to defend it should it be attacked."

The belief was held that Negroes could not be barred from the primaries, on account of the United States Supreme Court decision in the Nixon case, by John Davis, Dallas member of the State Democratic Committee. The State committee refused to act on the mater at its recent meeting, leaving it up to local election officials decide if Negroes would be permitted to vote.

At the time that Allred's ruling was announced barring Negroes, the United American Activities made public the fact that the organization's executive committee discussed Wednesday night at a secret meeting reports that the Negroes plan to force their way into the primary July 28.

A special meeting of the order has been called for Saturday night. Speakers at the meeting Wednesday night feared the possibilities of a race riot and declared Negroes must be barred at all costs. They reported that they had learned the Negroes planned to go to the polls in groups of 25 to 100 and to demand that they be permitted to vote.

A political rally for negro voters of the county will be held Friday night at the Pythian Temple on Elm street, under the auspices of the Progressive Citizens' League.

The league reported that poll tax lists show there are more than 2,500 qualified negro voters in the county. The various candidates will be discussed at the Friday meeting.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
EXPRESS

JUL 14 1934

AUSTIN, Tex., July 13.—The Travis County Democratic Executive Committee will meet Saturday to pass on the question whether negroes will be permitted to vote in the primary election July 28. The committee previously had declined to take action on this proposition, asking for a decision by the State executive committee. The State committee did nothing, but Attorney General James V. Allred had ruled that negroes are not entitled to participate in a Democratic primary.

CLEBURNE, TEX.
MORNING REVIEW

JUL 12 1934

WILL FOLLOW COURT RULING

Demo Head Comments On Allred Decision

The opinion of the Johnson County Democratic executive committee will be that the question of whether the negro has the right to vote in the primary elections this year should be governed by the ruling of the supreme court which gives them that privilege.

That was the statement this afternoon of Mitchell Davis, chairman of the committee in this county, when informed that Attorney General James V. Allred at Dallas today handed down an opinion that "negroes are not entitled to vote in coming Democratic primaries."

The opinion, addressed to D. B. Wood, Williamson County attorney, was in answer to numerous inquiries from election judges, party officials, candidates for office and negroes themselves, Allred said.

Allred said the opinion was based on a resolution adopted at the party's State convention in Houston, May 24, 1932.

Reviews Discussion.

Mr. Davis states that he has not gone thoroughly into the matter but that in his best recollection the resolution referred to was passed prior to the ruling of the supreme court, the resolution being that the party confine its membership in party to white people with the idea that the legislature would ratify the action.

However, the legislature did not take up the question. The supreme court handed down a ruling in a case in which a negro had sued for damages because he was refused the right to vote.

Mr. Davis states that the general opinion is that the ruling of the supreme court is what should be followed in any question.

The question involved is whether it is party prerogative as to the negro vote or if the constitution takes precedence over party rulings.

BEAUMONT, TEX.
ENTERPRISE

JUL 12 1934

WHITE PRECINCT MEET IS CALLED

Negroes Barred From Central Fire Station Convention on July 28

A white precinct convention for the qualified white democratic voters of precinct 7, in the city of Beaumont, county of Jefferson, state of Texas:

"You and each of you are hereby notified that a precinct convention is called to be held on Saturday, July 28, at 7:30 p. m. at the central fire station in said precinct for the purpose of electing delegates to the county convention to be held Saturday, August 4, at the county courthouse of Jefferson county, state of Texas."

O. S. Hunter, precinct chairman, yesterday issued a notice calling all "qualified white democrats" to meet and elect delegates to the county convention. The notice follows:

"To the qualified white democratic voters of precinct 7, in the city of Beau-

Texas.

Political - 1934

Suffrage.

Wichita Falls, Tex.
TIMES

JUL 12 1934

ALLRED HOLDS NEGRO BARRED BY CONVENTION

Attorney General Bases Decision on Action Taken in 1932

U. S. COURT DECISIONS REVIEWED IN OPINION

Believes Resolution Valid And Promises Defense In Case of Attack

DALLAS, July 12. (AP)—Atty. Gen. James V. Allred today handed down an opinion holding that negroes are not entitled to vote in the coming Democratic primaries.

The opinion prepared by the attorney general's department was sent here for Allred's approval due to its importance. It was addressed to D. B. Wood, county attorney of Williamson county.

Allred said his department had received numerous inquiries from election judges, officials of the party and from officers and candidates for office, as well as from negroes themselves wishing to vote.

The attorney general's decision was based upon a resolution adopted at the state convention of the Democratic party in Houston May 24, 1932, reading as follows:

"Be it resolved that all white citizens of the state of Texas who are qualified to vote under the constitution and laws of the state shall be eligible to membership in the Democratic party and as such entitled to participate in its deliberations."

This resolution, in effect, limited the right to participate in Democratic party primaries to whites and consequently excluded negroes, Allred ruled.

The attorney general's opinion reviewed the various decisions of the United States supreme court, including the five to four decision in Nixon vs. Condon, written by Justice Cardoza in May, 1932, just before the passage of the resolution by the party in state convention.

In the Nixon case the supreme court of the United States held that the Democratic state executive committee was without authority to bar negroes, but said:

"Whether a political party in Texas has inherent power today without restraint by any law to determine its own membership, we are not required at this time to affirm or to deny."

The adoption of the resolution by the party in convention followed immediately after the Nixon vs. Condon decision.

"The court of civil appeals at San Antonio by a two to one decision upheld the validity of the resolution. Certified questions to the supreme court of Texas were dismissed on the ground that there was an absence of necessary parties to the suit," Allred said.

"I think this opinion of the court of civil appeals was correct. And election officials throughout the state should follow it. The Democratic party has always been a white man's party in Texas and the attorney general's department will do everything in its power to keep it such.

"Practically every court decision recognizes the inherent right of a political party to determine the content of its membership. Certainly when the party spoke through its state convention it was the voice of the party itself. I think this resolution of the state convention was valid and stand ready to defend it should it be attacked."

Attorney General Allred was in Dallas a short time conferring with one of his assistants with reference to the opinion handed down. He will leave late in the day for Greenville, where he plans to speak tonight in behalf of his candidacy for governor.

DALLAS, TEX.
JOURNAL

JUL 12 1934

Allred Rules Negroes Out Of Primaries

Attorney General James V. Allred held that Negroes are not entitled to vote in the Democratic primaries in an opinion announced Thursday from his North Texas campaign for Governor headquarters here.

Mr. Allred explained that the opinion was prepared in his office by his assistants and sent to Dallas for his approval while he stopped on his way to Greenville, where he speaks Thursday night. The ruling was addressed to D. B. Wood, County Attorney of Williamson County, who, with many other officials, Election Judges and party officials, had asked for an opinion.

"The Democratic party has always been a white man's party in Texas," Mr. Allred commented here. "The Attorney General's Department will do everything in its power to keep it such. Practically every court decision recognizes the inherent right of a political party to determine the content of its membership."

The announcement explaining the ruling made here by the Attorney General, said:

"The Attorney General's decision was based upon a resolution adopted at the State convention of the Democratic party in Houston on May 24, 1932, reading as follows: 'Be it resolved that all white citizens of the State of Texas who are qualified to vote under the Constitution and laws of the State shall be eligible to membership in the Democratic party and as such entitled to participate in its deliberations.' This resolution in effect limited the right to participate in Democratic party primaries to whites, and consequently excluded Negroes.

"The Attorney General's opinion reviewed the various decisions of the United States Supreme Court, including the five-to-four decision in Nixon versus Condon, written by Mr. Justice Cardoza in May, 1932, just before the passage of the resolution by the party in State convention. In the Nixon case the Supreme Court of the United States held that the Democratic State executive committee was without authority to bar Negroes, but said:

"'Whether a political party in Texas has inherent power today without restraint by any law to determine its own membership, we are not required at this time to affirm or to deny.'

"The adoption of the resolution by the party in convention (set out above) followed immediately after the Nixon vs. Condon decision.

"The validity of the action taken by the State convention in adopting the foregoing resolution was challenged in the case of Bexar County Executive Committee vs. Booker. The Court of Civil Appeals at San Antonio, by a two-to-one decision upheld the validity of the resolution. Certified questions to the Supreme Court of Texas were dismissed on the ground that there was an absence of necessary parties to the suit."

"I think this opinion by the Court of Civil Appeals was correct," Allred said, "and election officials throughout the State should follow it. Certainly when the party spoke through its State convention it was the voice of the party itself. I think this resolution of the State convention was valid and stand ready to defend it should it be attacked."

The belief was held that Negroes could not be barred from the primaries, on account of the United States Supreme Court decision in the Nixon case, by John Davis, Dallas member of the State Democratic Committee. The State committee refused to act on the mater at its recent meeting, leaving it up to local election officials decide if Negroes would be permitted to vote.

At the time that Allred's ruling was announced barring Negroes, the United American Activities made public the fact that the organization's executive committee discussed Wednesday night at a secret meeting reports that the Negroes plan to force their way into the primary July 28.

A special meeting of the order has been called for Saturday night. Speakers at the meeting Wednesday night feared the possibilities of a race riot and declared Negroes must be barred at all costs. They reported that they had learned the Negroes planned to go to the polls in groups of 25 to 100 and to demand that they be permitted to vote.

A political rally for negro voters of the county will be held Friday night at the Pythian Temple on Elm street, under the auspices of the Progressive Citizens' League.

The league reported that poll tax lists show there are more than 2,500 qualified negro voters in the county. The various candidates will be discussed at the Friday meeting.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
EXPRESS

JUL 14 1934

AUSTIN, Tex., July 13.—The Travis County Democratic Executive Committee will meet Saturday to pass on the question whether negroes will be permitted to vote in the primary election July 28. The committee previously had declined to take action on this proposition, asking for a decision by the State executive committee. The State committee did nothing, but Attorney General James V. Allred had ruled that negroes are not entitled to participate in a Democratic primary.

CLEBURNE, TEX.
MORNING REVIEW

JUL 12 1934

WILL FOLLOW COURT RULING

Demo Head Comments On Allred Decision

The opinion of the Johnson County Democratic executive committee will be that the question of whether the negro has the right to vote in the primary elections this year should be governed by the ruling of the supreme court which gives them that privilege.

That was the statement this afternoon of Mitchell Davis, chairman of the committee in this county, when informed that Attorney General James V. Allred at Dallas today handed down an opinion that "negroes are not entitled to vote in coming Democratic primaries."

The opinion, addressed to D. B. Wood, Williamson County attorney, was in answer to numerous inquiries from election judges, party officials, candidates for office and negroes themselves, Allred said.

Allred said the opinion was based on a resolution adopted at the party's State convention in Houston, May 24, 1932.

Reviews Discussion.

Mr. Davis states that he has not gone thoroughly into the matter but that in his best recollection the resolution referred to was passed prior to the ruling of the supreme court, the resolution being that the party confine its membership in party to white people with the idea that the legislature would ratify the action.

However, the legislature did not take up the question. The supreme court handed down a ruling in a case in which a negro had sued for damages because he was refused the right to vote.

Mr. Davis states that the general opinion is that the ruling of the supreme court is what should be followed in any question.

The question involved is whether it is party prerogative as to the negro vote or if the constitution takes precedence over party rulings.

BEAUMONT, TEX.
ENTERPRISE

JUL 12 1934

WHITE PRECINCT MEET IS CALLED

Negroes Barred From Central Fire Station Convention on July 28

A white precinct convention for the democrats of precinct 7 (central fire station) will be held at the central fire station on Saturday, July 28, at night, despite the decision of the county convention in said precinct for the purpose of electing delegates to the county convention to be held Saturday, August 4, at the county courthouse of Jefferson county, state of Texas.

O. S. Hunter, precinct chairman, yesterday issued a notice calling all "qualified white democrats" to meet and elect delegates to the county convention. The notice follows:

"To the qualified white democratic voters of precinct 7, in the city of Beaumont, county of Jefferson, state of Texas:

"You and each of you are hereby notified that a precinct convention is called to be held on Saturday, July 28, at 7:30 p. m. at the central fire station in said precinct for the purpose of electing delegates to the county convention to be held Saturday, August 4, at the county courthouse of Jefferson county, state of Texas."

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 14 1934

Negroes Banned In Local Primary By Party Ruling

Buckner Decides to Follow Opinion Given by Attorney General

Negro citizens holding poll tax receipts will not be permitted to vote here in the Democratic primary July 28, Chairman Murrell L. Buckner of the Democratic Executive Committee announced Friday after study of the opinion in which Attorney General James V. Allred held Negroes could not vote in Democratic primaries.

The opinions of Allred and Buckner have no official standing in the courts, and it is still left to the presiding judge of each election box as to whether Negroes shall vote there.

Buckner's statement follows: "I have very carefully read the Attorney General's opinion and agree with same in every particular. I call special attention to that part of the opinion of the Supreme Court, to which the Attorney General refers, namely, Nickson versus Condon, which opinion was written by Justice Cardoza, and which said, 'Whether a political party in Texas has inherent power today without restraint by any law to determine its own membership, we are not required at this time to affirm or deny,' and after this opinion was rendered, the State convention adopted the resolution making the Democratic primaries a white man's primary," Mr. Buckner said.

"I agree with the Attorney General that the Democratic party has the right to select its own members, and I am constrained to believe the right-thinking Negro has no desire to force himself into the Democratic primaries.

"As far as I am concerned, as chairman of the Dallas County Democratic Executive Committee, the opinion of the Attorney General will be followed to the letter."

HOUSTON, TEX.
CHRONICLE

JUL 16 1934

Negro Democrats To Hold Series Of Rallies During Week

The Harris County Negro Democratic Club of which Julius White is president, plans a series of city-wide rallies during the week, it was announced Monday.

St. John Baptist Church, Bastrop and Gray, will be the scene of the meeting Tuesday at 8:30 p.m., with Dr. W. M. Drake acting as master of ceremonies.

Wednesday night the rally will be held at Bethel Baptist Church, Andrews and Crosby, with C. F. Richardson presiding.

An open air mass meeting is planned for Emancipation Park at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, with Julius White presiding; while Friday night's rally will be held at Mount Olive Baptist Church, Meadow and Gillespie streets, with Dr. T. M. Shadowens, master of ceremonies.

All of these meetings are open to the public, according to White.

VERNON, TEX.
VERNON DAILY RECORD

JUL 11 1934

NEGROES TO VOTE IN WEBB COUNTY PRIMARY

Laredo, July 11.—Negroes qualified to vote will be allowed to cast ballots in the Democratic primaries here July 28.

Chairman P. Leyendecker of Webb County's Democratic executive committee today sent instructions to all presiding judges of the 14 precincts in Webb County to allow negroes to vote in the primaries.

Chairman Leyendecker took similar action in the primaries two years ago and some negro votes were cast.

DALLAS, TEX.
TIMES HERALD

MAR 2 1934

BEAUMONT NEGROES TO VOTE SATURDAY

Beaumont, Tex., March 2 (AP).—For the first time in the history of Beaumont, negroes Saturday will be allowed to vote in a city Democratic primary.

Both Mayor Emmett A. Fletcher and his opponent, P. D. Renfro, lawyer, protested the proposition. The city Democratic executive committee acceded to the negroes' petition after advices from the state attorney general's office said the state convention or the state party executive committee alone had the authority to prescribe voters' qualifications in a primary.

The local committee then learned from the office of Maury Hughes, Dallas, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, and the secretary, E. J. Hussion of Houston, that no action on the matter had been taken by the convention or the committee. Gaynor Kendall, assistant attorney general, referred to the El Paso case of Nixon vs. Condon, recently decided for plaintiff by Federal Judge Boynton, who ruled that the pledge as stated on the ballot did not preclude the negroes' voting in the primary in point.

PRIMARY FIGHT MUST BE CONTINUED

Responding to numerous inquiries concerning the next legal steps Houston and Texas Negroes should take to break down the racial bars in connection with the Democratic primary elections in this state, The Defender is of the opinion that practically nothing can be done legally in this respect for the first primary election of Saturday, July 28, 1934. Defender

Racially and legally speaking, we have exhausted about every remedy for the first primary election, unless in the interim an effort now being made by North Texas Negroes to have some justice of the United States Supreme Court enjoin the Texas Supreme Court from enforcing its recent ruling in the mandamus petition sought by two Jefferson County Negroes, meets with success. 7-28-34

But a second or run-off Democratic primary election will be held in this county and state on Saturday, August 25, 1934, and there remains ample time to institute new court proceedings in some other federal judicial district in an effort to obtain an injunctive writ against the party leaders and elections officials, to restrain them from interfering with or preventing all qualified electors from casting their ballots in said election.

There is no need of going into any state court in another attempt to secure either an injunction or mandamus, for all district and appellate courts of the state are bound by the ruling of the Texas Supreme Court, which held that the Democratic party has the inherent right to determine its membership and prescribe qualifications of its constituents.

Negroes of Texas should unite their forces and concentrate their legal attack in some other federal district, for with the Richardson injunction case stayed by order of the presiding judge of the United States District Court for Southern Texas at Houston last Saturday and the denial of the application for a preliminary injunction against party leaders and election officials in Harris County, it would be wasting both time and money to file another case of this type in said court.

Since it is apparent that even some of the federal district judges look for loopholes when such an issue is presented in court in order to keep from passing upon the merits of the case, extreme care and precaution must be taken in filing the next cause to see to it that every legal loophole is plugged and the question of the legal and constitutional right of Negroes to vote in the Democratic primary elections is brought definitely and unmistakably to the fore.

If Negroes of Texas will get busy and raise enough money to file such an injunction suit in another federal district in Texas at once, even should the judge deny the application for an injunctive writ, there would still be time to perfect an appeal and carry the case to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans, La., before August 25, 1934.

This should and must be done, if Negroes of Houston and Texas hope to exercise their elective franchise rights in the Democratic run-off primary election of August 25, 1934, when the electorate of the state will pick, by ballot, the principal state officers.

As to damage suits against party leaders and election officials because of the denial of the right to vote in the Democratic election of Saturday, July 28, 1934, under two former decisions of the United States Supreme Court each barred voter will have such redress in court after election; but Negroes should be more concerned just now about voting in the run-off election on August 25, 1934, and should bend all their efforts in that direction just now, and then file damage suits after both primary elections, should they fail to vote in either.

The Defender is in hearty accord with the suggestions being made from various Texas points that our racial forces be combined in one test case for injunction and, failing to obtain same in a federal district court, hasten an appeal to the federal appellate court and maybe the United States Supreme Court, while we can not get very far with mere talk, and since the time is short and quick action is imperative, The Defender suggests that interested Negroes in all Texas counties and cities raise money for a primary legal defense fund within the next week, and forward same to Julius White, 409 Milam Street, Houston, Texas.

Let us not become discouraged, ever remembering that

"Right is right since God is God,
And right the day must win;
To doubt would be disloyalty,
To falter would be sin."

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 14 1934

Negroes Banned In Local Primary By Party Ruling

Buckner Decides to Follow Opinion Given by Attorney General

Negro citizens holding poll tax receipts will not be permitted to vote here in the Democratic primary July 28, Chairman Murrell L. Buckner of the Democratic Executive Committee announced Friday after study of the opinion in which Attorney General James V. Allred held Negroes could not vote in Democratic primaries.

The opinions of Allred and Buckner have no official standing in the courts, and it is still left to the presiding judge of each election box as to whether Negroes shall vote there.

Buckner's statement follows: "I have very carefully read the Attorney General's opinion and agree with same in every particular. I call special attention to that part of the opinion of the Supreme Court, to which the Attorney General refers, namely, Nickson versus Condon, which opinion was written by Justice Cardoza, and which said, 'Whether a political party in Texas has inherent power today without restraint by any law to determine its own membership, we are not required at this time to affirm or deny,' and after this opinion was rendered, the State convention adopted the resolution making the Democratic primaries a white man's primary," Mr. Buckner said.

"I agree with the Attorney General that the Democratic party has the right to select its own members, and I am constrained to believe the right-thinking Negro has no desire to force himself into the Democratic primaries.

"As far as I am concerned, as chairman of the Dallas County Democratic Executive Committee, the opinion of the Attorney General will be followed to the letter."

HOUSTON, TEX.
CHRONICLE

JUL 16 1934

Negro Democrats To Hold Series Of Rallies During Week

The Harris County Negro Democratic Club of which Julius White is president, plans a series of city-wide rallies during the week, it was announced Monday.

St. John Baptist Church, Bastrop and Gray, will be the scene of the meeting Tuesday at 8:30 p.m., with Dr. W. M. Drake acting as master of ceremonies.

Wednesday night the rally will be held at Bethel Baptist Church, Andrews and Crosby, with C. F. Richardson presiding.

An open air mass meeting is planned for Emancipation Park at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, with Julius White presiding; while Friday night's rally will be held at Mount Olive Baptist Church, Meadow and Gillespie streets, with Dr. T. M. Shadowens, master of ceremonies.

All of these meetings are open to the public, according to White.

VERNON, TEX.
VERNON DAILY RECORD

JUL 11 1934

NEGROES TO VOTE IN WEBB COUNTY PRIMARY

Laredo, July 11.—Negroes qualified to vote will be allowed to cast ballots in the Democratic primaries here July 28.

Chairman P. Leyendecker of Webb County's Democratic executive committee today sent instructions to all presiding judges of the 14 precincts in Webb County to allow negroes to vote in the primaries.

Chairman Leyendecker took similar action in the primaries two years ago and some negro votes were cast.

DALLAS, TEX.
TIMES HERALD

MAR 2 1934

BEAUMONT NEGROES TO VOTE SATURDAY

Beaumont, Tex., March 2 (AP).—For the first time in the history of Beaumont, negroes Saturday will be allowed to vote in a city Democratic primary.

Both Mayor Emmett A. Fletcher and his opponent, P. D. Renfro, lawyer, protested the proposition. The city Democratic executive committee acceded to the negroes' petition after advices from the state attorney general's office said the state convention or the state party executive committee alone had the authority to prescribe voters' qualifications in a primary.

The local committee then learned from the office of Maury Hughes, Dallas, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, and the secretary, E. J. Hussion of Houston, that no action on the matter had been taken by the convention or the committee. Gaynor Kendall, assistant attorney general, referred to the El Paso case of Nixon vs. Condon, recently decided for plaintiff by Federal Judge Boynton, who ruled that the pledge as stated on the ballot did not preclude the negroes' voting in the primary in point.

PRIMARY FIGHT MUST BE CONTINUED

Responding to numerous inquiries concerning the next legal steps Houston and Texas Negroes should take to break down the racial bars in connection with the Democratic primary elections in this state, The Defender is of the opinion that practically nothing can be done legally in this respect for the first primary election of Saturday, July 28, 1934. Defender

Racially and legally speaking, we have exhausted about every remedy for the first primary election, unless in the interim an effort now being made by North Texas Negroes to have some justice of the United States Supreme Court enjoin the Texas Supreme Court from enforcing its recent ruling in the mandamus petition sought by two Jefferson County Negroes, meets with success. 7-28-34

But a second or run-off Democratic primary election will be held in this county and state on Saturday, August 25, 1934, and there remains ample time to institute new court proceedings in some other federal judicial district in an effort to obtain an injunctive writ against the party leaders and elections officials, to restrain them from interfering with or preventing all qualified electors from casting their ballots in said election.

There is no need of going into any state court in another attempt to secure either an injunction or mandamus, for all district and appellate courts of the state are bound by the ruling of the Texas Supreme Court, which held that the Democratic party has the inherent right to determine its membership and prescribe qualifications of its constituents.

Negroes of Texas should unite their forces and concentrate their legal attack in some other federal district, for with the Richardson injunction case stayed by order of the presiding judge of the United States District Court for Southern Texas at Houston last Saturday and the denial of the application for a preliminary injunction against party leaders and election officials in Harris County, it would be wasting both time and money to file another case of this type in said court.

Since it is apparent that even some of the federal district judges look for loopholes when such an issue is presented in court in order to keep from passing upon the merits of the case, extreme care and precaution must be taken in filing the next cause to see to it that every legal loophole is plugged and the question of the legal and constitutional right of Negroes to vote in the Democratic primary elections is brought definitely and unmistakably to the fore.

If Negroes of Texas will get busy and raise enough money to file such an injunction suit in another federal district in Texas at once, even should the judge deny the application for an injunctive writ, there would still be time to perfect an appeal and carry the case to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans, La., before August 25, 1934.

This should and must be done, if Negroes of Houston and Texas hope to exercise their elective franchise rights in the Democratic run-off primary election of August 25, 1934, when the electorate of the state will pick, by ballot, the principal state officers.

As to damage suits against party leaders and election officials because of the denial of the right to vote in the Democratic election of Saturday, July 28, 1934, under two former decisions of the United States Supreme Court each barred voter will have such redress in court after election; but Negroes should be more concerned just now about voting in the run-off election on August 25, 1934, and should bend all their efforts in that direction just now, and then file damage suits after both primary elections, should they fail to vote in either.

The Defender is in hearty accord with the suggestions being made from various Texas points that our racial forces be combined in one test case for injunction and, failing to obtain same in a federal district court, hasten an appeal to the federal appellate court and maybe the United States Supreme Court, the lower and higher courts hold against Negroes and constitutional rights as Democratic electors.

But we can not get very far with mere talk, and since the time is short and quick action is imperative, The Defender suggests that interested Negroes in all Texas counties and cities raise money for a primary legal defense fund within the next week, and forward same to Julius White, 409 Milam Street, Houston, Texas.

Let us not become discouraged, ever remembering that

"Right is right since God is God,
And right the day must win;
To doubt would be disloyalty,
To falter would be sin."

Political - 1934
Suffrage.

Texas.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 7 1934

POWERLESS TO BAR BLACKS FROM PRIMARY, AVERS MORRISS; RULING FAVORS LOCAL MACHINE

NEGROES will be allowed to vote in Bexar County in the democratic primary, July 28, Will A. Morriss Jr., county democratic chairman, ruled today.

Morriss said, in a lengthy written opinion that it was beyond the power of the county chairman or county executive committee to exclude negroes from the primary.

Bexar County has between 4,000 and 5,000 qualified negro voters.

Political observers agree that the ruling permitting negroes to vote will throw a big advantage to candidates of the city-county machine, headed by Mayor Quin for Congress.

Absentee voting in the primary opens Monday in the Bexar County courthouse.

Several days ago, the county chairman wired J. K. Brim of Sulphur Springs, chairman of the state executive committee, for instructions on the matter.

Bertha Kunz, secretary of the state executive committee, has notified Morris that the state executive committee took no action this year on the question of negro voting.

The secretary did not express it as a personal opinion that in the absence of the action by the state committee, county committees had no right to bar negroes.

The county chairman has received no reply from Brim, the state chairman, however.

Two years ago the Texas Supreme Court sidestepped passing on the question of negro voting in state primaries when it dismissed a suit from Bexar County.

The question reached the Supreme Court on certified questions from the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals here.

Two years ago negroes voted during the early hours of election day by virtue of an injunction issued by Dist. Judge Tayloe, holding that the state executive committee was without authority to exclude negroes.

Judge Tayloe's injunction was suspended during voting by the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals.

The opinion of Morriss follows in full:

"As I regard the question of the right, or not, of negroes to vote in the forthcoming primary, it is exclusively a legal question to be determined on purely legal grounds. Neither personal preference nor opinion therefore may be considered.

"The history of the controversy is this: In 1923 our legislature enacted that a negro should be ineligible to vote in Democratic primaries. Our United States Supreme Court held that statute invalid.

"Our legislature thereupon, in 1927, amended the statute giving the state democratic executive committee power to prescribe qualifications of voters in the party's primaries; and the state committee, in 1928, pursuant to that amendment, passed a resolution excluding negroes from that year's primaries.

"That statute and the resolution were, in turn, on May 2, 1932, held invalid by the United States Supreme Court—though by a five-to-four decision.

"Thereupon the convention held in Houston on May 24, 1932, to elect delegates to national democratic convention that year, passed a resolution providing in effect for the exclusion of negroes from the primaries of that year.

"Our Fourth Court of Civil Appeals, by majority decision in the case of County Democratic Committee vs. Booker, upheld the power of that convention to pass that resolution, while the United States District for the Seventh District of Texas held to the contrary.

"It thus appears the question of the right to exclude is a mooted one, our courts being divided.

"However, our state democratic convention which met in Lubbock, September, 1932, declined the resolution. The resolution for the exclusion of negroes from democratic primaries was there offered, but tabled in committee; and the convention itself took no action looking to exclusion. Likewise, our state committee, in its recent meeting, attempted no action.

"Under these circumstances, where the power of exclusion, if such power exists, rests with the state convention or state executive committee, and both of these have declined to take any action looking to exclusion, it is manifestly beyond the power of our county executive committee or myself as chairman of that committee to assume to take such action."

Negro Vote Pleases Quin and Weber

Mayor Quin and John K. Weber, both candidates for Bexar County's congressional seat, commented favorably today on the ruling of Will A. Morriss Jr., county democratic chairman, which will permit negroes to vote in the democratic primary, July 28.

Most of the candidates for major political offices were in the country campaigning, and hence were unavailable for comment.

"I think the ruling is correct in view of the holdings of the Supreme Court and the state courts," Mayor Quin said.

"I have always been in favor of letting the negroes vote," Weber declared.

"Nothing to say," declared County Attorney Davis, a candidate for the office of criminal district attorney, "I'm not afraid of the colored vote."

Justice of the Peace John R. Shook, also a candidate for criminal district attorney, declared he had no comment to make at this time.

DALLAS, TEX.
DISPATCH

JUL 8 1934

NEGROES WILL CAST VOTES IN JULY PRIMARY

Meeting to Be Held Sunday to Take Advantage of Rights Given by Court.

CHAIRMAN IS SILENT

Murrell Buckner Says Policy to Be Left to Local Chairmen.

Negroes will vote in the Dallas-co primary July 28 for the first time in many years. Since the Democratic primary two years ago, the U. S. supreme court has held Democrats have no right to bar negroes from the primaries.

Charlie Brackins, negro bondsman and probably the most important spokesman for the negroes of Dallas, said Saturday a meeting will be held at 4:30 p. m. Sunday at St. Paul's Methodist church to consider voting. The chairman will be A. S. Wells and about 200 will attend, Brackins said.

The Dallas-co Democratic executive committee, in charge of the primary, will not attempt to stop negroes from voting.

Buckner Refuses Ruling.

Murrell L. Buckner, county chairman, declined to rule against negroes voting at the June meeting of the committee.

One precinct chairman of a voting precinct where there are many negro voters asked Buckner for a ruling and action by the committee.

"That," said Buckner, "will have to be left to the presiding officer of each precinct."

Buckner explained afterward that an official ruling against negroes voting might invalidate the election. For the same reason, it is believed, action by any precinct judge might invalidate the voting in any precinct where a negro was barred.

2500 Negro Voters.

It is estimated there are between 2000 and 2500 negro voters in Dallas. It is not probable that the majority of them will attempt to vote but it is certain some of them will.

Brackins admitted the negroes have their slate fairly well made out for the principal state and county offices.

It was generally believed no objection would be made at any of the polling places to negroes voting. There are only a few precincts where there are a large number of negro voters.

"We expect to encourage voting in the Democratic primary gradually," said Brackins, "so that in a few years it will be recognized as a right in all parts of the state and there will be no objection to it."

San Antonio, July 7.—Will A. Morris, chairman of the Bexar-co Democratic committee, announced today that negroes would be permitted to vote in the July primary. The decision affects 5000 negro votes.

EL PASO, TEX.
TIMES

JUL 13 1934

Allred Bans Negro Vote

Holds Only Whites May Cast Ballots In Primaries.

Austin, Tex., July 12 (AP).—The question of negro voting became a campaign factor today with a ruling by the attorney general's department that negroes were not entitled to participate in the Democratic primaries.

The attorney general's opinion was issued despite a ruling of the United States supreme court in a case appealed from El Paso in which the court held negroes could not be barred as long as the Democratic primaries were controlled by legislative enactments.

Today's opinion cited a resolution adopted by the state Democratic convention in 1932 in which the primaries were closed to negroes and stated this was a party action and not a legislative enactment. The resolution, Attorney General James V. Allred said, had been appealed by the San Antonio court of civil appeals.

Mulcahy Inclined To Follow Opinion

County Attorney Dave Mulcahy said yesterday he "would be inclined to follow the legal opinion of the attorney general of Texas" relative to negroes participating in the county primary election July 28.

Mulcahy said the question of negro suffrage in El Paso county had not been referred to him by the county Democratic executive committee.

HOUSTON, TEX.
CHRONICLE

JUL 11 1934

NEGRO FILES SUIT IN EFFORT TO OBTAIN BALLOT

Claiming that he was refused the privilege of casting an absentee ballot for the primary of July 28, Julius White, negro longshoreman, and preseident of the Negro Democratic Club of Harris County, has filed a mandamus suit against County Clerk Albert Townsend to compel the county clerk to allow him to vote.

The suit has been set for hearing at 9 a.m. July 23, before District Judge Roy F. Campbell.

White and four other negroes applied to the county clerk for the privilege of casting absentee ballots. Permission was refused.

In refusing permission under a resolution of the Harris County Democratic executive committee, Saturday limited voting in the primary to those who have voted the Democratic ticket three times in the last six years. First voters were limited to those whose parents voted Democratic three times in the last six years.

Texas.

Political - 1934
Suffrage.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 7 1934

POWERLESS TO BAR BLACKS FROM PRIMARY, AVERS MORRISS; RULING FAVORS LOCAL MACHINE

NEGROES will be allowed to vote in Bexar County in the democratic primary, July 28, Will A. Morriss Jr., county democratic chairman, ruled today.

Morriss said in a lengthy written opinion that it was beyond the power of the county chairman or county executive committee to exclude negroes from the primary.

Bexar County has between 4,000 and 5,000 qualified negro voters.

Political observers agree that the ruling permitting negroes to vote will throw a big advantage to candidates of the city-county machine, headed by Mayor Quin for Congress.

Absentee voting in the primary opens Monday in the Bexar County courthouse.

Several days ago, the county chairman wired J. K. Brim of Sulphur Springs, chairman of the state executive committee, for instructions on the matter.

Bertha Kunz, secretary of the state executive committee, has notified Morris that the state executive committee took no action this year on the question of negro voting.

The secretary did not express it as a personal opinion that in the absence of the action by the state committee, county committees had no right to bar negroes.

The county chairman has received no reply from Brim, the state chairman, however.

Two years ago the Texas Supreme Court sidestepped passing on the question of negro voting in state primaries when it dismissed a suit from Bexar County.

The question reached the Supreme Court on certified questions from the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals here.

Two years ago negroes voted during the early hours of election day by virtue of an injunction issued by Dist. Judge Tayloe, holding that the state executive committee was without authority to exclude negroes.

Judge Tayloe's injunction was suspended during voting by the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals.

The opinion of Morriss follows in full:

"As I regard the question of the right, or not, of negroes to vote in the forthcoming primary, it is exclusively a legal question to be determined on purely legal grounds. Neither personal preference nor opinion therefore may be considered.

"The history of the controversy is this: In 1923 our legislature enacted that a negro should be ineligible to vote in Democratic primaries. Our United States Supreme Court held that statute invalid.

"Our legislature thereupon, in 1927, amended the statute giving the state democratic executive committee power to prescribe qualifications of voters in the party's primaries; and the state committee, in 1928, pursuant to that amendment, passed a resolution excluding negroes from that year's primaries.

"That statute and the resolution were, in turn, on May 2, 1932, held invalid by the United States Supreme Court—though by a five-to-four decision.

"Thereupon the convention held in Houston on May 24, 1932, to elect delegates to national democratic convention that year, passed a resolution providing in effect for the exclusion of negroes from the primaries of that year.

"Our Fourth Court of Civil Appeals, by majority decision in the case of County Democratic Committee vs. Booker, upheld the power of that convention to pass that resolution, while the United States District for the Seventh District of Texas held to the contrary.

"It thus appears the question of the right to exclude is a mooted one, our courts being divided.

"However, our state democratic convention which met in Lubbock, September, 1932, declined the resolution. The resolution for the exclusion of negroes from democratic primaries was there offered, but tabled in committee; and the convention itself took no action looking to exclusion. Likewise, our state committee, in its recent meeting, attempted no action.

"Under these circumstances, where the power of exclusion, if such power exists, rests with the state convention or state executive committee, and both of these have declined to take any action looking to exclusion, it is manifestly beyond the power of our county executive committee or myself as chairman of that committee to assume to take such action."

Negro Vote Pleases Quin and Weber

Mayor Quin and John K. Weber, both candidates for Bexar County's congressional seat, commented favorably today on the ruling of Will A. Morriss Jr., county democratic chairman, which will permit negroes to vote in the democratic primary, July 28.

Most of the candidates for major political offices were in the country campaigning, and hence were unavailable for comment.

"I think the ruling is correct in view of the holdings of the Supreme Court and the state courts," Mayor Quin said.

"I have always been in favor of letting the negroes vote," Weber declared.

"Nothing to say," declared County Attorney Davis, a candidate for the office of criminal district attorney. "I'm not afraid of the colored vote."

Justice of the Peace John R. Shook, also a candidate for criminal district attorney, declared he had no comment to make at this time.

DALLAS, TEX.
DISPATCH

JUL 8 1934

NEGROES WILL CAST VOTES IN JULY PRIMARY

Meeting to Be Held Sunday to Take Advantage of Rights Given by Court.

CHAIRMAN IS SILENT

Murrell Buckner Says Policy to Be Left to Local Chairmen.

Negroes will vote in the Dallas-co primary July 28 for the first time in many years. Since the Democratic primary two years ago, the U. S. supreme court has held Democrats have no right to bar negroes from the primaries.

Charlie Brackins, negro bondsman and probably the most important spokesman for the negroes of Dallas, said Saturday a meeting will be held at 4:30 p. m. Sunday at St. Paul's Methodist church to consider voting. The chairman will be A. S. Wells and about 200 will attend. Brackins said.

The Dallas-co Democratic executive committee, in charge of the primary, will not attempt to stop negroes from voting.

Buckner Refuses Ruling.

Murrell L. Buckner, county chairman, declined to rule against negroes voting at the June meeting of the committee.

One precinct chairman of a voting precinct where there are many negro voters asked Buckner for a ruling and action by the committee.

"That," said Buckner, "will have to be left to the presiding officer of each precinct."

Buckner explained afterward that an official ruling against negroes voting might invalidate the election. For the same reason, it is believed, action by any precinct judge might invalidate the voting in any precinct where a negro was barred.

2500 Negro Voters.

It is estimated there are between 2000 and 2500 negro voters in Dallas. It is not probable that the majority of them will attempt to vote but it is certain some of them will.

Brackins admitted the negroes have their slate fairly well made out for the principal state and county offices.

It was generally believed no objection would be made at any of the polling places to negroes voting. There are only a few precincts where there are a large number of negro voters.

"We expect to encourage voting in the Democratic primary gradually," said Brackins, "so that in a few years it will be recognized as a right in all parts of the state and there will be no objection to it."

San Antonio, July 7.—Will A. Morris, chairman of the Bexar-co Democratic committee, announced today that negroes would be permitted to vote in the July primary. The decision affects 5000 negro votes.

EL PASO, TEX.
TIMES

JUL 13 1934

Allred Bans Negro Vote

Holds Only Whites May Cast Ballots In Primaries.

Austin, Tex., July 12 (AP).—The question of negro voting became a campaign factor today with a ruling by the attorney general's department that negroes were not entitled to participate in the Democratic primaries.

The attorney general's opinion was issued despite a ruling of the United States supreme court in a case appealed from El Paso in which the court held negroes could not be barred as long as the Democratic primaries were controlled by legislative enactments.

Today's opinion cited a resolution adopted by the state Democratic convention in 1932 in which the primaries were closed to negroes and stated this was a party action and not a legislative enactment. The resolution, Attorney General James V. Allred said, had been appealed by the San Antonio court of civil appeals.

Mulcahy Inclined To Follow Opinion

County Attorney Dave Mulcahy said yesterday he "would be inclined to follow the legal opinion of the attorney general of Texas" relative to negroes participating in the county primary election July 28.

Mulcahy said the question of negro suffrage in El Paso county had not been referred to him by the county Democratic executive committee.

HOUSTON, TEX.
CHRONICLE

JUL 1 1934

NEGRO FILES SUIT IN EFFORT TO OBTAIN BALLOT

Claiming that he was refused the privilege of casting an absentee ballot for the primary of July 28, lots. Julius White, negro longshoreman, applied to the county clerk for the privilege of casting absentee ballots. Permission was refused.

The president of the Negro Democratic Club of Harris County, passed by the Harris County Democratic executive committee, Saturday, Townsend, under a resolution filed a mandamus suit against the County Clerk Albert Townsend to compel the county clerk to allow him to vote.

The committee limited voting in the primary to those who have voted the Democratic ticket three times in the last six years. Dis-First voters were limited to those whose parents voted Democratic three times in the last six years.

The suit has been set for hearing at 9 a.m. July 23, before District Judge Roy F. Campbell. White and four other negroes

BROWNWOOD, TEX.
BULLETIN

JUN 27 1934

Negro Primary Voters

IT IS NOT LIKELY that a great many colored citizens will attempt to participate in the Democratic primary elections this summer, although the way seems to have been cleared for negroes to exercise the right of franchise if they care to do so. The State Democratic Executive Committee did not make a ruling on the subject, apparently because of the probability that any effort it might make to keep negroes out of the primaries would be frowned upon by the United States Supreme Court, and discreetly has left the matter to the discretion of individual election judges except in a few counties in which the local committees have made rulings.

Not many election judges, we imagine, will care to assume responsibility for doing what the State Committee thinks it is legally unable to do. It is obviously the duty of the election judges to observe and enforce the law and not to make the law. In the absence of directions to the contrary, they will in most cases permit negro citizens to vote who possess the required qualifications as to poll tax payment and residence. It will be largely up to the colored voters themselves as to whether they claim the privilege which thus is made available.

As a matter of fact, there is no good reason for attempting longer to maintain the traditional white man's primary. From the standpoint of party expediency it is a bad policy, because it drives thousands of colored voters into the Republican party. The attempt to bar negro voters from Democratic primaries began many years ago when corruption was the rule in politics, and when large communities of negroes were susceptible to control by unscrupulous politicians. The present generation of colored ctiizens can not easily be controlled by political bosses. Their intelligence is sufficient to enable them to think and act independently in political matters. Their rights as respectable and law-abiding citizens include the right of the franchise. Political equality of the races is no longer a ghostlike bugaboo to frighten white voters. It now is a reality, and to say the least of it is not necessarily a menace.

The State Executive Committee should not have attempted to evade the question which is certain to bob up in the primaries, unless it intends by its silence on the subject to mark definitely the end of the white man's primary system. Whether it so intends or not, that seems to be what it has done.

HOUSTON, TEX.
POST

JUL 13 1934

Negro Editor Asks $10,000 Vote Damages

Clerk Again Sued in Refusal to Grant Absentee Ballot.

C. F. Richardson, editor of the negro weekly paper, "The Houston Defender," filed suit against County Clerk Albert Townsend for $10,000 Thursday, alleging that he had been damaged to that extent because he was not allowed to cast an absentee ballot.

The suit is the second to be filed against Mr. Townsend in the past three days in connection with his alleged refusal to allow negroes to vote. Julius White, president of the Harris county negro Democratic club, Tuesday filed suit for mandamus to compel Mr. Townsend to permit White to vote and absentee ballot in the July 28 Democratic primary.

Ballots Refused.

His petition was filed after Mr. Townsend had refused to give White and four other negroes absentee ballots. The county clerk acted under a resolution adopted Saturday by the county Democratic executive committee, permitting none to vote in the primary who can not show that he has voted the Democratic ticket at lease three times during the last six years. The resolution was directed to absentee as well as personal ballots.

The White case will be called for trial at 9 a. m. July 23 by District Judge Roy Campbell.

Petitions filed in behalf of both Richardson and White cite the laws governing the holding of elections, the casting of absentee ballots and the qualifications of both plaintiffs.

The petition filed for Richardson declares that the plaintiff expects to be absent from the city when the primary is held; that he had a legal right to cast an absentee ballot and the defendant a legal statutory duty to furnish the plaintiff with an absentee ballot, and allow him to vote. The defendant "unlawfully refused to perform his legal duty and damaged the plaintiff's legal right in the sum of $2500," the petition stated.

Cites Loss.

As a result of the defendant's "wrongful and absolute refusal to permit the plaintiff to vote," the petition declares, the plaintiff has suffered financial loss by being unable to secure political advertisements for his weekly paper and has lost and will continue to lose circulation due to the absence of such political advertisements, editorials and reportorial contributions of political value "hereby destroying his property rights to his great financial harm and detriment and to his monetary and property damage in the sum of $5000."

The defendant's acts in refusing to issue the plaintiff a ballot deprived the plaintiff of his political rights to his great harm and detriment and damage in the sum of $2500, the petition states.

The suit filed in behalf of Richardson has not yet been set down for trial.

EL PASO TEX
HERALD

JUL 13 1934

Court Fight Seen On Voting Here

County Democratic Chairman Ernest Guinn today said the county executive committee probably will follow Atty. Gen. James V. Allred's ruling and the state committee's 1932 resolution, and will bar negroes from the polls in El Paso county.

"I will take the matter up immediately with County Atty. David E. Mulcahy," he said. "If Mr. Allred's ruling seems to hold good for this election, it will be followed."

The county committee expects to pass a formal order next week to exclude negroes.

Dr. L. A. Nixon, negro physician who has won three federal court decisions to give negroes the right to vote in Democratic primaries, today said a mandatory injunction may be sought to force election judges to permit 400 El Paso negroes to vote July 28.

"I am surprised at the attorney-general's ruling," he said. "I thought that they would consider that they had lost, and would let us alone this year.

"They are running the risk of having the whole election declared void.

"We certainly are not giving up the fight. Suits will be filed against election officials all over the state."

Fred Knollenberg, attorney for Dr. Nixon, said there is no legal way for the Democrats to keep the negroes from voting.

HOUSTON, TEX.
PRESS

JUL 9 1934

NEGROES WILL IGNORE RULING OF COMMITTEE

Leader Says They Will Go to Polls and Ask to Vote

Negro voters are expected to ignore the "layalty" resolution, passed by the Harris County Democratic Executive Committee, and which would exclude negroes from the July 28 primary.

George Duncan, negro leader of Houston, said Monday no action would be taken but that voters of his race would go to the polls and ask to vote as if the resolution had never been passed.

"It's just a political scarecrow," he said.

Passed Resolution

The committee, meeting at the Civil Courts Building Saturday, passed a resolution which says that to vote in a democratic primary the voter must show he has done so at least three times in the past six years. Those voting for the first time, meaning persons just reaching 21, must show that their parents voted democratic three times in the last six years.

Allen S. Shepherd, who offered the resolution, said 12 opportunities had been available during that period.

The resolution passed 43 to 24 after several minutes of heated debate.

Attacked by Putnam

The resolution was attacked Monday by Frank Putnam, candidate for congressman from this district.

"The committee's action," Mr. Putnam said, "is intended to bar not only qualified negro voters but all independent voters. If this resolution could be enforced it would bar five white voters for every negro.

"It is an impudent, lawless attempt to take control of the people's elections away from them and to vest that control in a little clique of perpetual political job holders and their paid retainers.

"The United States Supreme Court has decided that the Texas party primary is part of the state's election system, and no qualified voter, pledging support to primary nominees, can be barred."

Albert White, negro editor of the Houston Guide, protested the resolution also, saying it is plainly illegal and an attempt to "circumvent the decision of the federal Supreme Court."

HOUSTON, TEX.
PRESS

JUL 12 1934

Second Houston Negro Files Suit Demanding Vote

A second suit in an effort to force the democratic party in Harris County to allow negroes to vote, was filed in Judge Ashe's court Thursday by C. F. Richardson, negro editor.

Richardson asks a writ of mandamus to force County Clerk Townsend to let him cast an absentee vote and also asks $10,000 damages.

Richardson was refused an absentee ballot by Mr. Townsend because of instructions given him by the Harris County Democratic Executive Committee.

The committee voted last Saturday that to be eligible to vote in the July 28 primary a poll tax holder must furnish proof that he had voted in a democratic primary three times in the last six years. If a person just reaching 21 was voting for the first time, he must show that his parents had lived up to that requirement.

Negroes were not mentioned in the resolution.

Jim Silent on Ruling; Optimistic for McDonald

AUSTIN, July 12.—Former Governor James E. Ferguson today declined comment upon Attorney General Allred's ruling that negroes may not vote in the democratic primary.

Ferguson was chairman of a subcommittee of the state democratic executive committee before which a delegation of negroes appeared June 11 asking their status. The committee took no action, thus, in effect, passing the question on to the various county executive committees.

In the Forum today Ferguson challenged a prediction that Texas, like Oklahoma, will reject the governor's candidate. He said Governor Murray's candidate suffered because Murray disagreed with the national administration.

"Now in Texas we have just the opposite condition," he said. "The governor's friend (C. C. McDonald) in Texas is for the national administration and all the other candidates are against the national administration. The same reason that defeated the governor's friend in Oklahoma will elect the governor's friend in Texas."

AUSTIN, TEX.
STATESMAN
JUL 9 1934

7 NEGROES CAST DEM VOTES HERE

Two Austin negroes were among the first 18 absentee voters who cast their ballots Sunday for the July democratic primary, Miss Emilie Limberg, deputy county clerk, said Monday at noon.

Eight additional absentee ballots were cast Monday morning to bring the day and a half total to 26, but no negroes voted Monday morning, Miss Limberg said.

The two negro voters were L. D. Lyons and his son, C. W. Lyons.

The elder Lyons was a member of the committee of negroes who appeared recently at the meeting of the county democratic executive committee and took no formal action on the negroes' request.

Travis county committee, however, followed the lead of the state executive committee which the question was referred for action.

County Chmn. J. M. Patterson said Monday on the matter was silent except to say that he had received no instructions from the sub-committee, to which the question was referred for action.

The two negro voters were L. D. Lyons and his son, C. W. Lyons.

The elder Lyons was a member of the committee of negroes who appeared recently at the meeting of the county democratic executive committee, to which the question was referred for action.

Travis county's democratic primary.

BROWNWOOD, TEX.
BULLETIN

JUN 27 1934

Negro Primary Voters

IT IS NOT LIKELY that a great many colored citizens will attempt to participate in the Democratic primary elections this summer, although the way seems to have been cleared for negroes to exercise the right of franchise if they care to do so. The State Democratic Executive Committee did not make a ruling on the subject, apparently because of the probability that any effort it might make to keep negroes out of the primaries would be frowned upon by the United States Supreme Court, and discreetly has left the matter to the discretion of individual election judges except in a few counties in which the local committees have made rulings.

Not many election judges, we imagine, will care to assume responsibility for doing what the State Committee thinks it is legally unable to do. It is obviously the duty of the election judges to observe and enforce the law and not to make the law. In the absence of directions to the contrary, they will in most cases permit negro citizens to vote who possess the required qualifications as to poll tax payment and residence. It will be largely up to the colored voters themselves as to whether they claim the privilege which thus is made available.

As a matter of fact, there is no good reason for attempting longer to maintain the traditional white man's primary. From the standpoint of party expediency it is a bad policy, because it drives thousands of colored voters into the Republican party. The attempt to bar negro voters from Democratic primaries began many years ago when corruption was the rule in politics, and when large communities of negroes were susceptible to control by unscrupulous politicians. The present generation of colored ctiizens can not easily be controlled by political bosses. Their intelligence is sufficient to enable them to think and act independently in political matters. Their rights as respectable and law-abiding citizens include the right of the franchise. Political equality of the races is no longer a ghostlike bugaboo to frighten white voters. It now is a reality, and to say the least of it is not necessarily a menace.

The State Executive Committee should not have attempted to evade the question which is certain to bob up in the primaries, unless it intends by its silence on the subject to mark definitely the end of the white man's primary system. Whether it so intends or not, that seems to be what it has done.

HOUSTON, TEX.
POST

JUL 13 1934

Negro Editor Asks $10,000 Vote Damages

Clerk Again Sued in Refusal to Grant Absentee Ballot.

C. F. Richardson, editor of the negro weekly paper, "The Houston Defender," filed suit against County Clerk Albert Townsend for $10,000 Thursday, alleging that he had been damaged to that extent because he was not allowed to cast an absentee ballot.

The suit is the second to be filed against Mr. Townsend in the past three days in connection with his alleged refusal to allow negroes to vote. Julius White, president of the Harris county negro Democratic club, Tuesday filed suit for mandamus to compel Mr. Townsend to permit White to vote and absentee ballot in the July 28 Democratic primary.

Ballots Refused.

His petition was filed after Mr. Townsend had refused to give White and four other negroes absentee ballots. The county clerk acted under a resolution adopted Saturday by the county Democratic executive committee, permitting none to vote in the primary who can not show that he has voted the Democratic ticket at lease three times during the last six years. The resolution was directed to absentee as well as personal ballots.

The White case will be called for trial at 9 a. m. July 23 by District Judge Roy Campbell.

Petitions filed in behalf of both Richardson and White cite the laws governing the holding of elections, the casting of absentee ballots and the qualifications of both plaintiffs.

The petition filed for Richardson declares that the plaintiff expects to be absent from the city when the primary is held; that he had a legal right to cast an absentee ballot and the defendant a legal statutory duty to furnish the plaintiff with an absentee ballot, and allow him to vote. The defendant "unlawfully refused to perform his legal duty and damaged the plaintiff's legal right in the sum of $2500," the petition stated.

Cites Loss.

As a result of the defendant's "wrongful and absolute refusal to permit the plaintiff to vote," the petition declares, the plaintiff has suffered financial loss by being unable to secure political advertisements for his weekly paper and has lost and will continue to lose circulation due to the absence of such political advertisements, editorials and reportorial contributions of political value "hereby destroying his property rights to his great financial harm and detriment and to his monetary and property damage in the sum of $5000."

The defendant's acts in refusing to issue the plaintiff a ballot deprived the plaintiff of his political rights to his great harm and detriment and damage in the sum of $2500, the petition states.

The suit filed in behalf of Richardson has not yet been set down for trial.

EL PASO TEX
HERALD

JUL 13 1934

Court Fight Seen On Voting Here

County Democratic Chairman Ernest Guinn today said the county executive committee probably will follow Atty. Gen. James V. Allred's ruling and the state committee's 1932 resolution, and will bar negroes from the polls in El Paso county.

"I will take the matter up immediately with County Atty. David E. Mulcahy," he said. "If Mr. Allred's ruling seems to hold good for this election, it will be followed."

The county committee expects to pass a formal order next week to exclude negroes.

Dr. L. A. Nixon, negro physician who has won three federal court decisions to give negroes the right to vote in Democratic primaries, today said a mandatory injunction may be sought to force election judges to permit 400 El Paso negroes to vote July 28.

"I am surprised at the attorney-general's ruling," he said. "I thought that they would consider that they had lost, and would let us alone this year.

"They are running the risk of having the whole election declared void.

"We certainly are not giving up the fight. Suits will be filed against election officials all over the state."

Fred Knollenberg, attorney for Dr. Nixon, said there is no legal way for the Democrats to keep the negroes from voting

HOUSTON, TEX.
PRESS

JUL 9 1934

NEGROES WILL IGNORE RULING OF COMMITTEE

Leader Says They Will Go to Polls and Ask to Vote

Negro voters are expected to ignore the "layalty" resolution, passed by the Harris County Democratic Executive Committee, and which would exclude negroes from the July 28 primary.

George Duncan, negro leader of Houston, said Monday no action would be taken but that voters of his race would go to the polls and ask to vote as if the resolution had never been passed.

"It's just a political scarecrow," he said.

Passed Resolution

The committee, meeting at the Civil Courts Building Saturday, passed a resolution which says that to vote in a democratic primary the voter must show he has done so at least three times in the past six years. Those voting for the first time, meaning persons just reaching 21, must show that their parents voted democratic three times in the last six years.

Allen S. Shepherd, who offered the resolution, said 12 opportunities had been available during that period.

The resolution passed 43 to 24 after several minutes of heated debate.

Attacked by Putnam

The resolution was attacked Monday by Frank Putnam, candidate for congressman from this district.

"The committee's action," Mr. Putnam said, "is intended to bar not only qualified negro voters but all independent voters. If this resolution could be enforced it would bar five white voters for every negro.

"It is an impudent, lawless attempt to take control of the people's elections away from them and to vest that control in a little clique of perpetual political job holders and their paid retainers.

"The United States Supreme Court has decided that the Texas party primary is part of the state's election system, and no qualified voter, pledging support to primary nominees, can be barred."

Albert White, negro editor of the Houston Guide, protested the resolution also, saying it is plainly illegal and an attempt to "circumvent the decision of the federal Supreme Court."

HOUSTON, TEX.
PRESS

JUL 12 1934

Second Houston Negro Files Suit Demanding Vote

A second suit in an effort to force the democratic party in Harris County to allow negroes to vote, was filed in Judge Ashe's court Thursday by C. F. Richardson, negro editor.

Richardson asks a writ of mandamus to force County Clerk Townsend to let him cast an absentee vote and also asks $10,000 damages.

Richardson was refused an absentee ballot by Mr. Townsend because of instructions given him by the Harris County Democratic Executive Committee.

The committee voted last Saturday that to be eligible to vote in the July 28 primary a poll tax holder must furnish proof that he had voted in a democratic primary three times in the last six years. If a person just reaching 21 was voting for the first time, he must show that his parents had lived up to that requirement.

Negroes were not mentioned in the resolution.

Jim Silent on Ruling; Optimistic for McDonald

AUSTIN, July 12.—Former Governor James E. Ferguson today declined comment upon Attorney General Allred's ruling that negroes may not vote in the democratic primary.

Ferguson was chairman of a subcommittee of the state democratic executive committee before which a delegation of negroes appeared June 11 asking their status. The committee took no action, thus, in effect, passing the question on to the various county executive committees.

In the Forum today Ferguson challenged a prediction that Texas, like Oklahoma, will reject the governor's candidate. He said Governor Murray's candidate suffered because Murray disagreed with the national administration.

"Now in Texas we have just the opposite condition," he said. "The governor's friend (C. C. McDonald) in Texas is for the national administration and all the other candidates are against the national administration. The same reason that defeated the governor's friend in Oklahoma will elect the governor's friend in Texas."

AUSTIN, TEX.
STATESMAN
JUL 9 1934

7 NEGROES CAST DEM VOTES HERE

Two Austin negroes were among the first 18 absentee voters who cast their ballots Sunday for Lyons and his son, W. C. Lyons, July democratic primary, county clerk, said Monday at noon.

Emilie Limberg, deputy clerk, said Monday at noon. Eight additional absentee ballots were cast Monday morning to bring the day and a half total to 26, but no negroes voted Monday morning, Miss Limberg said.

The two negro voters were L. D. Lyons, who was silent on the matter of negroes voters except to say that he had received the committee of instructions from the sub-committee, to Misspeared recently at the meeting of the state executive committee which the question was referred for democratic action.

The county democratic committee requesting that negroes in Travis be permitted to vote in the democratic primary.

County committee, however, followed the lead of the state executive committee and took no formal action on the negroes' request.

Chmn. J. M. Patterson
County Chmn.

Texas

Political - 1934

Suffrage

CANDIDATES AND PRIMARY COSTS

Defender 6-23-34

One of our daily journalistic contemporaries, commenting recently upon the increased assessments for candidates seeking public offices in Harris County this year on the Democratic ticket and the present reduced salary scale in effect for such office holders, takes the position that some way must be found to get out of this dilemma by 1936. Houston

Discussing this same question several weeks ago, The Defender took the position that such primary expenses should be borne by the county and state governments, and that no candidate ought to be assessed one penny to defray the expenses incident to conducting such public elections.

Since the highest legal tribunal in the United States has held that such partisan primaries are public elections and open to all eligible voters, it is unfair to compel the candidates to finance such elections, but instead this financial burden or obligation should be placed upon the government—municipal, county and state.

The candidates have no more right to finance the primary elections than to make contributions through assessments for holding general elections, and the 1935 Texas legislature for revise the civil statutes of the state so as to relieve all candidates of this burdensome and unfair financial burden.

Partisan primary elections are held in other states of the country and all the expenses incident to conducting them are borne by local and state governments, since they are popular elections and open to all qualified electors.

Such procedure in this state will remedy the situation and make it possible for good men, who often find it impossible to pay such excessive assessments and then finance their campaigns in addition, to aspire for public office without any financial embarrassment.

LET US CALL THE ROLL!

Defender 6-23-34

The Defender's attention has been called to the fact that Houston is one of the few cities in Texas where voteless Negroes are holding public positions and drawing nice salaries from the public treasury made possible by tax-paying citizens.

The Defender still contends and insists that no Negro ought to serve as teacher in the public schools, on the police force, recreational department, social service work or any other type of public service, particularly where he or she receives a compensation for said services, unless that person has paid his or her poll tax as provided under the civil statutes of Texas.

Houston Negroes should call the roll and ascertain how many Negro teachers are qualified voters; how many colored social service workers have met the citizenship requirement; in fact, they should ascertain the citizenship status of every Negro man and woman engaged in any kind of public work in Houston and Harris County.

The Houston Board of Education should be petitioned not to give a contract to any Negro teacher who has not paid his or her 1933 poll tax, thus making a citizen eligible to vote in the elections of 1934; and the same course ought to be pursued in all branches of public work where Negroes are employed in this city and county.

It is unfair for poll-taxless Negroes to hold fat public jobs, while others just as competent and capable, who have paid such taxes, are forced to remain in the ranks of the unemployed on one hand and on the other help to make possible jobs for those who have not paid any taxes, poll or otherwise.

Let us call the roll and demand a showdown on this issue.

PARTY PRIMARIES OPEN TO QUALIFIED VOTERS OF COUNTY

Executive Session Adjourns Without Raising or Debating Negro Participation in Partisan Elections During July and August—Candidates' Assessments Hiked Over Previous Years—Names Drawn For Place On Ballot

Defender 6-23-34

The expected fireworks on Negro participation in 1934 primary elections did not take place in Houston Monday morning when the Harris County Democratic executive committee, of which John B. ("Shorty") Lubbock is chairman, held its session pursuant to the revised civil statutes of Texas. Houston,

Despite previous newspaper announcements that the committeemen would vote on the question of Negro Democrats participating in the partisan primary elections of July and August, the meeting adjourned sine die without even raising the issue, and after the session the county chairman stated that he changed his mind about submitting the "Negro question."

Thus for the first time since Democratic party primary elections have been conducted in Texas, Negro Democrats can exercise their elective franchise rights in said elections just like all other qualified electors.

Exclusive of the 146 precinct chairmen who will be elected Saturday, July 28, 164 candidates will be offered to the voters of Houston and Harris County on the official ballot prepared and approved at the meeting of the county executive committee, viz:

United States Senator—Joseph W. Bailey, Jr., Guy B. Fisher, Tom Connally.

Governor—Edgar Witt, Tom Hunter, Clint Small, C. C. McDonald, James V. Allred, Maury Hughes, Edward K. Russell.

Lieutenant Governor—Joe Moore, John Hornsby, Walter F. Woodul, Ben F. Berkley, R. M. Johnson, J. P. Rogers.

Attorney General—Walter Woodward, William McCraw, Clyde E. Smith.

Comptroller—Dolph B. Tillison, Manley H. Clary, George H. Sheppard, J. J. "Jack" Patterson.

State Treasurer—Dennis B. Waller, Kay Griffin, Charley Lockhart, George B. Terrell.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction—L. A. Woods.

Commissioner of Agriculture—C. C. Conley, Fred W. Davis, J. E. McDonald, K. Terrell.

Commissioner of General Land Office— Walter E. Jones, J. H. Walker.

State Railroad Commissioner—W. Gregory Hatcher, James L. McNees, Lon A. Smith, John Pundt, H. O. Johnson.

Associate Justice of Supreme Court—H. S. Lattimore, John H. Sharp, James W. McClendon.

Judge of Court of Criminal Appeals— W. C. Morrow.

Congressman—W. Everett Dupuy, Joe H. Eagle, Frank Putnam, A. A Weldon, John Nissing, J. B. Simons.

State Senator—Weaver Moore, John J. Sargent, Franklin P. Davis, Ed Arnold, John M. Mathis. Sr.

Representative Position No. 1—A. M. Tripp, A. F. Sundemeyer, L. M. Williamson, Robert W. Castleberry, Quinton Wright, George F. Howard, W. H. (Bill) Sigel, Fred R. Eldridge, Charles E. Pritchard, Jr., James P. Markham, Jr., George L. McGhee; Representative, Position No. 2—Harvey M. Draper, Roy M. Hofheinz, C. F. Stevens, E. J. Welch, J. G. Wells, T. K. McElroy, William W. dies, Ira D. Sykes, Pat Henderson.

Representative, Position No. 3—J. W. Milam, Ralph R. Wallace, T. H. (Hagan) Allin, R. H. Holland.

Representative, Position No. 5—W. L. Evans, Joe Harris, Kenneth McCalla, Nancy Pence Painter, Mrs. C. J. Hebert. Virgil E. Arnold. C. L. Wetzler, Will G. Schroth, J. M. Heflin, W. D. Avra, Allie Anderson, Jr., M. M. Burke.

County Commissioner, Precinct No. 1—J. A. Walling, T. L. (Honest Tom) Walker, R. H. Spencer.

County Commissioner, Precinct No. 2—Claude W. Smith, C. D. Massey, C. R. Myers.

County Commissioner, Precinct No. 3—Will G. Sharman, William Tautenhahn.

County Commissioner, Precinct No. 4—Lewis Smith, Ben Reinicke, Tom Graham.

Associate Justice, Court of Civil Appeals—George W. Graves.

Judge, One Hundred and Thirteenth District Court—Allen B. Hannay.

Judge, Fifty-fifth District Court—Ewing Boyd.

Judge, County Court-at-Law No. 1—Phil D. Woodruff, Nat H. Davis.

Judge, County Court-at-Law No. 2—Ray Scruggs, Frank Wilford. Jr.

District Attorney—K. C. Barkley.

Sheriff—J. S. Webster, T. A. Binford.

County Clerk—Henry M. Dudley, Albert Townsend.

County Treasurer—James Charlton. Louis Eckert.

County Tax Assessor-Collector—Fred W Witt. J. W. Hall.

County Surveyor—J. Stuart Boyles.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct No. 1, Position No. 1—Elmer E. Webb, Ned Jacobs, J. M. Ray.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct No. 1, Position No. 2— Will J. (Big Bill) Settegast, Campbell R. Overstreet, Thomas M. (Tom) Maes.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct No. 2—Thomas I. Decker, George L. Ricker, F. C. Barfield.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct No. 3—C. C. Fogarty, C. (Dutch) Patcek, R. R. Zeirlen.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct No. 4—E. W. Corley, F. K. Wise.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct No. 5—E. B. Beil, William Martens, Volney Hutchins, J. C. Browden.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct No. 6—(No candidates filed.)

Justice of the Peace, Precinct No. 7—(No candidates filed.)

Justice of the Peace, Precinct, No. 8—A. Muldoon, George L. Holton.

Constable, Precinct No. 1—Neal Polk, R. J. (Bob) Martin, H. J. (Big Mike) Meinke.

Constable, Precinct No. 2—Mellen (Smitty) Smith, Frank Thames, Tobe Williams, Walter L. Williams.

Constable, Precinct No. 3—V. C. Porter, R. H. Epperson, J. C. Shoemaker.

Constable, Precinct No. 4—M. A. Winter, J. H. Field.

Constable, Precinct No. 5—H. A. Kolb, H. M. Metzler, P. J. (Julius) Kuehn.

Constable, Precinct No. 6—T. E. Hillegeist.

Constable, Precinct No. 7—L. E. Burroughs.

Constable, Precinct No. 8—Tom Dewalt, Jesse L. Burch.

Chairman, Democratic Executive Committee—John B. (Shorty) Lubbock, John N. Snell.

EL PASO TEX.
HERALD

JUN 2 1934

NEGRO VOTING BAN REQUESTED BY CLUB

El Paso Organization Fears Racial Strife

The North American club today wrote to the chairman and members of the state Democratic executive committee asking that the committee not take any action which might be construed as giving the negroes the right to vote in the July Democratic primaries, M. A. Porter, club chairman said.

"The admittance of the negroes to the Democratic party and its primary election could be productive of no good, but would result in racial disturbances and strife," Mr. Porter wrote.

EL PASO, TEX.
TIMES

JUN 9 1934

El Paso Committee To Meet Monday

The El Paso county Democratic executive committee will meet Monday to decide whether El Paso negroes will be permitted to vote in the Democratic primaries, Ernest Guinn, chairman, said last night.

Guinn said word is awaited from the state executive committee. Instructions were expected yesterday, the chairman said last night, but failed to arrive.

The U. S. Supreme court held on appeal from the federal district court here that negroes should be permitted to vote in the Democratic elections. The case was filed by Dr. L. A. Nixon, El Paso negro physician, when he was refused a ballot in a primary election.

Yesterday Ed A. Casey and R. T. "Dick" Wilson filed with Guinn as candidates for constable against Dan Brungardt. Shanks Carpenter filed his name as a candidate for election as commissioner of precinct No. 2 and G. B. Palm filed for justice of the peace at Clint.

ALBERT LEA, MINN.
TRIBUNE

JUN 6 1934

TOO MUCH DIFFERENCE

An Iowa exchange editor, who is very much disgusted with the indifference displayed by the voters at this week's election says that it appears that the negro mule trade story applies fairly well to average primary.

> The colored man brought back the mule claiming deception in that the mule was blind. It ran against trees and was unable to find its way anywhere. He had been assured that it was all right. The former owner explained that the mule could see well enough. "Dat mule," he asserted, "don't nacherly give a damn."

Surely with so much at stake in Minnesota this year no voter should let anything keep him away from the coming primaries.

NEW POLITICAL DEAL FOR NEGROES

Replying to numerous inquires from readers regarding the status of Negro Democrats of Texas, particularly in Houston and Harris County, in view of the fact that neither the Democratic state executive committee nor the Harris County executive committee passed any resolution or took any official action on the subject of Negro participation in the partisan primary elections of July and August, The Defender takes this occasion to state that all qualified voters, without regard to color, creed or class, are eligible to vote in said elections.

There was no need for either committee to take any action, since the United States Supreme Court has held that such political bodies are state agents and possess no authority to bar any qualified elector from partisan primary elections in this state.

Thousands of Texas Negroes qualified as full-fledged Democrats in 1932 and having become members of the Democratic household they have both the moral, legal and political right to participate in any and all public elections conducted by the party in this city, county and state.

While some attempt will be made in isolated instances to exclude Negro Democrats from the summer primaries (in line with the illegal action taken by the Democratic executive committee of Jefferson County), there will be no concerted and unified effort made in Texas this year to disfranchise Negro Democrats as partisan electors.

Prior to the meeting of the state and county executive committies, The Defender was asked repeatedly to give its reaction to the proposed "White Man's Union" of Harris County, but this paper refused to discuss the matter because it was our honest opinion that it was merely an attempt on the part of the promoters of the movement to get publicity; and The Defender held further to the view that honest, patriotic and fair-minded leaders and members of the Democratic party in this county and certain parts of the state would not contenance nor lend their support and encouragement to any such prejudical political proposal.

Thus, Negroes of Harris County and Texas are now standing on the threshold of a new day, politically speaking, and the political future of the race in this community and state will depend largely upon how they conduct themselves in the forthcoming primary elections.

Having been enfranchised as Democratic voters, Negroes should organize their forces not merely to support and vote for the best candidates for the various public offices, but they should also raise money to assist in financing the campaigns of candidates of their choice

No Negro should be obsessed with the idea that some candidate or his backer is going to spend huge sums of money in an endeavor to "buy" or control Negro votes; for we are living in a new day and under a new deal in more than one way,and all decent and respectable citizens frown upon and resent any such practices.

Negro Democrats should study the various candidates, their past records and their present platforms, and then work and vote for the men and women they consider best qualified and fitted for the public offices they are seeking in the primary election of July 28.

Texas.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

DALLAS, TEX.
TIMES HERALD

JUL 20 1934

NEGROES' VOTE APPEAL RESTS BEFORE COURT

APPELLATE JUDGES HEAR ARGUMENTS, WILL DECIDE LATER

After hearing extended arguments and numerous court decisions, the fifth district court of Civil Appeals here early Friday afternoon took under advisement the question of whether a writ of mandamus will be issued compelling election judges in Dallas county to permit negroes to vote in the Democratic primary July 28.

Members of the court gave no indication as to when a decision will be handed down. At the conclusion of arguments, Special Chief Justice J. C. Muse, Sr., announced that the motion of R. Q. Mason, negro attorney, for leave to file the application for mandamus was granted, and that all motions and the cause itself was being taken under advisement by the court.

J. Hart Willis, former state senator, appeared as attorney for Murrell Buckner, chairman, and Robert S. Quillen, secretary of the Dallas county Democratic executive committee, as well as all precinct committeeman and election judges. They are all party defendants, along with County Clerk Robin Adair, to the suit brought by Mason for himself and all others similarly situated.

Negro Attorneys in Case.

Two negro attorneys, A. S. Wells and J. A. Atkins, were presenting arguments to support Mason's application for mandamus.

At the outset of the hearing Attorney Willis filed two motions, one asking for a dismissal because no proper cause of action had been stated, the other being a petition alleging misjoinder of defendants.

Willis asked dismissal of the suit because:

"First, the court has no jurisdiction because the subject matter is political and the proper forum is the Democratic state convention.

"Second, the suit was prematurely brought because there has been no damage yet to Mason or others similarly situated.

"Third. The matters complained of are now barred from relief in the courts because no protest was made at the time a resolution restricting Democratic primaries to white voters was adopted in convention.

"Fourth. That no action already done or threatened by defendants is contrary to any law of this state."

Refused Absentee Vote.

Willis argued Mason had no right to anticipate that election judges would refuse for negroes to vote July 28. This was in support of his contention the suit was prematurely brought.

In answering Willis' argument in behalf of his motions, Atkins, one of Mason's attorneys, pointed out that Mason had been refused the right to cast an absentee ballot by County Clerk Adair. This, he argued, disproved the claim that the suit was prematurely brought. In addition, Atkins argued that it was a matter of common knowledge that negroes had been refused the right to cast absentee ballots, and would be refused the right to vote in the various polling places July 28.

"The courts are required," he said, "to take judicial knowledge of what is ordinarily considered matters of common knowledge."

Negroes Crowd Courtroom.

The courtroom was packed to the walls, only little more than a dozen of the spectators being whites. More than 100 negroes stood in the small courtroom throughout the morning listening to the arguments of two highly educated lawyers of their race.

Atkins is a Houston negro, having come here to aid in the fight.

Regarding Willis' charge of misjoinder fo defendants, Atkins answered that it was humanly impossible to make the Democratic convention, which passed the negro exclusion resolution, a party to the suit. He pointed out that the convetion adjourned sine die after a one-day session and does not now exist.

The principal contention of Atkins and Wells was that so much legislation has been passed regulating conduct of the Democratic party that it has become an instrumentality of the state and is no longer a voluntary political organization.

Attorney Willis contended the Democratic party was a voluntary political body maintaining inherent powers to determine who its members shall be.

"Why, I could organized a Democratic party in this state restricting its members to be bald-headed men, if I chose," Willis argued. "Then again it would be lawful for all red-headed women to organize a political party, excluding blondes and brunettes."

Texas Vote-Bar Papers to D. C.

NEW YORK—The first group of affidavits from qualified colored Democrats barred from the July 28 Texas Democratic primary have been received at the headquarters of the NAACP here and forwarded to Attorney General Cummings as basis for action against Texas officials.

These documents, all signed by reputable citizens of Austin, Travis County, Texas, many of them property owners and all holding poll tax receipts, testify that upon presenting themselves to vote in the Democratic primary on July 28, the signers were turned down by ballot officials because they were colored.

The affidavits were secured by the Colored Voters' League of Travis County, Texas, upon the urgent request of Walter White, NAACP secretary. Mr. White stated that following failure to get any action from James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, or his assistant, Emil Hurja, after numerous communications addressed to them, he telegraphed Attorney General Cummings at Washington, D.C., to make immediate investigation and notify all Texas election officials that they would be prosecuted to the full extent of the law if they excluded qualified colored and Mexican voters from the primary elections.

Joseph B. Keenan, assistant United States attorney general, promptly replied, asking Mr. White to furnish him detailed information of such exclusion.

DALLAS, TEX.
DISPATCH

JUL 20 1934

NEGRO VOTING SUIT CENTERS ON CONSTITUTION

Lawyers Claim Refusal of Balloting Privilege Violation Of Rights.

JUSTICES CONSIDER CASE

100 Members of Race Hear Arguments Over Their Party Members

More than a hundred negroes huddled uncomfortably in the dignified atmosphere of the fifth court of civil appeals Friday while smart and educated lawyers of their race pitted lawbooks against the southern prejudice that keeps them from being Democrats. Lawyers completed argument at noon and justices took the case under advisement.

The hearing before the three-judge tribunal was to determine whether R. Q. Mason, torch-bearer for Texas negroes, has the right to bring suit for mandamus to force Dallas-co election judges to permit him a vote in the Democratic party primaries. It developed into a lengthy legal argument on merit that appeared likely to settle the biennial issue.

Negroes Interested.

On one side were the negro lawyers, A. S. Wells, R. S. H. Rice and J. A. Atkins, Houston, contending that the state Democratic convention violated the U. S. constitution and of the state when it passed the resolution May 24, 1932, barring the negro voters.

On the other side, J. Hart Willis, former state senator, held that the Democratic party has the right to choose its membership.

And in the background, feeling out of place and shuffling uneasily, the negroes listened attentively. Some were distinguished, with high white collars and long coats. Most of them were of the working class, in shirt-sleeves, their collars unbuttoned and their sleeves rolled up. Many did not understand the legal phrases that rolled from the tongues of their spokesmen but they were all well aware of the purpose of "de trial."

Are Negroes Democrats?

The question is to be decided by Chief Justice J. C. Muse Sr., specially appointed by Gov. Ferguson, and Justices Joe Bond and Ben F. Looney. The regular chief justice, Ben L. Jones, a candidate for nomination in the primary, disqualified himself.

Justice Looney said that the chief issued involved is:

"Are negroes members of the Democratic party?"

If so, he said, they are entitled a vote in the party primaries.

The negro lawyers were armed with a collection of supreme and appellate court decisions from state and federal tribunals, to support their contentions. They referred to these predicates frequently in their arguments. Hart contentions were similar to those handed down by Atty. Gen. Jimmy Allred, when he advised Texas election officials to bar negroes from the polls.

Here's Trouble Maker.

Both Hart's and Allred's arguments were based on the resolution passed by the state convention on May 14, 1932. It read:

"Be is Resolved: That all WHITE citizens of the State of Texas shall be eligible to membership in the Democratic party, and as such, entitled to participate in its deliberations."

It was on Allred's advice that County Clerk Robin Adair refused an absentee ballot to Mason and two other Dallas negroes and precipitated the litigation.

Defendants in the case, Murrell Buckner, chairman, and R. S. Quillen, secretary, were in the court. Adair was also present.

AUSTIN, TEX.
STATESMAN

JUL 28 1934

SMALL, HUNTER AND NECK AND M'DONALD RACING NECK

a very unofficial check put county according to unofficial re ting Allred, McDonald, Hun turns. McDonald and Hunter seem ter and Small in a dogfight for th ed battling for second place.
first four places. Showers that fell over a larg
While Travis county was rollin portion of the state apparently ha up what appeared to be a recor no retarding effect on the turnout vote, nearly 6000 ballots being cas

✦ ✦ ✦

Allred In Lead

shortly after noon, reports from Besides in Austin, Allred appeared over the state indicate that 976,00 to be leading slightly at Wichita record set in 1932 would go by th Falls and fighting strong at Housboard in the furious pace being se ton and a dozen other points heard from. The attorney general was liv-by Texas voters. ing up to predictions he would be
Allred was leading in Travi

Texas voters were show ering ballot boxes with a de luge of votes Saturday wit

Texas.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

DALLAS, TEX.
TIMES HERALD

JUL 20 1934

NEGROES' VOTE APPEAL RESTS BEFORE COURT

APPELLATE JUDGES HEAR ARGUMENTS, WILL DECIDE LATER

After hearing extended arguments and numerous court decisions, the fifth district court of Civil Appeals here early Friday afternoon took under advisement the question of whether a writ of mandamus will be issued compelling election judges in Dallas county to permit negroes to vote in the Democratic primary July 28.

Members of the court gave no indication as to when a decision will be handed down. At the conclusion of arguments, Special Chief Justice J. C. Muse, Sr., announced that the motion of R. Q. Mason, negro attorney, for leave to file the application for mandamus was granted, and that all motions and the cause itself was being taken under advisement by the court.

J. Hart Willis, former state senator, appeared as attorney for Murrell Buckner, chairman, and Robert S. Quillen, secretary of the Dallas county Democratic executive committee, as well as all precinct committeeman and election judges. They are all party defendants, along with County Clerk Robin Adair, to the suit brought by Mason for himself and all others similarly situated.

• • •

Negro Attorneys in Case.

Two negro attorneys, A. S. Wells and J. A. Atkins, were presenting arguments to support Mason's application for mandamus.

At the outset of the hearing Attorney Willis filed two motions, one asking for a dismissal because no proper cause of action had been stated, the other being a petition alleging misjoinder of defendants.

Willis asked dismissal of the suit because:

"First, the court has no jurisdiction because the subject matter is political and the proper forum is the Democratic state convention.

"Second, the suit was prematurely brought because there has been no damage yet to Mason or others similarly situated.

"Third. The matters complained of are now barred from relief in the courts because no protest was made at the time a resolution restricting Democratic primaries to white voters was adopted in convention.

"Fourth. That no action already done or threatened by defendants is contrary to any law of this state."

• • •

Refused Absentee Vote.

Willis argued Mason had no right to anticipate that election judges would refuse for negroes to vote July 28. This was in support of his contention the suit was prematurely brought.

In answering Willis' argument in behalf of his motions, Atkins, one of Mason's attorneys, pointed out that Mason had been refused the right to cast an absentee ballot by County Clerk Adair. This, he argued, disproved the claim that the suit was prematurely brought. In addition, Atkins argued that it was a matter of common knowledge that negroes had been refused the right to cast absentee ballots, and would be refused the right to vote in the various polling places July 28.

"The courts are required," he said, "to take judicial knowledge of what is ordinarily considered matters of common knowledge."

• • •

Negroes Crowd Courtroom.

The courtroom was packed to the walls, only little more than a dozen of the spectators being whites. More than 100 negroes stood in the small courtroom throughout the morning listening to the arguments of two highly educated lawyers of their race.

Atkins is a Houston negro, having come here to aid in the fight.

Regarding Willis' charge of misjoinder fo defendants, Atkins answered that it was humanly impossible to make the Democratic convention, which passed the negro exclusion resolution, a party to the suit. He pointed out that the convetion adjourned sine die after a one-day session and does not now exist.

The principal contention of Atkins and Wells was that so much legislation has been passed regulating conduct of the Democratic party that it has become an instrumentality of the state and is no longer a voluntary political organization.

Attorney Willis contended the Democratic party was a voluntary political body maintaining inherent powers to determine who its members shall be.

"Why, I could organized a Democratic party in this state restricting its members to be bald-headed men, if I chose," Willis argued. "Then again it would be lawful for all red-headed women to organize a political party, excluding blondes and brunettes."

Texas Vote-Bar Papers to D. C.

NEW YORK—The first group of affidavits from qualified colored Democrats barred from the July 28 Texas Democratic primary have been received at the headquarters of the NAACP here and forwarded to Attorney General Cummings as basis for action against Texas officials.

These documents, all signed by reputable citizens of Austin, Travis County, Texas, many of them property owners and all holding poll tax receipts, testify that upon presenting themselves to vote in the Democratic primary on July 28, the signers were turned down by ballot officials because they were colored.

The affidavits were secured by the Colored Voters' League of Travis County, Texas, upon the urgent request of Walter White, NAACP secretary. Mr. White stated that following failure to get any action from James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, or his assistant, Emil Hurja, after numerous communications addressed to them, he telegraphed Attorney General Cummings at Washington, D.C., to make immediate investigation and notify all Texas election officials that they would be prosecuted to the full extent of the law if they excluded qualified colored and Mexican voters from the primary elections.

Joseph B. Keenan, assistant United States attorney general, promptly replied, asking Mr. White to furnish him detailed information of such exclusion.

DALLAS, TEX.
DISPATCH

JUL 20 1934

NEGRO VOTING SUIT CENTERS ON CONSTITUTION

Lawyers Claim Refusal of Balloting Privilege Violation Of Rights.

JUSTICES CONSIDER CASE

100 Members of Race Hear Arguments Over Their Party Members

More than a hundred negroes huddled uncomfortably in the dignified atmosphere of the fifth court of civil appeals Friday while smart and educated lawyers of their race pitted lawbooks against the southern prejudice that keeps them from being Democrats. Lawyers completed argument at noon and justices took the case under advisement.

The hearing before the three-judge tribunal was to determine whether R. Q. Mason, torch-bearer for Texas negroes, has the right to bring suit for mandamus to force Dallas-co election judges to permit him a vote in the Democratic party primaries. It developed into a lengthy legal argument on merit that appeared likely to settle the biennial issue.

Negroes Interested.

On one side were the negro lawyers, A. S. Wells, R. S. H. Rice and J. A. Atkins, Houston, contending that the state Democratic convention violated the U. S. constitution and of the state when it passed the resolution May 24, 1932, barring the negro voters.

On the other side, J. Hart Willis, former state senator, held that the Democratic party has the right to choose its membership.

And in the background, feeling out of place and shuffling uneasily, the negroes listened attentively. Some were distinguished, with high white collars and long coats. Most of them were of the working class, in shirt-sleeves, their collars unbuttoned and their sleeves rolled up. Many did not understand the legal phrases that rolled from the tongues of their spokesmen but they were all well aware of the purpose of "de trial."

Are Negroes Democrats?

The question is to be decided by Chief Justice J. C. Muse Sr., specially appointed by Gov. Ferguson, and Justices Joe Bond and Ben F. Looney. The regular chief justice, Ben L. Jones, a candidate for nomination in the primary, disqualified himself.

Justice Looney said that the chief issued involved is:

"Are negroes members of the Democratic party?"

If so, he said, they are entitled a vote in the party primaries.

The negro lawyers were armed with a collection of supreme and appellate court decisions from state and federal tribunals, to support their contentions. They referred to these predicates frequently in their arguments. Hart contentions were similar to those handed down by Atty. Gen. Jimmy Allred, when he advised Texas election officials to bar negroes from the polls.

Here's Trouble Maker.

Both Hart's and Allred's arguments were based on the resolution passed by the state convention on May 14, 1932. It read:

"Be is Resolved: That all WHITE citizens of the State of Texas shall be eligible to membership in the Democratic party, and as such, entitled to participate in its deliberations."

It was on Allred's advice that County Clerk Robin Adair refused an absentee ballot to Mason and two other Dallas negroes and precipitated the litigation.

Defendants in the case, Murrell Buckner, chairman, and R. S. Quillen, secretary, were in the court. Adair was also present.

AUSTIN, TEX.
STATESMAN

JUL 28 1934

SMALL, HUNTER AND NECK AND McDONALD RACING NECK

ficial check put county according to unofficial re ting Allred, McDonald, Hunter seem turns. McDonald and Hunter ter and Small in a dogfight for the battling for second place.
first four places. Showers that fell over a large While Travis county was rolling portion of the state apparently had up what appeared to be a record no retarding effect on the turnout vote, nearly 6000 ballots being cast. ♦ ♦ ♦

Allred In Lead

Texas voters were show shortly after noon, reports for Besides in Austin, Allred appeared ering ballot boxes with a de over the state indicated that 976,000 to be leading slightly at Wichita luge of votes Saturday with record set in 1932 would go by the Falls and fighting strong at Houston board in the furious pace being set and a dozen other points heard by Texas voters. from. The attorney general was living up to predictions he would be a hard man to beat. He was a strong second at Dallas and Fort Worth. with Pecos, Crockett and other cities pushing him heavily.
Allred was leading in Travi

McDonald, backed by the support of the Ferguson administration displayed strength to put him in Navarro at Liberty, while at Houston, Corpus Christi, Austin, Crockett, Uvalde, Wichita Falls and Pecos he was well up.

The campaign of Tom Hunter, which extended back more than two years, was bearing fruit in piles of votes. He led at Dallas and Wichita Falls, Uvalde, Houston, Corpus Christi and Pecos, while many other cities were giving him impressive masses of votes.

At Uvalde and numerous other cities Edgar Witt was leading and his backers predicted he would be in the run-off when the final vote was counted.

Maury Hughes of Dallas had a lead at Crockett and was picking up many votes at Liberty, Houston and other places.

Early returns showed that United States Sen. Tom Connally was leading his opponent, Joseph Weldon Bailey, in the fight for the senate post. Connally had a good lead at Houston, Pecos, Crockett, Liberty and was slightly ahead at Dallas. Bailey was in the fore at Henderson.

◆ ◆ ◆

Attorney's Race Close

For attorney general, William McCraw of Dallas and Walter Woodward of Coleman seemed to be running a dead heat. The third candidate, Clyde E. Smith of Woodville, had a lead at Liberty but was not so strong elsewhere, according to sketchy returns.

◆ ◆ ◆

Light At Corpus Christi

Corpus Christi was the only major city in the state where early voting was described as light. Threatening weather was blamed.

In West Texas communities Clint Small was leading for governor, with Tom Hunter well up among the favored candidates.

Despite heavy balloting and keen interest o trouble was reported at polling places. Twenty-two Texas rangers were posted at boxes in Gregg county in addition to two supervisors requested unanimously by the candidates. The supervision was to prevent irregularities in connection with illegal payment of poll taxes.

The question of negro voting was kept in the background except at a few widely separated points. Negroes voted at El Paso, but election judges marked the ballots "colored," and it appeared doubtful they would be counted. Dr. L. A. Nixon, negro physician, who has won three court tests on the question of negroes voting in the democratic primary, said he would go to court again if his vote were not tabulated.

DENISON, TEX.
HERALD
AUG 1 1934

NEGRO VOTE CASE WILL BE DECIDED IN FEDERAL COURT

Sherman, Aug. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Whether negro voters of Texas will be privileged to mark ballots in the second Democratic primary, Aug. 25, will be decided in federal court at a hearing which opens here at 10 a. m. Monday, Aug. 13.

O. H. Woodrow, attorney who is defending Charles M. Cole, county clerk, against a $10,000 damage suit recently filed by John Johnson, 74, Denison negro for being denied the right to vote in the July 28 primary, and the Democratic party of Grayson county against the injunction sought which would prohibit further restraint of negro voting, expects to try the case before Federal Judge Randolph Bryant.

Woodrow quoted Felix Edwards, United States commissioner, Wednesday as saying he understood Judge Bryant would hear the injunction petition. Judge Bryant returned from a two-week vacation.

W. J. Durham, Sherman negro attorney, who is fighting for negro suffrage in the Democratic primaries, revealed for the first time Wednesday that his appeal to Thomas M. Kennerly, United States judge of the Houston district of federal court, for injunctive relief from the ruling of Attorney General James V. Allred barring negroes from the primaries was held in abeyance pending a hearing from both parties to the suit.

Durham had asked for an ex parte hearing and the granting of a temporary injunction until a trial on a permanent injunction could be had. In a hearing of an ex parte nature evidence only from the complaining parties is heard.

Set Case for Trial.

In denying the emergency hearing, Judge Kennerly set the case for trial here before a federal judge Aug. 13. it was revealed Wednesday, Mr. Woodrow announced today. Defeated in his attempt to obtain franchise for negro voters in the first Democratic primary, Durham had kept secret the second trial date.

Taking the view that under the State Constitution the right is accorded the people to form political parties and to determine their membership and policy, Mr. Woodrow will vigorously fight the injunction. He finds support of his view in a recent ruling not only of Attorney General Allred but the State Supreme Court.

He pointed out that the state high court differs from the United States Supreme Court's opinion that the Democratic party is a state agency and as such can not deny suffrage to any legally qualified voter.

As the negro voting issued to be settled here will affect negro suffrage through Texas, Durham expects to enlist counsel from Dallas.

In the petition on which an injunction is sought to force the election judges to desist from interfering with negroes voting, the Denison negro declares he is "a member believing in the tenets of the Democratic party."

"The petition is so drawn as to cover future elections," Durham said Wednesday. "The negro Democratic voters expect to settle this lawsuit once and for all time to come in right of negro voters to participate in statutory elections in Texas. For if a decision is rendered adverse to Johnson, the case will be carried to the Supreme Court of the United States. This is a lawsuit to determine the rights of a million American negro citizens in Texas.

"It is my opinion that the Democratic party of Texas is a creature of the state so long as the officers of the convention, its delegates and its activities are controlled by statute. Unless the state of Texas wipes from the statute every provision thereon which controls and regulates the Democratic party and its activities, citizens of Texas, on account of color, can not be barred." He cited also a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Nixon vs. Condon, et al, in support of his views.

GOOSE CREEK, TEX.
SUN

JUL 27 1934

Ban On Mexicans In Primary Is Lifted

AUSTIN, July 27—(U.P.)—An order forbidding Mexican citizens of Texas here to vote in Democratic primaries was to be withdrawn today by the Travis county Democratic executive committee.

The committee issued the order after the state supreme court, in ruling negroes ineligible to vote, held that the Democratic party of Texas had legally limited membership to "white citizens."

Attorney General James V. Allred, however, held in an opinion that the term "white citizens" as used by the Democratic party included Mexican citizens.

TEXARKANA, TEX.
NEWS

AUG 3 1934

BOWIE COUNTY NEGRO FIGHTS FOR HIS VOTE

Virgil G. Goree Takes Battle to U. S. Court in Texarkana.

Attorney General James V. Allred's ruling that negroes would not be permitted to vote in Texas democratic primaries has caused an answer to be filed in the eastern district of Texas federal court by Virgil G. Goree, negro school teacher here.

Goree is suing on behalf of himself and as the representative of all other qualified negro voters in the state of Texas as a class. Included in the list of defendants are Allred, Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, their successors in office, all county democratic committees in Texas, the state democratic executive committee and others.

The plaintiff contends it is his legal right and the right of those for whom he sues to vote in the democratic primary election on July 28, 1934, August 25, 1934, and on the fourth Saturdays in July and August in 1936 and every two years thereafter. He asks that the case involving their right to vote be set for hearing on application for a temporary or interlocutory injunction at as early date as possible.

A resolution of the state democratic convention of Texas is challenged as being a violation of the constitution of the United States; that section two and section 27 of the bill of rights is a violation of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the constitution of the United States as they make race and color a basis of classification of exclusion from participation in the state's democratic primary.

Section two of the bill of rights provides, "All political power is inherent in the people and all free governments are founded on their authority and instituted for their benefit. The faith of the people of Texas stands pledged to the preservation of a republican form of government, and, subject to this limitation only, they have at all times the inalienable right to alter, reform or abolish their government in such manner as they may think expedient."

Section 27, "The citizens shall have the right in a peaceable manner to assemble together for their common good; and apply to those invested with the powers of government for redress of grievances or other purposes by petition, address or remonstrance."

A resolution adopted by the state democratic convention in 1932, "Be it resolved that all white citizens of the state of Texas, who are qualified to vote under the constitution and laws of the state shall be eligible to membership in the democratic party and as such entitled to participate in its deliberations," Goree charges, was interpretated by the attorney general and supreme court to include," Resolved further that no negro shall ever have the right to vote in a statutory democratic primary election in the state of Texas."

Goree contends he is a resident of Bowie county and has a poll tax receipt. The ruling by the attorney general denies him equal protection of laws and due process of law under the fourteenth amendment of the United States constitution, the suit states.

EL PASO TEX.
HERALD

JUL 31 1934

NEGROES MAY SUE, ATTORNEY HERE SAYS

Conference To Be Held About Bar From Polls

Damage suits against election officials for refusing to permit negroes to vote in Saturday's primary will be filed in federal district court soon, if Dr. L. A. Nixon, negro physician, will prosecute the cases, Atty. Fred Knollenberg, Republican said today.

Dr. Nixon said he will confer with Mr. Knollenberg today. Dr. Nixon voted in precinct No. 6, but his ballot was marked "colored."

"I do not believe that we can do anything about that," Mr. Knollenberg said. "There is no way to prove that the vote was not counted.

"The action in permitting Dr. Nixon to vote is recognition of the validity of the judgment he received in the last negro voting cases. It shows that the officials are afraid to bar negroes."

Political – 1934
Suffrage

Texas.

Grovey Defends Negro Rights In Fiery Speech

Houston Informer

HOUSTON—A vitrolic attack on political disfranchisement of Texas Negroes was made here Monday night before a large mass meeting of local citizens by R. R. Grovey, Houston business man, who recently instituted civil proceedings in Justice Campbell R. Overstreet's court here through which he hopes to ultimately vindicate the right of qualified Negro voters to participate in the primaries of the Democratic party in Texas. 10-13-34

The purpose of the meeting was to acquaint the public with the details of Mr. Grovey's pending suit. Those in charge of the meeting were encouraged by the response of the audience.

Houston Informer

The records show that attendance at the meetings which are being held throughout the city are constantly increasing and financial contributions, to assist Mr. Grovey in the cost of the court fight he has launched, are unusually good.

The following persons appeared on the program Monday night and in speeches pointed out good reasons why Houston Negroes should lend Mr. Grovey their support: Dr. W. M. Drake, W. H. Simon, Rev. J. C. Davis, Rev. F. L. Woodard, F. W. Simon, Autrey Finner, Rev. B. H. Roberts and Mrs. Jessie P. White. Rev. Roberts served as master of ceremonies and himself delivered an address which matched that of Mr. Grovey.

A similar meeting will be held Friday night, October 19, at East Bethel Baptist Church of which Rev. G. Porter is pastor and which is located at 2049 Live Oak street

For Negro Rights

10-20-34

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 20—The following statement is issued by the Harris County Democratic Club which is sponsoring a fight for the ballot for Negroes:

To our Personal Friends and Colored Citizens of Texas:

Houston Informer

In the Lawsuit to get the right for Negroes to vote in City, County and State Statutory Elections in Texas, in which R. R. Grovey of Houston, Texas, is plaintiff, we are making rapid progress in collecting money necessary to finance the same. We have made two vital steps—our attorneys have been secured, and 33 pages of Certified Records from the Justice Court of Houston have been paid for; second, these records have been received by the clerk of the Supreme Court of the United States and he has written us to send $135.00 to have the records printed.

We are collecting money from over half of the people we approach here in Harris County. Hence, you should see that this money question resolves itself down to getting about a dozen persons to offer their services to help contact our folks and get the money.

A few of us are sacrificing our time from our business to put this proposition over for our group not only here, but all over the South. Two more successful steps and the victory is ours.

We are asking the good people everywhere to send us a personal donation, and a donation from your organization—religious, benevolent, educational, fraternal, social, etc. We know our attorneys—Wells, Atkins and Wesley—are three of the best in the State. They are encouraged and we are very hopeful that we will win this time.

R. R. Grovey, Chairman
W. M. Drake, M. D., Secretary
J. E. Robinson, Sr., Treasurer
Office of Secretary: 419½ Milam Street, Houston, Texas.

LOWELL, MASS.
COURIER CITIZEN

AUG 8 1934

THE COLORED VOTE.

To the people of the North allowing Negroes to vote is a matter of simple justice and recognition of their rights under the Constitution. The educational qualifications of the states should be high enough to bar illiterate Negroes and whites alike so discrimination seems entirely needless and the result of an old prejudice.

The case it not quite so simple as all that. In a few states the white and Negro populations are so nearly balanced that there is a genuine and perhaps not wholly unjustified fear of Negro domination. The Texas Weekly suggests an objection to Negro voting that possibly does not exist in any of the other states where this vote is suppressed. To allow Negroes to exercise their right, it is urged, would add to the number of manageable voters who could be got together in blocks for the support of powerful bosses. That is a broader question, however, than that of Negro voting. As the Weekly expreses it:

> What is needed in Texas is a thorough revision of the whole electoral system, including the qualifications for voting, and among other things to be sought is the elimination of the ignorant and manageable vote because it is ignorant and manageable, a block vote, and not on any racial ground. When this is done, the question of the entrance of Negroes into the Democratic primaries can be settled without much trouble, we think.

In many of the states the general sentiment would frown upon any attempt on the part of white candidates to appeal to the colored voters, en masse. The very fact, if it is a fact, that white politicians in Texas are ready to make use of the colored vote and that this can be done without exciting general indignation makes the question, it would seem, really more complicated than it is where suppression is the result of a determination to keep the Negro "in his place." At any rate, there can be no disputing that Texas politics should be cleaned up so as to make block voting of the ignorant more nearly impossible, as a preparation to allowing to the Negro his constitutional privilege.

Harris County Democratic Club Issues Statement

Houston Informer

More Determined Than Ever Before To Battle

CHAIRMAN OF DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE IS FLAYED FOR INDIFFERENT ATTITUDE TOWARD PLEA

Houston Informer 8-18-34

Negro Democrats of Lone Star State Rallying For New Fight Against Ballot Exclusion Resolution—National Association for Advancement of Colored People Rushes Affidavits To United States Attorney General —Both Primary Elections May Be Contested —Damage Suits To Be Filed

Houston, Texas

NEW YORK CITY—Sp.)—In a letter to Emil Hurja, assistant to Chairman James A. Farley of the Democratic national committee, Walter White, secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, has again scored Mr. Farley's failure to act on the exclusion of qualified Negro Democrats from that party's primaries in Texas.

"It may be that I am in error," he writes, "but it does seem to me that the chairman of the Democratic committee can point out to the state Democratic committees which are violating the federal constitution and express decisions of the United States Supreme Court that they are not only violating the constitution and laws, but are permitting race prejudice to do damage to the political fortunes of the party by antagonizing large numbers of not only Negro but white voters as well through their illegal exclusion of qualified Negro voters from Democratic primaries.

"For the information of yourself and Mr. Farley," the letter continues, "we have also protested to the attorney general of the United States and urged federal action against these election officials. At the request of Mr. Joseph B. Keenan, we have gathered affidavits from qualified Negro voters in various parts of Texas which have been forwarded to the attorney general so that he may determine if a federal law has been violated and can take action accordingly. Additional offidavits are being gathered by our branches and agents.

Texans Rallying to Fight

The association reports that Texas Negro Democrats are thoroughly aroused by the latest flouting of the constitution and supreme court decisions by Democratic officials.

Complying with the urgent appeal of Mr. White to send in to his office the affidavits of qualified voters Negro voters who were denied the right to vote in the Democratic primary held in Texas on july 28 because of their race and color, nineteen of these affidavits have been received from Waco, Houston, El Paso, Austin and Beaumont, and promptly forwarded to Asssistant Attorney General Keenan at Washington, D. C., in accordance with his recent request. These documents will form a basis for federal action against Texas Democratis officials. More affidavits are being gathered and will be forwared to Mr. Keena as they arrive.

R. D. Evans, Negro attorney of Waco, Texas, and a moving spirit be-Waco, Texas, and a moving spirit behind the Texas Negroes' fight for the right to vote in the democratic primaries there, inserted a paid advertisement in the Waco Record of July 27, citing extracts from the federal election law entitling qualified Negroes to vote. Attorney Evans has also been active in gathering affidavits from Negro Democrats in Waco, Fort Worth and Austin excluded from the July 28 primary.

In a letter to the N.A.A.C.P. secretary, Mr. Evans writes: "As I see this fight after twenty years, we must fall behind your powerful organization for law enforcement and preservation of the law in its prrsent form, and to that end, I am asking all Texas to form organizations and contribute to this one organization for complete relief. Any further move you desire to make on the Texas matter, you have simply to command."

Some Negroes Voted

Although the supreme court of Texas on July 20, in the case of W. G. Bell, et al, versus Fred G Hill, overruled decisions of the supreme court of the United States entitling Negroes to vote in the Waco, El Paso and one precinct in Fort Worth. By personally calling upon every election judge in Waco and warning of federal action Attorney Evans persuaded them much against their will, to open the pollls to Negroes except in the 3rd and 10th precincts. Waco ballot officials later admitted that the Negroes permitted to vote displayed more intelligence in voting than the whites. "It's a shame to have to admit it." said one official, "but it's the truth."

In El Paso every qualified Negro voter was barred from balloting except Dr. L. A. Nixon (complainant in the three Texas white primary suits) and a colored druggist who accompanied him.

Senator Copeland Promises Aid

In reply to a letter from Mr. White, concerning the vote bar in Texas, Senator Royal S. Copeland, Democrat New York, wrote: "I intend to do whatever I can to assist your cause." Senator Bonnett Champ Clark, Democrat, Missouri, writes that he has "taken up the matter with Honorable Emil Hurja." Inentical letters have been sent by Mr. White to Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, Senator David I. Wash of Massachusetts and Senator Edward P. Costigan of Colorado asking their aid.

Mr. White said that the fight on the color bar in Texas Democratic primaries will constitute the major activity of the association henceforward, and will be carried into states in which large numbers of Negro Dmocratic voters form the balance of power in the coming elections, unless the department of justice or Chairman Farley acts immediately.

Political - 1934

Suffrage.

Texas.

HOUSTON, TEX.
PRESS

JUL 7 1934

RESOLUTION WOULD BAR NEGRO VOTERS

County Executive Committee Acts on Question

A resolution which will exclude practically all negro voters from the July 28 primary was passed Saturday afternoon by the Harris County Democratic Executive Committee.

The resolution, offered at a school of instruction for presiding judges, stated that no one could vote in any democratic primary who could not show that he had voted at least three times in the last six years in a democratic primary.

Those who are voting for the first time must prove that their parents had voted in the democratic primary at least three times in the last six years.

The motion was presented by Allen S. Shepherd and after a heated discussion the motion carried 43 to 24.

The resolution did not mention negroes specifically.

By United Press

SAN ANTONIO, July 7.—Will A. Morris, chairman of the Bexar County democratic committee, announced today that negroes would be permitted to vote in the July primary.

The decision affects 5000 negro votes.

DALLAS, TEX.
TIMES HERALD

JUL 10 1934

NEGRO VOTERS GROUP TO CONDUCT SCHOOL

The Progressive Voters league, negro political organization, will meet Friday night in the Pythian temple to study the ballot and conduct a voting school, it was announced Monday morning.

It was announced at a meeting at the St. Paul Negro Methodist church Sunday that organizations have been perfected in each of the 121 precincts of the county, and that these will hold meetings during the week.

A. S Wells is president of the league, and A. Maceo Smith is secretary.

HOUSTON, TEX.
POST

JUL 6 1934

Jefferson Negro Voting Ban Lifted

BEAUMONT, July 6.—(AP)—Jefferson county's Democratic executive committee late Thursday rescinded a resolution previously passed restricting voting in the primaries to white citizens. Effect of the action was to lift the ban on negro voting.

The vote on rescission of the resolution was 14 to 14, and it was necessary for J. R. Edmonds, county Democratic chairman, to break the deadlock. He voted to rescind the resolution, explaining he believed the county executive committee had right to include the word "white" in the pledge set up by the state executive committee for state candidates.

Immediately after the "white primary" resolution was rescinded a motion was made to place the white pledge on a ballot for Jefferson county candidates only. The motion was carried by an overwhelming majority. But the chairman ruled it out of order when members of the committee protested the executive committee had no right to take up the matter in the special meeting called for another purpose.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
PRESS

JUL 12 1934

Ruling Not to Affect Situation in Tarrant

Attorney General James V. Allred's opinion holding that negroes cannot vote in the Democratic primaries will not affect the situation here, County Democratic Chairman Hugh L. Small said today.

"In the first place, Mr. Allred's opinion cannot usurp the opinion of the United States Supreme Court, which held in the Nixon case that negroes could not be barred.

"In the second place, our county executive committee voted it, had no authority in the matter, and passed the question on to the election judges, who, after all, are the judges of the qualifications of those who offer themselves to vote," Mr. Small said.

The county chairman sees little need for worry over the negro vote question in this county. "The poll tax rolls show that only 793 negroes are qualified to vote, and I doubt if more than 20 per cent of the total even try to vote," he said.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
MORNING STAR TELEGRAM

JUL 13 1934

Negro Vote Opinion Of No Effect Here

The opinion of Attorney General Allred yesterday that negroes cannot vote in the coming Democratic primary will have no effect at all in this county, County Democratic Chairman Hugh L. Small commented as he explained that the matter already has been discussed here.

At its recent meeting, the county executive committee, on a point of order, decided it had no jurisdiction and thus left the question up to election judges in the various precincts. These officials will rule on qualifications of those who present themselves to vote, including those negroes who may appear, Small pointed out.

Small said that "the question is not important enough in this county to be of much concern. There are only about 790 negroes qualified to vote, and I doubt that more than 20 per cent of them have any intention of even trying to vote."

FORT WORTH, TEX.
EVENING STAR TELEGRAM

JUL 6 1934

JEFFERSON COUNTY NEGROES ARE TO VOTE

BEAUMONT, July 6 (AP).—Jefferson County negroes Friday had the privilege of voting in the Democratic primary election July 28 after the county Democratic committee had voted 15-14 to rescind its former action in barring negroes.

With the count at 14-14, J. R. Edmonds, committee chairman, voted to rescind the committee's previous action. He said he believed the county executive committee had no right to include the word "white" in the pledge set up by the State Executive Committee for state candidates.

HOUSTON, TEX
CHRONICLE

JUL 6 1934

Jefferson County Negroes Will Vote

By Associated Press.

Beaumont, July 6.—Jefferson County negroes today enjoyed the privilege of voting in the Democratic primary election July 28 after the county Democratic committee had voted, 15-14, to rescind its former action in barring negroes.

With the count at 14-14, J. R. Edmonds, committee chairman, voted to rescind the committee's previous action. He said he believed the county executive committee had no right to include the word "white" in the pledge set up by the state executive committee for state candidates.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK.
GAZETTE

JUN 29 1934

El Dorado Pays Nearly Half Of County's Poll Taxes.

Special to the Gazette.

El Dorado, June 28.—A total of 3,347 poll tax receipts was issued in El Dorado township out of the total of 6,965 for the county. Of this number 2,573 were issued in the four wards of El Dorado and the remaining 774 were issued in the township outside the city.

There were 405 poll tax receipts issued in the three wards of Smackover. Norphlet has a voting strength of 518, Calion has 83 poll tax payers, Felsenthal 50, Huttig 202, Strong 368 and Henderson township, including Junction City, 250.

Of the 6,965 poll tax receipts issued 472 were to Negroes and the remaining 6,493 were issued to white persons.

HOUSTON, TEX.
CHRONICLE

JUL 7 1934

Bexar County To Permit Negroes To Vote in Primary

Special to The Chronicle.

San Antonio, July 7.—Democratic officials announced today that negroes will be permitted to vote in the primary in Bexar County.

Since the courts are divided on the question and since the power to exclude negroes from the primary, if such power exists, rests with the state Democratic convention or state executive committee, which declined to act, County Chairman Will A. Morriss, Jr., said he had no power to bar them if he wished.

EL PASO, TEX.
TIMES

JUL 10 1934

Demos Will Discuss Run-Off, Negro Voting

Ernest Guinn, chairman of the county Democratic executive committee, said yesterday the executive committee will be asked to pass on the problem of a run-off election at a meeting to be called within the next two weeks.

Guinn said the committee also will pass on the eligibility of negroes to vote in the primary election.

LUBBOCK, TEX.
JOURNAL

JUL 2 1934

Terry Demos Will Bar Negro Voters

BROWNFIELD, July 2.—(Special)—At a meeting of the Terry county Democratic executive committee recently, a resolution was adopted forbidding negroes to vote in the coming primary, it was announced by R. M. Kendrick, chairman.

"Terry county always will be a white man's county as far as this committee is concerned," Mr. Kendrick added.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
MORNING STAR TELEGRAM

JUL 8 1934

COLORED VOTERS ASKED TO ATTEND MEETINGS

Phil Register, chairman of the Colored League of Fort Worth, announced yesterday that county political candidates, because of their pledge to speak only at the regular rallies, will not be able to address a meeting planned by the negroes for Monday night.

Instead, Register said, the candidates invited colored voters to hear them at the meetings scheduled on the regular itinerary. The meetings will be held at designated points in the city.

NEGROES AND THEIR "WHITE FRIENDS"

Defender 7-28-34

In its issue last week a Houston contemporary called attention to the fact that the recently elected president of the white Young Men's Christian Association of Houston, with which the colored branch has relations and which more or less dictates the colored organization's policy and official personnel, was the white lawyer who gave his legal services in July, 1932, to keep Negroes (even officers and members of the colored Y. M. C. A.) from voting in the Democratic primary elections.

Houston Press

Defender

Last Saturday this same lawyer-chairman sat with and advised legal counsel for the Harris County Democratic executive committee in the injunction hearing in the federal court here, and once more Negro citizens (including members and officers of the Negro Y. M. C. A.) were barred from the Democratic primary elections by a presiding judge who is said to be a deacon in a white Baptist church.

Another member of the legal staff fighting to keep Negroes out of the Democratic primary elections here last Saturday is reputed to be a "devout churchman" and vestryman or "amen elder" in the white Episcopalian church; while the chairman of the Harris County Democratic executive committee, which raises this "Negro question" every biennium, is one of the "pillars" in a white Presbyterian church here. (Lord, help us!)

When the klan was in its heyday and was seeking to usurp the functions of constituted authority; when the "invisible empire" was preaching and executing a doctrine of racial hatred, religious intolerance and bigotry and resorting to violence and anarchy, most of the leaders were prominent in religious, political, business, fraternal and other circles here and elsewhere; and even the Houston Commission on Interracial Cooperation and board of management of the white Y. M. C. A. were honeycombed with kluxers and their sympathizers.

All the agitation against Negroes exercising and tnjoying their constitutional rights in this city and state is being raised and has been waged in the past, principally, by supposed "white friends" of the Negro race—men occupying high church posts, who wear pious and sanctimonious faces, pray or say fervent prayers for the pagans of heathen lands and shed crocodile tears about the plight of peoples in foreign lands, while failing or refusing to observe the Golden Rule as it relates to their domestic and next-door neighbor—the Negro.

Why, even human slavery was perpetuated in the United States because the white churches of the South put their "religious and divine" approval and bestowed their sacred blessing upon the slave trade and the cruel and barbaric treatment accorded the hapless bondmen in numerous communities.

Apparently, it has never occurred to some of our "white friends" that the right to vote in all public elections is guaranteed to every citizen in the same manner as the right to worship God according to the dictates of one's own conscience and under one's own vine and fig-tree.

So many of these "white friends" will visit Negro churches and public gatherings and profess undying friendship to the colored race, and then turn right around and go into conniptions when Negroes ask for and demand the same constitutional rights and warranties guaranteed to and enjoyed by other elements of our polyglot population.

In the face of such an anti-Negro attitude and policy on the part of so many supposed "white friends" and the organized hostility and recurrent antagonism and opposition of white churchmen, including ministers who never raise their voices in the defense of their "colored brethren and sisters in the Lord," one can readily see why the thinking and intelligent Negro is losing faith not only in the average white man's sense of fairness and justice, but in his supposed Christianity and religious professions. (Let us pray!)

WHY RESPECT US?

Last Tuesday morning the Houston Post joined Jimmie Allred in his attack upon franchise rights of Negroes, saying that "the attorney general has rendered the party and the State a service in clearing up this vexatious situation." And yet it is a fact that more Negroes over the state are subscribers to the Houston Post than to all Houston Negro newspapers combined. Why should the white people of Texas respect our franchise rights, when we pay them so dearly with our hard-earned cash to disrespect them?

Defender 8-4-34

Houston Press

The Post does not stop with saying that Jimmie Allred has rendered a service; it claims that Allred is entitled to thanks for this service. "Attorney General James V. Allred is due the thanks of the people of Texas for clearing up the question of Negroes legal right to vote in the forthcoming Democratic primaries."

No other race of people on the face of the globe is as patient and long-suffering and backboneless as Negroes. Other people can kick us anywhere, and we only smile and thank them for it with our cash money. When the white people of America (who were treated far better than we were treated) were taxed a little heavier than they thought their representation warranted, they went to war about it.

While it would be foolish and futile for Negroes to even think of the use of force for the protection of our rights; yet some of these days we shall learn that we at least don't have to fatten frogs for snakes, and that we don't have to pay people to trample upon our constitutional rights.

STATE FRANCHISE FUND

Charlie Brackins, veteran Dallas political and business leader, deserves the credit and support of all Negroes and other right thinking people of Texas and the nation in taking the lead in the establishment of the State Franchise Fund, which, according to Mr. Brackins, is to be a permanent foundation, and which shall have for its sole purpose the raising of a common fund and the waging of a united battle over Texas for the final and permanent winning for Negroes of the right to vote in Texas. This battle will not be restricted to the courts, but will be waged along every front of peaceful endeavor by which progress in this direction may be made.

Defender 8-4-34

Houston Press

It is fortunate for Texas that Mr. Brackins has chosen Attorney A. S. Wells as chief legal counsel for the State Franchise Fund. Mr. Wells has had a long and able and honorable career at the bar of Texas, and The Informer is certain that he will prove a tower of strength in this new movement.

Let no Negro teacher, let no Negro professional man or woman, let no Negro laborer, let no Negro of any kind in Texas claim that he or she has any racial respect or self-respect, who either opposes or refuses to co-operate in making the State Franchise Fund a success.

TEXAN WILL NOT GIVE UP HIS FRANCHISE

Call

Negroes Voted in Some Cities But 'Colored' Was Put on Ballots

8-3-34

EL PASO, Texas.—(ANP)—Following the primary election in this state Saturday, Dr. L. A. Nixon, successful in three attacks against voting restrictions applied to Negroes in the state, announced that he intended to sue to force the counting of ballots cast by colored citizens in the Democratic primary.

Kansas City Star

Negroes were allowed to vote in El Paso.

In some other sections of the state, they cast their ballots, but the word "colored" was placed upon them. It is not believed those ballots will be counted unless election officials are forced to.

In June, the state executive committee and a number of county committees of the Democratic party, yielded on the issue of Negro participation in the primary, but later, the attorney general, a candidate for the nomination for governor in the primary ruled in line with the state supreme court, that Negroes could not participate in the Democratic primary in spite of decisions of the United States supreme court.

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS
AUG 14 1934

GOOD ENOUGH TO CONSCRIPT WHEN COUNTRY AT WAR.

To The News:

The Democratic primaries are over and the candidates have been selected for the run-off. Over 100,000 qualified negro voters in Texas were denied the right to cast their ballots because of the ruling of our State Attorney General.

As a consequence, the Negro must stand back while Mexicans and other naturalized Americans from the various countries on the globe are allowed to march to the polls unchallenged to vote their choice. This, it seems to the writer, is poor Americanism, which boasts of justice and has long since prided itself as the refuge of the downcast and the champion of human rights.

The Negro has forever remained loyal to the flag since 1619, when a group of twenty slaves were landed at Jamestown, Va., through a traffic in human souls. For 244 years of unrequited toil these loyal citizens tilled the soil, planted the fields, harvested the crops of the Southern plantations, nursed and succored the families of their masters, were custodians of the "family chest" while the master was at war to keep them in slavery. And it must be remembered that the first blood that fertilized the soil of this continent in the cause of liberty and fraternity flowed from the life-stream of that negro hero-martyr, Crispus Attucks, who fell on Boston Common in 1770. The negro race has borne its full share of responsibility and sacrifice in every military movement in which this country has been engaged from the revolutionary period through the Civil War, on through Carizal, San Juan Hill and the Argonne front. And the negro race has never produced a slacker or a Zangara.

The Negro has repeatedly paid his poll tax in Texas for years without the right to exercise the privilege of a holder of a poll tax receipt.

Surely if the Negro has enough intelligence to shoulder a rifle, march off to the front, leaving his loved ones behind while he helps defend his country when the dark clouds of adversity are hanging low over this country, surely the Negro is good enough to show his choice at the ballot box to help select men who will rule Texas and make laws under which he must live.

GEORGE O. DUNCAN.
3507 Farmer St., Houston, Texas.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Texas.

Predict Large Negro Vote In July Texas Primaries

DALLAS, Tex.—As a result of the decision of the federal court in El Paso last month, awarding damages to Dr. L. A. Nixon for his having been barred from the Democratic primary election there last spring, it is predicted that many Negro citizens of Texas will take part in the state primaries on July 28.

There are still a few die-hards among the whites who claim other ways to bar Negroes from exercising the ballot will be found, but the general opinion among white people is that the fight against qualified Negroes voting should be dropped.

The latest report is that the state executive committee of the party is divided on the question of further action against colored people, with a majority said to be in favor of allowing Negroes to vote when they meet the qualifications.

Florence, S. C., News
March 8, 1934

Court Rules On Texas Negroes' Right to Vote

Federal Judge Says Negroes May Vote in Democratic Primary

By JOSEPH MYLER
United Press Staff Correspondent

DALLAS, Tex., Mar. 7—(UP)—The last bar to free exercise of the franchise by Negro voters has been thrown down in Texas—at least in theory.

Negroes interested in public affairs claimed victory in a fight which had its inception in Abraham Lincoln's proclamation freeing the slaves.

A recent ruling by an El Paso judge, following U. S. Supreme Court decisions on the same subject, gave Negroes the entree to Democratic primary elections. Consensus among political observers was that next July 28 will see unprecedented numbers of Negro voters claiming their newly-declared right.

Not since adoption of the 15th amendment to the Federal Constitution has the Negro legally been kept from the polls. But the white majority, since "reconstruction" days after the Civil war when "carpet-baggers" were a menace to home rule, has found means to abridge the Negro's franchise to a considerable extent.

At first, shooting members of the Ku Klux Klan used guns and clubs to keep the former slaves in the cotton patch on election day. Gradually, as the years went by, less direct action was taken and the bar to balloting by blacks was given the sanction of legislative acts.

The last of these Texas laws a year ago was declared unconstitutional, but not until February this year was the decision invoked in Texas.

Dr. L. A. Nixon, a Negro crusader for Negro rights, brought suit in Federal Court when he was barred from voting in the last Democratic primary.

Judge Charles A. Boynton ruled that Negroes legally could vote in the primary and awarded Nixon a $5 judgment against the election officials who had refused him a ballot.

It was Nixon who carried to the U. S. Supreme Court fights against validity of Texas election laws enacted in 1925 and 1927. The first bluntly declared any ballot cast by a Negro was void. The latter sought to accomplish the same purpose by authorizing the Democratic State Committee to prescribe qualifications for voters in primaries.

Both were declared unconstitutional by the highest tribunal.

As yet, no movement has been started to devise a new legislative means to keep Negroes out of Texas government. But such a development was considered almost certain, in view of a significant statement by Judge Thomas Bell Love, co-author of the original Terrell election law.

"Sentiment in Texas still is strongly against Negro participation in Democratic primaries," Love declared. "The Federal court rulings represent no liberalization of attitude within the state."

HERKIMER, N. Y.
TELEGRAM

MAR 13 1934

Beaumont Negroes Win Vote

Beaumont, Texas, Negroes were allowed to go to the polls and cast their ballots in a Democratic primary for the first time March 3. Although concerning comparatively few persons, the decision is of vital importance particularly to the South and to a race that has been fighting prejudice since slave days.

The election was for the mayoralty and P. D. Renfro, New Deal candidate, won over Emmett A. Fletcher, incumbent. Both men had protested allowing the Negro vote.

It long has been a moot question in Texas politics as to whether the Negro should be allowed to vote in Democratic primaries where nomination is generally followed by election. The Democratic State Convention or the state party executive committee has always ruled against this extension of universal suffrage. Many individual suits have been brought in vain, the Attorney General's office ruling that election laws have no jurisdiction over party elections. The Beaumont City Democratic Committee acceded to a petition from Negro voters after deliberation.

HOUSTON, TEX.
POST

MAR 23 1934

Fergusons In Houston For Parley

Texas Democratic Committeemen Meet Saturday.

SLATED FOR JOB

Governor's Mate and Hussion Loom as State Chiefs.

Houston will become the political mecca of Texas Saturday, when the state Democratic executive committee convenes here to transact an important program of business, proposed by Maury Hughes of Dallas, the retiring chairman, in his recent call of the meeting.

Uppermost on the program will be the selection of a national committeeman from Texas to succeed Jed C. Adams of Dallas, who has resigned to take a federal appointment. It is expected that friends of former Gov. James E. Ferguson will advocate his election to the post.

Ferguson Receptive.

Mr. Ferguson has intimated a receptive attitude, but has not definitely said whether or not he wanted the place.

Ed J. Hussion, secretary of the state committee, and a close friend of Ferguson, Thursday expressed the opinion that Ferguson could be elected national committeeman if he would accept.

"I think it would be a fitting termination to a long career of service to the Democratic party," said Mr. Hussion. He said Ferguson had not indicated to him whether he would accept the post, should it be offered him.

Governor Arrives.

Mr. Ferguson and his wife, Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, arrived in Houston Thursday night, to spend a day here in advance of the meeting.

The committee also is to select a chairman to succeed Mr. Hughes, who is retiring on account of his candidacy for governor. It is understood that friends of Ferguson will urge the election of Mr. Hussion to the chairmanship. J. K. Brim of Sulphur Springs, vice chairman, also is a prospective candidate for the place.

Eugene Smith of Austin and San Antonio, a close friend of the Fergusons, who was a member of the state highway commission during Mrs. Ferguson's previous administration, has been proposed for Mr. Hussion's position as state secretary.

Prohi Ballot Proposed.

In his call of the meeting, Chairman Hughes proposed that the committee order a referendum on the question of state prohibition in the July primary, as a means of giving the next legislature an indication of the state's sentiment on repeal. This matter will come up at the meeting.

Another action proposed by the retiring chairman is that of granting women membership on the state executive committee, by electing one man and one woman from each district, with half a vote each.

Mr. Hussion expressed the opinion that this could not be done without changing the state law, which he said fixes the committee membership at 31.

Consider Negro Ruling.

It is likely that the question of permitting negroes to vote in the Democratic primaries will be considered, in view of the recent court decision according them that right.

There has been talk of the committee's electing a national committeewoman to succeed Mrs. Clara Driscoll Sevier, who has accompanied her husband, Hal Sevier, new ambassador to Chile, to his new station. But the fact that Mrs. Sevier has not yet resigned as national committeewoman from Texas complicates the question of electing her successor. Mrs. J. K. Loving of Austin has been urged for the post as one of the "slate" sponsored by friends of the Ferguson administration.

The secretary anticipated that most of the committeemen would attend the meeting. Only one proxy had been given as far as he knew; that of Rice Maxey of Sherman to Mrs. Cecil Smith of Sherman.

Chairman Hughes, Vice Chairman Brim and many members of the committee are expected to reach Houston Friday, while some will not arrive until Saturday.

Numerous candidates for state offices and political figures are expected to rally here for the committee meeting.

THE POWER OF THE BALLOT

(St. Louis Argus.)

The following is a news item concerning a recent election in the city of Beaumont, Texas:

When Mayor E. A. Fletcher of this city consistently barred Negroes from the city auditorium, he little imagined that they would be able to wreak vengeance upon him politicaly. He knows better now. Last week Beaumont Negroes voted in the Democratic primaries for the first time in the history and voted for a man against Mayor Fletcher, and he was defeated. The Negroes were enabled to participate in the primary election by a decision of the Texas attorney general's office following the winning by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People of the third Texas Primary case launched by Dr. L. A. Dixon, of El Paso. The decision of the attorney general's office came when Mayor Fletcher and his supporters sought to prevent Negroes from voting.

This is a clear-cut case which shows the power of the ballot. Mayor Fletcher had the power to bar the Negroes from the city auditorium, but, with the ballot in their hands patience in their breasts, and good judgment in their actions they used their power to bar Fletcher from office—a fine tribute to the power of the ballot and to those whose good judgment exercised it.

HOUSTON, TEX.
POST

MAR 12 1934

Letters From the People

VIEWS OF OUR READERS

THE NEGRO AND THE DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY.

To The Houston Post:

HOUSTON, Texas.—We read with much interest and appreciation the statement issued by J. B. (Shorty) Lubbock that the negroes would be permitted to vote in the party primaries. It was timely, and indicative of a change of heart, although belated, the negroes will accept it in the spirit of friendliness, and it is another milestone in the program of racial adjustment, and a better political understanding.

But with the unrestrictive use of the ballot by negroes will come the greatest responsibility of political and educational leadership and a challenge to those who assume to lead and direct the negro voter, to see to it that, as far as is humanly possible, the negro voter is not exposed to the trickery and demagoguery of politicians in the white group and those in the negro group who view the ballot as a meal ticket.

What I mean is that the intelligent citizens of both groups should do all their power to prevent the ignorant ple from suffering through the results of their ignorance.

I believe it an unpardonable sin for the intelligent in the two races to stand idly by and raise not their hands to stay the tide of political corruption which will follow a misguided negro vote. Moreover, we must remember that the negro's social institutions, his religious conceptions, the type of education he has received, and his long period of denial of the exercise of the right of franchise have had their influence upon his political views.

Therefore, it is imperative that these institutions be lifted from their state of mockery to a point where they exert the proper influence in shaping and determining a common sense method of politics.

It will be unwise to expect the average negro voter to know what is best for the whole community and to understand fully the sacred use of the ballot, without the proper contact and instruction, therefore political education should begin now, to insure the best results in the future.

It is very true that illiteracy has been so reduced that no necessity for marking ballots is contemplated, but in a period so filled with social and economic maladjustments, his ignorance of vital issues and of the difference in men and measures make it imperative that the negro leader face the challenge in a manly way and with "horse sense" see to it that the negro voter is lifted from the role of dirty work to a plane where he may help the community to make progress and expansion for the good of all the people.

Lest we forget—the saloon, the gambling house, the "back door" negro politician, the white "buyer"—these are they which caused us all these years of suffering and vexation of spirit. They must not be tolerated again when the privilege to vote is returned.

I believe as the negro progresses and meets the qualifications of an intelligent voter there will be less and less of the feeling that the peace of the community and orderly government will be sacrificed by allowing him the right to vote. Let us insist on a new deal from within and without.

R. R. GROVEY.

2303 Dowling.

CORPUS CHRISTI, TEX.
TIMES

APR 30 1934

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARIES BREAKING

Reports that candidates seeking nominations in the statutory Democratic primary elections of North Carolina are also seeking the votes in these primaries of Negro Democrats, show that on many fronts the Democratic primaries are breaking their traditional bonds of white exclusiveness.

When they break in Texas, what shall we do with them? There is only one sensible thing to do with them, and that is to repudiate all those self-styled and self-appointed Negro leaders, who organize their fly-by-night clubs, political and civic organizations, and weekly sheets called newspapers; and who through these and other political tricks join hands with unscrupulous white men to sell Miss, Mr. and Mrs. Negro voters into political slavery again.

STATE-CONTROLLED PRIMARIES

Not a great while ago the supreme court of the United States ruled that the democratic primary in Texas was a part of the government of Texas, and that therefore the party had no right to exclude negroes from its primaries in contravention of the Fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution. It had previously been held that political parties had the privilege of setting forth the qualifications of its members. Acting on that theory, the party had excluded negroes. Great was its surprise to learn that it was an integral part of the state government, and as such powerless to preserve the white man's primary.

Several thousand aspiring and perspiring candidates in Texas would dispute the accuracy of the supreme court's interpretation, however. Just now they are getting ready to be soaked, and soaked plenty, to defray the expense of running the two primaries. If the primaries are a proper function of state government, why doesn't the state pay the cost of running them? That is what the candidates are wondering—and who can blame them? Dallas county figures the expense of the two primaries will run about $20,000, and since there is a shortage of candidates the county chairman is puzzled about where to raise the money.

We have the legislature to thank for this situation. It has tinkered with the primary election law for years, and finally succeeded in going so far that the supreme court took away from the party the right to rule its own affairs.

The state should either quit meddling, as a government, in the affairs of the democratic and republican parties, or it should have the grace to pay the cost of primaries. Primaries, as long as we are to have them, should be the exclusive and peculiar business of the political parties without reference to the state house at Austin.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Texas

Texans Defy Supreme Court Ruling; Bar Race From Polls

Washington Hears That Texas Attorney General Has Decreed That Negroes Are Not Entitled to Vote In Primary—Ignores High Court Ruling In Famous Nixon Case.

By MELVIN A. BARKER

WASHINGTON, July 19—Word has been received here that, in an opinion rendered at Dallas, Tex., on July 12, Attorney General James V. Allred held that Negroes are not entitled to vote in the Democratic primary on July 28.

The attorney general based his opinion on a resolution passed at the 1932 State Democratic convention, which limited participation in the primaries to white voters. Mr. Allred held that the power to determine the membership to a political party is inherent. He said this phase of the question was not decided in the celebrated Nixon case, in which the Supreme Court held that the State Democratic executive committee was without authority to bar Negroes.

At the recent meeting of the State Democratic executive committee in Austin no action was taken on the question of Negroes voting and the matter was left up to county committees.

Mr. Allred is a candidate for governor and is evidently taking this stand to put himself in solid with the white southern voters.

HOUSTON, TEX.
CHRONICLE

JUL 8 1934

DEMS ACT TO BAR NEGROES IN PRIMARY

"Loyalty" Rule Is Adopted by County Executive Committee; Negro Leaders Refuse to Comment.

Negro political leaders, for the most part, remained silent on Saturday's action of the Harris County Democratic Executive Committee in attempting to rule out the negro voters without naming them.

By a vote of 43 to 24, the committeemen, meeting in the court room of District Judge Charles E. Ashe, passed a resolution requiring each voter to satisfy the election judges of each precinct that he has voted the Democratic ticket at least three times in the last six years.

The resolution, which was discussed at some length and strongly opposed by Morris Rosenthal of precinct No. 35, was advocated by Allen S. Shepherd, who drafted it.

The resolution will be certified to County Clerk Townsend by Jo E. Shaw, secretary of the executive committee, and printed copies sent to each election judge in the county.

The resolution said: "That the county clerk, all precinct presiding judges, assistant judges, clerks and all election managers serving in Harris County in the Democratic primary on July 28, 1934, and August 25, 1934, be and are hereby instructed to permit all persons to vote in said primary or primaries who may and shall identify themselves to the complete satisfaction of the county clerk, precinct presiding judges, assistant judges, clerks and election managers serving in Harris County in the Democratic primary on July 28, 1934, and August 25, 1934, as to their legal residence in the state of Texas, County of Harris, and the precinct in which they seek to vote; the legal possession of a poll tax receipt held and their loyalty to the Democratic party, by showing that they voted the Democratic ticket or ballot at least three times in the last six years.

"A person voting their first time must show that their parents have voted the Democratic ticket or ballot at least three times in the last six years.

"And upon said precinct presiding judge rendering returns of said primaries they shall be placed under oath by the chairman of the Harris County Democratic executive committee that they have complied with all of the provisions of the foregoing and that the returns contain only the votes of persons so qualified and none other and no other return shall be accepted or recognized by said chairman of the Harris County Democratic executive committee."

A short school of instruction was conducted by the committee with J. B. Lubbock, chairman of the committee, conducting the question period. Various questions having to do with the conduct of the election were answered for members. Frequently, members answered the question before Lubbock had time to answer.

One question had to do with the giving out of information to newspapers on election day. "Tell 'em no," shouted M. Middleton of Galena Park.

Mrs. Edith Rudersdorf of Precinct 39 said she believed the newspaper reports stimulated interest in the election on election day, and she saw no objection to giving out the returns.

Negro Editors Give Views on Resolution

J. Alston Atkins, editor of the Houston Informer, negro weekly newspaper, said the action of the executive committee is an obvious attempt to exclude negroes from voting. He said the negro citizens have had no opportunity to vote as Democrats in recent years and therefore are unable to qualify under the resolution.

He said negroes are hopeful that Douglas W. McGregor, United States district attorney, will take the position that the precinct presiding judges and other precinct election officials are acting upon their own initiative. "In that event," he added, "Mr. McGregor would have no other alternative than to submit to the federal grand jury any violations of sections 19 and 20 of the criminal code, which have to do with the depriving of citizens of their rights."

Albert White, editor of the Houston Guide, another negro weekly newspaper, said the resolution is plainly illegal. He referred to the resolution as "a shameful atttempt to circumvent the decision of the United States Supreme Court, which has ruled that negroes are entitled to vote in the Democratic primaries.

"While the resolution avoids mention of the negro," he added, "its motive and purpose are most glaring. The county executive committee has exceeded its authority. The negro is at the cross roads, where the radicals are beckoning to him. And yet he wants to be loyal to Democracy and its institutions."

C. F. Richardson, Sr., editor of the Houston Defender, negro newspaper, declared that "the least said the better."

PORT ARTHUR, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 3 1934

DEMS WILL AIR VOTE QUESTION

Status Of Negro In Primary Slated For Discussion

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, July 3.—Warm debate on the negro voting question, now perplexing Jefferson county democrats, is expected when the county democratic executive committee meets at the courthouse Thursday at 4 p. m. to learn officially that its primary sub-committee has refused to put the "white voter" pledge on the official ballot.

After consulting with three attorneys, the primary group last Saturday ruled itself without authority to adopt the pledge, which had been ordered placed on the ballot by the general committee.

Its members asserting that they favor a "white man's election," if one can be legally held, the primary committee declined to proceed with the printing of the ballots minus the pledge, until the county group meets and discusses the matter.

A full attendance of the county committee is urged by County Chairman J. R. Edmonds of Beaumont.

BONHAM, TEX.
DAILY FAVORITE

JUN 26 1934

The Negro's Right

A decision of the United States Supreme Court has definitely settled the legal right of the Negro to participate in the Democratic primaries in Texas. That right has been heretofore denied. The Texas law that was designed to perpetute the rule of one party in the State is responsible for the condition. Had the Democratic party been left free to make its own ruling regarding its membership it would not now be faced with the problem that confronts it. The State Executive Committee did not have the courage to squarely face the issue, as it should have done, but left to the County Committes and election judges the task of deciding if the Negro who applies for a ballot shall be permitted to cast it. It isn't a very brave thing for the State Committee to do, but it has done it. The result wil probably be that some judges will accept the votes of the colored brother and others will refuse in defiance of the court ruling. It is not probable that any great number of Negroes will attempt to vote in the primaries, unless it be in some sections where white candidates conceive it will be to their particular interest to have them vote, but complications are almost sure to follow should any appreciable number offer to vote and meet refusal by the judges.

Texas will have to do one of two things. It will either have to change its present laws and permit the party to formulate its own rules for party control and party discipline, or it will have to defy the Federal courts. The latter course is unthinkable. No State can afford to deny a citizen the right conferred on him by the constitution and the law. However undesirable it may seem to many white Democrats to have colored voters participate in their party affairs, it is some-

Political - 1934

Suffrage

Texas

Texans Defy Supreme Court Ruling; Bar Race From Polls

Washington Hears That Texas Attorney General Has Decreed That Negroes Are Not Entitled to Vote In Primary—Ignores High Court Ruling In Famous Nixon Case.

By MELVIN A. BARKER

WASHINGTON, July 19—Word has been received here that in an opinion rendered at Dallas, Tex., on July 12, Attorney General James V. Allred held that Negroes are not entitled to vote in the Democratic primary on July 28.

The attorney general based his opinion on a resolution passed at the 1932 State Democratic convention, which limited participation in the primaries to white voters. Mr. Allred held that the power to determine the membership to a political party is inherent. He said this phase of the question was not decided in the celebrated Nixon case, in which the Supreme Court held that the State Democratic executive committee was without authority to bar Negroes.

Refuse to Comment.

Negro political leaders, for the most part, remained silent on Saturday's action of the Harris County Democratic executive committee.

A short school of instruction was conducted by the committee with J. B. Lubbock, chairman of the committee, conducting the question period. Various questions having to do with the conduct of the election were answered for members. Frequently, members answered the question before Lubbock had time to answer.

One question had to do with the giving out of information to newspapers on election day. "Tell 'em no," shouted M. Middleton of Galena Park.

Mrs. Edith Rudersdorf of Precinct 39 said she believed the newspaper, said the action of the executive committee is an obvious attempt to exclude negroes from voting. He said the negro citizens have had no opportunity to vote as Democrats in recent years and therefore are unable to qualify under the resolution.

He said negroes are hopeful that one can be legally held, the primary committee declined to proceed with the printing of the ballots minus the pledge, until the jury any violations of sections 19 and 20 of the criminal code, which mont.

PORT ARTHUR, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 3 1934

DEMS WILL AIR VOTE QUESTION

Status Of Negro In Primary Slated For Discussion

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, July 3.—Warm debate on the negro voting question, now perplexing Jefferson county democrats, is expected when the county democratic executive committee meets at the courthouse Thursday at 4 p. m. to learn officially that its primary sub-committee has refused to put the "white voter" pledge on the official ballot.

After consulting with three attorneys, the primary group last Saturday ruled itself without authority to adopt the pledge, which had been ordered placed on the ballot by the general committee.

Its members asserting that they favor a "white man's election," if one can be legally held, the primary committee declined to proceed with the printing of the ballots minus the pledge, until the county group meets and discusses the matter.

A full attendance of the county committee is urged by County Chairman J. R. Edmonds of Beaumont.

have to do with the depriving of citizens of their rights."

Albert White, editor of the Houston Guide, another negro weekly newspaper, said the resolution is plainly illegal. He referred to the resolution as "a shameful attempt to circumvent the decision of the United States Supreme Court, which has ruled that negroes are entitled to vote in the Democratic primaries.

"While the resolution avoids mention of the negro," he added, "its motive and purpose are most glaring. The county executive committee has exceeded its authority. The negro is at the cross roads, where the radicals are beckoning to him. And yet he wants to be loyal to Democracy and its institutions."

C. F. Richardson, Sr., editor of the Houston Defender, negro newspaper, declared that "the least said the better."

Democratic party, by showing that they voted the Democratic ticket or ballot at least three times in the last six years.

"A person voting their first time must show that their parents have voted the Democratic ticket or ballot at least three times in the last six years.

"And upon said precinct presiding judge rendering returns of said primaries they shall be placed under oath by the chairman of the Harris County Democratic executive committee that they have complied with all of the provisions of the foregoing and that the returns contain only the votes of persons so qualified and none other and no other return shall be accepted or recognized by said chairman of the Harris County Democratic executive committee."

DEMS ACT TO BAR NEGROES IN PRIMARY

JUL 8 1934

HOUSTON, TEX.
CHRONICLE

At the recent meeting of the State Democratic executive committee in Austin no action was taken on the question of Negroes voting and the matter was left up to county committees.

Mr. Allred is a candidate for governor and is evidently taking this stand to put himself in solid with the white southern voters.

The resolution said: "That the county clerk, all precinct presiding judges, assistant judges, clerks and all election managers serving in Harris County in the Democratic primary on July 28, 1934, and August 25, 1934, be and are hereby instructed to permit all persons to vote in said primary or primaries who may and shall identify themselves to the complete satisfaction of the county clerk, precinct presiding judges, assistant judges, clerks and election managers serving in Harris County in the Democratic primary on July 28, 1934, and August 26, 1934, as to their legal residence in the state of Texas, County of Harris, and the precinct in which they seek to vote; the legal possession of a poll tax receipt held and their loyalty to the

"Loyalty" Rule Is Adopted by County Executive Committee; Negro Leaders

Ashe, passed a resolution requiring each voter to satisfy the election judges of each precinct that he has voted the Democratic ticket at least three times in the last six years.

The resolution, which was discussed at some length and strongly opposed by Morris Rosenthal of Allen S. Shepherd, who drafted it.

The resolution will be certified to County Clerk Townsend by Jo E. Shaw, secretary of the executive committee, and printed copies sent to each election judge in the county.

Negro Editors Give Views on Resolution

J. Alston Atkins, editor of the Houston Informer, negro weekly newspaper, said the action of the executive committee is an obvious attempt to exclude negroes from voting. He said the negro citizens have had no opportunity to vote in recent years and by

Its members asserting that they favor a "white man's election," if one can be legally held, the primary committee declined to proceed with the printing of the ballots minus the pledge, until the county group meets and discusses the matter.

A full attendance of the county committee is urged by County Chairman J. R. Edmonds of Beaumont.

BONHAM, TEX.
DAILY FAVORITE

JUN 26 1934

The Negro's Right

A decision of the United States Supreme Court has definitely settled the legal right of the Negro to participate in the Democratic primaries in Texas. That right has been heretofore denied. The Texas law that was designed to perpetute the rule of one party in the State is responisble for the condition. Had the Democratic party been left free to make its own ruling regarding its membership it would not now be faced with the problem that confronts it. The State Executive Committee did not have the courage to squarely face the issue, as it should have done, but left to the County Committes and election judges the task of deciding if the Negro who applies for a ballot shall be permitted to cast it. It isn't a very brave thing for the State Committee to do, but it has done it. The result wil probably be that some judges will accept the votes of the colored brother and others will refuse in defiance of the court ruling. It is not probable that any great number of Negroes will attempt to vote in the primaries, unless it be in some sections where white candidates conceive it will be to their particular interest to have them vote, but complications are almost sure to follow should any appreciable number offer to vote and meet refusal by the judges.

Texas will have to do one of two things. It will either have to change its present laws and permit the party to formulate its own rules for party control and party discipline, or it will have to defy the Federal courts. The latter course is unthinkable. No State can afford to deny a citizen the right conferred on him by the constitution and the law. However undesirable it may seem to many white Democrats to have colored voters participate in their party affairs, it is something they must submit to under present laws in Texas. It would have shown better judgement and more courage had the Executive Committee frankly acknowledged that it was its duty to instruct the judgest of the election to permit all legal voters who are ready to take the primary pledge to participate in the election. However much one may dislike the ruling of the court it is binding.

WILL NEGROES ACCEPT CHALLENGE?

(Editorial)

Pursuant to the action of the Harris County Democratic executive committee, which passed a seemingly harmless "resolution" at a special meeting last Saturday afternoon five qualified Negro Democrats made an unsuccessful effort to cast absentee ballots at the county clerk's office Monday morning, July 9, 1934.

These colored electors, who were qualified under the constitution of Texas and the United States, as well as the civil statutes of this state to cast such votes, were twice refused their constitutional rights as a result of the qualification resolution" adopted by the Harris County Democratic executive committee on July 7, 1934.

This harmless resolution, which some supposed Negro "political leaders" stated Saturday had opened the primaries to all voters, follows verbatim:

"That the county clerk, all precinct presiding judges, assistant judges, clerks and all election managers serving in Harris County in the Democratic primary on July 28, 1934, and August 25, 1934, be and are hereby instructed to permit all persons to vote in said primary or primaries who may and shall identify themselves to the complete satisfaction of the county clerk, precinct presiding judges, assistant judges, clerks and election managers serving in Harris County in the Democratic primary on July 28, 1934, and August 25, 1934, as to their legal residence in the state of Texas; county of Harris, and the precinct in which they seek to vote; the legal possession of a poll tax receipt held and their loyalty to the Democratic party by showing that they voted the Democratic ticket at least three times in the last six years.

"A person voting their first time must show that their parents have voted the Democratic ticket or ballot at least three times in the last six years.

"And upon said precinct presiding judge rendering returns of said primaries they shall be placed under oath by the chairman of the Harris County Democratic executive committee that they have complied with all of the provisions of the foregoing and that the returns contain only the votes of persons qualified and none other and no other returns shall be accepted or recognized by said chairman of the Harris County Democratic executive committee."

As proof that the "resolution" was intended only to apply to Negroes, while five colored Democrats were trying to vote Monday several white electors entered the county clerk's office and cast their absentee ballots without being forced to give their past political history, as well as that of their ancestry, kindred and posterity!

This illegal and unconstitutional "resolution" and action of the Harris County executive committee, of which John B. ("Shorty") Lubbock, prominent white insurance man and manager of the Pilgrims Building, is chairman and who is opposed for reelection by Hon. John N. Snell, well-known and fair-minded Houston attorney and political leader, should constitute a challenge to the red-blooded and liberty-loving Negro citizens of this county and city.

As free men and tax-paying citizens, whose rights are vouchsafed to us by the organic laws of the state and nation, we must accept the challenge and resort to legal action in the state and federal courts to have such illegal, arbitrary and unconstitutional action declared null and void.

Even the civil statutes of Texas do not empower any political party or committee to prescribe electors' qualifications other than those provided in the statutes, and, in the absence of any action on this aligibility question by the Democratic State Convention and state Democratic executive committee, county committee are powerless to take such action or to adopt and attempt to enforce any such resolution.

But until the courts set aside this action and issue writs compelling the county clerk, executive committee and election officials to permit every qualified voter, offering to do so, to cast a ballot in the Democratic primary elections of Saturday, July 28, and August 25, Negro Democrats of Houston and Harris County are very effectively barred from participation in said primary elections.

A citizen's past partisan affiliation has nothing to do with his present status as a partisan voter, for the courts of Texas have held that every man has the inherent and constitutional right to change his political faith; and the statutes of Texas provide that citizens may pursue such a political course.

Let us put our money where our mouths are and raise immediately a legal fund of sufficient size to file and press at least three legal suits; while all Negro Democrats who have been barred from casting an absentee ballot at the county clerk's office can institute suits for civil damages against Albert Townsend, the present county clerk; and The Defender understands that such suits will be filed at once.

Let us forget the past, its efforts and failures, bearing in mind that nothing ventured nothing gained, and that the pathway to success and full citizenship is not strewn with roses and sweet-scented flowers.

Let us dig down in our pockets, make a donation to the solicitors and raise a neat sum of money with which to prosecute the cases which the Harris County Democratic Club will file and push here during the next few days; and, instead of talking so much and writing so many articles to the white press, let's unite our forces and pool our means to outlaw and invalidate this "grandfather" resolution adopted by Chairman Lubbock and his executive committee.

Not only is every race-loving citizen asked to contribute something to this defense fund, but The Defender calls upon every Negro pastor in Houston and Harris County to take a special offering at all services Sunday, July 15, and turn same over to Julius White, treasurer of the legal defense committee, of which C. F. Richardson is chairman and R. R. Grovey is secretary.

The only way to accept and meet this challenge is to contribute enough money—not pledges or promises— at once to take proper legal action in courts of competent jurisdiction. LET'S ALL PULL TOGETHER AND SUCCESS WILL CROWN OUR UNITED EFFORTS! FELLOW-CITIZENS, LET'S GO!!

BRISTOL, VA.
HERALD COURIER
JUN 23 1934

Brutal Mob Lawlessness.

Kirbyville, Texas, has had a brutal lynching. In that town a young Negro charged with associating with a white woman was taken from officers of the law by a mob of 150 men and women and put to death in the most savage manner. The Negro was hanged to a tree, seventeen shots were fired into the dangling body, and the body then was cut down and tied to the rear of an automobile and dragged about over the county until, nude and mangled, it was cast aside.

This mob gave a demonstration of maniacal frenzy which constitutes another challenge to civilization. It was not satisfied with hanging the Negro and riddling his body with bullets. It needs must drag the dead and unfeeling body around until it was a fit spectacle for barbarians to gaze upon and perhaps to dance around. And the Negro had committed no crime deserving of death under the law. He was not guilty of a graver offense against the law or against society than was his white woman was white paramour. Indeed, the white woman was the worse offender of the two.

The Sheriff of the county in which this outrage was committed is quoted as saying he has not learned the identity of the mob but that he plans to start a thorough investigation at once, assisted by officers from nearby cities. And this may be about the last the public will hear of the affair. Always when there is a lynching the officers who should have prevented it, or failing to prevent it should hunt down the lynchers, announce their purpose to make a thorough investigation. And that usually is where the incident closes. The investigations, if and when made, are without results. One of the rarest sig s in this country, the only country in which Judge Lynch holds court, is a member of a lynching mob in jail or at the bar of justice.

This explains why there is strong and increasing sentiment in Congress for a Federal anti-lynching bill, and why the pending bill probably will be passed by the next Congress. Some of the States protest that such a law would be an invasion of their rights, but the States have no right to tolerate mob murders by which accused persons are deprived of life without due process of law and in violation of the American Constitution.

thing they must submit to under present laws in Texas. It would have shown better judgement and more courage had the Executive Committee frankly acknowledged that it was its duty to instruct the judges of the election to permit all legal voters who are ready to take the primary pledge to participate in the election. However much one may dislike the ruling of the court it is binding.

WILL NEGROES ACCEPT CHALLENGE?

(Editorial)

Pursuant to the action of the Harris County Democratic executive committee, which passed a seemingly harmless "resolution" at a special meeting last Saturday afternoon five qualified Negro Democrats made an unsuccessful effort to cast absentee ballots at the county clerk's office Monday morning, July 9, 1934.

These colored electors, who were qualified under the constitution of Texas and the United States, as well as the civil statutes of this state to cast such votes, were twice refused their constitutional rights as a result of the qualification resolution" adopted by the Harris County Democratic executive committee on July 7, 1934.

This harmless resolution, which some supposed Negro "political leaders" stated Saturday had opened the primaries to all voters, follows verbatim:

"That the county clerk, all precinct presiding judges, assistant judges, clerks and all election managers serving in Harris County in the Democratic primary on July 28, 1934, and August 25, 1934, be and are hereby instructed to permit all persons to vote in said primary or primaries who may and shall identify themselves to the complete satisfaction of the county clerk, precinct presiding judges, assistant judges, clerks and election managers serving in Harris County in the Democratic primary on July 28, 1934, and August 25, 1934, as to their legal residence in the state of Texas; county of Harris, and the precinct in which they seek to vote; the legal possession of a poll tax receipt held and their loyalty to the Democratic party by showing that they voted the Democratic ticket at least three times in the last six years.

"A person voting their first time must show that their parents have voted the Democratic ticket or ballot at least three times in the last six years.

"And upon said precinct presiding judge rendering returns of said primaries they shall be placed under oath by the chairman of the Harris County Democratic executive committee that they have complied with all of the provisions of the foregoing and that the returns contain only the votes of persons qualified and none other and no other returns shall be accepted or recognized by said chairman of the Harris County Democratic executive committee."

As proof that the "resolution" was intended only to apply to Negroes, while five colored Democrats were trying to vote Monday several white electors entered the county clerk's office and cast their absentee ballots without being forced to give their past political history, as well as that of their ancestry, kindred and posterity!

This illegal and unconstitutional "resolution" and action of the Harris County executive committee, of which John B. ("Shorty") Lubbock, prominent white insurance man and manager of the Pilgrims Building, is chairman and who is opposed for reelection by Hon. John N. Snell, well-known and fair-minded Houston attorney and political leader, should constitute a challenge to the red-blooded and liberty-loving Negro citizens of this county and city.

As free men and tax-paying citizens, whose rights are vouchsafed to us by the organic laws of the state and nation, we must accept the challenge and resort to legal action in the state and federal courts to have such illegal, arbitrary and unconstitutional action declared null and void.

Even the civil statutes of Texas do not empower any political party or committee to prescribe electors' qualifications other than those provided in the statutes, and, in the absence of any action on this aligibility question by the Democratic State Convention and state Democratic executive committee, county committee are powerless to take such action or to adopt and attempt to enforce any such resolution.

But until the courts set aside this action and issue writs compelling the county clerk, executive committee and election officials to permit every qualified voter, offering to do so, to cast a ballot in the Democratic primary elections of Saturday, July 28, and August 25, Negro Democrats of Houston and Harris County are very effectively barred from participation in said primary elections.

A citizen's past partisan affiliation has nothing to do with his present status as a partisan voter, for the courts of Texas have held that every man has the inherent and constitutional right to change his political faith; and the statutes of Texas provide that citizens may pursue such a political course.

Let us put our money where our mouths are and raise immediately a legal fund of sufficient size to file and press at least three legal suits; while all Negro Democrats who have been barred from casting an absentee ballot at the county clerk's office can institute suits for civil damages against Albert Townsend, the present county clerk; and The Defender understands that such suits will be filed at once.

Let us forget the past, its efforts and failures, bearing in mind that nothing ventured nothing gained, and that the pathway to success and full citizenship is not strewn with roses and sweet-scented flowers.

Let us dig down in our pockets, make a donation to the solicitors and raise a neat sum of money with which to prosecute the cases which the Harris County Democratic Club will file and push here during the next few days; and, instead of talking so much and writing so many articles to the white press, let's unite our forces and pool our means to outlaw and invalidate this "grandfather" resolution adopted by Chairman Lubbock and his executive committee.

Not only is every race-loving citizen asked to contribute something to this defense fund, but The Defender calls upon every Negro pastor in Houston and Harris County to take a special offering at all services Sunday, July 15, and turn same over to Julius White, treasurer of the legal defense committee, of which C. F. Richardson is chairman and R. R. Grovey is secretary.

The only way to accept and meet this challenge is to contribute enough money—not pledges or promises— at once to take proper legal action in courts of competent jurisdiction. LET'S ALL PULL TOGETHER AND SUCCESS WILL CROWN OUR UNITED EFFORTS! FELLOW-CITIZENS, LET'S GO! !

BRISTOL, VA.
HERALD COURIER
JUN 23 1934

Brutal Mob Lawlessness.

Kirbyville, Texas, has had a brutal lynching. In that town a young Negro charged with associating with a white woman was taken from officers of the law by a mob of 150 men and women and put to death in the most savage manner. The Negro was hanged to a tree, seventeen shots were fired into the dangling body, and the body then was cut down and tied to the rear of an automobile and dragged about over the county until, nude and mangled, it was cast aside.

This mob gave a demonstration of maniacal frenzy which constitutes another challenge to civilization. It was not satisfied with hanging the Negro and riddling his body with bullets. It needs must drag the dead and unfeeling body around until it was a fit spectacle for barbarians to gaze upon and perhaps to dance around. And the Negro had committed no crime deserving of death under the law. He was not guilty of a graver offense against society than was his white paramour. Indeed, the white woman was the worse offender of the two.

The Sheriff of the county in which this outrage was committed is quoted as saying he has not learned the identity of the mob but that he plans to start a thorough investigation at once, assisted by officers from nearby cities. And this may be about the last the public will hear of the affair.

Always when there is a lynching the officers who should have prevented it, or failing to prevent it should hunt down the lynchers, announce their purpose to make a thorough investigation. And that usually is where the incident closes. The investigations, if and when made, are without results. One of the rarest sig s in this country, the only country in which Judge Lynch holds court, is a member of a lynching mob in jail or at the bar of justice.

This explains why there is strong and increasing sentiment in Congress for a Federal anti-lynching bill, and why the pending bill probably will be passed by the next Congress. Some of the States protest that such a law would be an invasion of their rights, but the States have no right to tolerate mob murders by which accused persons are deprived of life without due process of law and in violation of the American Constitution.

Texas.

Political - 1934

Suffrage

BRECKENRIDGE, TEX.
AMERICAN

JUL 29 1934

Chief Justice Cureton Sends Greetings To Mr. Justice Cardozo

Negroes who are qualified voters have been barred from the democratic primaries of Texas. The supreme court of the commonwealth cracked down and upheld the right of the Texas democratic party to bar the brother in black from its primary elections.

Chief Justice Cureton is responsible fr the ruling. He went all the road. He tossed aside the five to four decision by Cardozo of New York, an associate justice of the supreme court of the United States. In other words, the supreme court of Texas without a dissenting vote ruled that the Gardozo opinion known as the five to four decision of the court of last resort of the republic was in error and in violation of the bill of rights of the constitution of Texas.

Let it go at that. Lawmakers make laws. Courts are the interpreters of the laws. The decision bars negroes from participation in the democratic primaries and it is the last word in Texas unless an appeal may be taken to the supreme court of the United Statees and then another showdown may come. It is a state's rights decision and so far as it goes, it is a warning that the dogma of state's rights is not dead in a common wealth that began as a republic and thence a member of the sisterhood by vote of its own citizens in the historic days of the long ago.

BONHAM, TEX.
DAILY FAVORITE

JUL 29 1934

Black Made White by Rule

The Supreme Court of Texas has ruled that the Democratic Executive Committee had a legal right to make the rule that the Democratic primary is open only to qualified WHITE voters. The Negro is not white, therefore is barred from the Democratic primary. The Attorney General has followed that decision in his ruling barring the Negro.

But the Attorney General had to make another ruling. A Travis county man asked for a ruling on whether or not a Mexican is a white voter under the law. So far as color is concerned a Mexican is only a shade lighter than a negro, and often it is a very dim shade at that. But there are a great many Mexican voters down in Archie Parr's kingdom, and without their help Archie would have difficulty in carrying his district solidly for men or measures that he happened to favor. Other Archie Parrs in Southwest Texas sometimes need the help of Mexicans across the border who can be induced to cross over the Rio Grande and spend the day when an exciting election takes place. To barr them might play havoc with some well-laid plans of mice and men. So a ruling was sought and obtained. The ruling is that a Mexican or a descendant of a Mexican is a white man when he goes to vote in a Democratic primary. It's the only day he is regarded, or treated, as a white man, and it ought to fill him with pride to know his standing in Texas on election day.

Of course anybody who ever saw a real Mexican knows that his skin is darker than that of many Negroes, but all the same they know that he is a white voter on primary election day, made so by rule of expediency.

SHERMAN, TEX.
DEMOCRAT

JUL 25 1934

3

Negro Voting Case Taken to Federal Court, Suit Against County Clerk

John Johnson, 74-year-old Denison negro, Wednesday morning carried the Grayson county and Texas negro voting problem to federal court when he filed a $10,000 damage suit against Charles M. Cole, county clerk, and with it an application for a writ of injunction restraining the county democratic executive committee and election judges from "interfering with him and all other persons similarly situated" from participating in the July 28 and August 25, democratic primary elections.

W. J. Durham, Sherman negro attorney, left for Houston Wednesday morning with the original petition after it had been formally filed in federal court here. He said he had been informed that Judge T. M. Kennerly of Houston had been appointed to hear injunctive cases filed here while Judge Randolph Bryant is out of the state.

He said he hoped to obtain a preliminary hearing Friday morning.

The damage suit against the county clerk was the outgrowth of his alleged refusal to allow Johnson to file an absentee vote several days ago.

In his petition, the negro declares he is "a member believing in the tenets of the democratic party" and that he has "never voted for any other candidates than those of the democratic party since the election of Grover Cleveland as president of the United States" and "is ready and willing" to take the pledge to support the democratic nominee.

"The petition has been so drawn as to cover future elections," Durham said Wednesday. "The negro democratic voters expect to settle in this lawsuit once and for all time to come the right of negro voters to participate in statutory elections in Texas. For if a decision is rendered adverse to Johnson, the case will be carried to the supreme court of the United States.

"It is my opinion that the democratic party of Texas is a creature of the state so long as the officers of the convention, its delegates and its activities are controlled by statute. Unless the state of Texas wipes from the statute every provision hereon which controls and regulates the democratic party and its activities, citizens of Texas, on account of color, cannot be barred.

"And if the democratic party should wipe from the statute book the law controlling primary elections in this state, graft and corruption would be enthroned. Hence, it appears that it would be far better to allow the law abiding negro citizens to vote in the primary than it would be to destroy our present election law, thereby allowing corporations and public utilities to control the government of Texas, for it has been settled by the supreme court of the United States in the case of Nixon vs. Condon et al, that so long as the state of Texas controls the democratic party by regulating its time of meeting, the number of delegates to its convention, the manner of their election, their duties as such officers, that the state of Texas cannot then deny the democratic party as its creature.

"This is just simply a lawsuit to determine the rights of a million American negro citizens in Texas. We believe that taxation without representation is not only unfair and unjust, but oppressive."

Defendants named in the suit included not only the county clerk, but Ben F. Gafford, veteran chairman of the county democratic executive committee, and members of the body.

BEAUMONT, TEX.
ENTERPRISE

JUL 28 1934

MEXICAN VOTERS ARE ELIGIBLE

On the eve of the democratic primary in Texas, Attorney General Allred, who is himself an indefatigable candidate for the governorship, finds time to render an opinion on the status of the Mexican voter. The attorney general rules that Texas citizens of Mexican decent may vote in a democratic primary and are not barred by the resolution of the state democratic convention adopted in 1932, stipulating that only "white citizens" may participate in democratic primaries.

The convention probably gave no thought, one way or the other, to the Mexican voter. In the democratic south there is only one "colored" race, and that is the negro. Except in Texas, which belongs to that political subdivision called the "Solid South," there are relatively few foreign-born citizens or citizens of foreign ancestry who are any darker than a sunburned cotton farmer.

The Mexican citizens of Texas would resent being classed with negroes, either socially or as voters. The Allred ruling is not only fair to the Mexican voters, many of whom are property owners and excellent citizens of the state, but obviously conforms to the southern interpretation of the word "colored," and the distinction drawn in this part of the country between "white" and "colored" people.

SHERMAN, TEX.
DEMOCRAT

JUL 29 1934

Texas Should Have Twice As Many Qualified Voters

Poll Tax Not Reason for Small Number, But Rather Indifference

Well above a million voters were qualified to go to the polls Saturday as far as poll tax payment or exemption goes. The figure has been estimated at 1,275,000 but the 1930 census showed Texas to have 3,221,333 persons old enough to vote. Making due allowance for negroes and Mexicans and white adults who cannot qualify as voters, there should have been at least another million qualified voters.

It is pointed out that only four states, possibly five (including California) exceed Texas in total population, yet there are fully a dozen states that habitually send more voters to the polls.

One of the candidates for governor proposed the abolition of the poll tax, but there is pretty unanimous opinion that it is indifference rather than the poll tax which prevents their becoming qualified.

Say a million voters went to the polls Saturday, even with that number there were more than half of the adults leaving the task of the selection of their officials to the other half. That is not what it ought to be. The results probably will be representative of the will of the people, but there is no way of determining that.

We think of a million votes as a large number, which it is. But it is large mainly in the task of collecting the returns. The same election machinery could handle a much larger vote.

Wichita Falls, Tex.
TIMES

AUG 1 1934

TEXAS' MEXICAN VOTERS

An unsuccessful effort was made recently at Austin to have Mexicans, as well as negroes, barred from the Democratic primary. There is nothing in the law that permits the exclusion of Mexicans, but if the state Democratic convention has the right, as Texas courts have held, to exclude negro voters from the Democratic primary, it presumably has the same right in regard to Mexicans.

It will not be surprising if an organized effort develops along that line. While Texas has many estitmable citizens of Mexican descent, it has a great many Mexican residents whose participation in politics follows lines that make it undesirable. There are counties in Texas where Mexican voters are herded to the polls like so many sheep, by their bosses. The tendency of Mexicans is to let themselves be used by machine politicians. For that reason any effort to withhold the primary ballot from them would have much public sentiment behind it. The question may become a troublesome one in Texas ere long.

WACO, TEX.
TRIBUNE

JUL 29 1934

Greetings to Justice Cardozo

Negroes who are qualified voters have been barred from the democratic primaries of Texas. The supreme court of the commonwealth cracked down and upheld the right of the Texas democratic party to bar the brother in black from its primary elections.

The press carried the full text of the decision on the morning of July 21. Chief Justice Cureton is responsible for the ruling. He went all the road. He tossed aside the five-to-four decision by Cardozo of New York, an associate justice of the supreme court of the United States. In other words, the supreme court of Texas without a dissenting vote ruled that the Cardozo opinion known as the five-to-four decision of the court of last resort of the republic was in error and in violation of the bill of rights of the constitution of Texas. Let it go at that. Lawmakers make laws. Courts are the interpreters of the laws.

The decision bars negroes from participation in democratic primaries and it is the last word in Texas unless an appeal may be taken to the supreme court of the United States, and then another showdown may come. It is a states rights decision and so far as it goes it is a warning that the dogma of states rights is not dead in a commonwealth that began as a republic and thence a member of the sisterhood by vote of its own citizens in the historic days of the long ago.

EL PASO, TEX.
TIMES

JUL 31 1934

Negroes Are Undecided About Filing Vote Suit

Attorney Fred Knollenberg said yesterday that Dr. L. A. Nixon, negro, was investigating to determine whether damage suits would be filed against county election officials for refusal to count the negro votes.

Officials accepted ballots cast by negroes, but did not officially tally them upon orders of the county Democratic executive committee.

AUSTIN, TEX.
STATESMAN

JUL 28 1934

NEGRO BALLOTS ARE CAST ASIDE

By United Press

Many ballots in today's election will never be counted.

Scores of absentee votes were cast by negroes prior to the ruling of the state supreme court that the democratic party had legally restricted party membership to "white citizens."

Several county clerks in Texas had accepted the "black ballots" pending a decision on the eligibility of negro voters. Other county clerks accepted them on the ground that they had no authority to refuse. One county attorney ruled: "The duty of passing on whether or not an elector is qualified is the duty of the election official and not the county clerk."

The supreme court's opinion is mandatory. A negro who attempts to vote in today's election, and the judge who accepts his vote, are subject to penalties.

Article 238 of the Texas penal code reads in part: "Any person wishing to vote as an absentee voter who shall vote or offer to vote illegally, shall be fined not more than $1000 or be imprisoned in the county jail not more than two years, or both."

The penalty is less if the attempt to vote illegally is made personally. Article 236 of the penal code declares: "Any person voting at any primary election . . . who is not qualified to vote . . . shall be fined not exceeding $500, or be imprisoned in jail not exceeding 60 days, or both."

A maximum fine of $500 is provided by article 216 for "any judge of any election or primary who wilfully permits a person to vote, whose name does not appear on the list of qualified voters."

The only recourse negroes have from the supreme court's decision lies in the federal courts. John Johnson, 74-year-old Denison negro, this week filed in federal court at Sherman a $10,080 damage suit against Grayson county clerk, Chas. M. Cole, after the negro was denied the privilege of casting an absentee ballot.

The action generally attacked by negroes is the democratic party's resolution, adopted in state convention, limiting party membership to "white citizens."

Atty. Gen. James V. Allred has ruled, however, that the term "white citizens" includes Mexicans.

ENNIS, TEX.
NEWS

AUG 6 1934

Texarkana Negro Seeks Vote Right

Texarkana, Aug. 6.—Virgil G. Goree, negro school teacher, has filed suit in the Texas side federal court against Attorney General Jas. V. Allred, Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson and others in an effort to secure for the petitioner and other negroes the right to vote in the democratic run-off primary. The suit was filed by J. Alston Atkins, Houston negro lawyer.

Claim is made that certain sections of the bill of rights in the Texas constitution are in violation of the constitution of the United States and that the resolution passed by the state democratic convention in 1933 violates the federal constitution.

EL PASO TEX.
HERALD

AUG 11 1934

Negro's Right to Vote

THINKING OUT LOUD:

Dear Mr. Green:

Your letter in Herald-Post explaining why negroes are not allowed to vote was carefully read by me and I must say not considered satisfactory.

I was raised in this grand old state of Texas on a farm owned by my grandfather and cultivated by negro slaves, also owned by him. I feel as competent as an old person can feel that I know the negro as well as most people.

In the first place they do not seek social equality. They are proud of their race and only ask for their rights as citizens of our country. These rights were guaranteed them by the law of our land.

Their progress since the emancipation has been phenomenal. They are adaptable, quiet and ambitious to excel as a race of people deserving all the privileges the law allows them.

This I know from experience of the negro as slave and as a free American. So your explanation does not answer my question to my satisfaction.

Why is the negro not allowed to vote in Texas?

SARAH C. TUITE.

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS

AUG 9 1934

Sherman Federal Court Is Handed Negro Vote Case

Special to The News.

SHERMAN, Texas, Aug. 8.—The Negro voting problem, which has occupied the attention of the State Democratic Executive Committee, county committees and election judges for six weeks, was introduced in Federal court here Wednesday.

Judge Randolph Bryant was handed a petition filed by a Texarkana Negro, Virgil Goree, against the State Democratic Executive Committee and the Bowie County Executive Committee, asking that he vote in the next Democratic primary. The case was sent here from Texarkana by Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson Jr., member of the Fifth Civil Appeals Circuit.

Texas.

Political — 1934

Suffrage

MEXIA, TEX.
NEWS

JUL 5 1934

NEGROES BARRED FROM DEMOCRATIC PARTY

THE argument over the rights of the negro to vote in the Democratic primaries of Texas has been a long one, and perhaps it will continue for some time to come. Attorney General James V. Allred, who happens to be a candidate for governor as well, rules that the party in convention has the power to determine qualification of its membership, and cites a Supreme Court decision on the question.

The fact that the state executive committee did nothing about the negro vote caused a number of counties to decide to permit their voting, but Attorney General Allred rules that the committee had no power anyway. In this he also is back by Supreme Court decisions.

While the Democratic party has always been a white man's primary in Texas, there is not so much fear of the negro vote as there is of some unprincipled white political bosses "voting" the negro. In Texas this year it was feared that the large cities would find droves of negroes, permitted to vote under local decisions, marching to the polls to vote for a certain candidate whose friends have been leading the effort to permit their admittance to the Democratic party.

And now since the attorney general has ruled against the negro vote and announces he will defend his decision in the courts, the issue promises to be a lively one. The friends of another candidate for governor may take the opposite side, even though too strong a defense of the negro vote will alienate a number of white voters.

Indeed, the issue of admittance of the negro to the Democratic party of Texas promises to be a live issue not only in the primary, but in the party conventions, precincts, county and state.

DENISON, TEX.
HERALD

JUL 15 1934

DISFRANCHISING THE NEGRO.

Attorney General Allred has ruled that negroes may not vote in the Democratic primary. This settles, for the time being, a question that has been troubling politicians of this state for some weeks. The Democratic party has been ruled a white man's party—and that's that.

Of course, any party has the right to say whom shall take part in its primaries. The primary is not the election—at least, not technically. At the general election, which is more or less an empty gesture in Texas, anyone may take part provided he has a poll tax receipt. There is no way of barring the negroes from participation in that election.

There the matter stands. The Democratic officials claim that they are not disfranchising the colored voter, since he has the right to participate in the general election. But they do not choose to permit him to vote in the primaries of the dominant party.

This will work very well for the Democrats so long as they are supreme in the state. The negroes have been told to stay out of the Democratic party, hence there is nowhere for them to go except into the Republican party. All negroes are not Republicans, the general idea to the contrary notwithstanding. Many of them have broken with the past and have ceased to vote Republican simply because Abraham Lincoln freed them. They are ready to cast their lot with the more progressive Democrats.

There is no place for the forward-looking colored voter in Texas at present. Voting the Republican ticket, he is virtually disfranchised; he can not vote Democratic.

With thousands of people flocking to Texas from the North and East, it is possible that the Republican party may gain strength during the next few years and seriously challenge the rule of the Democrats. The negroes might then throw their votes to the Republicans, becoming the "balance of power" in politics. It has happened in other states.

The Democratic party has the right to limit its membership, as a matter of political expediency, and, so long as it is dominant in Texas, may have its own way. But, one the tables were turned, this limitation might prove a serious handicap, even endangering its supremacy.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
EVENING STAR TELEGRAM

JUL 27 1934

The Courts Disagree.

THE TEXAS SUPREME COURT disagrees with the United States Supreme Court as to the right of the "Democratic party" in Texas to bar negroes from its primaries. The point at issue, however, does not allow so outright a conflict between the two courts as might be indicated.

The United States Supreme Court did not hold that a political party did not have the right to select its own members. That was not the issue in the Texas case which reached that court. It held that the Terrell election law of Texas made the Democratic party in the State in effect a branch of the government, and its primaries a state election, and that accordingly there was not vested in any authority the right to close the doors of membership in the party or to bar any person's entrance to the primary polls because of color or previous condition of servitude.

The Texas Supreme Court disagrees with the United States Supreme Court as to the intent and effect of the Terrell law. Its unanimous opinion, written by Chief Justice Cureton, says that "if it be said that the purpose of the Legislature was to take from the party and its state convention the power of determining who should be members of the party, then the act plainly is void" under the bill of rights of the Texas Constitution.

Presumably, if the United States Supreme Court should insist upon its interpretation of the Terrell law, the Texas Supreme Court would hold that law unconstitutional as violating the bill of rights.

But regardless of whether the Texas law is valid or invalid, it is most obvious that if it has not destroyed the independence of the Democratic party in the State it has done more: It has destroyed the party.

It is ridiculous to speak of the Democratic primary as a party affair for selecting nominees of the party. The primary is to all intent and effect the election of officers of the State and counties.

Instead of party cohesion we have a multitude of factions; instead of nominees running on platforms expressing the united will of the party, we have a ticket made up of men running each on a different platform.

Instead of sane and sensible selection of nominees for public office, we have an undignified scramble resembling a rural dog fight.

Instead of the office seeking the man, with ability and high standing the test of fitness, we have a Donnybrook fair in which the salary and power of public office is the prize for the man who can give and take the most thumping, who can shout loudest and fool the most people.

The Terrell election law—the whole primary system—may not be invalid, but it has certainly played havoc with the quality of public service in Texas.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
EVENING STAR TELEGRAM

JUL 26 1934

Declines to Hear Negro Vote Case

Judge Bruce Young in Forty-eighth District Court refused to hear a petition Thursday noon in which an injunction was asked to restrain negroes from voting in the Saturday primary.

The petition was brought to the courthouse by Dexter Scurlock, who explained that he was seeking to bring the suit for a "group of men" and that he had no other interest in the proceedings other than as an attorney. It was against the County Democratic Executive Committee.

Judge Young's refusal was based on the fact that there was not sufficient time to hear the application. He pointed out that the 106 election judges are scattered all over Tarrant County and that it would be impossible to obtain service on all of them in time. Judge Young said he would have heard the suit if it had been brought at the proper time.

Judge Frank P. Culver Jr. also said he would not hear the suit at this late time. Scurlock left the courthouse to confer further with his clients.

Texas.

Political — 1934

Suffrage

MEXIA, TEX.
NEWS

NEGROES BARRED FROM DEMOCRATIC PARTY

THE argument over the rights of the negro to vote in the Democratic primaries of Texas has been a long one, and perhaps it will continue for some time to come. Attorney General James V. Allred, who happens to be a candidate for governor as well, rules that the party in convention has the power to determine qualification of its membership, and cites a Supreme Court decision on the question.

The fact that the state executive committee did nothing about the negro vote caused a number of counties to decide to permit their voting, but Attorney General Allred rules that the committee had no power anyway. In this he also is back by Supreme Court decisions.

While the Democratic party has always been a white man's primary in Texas, there is not so much fear of the negro vote as there is of some unprincipled white political bosses "voting" the negro. In Texas this year it was feared that the large cities would find droves of negroes, permitted to vote under local decisions, marching to the polls to vote for a certain candidate whose friends have been leading the effort to permit their admittance to the Democratic party.

And now since the attorney general has ruled against the negro vote and announces he will defend his decision in the courts, the issue promises to be a lively one. The friends of another candidate for governor may take the opposite side, even though too strong a defense of the negro vote will alienate a number of white voters.

Indeed, the issue of admittance of the negro to the Democratic party of Texas promises to be a live issue not only in the primary, but in the party conventions, precincts, county and state.

DENISON, TEX.
HERALD

JUL 15 1934

DISFRANCHISING THE NEGRO.

Attorney General Allred has ruled that negroes may not vote in the Democratic primary. This settles, for the time being, a question that has been troubling politicians of this state for some weeks. The Democratic party has been ruled a white man's party—and that's that.

Of course, any party has the right to say whom shall take part in its primaries. The primary is not the election—at least, not technically. At the general election, which is more or less an empty gesture in Texas, anyone may take part provided he has a poll tax receipt. There is no way of barring the negroes from participation in that election.

There the matter stands. The Democratic officials claim that they are not disfranchising the colored voter, since he has the right to participate in the general election. But they do not choose to permit him to vote in the primaries of the dominant party.

This will work very well for the Democrats so long as they are supreme in the state. The negroes have been told to stay out of the Democratic party, hence there is nowhere for them to go except into the Republican party. All negroes are not Republicans, the general idea to the contrary notwithstanding. Many of them have broken with the past and have ceased to vote Republican simply because Abraham Lincoln freed them. They are ready to cast their lot with the more progressive Democrats.

There is no place for the forward-looking colored voter in Texas at present. Voting the Republican ticket, he is virtually disfranchised; he can not vote Democratic.

With thousands of people flocking to Texas from the North and East, it is possible that the Republican party may gain strength during the next few years and seriously challenge the rule of the Democrats. The negroes might then throw their votes to the Republicans, becoming the "balance of power" in politics. It has happened in other states.

The Democratic party has the right to limit its membership, as a matter of political expediency, and, so long as it is dominant in Texas, may have its own way. But, one the tables were turned, this limitation might prove a serious handicap, even endangering its supremacy.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
EVENING STAR TELEGRAM

JUL 27 1934

The Courts Disagree.

THE TEXAS SUPREME COURT disagrees with the United States Supreme Court as to the right of the "Democratic party" in Texas to bar negroes from its primaries. The point at issue, however, does not allow so outright a conflict between the two courts as might be indicated.

The United States Supreme Court did not hold that a political party did not have the right to select its own members. That was not the issue in the Texas case which reached that court. It held that the Terrell election law of Texas made the Democratic party in the State in effect a branch of the government, and its primaries a state election, and that accordingly there was not vested in any authority the right to close the doors of membership in the party or to bar any person's entrance to the primary polls because of color or previous condition of servitude.

The Texas Supreme Court disagrees with the United States Supreme Court as to the intent and effect of the Terrell law. Its unanimous opinion, written by Chief Justice Cureton, says that "if it be said that the purpose of the Legislature was to take from the party and its state convention the power of determining who should be members of the party, then the act plainly is void" under the bill of rights of the Texas Constitution.

Presumably, if the United States Supreme Court should insist upon its interpretation of the Terrell law, the Texas Supreme Court would hold that law unconstitutional as violating the bill of rights.

But regardless of whether the Texas law is valid or invalid, it is most obvious that if it has not destroyed the independence of the Democratic party in the State it has done more: It has destroyed the party.

It is ridiculous to speak of the Democratic primary as a party affair for selecting nominees of the party. The primary is to all intent and effect the election of officers of the State and counties.

Instead of party cohesion we have a multitude of factions; instead of nominees running on platforms expressing the united will of the party, we have a ticket made up of men running each on a different platform.

Instead of sane and sensible selection of nominees for public office, we have an undignified scramble resembling a rural dog fight.

Instead of the office seeking the man, with ability and high standing the test of fitness, we have a Donnybrook fair in which the salary and power of public office is the prize for the man who can give and take the most thumping, who can shout loudest and fool the most people.

The Terrell election law—the whole primary system—may not be invalid, but it has certainly played havoc with the quality of public service in Texas.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
EVENING STAR TELEGRAM

JUL 26 1934

Declines to Hear Negro Vote Case

Judge Bruce Young in Forty-eighth District Court refused to hear a petition Thursday noon in which judges are scattered all over Tarrant an injunction was asked to restrain County and that it would be impos- negroes from voting in the Saturday sible to obtain service on all of Democratic primary.

The petition was brought to the courthouse by Dexter Scurlock, who explained that he was seeking to bring the suit for a "group of men" and that he had no other interest in the proceedings other than as an attorney. It was against the County Democratic Executive Committee.

Judge Young's refusal was based on the fact that there was not sufficient time to hear the application. He pointed out that the 106 election them in time. Judge Young said he would have heard the suit if it had been brought at the proper time.

Judge Frank P. Culver Jr. also said he would not hear the suit at this late time. Scurlock left the courthouse to confer further with his clients.

CORPUS CHRISTI, TEX.
TIMES

JUL 13 1934

NEGRO VOTE FACTOR IN STATE RACE

Question Enters Campaign Upon Ruling By Attorney General

POLL TAX REPEAL IS URGED BY WITT

Ferguson's Espousal of McDonald's Candidacy Scored By Allred

Austin, Tex., July 13.—(AP)—The question of negro voting became a campaign factor today with a ruling by the attorney general's department yesterday that negroes were not entitled to participate in the democratic primaries.

It had been indicated in several counties that negroes would be permitted to vote in the elections after failure of the state democratic executive committee to adopt a resolution restricting the primaries to whites. In Travis county, two negroes had cast absentee ballots.

The attorney general's opinion was issued despite a ruling of the United Stataes Supreme court in a case appealed from El Paso in which the court held negroes could not be barred as long as the democratic primaries were controlled by legislative enactments.

Yesterday's opinion cited a resolution adopted by the state democratic convention in 1932 in which the primaries were closed to negroes and stated this was a party action and not a legislative enactment.

Edgar E. Witt, gubernatorial candidate, speaking at Liberty last night, urged repeal of the poll tax.

"There never was any justification for charging a man money for the right to vote," Witt said. "There is some argument over qualifications of voters but not for the poll tax. The only reason it was ever put in our constitution was becouse it was thought it would keep negroes from voting and would get money from persons who did not contribute any taxes otherwise."

Witt said repeal of the poll tax requirement and substitution of a form of registration would make "for purity of the ballot."

Espousal of the candidacy of C. C. McDonald by former Gov. James E. Ferguson was criticized by Allred, also a candidate for governor, in an address at Greenville.

Ferguson has made three addresses in McDonald's behalf and planned to resume the stump tonight at Brenham.

"Every candidate with one exception has seen fit to launch a bitter attack on me," Allred stated. "The one candidate who says he's going to be a nice boy and not talk about anybody has a friend, however, who is doing the attacking for him."

Allred referred to McDonald as Ferguson's "crown prince" and predicted Texas voters would follow Oklahoma's example and reject the administration candidate.

McDonald, at Hamilton and San Saba, stressed the economic recovery planks in his platform. He pointed out the federal government was going to great lengths to increase home ownership and discussed his plan whereby the state would guarantee one-half the cost of modest homesteads and charge the purchaser a low rate of interest.

McDonald also explained his plan for maintenance of an adequate school system and announced his support of the right of labor to bargain collectively.

C. C. Small, state senator, asserted in a speech at Tyler that Allred had failed to enforce the oil conservation laws.

"This deplorable East Texas oil situation is the result of but one thing and that is the failure to enforce7 the laws of the state," Small said. "The railroad commission and the attorney general's department told us that all they needed to stop hot oil were the laws we passed at the special legislative session. We gave them the laws. Why doesn't the attorney general quit talking about lobbyists, monopolists and utilities and do something about the oil situation down there."

Small advocates replacement of the railroad commission as the oil production regulatory agency with a separate oil and gas board.

Tom F. Hunter spoke last night at Fort Worth.

Estimating that he had spoken to nearly 250,000 voters since the campaign started, Hunter exhorted his partisans "to saddle 'Old Beck' and carly the message to the neighbors."

"The four major ills in Texas for which I propose a cure are excessive tax burdens on real estate while large corporations evade their just share; the utility monopoly; the oil trust combination and the chain store cancer," Hunter said. "Those avenues of independent competition which have been closed through monopolistic mergers must be reopened."

Maury Hughes carried his campaign for governor into North Texas with appearances at Wylie, Bonham, Honey Grove and Denison.

Edward K. Russell spoke at Ballinger, Coleman and Brownwood.

SHERMAN, TEX.
DEMOCRAT

AUG 13 1934

Ruling Bars Negroes From Voting Here

Federal Judge Bryant Sustains Defense Motion to Dismiss Application

Attorneys to Decide Whether to Make Appeal

Judge States Belief Any Party May Set Members' Qualifications

Grayson county negroes who seek to vote in the democratic primaries received a setback Monday morning when Randolph Bryant, federal judge, sustained a defense motion to dismiss the application which John Johnson, Denison negro, had filed for an injunction to restrain the county democratic executive committee from in any way interfering with him "and others similarly situated," in casting ballots.

Judge Bryant did not hear the case on its merits, as the motion to dismiss came before him first. At the conclusion of arguments from attorneys for both sides, he declared that in his opinion the state democratic executive committee had the right to pass the resolution confining voting in the primaries to those of the white race. He granted the motion to dismiss, and five negro attorneys of Sherman, Dallas and Houston were scheduled to go into conference to decide if and when an appeal would be taken.

The courtroom was packed when the case was called at 10 a. m. The courtroom proper was filled with negro men and women for the most part. Lawyers attending the hearing included Judge R. M. Carter of fifteenth district court, Joe P. Cox, J. D. Buster, Judge G. P. Webb, Hamp P. Abney, Col. C. B. Randell, Nat Birge, C. O. Boothman, O. R. Brame and J. S. Kone.

Classes Attend

Earle Whiteacre, newly elected county chairman, also listened to argument. Two classes from Austin college attended. O. H. Woodrow and Ben F. Gafford, the latter chairman of the county committee and one of the defendants, sat at the defense table. W. J. Durham, negro attorney, headed the plaintiff's counsel.

Judge Bryant in the beginning told attorneys that in his belief the whole case hinged on whether the state body had the right to declare the qualifications of members of the democratic party. He said he had gone over the original petition carefully and had studied supreme court decisions regarding similar cases.

"It is my conception," he said, "that the whole case hinges on the question of the validity of the resolution passed by the state group in which voting was confined to those of the white race.

"I am very suspicious that any political party has the right to prescribe the qualifications. As agents of the state, they probably would have no right. But as the party I think they have the power to prescribe qualifications, whether they do so by color, by color of hair and eyes or otherwise.

"Inherent Power"

"There is no question here but what discrimination as to color was the purpose. But I think the party has the right to make the discrimination on any ground. They can't do it if they don't have the power, but I think they have the power. It is an inherent power vested in political organizations, giving unlimited authority to prescribe qualifications."

A similar case filed in federal court two years ago and dismissed without prejudice by Judge Bryant, was discussed for a minute. He said that "the picture is different here" inasmuch as the state group had passed the resolution.

Judge Bryant declared that in his opinion it is the purpose for the political party—any party—to "run its affairs and prescribe qualifications of membership."

Mr. Woodrow told the court that "free government is at an end" when the "time comes when we have to go to Austin to decide who shall be our associates."

The ruling made it practically certain that negroes would not participate in the second democratic primary scheduled for Aug. 25.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
MORNING STAR TELEGRAM

JUL 28 1934

COURT HERE FAILS TO BAR NEGRO VOTE

Rules That Race Already Is Restrained by Decision of State Supreme Court.

Application for two court orders barring negroes and others of African descent from participating in today's Democratic primary was denied yesterday in Sixty-seventh Court by Judge Walter L. Morris, who ruled that negroes already were restrained from voting in the primary by the State Supreme Court's decision.

Judge Morris ruled that his issuance of either the temporary injunction restraining negroes from participation or the mandatory decree ordering Tarrant County election officials to deny their ballots would be a presumption on his part that the officials had proposed to violate the law.

At the same time the court explained that there is no conflict between the oft-quoted decision of the United States Supreme Court and the recent ruling of the Supreme Court of Texas.

"The Supreme Court of the United States has never said that the Democratic party did not have the right to say who shall participate in their primaries," he declared. "The high court ruled that the Legislature erred in delegating that power to the State Executive Committee. Not that the party in convention assembled did not have the right to delegate that authority to the executive committee, but that the law passed by the Legislature giving the committee that power was unconstitutional."

"The Supreme Court of Texas has spoken and said that negroes and those of African descent shall not be permitted to vote in the Democratic primaries and I, as an inferior court, must bow to that decision. I therefore deny the injunctions prayed for."

Judge Morris then advised election judges and officials in the courtroom as to how he would proceed when negroes presented themselves at the polls.

"I would very courteously refuse his ballot and take his name in case he wished to appeal," he said.

The suit was brought by A. E. Harding, candidate for State Representative, Place 3, against Hugh L. Small, Tarrant County Democratic chairman, and members of the county executive committee. It was presented by Dexter W. Scurlock, and Small appeared as attorney for himself and the committeemen. Joe Greathouse, one of Harding's two opponents; a number of the executive committeemen and about a dozen negroes were present at the hearing.

Scurlock, in presenting the application to the court, explained that the petition was drawn by someone else. His assertion that election judges had been unable to decide what to do in regard to negro voters was interrupted by the court, who declared such pleadings were not included in the application.

Small, in his answer, said the petition was wanting in equity because the authority for barring negroes was vested in the State Executive Committee; that the Supreme Court had ruled that they should be barred, and that it was to be presumed that the election officials were going to obey the mandate of the Supreme Court.

He denied that he or his committee had power to rule on the negro question and said that none of them had "purpose or intent to encourage the contrary were opposed to negro participation in the primary.

Later Small described the suit as "another political stab by the Republicans at the Democratic party."

Harding answered by asserting that he was a Democrat and that Small "had left Tarrant County wide open to negro voting." He charged that the chairman had failed to write the Attorney General for a ruling on the matter.

"As a candidate for public office, I have felt it my loyal duty to protect the state Democratic party's ruling in order that our primaries may always remain white," he said.

CORPUS CHRISTI, TEX.
TIMES

JUL 13 1934

NEGRO VOTE FACTOR IN STATE RACE

Question Enters Campaign Upon Ruling By Attorney General

POLL TAX REPEAL IS URGED BY WITT

Ferguson's Espousal of McDonald's Candidacy Scored By Allred

Austin, Tex., July 13.—(AP)—The question of negro voting became a campaign factor today with a ruling by the attorney general's department yesterday that negroes were not entitled to participate in the democratic primaries.

It had been indicated in several counties that negroes would be permitted to vote in the elections after failure of the state democratic executive committee to adopt a resolution restricting the primaries to whites. In Travis county, two negroes had cast absentee ballots.

The attorney general's opinion was issued despite a ruling of the United Stataes Supreme court in a case appealed from El Paso in which the court held negroes could not be barred as long as the democratic primaries were controlled by legislative enactments.

Yesterday's opinion cited a resolution adopted by the state democratic convention in 1932 in which the primaries were closed to negroes and stated this was a party action and not a legislative enactment.

Edgar E. Witt, gubernatorial candidate, speaking at Liberty last night, urged repeal of the poll tax.

"There never was any justification for charging a man money for the right to vote," Witt said. "There is some argument over qualifications of voters but not for the poll tax. The only reason it was ever put in our constitution was becouse it was thought it would keep negroes from voting and would get money from persons who did not contribute any taxes otherwise."

Witt said repeal of the poll tax requirement and substitution of a form of registration would make "for purity of the ballot."

Espousal of the candidacy of C. C. McDonald by former Gov. James E. Ferguson was criticized by Allred, also a candidate for governor, in an address at Greenville.

Ferguson has made three addresses in McDonald's behalf and planned to resume the stump tonight at Brenham.

"Every candidate with one exception has seen fit to launch a bitter attack on me," Allred stated. "The one candidate who says he's going to be a nice boy and not talk about anybody has a friend, however, who is doing the attacking for him."

Allred referred to McDonald as Ferguson's "crown prince" and predicted Texas voters would follow Oklahoma's example and reject the administration candidate.

McDonald, at Hamilton and San Saba, stressed the economic recovery planks in his platform. He pointed out the federal government was going to great lengths to increase home ownership and discussed his plan whereby the state would guarantee one-half the cost of modest homesteads and charge the purchaser a low rate of interest.

McDonald also explained his plan for maintenance of an adequate school system and announced his support of the right of labor to bargain collectively.

C. C. Small, state senator, asserted in a speech at Tyler that Allred had failed to enforce the oil conservation laws.

"This deplorable East Texas oil situation is the result of but one thing and that is the failure to enforce7 the laws of the state," Small said. "The railroad commission and the attorney general's department told us that all they needed to stop hot oil were the laws we passed at the special legislative session. We gave them the laws. Why doesn't the attorney general quit talking about lobbyists, monopolists and utilities and do something about the oil situation down there."

Small advocates replacement of the railroad commission as the oil production regulatory agency with a separate oil and gas board.

Tom F. Hunter spoke last night at Fort Worth.

Estimating that he had spoken to nearly 250,000 voters since the campaign started, Hunter exhorted his partisans "to saddle 'Old Beck' and carly the message to the neighbors."

"The four major ills in Texas for which I propose a cure are excessive tax burdens on real estate while large corporations evade their just share; the utility monopoly; the oil trust combination and the chain store cancer," Hunter said. "Those avenues of independent competition which have been closed through monopolistic mergers must be reopened."

Maury Hughes carried his campaign for governor into North Texas with appearances at Wylie, Bonham, Honey Grove and Denison.

Edward K. Russell spoke at Ballinger, Coleman and Brownwood.

SHERMAN, TEX.
DEMOCRAT

AUG 13 1934

Ruling Bars Negroes From Voting Here

Federal Judge Bryant Sustains Defense Motion to Dismiss Application

Attorneys to Decide Whether to Make Appeal

Judge States Belief Any Party May Set Members' Qualifications

Grayson county negroes who seek to vote in the democratic primaries received a setback Monday morning when Randolph Bryant, federal judge, sustained a defense motion to dismiss the application which John Johnson, Denison negro, had filed for an injunction to restrain the county democratic executive committee from in any way interfering with him "and others similarly situated," in casting ballots.

Judge Bryant did not hear the case on its merits, as the motion to dismiss came before him first. At the conclusion of arguments from attorneys for both sides, he declared that in his opinion the state democratic executive committee had the right to pass the resolution confining voting in the primaries to those of the white race. He granted the motion to dismiss, and five negro attorneys of Sherman, Dallas and Houston were scheduled to go into conference to decide if and when an appeal would be taken.

The courtroom was packed when the case was called at 10 a. m. The courtroom proper was filled with negro men and women for the most part. Lawyers attending the hearing included Judge R. M. Carter of fifteenth district court, Joe P. Cox, J. D. Buster, Judge G. P. Webb, Hamp P. Abney, Col. C. B. Randell, Nat Birge, C. O. Boothman, O. R. Brame and J. S. Kone.

Classes Attend

Earle Whiteacre, newly elected county chairman, also listened to argument. Two classes from Austin college attended. O. H. Woodrow and Ben F. Gafford, the latter chairman of the county committee and one of the defendants, sat at the defense table. W. J. Durham, negro attorney, headed the plaintiff's counsel.

Judge Bryant in the beginning told attorneys that in his belief the whole case hinged on whether the state body had the right to declare the qualifications of members of the democratic party. He said he had gone over the original petition carefully and had studied supreme court decisions regarding similar cases.

"It is my conception," he said, "that the whole case hinges on the question of the validity of the resolution passed by the state group in which voting was confined to those of the white race.

"I am very suspicious that any political party has the right to prescribe the qualifications. As agents of the state, they probably would have no right. But as the party I think they have the power to prescribe qualifications, whether they do so by color, by color of hair and eyes or otherwise.

"Inherent Power"

"There is no question here but what discrimination as to color was the purpose. But I think the party has the right to make the discrimination on any ground. They can't do it if they don't have the power, but I think they have the power. It is an inherent power vested in political organizations, giving unlimited authority to prescribe qualifications."

A similar case filed in federal court two years ago and dismissed without prejudice by Judge Bryant, was discussed for a minute. He said that "the picture is different here" inasmuch as the state group had passed the resolution.

Judge Bryant declared that in his opinion it is the purpose for the political party—any party—to "run its affairs and prescribe qualifications of membership."

Mr. Woodrow told the court that "free government is at an end" when the "time comes when we have to go to Austin to decide who shall be our associates."

The ruling made it practically certain that negroes would not participate in the second democratic primary scheduled for Aug. 25.

FORT WORTH, TEX.
MORNING STAR TELEGRAM

JUL 28 1934

COURT HERE FAILS TO BAR NEGRO VOTE

Rules That Race Already Is Restrained by Decision of State Supreme Court.

Application for two court orders barring negroes and others of African descent from participating in today's Democratic primary was denied yesterday in Sixty-seventh Court by Judge Walter L. Morris, who ruled that negroes already were restrained from voting in the primary by the State Supreme Court's decision.

Judge Morris ruled that his issuance of either the temporary injunction restraining negroes from participation or the mandatory decree ordering Tarrant County election officials to deny their ballots would be a presumption on his part that the officials had proposed to violate the law.

At the same time the court explained that there is no conflict between the oft-quoted decision of the United States Supreme Court and the recent ruling of the Supreme Court of Texas.

"The Supreme Court of the United States has never said that the Democratic party did not have the right to say who shall participate in their primaries," he declared. "The high court ruled that the Legislature erred in delegating that power to the State Executive Committee. Not that the party in convention assembled did not have the right to delegate that authority to the executive committee, but that the law passed by the Legislature giving the committee that power was unconstitutional."

"The Supreme Court of Texas has spoken and said that negroes and those of African descent shall not be permitted to vote in the Democratic primaries and I, as an inferior court, must bow to that decision. I therefore deny the injunctions prayed for."

Judge Morris then advised election judges and officials in the courtroom as to how he would proceed when negroes presented themselves at the polls.

"I would very courteously refuse his ballot and take his name in case he wished to appeal," he said.

The suit was brought by A. E. Harding, candidate for State Representative, Place 3, against Hugh L. Small, Tarrant County Democratic chairman, and members of the county executive committee. It was presented by Dexter W. Scurlock, and Small appeared as attorney for himself and the committeemen. Joe Greathouse, one of Harding's two opponents; a number of the executive committeemen and about a dozen negroes were present at the hearing.

Scurlock, in presenting the application to the court, explained that the petition was drawn by someone else. His assertion that election judges had been unable to decide what to do in regard to negro voters was interrupted by the court, who declared such pleadings were not included in the application.

Small, in his answer, said the petition was wanting in equity because the authority for barring negroes was vested in the State Executive Committee; that the Supreme Court had ruled that they should be barred, and that it was to be presumed that the election officials were going to obey the mandate of the Supreme Court.

He denied that he or his committee had power to rule on the negro question and said that none of them had "purpose or intent to encourage open to negro voting." He charged that the chairman had failed to write the Attorney General for a ruling on the matter. "As a candidate for public office, I felt it my loyal duty to protect the state Democratic party's ruling in order that our primaries may always remain white," he said.

Later Small described the suit as "another political stab by the Republicans at the Democratic party." Harding answered by asserting that he was a Democrat and that Small "had left Tarrant County wide

Texas.

Political - 1934

Suffrage.

FOREIGNERS AND NATIVE TEXANS

A strange contrast in citizenship was revealed during the recent political campaign in Texas, when the attorney general of the state ruled, in substance and effect, that Negroes were and are not citizens, but that all aliens and foreigners, who are not members of the Negro race, are citizens and entitled to exercise and enjoy all the rights and prerogatives of citizenship, even to participating in the Democratic primary elections in Texas. Defender

Without trying to cast a reflection upon our foreign element or to challenge or question their patriotism, loyalty and fidelity to American ideals and institutions, it may be very pertinent to cite attention here to the part which Negroes played in the development, progress and perpetuity of this country and its several states, including even Texas.

The first person to shed blood in the defense of American independence was a Negro, Crispus Attucks, and when the armistice was signed bringing a cessation to that mighty martial holocaust known as the World War, colored soldiers were among those armed forces of the allies who had stormed and seized the strong German fortress, Metz. 8-4-34

In practically every war in which the United States has engaged between 1776 and 1918, Negroes played their part and never was it necessary for the government to conscript them for millitary duty: but they volunteered their services and went forth willingly and bravely to defend their native country against hostile foes, and keep Old Glory from trailing in the dust. Houston, Texas.

Without speaking in disparaging terms about any of our foreign population, students of Texas history will recall the bloody massacre of Texans by the Mexicans, and how the vicious hordes from the land of Montezuma dealt out misery and death to the early settlers of this state, then a republic, until put to rout by General Sam Houston and his intrepid band at San Jacinto battleground on April 21, 1836.

With all due respect to our Mexican population, there is nothing in the records which shows that they have contributed as much toward defending, protecting and perpetuating this state and nation as Negroes; and yet we have public officials, paid by the taxes of all the people, holding that Mexicans not only are citizens, but are "white;" that Negroes, despite all their contributions and labors in behalf of their state and country, are still in the category of cattle, chattel and other domestic animals.

One of the gubernatorial candidates, who injected the "Negro issue" into the campaign in Texas, grew eloquent in his platform and radio speeches referring to the "stinking 'nigger' going to the polls with our white women;" but he overlooked the fact that there are some other "favored" races in this state whose "outstink" far exceeds their instinct, and neither he nor those who endorse his demagogic appeals would have to go four blocks to locate some of these non-Negro" stinkers."

Furthermore, if Negroes are too full of disgusting odors to vote in a Democratic primary election in Texas along with members of other races, why isn't this same "stink" cry raised when Negroes march to the polls to cast a ballot in special and general election?

By what course of reasoning do these political Negrophobes arrive at the conclusion that Negroes are too "stinky" to vote at the same polls with whites in a partisan primary election, and yet their odor is all right to cast a ballot on all other occasions?

If Negroes exude a "tired" and unwholesome odor to such an alarming extent that "white" primary elections must be held to prevent the members of the dominant race from becoming contaminated and polluted, why do so many male members of the dominant race seek out and cohabit with Negro women and girls under the cover of darkness, and why do we have so many "colored offsprings" whose paternity is non-Negro, but whose maternity is very much Negroid?

Going a little bit further, or coming a little closer home (whichever way one wishes to take it), if Negroes are such a stench in the nostrils of so many whites, why are Negroes employed in the homes of so many white people, and why do white merchants and business houses permit these "stinking blacks" to invade their stores and make purchases?

Have Texas Negroes, with all their education, literacy, enlightenment, civilization and supposed Christianity, descended so low in filth and bodily uncleanliness that their very presence in the company of other races, even for a short duration at the polls, will defile and "odorize" other "superior" racial elements?

If this is true, then in order to save "white supremacy" from the menace of " black stink," the Texas legislature had better pass laws to compel the two races to ride in different street cars, busses and common carriers; to prohibit said "stinking blacks" from all public places frequented by members of the "superior" and "good smelling" races, and to keep the "clean" white men away from "stinking black" women at night!

Finally, it strikes The Defender that if "stinking blacks" were good enough to fight, bleed and die for this country, they are good enough to march to the polls with all other racial elements and cast a ballot in any sort of public election. (Attorney General Allred will now lead us in prayer!)

BAR RACE VOTE IN TEXAS PRIMARY

Pittsburgh Courier 8-4-34

Election Officials Cause Stir By Refusing Ballots to Negroes, Despite Supreme Court Ruling In Nixon Case—Citizens Aroused.

By ALBERT WHITE
Staff Correspondent

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 2—Texas Negroes, with the exception of several counties where their numerical voting strength is small, were barred from participation in the Democratic primary election Saturday.

Election officials denied ballots to Negroes on the authority of a decision handed down one week before the primary by the Texas Supreme Court. The court sustained a ruling previously given by James V. Allred, attorney-general of the state and a candidate for governor, who held that Negroes were not entitled to vote in the primary election under a resolution adopted by the state Democratic convention in 1932, which specified that only white people could qualify as members of the Democratic party in Texas.

The Texas Supreme Court disagreed with the last decision of the United States Supreme Court, which ruled in the case of Dr. L. A. Nixon, that the Democratic primary of Texas was an agency of the state and as such could not legally bar Negroes from its elections. The Texas Supreme Court held that the bill of rights of the state gave political parties the inherent right to determine their membership, and that if state regulatory laws subsequently enacted made the Democratic party a creature of the state, then such laws were void.

Negro leaders of Texas have announced that the decision of the Texas Supreme Court will be appealed to the United States Supreme Court, and that the new issue which will face the highest court in the land, is whether or not Negroes may be members of the Democratic party. Negroes of Texas are of the opinion that the Democratic party is a national, not a state organization, and that its membership is open to any one professing its political faith.

The United States Supreme Court in the Nixon case ruled that the state Democratic executive committee of the state could not bar Negroes from the party primary because of color. When the state committee met in June at Austin it was under the control of James E. Ferguson, political adviser and husband of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson. Ferguson, who was believed favorable to Negroes voting, kept the discussion off the floor and left it open. As a result of this action it was generally assumed that Negroes would be allowed to vote in Texas this year without opposition.

Negro politicians and Negro newspapers openly declared their support for C. C. McDonald for governor. McDonald was backed for the office by Ferguson.

Other candidates for governor were astonished by what they called a Negro stampede for the Ferguson favorite. They said Ferguson had the Negroes in his vest pocket.

Accordingly, James V. Allred, the attorney-general threw a bombshell into the campaign by handing down his ruling which later proved effective in keeping Negroes out of the primary.

Allred made a campaign issue out of the situation. He and his supporters waved copies of Negro papers before white audiences with McDonald's photograph on their front pages. "I kept the Negro bucks away from the polls with their offensive odors," he told his hearers.

This appeal to prejudice helped Allred in the election. He led all of his opponents in the election Saturday. McDonald was defeated. A run-off election between Allred and Tom F. Hunter, wealthy independent oil operator, will be held on August 27th.

Allred's opinion and the decision of the Texas Supreme Court did not meet with the approval of a large number of white Texans.

A study of editorial comment in the leading white papers of the state failed to reveal but one metropolitan daily which agreed with the views of the attorney general.

The opinions of the various papers were published July 14th. They were in part as follows:

Dallas Journal: "Whites may not like to admit it, but there are some whites less worthy to vote in the primary and less competent to do so than there are some Negroes. The Democratic party would be better off if it was composed only of the competent, well disposed Negroes and the competent well disposed whites. A test of citizenship is whether you are able to calmly and dispassionately consider such questions and come to an honest and just answer."

PLAINVIEW, TEX.
HERALD

JUL 13 1934

County Demo Executive Committees Ponder Over Question Of Right Of Negroes To Vote In 1934 Primaries

AUSTIN, July 13 (AP)—County Democratic executive committees pondered today over a highly perplexing question—that of the right of negroes to vote in the July and August primaries of the Democartic party.

The problem, which had smoldered for weeks, was revived yesterday when Attorney General James V. Allred approved a departmental opinion holding negroes were ineligible to vote in the party's primary elections. In certain counties it had been announced negroes would be permitted to vote.

Two negroes cast absentee ballots in Travis County and a special meeting of the executive committee has been called to pass on whether they will be accepted. In Harris County a suit is pending to force the county clerk to accept an absentee ballot presented by a negro.

Decision on the question was passed to the county committees when the state executive committee, in session a month ago, refused to act on a resolution that would have barred negroes from participation.

The Attorney General's decision upheld the right of the party to prescribe the qualifications of its members. It stated the negroes were barred through a resolution adopted in 1932 at the state Democratic convention and contended this action did not contravene a United States Supreme Court decision holding the state executive committee could not bar negroes.

Complete cooperation between the state and Federal governments was urged by Maury Hughes, gubernatorial candidate in a speech last night at Denison.

"We simply cannot dump all our problems in the lap of the President and expect them to be solved overnight," Hughes said. "This state needs a governor who has the confidence of the President and who has demonstrated confidence and faith in his recovery program.

"I have given ample evidence of that faith," Hughes said, adding that he made several speeches as chairman of the NRA Advisory Board for Texas and worked for party support of the national program when he was chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee.

Edward K. Russell, only candidate in the seven cornered race who is against any tampering with the prohibition laws, levelled a blast at one of his opponents, C. C. Small, in a speech at Brownwood.

Small, according to Russell, is trying to "blow hot and blow cold" on the proposed repeal of the law permitting wagering on horse races.

"In the regular session of the 43rd Legislature he voted for the bill legalizing gambling on horse races," Russell said. "Now he is trying to climb on Hunter's band wagon and says he is in favor of repealing this law."

Small, addressing an East Texas rally of his supporters at Tyler, criticized the record of Allred in enforcing oil proration orders of the Texas Railroad Commissilon. He recommended establishment of a natural resources commission whose sole duty would be supervision of the oil industry.

Small blamed conditions in the East Texas field on failure to enforce the proration laws. "Oil is the state's major industry and it couldn't be in a more chaotic condition," he said.

Witt proposed abolition of the poll tax in a talk at Liberty, saying there was no justification for charging a citizen for the privilege of franchise. He suggested that the poll tax be removed from the masses with the revenue thus lost to be replaced by taxes on sources and resources able to bear it. He also said he would, if elected, seek to readjust taxes so that home owners would be relieved.

C. C. McDonald, at San Saba, spoke in favor of a sensible educational system that would not be subject to change annually. He recommended a per capita apportionment of $16 annually.

"Let us see that there are funds to meet it," he said. "And let our school boards see that no census rolls are padded, I do not want to see any of our schools junked or abandoned. I want to see every teacher paid a living salary at all times in cash."

Allred, terming McDonald the "Crown Prince" of former Governor James E. Ferguson, thrust sharply at Ferguson's support of McDonald, who is being backed by the administration. Ferguson is stumping the state for McDonald, his political lieutenant for years, and will speak tonight at Brenham.

Allred said Ferguson was using his newspaper to perpetuate his "political dynasty" and to tell the voters how to vote.

"He is likely to find that the people of Texas are going to do the same thing that voters of Oklahoma did to Bill Murray's choice as his successor," Allred said. "There is a growing resentment against the scheme of a wood and water toter to stay at the helm of state government through the election of his crown prince."

Tom F. Hunter spoke at Fort Worth.

Asserting that he was fighting the cause of the plain people, Hunter said it would be impossible for him to contact each voter in the state and urged his partisans to saddle "Old Beck" and "carry the message to the neighbors."

He promised his best efforts to relieve real estate of taxes and to cure the evils of the "utility monopoly, the oil trust combination and the chain store cancer."

DES MOINES, IA.
REGISTER

AUG 1 1934

WHY SINGLE OUT NEGRO BLOCK VOTERS?

The Texas Weekly is very much incensed because it has heard that in the coming Democratic state primary a political boss at San Antonio is going to vote a solid block of Negroes for one string of candidates.

It seems that the Democratic state convention worded its statement of eligible primary voters so as to bar Negroes, and in not unusual subservience to his party the state attorney general ruled that this action was legal. So on the whole, Negroes are not going to be permitted to vote in the Texas primary.

And what has the Texas Weekly steamed up is that "while intelligent Negroes all over the state are barred from the primary," the block vote in Bexar county, "obeying the command of a political boss, will be cast for one set of candidates . . . thus invalidating the votes of some 5,000 white Democrats cast for other candidates."

It is only fair to say that, apparently incidentally, the Texas Weekly is opposed to barring Negroes at all. But it seems to believe that if the majority of Texas counties are going to abide by the attorney general's ruling, "such voting of Negroes in a solid block for one set of candidates should not be permitted."

What it is difficult to understand is why so much emphasis is put upon voting Negroes in a solid block. Why is it any worse to do that than to vote the Italians in certain sections of Chicago in a solid block, or for that matter, masses of white laboring men under the domination of political bosses—a thing that is occurring constantly in most of our metropolitan centers?

Apparently the reason the Texas Weekly is so indignant about this San Antonio affair is that it is Negroes who are going to be voted "solid." Here in Iowa we are free to say that if that were the only objection, it would be no objection at all. The thing the Texas publication ought to be scolding about is block voting and political bossism, wherever it occurs and whatever class of voters it involves.

If the only way the Negroes of Texas can get inside the polls is to appear as block voters, let them appear that way. One of these years they will get tired of being led around politically like a herd of sheep, and will begin voting according to their convictions as they are entitled to do, the Democrats and attorney general of Texas notwithstanding.

DALLAS, TEX.
TIMES HERALD
JUL 28 1934

NEGROES BALLOTING AT EL PASO POLLS

El Paso, Tex., July 28 (AP).—Precinct election officials today permitted negroes to vote in the Democratic primary.

Dr. L. A. Nixon, negro physician, said that election officials marked "colored" on the face of his ballot, and expressed the belief that it will not be counted.

The negro physician has won three court suits to test the right of Democratic officials to bar negroes from the polls. He plans another suit to force a count of his ballot in today's election, he said.

the Democratic party. Negroes of Texas are of the opinion that the Democratic party is a national, not a state organization, and that its membership is open to any one professing its political faith.

The United States Supreme Court in the Nixon case ruled that the state Democratic executive committee of the state could not bar Negroes from the party primary because of color. When the state committee met in June at Austin it was under the control of James E. Ferguson, political adviser and husband of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson. Ferguson, who was believed favorable to Negroes voting, kept the discussion off the floor and left it open. As a result of this action it was generally assumed that Negroes would be allowed to vote in Texas this year without opposition.

Negro politicians and Negro newspapers openly declared their support for C. C. McDonald for governor. McDonald was backed for the office by Ferguson.

Other candidates for governor were astonished by what they called a Negro stampede for the Ferguson favorite. They said Ferguson had the Negroes in his vest pocket.

Accordingly, James V. Allred, the attorney-general threw a bombshell into the campaign by handing down his ruling which later proved effective in keeping Negroes out of the primary.

Allred made a campaign issue out of the situation. He and his supporters waved copies of Negro papers before white audiences with McDonald's photograph on their front pages. "I kept the Negro bucks away from the polls with their offensive odors," he told his hearers.

This appeal to prejudice helped Allred in the election. He led all of his opponents in the election Saturday. McDonald was defeated. A run-off election between Allred and Tom F. Hunter, wealthy independent oil operator, will be held on August 27th.

Allred's opinion and the decision of the Texas Supreme Court did not meet with the approval of a large number of white Texans.

A study of editorial comment in the leading white papers of the state failed to reveal but one metropolitan daily which agreed with the views of the attorney general.

The opinions of the various papers were published July 14th. They were in part as follows:

Dallas Journal: "Whites may not like to admit it, but there are some whites less worthy to vote in the primary and less competent to do so than there are some Negroes. The Democratic party would be better off if it was composed only of the competent, well disposed Negroes and the competent well disposed whites. A test of citizenship is whether you are able to calmly and dispassionately consider such questions and come to an honest and just answer."

PLAINVIEW, TEX.
HERALD

JUL 13 1934

County Demo Executive Committees Ponder Over Question Of Right Of Negroes To Vote In 1934 Primaries

AUSTIN, July 13 (AP)—County Democratic executive committees pondered today over a highly perplexing question—that of the right of negroes to vote in the July and August primaries of the Democartic party.

The problem, which had smoldered for weeks, was revived yesterday when Attorney General James V. Allred approved a departmental opinion holding negroes were ineligible to vote in the party's primary elections. In certain counties it had been announced negroes would be permitted to vote.

Two negroes cast absentee ballots in Travis County and a special meeting of the executive committee has been called to pass on whether they will be accepted. In Harris County a suit is pending to force the county clerk to accept an absentee ballot presented by a negro.

Decision on the question was passed to the county committees when the state executive committee, in session a month ago, refused to act on a resolution that would have barred negroes from participation.

The Attorney General's decision upheld the right of the party to prescribe the qualifications of its members. It stated the negroes were barred through a resolution adopted in 1932 at the state Democratic convention and contended this action did not contravene a United States Supreme Court decision holding the state executive committee could not bar negroes.

Complete cooperation between the state and Federal governments was urged by Maury Hughes, gubernatorial candidate in a speech last night at Denison.

"We simply cannot dump all our problems in the lap of the President and expect them to be solved overnight," Hughes said. "This state needs a governor who has the confidence of the President and who has demonstrated confidence and faith in his recovery program.

"I have given ample evidence of that faith," Hughes said, adding that he made several speeches as chairman of the NRA Advisory Board for Texas and worked for party support of the national program when he was chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee.

Edward K. Russell, only candidate in the seven cornered race who is against any tampering with the prohibition laws, levelled a blast at one of his opponents, C. C. Small, in a speech at Brownwood.

Small, according to Russell, is trying to "blow hot and blow cold" on the proposed repeal of the law permitting wagering on horse races.

"In the regular session of the 43rd Legislature he voted for the bill legalizing gambling on horse races," Russell said. "Now he is trying to climb on Hunter's band wagon and says he is in favor of repealing this law."

Small, addressing an East Texas rally of his supporters at Tyler, criticized the record of Allred in enforcing oil proration orders of the Texas Railroad Commissilon. He recommended establishment of a natural resources commission whose sole duty would be supervision of the oil industry.

Small blamed conditions in the East Texas field on failure to enforce the proration laws. "Oil is the state's major industry and it couldn't be in a more chaotic condition," he said.

Witt proposed abolition of the poll tax in a talk at Liberty, saying there was no justification for charging a citizen for the privilege of franchise. He suggested that the poll tax be removed from the masses with the revenue thus lost to be replaced by taxes on sources and resources able to bear it. He also said he would, if elected, seek to readjust taxes so that home owners would be relieved.

C. C. McDonald, at San Saba, spoke in favor of a sensible educational system that would not be subject to change annually. He recommended a per capita apportionment of $16 annually.

"Let us see that there are funds to meet it," he said. "And let our school boards see that no census rolls are padded, I do not want to see any of our schools junked or abandoned. I want to see every teacher paid a living salary at all times in cash."

Allred, terming McDonald the "Crown Prince" of former Governor James E. Ferguson, thrust sharply at Ferguson's support of McDonald, who is being backed by the administration. Ferguson is stumping the state for McDonald, his political lieutenant for years, and will speak tonight at Brenham.

Allred said Ferguson was using his newspaper to perpetuate his "political dynasty" and to tell the voters how to vote.

"He is likely to find that the people of Texas are going to do the same thing that voters of Oklahoma did to Bill Murray's choice as his successor," Allred said. "There is a growing resentment against the scheme of a wood and water toter to stay at the helm of state government through the election of his crown prince."

Tom F. Hunter spoke at Fort Worth.

Asserting that he was fighting the cause of the plain people, Hunter said it would be impossible for him to contact each voter in the state and urged his partisans to saddle "Old Beck" and "carry the message to the neighbors."

He promised his best efforts to relieve real estate of taxes and to cure the evils of the "utility monopoly, the oil trust combination and the chain store cancer."

DES MOINES, IA.
REGISTER

AUG 1 1934

WHY SINGLE OUT NEGRO BLOCK VOTERS?

The Texas Weekly is very much incensed because it has heard that in the coming Democratic state primary a political boss at San Antonio is going to vote a solid block of Negroes for one string of candidates.

It seems that the Democratic state convention worded its statement of eligible primary voters so as to bar Negroes, and in not unusual subservience to his party the state attorney general ruled that this action was legal. So on the whole, Negroes are not going to be permitted to vote in the Texas primary.

And what has the Texas Weekly steamed up is that "while intelligent Negroes all over the state are barred from the primary," the block vote in Bexar county, "obeying the command of a political boss, will be cast for one set of candidates . . . thus invalidating the votes of some 5,000 white Democrats cast for other candidates."

It is only fair to say that, apparently incidentally, the Texas Weekly is opposed to barring Negroes at all. But it seems to believe that if the majority of Texas counties are going to abide by the attorney general's ruling, "such voting of Negroes in a solid block for one set of candidates should not be permitted."

What it is difficult to understand is why so much emphasis is put upon voting Negroes in a solid block. Why is it any worse to do that than to vote the Italians in certain sections of Chicago in a solid block, or for that matter, masses of white laboring men under the domination of political bosses—a thing that is occurring constantly in most of our metropolitan centers?

Apparently the reason the Texas Weekly is so indignant about this San Antonio affair is that it is Negroes who are going to be voted "solid." Here in Iowa we are free to say that if that were the only objection, it would be no objection at all. The thing the Texas publication ought to be scolding about is block voting and political bossism, wherever it occurs and whatever class of voters it involves.

If the only way the Negroes of Texas can get inside the polls is to appear as block voters, let them appear that way. One of these years they will get tired of being led around politically like a herd of sheep, and will begin voting according to their convictions as they are entitled to do, the Democrats and attorney general of Texas notwithstanding.

DALLAS, TEX.
TIMES HERALD
JUL 28 1934

NEGROES BALLOTING AT EL PASO POLLS

El Paso, Tex., July 28 (AP).—Precinct election officials today permitted negroes to vote in the Democratic primary.

Dr. L. A. Nixon, negro physician, said that election officials marked "colored" on the face of his ballot, and expressed the belief that it will not be counted.

The negro physician has won three court suits to test the right of Democratic officials to bar negroes from the polls. He plans another suit to force a count of his ballot in today's election, he said.

Political - 1934

Texas.

Suffrage.

HOUSTON, TEX.
POST

JUN 22 1934

County Action Planned to Bar Negro Voting

Protest Parade and Last-minute Coup by Party Leaders Loom.

By ED KILMAN.

While negro political leaders are rejoicing in the new "political emancipation" given them by the state Democratic executive committee, and rallying the voters of their race for participation in the July 28 Democratic primary, white forces of various counties are preparing to bar or discourage them from entering the election.

Undoubtedly the state committee's decision to leave the question up to the individual county executive committees will result in the participation of negroes in the primaries of some counties. But in many they will be given to understand that they are not welcome. Their ballots are not likely to swell the total state vote by many thousands.

County Action Planned.

In Harris county, hot spot of the state on the issue of negro voting and county of the largest number of negro voters, there are prospects of interesting developments. Here the negroes seem to anticipate peaceable admittance to the primary, since the county Democratic executive committee completely avoided the subject at its meeting Monday. But they are due for a disappointment, if plans now on foot are carried out.

The county committee does not want them to vote, and intends to move to prevent it. At least, a majority of the members are. They are going to have an unannounced informal meeting before July 28—possibly a telephone agreement—and take steps which they believe will accomplish their aim. Just what steps they will take, committee members are not divulging. Being unofficial, their action is not calculated to afford grounds for any sort of court action; and besides, there won't be much time left for legal action between the time the committeemen adopt their plan and election day.

Parade Is Planned.

A preliminary to this election day procedure, though not revealed as a part of the county committee's plans, will be to give the dusky brethren a more or less gentle hint against entering the primary, by means of a downtown parade on the night before election day. If plans for this demonstration are carried out as reported, the populace will on that night be treated to the thrill of seeing the fiery cross blaze again in the downtown streets of Houston.

The Harris County Negro Democratic club decided at a meeting Wednesday night to urge all colored voters of the county to go to the polls and quietly demand the right to vote. It was intimated that if the ballot is refused them, civil suits will be brought against the presiding officers.

The county executive committee purposely avoided the negro voting question at its recent meeting, with the view of considering the matter later, under other circumstances, it has been learned since.

Strove to Avoid Suit.

"A number of negroes were present, and there would probably have been a fight if it had come up," says a prominent member of the committee. "Also there might have been injunction proceedings, and we didn't want to embarrass any district judge by having a suit filed in his court.

"The people of Harris county don't want the negroes to vote in their Democratic primaries, and the greator majority of the county committee doesn't want them to. So we intend to keep them from it.

"I don't think the negroes really want to vote. If they did, why don't they vote in the general elections, and in bond elections? They never do. I've been a precinct chairman many years, and have never seen one offer to vote at my box."

This members of the committee, and others, say that the effort of negroes to gain admission to the Democratic primaries is just a step in the movement for social equality, and predict that if they ever do achieve unhampered participation in the primaries, grave consequences will follow.

Vote Getting Is Seen.

"Agitation of negro voting is due largely to efforts to channel negro votes for a certain candidate," he asserts. "In fact, white leaders expressly or tacitly promised to help negroes to get the ballot in the Democratic primaries this year, in return for their support of a Democratic primaries this year, in return for their support of a Democratic candidate in the general election of 1932. And those leaders, while carrying out their agreement, are at the time time lining up the negro voters for their candidate for governor."

Former Governor James E. Ferguson headed a subcommittee of the state Democratic executive committee which put through the resolution leaving the negro question up to the county groups. Ferguson, who controls the state committee, is sponsoring the candidacy of C. C. McDonald of Wichita Falls for governor.

Negroes have hailed the state committee's action as a "political emancipation," and the Harris county committee's avoidance of the question gave them further encouragement.

"We are pleased to say," remarked an editorial in the June 16 issue of the Houston Light, a negro weekly newspaper, "that of the approximately 65,000 qualified negro voters in the state, the large majority anxiously awaited the results of the state executive committee so that they could make a determined fight for their political rights. The negro has come to feel that he wants every right to which he is entitled, and the time is come now, like the valiant Dr. Nixon, we will go the length of our cable-tow to enjoy citizenship in its entirety."

Nixon Awarded Damages.

The Dr. Nixon mentioned took a demand for admission to the Democratic primaries to the United States supreme court, and won a decision. In February of this year he got a judgment in the federal district court of El Paso awarding him nominal damages against an election judge for barring him from an election. It is upon the decisions in the Nixon case that the negroes pin their hopes for participation in Texas Democratic primaries.

The Houston Defender, another negro newspaper, declared June 16 that the state committee, by its action "threw open the primary elections of July 28 and August 25 to all qualified electors without regard to color, creed or race;" that Chairman Lubbock of the Harris county committee "knows that his executive committee has no legal authority to exclude negro Democrats from the primary elections," and that Lubbock should so inform the committee and not allow it "to act in contempt of the United States supreme court, which has held that executive committees of political parties in Texas can not bar any qualified voter from its primary elections."

The Negro American Magazine of Houston stated editorially in its May issue: "We are cognizant of the negro's constitutional right to vote in the coming primary election; and we are convinced that he will not be dissuaded by any improvised scheme to deprive him of this privilege."

In the same editorial it was stated: "We are favorably impressed with certain features of McDonald's platform, some of which are herein set forth for the digestion of our readers."

McDonald Planks Discussed.

An accompanying article, "Statesmanship in Texas Politics," signed by the editor, discussed planks in the platform of C. C. McDonald, "one of the most seemly candidates for governor, because of the statesmanlike manner in which he seems to be facing important state issues." It observed that the Fergusons, "who are espousing his cause, have considerable following among negroes," and lauded McDonald's state homestead purchasing proposal, his lower interest rate proposal, and his planks for labor, unemployment insurance, old age pensions and educational recommendations, as being of particular interest to negroes.

McDonald is the only candidate for governor who has said anything publicly on the question of giving negroes the ballot, and that was in response to a heckler during his recent Houston campaign address. "I don't care what they do," he snapped. "I'll win whether they vote or not." His persistent interrogator asked him for an explanation of the active interest of Jim Ferguson and Ed Hussion in behalf of negroes' voting, and he rejoined, "You ask them about that."

The natural inference from the candidates' silence is that they feel that they may get some negro votes if they say nothing, whereas if they should express opposition to negroes entering the primaries they would alienate the negro votes, but if they should endorse the movement they would lose white votes. They have been careful to avoid becoming involved in any activity that would give even the appearance of bidding for the negro vote. Privately, most of the candidates are opposed to negro participation in Democratic primaries.

Claim 65,000 Voters.

Negroes claim as high as 65,000 qualified voters in Texas, and upward of 13,000 in Harris county. White observers do not place the state estimate higher than 50,000 and that of Harris county not more than 5000 or 6000. An estimate made in the county tax collector's office limits the number here to 4000.

It is widely believed that wherever and whenever the negro voting question is brought to a showdown in court, the negro will be adjudged a qualified voter in Democratic primaries, as he was in the El Paso district. The white Democratic leaders want to hold it off as long as possible, but evidently it is coming sooner or later.

What is the remedy? In Fort Bend Grimes and Brazoria counties, with relatively heavy negro populations white men's unions have proved effective. These organizations, being fraternal and entirely disconnected from the government, can determine the qualifications of their members without legal interference. They hold their own primaries in advance of the regular Democratic primaries, and approve the candidates whom they choose to enter in the regular primaries. Their "whtie man's" primaries are the ones that really determine who the Democratic nominees shall be, and the regular primariss amount to only legal formalities.

See Union Need Here.

By this method the counties having white men's unions keep negroes from participating in the selection of their public officials. Only by such a method can Harris county keep them out in the future, in the opinion of many.

"A white man's union will eventually be necessary, so why not now?" says Allen S. Shepherd, militant member of the Harris county Democratic executive committee and chairman of the white man's union of this county.

He said the union has a membership of nearly 1000, and predicted that if and when the negro gets free access to the Democratic primaries, the membership will quickly swell until it includes the full white voting strength of the county.

HOUSTON, TEX.
CHRONICLE

JUN 18 1934

Negroes Barred In Jefferson County

Special to The Chronicle.

Beaumont, July 18.—Voting in the Democratic primary in Jefferson County will be confined to white citizens, under a resolution adopted today by the county Democratic executive committee by a vote of 18 to 10. The committee, after heated discussion, voted to put the "white Democrat" pledge at the top of the ballot.

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS

JUN 19 1934

Negroes to Vote in Travis.

From the Austin Bureau of The News.

AUSTIN, Texas, June 18.—J. M. Patterson, Travis County Democratic chairman, said Monday that Negroes will be allowed to vote at the primaries in this county, as he would not go against the mandate of the United States Supreme Court holding they are entitled to do so.

HOUSTON, TEX.
POST

JUL 1 1934

NEGRO AND THE PRIMARY.

To The Houston Post:

HOUSTON, Texas.—The negroes of Houston and Harris county will vote in the coming primary because we are right and are willing to fight. Seven years ago a group of negroes in the city organized what is known as the Harris County Negro Democratic club, pledged to use every legitimate means of combating the subtle and undemocratic way of a prejudiced group of party managers in taking away from the negro every right as a citizen our State and Nation gives us.

We plan to use reason, the public press and the courts to let the world see Texas Democracy as it really is. We will broadcast these tactics of the Democratic party managers to perpetuate civic injustice, unfairness in the courts, police brutality—all behind the shibboleth: social equality.

The negroes understand all too well that if they could vote for or against the folks who distribute the lights and gravel they would not have to feel their way home through the mud and dark forever.

We have in the past and will continue to ask for the privilege of helping to determine who shall teach our children in the public schools; of saying how close the beer and bootleg joint shall be to our church houses and schools. We seek more police protection; the privilege to fight against unscrupulous real estate men who built twenty and thirty little disease breeding crime incubators on two or three city lots for negroes to live in; the privilege of helping to rid our community of killers and criminals with out having to stoop to the role of "stool pigeon;" some jobs in our county and city made possible by the tax-payers.

The right to vote in the Democratic party primaries that determine the control of government in our State can not be construed by any possible stretch of the imagination as a desire to dominate politics or the social life of the whites in the community. We want to help the voters change these several candidates offer for our civic good and the good of the party controlling the negroes' vote, and State.

We want the ballot so that the civic needs of the negro will be looked at in terms of the whole and not in terms of what some selfish political or educational misfit would like.

R. R. GROVEY.

6363 Dowling.

Political - 1934

Texas.

Suffrage.

HOUSTON, TEX.
POST

JUN 22 1934

County Action Planned to Bar Negro Voting

Protest Parade and Last-minute Coup by Party Leaders Loom.

By ED KILMAN.

While negro political leaders are rejoicing in the new "political emancipation" given them by the state Democratic executive committee, and rallying the voters of their race for participation in the July 28 Democratic primary, white forces of various counties are preparing to bar or discourage them from entering the election.

Undoubtedly the state committee's decision to leave the question up to the individual county executive committees will result in the participation of negroes in the primaries of some counties. But in many they will be given to understand that they are not welcome. Their ballots are not likely to swell the total state vote by many thousands.

County Action Planned.

In Harris county, hot spot of the state on the issue of negro voting and county of the largest number of negro voters, there are prospects of interesting developments. Here the negroes seem to anticipate peaceable admittance to the primary, since the county Democratic executive committee completely avoided the subject at its meeting Monday. But they are due for a disappointment, if plans now on foot are carried out.

The county committee does not want them to vote, and intends to move to prevent it. At least, a majority of the members are. They are going to have an unannounced informal meeting before July 28—possibly a telephone agreement—and take steps which they believe will accomplish their aim. Just what steps they will take, committee members are not divulging. Being unofficial, their action is not calculated to afford grounds for any sort of court action; and besides, there won't be much time left for legal action between the time the committeemen adopt their plan and election day.

Parade Is Planned.

A preliminary to this election day procedure, though not revealed as a part of the county committee's plans, will be to give the dusky brethren a more or less gentle hint against entering the primary, by means of a down-town parade on the night before election day. If plans for this demonstration are carried out as reported, the populace will on that night be treated to the thrill of seeing the fiery cross blaze again in the downtown streets of Houston.

The Harris County Negro Democratic club decided at a meeting Wednesday night to urge all colored voters of the county to go to the polls and quietly demand the right to vote. It was intimated that if the ballot is refused them, civil suits will be brought against the presiding officers.

The county executive committee purposely avoided the negro voting question at its recent meeting, with the view of considering the matter later, under other circumstances, it has been learned since.

Strove to Avoid Suit.

"A number of negroes were present, and there would probably have been a fight if it had come up," says a prominent member of the committee. "Also there might have been injunction proceedings, and we didn't want to embarrass any district judge by having a suit filed in his court.

"The people of Harris county don't want the negroes to vote in their Democratic primaries, and the greator majority of the county committee doesn't want them to. So we intend to keep them from it.

"I don't think the negroes really want to vote. If they did, why don't they vote in the general elections, and in bond elections? They never do. I've been a precinct chairman for many years, and have never seen one offer to vote at my box."

This members of the committee, and others, say that the effort of negroes to gain admission to the Democratic primaries is just a step in the movement for social equality, and predict that if they ever do achieve unhampered participation in the primaries, grave consequences will follow.

Vote Getting Is Seen.

"Agitation of negro voting is due largely to efforts to channel negro votes for a certain candidate," he asserts. "In fact, white leaders expressly or tacitly promised to help negroes to get the ballot in the Democratic primaries this year, in return for their support of a Democratic primaries this year, in return for their support of a Democratic candidate in the general election of 1932. And those leaders, while carrying out their agreement, are at the time time lining up the negro voters for their candidate for governor."

Former Governor James E. Ferguson headed a subcommittee of the state Democratic executive committee which put through the resolution leaving the negro question up to the county groups. Ferguson, who controls the state committee, is sponsoring the candidacy of C. C. McDonald of Wichita Falls for governor.

Negroes have hailed the state committee's action as a "political emancipation," and the Harris county committee's avoidance of the question gave them further encouragement.

"We are pleased to say," remarked an editorial in the June 16 issue of the Houston Light, a negro weekly newspaper, "that of the approximately 65,000 qualified negro voters in the state, the large majority anxiously awaited the results of the state executive committee so that they could make a determined fight for their political rights. The negro has come to feel that he wants every right to which he is entitled, and the time is come now, like the valiant Dr. Nixon, we will go the length of our cable-tow to enjoy citizenship in its entirety."

Nixon Awarded Damages.

The Dr. Nixon mentioned took a demand for admission to the Democratic primaries to the United States supreme court, and won a decision. In February of this year he got a judgment in the federal district court of El Paso awarding him nominal damages against an election judge for barring him from an election. It is upon the decisions in the Nixon case that the negroes pin their hopes for participation in Texas Democratic primaries.

The Houston Defender, another negro newspaper, declared June 16 that the state committee, by its action "threw open the primary elections of July 28 and August 25 to all qualified electors without regard to color, creed or class;" that Chairman Lubbock of the Harris county committee "knows that his executive committee has no legal authority to exclude negro Democrats from the primary elections," and that Lubbock should so inform the committee and not allow it "to act in contempt of the United States supreme court, which has held that executive committees of political parties in Texas can not bar any qualified voter from its primary elections."

The Negro American Magazine of Houston stated editorially in its May issue: "We are cognizant of the negro's constitutional right to vote in the coming primary election; and we are convinced that he will not be dissuaded by any improvised scheme to deprive him of this privilege."

In the same editorial it was stated: "We are favorably impressed with certain features of McDonald's platform, some of which are herein set forth for the digestion of our readers."

McDonald Planks Discussed.

An accompanying article, "Statesmanship in Texas Politics," signed by the editor, discussed planks in the platform of C. C. McDonald, "one of the most seemly candidates for governor, because of the statesmanlike manner in which he seems to be facing important state issues." It observed that the Fergusons, "who are espousing his cause, have considerable following among negroes," and lauded McDonald's state homestead purchasing proposal, his lower interest rate proposal, and his planks for labor, unemployment insurance, old age pensions and educational recommendations, as being of particular interest to negroes.

McDonald is the only candidate for governor who has said anything publicly on the question of giving negroes the ballot, and that was in response to a heckler during his recent Houston campaign address. "I don't care what they do," he snapped. "I'll win whether they vote or not." His persistent interrogator asked him for an explanation of the active interest of Jim Ferguson and Ed Hussion in behalf of negroes' voting, and he rejoined, "You ask them about that."

The natural inference from the candidates' silence is that they feel that they may get some negro votes if they say nothing, whereas if they should express opposition to negroes entering the primaries they would alienate the negro votes, but if they should endorse the movement they would lose white votes. They have been careful to avoid becoming involved in any activity that would give even the appearance of bidding for the negro vote. Privately, most of the candidates are opposed to negro participation in Democratic primaries.

Claim 65,000 Voters.

Negroes claim as high as 65,000 qualified voters in Texas, and upward of 13,000 in Harris county. White observers do not place the state estimate higher than 50,000 and that of Harris county not more than 5000 or 6000. An estimate made in the county tax collector's office limits the number here to 4000.

It is widely believed that wherever and whenever the negro voting question is brought to a showdown in court, the negro will be adjudged a qualified voter in Democratic primaries, as he was in the El Paso district. The white Democratic leaders want to hold it off as long as possible, but evidently it is coming sooner or later.

What is the remedy? In Fort Bend, Grimes and Brazoria counties, with relatively heavy negro populations white men's unions have proved effective. These organizations, being fraternal and entirely disconnected from the government, can determine the qualifications of their members without legal interference. They hold their own primaries in advance of the regular Democratic primaries, and approve the candidates whom they choose to enter in the regular primaries. Their "whtie man's" primaries are the ones that really determine who the Democratic nominees shall be, and the regular primaries amount to only legal formalities.

See Union Need Here.

By this method the counties having white men's unions keep negroes from participating in the selection of their public officials. Only by such a method can Harris county keep them out in the future, in the opinion of many.

"A white man's union will eventually be necessary, so why not now?" says Allen S. Shepherd, militant member of the Harris county Democratic executive committee and chairman of the white man's union of this county. He said the union has a membership of nearly 1000, and predicted that if and when the negro gets free access to the Democratic primaries, the membership will quickly swell until it includes the full white voting strength of the county.

HOUSTON, TEX.
CHRONICLE

JUN 18 1934

Negroes Barred In Jefferson County

Special to The Chronicle.

Beaumont, July 18.—Voting in the Democratic primary in Jefferson County will be confined to white citizens, under a resolution adopted today by the county Democratic executive committee by a vote of 18 to 10. The committee, after heated discussion, voted to put the "white Democrat" pledge at the top of the ballot.

DALLAS, TEX.
NEWS

JUN 19 1934

Negroes to Vote in Travis.

From ~~the~~ Austin Bureau of The News.

AUSTIN, Texas, June 18.—J. M. Patterson, Travis County Democratic chairman, said Monday that Negroes will be allowed to vote at the primaries in this county, as he would not go against the mandate of the United States Supreme Court holding they are entitled to do so.

HOUSTON, TEX.
POST

JUL 1 1934

NEGRO AND THE PRIMARY.

To The Houston Post:

HOUSTON, Texas.—The negroes of Houston and Harris county will vote in the coming primary because we are right and are willing to fight.

Seven years ago a group of negroes in the city organized what is known as the Harris County Negro Democratic club, pledged to use every legitimate means of combating the subtle and undemocratic way of a prejudiced group of party managers in taking away from the negro every right as a citizen our State and Nation gives us.

We plan to use reason, the public press and the courts to let the world see Texas Democracy as it really is. We will broadcast these tactics of the Democratic party managers to perpetuate civic injustice, unfairness in the courts, police brutality—all behind the shibboleth: social equality.

The negroes understand all too well that if they could vote for or against the folks who distribute the lights and gravel they would not have to feel their way home through the mud and dark forever.

We have in the past and will continue to ask for the privilege of helping to determine who shall teach our children in the public schools; of saying how close the beer and bootleg joint shall be to our church houses and schools. We seek more police protection; the privilege to fight against unscrupulous real estate men who build negroes the most wicked hands. We the voters change the these several candidates offer for our trolling the negroes' vote, civic good and the good of the party or same, his chances to and State.

not any different with us We want the ballot so that the civic they are with only needs of the negro will be looked at ed. in terms of the whole and not in terms of what some selfish political or educational misfit would like.

R. R. GROVEY.

2303 Dowling.

n our club those who do suasions will be determined by what Ferguson and his theory t. Just as in our church e black Congregationals, Methodists, Catholics s in our political life our convictions and ne

PORT ARTHUR, TEX.
NEWS

JUN 17 1934

County Politics At Random

BEAUMONT, June 16. — Some candidates who have 'announced' will fall by the wayside and retire to the quiet of private life by June 25, it is expected.

June 25 is the deadline by which primary fees—to be assessed Monday—must be paid. It costs only $1 to "file" with the county committee, but it's a different story when times comes to plank down the ballot assessment, which for some offices will run around $150 per candidate.

From one viewpoint, it is unfortunate that running for public office is so costly that a "poor man" can scarcely afford it and thus is barred from offering his services to the taxpayers. But if the office-seekers themselves weren't taxed to finance the primary, the public would have to foot the bill, which wouldn't set so well.

SOME candidates in the county are known to have approached County Democratic Chairman J. E. Edmonds with a request that official action be taken by the county committee to restrict voting in the primary to white citizens. Adoption of such a restriction is hardly within the jurisdiction of the county group, the state committee having deliberately refused to act. However, some way of keeping the democratic primary in Jefferson county a "white man's" election may be worked out.

Respectable office-seekers in the primary want to win by virtue of the white vote or not at all, and they make no bones about saying so. If they are opposed by candidates who stoop to manipulate the negro vote, though, they are obviously handicapped. There certainly ought to be some way of clarifying the situation.

THE county judge's race is drawing nearer to the center of the county's political stage every day.

Predictions now are premature and sure to start an argument, but the current forecast—subject to change without notice—is:

John Pickett and B. B. Johnson will be far out in front of other contenders in the count at Port Arthur, with M. W. Oakley next.

M. V. Procter will be high in Beaumont boxes, with E. J. Diffenbacher probably second, Johnson third, and Oakley and Pickett trailing. Oakley will run strong in his own mid-county region.

How evenly Pickett and Johnson will divide the south-county ballots remains to be seen. Pickett's entry into the contest, veteran observers say, brightened Proctor's prospects, for Johnson, who easily was Proctor's most formidable rival in the Port Arthur area, now will see a considerable part of his oldtime following diverted.

Only one fact now is certain in the judge's sweepstakes: a sharply contested runoff will decide it.

LUCKY candidates without an opponent were breathing easier last Saturday as the time for filing drew to a close.

"The last six weeks have seemed like six years to me," one unopposed incumbent smiled. "I never saw time drag so. I got to where I was afraid to pick up the afternoon paper—I was leery that I'd read where some fellow had come out against me. Not that I didn't think I could beat him, but you do feel safer when you're the only one in your 'race.'"

POLITICAL parade—

Newest political novelty here is a cardboard fan with office-seekers' ads on both sides, and somebody averred it is a play for the camp meetin' vote...With at least three aspirants entered in most races, it'll take the runoff—to be held August 25—to determine winners in many of them...Deputy Sheriff Howard Allen, in a friendly tip-off to candidates, reminded them that the telegraph and telephone people seriously object to the practice of nailing placards on poles...Something for voters and election clerks to be thankful for: Names of the 40-odd candidates for congressman-at-large, which cluttered up the ballot in 1932, will be missing this year...Commissioner Sam Hughes and former Jail Annex Superintendent John H. Hatley, who fought it out in the runoff two years ago, are pitted against each other again, out in precinct 4...A couple of others are in the race, too, but it looks like another showdown between Sam and John...No local legislative candidate as yet has had a kind word to say for the proposed state sales tax, although real estate interests generally are in favor of it...There's been a pronounced pickup in Edgar Witt sentiment in this territory lately it is reported...There are so many candidates for constable in Beaumont that they've started wearing badges so they won't solicit one another's vote...You can find opinion to the contrary all right, but the county attorney's race still looks like Easterling and Baker...However, John Kitching, who came within a bare handful of votes of winning the office in 1932, is still a factor, and A. M. Linscome may surprise a lot of 'em...The "workingman" is in the political saddle now, and the 1934-style platform is designed mainly for the purpose of attracting his eye—and vote.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.
LIGHT

JUN 7 1934

NEGROES WILL SEEK TO VOTE

Notice that Texas negroes will fight for the right to vote in Democratic primaries next month was given here Thursday by C. A. Booker, president of the Bexar county Colored Voters' league.

If the state Democratic executive committee denies the negroes' request for the primary voting privilege, the fight will be taken to the courts and fought through to the highest tribunal, Booker announced.

The last effort in this direction came in 1932, but came to no definite conclusion because the elections were held before the Supreme court could rule on the question.

Booker asserted he and Dr. C. A. Whittier, president of the National Association for the Advancement of the Colored People, will lead a delegation from San Antonio to the executive committee session next Monday in Austin.

Delegations from other large Texas cities will be in attendance also to press their demands, Booker said.

In 1932 Judge S. G. Tayloe in the Forty-fifth District court ruled in favor of the negroes, holding they could qualify as members of the party and therefore were entitled to vote. The Fourth Court of Civil appeals reversed this decision. An appeal to the Supreme court was never acted upon.

NOT A LEG TO STAND ON

In the past the United States District Attorney for the Southern District of Texas, has declined to prosecute election judges for violating Federal statutes making it a criminal offense to interfere with the constitutional rights of Negroes to vote, and chief reason advanced by the district attorney has been that these election judges have been honestly obeying orders from the State Democratic Executive Committee, and not willfully violating these laws on their own account.

But this year these election judges do not have a leg to stand upon. The State Democratic Executive Committee specifically refused to instruct county committees and election judges to bar Negroes upon the ground that the Supreme Court of the United States has held it to be unlawful to do this. If county committees conspire to bar Negroes, or if election judges willfully violate the United States statutes, they must do so upon their own account and at their own peril.

In other words, county committees who conspire to bar Negroes and election judges who willfully bar Negroes have nothing to hide behind in violating sections 19 and 20 of the Federal Criminal Code, which provides as follows:

"If two ore more persons conspire to injure, oppress, threaten, or intimidate any citizen in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege secured to him by the Constitution or laws of the United States they shall be fined not more than $5,000 and imprisoned not more than ten years, and shall, moreover, be thereafter ineligible to any office, or place of honor, profit, or trust created by the Constitution or laws of the United States."

"Whoever . . . . . willfully subjects, or causes any inhabitant of any state to be subjected to the deprivation of any rights, privileges or immunities secured or protected by the Constitution and laws of the United States . . . . .shall be fined not more than $1,000, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both."

It is the duty of the United States District Attorney to enforce these Federal laws, and since county committees and election judges have no leg to stand upon, it is to be expected that the district attorney will enforce these laws. And these laws should furnish much food for thought to all those political die-hards mentioned by Ed Kilman in a recent article in the Houston Post, who were reported to be conspiring to find a way to keep Negroes from exercising the rights guaranteed to them by the Constitution of the United States and the decisions of the Supreme Court.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.
TRIBUNE

JUN 27 1934

The Negro In Texas

TEXANS look forward apprehensively to some sort of showdown on Negro suffrage at the Democratic primaries, July 28 The Dallas News speaks up:

"So far as the Negro voter is concerned, there is no reason for keeping him out of the Democratic party. He is part of Texas and his political strength may grow to such proportions as would make him a welcome participant in party effort. The intelligent and capable Negro should vote and in Texas his ballot is wasted unless it is cast in a Democratic primary. . . . Commonsense should tell the Democratic party that it is no longer necessary, as it was in the '70's, to remain a strictly white man's party. Where black ignorance remains, it is chargeable to the white-dominated school-system. It would be a splendid deed for the Democratic party itself to assume responsibility for curing that condition wherever it is found. . . ."

"That," remarks the Texas Weekly, "is the enlightened view, and sooner or later it must prevail. But apparently it will not prevail this year."